College Opens 132nd Year, Announces Appointments

Although it is too early to accurately determine the exact number of students that will be enrolled at Maryville College for the coming year, the enrollment will again be large even though some of the older students will be unable to attend due to war conditions. The National Guard, Reserves and Selective Service have all taken some men students.

The year has begun without the services of five of the College's best known faculty and staff members. At Commencement time last spring the retirement of Dr. Susan Green Black, Professor of Biology, Dr. Edmund Wayne Davis, Professor of Greek, and Dr. Clemmie J. Henry, Director of Student-Help, was announced. Announcement has been released of the reitrement of Mrs. Emma Lee Worley, Head of Pearsons Hall, and Mrs. Pearl Wells Butcher, Assistant to the Head of Pearsons Hall. Mrs. Worley served the College for 22 years, and Mrs. Butcher for 24 years.

Due to the retirement of Dr. Black, Dr. L. L. Williams will become the supervisor of the biology work and Mr. Paul Cook Kolter, who graduated at Maryville College in 1948 and received his master's degree at the University of Tennessee last year, has been added to the biology staff.

Staff Changes Given

The College has added to its language teaching staff Miss Evelyn G. Guss, of Greensburg, Pa., who is a graduate of Gettysburg College, Pennsylvania, and has done her graduate work in Greek and Latin at the University of Pittsburgh. The classes assigned to her have formerly been carried by Dr. Davis or Miss Bassett.

Mrs. Margaret Jones LeMaster, for the past three years Head of Memorial Hall, has been appointed Head of Pearsons Hall and Miss Grace Collins, of Loudon, Tennessee, will serve as her Assistant. Mrs. Anna O. Currie, of Newark, Ohio, has been appointed Assistant to Mrs. Harold F. Wonder, Head of Baldwin Hall, in the place of Mrs. Jessie H. Franklin, who has resigned. Mrs. Anne S. Fordham, of Douglas, Georgia, will serve as Head of Memorial Hall.

Associate Professor of Political Science A. F. Pieper, who has been absent on leave, has returned to his teaching duties at Marvville. Miss Elizabeth H. Jackson, Assistant Professor of English, will be on Sabbatical Leave during the coming year. Assistant Professor Stanley W. Phillips and Mrs. William O. Largen, Instructor in Physical Education, also will be on leave.

New Instructors Named

William H. Ford, Associate Professor of Economics. Prof. Ford who holds his B.A. and M.A. from the University of South Carolina, comes to Maryville College from Wofford College. He has also taught at High Point College and Mississippi Southern College, and served in the Armed Forces for four years during World War II.

Kathryn W. Martin, Assistant Professor of Spanish and French, holds a B.A. and M.S. and has one year toward a Ph.D. at Vanderbilt University. She spent the year of 1947 in Mexico and Guatemala, and has taught in the Isaac Litton High School and College of Wooster.

Malcolm J. Dashiel, Instructor in Art, has degree of Bachelor of Fine Arts from John Herron Art Institute and has studied during the year 1948-49 in Academy Julian, Paris, France. He has been working as a commercial artist and served four years in U.S. Army in the last world war.

Helen A. Disbrow, Library Assistant, has her B.A. from Maryville College and has been occupied in the College personnel office.

Emma Katherine Crews, Instructor in Music, holds B.A. from Maryville College and M.A. from Eastman School of Music. She has had two years in government ser-

Dr. Lloyd Gives Key At Fri. Chapel

Maryville College student body opened the annual convocation exercises in the Alumni Gymnasium yesterday at 8 a.m. with the singing of "Rejoice, The Lord Is King." Hymn was followed by the invocation by Dean Frank McClelland and a union prayer of thanksgiving.

Making its initial appearance of the season, the Vesper Choir sang "The Lord's Prayer" in response and was followed by Dean Hunter reading the scripture.

Text of President Lloyd's annual convocation address was "A Spirit of Willingness—the Key to College." Dr. Lloyd said that while willingness is the key to a great many things, it is especially a key to a successful college experience alike to students and faculty, for it is a fundamental in the structure of life itself.

Of the two attitudes toward compulsion to which we are all subjected, rebellion and bitterness or willingness, the latter is the more commendable. He quoted Dr. Buttrick as saying college was an organized opportunity for self education which again calls for willingness.

In conclusion, willingness is the key to the door of achievement, happiness, and religion.

The service wa sdismissed with the singing of "Lead On O King Eternal."

Discussion Forum Highlight New Y Radio Broadcasts

Your Y-Radio programs are a series of religious interest programs pertaining to modern life and presented weekly over radio station WGAP on Monday nights at 9:30 p.m.

The first program will be talks by the Y presidents. Louise Lloyd and George Ogle on the basic facts of the Y. They will include such information as what the Y is, how it is organized, what its purpose is in regard to the College and community, and how it is fulfilling this purpose.

During the year the programs are to be designed to re-emphasize the practical application of religion to meet everyday problems.

To achieve this aim, the programs are planned so as to include the development of special interest toward the importance of music in the church; the formation of a deeper meaning in regard to the teachings of Jesus; and the promotion of the Christian way of life.

Some special items of interest to listen for durin gthe year will be the Panel Discussions, a series of discusions of religious problems by community religious leaders and College students.

The Listeners Forum will give all listeners, whether from the College or the community, a chance to air their questions and views on various problems.

"Hymns of All Ages" will be a regular feature of the programs, presenting the history surrounding our great and well-known hymns of Christian Faith.

Other features will be series of programs on the growth of the Church and on a comparison of world religions.

THETAS DISCUSS SEMESTER PLANS AT FIRST MEETING

Theta Epsilon will hold its initial meeting of the new school year in Theta Hall at 6 tonight Presiednt Pat Love has urged that old Thetas be present and bring a new girl along.

Business will include nomination of a Theta girl for Band Sponsor, Rush Week activities, and the collection of dues.

Fine Arts Nears Finish As Strikes Cause Tie-Up

After a summer of "showers", the Fine Arts Center is substantially completed. The main things yet to be done are to put in the big glass walls of the class rooms; complete entrances to library, offices, and lounge; complete painting; and complete grading. No one knows just how long this will take, but progress has been rapid. Most of the furnishings for the Building, except the pianos, are not yet available. There are two reasons for this—many of the things were not expected to arrive until after school started, and some of the companies have delayed delivery because of strikes and the war situation. These delays effect all chairs, auditorium seats, tables, and desks.

However, the work in music and art will be carried on there beginning Monday. Already pianos are in the practice rooms. Classes are meeting temporarily in Anderson. Band rehearsal began yesterday afternoon in the Band room.

An electronic organ has been rented unti lthe Holtkamp Practice organ can be delivered about October 1. Art exhibitions will be delayed until October 1. Announcement will be made shortly concerning these exhibitions.

Dr. Lloyd Travels, Attends Meetings

President Ralph W. Lloyd has returned to the Maryville campus after an active summer of speaking engagement and committee meetings.

Immediately after commencement in May Dr. Lloyd attended the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. The week long assembly was held in Cincinnati, Ohio.

On June 21, Dr. Lloyd was in New York to meet with the Advisory Committee on Work of the Church in Europe. He returned to Maryville the last week in June to attend the synodical meeting of the Synod of Mid-South.

Early in July, Dr. Lloyd traveled to New Hampshire for a meeting of the Drafting Committee of the American Conference on Church Union. This committee is interdenominational.

The Lloyd family spent the last part of July vacationing in Missouri and Colorado, and on August 10 attended the wedding of Hal Lloyd and Miss Mary Ellen Frazier in Ohio.

Chilhowean Staff Urges Subscriptions Made Now

Bob Lynn, business manager of the 1951 Chilhowean, announced that at press time there were over seventy orders for the new edition and over 200 dollars on hand in either full payments or partial payment.

Members of the business staff include Bob Lynn, manager, Newell Witherspoon and Carson Seeley. In addition another girl will be appointed to cover subscriptions in the girls' dorms.

Students are urged to make their reservation early. Lynn Miller has announced that plans are being made to take photographs and pictures, a contract having been made with Skeet Tallent Studios in Knoxville.

Optimism

Better or worse for it, we're back again (and it's great to be back) ready to take another crack at burning the midnight oil or at least trying to convince profs that we do.

Welcome

Guess one of the first things to do is publish our big hello to all the frosh who by this time look less like sore thumbs and more like the rest of us—not necessarily an improvement, you understand! After almost a week of college chow, standing in lines, and finding out about night watchmen, what's the verdict? Our advice—you'll live!

Believe It Or Not

Neale Pearson, ye ECHO's own sports editor, was chosen by (ahem) "Body Builder Magazine" as one of "the outstanding writers of the mat sport for the season of 1950," along with men from Rutgers, Iowa, and Penn. State. Way to go, Neale!

Monkey Business

Rosemary Gambill shows up back on campus with one of the best looking black eyes we've ever seen and then tries to tell us that her "brother" hit her. Maybe there was more to it than met the eye, who knows!

Collector's Item

Heard Dave Reed bragging again about having an oriental rug in his room but later found out it was the same old thing Herb Hoover had dragged back to school last year. We ceased being envious then, having already seen the gem. Dave also has a set of Currier and Ives prints for which he apologized thus: "So they're not so hot, but they're new, they've been framed, and they cover up those walls."

Traditional Collector's Items

More items which might be numbered among the more romantic collector's loot are the diamonds being worn this season. Congrats to Laurie Dale and Fred Kluth, Diana Mirshak and her big moment, Bob Van Nest and "Phyllis", Marney Mauger and Larry Thompson, Nancy Rose and Chuck Holsinger, "Pepper" Postelthwaite and Dick Ribble. . . probably many more but at a time like this, who keeps score?

Up To The Altar

More of our classmates who are joining everybody who's "doin' it" are Pinky Ahler who became Mrs. Bill Ross this summer, Janice Landstrom and Bob Kay who will be married sometime next week, and Dot Holverson and Roger Cowan who were married yesterday.

Nation Wide-Hook-Up

Beryl Stewart made her public radio debut this summer on Don McNeil's Breakfast Club by telling about her narrow escape riding all over New York City, running up her-oooRa fabulous bill, and then discovering she had no money—gave some fishy excuse about looking for a minister. Hmm, didn't know Arch was there too!

●MORE ALL-AMERICANS—In one of the first attempts to go into the hodge-podge of amateur and pro wrestling and come up with something, Body Builder Magazine has come out with a pretty good wrestling section and for the last year an All-American Amateur Wrestling team. 'Twas only the third year that such a poll was ever attempted.

And on that All-American team were three Maryville wrestlers, Tubby Callaway, 145 pounds, Hershel Merriman, 165 pounds, and J. A. Cameron, 128 pounds. These three were on the Honorable Mention team. As usual, the winning team in the NCAA and NAAU National meets was represented most on the first team. Iowa State Teachers, the top dog, grabbed off four spots on the mythical team with one representative coming from each of the following: Waynesburg, Pa., Purdue, Cornell of Iowa, Iowa U, Rutgers and Oklahoma A&M.

Hersh, last year's pile-driving fullback graduated along with Tubby and is working at Alcoa. Callaway is going to Vanderbilt Med-School, while J. A. is co-captain along with Herb Palmer of this year's mat squad. Our congratulations go out to these Maryville men and to their coach "J.D."

●FOR NINE BUCKS athletes and anybody else on the campus can get insurance against broken teeth suffered while walking into a door at 2 a.m. in the morning or from injuries of a more serious note sustained on the playing field. The new policy announced by Dr. Lloyd and worked out by Dean McClelland with the Provident Life and Accident Insurance Co. of Chattanooga has solved a very vexing problem on the Hill. The Men's M Club was set up a year ago for the purpose of trying to get insurance for athletes. But now with this number one project finished and off to a grand start with flying colors, the club's big-domes are looking elsewhere for some worthwhile projects as we note in another article later.

Roy "Butch" Kramer, this year's prexy, had to go with the 191st National Guard and so, as of now, Chesley Anderson finds himself in the position of having the presidency dumped in his lap by virtue of being Veep. We wish him the best of luck and success.

S./M.F.T.—L.S./M.F.T. This seems to be the theme song of the University of Tennessee's Athletic Association. Once again Gen. Neyland and Co. have seen fit to sing the song Let's Steal Maryville's Finest Talent or more legally Let's Scholarship. . . .them. Jim Cates was the latest Maryville athlete to accept a U-T grant-in-aid and Coaches Honaker and Davis will miss this up-and-coming guard. But the 190 pound sophomore hasn't been the first, nor probably will he be the last.

Three years ago, U-T gave its bread-and-butter deal to Tom Scott and Earl Downey who were on an MC cross country team that had downed the Vols 25-32 in a meet here. MC lost the return match there but Scott and Downey had apparently stirred enough interest in the U-T bigwigs imagination to warrant their being listed as "transfer" students the next year. Scott went on to become the greatest two miler U-T has ever had besides not mentioning his consistent winning of the mile for the Vols. Downey went on and became a hotshot half miler, but he didn't blossom out as great as Scott. Needless to say, both ran Cross Country over there. From students who were here at the time, another thing that caused their departure was the like departure of one Coach Walter Mehl. The circumstances of Mehl's leaving have left many a bitter taste in a person's mouth. He had been coaching both MC and UT at one time and then suddenly in the spring of '47 abruptly left the Hill for the pay of the Orange and White. The Orange and Garnet intramural and track systems, needless to say, suffered quite a bit, and the net result was a fouling-up of the whole Maryville athletic system for some time.

Next to be "invited over" was one John Huffstetler. Huffstetler, "an extremely talented pitcher," had enrolled in school and hadn't missed a class until Sept. 9. Then he disappeared only to wind up in class at U-T. Coach Honaker and the CIO team had taken the boy from non-entity and had made something out of him. After many bitter charges fired by both sides—UT claiming practically that Huffstetler hadn't seen the inside of a classroom for five years—Comishuner Bernie Moore of the SEC ruled that U-T had not violated any conference rules and that was that. (Conference rules only prohibit raiding from other schools with the conference). Now, just lately, Huffstetler has been taken up to Brooklyn for a tryout and possibly for some mazuma after tossing quite a few low-hit games this summer for the CIO team.

And Cates was the latest.

Still keeping in the same vein as that spouted by the bamboozle of the well-known weed, we may as well quote them to this effect:

> "Coach Lombe Honaker, prominent talent grower of Maryville, Tenn., says, 'For thirty years I've been growing ball-players and athletes and I've seen the makers of U-T football and track teams buy only the best talent that is grown and paying top priority prices for it.

The whole practice has been a "Lend-Lease" affair with Maryville doing all the lending and U-T doing all the leasing.

Rumor hath it also that Butch Kramer, the new Men's M Club mentor, was seriously considering using the Club's funds to bring "King Alfalfa" Holmberg over from U-T to show him the beautiful sights and advantages of Maryville College. Otherwise we may as well drop our present nomenclature and call ourselves Tennessee Prep.

60 SCOT FOOTBALLERS READY FOR HIWASSEE

Sixty hopefuls turned out for Coach Lombe Honaker, Monday, and the first practice of the current campaign. Included in this group are only ten lettermen from last year's squad, and thirty eight others with little or no college experience.

All Gone—

Graduation took seventeen varsity men last spring and Uncle Sam called four others who were in the National Guard.

Calisthenics were the order of the week to get the team into condition for the first scrimmage due sometime next week. Hiwassee is the first date on the team's calendar; coming up three weeks from today.

This year's squad is to be led by co-captains Don Walker and King Berrong. Walker is a tackle and Berrong a back.

Ten Lettermen—Woe

The men out including lettermen(), and new men—non-lettermen are: Backs: Berrong(), Allen*, P. Marvin, Gibson, Jimmy Campbell, Gress, Boyd, Vananda, King, Mirshak, Alfred, Glad, Sharp, Simerly, Burser, Yunkers, Ledbetter, Payne, Van Benthyson, Peppers, Squires, Haylock, Sprague, Caldwell, Carl Myers, and Tom Grieser.

Ends: Keny*, Greaser, McMahon, Callaway, Cox, McClelland, Garren, Patten, Baldwin, and Gardner. Tackles: Walker*, Larsen*, Hammond, D. Merwin, Bender, Rorex, Moore, Newberry Wheeler, Dean Allison, Darroch and Cromwell. Guards: Proffitt*, Palmer*, Isenberg*, Lester*, Harry Myers, Monroe, Russell and Hughes. Centers: White*, Garren, Sullivan, and Dick Allison.

Touch Football Opens Play Sept. 11

On Sept. 11 the Intramural System of Maryville College goes into effect with play in the Seven Man Touch Football League. Dan Allison, Intramurals Manager, and Coach Kenneth Johnson have worked out a good schedule of play, also in other sports designed to keep the "non-athletes" busy along with Assistants John Geiser and Neale Pearson.

Because of greatly increasd participation over past years, standards of earning an Intramural medal have been changed.

Only Ten Men

Instead of earning three hundred shells which automatically gave one a post-humous medal, that mark is now going to be the minimum and the awarding will go to the ten highest men who have over 300 points. And points are allowed for intramurals only. This will probably not only vex the football, basketball, and baseball lettermen(?), but may cause bloodshed in Bartlett. However, the Intramural System will go on.

But there is one other good break in that league winners will gain 50 points for participation plus another booming 50 points being on a championship team, so the one balances the other.

100 Smackers For First

The winners of tournaments will get 100 points and the runner-up 50. All those who fail by the wayside will get just a measly ten points. Meet participation will give same 100, 50, 10 shells.

Another must-have that the System's poo-bahs have initiated is that no letterman will be allowed to participate in a related intramural sport. By this, a cross country man who has lettered is given the out-of-bounds sign upon wanting to enter the cross-country meet. His place is out in the woods with the rest of his fellow bunion-burners. "O, me, I don't get to hit the sack after lettering last year."

Ribbons For A Lady

As usual, pretty little red ribbons will be awarded to all winners of leaugues, meets, and tournaments.

Come On Over

And last but not least is the ever-constant plea that the Echo and the Intramural Managers and Coach Johnson have been waging for the last three years. Many a time attendance at the Tuesday meetings was down to the very-satisfying number three. Business was really brisk then! Then when rules were passed by a majority vote, what would happen the next day but that some of the all-knowing Intramural "stars" would beef about their not having been consulted. "Hey, what's going on here. Why'n the hang didn't you guy tell us what's been goin' on. Nobody wants that rule in there."

"Yes, fellows, we know that, but where were you when the matter was brought up. The majority always decides policies."

"Well, Coach, I really had a heavy date over at the Student Center for a game of bridge, and I had a run of 50 points."

Ya, yaa. We know. Those are the guys who think that they can run the system by shooting their big mouths off on the field and not thinking about those who have to do all the paper work. For the umpteenth time, we begin our annual plea for attendance at the meetings on Tuesday at one o'clock in Bartlett. Any male student can attend and is

Thinlies Begin Dragging Legs

Seventeen men reported to the call Thursday, as Coach Johnson's Cross Country men went through four miles of paces. Back from last year's undefeated squad are six lettermen and three other vets. Ten new men came out to get their initial blisters and several showed promise. All were out of shape but should get back in trim for the opening meet with UT on Oct 7.

Too Bads—

The only question mark is Neale Pearson who is still bothered with a swollen and sprained ankle suffered during the summer. John Baird, the other letterman on last year's squad, is under doctor's orders not to run, even though "The Fence" has more gumption and guts than many.

Here They Are

Spring Sports Roundup

TRACK

Maryville, a pre-war power in track circles around East Tennessee, opened the season with the Milligan Relays in Johnson City and failed to better their first place tie of the year before. First were registered for MC by Blondie Law in the century-mark and Bob Kay in the 220 high boards. Jimmy Thurston's leg conked out on the Spring Metley which opened the meet and MC seemed beat as Lambert, English, and Menges ran themselves out trying to make up lost distance.

Too Much Lloyd

A meet with East Tennessee State was next on the agenda and but for one man, MC might have gotten by to win. Bob Lloyd, a frosh for the Bucs, got hotter than a pistol, and ran to five firsts and a third for 25 points. Del Earisman won the mile for Maryville as Blondie Law did likewise in the hundred. Final score: ETS—73½; MC—53½.

Hooray!

Del Earisman and Charles Mabry won the mile to start things off for MC against Chattanooga and the Orange and Garnet were never headed. They beat one John Ridge who had reversed the count last year. Walt English took the 440 and Law the 100. Bill Menges, George Day, and Harold Nairon gave MC a clean sweep in the half mile and Captain Sid Lambert took first in the 220. Bob Kay again came through and took firsts in both the high-low hurdles on the running events was enough.

Over the season, one feund that MC's lack of field event men hurt plus the recurrence of an old muscle injury that hampered Blondie Law from running in the 220, too, and picking up another needed five points. Coach Davis' men got off to a bad start at Milligan and it hurt.

Lettermen were Law, Lambert, English, Menges, Earisman, Mabry, Walker Kay, and Manager Xen Mostinger. Walt English was elected captain for 1951.

TENNIS

Coach Kenneth Johnson's net team carried over a ten game winning streak into play when they opened up against Carson-Newman April 8, and continued it through four more games of play against Tennessee Wesleyan, LMU, and Milligan. East Tennessee State playing against a tired MC team which had won the Milligan game, found the cords for a 5-2 win busting the Scot-skein at 14 straight.

Maryville returned home to good old Memorial courts and then took a 5-2 decision from the Buc's to even the score. A 5-4 match with Carson-Newman closed out a successful 7 won, one lost season.

Lettering racketeers won 38—lost 9. Chesley Anderson (7 matches won—one lost) Wes Miles (6-2), Buz Cardozo (6-2), Jerry Sayres (6-2), Ben Gearhart (4-1) and Glen Gabe (4-1). All lettered, and prospects for next year are looking great.

Pelton, Lerch Hit 9.0; Dean's List Has 278

Pearson, Kettles Make 8.7 Mark As 22 Others Top 8.0 Semester Average

A total of 278 students made the second semester honor roll of the acadmic year 1949-50. Two students, Lois Lerch, biology major from Clearwater, Fla., and Jeanne Pelton, Spanish major from Monticello, N.Y. scored a perfect 9.0 average or straight A according to standings released this week by the personnel office.

Others high on the score-board were Mary Annis Pearson, 8.7; Dan Winter, 8.4; Dick Lane, 8.4; Joe McNiell, 8.5; Lucy Carrick, 8.4; Peggy Kettles, 8.7; Neale Pearson, 8.5; Glenn Gentry, 8.5; Helen Worrilow, 8.5.

Class breakdowns show a total of 88 seniors, 61 juniors, 56 sophomores, and 73 freshman. Of this number 24 have an average of 8.0 or above.

To make the honor roll one must heve a 6.0 or a B average. B plus would be 7.0, A minus would be 8.0, with a 9.0 being the highest possible. Students meeting these requirements for the second semester are seniors Sue Althouse, 6.8; Kenenth Anderson, 6.6; Robert Argie, 6.2; John Baird, 6.7; Curtis Barnett, 6.2; John Baxter, 6.0; John Bender, 6.1; Duncan Bennett, 6.5; Edward Bennett, 7.3; Ruth Helen Bird, 6.4; Robert Boring, 7.7; Henry Callaway, 6.0; Howard Cameron, 6.3; William Chalker, 7.6; Ivan Chambers, 6.2; Walter Chambers, 7.0; Joseph Claud, 7.0; Ellen Collins, 6.1; Mary Elizabeth Crawford, 6.8; Margaret Cummings 8.0; Alice Davenport, 7.0; Walter Dean, 8.2; Lois Deobler, 6.6; Delbert Earisman, 7.5; Suzanne Emery, 7.5; Robert Frost, 7.0; Webster Fue, 6.6; Henry Fugate, 7.0; Aubrey Galyon, 7.4; Dolores Green, 7.1; Ruth Heaps, 8.2; Sarah Heinekamp, 7.7; Henry Hill, 6.0; James Holsey, 6.0; Margaret Hughes, 7.5; Vendeda Huskey, 6.0.

Seniors

Don Hyatt, 7.7; Richard Isenberg, 6.2; Linnea Johnson, 6.1; Marvin Kay, 7.8; Robert Kay, 6.4; Martha Kincaid, 7.2; Mary Elizabeth King, 6.6; Glen Knecht, 6.5; Robert Kribbs, 6.3; James Latham, 7.9; James Lillard, 7.3; Carl Lindsay, 6.2; Donald McCammon, 7.8; Jane McCollough, 6.5; George McMahon, 6.2; Charles Mabry, 8.3; Eric Meadows, 7.4; Clara Miller, 6.0; Ethel Nelson, 6.5; William Nish, 7.5; Raymond Packard, 7.2; Mary Annis Pearson, 8.7; Frances Postlethwaite, 7.3; Faye Robinson, 6.7; Ruth Rogers, 7.0; Richard Rowley, 7.3; Stuart Saul, 6.2; Winifred Schaumberg, 6.5;

Virginia Schwarz, 7.2; Benjamin Sheldon, 8.2; Fred Sieber, 7.2; Betty Jo Smith, 6.6; Glenn Smith, 6.0; Caryl Stovell, 7.8; Jo-Ann Stroud, 7.5; William Swenson, 6.7; Edward Vanderslice, 7.6; Barbara Wallin, 6.3; Mary Watt, 6.0; Eleanor Willbanks, 7.0; Dan Winter, 8.4; Orval Wintermute, 6.7.

Theta Continues Rushing, Chooses Rainbow Theme

Colorful, spectacular "Rainbow Land" sponsored by Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma will be on the Maryville College campus for the week beginning Monday, September 11. Gracie Scruggs and Barbara Stidham have charge of the festivities and are working hard to make the week a veritable rainbow of color, activities, and fun for the new students.

Fashion Show featuring Theta girls modeling clothes of rainbow hues will start the memorable week. Ginni Schartz and Lucy Carrick are chairmen of the show which will take place at 8:00, Monday evening in the Student Center. The show offers an ideal setting for the new girls to become acquainted with the members of Theta Epsilon. Marty Mauger has charge of the decorations and Wilma Border of the food for this event.

Annual Splash

Wednesday night the featured spot will be the college pool where, at 7:30 p.m. the annual Splash Party will be held. Among the many attractions will be the diving and swimming of two famous experts, jokes by Masters of Ceremonies Marilyn Edge and Tasker Robinette, and an aquacade performed by several Theta girls. Nancy Ferguson has charge of the aquacade and urges all the girls to bring their bathing suits for a swim after the show is over.

Beautiful Rainbow Land will take the place of Alumni Gymnasium starting at 8:00 p.m. Saturday night for the big Formal show. Peggy Kettles is writing the script for "Theta's Rainbow Land" and Irene Mellon is chairman of the decorating committee. Tables for four and candlelight will high-

Seniors Work On Special Studies In 22 Major Fields

Seniors in twenty-two subject fields are at work on Special Studies. Dean Edwin R. Hunter announced this week. Of the 167 students doing this work, 137 will complete their studies in December, and the remaining thirty who are beginning now will complete theirs in May.

The largest groups are twenty-two in English, twenty-one in Biology, nineteen in Economics and Business Administration and eighteen in Sociology. Thirty faculty members are acting as supervisors of Special Studies, each with a full or fractional load. The ideal full load is eight students, according to Dean Hunter but the groups in the various fields do not always fall into multiples of eight.

Mrs. Esther Cornelius Swenson, who for two years was the Library Reference advisor and Editorial Supervisor for Special Studies, has entered the Training School at McCormick Seminary in Chicago. Mrs. Helen A. Disbrow succeeds Mrs. Swenson and may be found in the library for consultation concerning sources of material and forms and usages in the preparing of Special Studies.

These services do not take the place of those given by the faculty advisor, but supplement it to provide greater facilities.

Harter Chooses 63 New Members For Vesper Choir

YM-W Broadcasts Begin New Series

The Y-Radio program begins another semester of broadcasting next Monday evening, September 11 at 9:30 p.m. through the facilities of station WGAP. This year the program is a full thirty minutes in length. Arrangements have been made to have the program broadcast over the loudspeaker system in the Student Center.

The main part of the program will be talks by the Y president, Louise Lloyd and George Ogle, concerning the functions of the Y cabinets how these functions are related to the community and the college, and the scope of the Y.

Other features on the program will be a piano solo by Johnny Sayres and a poem by Barbara Blum.

The "Great Hymns of All Ages" feature will be inaugurated with the presentation of "Jesus, Lover of My Soul", by a quartet of college students. Along with the singing of the hymn some of the history surrounding the hymn will be given and some of the stories conected with it. This specialty of the program will

Council Elects Starr, Passes Rush Week Rules

Officers elected to Inter-Club Council this semester are Bill Starr, chairman; John Shew, vice chairman and Laurie Dale, secretary-treasurer.

An amendment to the Rush Week rules was agreed upon by the council and representatives from the four societies. The rules place a ninety dollar expense limit for each society for Rush Week. The amendment states also, that any society exceeding the limit should make a public statement to the effect that it sought to obtain members by unlawful means.

Players To Stage 'Our Town' For First Production

Thorton Wilder's "Our Town" has been chosen as the first major production to be given by the Maryville College Playhouse this season. Running for two nights as usual, the production is scheduled for October 19, 20.

Two experimental theatre dates have been set for this semester but no plays have been selected as yet. Dates chosen are September 29, first production, and November 11, second.

Although tentative decision on plays was made by last year's Playhouse Board of Control, the board met Thursday to take final action and to start work on semester plans. Board of Control has as its chairman Phyllis Jackson, Playhouse president. Other board members are George Barber, Arch Swarztrauber, Bobbie Porter; faculty members are Dean Hunter, Mrs. K. P. Johnson, Miss Katherine Davies, and Miss Craven, new drama director.

Tryout schedules will be posted following a meeting of the Playhouse next week.

Student Volunteers Hold Panel Discussion

Student Volunteers will hold their meeting Sunday evening immediately after Vespers, in the Bartlett auditorium. There will be a panel discussion by some of the regular members on the purpose of Student Vols. They will answer questions concerning the aims of the organization. The officers and cabinet members will also be introduced.

New members are invited to find their place and sign up for the activities open to them.

Dancing Starts In Gym, Marquis Interprets Rules

Dancing in the Intramural Gym from 6:30 to 7:15 p.m. began this week and will continue every evening Monday through Friday. Student Council members serving as hosts and hostesses are identified by orange and garnet armbands.

Rules governing good dancing everywhere are in effect here, according to Mrs. Carmen Marquis, director, who also announced the following regulations.

1. Men who wish to meet a girl at the dance are instructed to speak to Mrs. Marquis, who will arrange an introduction. Such a request involves no obligation on the man's part, but is merely an indication that he would like to dance with her once.

2. Men are requested not to stand in large groups on the dance floor and not to walk diagonally across the floor.

3. After the dance, the man takes the girl back to her seat even though he is having the next dance with her.

4. Public display of any emotion is in poor taste and reflects on dignity and breeding.

5. Men who are cut in on do not cut back on the same man before that dance is over.

6. Men never cut in on the last dance.

7. Those who wish to bring a guest to dances must secure a guest card from Dean of Women Frances Massey and present it to Mrs. Marquis in introducing the guest.

DEBATE TEAM BEGINS WORK

Debate team will meet each Thursday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. in Thaw 214. All Freshmen and others interested in debate are urged to attend the meetings as more are needed for the squad.

Mr. Archibald Pieper has charge of the team with Mrs. Pieper and Miss Arda Walker assisting him. Dr. Verton Queener who has been the adviser for the past few years has retired from this post.

Call Election Scheduled To Fill Four Vacancies

A call election will be held Tuesday and Wednesday to elect vice house chairman and secretary-treasurer in Baldwin and Pearsons halls. Junior Class will elect a vice president and Council Rrepresentative at the same time. Lynn McNeely, who was elected vice president of the Junior Class has transferred; and Ralph Theisse is serving the Council as MSO chairman.

Those names to appear on the ballot are: Baldwin vice house chairman, Jean Ellis and Sally Drum; Baldwin secretary-treasurer, Shirley Atwoods and Trudy Furman; Pearsons vice house chairman, Lena McGaha and Ruth Kuckerman; Pearsons secretary-treasurer, Marilyn Edge and Mildred Simmons;

Karole Kapp is house chairman of Baldwin and Ruth McSween is house chairman of Pearsons. Both were elected last spring to serve this term.

Jim Kren, student body vice-president in charge of elections, urges that all girls living in Baldwin and Pearsons, and all members of the Junior class come out to vote at this call election.

News Capsules—

By Trudy Furman

North Koreans have captured Pohang one of the two principal landing points in South Korea for United States military supplies. They have also pushed toward Yongchon, a city just twenty-five miles east of Taegu. Capture of this city would place the Reds in an advantageous position to strike either Taegu to the west or directly to the main base at Pusan.

ARMY CALLS FOR 70,000

The Army has asked Selective Service to provide 70,000 recruits in November. This number is 20,000 more than the quota set for September and October. The new call will bring the number of men and women in service up to two million by the end of the year.

NEGRO ADMITTED TO VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY

United States Federal Court directed the University of Virginia not to deny anyone admittance to its law school because of race or color. Although the decree is directed simply to the law school it is probable that it will soon spread to all graduate and professional work at the university.

Sunday Schools Meet

Tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. the college class of Saint Andrew's Episcopal Church will open a series of four programs on "What Should Be the Christian's attitude toward war?"

Dr. Horace E. Orr, MC philosophy professor will be the speaker. On following Sundays there will be a group discussion, a panel discussion and another speaker. Other series of programs of vital interest to Christians are planned for the rest of the semester.

The opening worship of New Providence Presbyterian Sunday School is being led by the Crusader Class. Those participating in the service are: Happy Huddleston, scripture; Charles Williams, prayer and song leader; and a girls' trio, special music.

ECHO TRY-OUTS

Freshmen and sophomores interested in trying out for the editorial staff of the Highland Echo will meet in the Echo office on the east side of Thaw at 7 p.m., Wednesday, September 13. No previous experience is required.

Drum Major, New Twirlers Lead Off

Jim Townsend, senior business administration major from Williamstown, N.J., will head the '50-51 Pep Comittee, it was released late this week by Jimmy Callaway, chairman of Athletic Board of Control. Others to serve as committee members are Neale Pearson, Sara Jo Emert, Cora Anthony, Dick Jones, George Barber, J. A. Cameron, and Arch Swarztrauber, ex-officio.

Faculty members who will also serve on the committee are to be announced later, according to the board.

New Pepsters

Four girls and two boys were elected to fill six vacant positions on the '50-'51 cheerleaders' squad. Girls elected were Martha Coyner, sophomore psychology major from Fountain City, Virginia Davenport, freshman math major from Gatlinburg, Peggy Hurst, Oak Ridge, and Carolyn Sloan, freshman language major from Madisonville, Tom Kees, senior political science major from Philadelphia, Pa., and his brother, Bob, junior political science major, were elected male cheerleaders. Other members of this team are Joe Poland and Arch Swarztrauber, chosen last spring.

The two extra girl positions on the team were available due to the resignation of Jane McMillan and Gracie Scruggs also elected last spring.

Major, Majorettes

Baton Whirler George Carpenter, sophomore English major from Meridian, Miss., will lead the band for the second year with Drum Major Charles Williams, senior math major from Maryville .

Ruthie Garst, sophomore Home Economics major from Bradenton, Fla., Jean Davis, junior physical education major from Seymour, Peggy Kettles, junior English major from Pittsburgh, Pa. and third year veteran, and Phyllis West, sophomore Home Economics major from Winston-Salem, N.C., were chosen Scottie majorettes by band instructor, Curtis W. Hughes, and are at work readying themselves for gametime.

Band members will number somewhere about fifty this season and the band will continue using its fast-pacing tempo which made it distaindtive last year.

Band sponsor will be elected from nominees of the four societies next week and will be presented at the first game of the season against Hiwassee, September 23, at the new stadium.

Case To Select Parish Workers

Appointments for work in parish project will be announced soon, according to Dr. Ralph Case, parish faculty advisor. Over 25 students will participate in this year's program. Upperclassmen are usually chosen for members in the project, but training classes are held for first year workers. College credit is given to participants.

Parish project is an arrangement by which students can do volunteer Christian service in the Maryville community. Workers serve in churches and schools.

On Sundays, project workers act as teachers, superintendents and pianists in local Sunday schools. On week-days religious instruction is given in rural grade schools. Schools now served are Forrest Hill, Chilhowee View and Walland. Transportation is provided by the parish station wagon. Workers also serve in the two city missions, Sunnybrook and Home Avenue.

In addition to Dr. Case, Rev. D L. Engelhardt and Mrs. Margaret Cummings work with students participating in Parish Project.

Faculty Globetrotters See World; Others Are Bookworms, Profs

By Mary Sue Munson

Faculty members were regular weathercocks this summer. Although they, as well as the students, have settled back into the old routine, they have traveled towards all four points of the compass since we last saw them. Let's begin with those who went east, represented chiefly by Miss Walker and Miss Johnson, who left June 8th on the Queen Mary. Landing in Normandy, they set out for Paris, journeying from there to Switzerland and Italy. Heading northwestward to complete the circuit, they passed through Spain, coming into France again from the south and climaxing their tour by a visit to England and Scotland.

Madrid, Canturbury, York, and Angoulne, to name a few, were the places by which Miss Walker was most impressed. "I liked England best" she decided, "because I knew more of the historical background of that country than the others", but admitted that the reason for her choice could be the fact that there she could understand what they were talking about. Miss Johnsno's favorite country was Italy, because of her interest in art.

Miss Lightfoot and Miss Hunter traveled north to Nova Scotia "The scenery was like that in the U. S.," stated Miss Lightfoot What they noticed most were the flowers made spectacular by their size and quantity, and the numerous bodies of water, quite a change for an inlander. Also commented on were the 600-700 pound tuna and hugh apple orchards.

Among those also spending part or all of the summer north of MC were Dr. Sisk, who toured in Canada, returning by way of the New England states, and Mr. Kizer, visiting "In the interest of history" as he puts it, all the places invaded by John Morgan. Although celebrating the arrival of a "new boarder", Rev. Englehardt found time to study at the University of Pittsburgh, while Miss Cummings taught at the Biblical Seminary in New York.

Mr. Ainsworth worked on his Ph.D. in Political Science at the University of Chicago, and Mr. Reber visited relations in Pennsylvania and Maryland, considering his most interesting experience of the summer that of testifying in court. He also studied at Indiana University, as did Mr. Harter, who is doing graduate work in the music department there.

Mrs. Kramer did church work in children's and young peoples' conferences in several of the southern states. Asst. Prof. Buchanan was business manager at the Sequoyah Camp for Boys in North Carolina. Also instructing were Miss Blair, who taught at her Alma Mater, Alabama, and Dr. Williams, who directed students in North Carolina. Among those staying nearer home were Mr Bushing and Mr Paxton, who did work at University of Tennessee.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1950

Admonition—

Already one week into the '50-51 college term, it seems needless to say a word of welcome to the new students who are obviously more than glad that lines of all descriptions went out of style after the first few days. And yet, it's never too late to throw out the proverbial word to the wise and hope that some may grasp. We who think of ourselves as old wisdoms aren't really as learned as we put on but we do think that we can pass on some practical lessons and help you avoid pitfalls.

The big whirl of the first two or three weeks—punch parties, receptions, mixers, big splashes, formals, welcome, welcome, welcome—will subside soon and for the most part MC'ers will lapse into a state of concentration on higher education. Meanwhile frosh are besieged on all sides to "join our society," "c'mon into our club," "become one of our staff," and tryout for the squad." And the temptation being so great, the recent high school graduate wants to put his name on the rolls of various organizations to really enjoy himself.

It's fun being "in the know" about various campus activities but most collegiates find that becoming an active member of one or two clubs can be adequate enough and rather time-consuming. Of the numerous activities, better chose the one or two which most appeal to your extra-curricular sense and become a god member, not just a joiner. The club will welcome you as an asset and not find out later that you are a total liability.

Before end of your four years, you may be the material for Who's Who because you chose wisely and scheduled your time accordingly.

On FAC—

It was with a deep sense of pride that returning Maryville students saw and inspected the now nearly completed Fine Arts Center. And incoming freshmen, along with upperclassmen, will soon appreciate the tremendous value and worth of this addition to Maryville's facilities, although those who have worked in fine arts without the advantages of the new building will undoubtedly appreciate it even more so. The major part of construction is already finished, but the completion of a number of sections will continue for some time. Already some classes are being held there, but it is not definitely known when the building will be ready for full and complete occupancy.

Several architectural journals already have carried illustrated accounts of it's building and design. Time magazine devoted a paragraph in a story on contemporary collegiate architecture. It is perhaps somewhat difficult for us to realize that our Fine Arts Center at its completion will be one of the best buildings in the country, both from an architectural and functional point of view. But that is true. Few buildings anywhere can march it in utility value or in architectural superiority. Those are facts of which we can all well be proud and appreciative.

Maryville's student body has never really had the opportunity to express thanks to the building's donors, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Alfred Lloyd of Chicago. But we do realize the significance and worth of their gift both to us and to Maryville College as an institution. We owe them appreciation and gratitude of the highest degree.

Scots & Soda

Marryville

Marriages are made in heaven, but engagements are made here at old MC. Latest to receive our congratulations and best wishes are John Baird and Mary Hamelman and John Edwin Hitch and Betty Gillenwater.

Too Young

Just in passing we'll say that freshmen are never allowed to go to town on the first town night. The fact that "The Outlaw" was playing last Tuesday night was a mere coincidence.

Oblivion

When asked why she was throwing ice in the garbage can, frosh waitress Sandra McDougal tallied with, "It's too big to go down the sink drain."

Ask 'Em Yourself

Bob Proffitt about garbage cans and dignity; Lois Lerch and Betty Stiles about unscreened windows on first floor Baldwin; Neale Pearson about "sprained" ankles; Sally Brown about the easiest way to flunk psychology. . . . .

Feathered Friends

Registered at Maryville this semester are Peacock, Partridge, Heron, Crow, Robinette, and Bob White.

Look Behind You, Preacher!

Has anyone ever noticed that the bulletin board directly behind the speaker's stand in vespers displays the Histomap of Evolution?

Gone Astray

Bainonian and Athenian treasure maps must not have been altogether accurate, for we hear that several persons had difficulty finding their way out of the wods. New students ,perhaps?

Us Moderns

With the addition of the Fine Arts Center, the Maryville campus is looking more like the University of Miami every day.

In Statistics, Dr. Briggs was giving the class a problem to work out uisng various kinds of soil as illustrations. Sir Briggs had already mentioned rocky soil and sandy soil and was continuing the growing mertis of each when a back row scholar, one Ross Dooley, was heard to exclaim, "In Florida, we have muck—you throw in the seeds and jump out of the way."

Revolution:

Interclub Council held its initial meeting last week amid much wisecracking and adopted quite unofficially (and in the presence of Prexy Joe) as its slogan—"Let's clean up the Student Council."

Modern quotables.

"You know, Rush Week is an activity in which you break your neck trying to rope a lot of people in so you can have a rush week the next year,"' says Arch Swarztrauber.

As the clock passed the noon hour, Dr. Orr remarked to his Ethics class, "Along about now we get hungry. . ." Several seconds later, noise having subsided, the good doctor added ". . . . for food."

Good Neighbor Policy

Amigo Roger Padron, we salute you as our good neighbor of the week! You're doing a great job of being just plain friendly and a wonderful sport—gracias!

TALK OF THE WEEK ——Reprint

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

THE POPCORN CIRCUIT

Obviously, anything playing at the Capitol this Town Night would be anticlimatic after Jane Russell and "The Outlaw" last Tuesday. This week's "Wabash Avenue" has plenty of the same element that made "The Outlaw" a top money-maker, but since "Wabash's" star is Betty Grable, the emphasis is a little different.

To those who were disappointed by the lack of the Grable trademark in her last film—it's been worth waiting for this one. She does some song and dance that's really terrific, and there isn't enough material in her costume to write about.

Victor Mature and Phil Harris are in the plot, which comes in a por second compared with Miss Grable and her more obvious talents. It's a god pic if you like the 1890-musical type, no plot, and plent yof Grable. And we do.

"The Return of October" is Capitol's Wednesday offering, and, despite the title, it isn't the film version of a Ladies' Home Journal story. It turns out to be an attempted comedy about race horses, departed spirits, and an animal psychiatrist. Stars are Terry Moore and Glenn Floyd, and, of course, the horse, which, frankly, does a better job than either of the others. Verdict: October Bud Abbott and Lou Costello should never have returned.

"Meet the Killer" Thursday and Friday for Maryville's low-humor element. It's the same old "Hey, Abbott" routines, appreciated only by loyal Abbott-Costello devotees. Boris Karloff is the villian who inspires the corny clowning around.

MUSIC NOTES

The summer saw the rise to the top of the musical popularity list two songs whose very uniqueness makes their entrance into a rather restricted field rather noteworthy. Representative of types not usually reaching that kind of national achievement, they perhaps signify new directions in American popuar music. The two are "Goodnight, Irene" and "Tzena, Tzena, Tzena" both done excellently on the same Decca platter by Gordon Jenkins.

The first belongs to the mountain folk ballad family, an area of music never really appreciated. Perhaps America's only real contribution to musical culture, the ballad may be seen in a new light of social approval with the rise of a representative of its best element to national prominence and liking.

"Tzena, Tzena, Tzena" is an Israeli folk tune, with a rapid tempo designed to accompany the Jewish folk dance, the hora. Not really classifiable under any of the characteristics which usually make a song popular in this country, it's success isn't completely understood. Perhaps it is just its very brightness, refelcting the spirit of a new nation, and the achievement of a long-troubled and long-misunderstood people.

THE QUIET ZONE

A great many significent additions were made to the shelves of Lamar Library this summer. Among the most noteworthy are autobiographies of two of our world's greatest living men: Albert Einstein's "Out of My Later Years" and Albert Schweitzer's "Out of My Life and Thought," both required reading for a greater understanding and appreciation of these men and their contributions.

Also new and also good are "The Cocktail Party," T. S. Eliot; "A Writer's Notebook," W. Somerset Maughm; "Killers of The Dream," Lillian Smith on Southern race relations; "The Immortal Lovers," Frances Winwor on the Brownings;

"A Streetcar Named Desire," Tennessee Williams' prizewinning play; "Letters to Young Churches," a new translation of New Testament epistles by J. B. Phillips; "The Wall," a new novel by John Hersey; "The American Mind," Henry Steele Commander; "The Elementary Form of the Religious Life," a study in religious sociology by Emile Durkheim.

DEPUTATION TEAMS TO MEET

There will be a meeting of all those interested in serving on deputation teams to be announced in chapel sometime next week. The number of teams will be reduced from that of last year but the number of people engaged on each team will be approximately the same.

Teams covered some four hundred miles, serving about 1000 people. Two dates have already been set.

Sports Echoes

●NOW THAT FROSHMEN WHO ATTENDED THE POW-WOW sponsored by the YMCA with watermelons as a sideline found out that the wife was keeping Coach Honaker home, we have some more interesting sidelights on "Coach's" life. The old tired bromide that is used to tap him is that of being "Dean of Small Southern College Coaches." Mr. Honaker has been around for such a long time that by the time his rival mentors hang up their canvas pants long Lombe will still retain his seat on the Highlander bench even though he was coaching when many of them were still wearing their tri-cornered apparel.

Contrary to popular rumor also, he wasn't born in Bartlett dressing room but at a place called Rocky Gap, Virginia. According to reports "the sun had a hard time getting up over the mountains" there. Coach Honaker also had five years of coaching before he came to Mare-ville—two at Southwestern, Texas, and three at Lincoln, Illinois. Since then, he has spent 27 years at Maryville winning 114 football games, losing 85, and tieing 12. In his first memoable year ,the Scots held our dear friends from UT to a 14-14 score in a 7-3-1 season. Also added to the list was a Tangerine Bowl game with Catawba's mighty Indians in the year 1947. That January 1st classic saw MC go down 31-6 in a battle that still left the Scots proud though beaten. One member of that squad, King Berrong, is still here and is one of Coach's two backfield lettermen. We sure hope that Coach and King can inject some of that 1946-47 "Giant-Killer's" spirit into this year's team.

●AFTER A FIVE YEAR LAPSE the Annual Alpha Sigma-Athenian "Beer or Pop Bottle Classic" as you prefer it was played last Saturday before a howling crowd. Alpha Sigma gained possession for the first time of an ancient plaque which commemorated the first event but as of now, the Sigs riot squad hasn't been able to commandeer the trophy yet. Score for the event was 7-2 with Alpha Sig picking up four runs in the 7th by virtue of a Kren hit and two-bases-full walks issued by Athenian pitcher Bill Shields after his big toe had split open. Circus plays of the game were contributed by Bill Menges of Alpha Sigma and Tom Kees of the other organization who really pulled a robber on Menges. 'Twas a swell affair.

●FOR MEN ONLY——Mrs. Queener's thinly-clads begin their point system activities next week. In addition to the scenic attractions afforded, this little business has another attractive angle. . . . The gals aren' supposed to eat between meals! So, if you're having trouble balancing the budget, just set your eyes on one of these Amazons an dsee if it does not pull you out of the red. . . And here's a quote from or "Willie" Williams, a former director of the point system way back when. "If any of you guys think it's easier for a girl to win a letter (and men they're really big) than it is for you, you can go jump in a lake!". . . End of quote. . . . The latest dope also is that Gracie (500 points) Scruggs is out to top that mark this year and win Bartlett Hall. . . don't know though.

●A FEW SHORT TERSE WORDS in last week's cross country story marked the end of the trail for one John Baird. They were more or less a tribute to the "Fence" as his fellow bunion-burners called him. For those who can't see the meaning of such a monicker suffice it to say that all one had to do was to watch him finishing a race. Recovering from an appendicitis, Baird came out for the hill-and-dale sport and stuck it out giving all he had and more. A typical little scene was that at TPI last year when after collapsing on the fence ol' John got up and helped push a stalled TPI car. It's been great knowing you, "Fence."

●FUMBLES AND RECOVERIES—— Once again the so-called "ace sports writer" as some of his "friends" called him has doped off to start the season off in his old fashion. Last week we mentioned J. A. Cameron as being co-captain with the worthy Herb Palmer of the wrestling team. Well, not to take anything away from J.A., we were suddenly informed by sundry persons that one Chesley Anderson was co-captain with the estimable Palmer . . . . We're sorry Chesley. . . and to you J.A. we wish there could be tri-captains. . . .

Turning to the wilderness of cross country, we find that back in the days of '38, Maryville once had a "Shoeless Wonder". This worthy gentleman who got his bunions the easy way was one runner who went by the name of Don Calhoun. Calhoun would not stoop so low as to wear the "cumbersome shoes." He says that they "actually helped" him. However, according to reports, he turned "sissy" and donned shoes for the three mile jaunt against UT on the airport road. (MC won 15-36 and Calhoun came in sixth). However, we don't expect Coach Johnson's '50 team to do likewise since Dan'l Boone's trail through the College Woods isn't exactly cleared. . . Cross Country dropped to its lowest ebb in 1941 when only one man reported to Coach Davis. Needless to say, J. D. went on and put out an early call for wrestling practice—let's hope the same thing doesn't happen this year even though 10 lettering and non-lettering men are back. . . . Remember most of them will be gone next year. . . the sport can't give you cheers and muscles like football but like the boys themselves say, "Come on out and build a little character.". . . . Cecil Puckette, Ole Miss football star, around whom so much controversy raged last year, has left Oxford, Miss., to go to East Tennessee State to finish his football career. State announced last spring a "new" policy of giving out scholarships to deserving athletes; and must be offering automobiles and ripened tomatoes along with their tuition, board, and fees. His brother Johnny, a member of last year's ETS squad, and he both hail from Kingsport, perennial winners of the state gold-rocks. . . . Congrats go to Walt English who was elected Track Captain late last semester, but was afforded no recognition in this scandal sheet. . . . And last but certainly not least, orchids to the new and old football men who really tore into practice with spirit if not beef realizing what had been lost from last year's squad.

Spring Sports Roundup

(Ed. Note: The following are a summary of sports in the past Spring with lettermen named following the last Echo publication.)

BASEBALL

Baseball was once again in the limelight as Coach Honaker's men finished the season by sweeping C-N and ETS off the mats during exam week. Leon Berrong gave up one unearned run in picking up two easy wins by 12-0 and 8-1 scores.

Starting off an expected-to-be good-season, the Scots took on Hiwassee in a warmer-upper here and a seven-run fifth spoiled the Tiger's chance of winning as they went down, 17-1.

One Up—One Down

Bigger game was in the making as the Highlanders thawed-out and froze in two games with Miami U (of Ohio). The Redskin fumbled away the first game but still allowed six earned runs to lose, 14-3. However, the weather changed from warm to cold the next day and the Redskin's bats from cold to hot with the net result that MC went down, 16-3.

Two more football-score games with Hiwassee came with the Honaker-men triumphing 21-12 and 25-2. Hot-potato handling of the ball plus timely hitting hurt once again as the Scots went into the ranks of professional ball by taking on Middlesboro of the Mountain State League. Maryville's big trouble was men left stranded on base. Scot bats were strangely silent.

More Yanks

Another northern team on spring tour, Northern Illinois Teachers of DeKalb, Illinois, was next on the agenda. The Indians lost the first contest, 9-7, with the Orange and Garnet bunting and using walks very well to their own advantage. Sonny Short came in to relieve Leon Berrong at the end of two and go on for a win. The second was the same with DeKalb making and getting the breaks to come out on top, 8-4, to stalemate the series.

Canners Canned

Travelling north now themselves, MC visited Nowport of the Mountain States League and both teams emerged with a 11-11 tie when the town's blue law went into effect at the end of nine slow innings on a Saturday night. However, the Pro-team looked anything but in a return game at Maryville and were canned, 5-3.

LMU's Railsplitters got the axe next in a Kren-pitched 5-0 game. Milligan was clabbered in the first of two, 11-1, with Bob Boring getting three for four. The "WE wuz robbed" phrase went up in the second as the Buffaloes turned the tables, 9-8.

Win Streak

A five-win game streak followed with triumphs over ETS (5-4), LMU in another shutout (9-0), Carson-Newman's Eagles in the first of two, 12-4, and ETS (8-1). The very enjoyable win over C-N closed out the season with Leon Berrong having the top ERA with 1.040 for nine games and a 5-1 record.

Pitching Good—

Jim Kren was the strikeout king with 49 for 54⅓ innings and a 1.998ERA record. Sonny Short developed as the season went along winding up with a perfect 20 record and an increasing stinginess with the batters when men got on.

Hitting Good

Bob Boring led the active hitters with a .419 avg. for 18 games and was leader in the HR, 2b, hits, and RBI's depts. with 4, 8, 31, and 25, respectively. Gene Reynolds, heretofore not known for his hitting but for his mitt-work, was runner-up among the regulars with a .383 average good for the triple leadership. Reynolds work behind the plate was tops for anybody, anywhere. Hugh Hamil was third until the final two games when Wally Pentz went on a hit-spree to slip into third-place with a .343 average. Hamil, roving around center like a gazelle, was the team's second-ranking power man behind Boring and also led the stolen-basers with 15. Both Boring and Hamil have since gone into pro ball.

King Berrong, only veteran player, not graduating save for the pitchers grabbed off a .280 batting average while still being a sparkplug keystone man with six DP's. Jack Buckley, leadoff man who was on the hot corner finished with .276. Bobby Neff, another of the so-called weak hitters, found an eye toward the season's end and wound up with .240 and 17 Annie Oakleys.

Benny Baldwin was last among the regulars in hitting but garnered 19 walks to lead that parade with his .229 average.

Lettermen are Kren, L. Berrong, K. Berrong, Pentz, Reynolds, Boring, Buckley, Baldwin, Hamil and Neff. Only ones not to graduate were Kren and King Berrong, so Scot fans can assume that some pretty good players have left.

Intramurals....

On Monday afternoon after much delay, play will begin in the Intramural Touch Football League. Six teams had already been handed in on Thursday night with the prospect of having two or maybe three teams entered from Alpha Sigma and several from the freshman class.

Meeting Monday

At one on Monday, also, the first Intramural players and officials meeting will be held instead of on Tuesday. Rules will be discussed and explained. All Captains, Coaches, waterboys, and fans are urged to come to the meeting in Bartlett at one o'clock.

Sez You

Another yearly need that will have to be filled is that for officials. Last year after much hemming and hawing certain souls agreed to give up their spare time to call games of various sorts and so did. But after the first few months of the Intramural System, it began to seem that the same officials were calling games day in and day out without any relief. Not only do some of the fairer "sports" beef over the "same sorry old officials" but it is hard on those who so willingly give up their time for nothing but abuse from players and fans. Perhaps they get a pat on the shoulders from the Intramural manager or from some other team manager who has also been in the same plight, but they are few. Any and all persons interested in officiating any kind of Intramural Sport can see Dean Allison or Coach Johnson.

Six Setets. . .

Teams in already and their hoped-for "Coaches" are the ever strong YMCA under Joe McNeil; the Doormats under David Fosky; the razzy Bluejays of Joe Poland; Athenian Warriors who are led by Bob Kees; and the Pre-Ministerials. The Minnies who are expanding their zone of athletic operations under Chuck Gehagan are going to field two squads but as of new haven't picked names.

Schedule for the first three days of next week will be posted in Bartlett and Carnegie bulletin boards.

Point System Begins; Aerial Darts First

All girls interested in joining the Women's Point System are asked to meet in Mrs. Queener's office Tuesday at 3:30 for sign-up. As has been the cusotm for several years, girls will be either on the Chillies or Howies, and will strive to earn 300 or more points. Girls who earn over the minimum of 300 get an MC monogram; those topping the 400 mark get a letter; and any one fortunate enough to scale the heights of 500 points gets the grand-slam prize of a letter and sweater.

In a revamping of past schedules, aerial darts will open season on play. Any girls interested—and this includes freshmen—can see Mrs. Queener or Miss Clemens for further information.

Alpha Sigma Beats Athenian 7-2 In Annual "Beer Bottle" Game

Starting off the season's rivalry with a bang, Alpha Sigma's Blue and White tangled with Athenians Red and White and the former won, 7-2.

With the ball game tied up, 3-3, going into the seventh, Bill Shields let two Sigs get on only to allow a hot to Jim Kren good for two runs. Shields in the meantime split his big toe and walked three more men to force two more runs in. Ralph Thiesse then took of his mask and hurled one pitch to retire the side on a pop-up. Athenian went down in their half of the seventh and Alpha Sigma raised whoopee.

Umpire was Kennedy Garrison who called an exceptional game despite the foreseen handicaps of so doing.

SCOT SCRIMMAGE FIRST TIME, TODAY

Scot Thinlies Burning Bunions

Pearson's Ankle Broken

Coach Johnson's thin-clads were dealt another hard blow in the opening weeks of training with the loss of Neale Pearson, possibly for the season.

Pearson, who lettered on last year's undefeated cross-country team, returned to school with a swollen ankle which he thought was just a sprain. However, after trying to run on it for over a week he finally took to Coach Johnson's advice and had x-rays taken. They showed the lower tibia of Neale's right leg was fractured and a cast was immediately applied.

First One

Last week John Baird, another letterman from last year's squad, reported to Coach Johnson that he is under doctor's orders not to run. The loss of these two cut the squad to five returning lettermen.

Ain't Bad Tho . . .

The number of distancers out for this year's team was raised to eighteen with the addition of a sophomore and freshman this week. Dick Kerr, who looked very promising last year has rejoined the squad after reporting late at school. John Olson, a new student from Bristol, also joined the squad of hopefuls.

Footballers Knock Heads At Two

After two weeks of hard practice the 1950 edition of the Scotties will be on "sneak preview" this afternoon at two o'clock. The year's first scrimmage will be held on Wilson Field and will be open to the general public. Wilson Field is the old football field behind Thaw Hall.

Ten Pins . . .

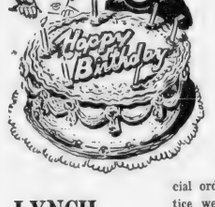
This year's qsuad was hard hit by graduation last spring and by service calls this fall. Only ten returning lettermen are on this year's squad against approximately thirty-five others with little, if any, college experience. The other twelve played a little on last year's squad or are transfer students.

Coaches Lombe Honaker and J. A. Davis have divided the candidates for this year's squad into five teams.

(1) The division of the squad for this classic is to be as follows: Center, H. Garren; Rg, Lester; Lg, Palmer; Rt, Larsen; Lt, Walker; Re, Keny; Le, Greaser; Qb, Berrong; Rh, Myers; Lh, Allen; and Fb, Sharp.

(2) Center, White; Rg, Proffitt; Lg, Isenberg; Rt, Hammond; Lt, Bender; Re, Callaway; Le, McMahan; Qb, Gibson; Rh, P. Merwin; Lh, Mirshak; and Fb, Vananda.

Reserves . . . . .



Other teams: (3) Center, Sullivan; Rg, D. Merwin; Lg, Myers; Rt, Rorex; Lt, Moore; Re, McClelland; Le, Cox; Qb, Alfred; Rh, Caldwell; Lh, King; and Fb, Glad. (4) Center, Allison; Rg, Monroe; Lg, Newberry; Rt, Wheeler; Lt, Cromwell; Re, Patton; Le, F. Garren; Qb, Kinser; Rh, Campbell; Lh, Yunkers; and Fb, Boyd.

(5) Center, Peppers; Rg, Hughes; Lg, Rusell R;e, Baldwin; Le, Gardner; Qb's, Haylock and Van Benthysen; Rh's, Sprague, Paynes and Buser; Lh's Gress and Ledbetter; and Fb, Squires.

Carson-Newman Pact, Town Night Proposal Discussed, Senate Chosen

Maryville student body will be allowed to attend the Maryville-Carson-Newman game to be held in Johnson City on November 11, it was agreed in Student Council's regular meeting Wedensday night in the Center. Again students are reminded of the pact made between the two governing student bodies which says that there be friendly rivalry and brands any activities which will cause destruction or disfigurement to either campus. This pact will run out this year but is subject to renewal by ratification by both student bodies, according to a statement made when the pact was signed two years ago.

It was agreed in Council to write a letter to C-N asking for such renewal.

One thousand copies of Town Night proposal were printed for distribution in chapel after a student body meeting following Thursday morning chapel. The agreement to be voted on had one change—that of leaving Dubby's Grill on Ellis Street outside of town night boundaries.

Dancing Rules

Council discussed several points of Intramural dancing which were of concern. Boys are requested to keep away from the doors when in the gym and to refrain from standing in groups on the side.

Loitering outside the Student Center before 9:30 is forbidden and students are urged to leave the Center in time to return to dorms by the 10:15 limit.

One town night violation was reported as a failure to sign in and the penalty of three weeks of suspended privileges was applied.

Student-Faculty Senate

Mary Wills, George Ogle, Jim Kren, and Louise Lloyd were elevated to positions on the Student-Faculty Senate by a secret ballot of council members.

Chilhowean Pictures Start September 18

Arrangements have been made with Skeet Talent Studio from Knoxville to take the student pictures for the Chilhowean. The pictures will be started on Monday, September 18.

All students are urged to get their pictures taken. The price will be $1 for four poses, as it has been in previous years. Copies are available at special rates.

Rogers Gets Locked In, Other MC'ers Lose Sanity-Employed or Unemployed!

By Sally Brown

Many times during these first few days of school the question, "What did you do this summer?" has been asked. Here are some of the replies MC students gave in answer to this question.

Although counselling at camps and waiting tables at resorts seem to have been the most popular job choices of Maryvillians, a few hardy souls departed from the commonplace and obtained summer jobs that were unusual and original.

Perhaps the most originality was shown by Jackie Kendall, freshman from Indianapolis, Ind. A worker in an RCA Victor Television plant, Jackie soddered lugs in television set chassis at the rate of 1,050 lugs per hour.

Sophomore Grace Cross of Birmingham, Ala., worked as a practical nurse in Charlanne School for children with cerebral palsy.

Tennessean Jim Watt harvested wheat in Kansas. Says Jim, "It sure was hot out there."

Barbara Rogers a sophomore of Reading, Pa. directed a city playground. She reports that the children's favorite amusement was locking her in the equipment shed.

Grace Myers of Girard, Pa. worked as assistant cook at a camp near her home. We hear that even though she served a backward supper (dessert first, so the main course could finish cooking) she has been invited back next year.

Freshman Marion Sue Heron of Homewood, Ill. held a clerical position with the International Council of Religious Education in Chicago. In her work, she was associated with Anna Szkaizawa, MC '48, and other inteersting persons of several nationalities.

Mental institutions seem to hold a grea tinterest for Maryville students. Junior Allan Caldwell of Cedar Rapids, Iowa was a psychiatric aide at Philadelphia State Hospital as were Ken Newell, Jerry Wheat, and Will Straatman. Janet Cummings of Maryville also worked in a mental hospital. They say it's "not catching". Bob Van Nest, senior from Dunellen, N. J., to use his own words, "worked and got engaged."

It seems that Mary Hamelman packed popsicles in an ice cream factory while Dick Dosker took to the soil for some landscape gardening. Hazel Holm, Lou Packard, Jane Jessup, '50, and Phyl Jackson wrestled with New York City's dead-end kids, doing settlement house work on the lower East Side.

Of course several students went to summer school: Rosalba Pascal, Laurie Dale, and Lucy Carrick, others being too numerous to mention. Various forms of unemployment likewise would be interesting to consider. It really seems that where summer jobs are concerned, the sky's the limit.

REV. YOST IS VESPER SPEAKER

Speaker at Vespers Sunday at 7:00 p.m. in the Library will be the Rev. Mr. Wilson H. Yost, Pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, Knoxville.

The Vesper Choir, under the direction of Harry H. Harter, will sing two anthems, "God's Son Hath Set Me Free," by Grieg; and "Let Thy Holy Presence," by Tschesnokof.

If you are driving up to an intersection where there are no stop signs or traffic signals, another car is approaching at the same time, you must let the other car go first if it is on the right.

be repeated at regular intervals throughout the year.

SUNDAY MEETINGS

Both Y meetings will feature a "Finding Your Place" program. Cabinet members will speak briefly on their specific departments and students will be given an opportunity to sign up for Y work for this year.

YW will meet in the Y rooms a t1:30 and YM will meet in Bartlett at the same hour. Refreshments will be served after YM's meeting.

Rush Week

light the big evening which will complete with blind dates for the new students.

Athenian-Bainonian Rush Week will draw to a climatic close tonight with the formal presentation of a musical comedy, "The Lady and the Pirate," written by Jim Dance and starring Helen Worrilow, David Reed, Gloria Measamer, and Wally Schroeder. Bainonian Rockettes will perform in a stove-pipe dance. The comedy will begin at 8:00 p.m. in the Alumni Gymnasium which has been made to resemble the inside of an old Pirate ship. Blind dates have been arranged for the new students.

Rush Week opened Monday afternoon when a Punch Party was held in Bainonian Hall for all freshmen and transfer women. Bainonian members dresed in Pirate costume provided the entertainment.

Wednesday night found crews of blue-jeaned students headed by a captain and first mate hunting hidden treasure in the College Woods.

Beverly Jacobi and Nannette Enloe, Bainonians, and Jim Dance and Tom Kees, Athenians, were chairmen of Rush Week. Peggy Sangster and Sally Kemp were in charge of the Punch Party and Betty Carroll and Ann Leeder were chairmen of the Treasure Hunt.

End Of Theta's Rainbow Closes '50 Rush Season

By Sally Brown

'Rainbow Visit'—

Tonight Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma will close their rush week with a formal extravaganza in the Alumni Gymnasium at 8 p.m.

A musical comedy, "A Visit To Rainbow Land," written and directed by Phyllis Jackson and starring Peggy Kettles and Bob Cuthill is the feature attraction. Dot Johnson and Tasker Robinette also appear in the play. Special music will be provided by Conrad Eaddy and Evalyn Smith, vocalists; Bill Selander, saxophonist; Charlie Flood, drummer; and Fred Seiber and Jody Richardson, pianists. Background music will be played by Carolyn Marshall.

Also scheduled are a specialty dance, "Stormy Weather," and the traditional Theta chorus, the "Rain Beaux."

Gracie Scruggs and Barbara Stidham were Theta rush week chairmen. Ginni Schwarz and Lucy Carrick had charge of the Fashion Show, and Nancy Ferguson planned the Splash Party. Committees for the formal were Wilma Borter, food and favors; Gerry Hopkins and Jim Kren, dates; J. A. Cameron, lighting; Betty Hunter, publicity.

First event of Theta rush week was a fashion show held in the Student Center on Monday night and attended by freshman women and their Theta "big sisters." Theta girls, some escorted by Alpha Sigs, modeled clothing for all occasions. Shown were school dresses, sports wear, dinner and evening dresses, coats, suits, jackets, and sleeping apparel.

Splashing

Theta's annual Splash Party was held in the college pool on Wednesday night. The program featured patter by Masters of Ceremonies Marilyn Edge and Tasker Robinette, a demonstration of swimming strokes, comedy diving by Dick Lane, and an Aquacade.

Participation in the water pageant which was climaxed by diving for a pot of gold, were Mary Kelton, Nancy Ferguson, Betty Hunter, Lesta Merrick, Diana Mirshak, Susie Watson, Gracie Scruggs, and Pat Walthall.

After the program, all Thetas and their guests enjoyed a swim in the pool.

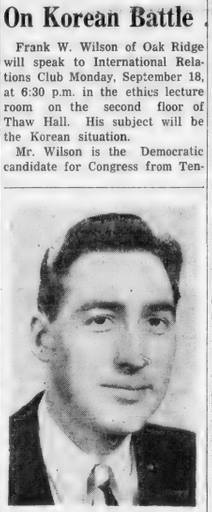
While Theta and the freshmen girls were getting wet, Alpha Sigma and the Freshmen men were getting acquainted at a "Hello Party" in Bartlett auditorium.

'High Seas'—

Climaxing a week-long "High Seas" adventure with a spectacular formal last Saturday evening, Athenian-Bainonian Rush Week chairmen presented a musical comedy written and directed by Jim Dance. Greeted by an enthusiastic audience, the comedy starred Joe Poland as Captain Silver, Arch Swarztrauber as Mr. Petister, Helen Worrilow as Estalita, Gloria Measmer as Crimson O'Toole, and Beverly Jacobi and Wally Schroeder as Sally Low and Marlin.

Choruses of Athenian-Bainonians provided specialty numbers. Rush Week chairmen were Beverly Jacobi and Nanette Enloe, Bainonians, and Tom Kees, Athenian. Set decoration was done by Ruth Nicolas, George Barber, and Tom Kees; date bureau was arranged by Edith Lancaster, Jack Rorex, Sally Kemp, and Tom Kees. Publicity for the week was by Mary Wilkes and Myrtle Watkins.

Punch And Hunt



Other activities of the week included a Monday punch party and a Wednesday night Treasure Hunt. In charge of these programs were Sally Kemp, Peggy Sangster, Betty Carroll, and Ann Leeder.

Officers of Theta and Alpha Sigma were guests of the societies at the formal as is the custom.

IRC Hears Wilson On Korean Battle

Frank W. Wilson of Oak Ridge will speak to International Relations Club Monday, September 18, at 6:30 p.m. in the ethics lecture room on the second floor of Thaw Hall. His subject will be the Korean situation.

Mr. Wilson is the Democratic candidate for Congress from Tennessee's second congressional district, which includes Anderson, Blount, Campbell, Knox, Loudon, Morgan, Roane Scott and Union counties.

FRANK WILSON

(Cut courtesy East Tennessee Labor News)

There will be an opportunity at Monday's meeting for old and new students to join IRC. Dues are one dollar a year, or 50 cents for one semester. Arda S. Walker, assistant professor of economics, is club adviser.

Officers are Dick Newman, president; Bob Brown, vice-president; Elenor Kramer, secretary; Neale Pearson, treasurer; and Ed Scott, publicity chairman.

Theatre Try Outs Held Monday; New Dates Scheduled

Experimental Theatre play tryouts will be held Monday, September 18, in Bartlett Hall from 2 to 4 p.m., Playhouse director Kathleen Craven announced yesterday.

Two plays to be given Friday, October 6, instead of originally planned date of September 29, are "Aria De Copo," by Edna St. Vincent Millay and "The Man Who Died at Twelve O'Clock," by Paul Green. The first one is a rather serious drama in contrast to the second which presents light comedy.

Casts for the Millay drama includes four men and one woman and for the Green play two men and one woman. Interested students are asked to sign up for production jobs at the same time of tryouts.

Date Changes

Miss Craven has also announced two other date changes for scheduled productions this fall. "Our Town," Maryville Playhouse's first big staging will be held on Thursday and Friday nights, October 26 and 27. Previously scheduled dates were in conflict with Homecoming festivities.

Kay-Landstrom Marry

Janice Landstrom, ex-'51, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Landstrom of McKeesport, Pa., and Bob Kay, MC '50, were married September 8 at the First Presbyterian Church of Fanwood, N. J.

The former Miss Landstrom was active in M Club and Theta Epsilon while in college and Kay was a member of the track team and Alpha Sigma. The couple will live in Passaic, N.J. while she finishes her senior year in college.

Which Do You Choose?

Presidents of the four societies urge all new students to "pledge" to the society of their choice next Tuesday. Tables for signing up with Theta Epsilon and Bainonian will be placed in Thaw lobby during class hours and in Pearsons lobby before and after meals.

Alpha Sigma and Athenian tables will be in front of Pearsons Hall before and after meals.

Hours for balloting will be from 8:30 a.m. to 6:45 p.m. Tentative plans are being made now to install new members on Friday night, September 22.

Pep Rally To Open New Grid Season

Football's first Pep Rally will officially open the 1950 season at 6:45 Friday night, September 22, on the athletic field. Jim Townsend, newly elected chairman of Pep Committee, will introduce the cheerleaders and Coach Honaker. Traditionally Honaker will present members of '50 Highlanders squad individually.

Appropriate music will be under the direction of Curtis Hughes and the band will make its initial appearance.

Students are urged to take part in the snake dance through Maryville's main district on Saturday, September 23, in the afternoon. Both cheerleaders and the band will be on hand for this event.

News Capsules—

RESIGNATION

Defense Secretary Johnson resigned last Tuesday, explaining that it was to "promote national and international unity". He had, he said, "made more enemies than friends". Gen. George C. Marshall, recommended by Mr. Johnson as his successor, will be appointed to the position by President Truman as soon as the present law concerning this office is amended by Congress. The law states that the appointment of any commissioned officer who has been in active military service within ten years is prohibited.

REGISTRATION

The Senate, by a vote of 70 to 7, passed a bill requiring registration of all Communist and related groups, it was announced this past week. The bill, which would summarily intern, in the event of emergency, all potential spies or saboteurs will not be signed. President Truman has stated, by him in its present form.

United Nations forces are advancing by means of several local attacks along the Koreon front, it has been announced. The enemy's weakened resistance has resulted in considerable gains, especially in the Yongchon area.

PREPARATION

Allied Big Three began talks this week as to preparation for the defense of Western Europe against a Soviet attack. The discussion opened with a review of European problems and the world situation. Sub-committees have been appointed to work on specific problems.

Juniors Choose Jacobi New Veep

Beverly Jacobi, Elementary Education major from Point Pleasant, New Jersey, was elected vice-president of the junior class. Student Council representative to replace Ralph Thiesse is Charles Holsinger, biology major from Latrobe, Pennsylvania.

Marilyn Edge, senior sociology major from Dover, New Jersey, was elected house vice-chairman of Pearsons. Elected secretary-treasurer of Pearsons was Lena McGaha, junior biology major from Newport.

Sunday Schools Meet, Select New Officers

The First Methodist Sunday School will meet tomorrow with Don Stilwell as devotional leader and C. C. Chamberlain as the teacher of the college class. George Day will be the song leader.

The Broadway Methodist college class will be led by the program chairman, Morna Ruth Wright. The other officers who have just been elected are Frank Morton, president; Tom Kees, vice-president; Mary Kennedy, secretary-treasurer; and Myrtle Watkins and Bob Sprague, recreation chairmen.

The devotional service at the Presbyterian Sunday Schol will be led by the Crusader Class, Bob Proffitt, president. As a result of last Sunday's election, the new officers of the College Class are Andy Clark, president; Pat Lewis, vice-president; and Van Holland, secertary-treasurer.

MSO Will Elect Six To Council

Men's Student Organization ratified the MSO constitution and nominated members for its coordinating council, Thursday after chapel. Voting will take place at Thaw and Pearsons Wednesday, September 20.

Half of those nominated from each group are to be elected. For the first time, men will vote only for the representative from the classification of which they are a part. "Men living on campus will vote for just 'dormitory' nominees," explained Student Council vice-president Jim Kren.

Those nominated are Dick Dosker, Bill Morse, Tom Kees, Charley Flood, Van Holland, Bill Varker, Xen Motsinger, and Bill Menges, dormitory;

Walt Lang, and Jim Darroch, off-campus transient; Bill Shields and Henry Heaps, off-campus permanent.

Frosh Meeting

Junior girls living in Pearsons elected Joy Hayes to WSGA coordinaitng council last week.

Carol Corbett, chairman of WSGA, anounces a meeting of all freshman girls set for Monday night, September 18, with a tentative meeting place as Bartlett auditorium.

Chilhowean Group Photos Scheduled

Chilhowean editor Lynn Miller has posted schedules of group pictures to be taken for the '51 annual. Picture-taking will begin on Monday, September 18, and places are to be announced.

Time announced is subject to change: Monday, September 18, at 10:30 a.m., Junior class officers; 11 p.m., Chilhowean editorial and business staffs; 1 p.m. YMCA cabinet and officers;

Tuesday, September 19, at 1 p.m., YWCA cabinet and officers; 2:30 p.m., sophomore class officers; 3 p.m., Pi Gamma, 3:30 p.m., Chilhowean editor and business manager;

Wednesday, September 20, 11:30 a.m., Student Vols; 1 p.m., Athenian; 3:30 p.m., Theta Epsilon.

Thursday, September 21, 10:30 a.m., Student Council; 11 p.m. MSO Coordinating Council; 1 p.m. Bainonian; 1:30 p.m. senior class officers; 2 p.m., Alpha Sigma.

Each member of these groups is urged to be present as there will be no retakes. The photographer is from out of town and is scheduled to take group pictures only on days listed.

Pat Love Marches As Band Sponsor

Theta President Chosen In Election Last Week

Pat Love will march with the 1950-51 Highlander band as its sponsor at the first football game of the season against Hiwassee, September 23. Miss Love a senior education major from Townsend, was elected Band Sponsor last week from candidates of the four societies by the members of the band. She will be presented and will march at halftime with the band.

PAT LOVE

Miss Love is president of Theta Epsilon this semester and was historian of Future Teachers of America in her junior year. She has also been a May Day attendant, a member of the Daisy Chain and chairman of several Barnwarming committees in other years.

The band has an eight man front line-up and consists of fifty four playing pieces. It will continue to use the fast stepping pace which was initiated last year.

Formations

At half time, band members will put on some entrance maneuvers and march in a double spiral. Miss Love will be presented after the band forms a heart shape and plays, "For Me and My Gal." Other special formations include an "H" honoring the visiting team, Hiwassee; a football formation with a large "M" in the middle and a pennant with "M" saluting our own team, the Scotties.

Half-time ceremonies will close traditionally with the singing and playing of the Alma Mater.

Kilted Majorettes

Drum Major Charles Williams will lead the band followed by George Carpenter, Baton Twirler, and Ruthie Garst, Phyllis West, Jean Davis, and Peggy Kettles, as majorettes. Band members will wear white as in former years. Majorettes will wear their kilt-like uniforms of white flannel and Scotch plaid.

Leading the student body in cheers will be the eight member cheer squad of Arch Swarztrauber, Martha Coyner, Joe Poland, Peggy Hurst, Tom Kees, Virginia Davenport, Bob Kees, and Carolyn Sloan.

Sally Kemp has replaced Cora Anthony on the 1950 Pep Committee.

Barker, Franklin Lead; Japan To Be Vols Topic

Student Volunteers program for tomorrow night will feature Robert Barker and Kathleen Franklin. Miss Franklin, a Wellesley College senior, will give exerts from the letters of her father, Rev. Samuel Horace Franklin, Jr. Rev. Franklin served as a missionary in Japan for a number of years and is a graduate of Maryville. Rev. Mr. Barker, the son of Dr. Lincoln Barker of the college faculty and Mrs. Barker, who has been serving under the three year short term missionary plan in Japan, is to supplement the program with slides taken during his stay.

Willard Rahn will deliver the invocation and benediction, with Carole Demler and Trudy Singleton reading the scripture and leading the prayer. The meeting will be held in Bartlett Auditorium after Vespers.

Dr. Turner To Lead Synod Group at MC

A special committee of the Synod of Mid-South on planning and strategy in higher education will meet at Maryville Thursday, September 21.

Chairman is the Rev. Dr. Herman L Turner, pastor of Covenant Presbyterian Church, Atlanta, and an MC director. President Ralph W. Lloyd is also a member.

Fred Hope Appeal Begins Thursday As Merwin Speaks

Rev. Wallace C. Merwin, recently returned from China, will open the annual Fred Hope Fund appeal in chapel, Thursday, September 21, as the guest speaker. For the third year money pledged to this fund will go to support Mary Edna Smith, '48 graduate, who after completing college was sent to China as a special term missionary under the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

Amount needed for this year totals $1500; total pledged and given in 1949-50 school year was $1622.30. This amount was pledged by approximately two-thirds of the students enrolled.

Plans for the appeal were made by the Fred Hope Fund Board in a meeting September 11 of this year although it was not learned until Thursday afternoon by telegram that Rev. Merwin would be here as speaker. Board members are President Lloyd and officers of the administration along with presiednts of YMCA, YWCA, Student Volunteers, and Student Council.

Two Years At MC

Mr. Merwin took two years of his college work at Maryville but graduated from University of Louisville where he transferred in '27. In '31 he went to China where he has been one of the leading missionaries both during and after the war. Recently he served as secretary on the China Council at its headquarters in Shanghai. President Lloyd visited with Rev. Wallace in 1946 in Peking on his trip to China.

Two sons, Donald and Paul Merwin, are students at Maryville College now and are active in athletics. Paul is vice-president of the sophomore class.

Chapel Program

In addition to the address there will be brief statements by two of the students on the fund's board. Pledge cards will be distributed and collected. Mrs. Kenneth P. Johnson will again be the treasurer of the fund and her Anderson office will be the place for payment or pledging of funds.

Last year individual gifts ranged from $75 to one dollar. This fund is the principle means Maryville has in supporting work abroad.

Nu Gamma To Give Skit at YW; YMs See Religious Film

YWCA Sunday program will be in charge of the Nu Gamma leaders at 1:30 p.m. in the Y rooms. A skit, showing the development of Nu Gamma and its progress through the years will be presented following the devotional on "Friendship."

YM Sees Film

"Walking With God," a Cathedral film, will be shown at YMCA tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. in Bartlett auditorium. Those taking part in the program are Bob Kress, scripture reading and prayer; and Al Shakely, invocation and benediction. Jim Lester and Del Poling, program co-chairmen, urge all men to come out and see this film.

Drama on WGAP

Monday evening at 9:30 p.m. Y Radio program will air "The Good Soldier," a drama, over local station WGAP. A quartet will present a special hymn feature. Barbara Blum, Dave Reed, and Bill Starr are in charge of arrangements.

Alpha Sig At Thaw, 6:15

Alpha Sigma will meet tonight in Thaw 214 at 6:15 for a short business meeting.

Your Choice—

Tonight's Theta-Alpha Sig Formal brings to a climax two weeks of rush week activities. Perhaps it is best we pause for a few minutes and ask ourselves—just what do the societies do, what purpose have they, and what can I contribute as a member?

With the possible exeception of the "Y," the societies are the oldest organizations on campus. Athenian was founded in 1868; Bainonian, 1875; Alpha Sigma, 1884; and Theta Epsilon, 1894.

They were organized to present a varied and interesting program—educational, cultural, and entertaining—and to afford active participation in athletic activities. Each of the four societies meets on Saturday evenings, following supper.

In addition to the rush weeks each year, the societies participate in the Annual Skit Contest, hike in the mountains, go to barbeques, picnics, and banquets; and do a variety of other activities.

Joining the society of your choice is one of the better parts of College life. When you do join a society, be an active member who is willing to help out in work, as well as in play, and attend the meetings!

Game Fever—

Upperclassmen well remember a few of the pre-game and post-game rallies last season during which some pretty high enthusiasm reigned. The battle cry very often was "Let's Go To Town!" Such high game fever resulted in big boosts of campus morale and dorm-dwellers set the rafters ringing.

It is not my aim to advocate such action nor condemn it. It is my intention to recall some of that spirit so that we may relive it in this next week. Our first big Pep Rally will be staged this coming Friday night and public pressure if not school loyalty should find every hill-occupant over a tthe Athletic field. Pepsters chosen are well-qualified to inject an explosive spark into everyone—both cheerleaders and Pep committee members though need co-operation. There should be no need for urging or requests for co-operation to a student body who have already demonstrated what effect the name of "Scots" has on them. In itself, "Scots" is a war whoop.

Our team might well be dubbed the "Surprise Team" of the year at the end of the season. Loss of lettermen through graduation or to Uncle Sam should not affect seriously the cheer-spirit of campusites . It is our duty to ring the cow-bells, blow the bugles, and shake the heavens with our shouts of "Crash on through that line; get that point; or fight, fight, fight!"

Undoubtedly Friday night will find the student body one hundred percent strong behind the team.

Student Self-Help

If you girls find a varied wardrobe means added expense, take a tip from Miss Blair. She's taken up textile painting as a hobby.

Results: One navy blue blouse with a diagonal spray of dogwood blossoms.

Class-room lectures bore you?

Curve marking systems floor you? Line forms to the right for Drama 309A or Physics 205DL. Enrollment in each totals only two students. For variety there is German 318A with an enrollment of three. (Psst! There is at least one class with an enrollment of only one, but we're not supposed to tell.)

Anderson Antics

Antiquated Anderson is not to be outdone in competition with the FAC for the title of "World's Most Distinguished Building." The new English classrooms are now replete with green blackboards and yellow chalk. Dick Nystrom stood face to face with the aesthetic arrangement for several days before he noticed something was wrong. It was the yellow chalk.

It's this way.

One pre-school music student was heard to say to another as they passed the college safe, "Gee, look at the jail."

Unclassified

It's a wonder there's any gold left at the end of the Alpha-Sig, Theta Epsilon rainbow since the Athenian-Bainonian pirates have finished their cruise.

Faces in Chapel:

The sleeply ones that Dr. Lloyd greeted for the first time, and the saddened faces of those who had to relinquish the choice seats in the senior section.

Have you seen Lamar's Grandma lately?

Having been placed near such hot books as Atomic Energy, Jet Propulsion, Television, etc. I don't blame her for having a surprised look on her face. P.S. Don't forget to pull the string.

Personalities

Phyl Jackson: Oh, don't worry about the draft, you're Pre-min. They can't touch you.

Sports Section

If all our cross country men can get in the training that Neale Pearson has been getting on those crutches for the past few days—Olympics, here we come. And his chapel seat is way up, too.

Frustation Personified:

Oscar Of The Year:

Wanted: adivce to bewildered frosh about which society to join—"they all get us dates!"

Congrats, Stanfill

Undoubtedly the first MC man to run for vice house chairman of Pearsons, George Stanfill received one lone vote in last Tuesday and Wednesday's balloitng. Evidentally some well-wisher had George's better interests at heart—thanks anyway from "Cute 'n' Curly."

Send That Woman Home

While Alpha Sigs were "hello-ing" with new students in Bartlett Hall, Joe Poland burst out with "get that woman home" when the strains of "Goodnight, Irene," came floating into student council meeting.

It was Our Joe again who made the announcement that all students connected with student-faculty orientation program for frosh would meet him at 1:30 Monday night in the Student Center. Not if Ralph can stop you, Joe!

TALK OF THE WEEK ——Reprint

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

Previewing

Movie-minded town-nighters will find "Father of the Bride" as the feature attraction at the Capitol Theatre this Tuesday night.

"Father of the Bride," an MGM comedy, stars Spencer Tracy, Joan Bennett and Elizabeth Taylor. Although packed with big names, the show is not all that might be expected. Working with very slim material indeed, director Vincente Minelli did a fair job of brightening up the sequence wtih clever detail. The screenplay begins with Stanley Banks (Spencer Tracy), triumphant but badly battered man, surveying the dawn and the debris of his daughter's wedding reception. The flashbacks reveal clearly just how Mr. Banks and his menage got in this condition.

Mrs. Banks (Joan Bennett) had not prepared Mr. Banks for the preposterous news that his baby daughter, Kay (Elizabeth Taylor), was seriously considering marriage with one of her unremmemberable boy friends—the one called Buckley.

There were a lot of things Mr. Banks wasn't prepared for, from his awkward preliminary "talk" with the prospective bridegroom and the terrifying ordeal of meeting Buckley's parents through all the harassments, indignities, and expenses that ultimately found him quivering at the ominous nuptial music.

In the final analysis, it is a story of a defenseless, ordinary man caught up in events far greater than himself, and as that man ,Tracy sparks "Father of the Bride" with a sure comedy performance.

Reviewing

It seems as though the New Book table in Lamar Memorial Library should please students in almost all major fields this week. English majors will find several volumes of poetry. Among them are Herman Manville's "Collected Poem,s" John Drinkwater's "Victorian Poetry," and "Poems" by Christopher Smart. Also for the literary minded are Thomas Landsbury's "Early Literary Career of Robert Browning" and "A History of 19 Century Literature" by Saintsbury.

"Opportunities in Selling" by Metz and "Light Metals Monopoly" will attract business-minded individuals and Home Economics majors will want to see "A Cyclopedia of Costume" by Planche.

For those interested in art there is "Masterpieces of Sculpture From the National Gallery of Art." History majors will find Rand's "Founders of the Middle Ages" and students of sociology and education should notice "Parents and Children Go To School" by Baruch, and Baron's "The Jewish Community."

Lancaster's "French Tragedy in the Time of Louis XV and Voltaire" and a "History of German Literature" by Calvin Thomas as hold interest for students of foreign languages.

●THE OUTLOOK FROM HERE—

I suppose you all know that this year will be a mighty tough season for our Scots. Every team on the schedule will be twice as hard to bowl over this year because we have a young team which lacks the most needed quality, experience. But we can't count them out, and there is a chance that they might be the surprise team of the year in this section of the country.

Scrimmages have shown that the team is full of pep and fight. The backs look good, though at present it seems as though we might be weak again in the offensive passing department. From here the line, except the guard position, is the question mark. There are some standout lettermen back on the line, but a team is only as good as its reserves, and that's the question mark. There is some good weight in the freshman and sophomore classes that might plug up those gaps, but, as yet, it lacks the punch and experience to give the bench that needed power that makes a team great.

Th team might be a real surprise this year, or it might be a complete flop. There is one thing we all can do to help in its becoming the former. That is to support the Pep Committee at pep rallies and to really yell at the games.

Jim Townsend and his colleagues on the committee are really digging into their job of planning rallies, etc. It's up to us to make the best use of their plans, to show the team that we appreciate what they are doing for us, and to show them that we are behind them one hundred per cent.

You fans who were here last year probably remember the lack of spirit prevailing on the campus at first. Towards the end of the season the student body suddenly brought out a lot of pep, and really displayed it before the Western North Carolina game. The boys took the spirit out on the field with them along with the roll of the underdog and surprised all by coming out on top of a 20-13 count.

But even in this contest after the first half the cheering took a decided lull. This second half dieoff was a usual procedure at Scot games. This year we hope that you fans will cheer not only during the first half but during the whole game down to the last seconds.

A fine show of spirit might contribute greatly to more upsets this year. So let's give a Howee-Howee and yell like——bells, continually ringing out their message.

●SPEAKING OF CO-OPERATION,

Coach Johnson has an excellant intramural system set up for this year, but it will need plenty of co-operation among those participating in this fine program. Such things as referees and score-keepers are always needed. Intramural manager Dean Allison is the man to see if you want to help out, and we hope you do.

●WE SEE that our friend Pete Norton carried in his column, The Morning After, in the September 8 Tampa Tribune, some excerpts from Neale Pearson's column last week. Norton, one of the better known sport writers to us from that section of the country, wrote a column on the old General from UT, Bob Neyland, and his tactics there in Florida. It seems, according to Norton, that three of UT's beter players in the present and past were "stolen" from the University of Florida, including Harold Payne from Pensacola. We might add to Norton's list the name of another Florida boy, Jim Haslem, whom UF would have loved to have, but the old General got him too. Haslem should be one of UT's standout linesmen this year. We thank Pete Norton for his airing of our difficulties; it goes to show you that Maryville isn't the only "proving ground" for UT athletes.

●BIG NEWS from Coach Johnson this week is that this year's tennis co-captains are Chesley Anderson and Clyde McCampbell. Congratulations go to these two swell tennis men. Chesley held down the number two spot last year while Clyde was ineligible because of scholastic difficulties. However, Clyde held the number three spot the year before last.

●HERE'S A BARGAIN you non-students can't miss. For only seven (7) dollars you can get reserved seats to all five home contests of the Maryville Scotties. How can you afford to turn down an offer like that!

Athenians Trip Golphers

Athenians and Golphers opened play in the Intramural Touch Football Leagues Monday and the Athenian team came out on top, 12-0. Ray Rose threw to Bill Varker for the first score and Chuck Holsinger intercepted a pass for the second score. Both points after touchdown were missed.

Shaeffer Stars

In the twilight game Monday, Chuck Gehagan of the Pre-Ministerials II pulled a fuzzy out of his hat in the personage of Ken Shaeffer and that individual's play won the game. Shaeffer went in for the Minnies in the last period with the score tied at nothing-nothing and snagged two passes to put the Minnies in scoring position and then topped that off by pulling in another pass in the flats for a touchdown. The kick for extra point was blocked.

Owls-Puritans Tie

Piling a team onto the field at the last moment, Bobs Wainer and Schwoebel managed to squeeze out a 6-6 tie with the Athenian Owls. Both teams scored in the initial period and after that the game was a standstill with neither team making a scoring drive. Bob Brown scored the Owls tlaly on a pass. The Puritans putting of a team into the league necessitated a breaking up of the league into two divisions and two games Alpha Sigma Woodmen—Pre-Ministerial I and Bluejay—YMCA were not counted.

Minnows Cut Down

In the second game Tuesday, the Alpha Sigma Woodmen managed to score on a short pass from Donnie Young to Gene Bartlett to trip the Pre-Ministerials number I but the splitting up of the league cancelled their win.

Y Ties

YMCA and the Bluejays battled to a 0-0 tie in the opener but neither team could push within the other's 10 yard line. One thing which undoubtedly hurt YMCA was the loss of Hugh Hamil midway in the game because of a cut-up knee.

Scots Tops, 6-0

Alpha Sigma took advantage of a break Wednesday and its Scotties went on to win over the Redmen, 6-0. Jimmy Townsend scooped up a fumbled punt and ran 30 yards for the TD. A pass for the extra point was too wide. Another outstanding play of the game which almost figured in the scoring was that turned in by the Sigs' Dick Erickson. Erickson on a bad pass from center recovered the ball some 15 yards behind scrimmage line and with excellent blocking picked up the lost yardage plus some thirty yards before he was driven out on the Redmen 15.

Mighty Men Masters

In Thursday's lid-lifter, Bluejays clamped the lid down tight on Alpha Sig's under-manned and under-talented Highlanders to win going away, 27-0. Favored from the opening boot, the Bluejays first hit paydirt on passes from Tom Yeaworth to Frank Farmer. Tom Yeaworth kicked the first of three extra points and the Jays set out to raise the score. Which they did!

Schedule

Schedule for next week as follows with first game at 3:40 and the second at 4:35. Monday—Golphers vs. Alpha Sig Woodsmen; Athenian Owls vs. A-S Scotties. Tuesday—Redmen vs. Pre-Min. I; Athenian vs. Alpha Sig Highlanders. Wedesnday—Blue Jays vs. Golphers; and YMCA vs. Puritans. Thursday—Redmen vs. Athenian Owls; and Alpha Sig Woodmen vs. Pre-Min. II. Friday—Any rained out or postponed games will be played on this day.

Referees Worth 100 Points

Before we go into a listing of the Intramural Touch Football rules, we have been reminded by Intramural Manager Dean Allison that for each man volunteering to officiate two games a week 100 points will be added to his total pointage. This is to go for other sports also and a man could pick up 500 points by refereeing in each of the five major league events of the Intramural year.

Also on the docket is the usual meeting Tuesday at one in Bartlett to go over the rules and to hash out old business.

Y Slaughters Minnies

The league's other strongie, YMCA, beat the Pre-Ministerials I, 24-0. George Stanfill and his mates weren't handicapped by Hugh Hamil's absence but played on and filled the air full of passes. Charles Williams caught two to lead the scoring honors for the day. Xen Montsinger and Thad Godwin tallied the other two.

No games were played Friday.

The Standings for the two leagues as follows:

Orange League	W	L	T	Pct.
Bluejays	1	0	0	1.000
Athenians	1	0	0	1.000
Pre-Mins. I	1	0	0	1.000

Intramural Football Rules

1. The game shall consist of two fifteen minute halves, with the clock stopped only for official time outs and during the last minute of play when the ball is grounded on say a forward pass or when the man runs out of bounds.

2. Each team shall be allowed two time outs per half save in the last minute of play.

3. Overtime—In case of a tie score, each team shall be given four downs, with the team last in possession of the ball starting on their own 20 yard line. If the first team does not score in their four downs, the defensive team shall take the offensive for four downs on their own 20. The team making the most points, or if no points are made, gaining the most yardage in its four downs shall be the winner. This play shall continue till a winner is established.

4. a.—The game shall be played by two teams of seven men each, 15 men to a squad offense—3 man line, 4-man backfield.

b.—Substitutes may be put into the game at any time.

c.—When three (3) minutes of the game remain, the time keeper will inform the referee who will call time and notify the two teams.

d.—Players may not wear regular football uniforms. They must wear tennis or basketball shoes.

5. The Kickoff:

a.—The kickoff shall be from the 20-yard line.

b.—Three players of the receiving team must remain outsied of their 30 yard line until the ball is kicked.

c.—An out-of-bounds kick is kicked over.

6. The Scrimmage:

a.—To keep possession of the ball and score first downs, a team must advance the ball from one zone to another.

b.—When the ball is snapped there may be three or more defensive players on the line of scrimmage.

c.—All players are eligible to receive passes.

d.—Lateral passes and backward passes are free balls which may be recovered by either side and advanced. Ground fumbles may be recovered and advanced by either team.

Pay 'Tention

7. Conduct of the Players.

a. The offense is halted when the player carrying the ball is tagged with both hands by the defensive players.

b. Players may NOT use their feet to block.

c. There shall be no "cussing" or else the team whose player committed the offense shall be penalized 15 yards.

8. The Referee shall enforce all the Maryville College Intramural Rules as well as the touch football rules.

9. Penalties.

a. 5 yards-off sides, backfield in motion, not having the right number of men in their right positions (i.e. having less than three on the offensive line), having too many men on the field, and having too many time outs.

b. 15 yards unnecessary roughness, flying block, unclean language (and this means you)

c. Interference on passes shall deem that the ball be placed where the infraction occurred. Talking back to the officials shall cost 15 yards, also.

Time Trials For Cross Country

Day "Quits" For Studies

Another letterman, George Day has dropped out of cross-country this season. This brings the total to three out of the seven original lettermen to have quit the squad.

Day dropped out in order to keep up with his classes. John Baird and Neale Pearson were the other two that have quit the team both because of physical difficulties.

Time Trials Due

Time trials are scheduled for next Friday across the 3.2 mile regulation course consisting of two laps around the new track, the treak through the college woods, and two more laps around the track. To get into shape for their time trials the distancers have been running a warm-up mile and then taking a short 4.2 mile jaunt (without stopping) to improve their endurance.

Minor injuries plagued the time during the past week, but at press-time everyone was seemingly in good shape. Jim Thurston was bothered with a sprained ankle most of the week but kept plugging away and at last report was feeling much improved.

15 Still Have Character

Those still out are: (lettermen) Jim Thurston. Ric Rogers, Bill Menges and Del Earisman; (non-lettermen) Dave Helwig, Dick Kerr, Tom Kelly, Davis Smith, Billy Clarke, Ken Lake, Harold Black, Hugh Walker, Jack Maxwell, Dave Williams, and Albert McCullough. Coach Johnson reported that the new men looked good but that time trials would tell the tale.

Footballers Off Today After Bloodletting

The Scots held a scrimmage yesterday on old Wilson Field in their final practice of the week. (As this paper goes to press on Friday it was necessary to assume that the scrimmage was held). Line Coach J. A. Davis reported that the team had worked hard this week and deserved a week-end off. The team has been steadily improving as of late and it was felt that the boys could use Saturday to their advantage.

Keny Cracks Finger

Babe Keny suffered the only major injuries of the week when he broke his little finger in practice. Keny is a letterman and plays an end post.

Hiwassee Next Week

Next week The Scots meet their first foes of the season when Hiwassee invades the new Field. The Scots have a down-through-the-years total against Hiwassee of ten wins and only one loss. Last year the Scots downed the Tigers 47-6. The Scots went on to run up a 5-5 record for the year.

Split T For Two

Coach Honaker has the team running from a split-T formation which Coach Davis and he started this spring. Coach Davis also attended a coaching clinic held by Coach "Bud" Wilkinson of the University of Oklahoma who has used the split-T very successfully the past few years.

Orange Peels Garnet

Last week's scrimmage saw the Orange team score a 21-7 victory over the Garnet team. Two of the top plays of the day were made by King Berrong and Charlie Allen. Berrong completed a 45-yard touchdown pass and Allen scooted for a 50-yard touchdown run. The Orange team scored on a blocked kick for their other score.

Rules Changed On Center Equipment

Arrangements for the use of Stuednt Center equipment were changed by the Social Board at its Wednesday meeting. New rules, listed below, are effective Monday, September 18.

For the use of the public address system, a rental fee of $2., paid in advance, will be charged. The board will provide an operator.

For the use of a card table and other small equipment, a rental fee of ten cents a day will be charged. A one dollar deposit is required, and this will be returned minus the rental fee.

These meausres were taken "to protect the equipment and to safeguard the best interests of the student body as a whole," according to a board release.

EPISCOPALIANS HEAR FORD

William H. Ford, associate professor of economics and business administration, will speak to St. Andrew's Episcopal college class tomorrow morning at 9:30 a.m.

His topic is "What Should Be the Christian's Attitude Toward War?" the second of four class meetings considering that subject.

Gillette-Lagerfeldt Wed

MC grad George Gillette, '48, was married to Jeannette Lagerfeldt last Saturday, September 9, in Iron Mountain, Mich., at the First Presbyterian Church with Dr. McConaughy officiating.

Gillette is a senior at Princeton Theological Seminary this year. While at Maryville he was a member of the Vesper Choir and varsity track team.

YM-Frosh Go To Woods

YM sponsored freshmen-faculty get-to-gether will be held tonight in the college woods. The group will meet in front of Thaw at 5 p.m. and go to the woods from there.

New men students are urged to attend.

INFORMATION

Alumni office requests information concerning Maryville graduates from students in order to help with the compilation of the October 1950 edition of the Alumni magazine. News concerning marriages, births, deaths, or items of interest should be turned into the Anderson office.

Students are asked to cooperate in this matter.

CHECK THAT FRESHMAN— Watch Him Grow Through Four Years

Behold— check the Maryville College freshmen! They came by ones, by twos, by droves. Some come by train, automobile, and bus. They arrived as individuals, and will leave still more individualistic; but in each case there is a certain metamorphosis.

Freshmen— some 300 strong. And of this group there are always a few who typify some certain types into which all of them fall during the first few weeks of their stay on the campus. Here are some you will easily recognize:

Hillbilly—Up from the country, he is the farm's contribution to higher education. He might make a good cheerleader; all summer he's been hollerin' "Let's go team." His will be a big itme at college and he will get a lot out of it because he will put a lot into it.

Football— Brawn and more brawn (very rare). He slapped a 6 ft. 210 lb. figure on his application blank, got a letter from the coach, and reported in early September to "do or die" for the Scotties. Usually a good natured, likeable fellow; college wouldn't be complete without him.

Timid, shy, and bashful (homesick—Wonders why he ever came to such a place. No refrigerator to go to once in a wihle; no rug on the floor; and his roommate is for Truman. Poor boy—everything is against him. He wishes with all his heart that he were home with ma and pa. Being forced to wait in endless lines doens't help his case any either. He'll probably stick it out, but right now he doubts it.

Bookworm—He was probably valedictorian of the local graduating class. The curse of the less studious, he will end up with a grade point average that will pale 9.0. A wizard—he will undoubtedly be drafted into Alpha Gamma Sigma if he stays here that long (and he will). His essay "In accuracies in Shakespeare" won the gold medal in high school and he chose Maryville because he wants to turn the same stuff in for Special Studies. After graduation he will probably be a filling station operator or a drug store clerk.

Wise Guy—He's doing the college a favor to come here. If you don't believe it, ask him—he admits it. Within a few weeks he intends to really start out and tour the country. Studies are not important to him because he is already too smart to learn anymore. Unless he changes, he's good for about one semester—or less.

Podunk Center—Podunk Center isn't very large; about 150 inhabitants in all. College looks like a pretty impressive place to him. But he is worried; he doesn't know where to buy his mattress covers, books, on chapel seat. He likes the Hill though and goes from one end of the campus to othe with an ever gaping, astonished expression on his face.

City Slicker—Just the opposite o fhis Podunk Center contemporary. He looks on college as a necessary evil and figures that one school is as good as another. He is usually pretty serious about his education. He wants to get the stuff and get into the so-called great beyond of the business world.

So there they are—seven types that will emerge four years hence (or some of them will at least) as Maryville exes. But four years won't change them much. Not basically although the veneer may be somewhat different and the edges might be a little more polished than now.

You may be discouraged at times; you may occasionally think that the bottom has fallen out of things. There will probably even come the time when you will want to call the whole deal quits and return to the home field. But all in all you'll find your college career one of the best periods of your life-time.

Season Football Tickets On Sale

Season tickets to Maryville's five home games are now on sale to the general public at the Athletic office in Bartlett or at Byrne's Drug Store in town. The tickets sell for seven dollars and entitle their holders to reserved seats between the 40-yard lines.

General admission charged at the gate will be $1.25 for each game and tickets wil lbe sold at the gate.

The Men's M Club and the Women's M Club will also be selling season tickets. Student activity cards entitle all MC students entrance to each home game.

Ticket prices will be announced later for the Carson-Newman game which MC students will attend in a conclave if enough wish to attend.

NOTICE

All freshmen and sophomores who are interested in trying out for positions on the editorial staff of the Echo are urged to see the editor in the Echo office afternoons from 2:30 to 5 p.m. There are still vacancies and students are reminded that previous experience is not essential.

The New WAF Look

DRESSED in the latest "new look" for the Women's Air Force (WAFs), Cpl. Peggy Pote, Nashville, Tenn., models the uniform that the ladies will soon be wearing. Made of cotton, nylon, serge and gabardine, the new outfits are "soft and feminine" and feature a new-type flight cap. (International Soundphoto)

Frosh Get Orientation

Members of the New Providence Church and Sunday School will make a trip to Laurel Lake on Tuesday, Sept. 19. Busses will leave campus at 3:30 p.m. and will return at 10 p.m.

Hiking in the mountains, entertainment, and refreshments have been planned for the group. Only those holding tickets will be permitted to go.

NP School Plans Trip

Freshman orientation program this year, according to Dean McClelland, is progressing very satisfactorily. The program will continue for a total of five weeks, including nine discussion periods and a final test, the grade of which becomes part of the student's permanent record. Student co-leaders are taking part in the program for the second year, having been found very helpful. Freshmen, stated Dean McClelland, are showing great interest in the discussions.

Starr Heads 'Our Town' Cast; Crews Announced

Caldwell, Jackson, Reed, Edwards, Emert, Stater Hold Co-Star Spots

By Carson Seeley

Bill Starr was cast in the leading role, Stage Manager, of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," Drama director Kathleen Craven announced Thursday morning following tryouts the previous night. "Our Town" will be the first production of Maryville College Playhouse this season and will be staged October 26, 27.

Starr is a senior English major from Baltimore, Md. and president of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic fraternity. He is also president of Inter-Club Council, co-director of Y-Radio, a member of Writers' Workshop, Vesper Choir, Student Council, and Athenian.

Frosh Take Half

Other leading roles are to be played by Joe Stater as George; George Caldwell, Dr. Gibbs; Sara Jo Emert, Mrs. Gibbs; Dave Reed, Mr. Webb; Phyl Jackson, Mrs. Webb; Joanne Edwards, Emily.

Stater is a freshman from Trenton, Mich.; Caldwell, freshman from Cincinnati, O.; and Joanne Edwards, freshman from Patterson, N. J.

Sara Jo Emert is a senior dramtic arts major from Maryville and has been cast in previous Playhouse productions, "Laura," and "Hedda Gabler." She is also active in Theta Epsilon.

Phyl Jackson, senior psychology major from Boston, Mass., is president of College Playhouse and editor of Highland Echo. She is also a member of Inter-Club Council, Theta Alpha Phi, Writers' Workshop, Theta Epsilon, and chairman of Student Council's Publication committee and Drama Board of Control.

Dave Reed is a junior philosophy major from Delhi, N. Y. He is a member of College Playhouse, Theta Alph aPhi, and co-chairman of Y-radio.

Supporting Roles

Supporting cast is Wally Webb played by Gerry Wheat, Joe Crowell, Jim Hunt; Professor Willard, Carl Drescher; Howie Newsome, Bob McKean; Constable Warren, Clint Bopst; Sam Craig, Don Larson; Joe Stoddard, Ray Kuhn.

Mrs. Soames is played by Nina Ruth Gillette, Simon by Bill Holt; Rebecca, Lou Masters; Man-in-Auditorium, Hugh McSpadden; Woman-in-Balcony, Louise Packard; Woman-in-Box, Lucy Carrick, and the two baseball players are J. A. Cameron and Ken Rutherford. Besides the regular roles, there are fifteen extras.

Behind the scenes are Ruth Nicholas as Newspaper Publicity Chairman, and J. A. Cameron as Campus Publicity Chariman. Ticket Chairman is Mary Wilkes. Chuck Gahagan is Director of Lightning, and Lou Masters is Costume Maanger.

Allan Caldwell is Make-up Chairman; Dan Dunbar is Stage Crew Chief. Stage Manager and Assistant Director is Austin Van Pelt.

Society Sign-Ups, Installations Held

Sign-up day for the four societies resulted this year in the following number of new members: Alpha Sigma, 35; Athenian, 70; Bainonian, 66; and Theta Epsilon, 50.

Bainonian and Theta Epsilon held their respective installations last night to greet their new members. Athenian will install new members tonight at 6.15 in Bartlett Auditorium, while Alpha Sigma's installation will take place next week.

Hope Fund Tops '49 Total; Merwin Tells Of Human Slavery

By Sally Brown

Maryville's annual Fred Hope Fund drive opened this week with Rev. Wallace C. Merwin, American missionary to China, speaking in chapel Thursday on China, a country with which he has been associated since 1931.

Rev. Merwin, who recently returned to the United States, spoke first of Chinese Communism, a form of government which he believes to be basically an enslavement of the human soul. "Communists have complete control of China,' he stated, "and although there are resistance movements, there is nothing in sight that can defeat this government." Mr. Merwin went on to say that the Chinese Nationalist government was responsible for present Red domination and that the United States could have done nothing to prevent it. "Chinese Communism is genuine communism and follows the same pattern as the Russian form. It is militaristic, materialistic, and irreligious."

In speaking of the problem of inflation, Mr. Merwin told of the absurd heights to which Chinese paper currency had risen and described the Communist attempt to curb inflation by increased taxation and by forced sale of victory bonds. Especially hard pressed by the increased taxation were mission schools and hospitals and small land owners.

Chinese Discontented

Rev. Merwin pointed out that the Chinese are discontented under the present government, but feel no responsibility for their situation. Many Chinese are looking forward to a third World War in hopes that it may loosen China from the grip of Communism.

The speaker also stated that foreigners in China, with the exception of Russians, are looked upon as criminals. Missionaries are no longer wanted, only four or five having been allowed to re-enter the country in the last year. Foreign businessmen are not allowed to leave China because of its great need for dollars and an anti-American feeling is expressed by newspapers and radio.

Christian Influence

Lastly Rev. Merwin spoke of the Christian church in China, saying that the Roman Catholic Church no longer has a following in Communist-dominated China, but that the influence of the Protestant church is still great. "Although Bibles have been burned, pastors imprisoned, and church property confiscated, Chinese Christians have not lost their faith and young people are especially interested in Christian religion," he said.

In concluding his address, Rev. Merwin urged Maryville students to "work while it is yet day" and contribute to the Fred Hope Fund. This fund will go again this year to Mary Edna Smith, MC '48, who is now teaching in a mission schol in Hong Kong.

Joe Poland, Student Body President, YMCA President George Ogle; YWCA President Louise Lloyd, and Lois Johanson, President of Student Volunteers, participated in the service explaining the origin and purpose of the Fred Hope Fund. President Ralph W. Lloyd introduced the speaker.

Seniors Commence Practice Teaching

Qualified seniors taking practice teaching have begun their semester's work. There are five at Everett High School and eight at Maryville High School. They go to the schools five days a week for the whole semester, and twice a week meet with Dr. Lincoln Barker, professor of education and psychology.

The division of subjects taught is seven in physical education, two in English, two in French, one in history, and one in social science.

The enrollment in this class is kept fairly small so that each student can have individual counseling.

BG's Initiate Three, Induct New Girls

Thursday night brought to a climax a week of initiation for three new girls into BG Club, Shirley Atwell, Nannette Enloe, and Jackie Smith, the pledges, carried pocketbooks with a variety of articles, wore the same skirt everyday, no make-up, and wore the dice of the Club.

Also as part of the initiation, the girls had to bow to old members of the Club and to write a theme on some such topic as "Why A Chicken Crosses the Road," or "Why a Duck Waddles."

BG Club is limited to eight girls who meet once each month for a social program. Old members include Laurie Dale, Jean Davis, Edith Lancaster, and Peggy Sangster. Sally Kemp is president and Mrs. A. F. Pieper is advisor.

Experimentals Tell Tentative Casts

Tentative casts for the Experimental Theatre plays on October 6 were released this week by drama instructor Kathleen Craven.

In "The Man Who Died at Twelve O'clock" are Claude Cowan, Uncle January; Gerald Wheat, Charley; and Joan Titley, Sally.

Cast for "Aria da Capo" includes Sara Jo Emert, Columbine; Jim Dance, Pierrot; Robert Lehr, Cothurnus; Del Eairisman, Congdon; and Wally Schaeder, Thyrsis.

Pep Rally Staged On Athletic Field

A pep rally for the Hiwassee football game was held last night on the athletic field. The band and cheerleaders took part and Coach Honaker spoke.

Today at 1:15 there will be a snake dance, starting in front of Anderson Hall, and going down town. It will be led by the color guard and band. If everybody turns out, we'll really show Hiwassee that we're going to "skin their tiger!"

Arda S. Walker, Assistant Professor of Economics, and A. D. Ainsworth, Instructor of Political Science, have been appointed by Dr. Lloyd as advisors to the Pep Committee.

Sunday Schools Have College Students Lead

The following leaders and teachers have been announced for Sunday School at the Maryville City churches tomorrow at 9:15:

Beryl Stewart will be in charge of opening worship at Broadway Methodist. Mr. Bill Kneeland is teacher.

Ric Rogers is in charge of opening at First Baptist. Mrs. Hamilton Traylor is teacher of the class.

The College Class is in charge at New Providence Presbyterian. Andy Clark is president of the group, and Archibald F. Pieper, Associate Professor of Political Science, is teacher.

Jimmy Britten is in charge of opening worship at First Methodist. Mr. "Chuck" Chamberlain is teacher of the College Class. Dr. Haskell Miller, head of the Sociology department at the University of Chattanooga, will be the guest minister at the 10:30 service. He will use as his topic "The Christian Meaning of World Community."

Democrat Wilson Heard on Korea

Frank W. Wilson of Oak Ridge, Democratic candidate for Congress from Tennessee's second congressional district, spoke to International Relations Club last Monday night the on Korean situation.

Introduced by IRC President Dick Newman, Wilson presented the background of the current crisis in Korea, including decisions made at major allied conferences concerning the peninsula. He discussed difficulties and problems our government had faced there, and urged a greater appreciation and understanding of our point of view in the idealogical warfare.

IRC club dues of 50 cents a semester or 75 cents a year may be paid at any time to treasurer Neale Pearson. The organization also handles magazine subscriptions at reduced student rates.

Thetas Hear Musical

A musical program, offering entertainment for all, will be presented at the Theta meeting tonight in Theta Hall. Betty Lester and Joyce Lenderman are in charge of this first program of the year. All new girls are urged to be present.

Frosh Elections Coming

Student Body vice-president Jim Kren has announced that freshmen will nominate class officers in the near future, possibly next Thursday, September 28, after chapel.

"This is an important election," he said, "and members of the freshman class ought to be thinking of whom they want as officers."

YM To Hold Hymn Sing

YMCA program for tomorrow will be a hymn sing, to be held at 1:30 in Bartlett Auditorium.

Summer Work Told At Student Vols

Student Vols will meet immediately after Vespers in Bartlett auditorium. The subject of the meeting will be "Summer Trails," and three of the members will tell of the work they did during the summer.

Louise Packard will describe her work in the Presbyterian Institute of Industrial Relations in New York City. Gerald Wheat will tell of the work in a mental hospital under the Board of National Missions, while Lula Hudson will give the highlights of the work she did with children in daily Vacation Bible Schools in Tennessee and the Carolinas.

There will also be reports from other members about the type of work they did during the summer. Special music will be furnished.

Civic Music Tickets Are Now Available

Membership for the Blount Civic Music Association Concerts will be mailed prior to the date of the first concert scheduled in Maryville or Knoxville. Members may attend both series on one ticket.

Schedule for the Blount Series is Francine Falkon, contralto, October 23; Joseph Marais and Miranda, balladeers, December 4; Ferrante and Teicher, duo pianists, January 8; and the National Male Quartet, February 22. Maryille Concerts will be at the Everett High School Auditorium.

A limited number of memberships are available to those persons who are interested. Student price is $3.00. See Mary McConnell for further details.

'Pathways' On Y-Radio; Soloists, Quartet Sing

"Pathways", a program of Christian interest, will be presented by Y-Radio at 9:30 Monday night over station WGAP. This week prayer is to be emphasized, and a hymn will be sung in accordance with the "Hymns of All Times" theme by a quartet composed of Wally Schaffer, and Dick Ribble. Guest soloists are Rosalie Munson and Conrad Eaddy. Barbara Blum, Bill Starr, and Dave Reed are in charge of Y-Radio.

MSO Elects Five, Ties Dorm Decision

Results of this week's election to the Men's Student Organization coordinating council include Bill Shields, town permanent; Jim Darroch, town transient;

Bill Morse, Bill Menges, and Tom Kees were elected as dorm representatives. A tie between Dick Dosker and Xen Motsinger as the fourth dorm member was decided yesterday in a special run-off eelction, with final results in too late for Echo coverage this week.

"AT COUNCIL"

Homcoming, Freshmen Election Dates Set

Homecoming elections were set for Thursday, October 4, in the regular Wednesday night meeting of Student Council this week. Freshmen elections are to be held Thursday, September 28.

Joe Poland, president, stressed the fact that there is to be no loitering outside the Student Center during the hours which the Y store is open in the evening. These hours are from 9:30 to 10:15 p.m.

Council also desires students to read the Town Night and other regulations in order to prevent misunderstanding. It was mentioned that although the meetings are for Student Council, students are allowed to attend. This would help bring about a greater understanding between the student body and the Student Council.

One violation was reported as girls not being in groups of three and being out of bounds. Penalty was applied.

Athenians Initiate Frosh

Athenian will meet tonight at 6:15 in Bartlett Auditorium. All old and new members are urged to be present to take part in the initiation program. The meeting will be short because of the football game.

Highlanders Meet Foe On New Field

Honakermen To See Action Using Split T

Tonight at eight o'clock the 1950 edition of the Maryville Scotties takes to the field against Hiwassee's Tigers on the new football field.

Hiwassee has always been figured as a pushover to open up the season but this year, Maryville hasn't the talent that it has usually had in other years. Only ten lettermen are back to form the nucleus of a Scot team that will depend a lot more on spirit than on brawn. Also, unlike other years the team will depend on shiftiness and speed to score rather than plain old-fashioned power as was the motiff under the old single wing system.

Twelve Times

Tonight's game is the twelfth in a series which began back in 1932 with Hiwassee coming out on top, 12-7. Since that time, Hiwassee elevens have regretted the mistake that their predecessors made in going under ten times. The worst series of games ever to take place was between 1942 and 1948 when in four games, Hiwassee failed to make a score going under three straight times, 33-0, and in 1949, losing, 32-0. Last year's contest saw Maryville come out on top, 47-6, taking advantage of many Tiger mistake to pick up two TD's on intercepted passes and another on a touched-but-not picked?up kickoff.

Tiger Terrors

The only man who figured in the scoring last year that is back is Hiwassee's Charley Scroggin2 who plays in the quarterback spot. Field-general Scroggins is a 160 pound soph from Montgomery, Alabama, and a pretty fair passer.

Playing in the halfback slots are two brothers, Chig and Carl Mainous, 150 pounders from Appalachia, Virginia. Both are freshman but not young, as Chig's 22 years testify.

A Maryville boy, Dutchy Campbell, will start at the fullback spot. Campbell weighs in at 155 pounds and charged at the foe from the right ponyback spot last year.

Beef and More Beef

A couple of beef-carriers play in the tackle slots carrying the names of Eugene Black and Bill Branim. Black rings the gong at 200 pounds and Banim hits the scale for 190. Both hail from Kaintuck'.

Two sophomores hold down the guard positions in the personages of Clifford (no relation to Ralph) Irwin and Ray Keylon. The two weigh 160 and 180 pounds, respectively. Out for blood after having seen 47 points roll by him last year in the middle of the field is one Leonard Rasnick who tilts at 175 and also makes Tazewell his home.

Out with injuries for several days this week are Alvin Farley, Captain, whose normal position is left half. Farley weights 185. Another man back on the so-so list is Emory Jacobs from Coach Reedy's old home town of Coeburn, Virginia. Other bright spots on the bench include Doug McLaugherty who pulled the switch from carrying the ball at full to stopping the backs at linebacker as a center. Billy Joe Harril and Isaac Cooper will also see plenty of action since they carry around 180 pounds each.

Small Colleges—

An institution is not great because it is large or because of a huge enrollment. It is not great because of its large endowment or its large legislative appropriation. It is not great because of its unbeaten teams or because of its new gymnasium. Indeed, there are many colleges in this country that command far higher respect than many large universities.

Invariably one finds there a faculty composed of men who love learning and and delight in teaching. Their salaries may not be high but they know that the institution has first in its mind their welfare. They are satisfied to invest their lives in such an institution.

A few men leave, tempted from time to time by higher salaries, but more often, perhaps, to become associated with universities whose finer libraries and excellent scientific equipment are indispensable for proper cultivation of some abiding intellectual interest. It is always a surprise, however, to witness the holding power of the really first rate small college.

Such colleges, too, where there is to be found in abundant measure the things of the Spirti, have a tremendous drawing power among parents and students extending from generation to generation. It is an honor itself to win admission to such institutions.

We, The Citizens!—

With the fighting in Korea, the U. S. has already assumed its familiar role in the state of world affairs. As in previous world-wide events, the U.S. remained aloof, or virtually so, until encroached upon. She would retaliate comparatively swiftly, and upon finishing the affair she would go back to remaining aloof. This attitude is traceable to the defunct Monroe Doctrine.

One thing is certain. Our politicians with all their knowledge and wisdom will not have solved the problems of the U.S. in relation to world peace. They have shown time and again a surprising proficiency in the rejection of the lessons learned in following an obsolete doctrine. It is up to us to make as big a break with the past as possible.

We are a part of this world and any event taking place in the world may affect us in any time or place. We must let the nations know where we stand on matters of international relations but never to become an imperialist agressor. And finally we must remember that merely winning a war does not win the peace, so we must plan future world relations with foresight. As the world goes, so will we.

Up The Crick Without a Paddle

Staid Presbyterian students at the College Crusader Class picnic at Laurel Lake were treated to a dramatic event as two girls, Shirland Roussey and Sue White, found themselves in the middle of said lake in a boat without the well-known paddles. However, after due length of itme, a nearby Coast Guard unit, one aluminum boat manned by a boy and girl, was rushed to the scene. Meanwhile girls had resorted to feet-paddling and docked safely.

TALK OF THE WEEK ——Reprint

BEAT THOSE TIGERS!

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

CAPITOL CAPERS

Monday and Tuesday sees the appearance of "Dear Wife," Paramount's repeat sequel to "Dear Ruth." Top billing is given Billy DeWolfe, Mona Freeman, Eddie Arnold, and Bill Holden. Basically, it relates the story of a husband and his wife who has a meddling bobbie-sox sister. "Little meddler" puts up sis's hubby as a candidate for state senator, but the opposition is Pop. Family relations are strained, and, of course, the extra woman, a redhead, is thrown in.

In "The Reckless Moment" James Mason, Joan Bennet and Geraldine Brooks arrive Wednesday. This time the housewife has a daughter who kills an unsavory beau. Motherly love reigns, but a nasty blackmailer arrives on the scene. Holding incriminating letters written by old beau-killer, he demands his cut. "Time" magazine says that blackmail wins out, but not having seen the picture we don't know and are a bit dubious.

Esther Williams swims in on Thursday and Friday as the "Duchess of Idaho" with Van Johnson and John Lund accompanying her. It is the usual Esther Williams swimming picture set to a background of Sun Valley, Idaho. Esther really loves Van, but Johnny, the millionaire playboy, seems to have something to offer as a distraction.

Saturday we have the usual Western. Your guess as to the title is as good as our and Capitol Theatre's. Tradition has it that there will be much dust-raising and a maximum of blood shed, the theme probably being a well-worn one.

BOOKWORM WRIGGLES

Of the new additions to the library, volumes seem to be the order of the day. The three-volume set, "The Jewish Community" by Salo W. Baron, and the two-volume set, "The Jews: Their History, Culture and Religion" by Louis Finklestein, add very comprehensive reading by competent authors to those interested in one of the most misunderstood and persecuted religions.

There is "Sculpture, Inside and Out" by Malvina Hoffman for those who like to putter with putty. It covers, or exposes, the subject completely. Beginning chapters progress to those on technical aspects of the subject.

Clad in appropriate red is the "Handbook of Marxism" edited by Emile Burns. It is a collection of extracts of Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin selected to give a broad survey of Marxism.

"Majority Rule and Minority Rights" by Henry Steele Commager is a discusion of that subject. Former presidents and Supreme Court judges are quoted often to present all sides of one of our country's basic problems. Recommended reading for those who think there is a commie under every bed.

DEFENSE DEPARTMENT

Deviating from the usual VMS topic, we feel the items to follow are of importance at the present. At the end of the last war, the US confiscated many technical papers and equipment of Germany. To facilitate in the understanding of them, we hired every German scientist that we could lay our hands on, with the result that we now have a collection of the best scientific personnel in the world. Scientific research, both military and non-military, was advanced from five to twenty years in some fields. That was where we stopped.

We are now fighting in Korea, a situation which had been rendered critical by the incompetence of our military high command. The situation in Germany is a striking parallel to that in Korea, a divided country, a "people's police" opposite an unarmed federal country. We are now rushing additional forces to Germany, but the command in charge is the same old one. At the present time there are at least five German geenrals doing presumably nothing. This represents a combined military intellect that no other country including Russia could master even if they joined hands.

Why don't we admit publicly that the German general is good and utilize him? It is no secret that the late General Patton modified the Rommel tactics for his own use. It is now also admitted that much of our ideas on the unified high command came from a report on the subject written by General Guderian, former Chief of the German Army General Staff.

U.S. News & World Report, September 8, 1950, interviewed former Gen. Guderian on the subject "Can Russia's Army Be Beaten?" The answers provide interesting sidelights by an expert on a situation which the Western bloc cannot agree. We are now caught between two phobias, fear of an armed Russia, and fear of a re-armed Germany. We had better decide which one we want, and also swallow our pride and utilize the wasted military intellect.

Frosh Put Shockley In WSGA Co-Council

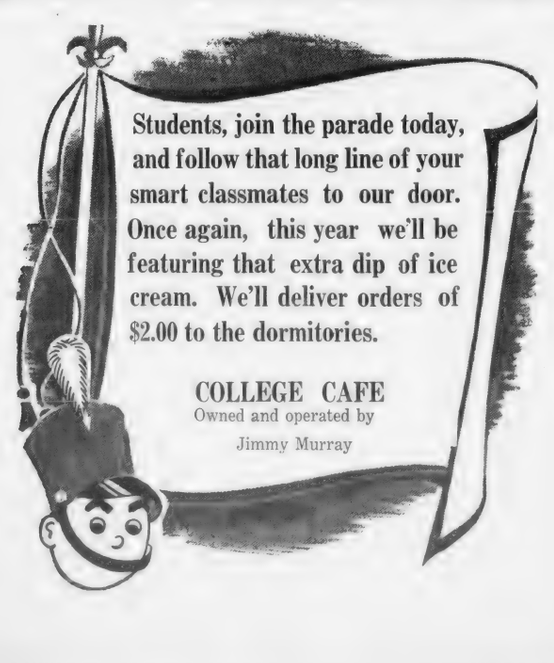
In WSGA elections held Wednesday morning in the gym, freshman girls elected Ethel Shockley freshmen representative to the WSGA co-ordinating council. Miss Shockley is a Religious Education major from Townsend, Del.

Echo Forum

To the Editor of The Highland Echo:

The Fred Hope Fund is a worthy and noble cause for the furthering of the Christian religion in foreign countries. There is no beter way of expressing our feelings toward our foreign neighbors than by giving to aid in their religious education; however, the means by which this fund was solicited does not seem to be in accord with Christian ideals.

Wouldn't it be much more fitting that all sums, regardless of amount, should be accepted as playing a role of the same importance. The statement made in chapel seemed to be to the effect that small sums would be accepted, but that large sums would be much more greatly appreciated.



We should remember the parable of the widow and the mite and in so doing realize that to some the so-called "small amount" is in reality a "large sum". In other words, let's place the emphasis on spirit and capability of giving rather than on money as such.

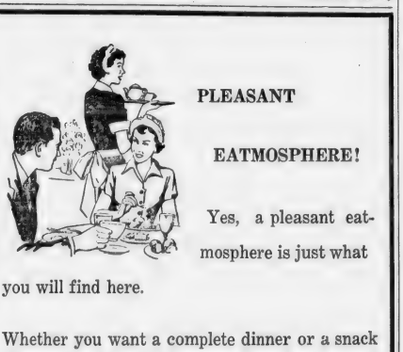
Lavender To Speak At Vespers Sunday



Rev. Dr. B. B. Lavender, pastor of the Shannondale Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, will speak at Vespers tomorrow evening at 7:00 in the library. Until last spring when he came to Knoxville, Dr. Lavender was president of Washington College.

Vesper Choir will sing "Psalm 150" by Louis Lewandowski and "Nunc Dimittis" by A. Gretchaninof.

Students, join the parade today, and follow that long line of your smart classmates to our door. Once again, this year we'll be featuring that extra dip of ice cream. We'll deliver orders of $2.00 to the dormitories.

"GIVE ME SOME MEN. . . ."

Give me some men,
Who are stout-hearted men,
Who will fight for the ball we adore;
Start me with 'leven,
Who are stout-hearted men,
And they'll soon give us all a score.
Shoulder to shoulder,
They're bolder and bolder,
And they hustle as they march down the field;
Then there's nothing in the world
That can stop or halt a play
When stout-hearted men can block together man-to-man.

●IN CHINA THIS IS THE YEAR OF THE RAT, but in Maryville it's the year of the crying towel as Coaches Honaker and Davis sing "I've Got Plenty of Nothing." With only ten lettermen back to form the nucleus of a a Scot eleven that will play a pretty tough schedule, especially at home. The Hiwassee game is the only game expected to fall Maryvill's way without too much trouble. But the game from this standpoint doesn't shape up as a pushover. Coach Reedy of Hiwassee has just as many men back or more at the school over Madisonville way and his men are versed in the system while Maryville's aren't. By this we don't mean that the Scots don't know their plays, but experience always helps and game experience has always been and always will be the best kind of experience. If any folks around here can remember, way back in 1935 when the series with the Red and Yellow Tigers was started, Hiwassee came out on top, 12-7. So let us beware of complacency.

The Hiwassee contest will also give MC fans a chance to see how the back field is shaping up. If there is any lack of definite all-star timber, as of now, it is there. The line has a fair chance of shaping up pretty well with eight lettermen back and other experienced returnees. At the guard spots, Herb (the Thread) Palmer, Bob Proffitt, Ike Isenberg, and Jim Lester, have both the weight and the "brains (if Coach Davis will allow use of the word) to go on the field. Against the T which Hiwassee will be using, the guards are the important link.

Back to the backs again, King Berrong, Charlie Allen, Grant, Sharp, Dick Mirshak and Skeet Myers, will have to carry an "awful" heavy load whether anyone likes it or not. Sharp's return was really a blessing with "Coach" Hersh Merriman's departure to the line of the ulcer-owners.

As of now, we are really "pessimistic" and figure that the lower Dr. Litkenhouse rates us, the better. The 299th spot on his list of 300 teams would be good and MC could then pull off some real upsets. However, a lot of people are going to be surprised at this year's squad's doin's for we think they've got enough in them to win four or five ball games which would mean a successful season the way things stand.

●BACK TO ANOTHER CONTROVERSIAL ISSUE again is our plea for all-out student support tonight. A lot depends on the folks up in the bleachers. Their support on the field and off is really appreciated by the players whether we recognize it or not. One notices this most if he has ever run cross-country or track. When you're coming in on the last mile, and you're about to conk out and then see someone standing there proud and cheering for you, you want to "show off." You give it all you got and, boom, you're in like Flynn. Back to football again, now, it's something pretty easy to do, to support a winning team, but it's a horse of another color to back up one that has lost or is a loser. Too many people are front-runners.

All this leads to the question of pep meetings and cheering at the game. A good yell at a pep meeting with lots of noise, spirit, and cheer, at the game goes a long way.

Last year, several games were marked with much enthusiasm and zip at the beginning of the first half. When the second half rolled around, it appeared that MC and her opponents were playing to empty stands for nobody was opening his mouth (even though Maryville was ahead or behind as were the different cases). . . . . let's stick to it and holler all the way through like against WNC last year. . . Glycerine is god for more than one thing, you know. . . .

Scots Meet Hiwassee Tigers

farmer, who has received a better deal and better pay from TPI. Coach Reedy formerly went to Emory & Henry and last year led his high school team, Coeburn, Va., to the state championship.

A wide-open attack thrown at the Scots with passing on fourth down and "hope" plays sprinkled throughout can be expected by Scot supporters for Hiwassee will be out to pull off the same stunt as occurred in basketball last winter. The two upsets pulled off in the cage sports were a black day in MC history as any MC fan knows who would like to forget it.

Backs Buck A Lot

And now for the home boys. In the backfield it will be King Berrong at quarterback calling signals and handling the position of alternate captain. King has been calling the signals for the four years that he has been here and has taken to palming the ball very nicely though blocking under the single-wing system for all his life. Charlie Allen will take over at left half and will be Maryville's one man threat this year. Allen hasn't found the left half chores too hard and should pull of some nice runs as Jacksonville State can testify. Allen and Berrong will also share punting and passing duties. The one gift from above which has made Coach Honaker smile wistfully now and then is Grant Sharp, a fullback in the all-winning days of 1946-47 under Hershel Merriman, now his coach. If anything can be said, it is that Sharp carries that "I'm Ready" look around on his face.

Are Rights Right?

Then there is the right half spot. It is the questionmark spot in that if a comer comes up from the ranks and blossoms, MC will do all right, for all four backs are essential to the attack. Dick Mirshak, from Dover, New Jersey, and Jimmy Campbell from Mars, Pennsylvania, are the likely starters for tonight's fray since Carl "Skeets" Myers is bothered with a sprained ankle.

Mirshak is a 160 pounder who will play a lot of defense and offense. Campbell, though a shortie, can really hustle the ball around on the offense. His lack of height will probably handicap him on defense against six-footers, though. Myers, a Townsend boy, is chiefly famous around Blount County for basketball exploits and can catch a handy pass. All three will play a lot no doubt.

Other backfield reserves are Harold Glad, 189 FB from Mc-Keesport, Pa., who transferred from out Kansas way, Bill Gibson, under the center, Bill Vananda, another Townsender, and Jerry King, of Maryville.

Oh, For Some Lbs.

The ends are giving J. D. a lot of trouble not in ability but in the weight department. Gone are the big, big men like "Deeder"" Miller and "Hard Davis" who were up in the 200's. Babe Keny is slated to start at right end if his finger heals up sufficently. Otherwise, it'll be Jimmy Callaway and Dick Patton alternating on defense and offense. Callaway has the experience and will kick extra points while Patton has the beef—it's a fifty-fifty swap.

Over at left end, Bert McMahan, Ralph Greaser, and James Cox, will also alternate in Tom Anderson's two-spittoon system until the matter of the better talent adjusts itself.

Tough Tackles

The tackle situation is somewhat brighter with Bob Larson, Captain Don Walker, Joe Bender, Ken Hammond, Jack Rorex, Malcolm Moore, ahead in the race with the first two holding down the starting assignments. The weight situation relieved here, too, with all of them over 180 and "Tiny" Hammond shaking the scales with 225 pounds.

Bombard'em Guards

The guard situation is ample, too, for this year with four lettermen back in the personages of Dick Isenberg, who will kick off, too, Jim Lester, Herb Palmer, and Bob Proffitt.

Middle of Sumpn'

Bob White and Homer Garren will alternate at center at least until October 10, when Homer is slated to go to the Air Force because of reserve status. However, he may get deferment until the end of the semester.

Quick and Snappy

Maryville's Offense will be built around the Split-T with some straight T and Flankers to the left and right for seven and eight man lines. Play can be expected to be wide-open on both teams' part since Maryville will have to find out what's good and what should be discarded while Hiwassee will be gunning for a victory.

Game time is at eight o'clock. Tonight's game and other games will be carried over Station WGAP with broadcast time slated for 7:55.

Let's Give A Yell

So, as we start a new year of football, let's all go out and back the Scots to the limit and see them have a successful season!

Probable lineups for tonight's game are:

MC	Pos.	Hiwassee
Callaway	LE	Shelton
Larsen	LT	Black

Thinlies Take To First Hard Grind

Time trials were held yesterday as the distancers paraded their stuff. (Because the press time of this paper is on Friday afternoon the results could not be added.)

The first meet of the year comes up on the 7th of October. UT's Vols will come here and then on the 12th the Scots will travel to Knoxville to meet the Vols. Last year in the only meeting of these two teams the Scots walked off with a 20-30, mainly because the UT'ers couldn't follow the markers in the woods and ended up lost.

Thurston Thirsty

Jim Thurston has shaken the sprained ankle which hampered his style last week. The squad has been giving the course all they've got in order to be in good shape for the time trials.

FOOTBALL

The Alpha Sigma Scotties, power team of the society, rolled to an easy 22-0 win over the Athenian Owls Monday. Arnold Munn and Dick Jones grabbed passes to run up two touchdowns, and Horace Beckwith ran the third one over. Beckwith also caught Glen Gage behind the goal-line on an intercepted pass for an extra two points.

The Golphers over ran the Woodmen, Alpha Sigma freshmen, in a close 7-2 contest. Van Hassel took a short pass in the end zone for a disputed touchdown to give the Golphers their victory. Stan Downs added the extra point. Jack Elliott scored the safety for the Woodman's only score.

Revenge

Athenians pounded the Alpha Sigma Highlanders to their third straight defeat, 19-0. Ray Rose started things off by intercepting a Highlander pass on their twenty and ran it over for a score. Bob Kees was the big gun of the Athenian attack with two touchdowns via the run method. Good blocking highlighted the Athenian attack. Chuck Holsinger

Bartlett—The Product of Kin's Unceasing Interest And Energies

By Phyllis Jackson

Kin Takahashi, a seventeen-year old Japanese boy, came to Maryville College in 1888 to "get an American education. In those days Maryville consisted of a preparatory school and a college so that it took Kin seven years to graduate. According to all reports and histories, he was a boy of remarkable energy and initiative.

Kin earned his expenses with all sorts of odd jobs, doing everything from cooking to lecturing, and earned at the same time the position of a college leader, one of the most effective at Maryville then. His mother had been a Buddhist, his father a Shintoist, and he had been forced on his own resources when he became a Christian for this reason.

Athlete and Journalist

Football fans of today might turn a skeptical eye in this direction but it's a fact that Kin was Maryville's first football captain. Weighing only one hundred and twenty-three pounds, he was only five feet two inches tall. 1888 was before the days of coaches and so the bull-sessions which burned the midnight oil were strategy and theory meetings with Kin as the chief. The gridiron was marked on his desk top and he moved grains of corn as players in mapping out plays.

"College Days" was the name of an occasional publication which Kin put out himself. Later he was originator of the student self-help fund, making the path easier for those who like himself were up against it financially. Defeat was not in his vocabulary and he is noted as saying over and over again, "Let's try again—with a smile this time!" His nickname was "Kentucky Hossie," typical of the way he pranced through tough opposition in any situation.

Kin's Bartlett

Perhaps Kin's greatest contribution though and the reason for recognizing him here was that he instigated, secured the funds for, and helped with the building of Bartlett Hall, a student-built hall. His vital interest in things of the soul as well as those of the body pushed him towards getting a headquarters for athletics and religious activities. He began the building campaign in March, 1894, the year before he graduated. During the next year he secured funds and three hundred college boys under his direction made bricks—three thousand of them for $1,300. The wood which kept the kilns going was given by neighboring farmers.

For two years after his graduation, Kin stayed here laying bricks, and campaigning for more funds. A year later the walls went up and through the addition of several large donations to his growing fund, he knew that his building would be finished. That year he returned to Japan to take up YMCA work in Tokyo.

Bartlett: A Tribute

Others continued Kin's work and through the appropriation of college funds and large gifts, some of which came from Elizabeth R. Voorhees after whom the chapel was named, Bartlett's final stone was in place in 1901. The entire cost of the building was $16,000.

Though not classified as one of the campus beauties, Bartlett today stands as a tribute to Kin Takahashi, considered by his classmates, a "friend, hero, and true Christian." Kin died in Japan in 102, thirty years old and yet having lived a full life.

Writers Hear Bushing, Shellkoph Next Week

Reading next week at Writer's Workshop, which meets at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday in Dr. E. R. Hunter's classroom, are Earl Shellkoph and associate professor of English Arthur Bushing. Their critics are Bill Starr and Jim Dance.

New members elected to Workshop last Wednesday are Neale Pearson, Betty Roach, Sue Watson, and Newell Witherspoon. Barbara Blum read her short story "Cue Out," which was criticized by Mary Lyerly.

Coach Honaker Ill In Hospital

Coach Lombe S. Honaker was taken ill to Blount Memorial Hospital Friday morning suffering from pressure on his heart from his stomach. As things stand now, he will not be able to attend tonight's game and will be laid up for at least ten days. Coach John A. Davis will take over head coaching duties and Hershel Merriman will guide the backs.

In all the history of Maryville College, Coach Honaker hasn't missed but one other game and that was back in 1947. For the past few years, he has been suffering from a heart condition and had shifted many duties to Coach Davis this year before his stroke.

Alpha Sigmas Plan Song-Fest, Moon-Hike

Alpha Sigma will meet tonight at 6:15 in Thaw 214. Andy Clark will lead a "sing fest" and the Alpha Sig quartet will be featured singing several numbers.

Alpha Sigs and Thetas are reminded of the moonlight hike to be held Tuesday evening. There will be singing and refreshments, fellows, so get yourself a date and meet after supper in front of Thaw.

Panel Discussion, Picnic Set For Episcopalians

A panel discussion on "What Should Be the Christian's Attitude Toward War?" will highlight a picnic tomorrow of St. Andrew's Episcopal college Sunday School class.

Panel members are Carol Corbett, Del Earisman, Wes Miles, and Carolyn Miller. In charge of the picnic are Bob Brown and Bob Lovelace.

FTA Fills Office, Sets Year Schedule

FTA held their first meeting of the year in Bartlett on Thursday, September 21. Gerry Hopkins was elected secretary to replace Janice Landstrom. Robert Lehr, treasurer, reported that twenty-nine students have been enrolled as active members. Dr. Briggs, Faculty Advisor, urged all education majors to join FTA.

Projects for this year are a Chapel for National Education Week headed by Elenor Kramer, Organization of High School FTA Clubs headed by Robert Lehr and the Maintenance of the Bulletin Board headed by Beverly Jacobi and Emily McLain. A social is planned for the next meeting to be held in two weeks.

YW Holds Consecration

YWCA will meet at the amphitheater tomorrow, gathering first on Thaw steps at 1:30. A consecration service is to be held, primarily for those who have signed up for active membership, but to be taken part in by all members.

The service climaxes a survey among inactive members which was conducted by the YW cabinet in an effort to gain new workers.

Jones Heads PA Crew

Dick Jones will once again handle the Public Address System, Dean McClelland announced this week. Jones worked with a committee of several others last year. His new crew consists of Horace Beckwith and Arnold Munn, with others to be added later.

Latest news on the press box situation is that it will probably be moved next week.

NEW BLOOD FOR U. S. FIGHTING MEN

GROUND CREWMEN of the U. S. Air Force in South Korea are shown unloading the first shipment of whole blood from the United States. The blood, which is contained in bottles, packed in refrigerated cars, was donated by patriotic citizens throughout the nation. (International)

Minnies Mix Reds

Bob Van Nest scored the only touchdown in the Pre-Ministerial I's victory over the Redmen, 7-0. Howard Frame added the extra marker.

Tom Yeaworth was the whole show in the Blue Jays 7-0 victory over the Golphers. He scored the touchdown and extra point, as the Blue Jays proved that they will have to be reckoned with in the Garnet League.

Y Again

Hugh Hamil led the power-packed YMCA to a one-sided 31-0 win over the Puritans. Hamil scored two touchdowns while Charlie Williams, Joe McNiell and George Ogle each added another one. Williams added an extra marker.

TENNIS

Here's the big word from Coach Johnson on the intramural tennis tournaments. Play starts today with pairings listed on the bulletin board at the courts.

In the closed tourney (non-lettermen) Kent Buser drew first on the seeded list with John Anderson the second. Marshall England and Dick Lebold, in that order, are the other two to draw bye's by being seeded in the first four. Others seeded are, Ed Scott, Dick Gardner, Stan Downs and Bill Faulkner, in that order.

Professionals

In the open tourney the eight seeded players all drew a bye. Wes Miles drew first with the others coming in the following order: Chesley Anderson, Clyde McCampbell, Kent Buser, Glen Gage, John Anderson, Marshall England, and Dick Lebold.

Twenty-eight racquetmen signed up for the open meet. Play is to be held at the convenience of the players, but the first round is to be finished by next Thursday.

Coach Johnson also stated that each player was to bring a new set of balls. The winner is to take the new balls to use in his next match while the less fortunate take the used balls.

Theatre Opens Season On Next Friday Evening

Friday night the curtain will rise on the first two Experimental Theatre productions of the 1950-51 season, "Aria de Copo," and "The Man Who Died At Twelve O'Clock."

Cast as Uncle January in "The Man" will be Claude Cowan. Supporting roles of Charley and Sally will be played by Gerry Wheat and Joan Titley. Austin Van Pelt is the director.

"Aria de Copo" will feature Sara Jo Emert as Columbine and Jim Dance as Pierrot. Cast members include Bob Lehr as Corinthus, Del Earisman as Congdon, and Wally Schroeder as Thyrsis. Jim Dance is directing the play.

Farce-Tragedy Bill

Contrasting greatly in plot and type, the two plays are sure to please, whatever type of play the theatre-goer likes. "Aria de Copo" is a definitely anti-war tragedy, showing the futility of war. Pierrot and Columbine represent the unstable, gay, shallow life of the younger set which inevitably follows war, the Greenwich Village class. The shepherds who are seen bring in the fact that all is ruled by fate anyway.

In "The Man Who Died At Twelve O'Clock" actors assume negro parts and thus present something new to the Theatre's stagings. "The Man" is a rather light farce which involves an old colored gentleman who fears death and is obsessed with the idea that he will die at twelve o'clock. The younger set scares him into believing he has died, a very comical scene.

Curtains will rise on two performances each at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m.

Ray Kuhn and Bill Holt will be house chairmen for the stagings. Bill Starr heads the make-up crew and will be assisted by George Caldwell, Jim Hunt, and Carolyn Simmes. Publicity chairman is Carl Drescher with Hugh McSpadden and Jane Hassinger as assistants.

Masters on Costumes

Costume chairman is Lou Masters. Working with her will be Lucy Carrick, Carolyn Simmes, and Nina Ruth Gillette. George Barber and Chuck Gahagan head the lighting crew assisted by Mary Wilkes and Hugh McSpadden. Ticket committee is Ray Kuhn, chairman, Bill Starr, Carol Jones, Norma Loetz, and Gloria Hineman.

Ruth Nicolas will chairman the scenery committee. On her committee wil lalso be Barbara Blum, Bobbie Porter, Nina Ruth Gillette, Gerald Wheat, George Caldwell, Mary Wilkes.

Director for "Aria do Copo" is Jim Dance; for "The Man Who Died At Twelve O'Clock' is Austin Van Pelt.

The production crew for Experimental Theatre will meet this afternoon at 2:00, in the workshop on third floor Bartlett. Miss Craven requests that all crew members be present to work on the painting and scenery.

News Capsules—

PEACE PROPOSAL

North Korean Communists were reported Wedensday to be seeking peace in Korea. Four points proposed by the Reds for ending the conflict were:

1. An immediate cease-fire order.

2. Withdrawal of North Korean troops behind the 38th parallel.

3. Occupation by UN troops, with U.S. troops confined to the Pusan area.

4. Free elections as soon as possible under UN auspices in North and South Korea for a unified government.

In Washington, the White House and the State Department denied that peace overtures had been received, and President Syngman Rhee of the Korean Republic said that the only acceptable terms for ending the Korean war are "unconditional surrender of the Communists."

NEW CHAMP

Ezzard Charles proved they never come back as he pounded out an unanimous 15-round decision over Joe Lewis in a title bout in Yankee Stadium Wednesday night.

Charles won as he pleased over the slow ,lumbering Louis, who was trying to become the first heavyweight champion in history to regain the title.

Even though defeated, Louis will be able to pay his income tax since he received 35% of the gate recipts. Charles received 20%.

RESIGNATION

Lewis W. Douglas has resigned as Ambassador to Great Britain for "personal considerations, including those of health." President Truman accepted the resignation "with regret." A new Ambassador to the Court of St. James will be named soon.

Episcopal S.S. Finishes Discussions on War; Clark Leads 'Crusaders'

The college class of St. Andrew's Episcopal Sunday School will finish a four week coverage of the topic "What Should Be the Christian's Attitude Toward War?" with a group discussion tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. Moderator Ross Marshall Robertson, Ph. D., associate professor of economics at UT.

Scheduled for Tuesday, October 3, is a class picnic to Laurel Lake. Bob Brown is in charge of arrangements.

Presbyterian Sunday Schol will be led tomorrow by the College Class, Andy Clark president. Special music will be provided by Wally Schoeder. Charlie Schroeder is song leader. June Hood will act as pianist, while Van Holland is to read the scripture and Andy Clark to lead the prayer.

'Frankenstein' of Dining Hall Draws Wrath of Anonymous Waitress

By A Waitress

Fall may come and fall may go, but Frankenstein will remain —dear creature that he is.

Frankie is quite a boy, especially in the dining hall. He takes sadistic pleasure in torturing all occupants and particularly his waitress. Favorite pastimes include: Shoving the empty bread plate under the waitress' nose—after she has just completed three trips for refills and has sat down to enjoy her cold potatoes; occasionally varying the program by dishing all the food out on every dish but his waitress' and having ALL the dishes ready for refills. Lo! His waitress discovers that in two dishes out of three, there are no refills.

Breakfast is that fascinating meal when Frankie non-chalantly uses 2½ spoons of sugar for his coffee and 1½ for his cereal. Three meals later he scorches his waitress with fiery looks of reproach because there is no more sugar.

When kicking under the table his feet invariably miss the aim and fracture his waitress' shin in one more place.

Hoarding may have been associated with the wartime period, but Frankenstein believes his good idea should be eternally before the public eye. So he daintily takes half the butter, places it tidily on the outside rim of his plate—and doens't eat it. (Does he believe in feeding pigs superb garbage? Here's where half the student body takes up residence at the college farm!)

Frankenstein? There's one at every table! Heaven help him, cause the Waitress Union—if it doesn't have a mental and moral collapse—has him on its BLACK blacklist.

Vols Meet, See Slides of Alaska

Student Vols will meet tomorrow night after Vespers, in Bartlett Auditorium. Slides of Alaska showing the missionary work there will be shown. These pictures were taken by Bob Williams during his trip to Alaska this summer.

Jim Watt will give the invocation and Diane Ross will read the scripture. Luis Divas will offer the prayer. Music will be provided by a string quartet composed of Dan Thamisch and Doris Somerville, cello; Sue White and Rosemary Avery, violin.

Mrs. Davies Speaks At YW; Workshop Airs 'Pathways'

YWCA meets in the Library at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow. Mrs. George Davies, mother of Professor Katharine Davies, will speak on her trip to the Holy Land.

Worship services are to be conducted by Helen Seay and Alita Bryant will introduce the speaker. Special music will be provided.

Last Sunday the YWCA held its annual consecration service in the Amphitheater in the College Woods.

YM will hear a travel talk illustrated with colored slides by Mrs. Earl Blazer, Sunday at 1:30 in Bartlett Auditorium. Mrs. Blazer is a former Sunday School teacher at First Methodist Church in Maryville.

Mrs. Blazer and her husband travelled through Europe, especially. Mr. Blazer is a past member of the Tennessee State Legislature.

Worship service will be opened with an invocation by John Baird. Bob Sprague will read the Scripture lesson. Prayer will be offered by Ted Beasley. Walter English will lead the singing.

WGAP At 9:30

"Pathways", the Y-Radio program, will have their presentation emphasize praye rthis week over WGAP, Monday night at 9:30. In accordance with the theme, "Hymns of All Times," the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" will be sung by a quartet composed f Wally Schroeder, Charles Schroeder, Ken Shaffer and Dick Ribble.

The theme, "Hymns of All Times", is being presented to present a background of some of of the greatest and most popular hymns. Guest soloists this week are Rosalie Munson, who will sing "Be Near Me Still" by Hilles, and Conrad Eaddy, who will sing "The Lord's Prayer." The above program is the one planned, for last week, but because of unavoidable circumstances, it had to be postponed.

MC Profs Speak At Union Meeting

Presbytery of Union held its regular meeting at Baker's Creek Presbyterian Church with Rev. F. R. Watt presiding on September 19.

Dr. Ralph T. Case presented a talk on "Something Is Trying To Happen" as chairman of the Committee on National Missions. Rev. David L. Engelhardt reported on Westminster Fellowship as one of the advisors.

A report on the 162nd General Assembly was given by Dr. F. A. Griffitts as elder at New Providence Church. Dr. J. D. Buchanan spoke on "The Bible Goes To Press" as chairman of the American Bible Society committee.

AT COUNCIL

Homecoming Elections, Town Revisions Discussed

October 5 was the date set for Homecoming elections to be held at the student body meeting, Joe Poland, president of Student Council announced to council members at the last regular meeting, Wednesday, September 27, in the Center.

Still subject to definition are the rules concerning evening student center procedure. It was stressed that boys are not to make that 9:30 p.m. opening of the Y store a regular daitng habit. Couples may meet at the Center or come directly to the store from the library, but there is to be no picking up of girls at the dorms before the Center opens. It was clarified that boys may walk the girl straight home after being at the Center, however.

Continued Loitering

Students are still arriving ten minutes early for the opening of the Y store and this constitutes a violation of the agreement. Y store hours are from 9:30 to 10:15 p.m. during study hours and students are not to gather outside the center until that time.

There was continued discussion concerning the Town Night revisions of lowering and raising penalties for violations. Considerable stress was laid upon the extent of the violation and the penalty accorded to such violations in an effort to bring the agreement up to date with the present council.

Demerits Raised

A motion to raise the number of demerits from two to three for a violation of suspended privileges will be discussed at the Student-Faculty Senate as will the above discussion on Town Night revisions.

A suggestion to recommend the extention fo Town Night boundaries to include Cusick Street which runs from the Court House at Court Street up to Broadway was also entertained. This will be presented to the Senate for discussion also.

Election of ten seniors to Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities will be held by Council at its next regular meeting.

McClelland, Peppers Vie For Frosh Presidency

1950 freshmen class nominated Bob McClelland and Jake Peppers to go on the ballot for the presidential race in next Tuesday and Wednesday's freshmen polls.

McClelland is from Maryville and was presiednt of his Student Council at Maryville High. He was also president of his class in his junior year, captain of the basketball team, and on varsity football.

Peppers is a physical education major from Philadelphia, Pa. A veteran of three years in the Navy, he was president of his class in high school. He was also on football and track teams.

Veep Position

Bob Sangster and Jerry King will vie for veep election in the same election. King is a business administration major from Maryville and was on the football, basketball, and tennis teams in his high school.

Sangster is a sociology major from Chatham, N.J. He was secretary-treasurer of his class in his junior and senior years.

Helen Drinnen and Carolyn Fraser are nominees for the office of secretary. Dr. Morton, MC '01, Speaks In Chapel

Dr. Andrew Wade Morton, MC 1901 was the guest speaker at Chapel Wednesday morning. A resident of San Francisco, Dr. Morton is a native of this territory, and is now visiting relatives.

Dr. Morton, who received his MD from the University of Tennessee in 1892, owns his own hospital, Saints John, in San Francisco.

In the early 1900's, Dr. Morton was the first in world to use bone grafting (using a dog bone). He was one of the first in the United States to use spinal anesthesia and to develop the technique.

Motsinger Goes To Council In Run-Off

Xen Motsinger, senior biology major from Taylorsville, N.C., defeated Dick Dosker in a run-off election Friday, September 22.

Motsinger tied Dosker in the election in which five men students were elected to MSO coordinating council Thursday, September 21. Others elected included Bill Shields, Jim Darroch, Bill Morse, Bill Menges, and Tom Kees.

Y Plans Hike

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1950

Are You With It?

"Have we gotta team?" "Yea, man!" And tonight's the night to show them the force of that statement, to show them how powerful game spirit can be. There is no limit to the amount of noise we as a group can make and everyone knows that there is nothing quite as effective as a unified voice.

That very fact would almost say nay to those would-be cheerleaders who romp all over the stands and set themselves up as one-men pep squads. Enthusiasm is something few people will put a damper on when it is directed at the constructive. But when we as a body have elected eight people to lead our cheers and have put our confidence in their ability to do so, then does it not seem logical for us to follow their direction? When they call for a shout to raise the celestial blue, then it is the time for everyone to give out with a tremendous roar! Single cheering is rather ineffective in raising game fever.

Game etiquette is something few need to be told about but here are a few reminders. That line which forms soon after supper outside the field will appreciate you more if you don't break into it ten or fifteen minutes before starting time. If you want to have first choice on the fifty-yard line, then it's up to you to be in line early.

Torn-up programs and newspapers may give you a large charge as you see them blown about and landing on Mary Smith's head or the brim of Professor Jones' hat. But they don't add much to the appearance of the grounds or to the good-nature of game-goers.

A suggestion that those who are horn-minded get up as high on the bleachers as possible might go well too. Then the infirmary won't have quite as many cases of shredded ear drums to cope with.

All in all, it's time to be gay, enthusiastic, and good sports about everything. Cheer the other team's quarterback when he is carried off—he was doing a good job up to then. So let's all get with it.

The Hamilton Program

A five-year faculty study, to determine the type of education necessary for students attending a small liberal arts college, has been completed at Hamilton College. Starting this fall, the curriculum will be completely revised, and it will affect all students beginning with the freshman class.

The study has as its fundamental objective this question: What basic "musts" in the way of intellectual and moral equipment should a college give its students to prepare them for effective living during the next fifty years? Active in drawing up the new plan have been the presiedtns of two small colleges—Dr. Robert W. McEwen of Hamilton and Dr. Boyd C. Patterson, recently named presiedtnt of Washington and Jefferson.

Some 45 percent of the total class time will be earmarked for giving students their "basic equipment." The remaining 55 percent will be given over to specialization in major fields and free electives.

Hamilton will demand that its students strive for these six objectives: (1) written and oral command of English; (2) reasonable command of a foreign language; (3) an understanding of the nature of reasoning plus an acquaintance with the natural world; (4) an ability to enjoy and understand the creative arts; (5) a knowledge of the inter-relation of man and society, and (6) an understanding of the intellectual bases of ethical judgments.

Famous Last Words

"Good morning, Doctor. It's nice to see you back. Wouldn't you like to say a few words in chapel?"

Back To Nature

For a while during the past week it seemed as though a visitor on campus might take us for some sort of reformist institution, what with no lipstick for the girls and beards for the fellows. Speaking of beards, we hear that Jim Frain and Bill Le Noir were surreptitiously shaving when a garbage can full of a potent solution of ink and water deluged them.

By the way, who is selling razors in Carnegie? We heard it was Carson Seeley. P. S.—J. A. Davis has opened a barber shop for football players, but not for students.

A Pet?

It's Here To Stay

By way of publicity (and here we might comment that it's probably had a terrific drawing power) Camera Club posted a notice which embraced Pearsons pillars for days: "We offer darkroom techniques given by no other club on campus." Seems to us that the Committee on Un-Maryvillian Activities should. . . .!

Rumored Again:

Bill Holt has the distinct privilege of being an old sot in "Our Town," currently being rehearsed by the Playhouse. Rumor has it that his realistic staggering about Carnegie halls is just by way of practice but he's got Mr. Mac fooled.

TALK OF THE WEEK

By Jaxon!

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

THE STRAW HAT TRAIL

Maryville's Capitol has somehow mistaken this Tuesday's movie-goers for the Saturday Matinee fans. At least it looks that way since their offering then is new "Colt .45." Not a documentary released by the Department of Defense, it's another shoot-em up, and this time a pretty good one.

Randolph Scott does the honors, next, of course, to the famous shooting iron, which takes top billing—and perhaps justifiably. Confusion with "Winchester .73" is pretty much inevitable, but despite the figures, that one doens't come up to "Colt's" calibre. It's a bang-up picture anyway you want to look at it; and it's no real long shot that you'll kind of like it.

Across the street at the Park on Town Night is "A Belle of Old Mexico" with an all-star cast paced by Robert Rockwell and Dorothy Patton. The title doesn't do anything for the picture, one which really needs something done for it.

It's just another Western with the usual motly assortment of extras and sets from the Republic lot. Miss Patton in the title role especially adds a significant nothing to it all, making one more film join Hollywood's growing "never should have been issued" list.

"Secret Fury" should have been just a little more secret—enough, at least, so that it didn't bother with a one-night stand at the Capitol Wedensday. But it's there, and we're stuck with it.

Claudette Colbert, it seems, gets involved in a lot of carrying-on when her marriage plans are interrupted by a stranger who claims she's already married. Of course, she isn't, but it's all part of a great big plan involving a super-scale frame-up and a murder.

Half interesting are her scenes in a mental hospital, even though some look as if they're rejects from an old psych book. All in all, Miss Colbert can say with real justification, "I was framed," both as to the plot and being talked into even appearing in the picture at all.

CITY LIGHTS

An exceptionally outstanding program is the schedule of this season's University of Tennessee concert series. Season tickets at six, eight, ten, and 12 dollars, including tax, are now available, and tickets for individual concerts will be placed on sale later.

In this 1950-51 series are Rise Stevens, October 24; Royal Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Sir Thomas Beecham, November 17; Robert Shaw Choral Chorale, January 15; Ballet Russe De Monte Carlo, February 8; Artur Rubinstein, April 26; and James Melton, May 8.

The Non-Supporter's Song

I don't care if the team don't win
I'll do my shaving in the evening time
When I'm with my razor.
It's no fun with a beard around
For me to get going when the sun goes down
And I use my razor.
That's when we lose and lose
And then we lose some more
Don't ask how many times we lose
At a time like this who keeps score
So, I don't care if the team don't win
I'll do my shaving in the evening time

●TONIGHT MARYVILLE'S BEARDLESS WONDERS will take to the field in a game against Jacksonville's Gamecocks. This week-end, we will be willing to bet that the Alabama team was in the same frame of mind that we all were last week. And Maryville will be in the same mood as Hiwassee.

Too many people were over-confident last week as to Maryville's chances and disregarded Hiwassee's weight advantage plus the fact that they were frounded in the game's fundamentals and knew what they were doing.

Coach Karl Reedy of the Hiwassee team threw a 5-3 defense on the line and it naturally stopped MC's offense cold. The normal play to offset this loading of the middle of the line would have been a flanker. Well, it was found out too late. Coach Davis had all the responsibility thrown on his shoulders and didn't catch the mistake till it was too late. The boys also had to suffer from blasts concerning their lack of blocking on offense. This was also solved too late. The linemen were getting their men all right but the Hiwassee line-backers were shooting the hole between tackle and guard or tackle and end to jam up the works in the backfield, especially when King Berrong's punt was blocked. And Hiwassee's same shooting of the empty hole was what ruined MC's passing. The guards would keep out the opposing linemen only to find out that it was the linebackers again rushing that afforded the passer no protection. We were outsmarted is just all there is to it.

And Hiwassee was laying for Maryville. Just like Carson-Newman's big game of the year is against Maryville, so it is with Hiwassee. Even if they lose every one of their games the rest of the season, if Maryville is beaten, it's a successful season. When the Tigers scored on us, their spirit which was already whooped up went up still another notch and by the time they had scored 20 points to tie up the ball game, they were mentally ahead of Maryville from the first quarter on. They considered the game won then though the score was tied.

They had some good-old-fashioned zip and we didn't—the "we" meaning both those o nthe field and those off. If the fans don't believe it, all they have to do is to ask the players themselves, and they'll find out.

●NOW FOR TONIGHT. Jacksonville State will bring four teams and substitutes up here with fullback John Williams the big gun of a group of pony backers. Williams who weighs 162 pounds, was runner-up to Hersh Merriman in the Little All American ratings for last year and this year he won't have to contend with "Coach". Williams gained 40 yards rushing in 10 tries in last year's game and scored two of the touchdowns.

Therefore, with these kind of backs to face, the Scotties are going to have to hustle as they've never did before. But Maryville will be in the right frame of mind tonight, you can bet your bottom dollar on that. Jax's coach was here with other scouts and they left very, very confident after seeing Hiwassee's five-man line stop Maryville's offense. Well, the Gamecocks are going to be just a little surprised tonight and Maryville may pll an upset. We'll be looking for one.

●THOUGH CROSS COUNTRY HAS BEEN NEGLECTED in this column for the last week, the red, white, and blue flags marking the MC course have not. We hereby ask that the clowns who needed handkerchiefs that bad to please turn them in at

Tigers Trip Highlanders

Scroggins' Passing And Running Deciding Factor

A Maryville football team that had a scoring punch in the first two minutes of play lost it in the final five minutes against the Tigers of underrated Hiwassee and went under 32-20.

Slightly chilled in the fall setting, the supporters of the Orange and Garnet found little cheer in the inaugural that marked only the second time that the Tigers have beaten a team from the Hill since the series began in 1932.

Scroggins—Hiwassee's Hero

Praise descended upon Coach Karl Reedy and a team composed of frosh and sophomores. It was one of Hiwassee's old veterans, Quarterback Charles Scroggins, who received the most plaudits. The aging sophomore not only carreid the full burden of the winner's passing attack as he completed seven of 13 passes good for 100 yards but he also dashed over for one and passed for another and pitched out to Chig Mainous for the winning marker.

MC Tallies First

Maryville started out as if she were going to make the game into a runaway, counting the first time she got the ball. King Berrong smacked the line for 20 yards on a bootleg play around left end and then two deft plays gained the other first downs before a score was punched over. Charlie Allen and Grant Sharp gained on 3 and a half yards in thrusts through the line; so, Berrong called for a punt. Hiwassee's defense charged and Allen faked the kick and spurted around left end for seven and another firstie. With the same situation in the making on fourth down with the ball on the 25, Allen took another pitchout around right end which was good for 18 yards. Again three downs were consumed with little gain, but Berrong shoved the ball over from the three. Jimmy Callaway came in to try the extra point but his shot was too wide to the left.

Tigers Tally, Too

Hiwassee, though, looked kind of odd out on the field, for contrary to expectant thinking, the Tigers were fighting mad and raced down field to take the kickoff. Hiwassee with Chig Mainous doing most of the carrying moved down field in seven plays from their own 35 to the six. With the ball on the six Scroggins went to the five in two plays as the MC split-stands roared for the Scotties to "hold the Tiger." And hold they did .The whole MC team swarmed in on Scroggins and forced him to throw faster than usual and Bill Gibson brought the ball back out to the three as the quarter was nearing its end.

Tigers Score Two:

After this checkmate, Maryville began threatening again and started a drive that gained up to the forty. A fake punt-pass failed miserably and Berrong faded back to kick on fourth down with 19 to go. Then with the power and speed of a steam engine, four Tigers came roaring through what seemed like a sievish-Maryville defense and swarmed all over Berrong. His kick was blocked and Ralph Dye picked up the bouncing ball and toted it the necessary 15 yards to paydirt. Hiwassee was penalized five yards for delaying the game in the huddle and Campbell had to attempt his placement from the 15 rather than the normal ten. His boot was no good and the score was now 6-6.

The stands were buzzing now for Hiwassee had picked up a TD in no time at all. Even though the Maryville team was heavily-favored, no team had scored with such ease save for Middle Tennessee State which applied a shellacking in the middle of last season.

Campbell Comes Through

It was not long before the MC undergrads who were asking on the campus about noon: "How many are we going to score against Hiwassee," were soon on their way to being answered. Although no time clock was ticking away the seconds on the new field, it was ticking correctly for the timer when Jimmy Campbell punched over from the three on fourth down at ten minutes in the second period. The play around right tackle capped a 60-yard scoring march. It was a riflepass from Allen to James Cox that had put the Highlanders on Hiwassee's doorsteps. After Callaway's extra point, Hiwassee struck back.

Scroggins fed a pass to Chig Mainous good for 23 yards to the MC 27 and Hiwassee looked set for another drive to the striped markers. Charlie Allen staved this off by intercepting one of Scroggins' passes and returning it 10 to the 20. Berrong fumbled on the 30 after gaining 10 but recovered his own miscue for a first down. Bill Gibson, then replaced Berrong, and he too dropped the pigskin. Hiwassee getting tired of watching MC dropping fumbles and recovering for sizeable gains picked this one up and jabbed it back for a score.

Tigers Take Fumbles

Scroggins bootlegged one around end for five. Dutchy Campbell then took a handoff through the middle for 28 yards to the three and set the stage for the tieing score. Chig Mainous headed for right end, took a pitchout from the always there Scroggins and skirted the ened for three yards and a TD. Scroggins then held for Campbell's attempted kick but fooled everybody save his own team by grabbing the snap and running the ball over with a minute to go.

From there on, after the intermission, against Hiwassee's 5-3-2-1 defense the Scotties could do nothing and the Maryville supporters began wondering whether or not this game was going to be the pushover that they had bet on.

Both teams exchanged kicks and with two minutes to go Maryville took over. A punt that went only 27 yards gave the home team the ball on the Yellow and Black 45 from where they moved to paydirt in one play. Again it was King Berrong who shone as he took the snap from center and

Earisman Wins First Time Trial

Del Earisman grunted out a five tenths of a second victory over Ric Rogers in the season's first time trials for the 1950 campaign. For this time of the year Earisman ha da very good record of 18:35.5 to Rogers' 18:33.

Bill Menges followed with a 19.04 with the others as follows: Dave Helwig, 20:01; Dick Kerr, 20.04; Bill Clarke, 22.23; and Dave Williams, 23.3 to round out the top seven. Jim Thurston, who has been bothered with injuries during most of the training season, came in eighth. Earisman, Rogers, Menges and Thurston are the only remaining letermen from last year's undefeated team.

Big One Coming

Another time trial was to be held yesterday with the final test to come out next Thursday. This final trial decides who makes up the team which will meet the distancers from UT on next Saturday and the following Thursday.

Four other boys are still out who didn't place on this week's time trials. They are Harold Black, Tom Kelly, Al McCullough and Hugh Walker.

Scot Netters Trip C-N Eagles, 9-0;

Travel There Today

Maryville's netter opened their season a little ahead of time as they took on Carson-Newman in a practice match, Tuesday. When the firing was over and the dust had settled back on the clay courts of Memorial Hall, Carson-Newman had been spreadeagled, 9-0. This afternoon, Coach Johnson and the team will travel to Jefferson City for a return match with Coach Conwell's team.

Buser-J. Anderson Play

Two new men joined the ranks of varsity players. John Anderson and Kent Buser filled the fifth and fourth holes respectively and showed much promise in winning fro mtheir opponents.

Highlanders Clash With Jacksonville Gamecocks

Maryville Football Team Playing For Upset To Break Losing Streak

A four game losing streak will go on the line tonight as Maryville's Scotties take on the Gamecocks of Alabama State Teachers. Austin Peay initiated the losing skein with a 20-14 triumph at Clarksville late last fall and the Gamecocks finished last year's doings with a win by that same 20-14 score. Last year's game with the Gamecocks was also the first in the series with the Alabama team.

"We're Gonna Beat MC"

Coach Don Salls will bring a full squad of 48 men along for what they hope is a "joyride." The Alabama team lost only 15 men from last year's team and will bring back at least 20 who are grounded in the fundamentals of Coach Sall's Notre Dame Box.

Quarterback Passes

Directing the Gamecock attack will be Mickey Washburn, 165 pound quarter back who was understudy to John Smith last year. Washburn is a 23-year-old from Daderville, Alabama, and got in a few licks in last year's game by completing three out of four passes good for two first downs on the Alabama team's second scoring drive. Taking the place of Gordon Terry, fullback who didn't return to Jax but who graduated to the ranks of the pro's is John Williams. Williams, another 160 pounder, played in the right half spot also, last year and picked up 40 yards in 10 rushing attempts against MC's line. He scored two of the Gamecock TD's on plunges.

Halfback's Back

The two halfbacks will be Earl Roberts another returnee, and John Krochina, a newcomer to the Gamecock line-up. Roberts was the starting right half last year and ground out 48 yards in eight carries last year. Roberts also caught one pass good for 21 yards on Jacksonville's first pay dirt play. Krochina is the "sleeper" player of Salls' squad in that nothing is known about him save that he is a refugee from Amsterdam, N.Y. and carries 190 pounds on a six foot frame.

Vets All Around

Linecoach Ray Wedgeworth also knows where he stands with six

Two Ton Tackles

Two old vets also man the tackle positions and from the looks of their weights won't take too much pushing around. Wesley Hardy who was a senior last year(?) weighs in at 220 pounds and Whit Wyatt is a junior weighing 200. Both boys have picked up five pounds since last year. Backing them up from the bench will be Dan Baldwin, 198.

One Armed Guard

Playing at the left guard post will be Jodie Connell who will furnish new interest for Maryville fans. Connell has only one arm but has made use of what's left very effectively. He was an All Southern guard at Lakeland, Florida, and returned to his home town to play. Connell also kicks off and boots the extra points. His mate on the right side will be Billy Hudson, 185 pounder, who also played last year. Reserves are Jim Collins 193 from White Plains, New York, and Tom Gordon who weighs 220. Probably, the first two will play offense and the second pair will play defense because of their weight.

Cain Raises H—

James Cain plays the center spot and the 175 pound senior has relief in Bobby Harris another two hundred pounder. Other reserves who saw some action last year and who should play tonight are Bob Wynn, a left halfback, and Charles Stough.

fullback. Coach Salls' team runs off the Notre Dame box and will throw plenty of stuff to the left as the right and will use if they can long passes. Connell ran the guard-around for the Gamecocks last year and Meadows pulled off an end-around play against the Scots. So, anything can be expected.

Keny and King Play

Maryville will start the same lineup as started against Hiwassee with the exception of left end and left halfback. Babe Keny returns to action and Jerry King will start in place of the injured Charlie Allen at left half. Allen hurt his foot in last week's game and it is not known whether or not he will play. Maryville has gotten many of the kinks "knocked out" and the offense and defense should be much smoother tonight than they were against Hiwassee—of course nothing could have been that bad.

Probable lineups for tonight:

the Echo office or to Coach Johnson and new fancy linen handkerchiefs will be handed out to you in return. Twasn't funny. . . . Also noticed on the cross country front with the departure of three of last year's men to the ranks of the rooters is an apparent lack of entuhsiasm or sumpn. Last year's team did not have too much talent (I'm sorry, Del) but the men had a spirit that was seldom equaled. One thing that can maybe give them all a lift is to see more than the usual group of girl friends and other cross country men at the meets. Let's all go and see them run UT. . . . Another misanthrope which has been discussed on the campus is that concerning the reported to-be-taken bugle of one John Baird by members of a group called the SOL's. There are other names for what these letters stand for but we will not mention them and only say that Baird and a few others were the only ones making noise at the game. The pep and zip just died out after the first quarter and perked up only towards the end for a few belated instants. Even though John's voice couldn't be heard, the bugle was which showed that he had the old spizer-inctum in him. The game was also marked by many a sarcastic comment hurled at coaches and player from "hadacoled" fans who always knew what plays should be run. Let's have less of this and more good old fashioned spirit even if we're behind—let's not be bumps on a log.

TIGERS TRIP

twisted and turned down the left side of the gridiron for 45 yards behind excellent blocking on a fake handoff. Callaway's kick was good and MC once again had forged to the fore as the quarter ran out, 20-13.

Tied Up Again, 20-20

On Hiwassee's first play after getting the ball, Scroggins shot perfect passes to Shelton good for nine and 20 yards sandwiched around gains by Campbell and himself good for 30. Carl Mainous picked up a first down on the one after smashing 14 and the Scroggins-to-Shelton combination clicked again for the final one yard and another tie as Campbell's toe connected for the placement.

And now the eager Tigers were really rolling and in their glory for they had scored more points than any other Hiwassee team had scored in the long history of athletic relations between their school and MC. They didn't know that they were supposed to have been beaten and came charging out of the huddle from time to time to rack up gains after Maryville forfeited the ball on a 44-yard kick by Berrong.

Never Mind. . .

Maryville took the ball over for one last gesture and Jimmy Campbell picked up 14 for the last ground gain. After a loss by the now-harder-charging Tiger line, Berrong's pass was intercepted by Bunch who was playing halfback on the Tiger 5-3-2-1 defense instead of his normal end spot. Bunch galloped in glee across the double-lines. Campbell's kick was not good but it didn't matter.

Wills, Kemp To Compete For Homecoming Crown

Students To Elect In Two Day Polls

All-day balloting will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday to elect Homecoming Queen to reign over the Homecoming football game, October 21, against Emory and Henry. Nominations made by the student body last Thursday morning in chapel included Sally Kemp and Mary Wills.

Miss Kemp is president of BG Club and was secretary of Athletic Board of Control last year. She has also served as secretary of M Club, been an ABC Calendar girl, and was sponsor of her class in the sophomore year. Miss Kemp is a senior physical education major from Acworth, Ga.

Miss Wills is a sociology major from Baltimore, Md., and is president of Bainonian society. She was secretary of her class in her freshman year and now serves on the Y cabinet. A member of Student Council, she serves on the Student-Faculty Senate and Inter-Club Council. She is also active in Student Vols.

McClelland, King Head Frosh Class

Freshmen class elected Bob McClelland as their president for the year '50-'51 in all day polls last Wednesday. McClelland is from Maryville and was president of his Student Council at Maryville High. President of his class in his junior year, he was also on football and basketball teams. He is a member of Scotty football squad this year.

Chosen to fill the office of vice-president was another local boy, Jerry King who is a business administration major. King was active in athletics in his high school, a member of the football, basketball, and tennis teams. He is out for football here at MC.

Fraser Takes Notes

From Oklahoma City, Okla is Carol Fraser who was elected secretary. Miss Fraser is a home economics major and served on her high school Council.

Treasurer Jim Hunt is from Uniontown, Pa. Hunt was president of his class and served on Student Council while in high school.

Representatives on Council are Peggy Hurst, language major from Oak Ridge, and Bob Buchanan, business administration major from Maryville. Both newly elected representatives sat in on their first Council meeting last Wednesday night.

MC Prexy Writes Article On 'Christian College'

President Ralph W. Lloyd is the author of a newly-published phamplet entitled "The Christian College in America." Copies have already been given to faculty and directors, and will be sent to alumni.

A wide distribution in the Christian education field is expected.

Fulbright Grants For Foreign Study Are Now Available

Dr. Frank D. McClelland has announced that students interested in obtaining federal grants for graduate study abroad under the Fulbright Act must complete applications by October 31. These applications may be made in the Personnel Office.

Eligibility requirements are U. S. citizenship, a college degree or its equivalent at the time award is to be made, knowledge of the language of the country sufficient to carry on proposed study, and good health.

This is a national competition with thousands of applicants. Selection is made on the basis of the applicant's personal suitability for study abroad, academic record, value of the proposed study or research, and placeability in an institution of higher learning abroad. No written examination is held, but an interview will be required by all grantees.

National Competition

Multiple applications cannot be made and there is no provision for study of a shorter duration than nine months.

Fields of study are not limited and placement in an institution is arranged by the U. S. Educational Foundations abroad Since foreign universities do not give degrees to candidates enrolled for only one year, it is impossible to obtain a graduate degree under this program.

Awards are made entirely in the currencies of the participating countries abroad. They cover transportation, expenses of a language refresher and orientation course, tuition, books, and maintenance for one academic year.

Applicants will be notified of the results six months after the close of competition.

MacMillan Chosen First "Miss Pep" At State Game

Jane MacMillan was presented as "Miss Pep of 1950" last Saturday night at half-time ceremonies of the Jacksonville-Maryville football game on the new field, by the Pep Committee. Miss MacMillan was leading "Lady MacTavish," MC'e Scotty mascot, and was escorted by Jim Townsend, Pep Committee chairman.

Miss MacMillan is a senior education major from Acworth, Ga. and is president of FTA. She was dressed in a Highlander's outfit of red and green plaid which was bought by donations from the four dorms. The fund started by the Pep Committee had a dual purpose. It may spark a drive to obtain band uniforms.

More Uniform Coming

The uniform is not as yet complete. On order from New York through Proffitt's are her sporan, stockings, spats, and white leather sash belt. The doublet, kilts, and cap were made by Mrs. L. L. Williams in the College Maid Shop.

"Lady Mac" has been trained to sit on her hind legs during the playing of the Alma Mater and fans watched her slowly rise to attention last Saturday night as the band played.

Architect Group Visits Fine Arts

A group composed of members of the American Institute of Architects, Tennessee Chapter, will visit the new Fine Arts Center this afternoon. The trip to the building, which has been voted by the architects of the state as the most outstanding new construction in this area, is to be a feature of the organization's fall meeting in Knoxville. About 40 architects will attend the tour of the building.

Mammoth Manufacturing Plants at Oak Ridge were visited by the Tennessee Chapter during their last meeting in Knoxville, four years ago. Few people are now permitted to visit these plants.

Dallas Speaks At Vespers

Dr. A. E. Dallas of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in Knoxville will speak at Vespers, Sunday evening at 7 in the Library.

Anthems rendered by the Vesper Choir will be "Goes goes up on High" by Gallus, and "In Heaven Above" by Christiansen. Conrad Eaddy is soloist in "In Heaven Above."

Echo Staffs Meet For Fun, Initiation

Echo editorial and business staffs will hold their annual fall get-to-gether on Wednesday night, October 11. Sally Brown, Carson Seeley, and Phyll Jackson are in charge of program of entertainment and initiation.

Freshmen to be initiated will be Walter Elwood, Bob Navratil, Pat Lovette, Marion Heron, Ellen Turner, Joan Frei, and John Olsen.

Athenians Lead Pep

In the Pep Committee's last meeting, Athenian offered to take over the pep program for his past week and Alpha Sigma he week of Homecoming. George Barber is in charge of Athenian's Pep Committee.

Earisman, Shew Read

Writers' Workshop heard compositions by John Shew and Del Earisman last Wednesday at 4:30 in Anderson 23. Shew's composition, "Augustus and the Rat", was criticized by Lucy Carrick. "December Magnificat" by Earisman was criticized by Earl Shellkopf.

Hope Pledges Total $1828 Next Payments Oct. 10th

As of October 4, the Fred Hope Fund has collected $487, an increase of $46 over last week's amount. Mrs. K. P. Johnson announced also that 456 pledges totalling $1,828 have been made so far. Next payments are to be made October 10.

Band Presents New Formations At MC-Centre Fray

Maryville College Band under the direction of W. Curtis Hughes will provide pre-game and half-time activities tonight when Maryville meets Centre under the lights at the new field.

Pre-game selections will include the National Emblem March and the National Anthem. During the half several new formations, including a telescope, a "C" for Centre, a Scotty dog and an "M" in a revolving square for Maryville. They will traditionally close the ceremonies with Alma Mater.

Pat Love, 1950 Band Sponsor will march with the band which is lead by an eight man front: Charles Williams, band leader; George Carpenter, baton twirler; and majorettes Ruthie Garst, Happy Huddleston, Phyllis West, Jean Davis, Peggy Kettles.

Additional half-time activities last week included the presentation of Jane MacMillan as "Miss Pep of 1950" leading "Lady MacTavish," school mascot, and escorted by Jim Townsend; and freshmen Rat Race on the field.

Faculty Lecture At Presbyterian Training School

Several Maryville College faculty members are taking part in the annual training school of New Providence Presbyterian Church which began last Wednesday and will continue for six weeks.

Mrs. Carmen Marquis and A. F. Pieper are teaching an adult course in "The Church in the Near East." Lecturers on "Man and His Twentieth Century Crisis" are Dr. E. R. Hunter, Mrs. A. F. Pieper, Dr. W. H. Crothers, Dr. H. E. Orr, President Ralph W. Lloyd, and Edwin J. Best.

An adult class on "The Life and Letters of Paul" is being taught by New Providence pastor Thomas Graham. Dr. J. D. Buchanan is teaching a junior high class on "Comparative Religions."

Initial Productions Of Theatre Play To Capacity House

Capacity houses saw the initial stagings of Experimental Theatre last night at 7:30 and 9 p.m. in Bartlett Hall auditorium. First productions of the season were "Aria da Capo," by Edna St. Vincent Millay and "The Man Who Died at Twleve O'Clock," by Paul Green.

Austin Van Pelt was student director for "The Man" and Claude Cowan was cast as Uncle January, a rather old colored gentleman who feared death and believed he would die at midnight. Supporting cast included Gerry Wheat as Charley and Joan Titley as Sally. They are the youngest element and delight in playing pranks on the old man.

"Aria da Capo"

Sara Jo Emert and Jim Dance held leading roles in "Aria da Capo," an anti-war tragedy showing futility of war. As Pierrot and Columbine, the two portray the younger set which inveitably follow a gay, shallow life of the post-war days, somewhat on the order of the Greenwich Village class.

Supporting roles were played by Del Earisman as Congdon, Bob Lehr as Corinthus, and Wally Schroeder as Thyris. Director for the production was Jim Dance.

Glee Clubs Elect '50-'51 Officers

In elections held this fall, the Men's Glee Club elected Larry Thompson, president. Jim Townsend was elected vice president, Bob Larson, social chairman, and Bill Faulkner, secretary.

The Men's Glee Club will hold their annual barbecue picnic on October 19. More information will come later.

Gracie Scruggs was elected President of the Girls' Glee Club. Irene Mellon was elected Vice President, Lou Masters, social chairman, and Betty Roach, secretary-treasurer.

FAC Recital Held In New Music Hall On October 10

Initial student recital of the season will be held Tuesday afternoon, October 10, in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall at 4:30 p.m. The concert will mark the first program given in the new Center for the public.

Margaret Ann Warren will be accompanied by Lesta Merrick as she sings a soprano solo, "Traume," by Wagner. Herbert Hoover, pianist, will play Beethoven's "Sonata, Op. 2, No. 3, Scherzo." June Hood will play two selections: Mozart's "Allegro maestoso," from Sonata in A Minor (K. 300d) and Chopin's "Etude, Op. 10, No. 3.00

Marshall Plays Blues

A grouping of Four Piano Blues will be played by Carolyn Marshall. The selection by Copland includes "Freely Poetic," "Soft and Languid," "Muted and Sensuous," and "With Bounce." Miss Marshall will be followed by Louise Lloyd playing Liszt's "Etude de Concert in F Minor."

A quartet, will render "Non ti fidar, o mirea," from "Don Giovanni" by Mozart. Evalyn Smith will sing as Donna Elvira, Gloria Measamer as Donna Anna, Ken Shaffer as Don Ottavio, and Conrad Eaddy as Don Giovanni. Johnny Sayre will accompany the number.

Radio Airs 'Search' As YM Uses Magic; YW Holds Sing

Pathways, the Y Radio program, will broadcast over WGAP Monday night at 9:30. It will present an original short story by Barbara Blum, entitled "The Search," and narrated by Bill Starr.

The background music of the program is arranged each week by Herbert Hoover. The special music this week will be a girls' trio, made up of Nina Ruth Gillette, Louise Packard, and Janice Marion, singing "Holy Spirit, Truth Divine."

Magician At YM

R. M. Robinson, principal of the Alcoa High School will perform as magician for the YM Sunday program. Mr. Robinson was a guest in chapel two years ago.

The meeting will be held in Bartlett auditorium at 1:30 p.m.

Schroeder Leads Songs

A Singspiration will be the program at YWCA tomorrow at 1:30 in the Library. Wally Schroder is to lead the singing, with Dick Ribble at the piano.

Special music will be by Helen Seay, George Howell, Dick Ribble, Wally Schroeder, and a string quartet composed of Doris Somerville, Virginia Harris, Joy Hayes, and Katherine Crews.

YWCA is currently working on the organization of a Community Service Program to replace the Orphanage Project of former years. The new program includes such activities as Y-Teens, Old Folks Home, Girl Scouting, and assistants at recreational and library work in the community.

Programs To Take Many Students From MC Campus Next Saturday

AT COUNCIL

C-N, Maryville Pact, Who's Who Discussion

New freshmen officers and representatives met with Student Council for the first time last Wednesday night at its regular meeting in the Student Center at 8:30 p.m.

Again it was stated that Homecoming elections would be held next Tuesday and Wednesday in all-day polls.

Dean Carr of Carson-Newman called asking that a group of students from C-N meet with Maryville students to reaffirm the pact signed two years ago. It was decided that sometime next week there would be the proposed meeting.

Who's Who Nominees

Recommendations which were sent to the Student-Faculty Senate last week by Council were agreed upon, Joe Poland announced, and they are being sent on to the Executive Council of the faculty.

Nominations to Who's Who were held by Council and results of that election will be passed on to the faculty for approval or addition. Final nominees will be sent to the national council for election.

Episcopalians Hear Arda Walker

Arda Walker, assistant professor of economics, will speak to the college class of St. Andrew's Episcopal Sunday School tomorrow at 9:30. Her topic is "To What Extent Should Economic Problems be the Province of the Church?" beginning a four week consideration of this subject by class.

Speaker at the class picnic Tuesday at Laurel Lake was Fr. Clunan of the newly organized Roman Catholic parish in Maryville.

Athenians Hear Frosh

Freshman talent will be featured on Athenian's program tonight. The meeting is to take place in Bartlett Auditorium at 6:15.

South American Theme Presented At Volunteers

Student Volunteers program tomorrow will feature South America. Armondo Divas is to speak on the topic "The Barefoot King"; others taking part will be Roger Padron, who will deliver the invocation in Spanish, Lavinia Rodriquez, and George Day.

Special music is to be in the form of a Spanish hymn, and the program will also include several slides.

The YM hike will be held October 14 and 15 in the Chimney Camp Grounds in the Smokies. The buses will leave Saturday afternoon at 1:30 and will get back to campus about 4:30 on Sunday afternoon. There is room for only 60 boys, and since about 50 have already signed up, any others wishing to go are asked to sign up as soon as possible. If there is no table outside Pearsons, money may be paid in 205 Bartlett. The cost is $1.75, which includes transportation and meals. Those going are asked to bring their own bedding, as they will sleep outdoors. It will not be necessary to take a Sunday School cut, because services will be held in the mountains.

"M" To Laurel Lake

"M" Club varsiteers will hold their annual overnight camping trip at Laurel Lake, leaving from the side of Pearsons at 1 p.m. next Saturday. They will return early Sunday evening.

Nanette Enloe and Betty Carroll are in charge of program arrangements. Scheduled are activities of boating, hiking, swimming, archery, and other outdoor recreation.

First Retreat

Nu Gamma Retreat, the first of its kind to be held by the organization, will be taken to Montvale next Saturday, October 14. A traditional breakfast was held in the woods prior to this plan and all new women students were invited by Nu Gamma leaders. The program has been carried on since 1933.

Each new student, freshman or transfer, is urged to give her name to her Nu Gamma leader or to Betty Carroll. The program scheduled will include the loading of the buses at 1 p.m. at the chapel site; a recreational time until 4 p.m. when Louise Lloyd will lead a worship service on the mountainside as president of YWCA.

Supper will be served at 6 p.m. and Nu Gamma leaders will lead a discussion group at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Margaret Cummings, Y mother, will close the retreat with campfire singing and a talk.

Committees In Charge

Mary Jane Spencer and Myrtle Watkins are in charge of the recreational program and Jean Ellis and Izzy Leitch are publicity chairmen. Lois Lerch heads financial matters with Ruth Burgos on bulletins.

Discussion leader is Edith MacMillan and Food committee includes Sally Brown, Pat Lewis, Murt Kennedy, Shirley Postelthwaite, Jackie Smith, Sally Drum, Bobbie Parris, and Stan Ray.

It is hoped by the committee that each girl will attend as this is the climax of the semester's Nu Gamma programs.

Freedom Crusade Enlists Students' Aid As MCers Sign 'Declaration'

International Relations Club continues today the circulation of "Crusade for Freedom" petitions in cooperation with the Maryville city and Blount County drives. This is the third day the club has made the petitions available on campus.

"Crusade for Freedom" is sponsored by the National Committee for a Free Europe, and has as its national chairman General Lucius D. Clay. Signers of the Freedom Scroll will have their names permanently listed on the base of a freedom bell too be erected in Berlin.

Ceremonies celebrating the dedication of the bell will take place on United Nations Day October 24. It "will be a living symbol of freedom and hope to the enslaved people of the world," according to a publication of the crusade's committee Inscribed on the bell will be the words "That this world, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom."

The "Declaration of Freedom" on each scroll bears the following pledge: "I believe in the sacredness and dignity of the individual.

"I believe that all men derive the right to freedom equally from God.

"I pledge to resist aggression and tyranny wherever they appear on earth."

Truman Affirms

In connection with the signing of the documents, President Harry S. Truman stated" . . . I hope that all Americans will join in dedicating themselves to this critical struggle for men's minds . . . ."

Speaking in chapel Thursday morning President Lloyd urged students to back the Crusade and connected with the effort such names as Harry Emerson Fosdick, Dwight D. Eisenhower, J. W. Fulbright, Cordell Hull, Reinhold Niebuhr, and Henry R. Luce.

286 Maryvillians Are Under Student Help Program–Clean, Sew, Cut Lawns

More than one-third of the student body of Maryville College are employed under the student employment program this year. The program has had a long and successful history dating from the 1830's when board cost ten dollars a year and the faculty looked for some way to reduce expenses for the students. A system was devised so that by working one day a week at the college farm the expenses could be reduced to $7.50.

Today of the 286 employed ninety are in the dining hall, fifty-five have janitor jobs, twenty one are in the library, and thirty-three are laboratory assistants or readers. Others have such jobs as Book Store, "Y" Store, Student Center hostess, athletic trainer, life guards, office work, tennis courts, driving the Parish station wagon, College Maid Shop and campus crew. The newest jobs we have heard of are cleaning piano keys and modeling for the Art Department.

New students applying for a job are given a choice of waiting tables in the dining hall, cleaning in one of the buildings, sewing in the College Maid Shop for women, general outdoor work on the campus crew for men, and, for those who have the necessary qualifications, typing in one of the offices.

After a period of a year when a student has established a good scholastic and work record other jobs carrying more responsibility and, therefore, more pay are offered.

Calls from town for students to act as baby sitters or do other jobs are handled through the Student Employment Office, which makes an effort to contact interested persons for these opportunities.

The average remuneration for student help-work is approximately $100 to $125 for the year. We have come a long way from the $2.50 of 1830.

A Scot's Values—

Unique is a word usually reserved for such rarities as a chicken with teeth or a Russian delegate voting yea in a U.N. session. Webster prefers it as "single in kind of excellence." To those who have made Maryville our home for a few semesters that word seems to fittingly describe what we find here. Maryville is unique.

Attempting to put our finger on what makes it so is almost like trying to make a scientific analysis of what makes truth truth or what are the prerequisites for beauty. Saying that it is the atmosphere or the spirit which we find here is rather vague.

In the long trains of tradition we might find the answer to what makes Maryville unique; homecoming-founders' day, serenades, circle drive, pep rallies, our queens, formal dances, Anderson's towering height, Town Night. But every college has its own series of traditions. It might be the campus itself for who can deny the warmth that thoughts of such bring to mind. But many campuses are thought more beautiful.

The only logical conclusion then would seem to be that it is we—students, faculty, administration, staff members—the people who by and large determine the quality and character of this institution. It is the relationship of student to superiors that causes a tense or relaxed, competitive or cooperative, creative or destructive atmosphere. It is the degree of respect for every man's ideas and beliefs, the intensity of desire to understand every other man's feelings, to reach for some higher goal, to make some contribution, which has made Maryville Maryville.

In an age when the younger generation is being accused—and convicted—of irresponsibility and immaturity, there is a tremendous need and challenge to preserve those values for which Maryville stands. We as students have an opportunity to keep something quite distinctive alive.

Having named the college he attended, a young man was asked flippantly, "What's that—a disease?" The answer came from a loyal son: "Hardly. But you do have to catch it!"

PARTY LINE TID-BITS

Unknown frosh: I think my teachers are nice. I wonder if I could come back here and teach.

Amused senior: Maybe, if you're good when you die.

IN MEMORIAM

Bluebeard, the MC scholar,
Arose last Sunday morn.
Altho the Gamecocks beat us,
His face was smoothly shorn.

OBITUARY COLUMN

"Skeet" Tallent has passed away to his reward in Knoxville. He shall truly be remembered for his works on this campus.

GOOD MORNING, BREAKFAST CLUBBERS

Will Willingham, who is collecting bugs for biology, remarked: I can't understand why the waitress should bring me a grasshopper to breakfast.

Quipped Tasker Robinette: Yeah, the rest of us only had oatmeal and toast.

ATTENTION FROSH!

Impress your English teachers with big words by using tips from Jim Dance's bulletin board, "Make words work for you." Here is what can be done.

Scintillate, scintillate, asteroid minific,
Fain would I fathom thy nature specific.
Loftily poised in the ether capacious,
Strongly resembling a gem carbonaceous.

Okay, okay. It is "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star."

QUOTABLE QUOTES:

Mrs. Pieper: A poker face is good in a poker game. (How about it, Carnegie?)

BEAUTY PARADE

Overheard on way to chapel. One little girl to another: "That's Charles Williams, the band leader. Isn't he pretty!"

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

John Laney and Jack Waka, representatives of College Cleaners, must believe in the Power of Advertising. Why else those cute little signs with the top-hat and tie or the iron and ironing board?

I WONDER?

During a discussion on population trends and the housing shortage in Mr. Ainsworth's Social Science class, Dot Johnson asked: Where are all those people coming from?

Mr. Ainsworth: Well, where do people come from?

CONGRATULATIONS, DOC!

Dr. Griffitts is now a member of the Twenty-five Roses Club. Each rose signifies a year with the MC faculty.

FLASH!

I feel that it is of the utmost importance to present these facts because of the unusual circumstances involved.

During the recent using of the lie detector in Dr. Briggs' psych classes, it was discovered that at least five student body members have the faculty of deceiving the detector.

Since we must associate with them, it is felt that their names must be revealed regardless of consequences.

They are Dave Reed, Joy Hickman, Ron Fleming, Phyl West, and Bob McKean.

There may be others. Rest assured that if there are, we will expose them if it be within our power.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

Dr. McClelland in commenting on the unfinished bleachers: We don't want to let the townspeople down. (The bleachers are probably finished by now).

OPPORTUNITY FOR GILLETTE!

What with the boys not shaving and all, we wonder what they do with their spare time. Most worthy of honorable mention seem to be Ken Shaffer, Ken Upton, and Allan Caldwell. Caldwell is most recently seen trying to find an object to rub those whiskers on and Phyll-ing the bill very well is Jackson, of course!

SERIES CHATTER

Miss Hunter is Dr. Lloyd's official reporter on the World Series, keeping up a play by play account on the car radio.

Most disappointed boy alive was Tom Kelly when his beloved "Bums" tramped out of the race. Sherman Lester (rumored to be holding stock in a certain ball club) made his class ring report to the senior class last Thursday: "The Yankees will win today!"

TALK OF THE WEEK

Mary Hamelman

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

Flickering

Movie goers have a wide selection from which to choose this week. Playing at the Capitol Monday and Tuesday is "Captain China;" Wednesday, "Impact;" and Thursday and Friday, "My Blue Heaven."

"Captain China" is a Paramount picture with a barnacle-covered script. It casts John Payne as a tough ex-skipper out to get the scoundrel who locked him in his cabin while he was innocently sleeping off a drunk. To add to the confusion, the treacherous first mate (Jeffrey Lynn) ran the ship onto a reef and left it sinking. As a passenger aboard another ship carrying the villains, Payne gets his revenge during a China Sea voyage marked by gory fist fights, a typhoon, and romantic affair with a supposedly exotic tramp (Gail Russell). In all, the roaring typhoon effects are fine. In true movie fashion though, they never quite succeed in drowning out the dialogue.

"Impact," a United Artists release of a Harry M. Popkin production, achieves a laudable level of suspense early in the film and struggles frantically, but unsuccessfully, to do as well in the climax. The plot concerns a San Francisco industrialist (Brian Donlevy) whose beautiful and scheming wife (Helen Walker) is out to kill him in order to marry her lover (Tony Barrett). The plot ties itself into improbable knots, and even the steadying performances of Donlevy and Charles Coburn, who plays police Lieutenant Quincy, fails to put a straight face on its ultimate foolishness.

"My Blue Heaven" picks up where most stage door dramas ring down the final curtain. This film, a Twentieth-Century Fox release, opens with Betty Grable and Dan Dailey successful in radio, happily married, and eagerly expecting a blessed event. However, such good fortune does not long abide with this warm-hearted couple. Around the baby evolves a human-interest story which may make your eyes moist. Also of interest in the musical comedy are the extravagant dance productions and catchy tunes (seven new ones), included because the couple have just started on a new road to stardom—television.

Plans are a bit wavering at the Park, and the schedule for the week was not available by publication time.

Reading

Among the books on the New Book Table in the Library this week are Arnold Bergstrasser's "Goethe's Image of Man and Society;" "Everyday Work of the Westminster Assembly," by Samuel Carruthers; "Positive Philosophy of Auguste Comte," by himself; "High Towers," by Thomas Costain; "The Marx Brothers," (a biography), by Kyle Crichton;

"Symphonies of Haydon, Schubert, and Mozart in Score," by Joseph Haydn; "They Knew What They Wanted," by Sidney Howard; "Gold Rush Album," by Joseph Jackson; "Milton's Samson and the Christina Tradition," by F. Michail Krouse; "The Golden Wing," by Yao-hua Lin;

"Principles of Elementary Education," by Henry Otto; "Control of Industry," Dennis Robertson: "Art of Scenic Design," by Lee Simonson; "Thoughts of God for Boys and Girls," (a family worship book); "Trying-out of Moby Dick," by Howard Vincent; "Dramatic Essays of the Neoclassic Age," by Henry Adams; "Mind's Adventure," by Howard Lowry; and last, but not least, Clare Barnes' "Campus Zoo," (a sequel to "Home Sweet Zoo" and "White Collar Zoo.")

Hearing

Music lovers can look forward to some grand entertainment come October 23-24. On the 23rd, the Blount Civic Music Association will bring to the Everett High School Auditorium Francine Falkon. Rise Stevens is scheduled to appear in the first of the University Series at the University of Tennessee on the 24th.

Applauding

Both of the Experimental plays last night were in the high tradition of Experimental history. There was a high contrast between the comedy and tragedy. Some excellent acting on the part of Dance and Emert (somewhat out of their usual roles) was displayed during the evening, though the play as a whole did not receive the reception it should have as a tragedy. The setting for "The Man Who Died at Twelve O'clock" was most effective, though the Negro dialect showed a bit too much of the "Yankee influence."

Sports Echoes

●BEAT CENTRE—The Scots can beat Centre if they play like they did against Jacksonville State. The Colonels are strong (beat Tusculum 26-0); they have a pretty good passing attack tied up with a clever ground attack which features "sleepers," players lined up backwards, and other kinds of "hope" plays. Sparkplug of the Colonel atack is John Acton, a shifty halfback.

One of the most-discussed (and cussed) problems of the year has been the finding of a correct scoring combination. Who shall compose the backfield? That is the question. Various combinations have been tried, but a clicking quartet with a good scoring punch has yet to be found. King Berrong is about it at the QB spot, but from there on, there are many combinations. Grant Sharp and Harold Glad at the Fullback spot and Dick Mirshak, Jimmy Campbell and Charlie Allen at the halfs are about what's left from the paring-down process. Any suggestions will be gratefully accepted if they are submitted with one box top before midnight on Christmas eve. One at a time, please.

One reason for the hurried-up completion(?) of the football field was Centre's refusal to play on "The Mountain." After seeing them on the pool table like green at Danville, we can understand their viewpoint.

●BEAT CENTRE—Weeping, Wailing, and Gnashing of teeth. Going over the cry-baby aspects of the last two games, we are inclined to think MC will arrive at the oasis of victory tonight after a journey over the parched sands of defeat. The team has been getting more and more spirit, not to mention co-ordination ,and this should be the week. Looking back over statistics, we see that one thing that helped Hiwassee and hurt Maryville was penalties. Maryville had two 40 yard runs nullified by penalties of the fifteen yard variety added to one other minus-fifteener and four of the five yard loss type. Hiwassee committed one more foul—eight—but all of hers were of the five yard kind and never did they come in her own territory. Jacksonville came up here about as over-confident as any team has ever come here. There were evidences of "pauses that refresh" wtih the Gamecocks' "Men of Distinction" and "T-zone testers.' However, Coach Salls must be commended for the job he did in whipping them to frenzy in the second half even if he was the other teams coach.

Back to statistics, here are the rushing averages for this year's first two games:

Player	Attempts	Yardage	Ave. Per Try
Berrong	15	88	5.53
Campbell	13	59	4.54
Sharp	7	18	2.57
Allen	14	29	2.07
Mirshak	5	27	5.40
Glad	7	30	4.28
Gibson	12	-3	-.25

●BEAT UT—This afternoon a contingent of UT runners will come over in an attempt to make mincemeat of our thinlies. Last year, the running controversy with the Orange and White was heated to a white flame with charges and counter-charges being flung both ways to the effect that MC had lost UT in the wods and that UT was running ineligible men. We still think that even though UT did get lost MC would have squeezed through with a two point victory the way the runners stood on the course 'fore they were lost. Maryville has a little string of six straight wins on the line and will be trying for a lucky seventh. From the skimpy records which we have scrounged out, MC holds six wins in the rivalry since 1935 when the Orange and Garnet won, 16-20, to three victories (all in the last few years) for the other school. Let's see a crowd out there this afternoon for Menges, Earisman, Williams, Rogers, Thurston, and company—the company coming from Kelly, Helwig, Kerr, or Day. Here's one sport in which fan support really sparks a team to its utmost endeavor!!

●TENNIS GOT STARTED EARLY this year as the netsmen clobbered C-N on Memorial Courts last Wednesday. This shows the value of the tennis tournament getting the men into shape early. Things look okey-dokep for Coach Johnson who seems to get these got-it-made coaching jobs in minor sports. Also, here's another reminder that the golf greens are in pretty decent shape this year and that Jerry Sayres' title is open since "Old Slim" left with the Ntl. Guard. Prospective Byron Nelsons and Bobby Jones had better get going if they want to top Sayre's total of 114 for 36 holes which was pretty good. This also reminds us of the fact that the good game of golf is still one of the best tests of religion. . . . Saddest man on the campus this week was one Tom Kelly whose beloved Bums lost Sunday to the Whiz Kids. The Philly team might have wound up with the title of the Fizz Kids had not Dick Sisler, son of the Hall of Fame member who works for Branch Rickey, busted one into the stands.

Bandman Hughes announces that all fans who want to holler can sit by the band. . .. .it's a good idea. . . one episode, though, which we don't like to pass on is that concerning one yolked-missile hurled by a member of the other school's student body at the band last week, let's not have to sign a peace pact again, huh? . . . . .Unanswered questions concerning a group which added color to the Hiwassee game. Where was the impressive-looking color-guard last week?

Scot Thinlies Lay Record On Line Today, Meet UT

Cross Country Team Runs At Three

Maryville's cross-country team undefeated last year, meets the long-distancers from the University of Tennessee today on the new track. The meet begins at three o'clock this afternoon and will be run on the 2.2 mile course which takes in a good stretch in the college woods and four laps around the track, two before and two after the jaunt through the woods.

20-39 Last Year

Last year the Scots defeated the UTers by a score of 20-39. The team ran up a total of five straight wins in 1949 and have a six meet winning skein over two years. Their last previous loss was to UT in 1948.

Bill Menges took first place Thursday in the final pre-meet time trials with a speedy time of 17:44. Del Earisman followed with a close 17:56. Ric Rogers took third with a time of 18:21. Jim Thurston was not present for the trials but will run in the fourth position today. The last three positions for today's meet were decided by relatively close scores. Dick Kerr had a time of 18:35; Dave Helwig had a 18:38; and Dave Williams followed with a 18:45.

Back For Anudder Try

Earisman, Thurston, Menges and Rogers are returning letter-men from last year's squad. George Day has rejoined the squad and is working out daily to put his name back on the list of starting seven.

Thursday the squad travels to UT for a return meet, and on Saturday goes to TPI.

Holmberg Paces PT

Pacing this year's UT squad is Alf Holmberg, their Swedish transfer student. Homberg, a sophomore, is picking up where former Maryvillian, Tom Scott, left off. From reports and glimpses at his style, he looks like another Scott and could possibly better Scott's many records. Also back for Coach Carleton Crowell's Orange and White will be John Trent and Walter DeVault who are no slouches at the hard grind of running 3.2 miles. They have seen Maryville's course for three years and know just about every nook and cranny as well as Maryville's men.

Meet time is at 3 o'clock.

Handy Baird

John Baird, who had to drop out of cross-country on doctor's orders after having a very succesful season last year, has been Coach Johnson's right hand man. Baird has made and set up the trial markers through the college woods and made himself a general handyman for the team.

Intramural Info . . .

Moving into the last week of play, the powerhouses of both leagues notched victories to complete undefeated seasons. The Bluejays and Y.M.C.A. will represent their respective leagues in the play-off game.

Starting the week's action, Y.M.C.A. eched out an eight to nothing win oyer the last place Redman, while the Athenians came to life in the second game and administered a thirty-two to nothing drubbing to Pre-Min. 2. A Browning to Young pass gave the A.S. Woodsmen a six to nothing win over the A.S. Highlanders in a hard fought contest.

The Golphers, after being held scoreless in the first half, downed Pre-Min. 2, twelve to nothing. The A.S. Scotties squeezed past the Puritans, six to nothing. Erickson's toss to Jones providing the winning margin.

Tuesday the A.S. Woodsman and Pre-Min. 1 forfeited games to the Athenians and Athenian Owls respectively. Bluejays ended this year's touch football season by beating a stubborn Pre-Min. 2 team, twelve to seven. Most of Woodmen attended basketball practice as did members of many other teams.

GOLF

All Sam Sneads and Byron Nelsons have been called to colors by Coach Johnson for the intramural golf match, starting on the 16th of October.

The college golf course, which lost four holes when the Fine Arts Center was built, has been re-routed to include long drives and variation. Three holes are being utilized to make up a nine hole golf course.

Tee-off spot is to the right of the first green located directly in front of trailer-town. That green is to be used as holes 2, 5 and 8. The middle green in front and a little to the left of the first green is to be used as numbers 3 and 6. The far green on the third base line of the softball field is holes number 1, 4, 7 and 9.

The match will consist of 36 holes. Linksmen will play in foursomes and at their convenience. An unwritten law eliminates professionals but all those that hear the call of the open fairways are urged to sign the sheet hanging in the intramural office.

An All-Star game is on tap for possibly the 24th of October (a Tuesday Night). The stars from the Orange League will play the

Gamecocks Score In Last Half To Beat Highlanders

Scots Fold After Playing On Even Terms

Jacksonville's Gamecocks, handicapped most of the first half by a hustling Maryville defense, came through with three touchdowns in the last half and eventually defeated the Maryville Scots, 21-7.

Curses!

Some 2,00 spectators saw Jacksonville score the first time she got the ball in the third quarter on a sustained drive which went for ninety yards. John Krochina took Harold Glad's kickoff and raced 47 twisting yards through the Maryville line to the Maryville 43 where he was finally tackled. The Gamecocks required only ten plays to strike for their first touchdown. Taking over from the 42, they gained mainly on rushes around end and reverses for yardage. From the 11 they pounded to the one where Krochina carried over. Whit Wyatt kicked the first of three and the Gamecocks of Coach Don Sall had a start.

MC Outhustles'em

The game was a differcnt story in the first half with the Maryville line consistently outcharging the Alabama team. All through the first half, the Notre Dame box attack fizzled as Walker, Isenberg, Larson, Lester, Proffitt and company busted through to stop Jacksonville's traps and quickies from the T and reverses from the box with one jolting tackle after another. Maryville's atack was stopped also but from the looks of things, if the Gamecocks didn't get a move on, there might have been a recurrence of last year's Centre game when Maryville wore down the Colonels and then pounded them to a pulp in the last period to win from behind 28-25.

Jay's Coach Mad

Jacksonville dispelled these chances during the third quarter as they marched back on the field fired up no doubt by some fierce halftime words from Coach Salls. Maryville started on the move, too, for the first time in the game after receiving the kickoff from Connell and went down to the 25 in Gamecock territory. At this critical juncture, the Scot attack was halted as Krochina intercepted an Allen pass in the end zone to switch possession of the ball on a touchback.

I Don't Know—

Taking over on their own twenty they moved up with the beenfit of a five yard penalty to the MC 38. Then Washburn flipped a short one over center which was deflected into the hands of center Jim Cain who for some reason had "hustled down field." Washburn again faded back and heaved one to end John Meadows who caught

SCOTS CLASH WITH "PRAYING COLONELS"

Scots Out To Break Losing Streak

The Maryville Scotties will meet the Colonels from Centre College, Kentucky, tonight in an attempt to break a five game losing skein. Last year the Scotties pulled a 28-25 win out of the fire in the last quarter at Danville, Ky.

Could Be. . .

Maryville has never lost to a team using an unbalanced line, and the Colonels use one. Since 1947 the Scots have meet and defeated the Centre team three times, last year being the first time Centre had scored.

Centre met the Pioneers from Tusculum last Saturday night and walked off with a 28-0 win. Litkenhouse ratings give Centre a 14-point advantage against the Scots.

"Swede" Has Vets

Coach "Swede" Anderson's eighteen veterans back from last year's team, including three who started last year's game. Every starting position is filled by a veteran.

Quarterback this year for the Colonels will be either Dan Moody or Milton Massey. Both understudied Homer Rice of last year's squad. Moody saw little action against the Scots, but Massey gained eight yards in four attempts.

Acton At Half

John Acton should prove a real threat to the Scots. Acton plays the right half-back position, and last year took the ball forty-three yards in seven tries, playing most of the game. Opposite Acton will be Woody Long who last year understudied Joe Brummett, a little All American star and a pain to the Scots. Long's only ball-handling job was a four yard jaunt through the line.

In the fullback position will be Carol Holmes who saw little action against the Scots. The only other veteran back is Ted Iglehart.

The line will about match our line in weight, but will have more experience in collegiate play. However, there is only one senior on the starting line-up and that is Don Tasley who plays right end. Tasley played left end last year. At the other end position will be Ben Smith, a 165 pound pass receiver.

Guard Plays Tackle

At the tackle spots will be two rather light men for that job. Jim Morrison will start on the right side and Charlie Van Meter on the left. Morrison weighs 190 and Van Meter a little lighter 185. Tom Halloran will be a veteran replacement for either of these two.

Five letter men will be available for the contest with Jack Spier and Ben Williams drawing the starting nods, at right and left respecitvely. Both hit the scales at a 180 pound mark. Also available are Dave Steere, Charlie Davi sand Rex Owens.

In the center slot will be Jim Brown, a 180 pound junior.

Let's Win For Herb

The boys will be out to win this one for Herb Palmer who left the team suddenly to attend the funeral of his mother. Palmer is not expected back until next week sometime.

YMCA Marches

In games last week the YMCA continued their winning ways by trouncing the Athenian Owls, 25-0. Frank Morton and George Stanfill chucked some long ones to Al Springfield, Joe McNiell and Ralph Thiesse.

The Scotties eaked out a 7-6 win over Pre-Ministerials I in overtime. Morris Taylor scored the Minister's only touchdown and Horace Beckwith scored the TD for the Scotties. In the overtime play the Scotties pushed the Ministers line two and one-half yards further than Min's pushed them for a one point victory.

Sad Sacks

In another overtime game the Golphers scored a 1-0 victory over the disgruntled last-place Highlanders. The Highlanders lost thirteen yards on an intercepted pass to give the Gophers the game.

Gamecock Win, 21-7

another defelcted pass this time behind the MC man and went for 43 yards to the one. Earl Roberts then carried around left end for the remaining yard and a 14-0 lead as Wyatt booted the placement.

Charlie Allen returned Connell's kickoff 24 yards to the 34 and the Scotie reserves came in to put on a short but smart show. Dick Marshak slashed off tackle for 12 yards and Harold Glad picked up 17 yards in two rushes through the line for a first down on the Red and White 37. However, Jerry King was smothered for an eleven yard loss and Bill Gibson kicked out of bounds on the Alabama 20.

Somebody's Lucky

On the very first play, the Gamecocks went all the way. Washburn got fouled up in his blocking behind the line and Henderson went eighty yards for the score anyhow. He had to go to his left because of the mix-up and then found a hole. Henderson got through, cut to his right and cutdistanced his pursuers. It was strictly a "hope play" but it worked, Wyatt against split the uprights with his placement.

Way To Go

Maryville came back, though, when Clarence Cromwell broke through the Gamecock defense and blocked Washburn's kick. Wseley Kinser then faded back and hit Frank Garren in the end zone with a short-to-medium pass good for a score. Jimmy Callaway came in and booted the extra point. From there on the game as a stalemate as the clock ran out.

For all their gameness and spirit, Maryville might have taken the game as she halted Jacksonville time after time in the first half. After it was all over, Coacn Davis reiterated this point with a statement to the effect that MC might have won if the Gamecock attack could have been stopped for a few minutes in the third quarter. Jacksonville picked up two of her TD's on bobbled-and-deflected-but-caught passes which meant the difference in the ball game "We were 100% beter than last week."

Glad, Kinser, and Mirshak in the backfield, turned in fine performances for the reserves while the freshman line of Coach Davis also stood out save for the one play in which Henderson went all the way—but this could have been traced to their inexperience and the turning out fine of what started to be a messed-up play.

We'll Get 'Em

Many of the MC players were in on offense and defense, whereas Jacksonville used separate plateens. Everything considered, the Orange and Garnet did a good job that they could be proud of.

Dr. Mackay of Princeton To Speak On Founders' Day

Alumni Day, Homecoming To Have Special Events

Founder's and Homecoming Day will be celebrated on October 21. The first of the three main events will be the Founder's Day address at 9:45 in the Alumni Gym by Dr. John A. Mackay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary.

Dr. Mackay, who was born at Invernes, Scotland, received his master's degree with first honors in philosophy from the University of Aberdeen in Scotland, and his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary. He holds honorary doctor's degrees from several universities and colleges including Princeton, Aberdeen, University of Lima, Peru, University of Bonn, Germany, Boston University, Debrecan University in Hungary, Presbyterian College in Montreal, Canada, Ohio Wesleyan University, and others.

In addition, he is chairman of International Missionary Council, president of Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, and editor of "Theology Today." Other participants in the service will be Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, and the college choir.

Barbecue

The next event of the day will be the Alumni Homecoming Barbeque on the baseball field at 5:30 p.m. The president of the Alumni Association is Dr. William C. Crowder, '28, who is a physician in Maryville. The day will close with the Homecoming Football game with Emory and Henry at 8:00 p.m.

The Fine Arts Division is making arrangements for the Fine Arts Center to be open to the visitors for inspection.

a. 8:00- 8:45
b. 8:50- 9:35
Chapel 9:45-10:40
c. 10:45-11:30
d. 11:35-12:20
Lunch 12:30

Afternoon classes will be on the regular schedule.

Vols Hear Director Of Church Work

The speaker at Student Vols tomorrow night in Bartlett Hall will be Miss Elizabeth McCort. Miss McCort has been a field worker for the Presbyterian Church U.S.A. for many years in directing youth conferences, work fellowships, and caravans. Her topic will be centered around her work and experiences.

Those participating in the program will be Paul Kidder, giving the invocation, Charles Reid reading the scripture, and Helen Worrilow offering the prayer. Special music will be provided by a duet composed of Ruth Humes and Ruth Nicholas accompanied by Dick Ribble. John Shew will lead the singing.

Jim Dance Script Used By C-N Club

Carson-Newman's Callieopean Literary Society produced "Some For The Money," a musical comedy written by MC's Jim Dance, senior English major from Knoxville, on September 16 as their Rush Week show.

The society gave it as a garden party, using the front of the Rankin southern mansion as a setting. The play was directed by Marcella Mays, a former classmate of Dance. Music for the production was adapted by Dance from Berlin and Hammerstein.

Dance is active in campus dramatic productions, being a member of Theta Alpha Phi and Maryville Players.

Dancing Will Fill Week-end Schedule

Square dancing and square dancing games have been planned by the Social Board for all those on Campus who are not going on the "Y" hike, Nu Gamma Retreat, or M Club camping trip. The program begins at 8 p.m. in the Alumni Gym.

T. W. Kleinsasser, local weatherman, was originally scheduled to call the dances, but was suddenly called to Princeton. In his absence, Fannie Weber will call.

Miss Weber is a sophomore chemistry major from Marengo, Ohio. She is a Bainonian and a member of the German Club.

Archie Swarztrauber is chairman of the Social Board. Members include Hazel Holm, secretary; Irene Mellon, senior representative ;Bill Starr, president of Inter-Club, Council; Joe Poland, student body president; George Ogle, YM president; Louise Lloyd, YW president; Mrs. Carmen Marquis, director of the Student Center; Dr. McClelland, Dr. Hunter, Miss Francis Massey, and Mr. Kenneth Paxton, faculty representatives.

Poland will be in charge during the evening. All who are on Campus over the week-end are urged to attend.

Faculty Presents Recital Friday Eve

Third in the new Fine Arts Division series will be a faculty recital to be held next Friday, October 20, at 8:15 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. This recital will mark the end of the Collegium Musicum Series of faculty recitals which began last year emphasizing different periods in music. Friday night's concert will portray contemporary musicians and their works, Miss Katherine C. Davies will be the commentator.

Blair, Hughes To Sing

Alice Eaddy will open the program with "L'isle joyeuse" by Debussy and will be followed by Bernice Blair, soprano, accompanied by Thelma Nelson. Mrs. Blair will sing Winter Watts' "Wings of Night," Charles Koechlin's "Si tu le veux." and Clifford Shaw's "If There Be Ecstacy."

Thelma Nelson will play a piano solo, "The Island Spell," by Ireland. From "Five Mystical Songs" by Vaughan-Williams, Curtis Hughes will sing "I Got Me Flowers" and "The Call," accompanied by Alice Eaddy. Violinist Katherine Crews will play "Melodie" by Bloch and Katherine C Davies will accompany.

Harry Harter, Tenor

Harry Harter will sing selections from a cycle for tenor voice, "On Wenlock Edge," by Vaughan-Williams; and "From Far from Eve and Morning." Alice Eaddy will accompany.

Dorothy Vawter will play "Eight Piano Pieces" by Krenak. Selections include "Etude," "Invention," "Scherzo," "Toccata," "Nocturne," "Waltz."

'Readers' Hold Initial Meeting

A new organization, the "Shakespeare Readers", will hold their initial meeting Monday night in Dr. Hunter's classroom. The members, which include those taking courses in Shakespeare, are to meet for the purpose of reading aloud the works of the author.

Included in the present membership are Bill Starr, Del Earisman, Dave Grubbs, Bob Larson, Fred Sieber, Andy Clark, Bob Moser, Mary Wills, and Jean Hunt. Dr. Hunter is the sponsor.

Nu Gamma, M Club YM Leave Campus For Retreat, Hikes

Eleven "M" Club members with Mrs. Queener, Mrs. Largen, and Miss Clemens will leave Pearsons at 1 p.m. today for their annual overnight camping trip to Laurel Lake. This afternoon will be spent in swimming, boating, archery, softball and other outdoor activities. Tomorrow morning a Sunday School service will be held and in the afternoon the girls will go hiking. They will return to the campus in the evening before Vespers.

Nu Gamma

The climax of the semester's programs of Nu Gamma will be a retreat to Montvale this afternoon. Busses will leave from the chapel site at 1 p.m. and will return tonight.

All new students are invited to take part in the program of recreation, worship, discussion, singing, and eating. Discussion will be led by the Nu Gamma leaders and will emphasize the religious activities and organizations on campus. Louise Lloyd will lead the worship service on the mountainside and Mrs. Margaret Cummings, Y mother, will close the retreat with a campfire talk.

Men To Smokies

Annual YM hike will be held at the Chimney Camp Grounds in the Smokies today and tomorrow. Busses will leave at 1:30 p.m. and will return to the campus tomorrow about 4:30. Sunday School services will be held in the mountains. As the fellows will sleep outdoors they are reminded once again to bring their own bedding.

Science and Religion

YW will meet tomorrow afternoon in the library. Mrs. B. H. Brown, assistant professor of biology at MC, will speak on "Science and Religion." Rosalie Munson will sing a solo.

Beginners' Dancing Class In Gym Tuesday Night

The first beginners' dancing class was held last Tuesday at 6:30 in the Intramural gym. Mrs. Marquis, Student Center Director, is in charge.

Classes will meet every Tuesday evening from 6:30 to 7:15 in the Intramural gym. Regular student dancers are invited to come and teach. Demand for the class will determine how long it will be held.

Briggs Goes To NC, McClelland Attends Kiwanis Meeting

Two Maryville faculty members were absent from college duties to attend ceremonies away from the campus this week.

Dr. David H. Briggs, professor of psychology and education, officially represented Maryville College at the installation of Dr. Gordon Gray as president of University of North Carolina. Ceremonies were held in Chapel Hill, October 10 and 11.

Kiwanis Meet

Dean of Students Frank D. McClelland was in Chattanooga Monday and Tuesday, October 9 and 10 attending the regional meeting of Kiwanis International. Dr. McClelland is lieutenant governor of the Tennessee-Virginia district.

Oct. 23 Deadline For Medical Exams

Medical college examinations for pre-medical students now in their senior year will be given November 6 at University of Tennessee. Applications for these examinations, which are necessary for admission to medical college, must be turned in by October 23.

Horne To Air 'Life Of Watts' On Radio

Y-Radio program, "Pathways," will feature a talk by Miss Dorothy Horne on "The Life and Hymns of Isaac Watts," Monday night.

Special music on the program is to be presented by the Conqueror's Quartet who will sing "Jesus Shall Reign," "Our God Our Help in Ages Past," "Alas and Did My Saviour Bleed," and "When I Survey the Wonderous Cross." The program is at 9:30 over WGAP, David Reed directing.

YM Plans Semester

Oct. 22—Community Committee Program (Hi Y, Boy Scouts, and Boys' Club members participating.)
Oct. 29—Joint program with YW-CA to hear Knoxville College Mixed chorus—a group of 18 mixed singers, and the quartet.
Nov. 5—All-freshman program
Nov. 12—University of Tennessee exchange program (tentative)
Nov. 19—A program presented by the inter-racial committee headed by Howard Lawson

Griffitts To Attend ACS In Atlanta

Dr. F. A. Griffitts, professor of chemistry, will fly to Atlanta, Ga., to attend the Southwide Chemical Conference next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 16, 17, and 18. Dr. Griffitts was chairman of the East Tennessee Section of the ACS which held its meeting in Oak Ridge last year. The Oak Ridge gathering was one of the largest scientific meetings held in the south.

E. H. Volwiler, president of the ACS and president of the Abbott Laboratories of Chicago, will be the main speaker.

Teachers Plan Monday Workshops

The Teacher's Workshop opened on Maryville College campus Monday afternoon at 4:30. Registration will be completed October 16 and classes will begin on that date. Many of those enrolled are teachers in Blount County schools. Some are working for permanent teaching certificates and others are working toward degrees.

This year instead of the usual workshop courses, four courses regularly outlined in the catalog as part of the college curriculum are being offered. These classes are Educational Tests and Measurements taught by Dr. D. H. Briggs, The Elementary School Curriculum taught by Mrs. Thelma Kramer, American History taught by Miss Arda Walker and Ethics taught by Dr. Lincoln Barker.

Vesper Speaker Is Dr. Joseph A. Vance

Dr. Joseph A. Vance will be the speaker at Vespers Sunday evening at 7 p.m. in the library. Dr. Vance is pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church of Detroit, and interim pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Bristol, Tennessee.

Grierson Undergoes Treatment In Knoxville

Miss Ruth Grierson, Lamar Memorial librarian, has been absent from campus this week undergoing treatment at East Tennessee Baptist Hospital in Knoxville.

Bainonian President Elected Queen; Nicholas, Kemp Are Court Attendants

MARY WILLS

Mary Wills, senior sociology major from Baltimore, Md. will be crowned Homecoming Queen next Saturday night during the Emory and Henry-Maryville tilt. Miss Wills was elected in two day balloting this Tuesday and Wednesday by the student body.

Her attendants will be Ruth Nicholas, senior art major from Upper Darbey, Pa., and Sally Kemp, senior physical education major from Acworth, Ga. Long-range plans at present include arrangements for the queen and her court to ride onto the field in convertibles, Jim Townsend, Pep Committee chairman, said this week.

Festivities

Other scheduled events for the week-end festivities include a Pep Rally on Friday night and a parade on Saturday afternoon. Each organization on campus will be responsible for a float in the parade and the queen and her court will be honored guests.

As was the custom last year, the MC band will march with its majorettes and baton twirlers. It is hoped that Maryville High School band may be secured for the event also.

Dormitories will be decorated to celebrate Homecoming and many Alumni are expected back on campus for the ceremonies.

M. Shields Exhibits Gouache; Display Schedule Planned

Margaret Shields, a junior art major, has been invited by the Knoxville Artists Association to exhibit at the Audiger Gallery at U. T. in th current show, October 8 to 22. The painting to be on display is a gouache, entitled "Georgia Villa." Last spring both Margaret Shields and Alan Fort, ex-'52, had paintings selected for exhibition by this Association.

Three art studio classes have been organized recently for townspeople: two pre-college classes and one adult class. At the last count the enrollment was more than twenty students.

Art Gallery

The Art Gallery in the Fine Arts Building will soon be functioning. The first exhibit to be held there will be in connection with the observation of American Art Week, November 1 to 7. Next there will b a showing of a selection from the Elizabeth Gowdy Baker Collection, followed by a showing of some color reproductions and a statuette after Michelangelo recently acquired. An exhibition of art instructors M. J. Dashiell's work will proceed the semi-annual student exhibition held in December.

A colored film on Alexander Calder's sculpture, schedeuled for mid-November, is an interesting experiment in form and movement.

Board Meets, Plans Year's Activities

Social Board met October 6, in Dr. Lloyd's office to determine the programs for the semester and other pertinent business.

The technicolor movie, "Song of Scheherazade," starring Yvonne deCarlo and Brian Donlevy will be shown November 25, at 8 p.m., in the Alumni gym. Two projectors are expected to be utilized to prevent a time lapse between reels.

The Fall Dance committee will be chosen at the next meeting. It was decided to give the All Girl Choir fifteen dollars for Sadie Hawkins Day program.

A record committee consisting of Archie Swarztrauber, Irene Mellon and Tom Kees was appointed to purchase four new records a month for nightly dancing.

Local Churches Use MC'ers In Schools

The following leaders have been announced for Sunday School at the Maryville Churches tomorrow:

Larry Wallace will present a musical program at First Baptist where Mrs. Hamilton Traylor is teacher of the class.

The Fellowship Class is in charge of the opening worship at New Providence Presbyterian. Mr. A. F. Pieper is teacher of the College Class.

Morna Wright is in charge of the opening worship at Broadway Methodist tomorrow. Mr. Bill Kneeland is teacher.

Teresa Leonard is in charge of opening worship at First Methodist, and George Day will lead singing. Mr. C. C. Chamberlain is teacher of the College Class.

Pres. Lloyd Attends Educational Meet In Washington, DC

President Ralph W. Lloyd was among the approximately one thousand educators from all over the United States who attended a conference of college and university leaders in Washington, D.C. last Friday and Saturday, October 6 and 7. The conference, called by the American Council on Education, used "Higher Education in the National Service" as its theme and included ten sectional meetings for discussion purposes. Dr. Lloyd was assigned to the section studying "Continued Essentials In Higher Education."

The purpose of the conference was "to provide an opportunity for representatives of higher education and of government cooperatively to plan for the most effective utilization of our colleges and universities, both for the long-range future and to meet immediate and forseeable emergency needs."

The conference hoped to develop some "basic principles and policies that may be the basis for such action as the extent and tempo of the emergency may require."

UT PROFESSOR SPEAKS TO EPISCOPALIANS

Ross Marshall Robertson, Ph.D., associate professor of economics at UT, will speak to the college class of St. Andrew's Episcopal Sunday School tomorrow morning at 9:30.

His subject will be "To What Extent Should Economic Problems Be the Province of the Church?" the second in a four week consideration of that topic by the class.

AT COUNCIL

Members of the Student Council met with Carson-Newman last Wednesday night and renewed with them the peace pact that we have followed the past few years. Jim Callaway is in charge of the committee for arrangements for the Carson-Newman football game trip.

A student body meeting will be held after chapel next Thursday in order to ratify the pact. It will also be for the purpose of nominating a Barnwarming Queen and King. After the student body meeting each class will hold a meeting to nominate a sponsor for the class. The freshmen and sophomores will meet in the Alumni Gym, the juniors in Bartlett Auditorium, and the seniors in the chemistry lecture room. The Barnwarming elections will be the following Tuesday and Wednesday. The YW committee in charge of Barnwarming is made up of Judy Breen, Ruth Nicholas, and "Happy" Huddleston.

The Student-Faculty Senate has approved the town night proposals so they are now officially passed.

There was one town night violation brought to the attention of the Council, and it was moved and seconded that the three weeks penalty be imposed.

The idea was proposed and a committee was appointed to see what can be done about cleaning up "Tobacco Road" and finding a less public spot for smoking.

Sportsmanship

Commendable indeed was the spirit of cooperation displayed by Maryvillians last week-end as Kentuckians from Centre invaded our campus for football festivities. True Maryville spirit pervaded as the Colonels and their boosters were welcomed and campus facilties made available to them.

Were the Centerites to stay around "the hill" a little longer they might not be quite as surprised at the friendly reception!

Peace-Pipe

With the renewal of our "peace pipe" treaty with rivalist Carson-Newman, we have once again proved our sportsmanship. Naturally it is to the benefit of both institutions to sign this "no paint or dynamite" pact, but still the voluntary basis on which the signing was done is remarkable!

Homecoming

Next week-end we welcome back Alumni, directors and honored guests to MC with our biggest smiles and heartiest handshakes.

We're not advocating a big show or false front when we suggest that it should be our best foot we put forward. And friendliness being one of our more abundant traditions, we all need no reminder to grin broadly.

Dining hall and campus conduct will best prove that Maryville still ranks high with "students-in-the know."

WHEN YOU AND I WERE YOUNG, MC

Girls sat on one side of the library, and boys the other. They even had their own little doors to enter by, too. We've come a long, long way, have we not?

DID YOU KNOW?

Boyd's Grill, 521 Gay Street, ran an ad in an 'M' book that stated this, "A restaurant where a lady can go unescorted as well as with an escort." You were close. It was 1909-10.

WHOOPEE. !

Only 70 more shopping days til Christmas, and 67 till we leave for home. For you who are math majors and pessimists this means exactly 5,970,840 seconds provided you read this line at 8:28 a.m. on Saturday, October 14, 1950.

AT THE STAGE DOOR

After having seen Experimental Theater, we want to extend our congratulations to Miss Craven, the actors, and the crews for making possible those fine performances.

CRITIC'S CORNER

Offhand, we'd say that all acting was good but Jerry Wheat's. He acted like the devil. And Claude, I'd watch my step if I were you. The college authorities are very interested in how you became so proficient in acting "stewed."

FOR-GET-ME-NOT

Jim Thurston, John Schaumberg and Neale Pearson would like it known that they, too, have been afflicted with a bad case of Schickus Noli Me Tangere. Look it up in Webster's.

PRESIDENTIAL PATTER

Will the person who's been parking that brand new 1950 Oldsmobile 98 four-door sedan in front of Anderson please have a parking place assigned by Mr. Black, Director of Maintenance? That parking place happens to be reserved for Dr. Lloyd, President of the college.

Lynn Miller has the cleverest excuse yet for getting into Carnegie. She is the Chilhowean ditor. She was last seen trying to get a picture of the Coke machine!?

CONTENTED ARE WE

. . . . As night approaches softly and swiftly, casting its shadowy mantle and enfolding the blissful couples as they stroll serenely around Circle Drive.

PRESBYTERIAN SCOTCH

Even the Coke machine has acquired the MC atmosphere of thrift. It really takes its time delivering the change, when it does! ! !

REDDEST IS REDDER RED

J. Bright had better look to his laurels. Kent Buser has been sporting the reddest pair of red pants imaginable. And he tops it off with a bright red sport shirt.

BETTER BEHAVE, STUDES

Lynn Miller and 'Doc' Griffitts are roaming the campus and dorms for suitable Chilhowean pics. They're getting them, too.

LOOK OUT BELOW

It has been reported that after a recent bout at Byrne's Drug Store, Morris Taylor has "given up" milk shakes.

PASSING FANCIES

With the passing of beards, the fellows have taken up hobbling on crutches as their hobby.

JOKE! JOKE!

"Amigo" Roger Padron had game-goers worried after the Freshmen Rat Race last Saturday night when he returned to the vicinity of his seat in the stands crying, "Everyone help! I lost my shoe," holding up one shoe. Getting the proper amount of emotion from his public, he pulled out the other one from under his jacket yelling, "Joke, Joke! I have, I have."

FINIS

We paraphrase (much too late to be effective) an old saying, "It is better to remain silent and be thought a fool than to write and remove all doubt." To prove it, it took several weeks for yours truly to finally realize why Jim Davis could never make it to philosophy class before the bell rang. He rang it.

DEAR DR. LITKENHOUSE

Dr. Hunter has announced that Purdue will take Army, 28-14. The line forms to the right, fellows.

TALK OF THE WEEK

By John Olsen '54

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

MOVIES

Movie enthusiasts and those who find that movies are one of the few places to go on Town Night will find that this week's pictures are pretty much run-of-the-mill. At the Capitol on Monday and Tuesday will be "Captain Carey, U.S.A.", starring Alan Ladd. "Tell It To The Judge" with Rosalind Russell and Robert Cummings is slated for Wednesday. Joseph Cotton, Cornel Wilde, and Jeff Chandler star in Thursday and Friday's feature "Two Flags West."

On the screen at the Park Monday will be "Men of Texas" with Jackie Cooper. Cary Grant will be seen in "Gunga Din" on Tuesday and Wednesday. "Stage Coach", starring John Wayne and Clair Trevor is the attraction on Thursday and Friday.

"Captain Carey" (Alan Ladd), late of the Office of Strategic Services (OSS), isn't the type to let sleeping enemies lie even after the war is over. In a natty set of civvies he stops by, for no apparent reason, at a New York art store. One of the pictures turns out to be a tip-off as to who framed him in Italy during combat days. Just why the picture is a tip-off involves a good deal of exploration in flashback. But it is enough to set the wheels turning on a spy drama that derives its excitement from a source sometimes referred to in the trade as "the old cob."

Ladd's postwar investigations him back to the Italian Alps, wheer he was betrayed and captured during the fighting. Villagers don't much like him because a number of hostages were shot presumably on his account, while the German's were in command. But Wanda Hendrix, a wartime girl friend whose Italian accent is something less than convincing, does like him, despite the fact that she has married an available count since he was demobilized.

"Tell It To The Judge" is marital slapstick in which Robert Cummings pursues Rosalind Russell from Florida to the Adirondacks. In the best woman's magazine tradition, it depicts the U.S. male as a kitten and the female as a hyperthyroid tiger. Attorney Russell, as stalwart as the bottom man in a tumbling act ,is efficient at everything, while Lawyer Cummings gets knocked out twice, skies on his face, wears a kimono, and does the cooking.

BOOKS

Books with particularly interesting tiltes are to be found on the new book table of Lamar Memorial Library this week. Among them are Stinetorf's "White Witch Doctor," "Seeking To Serve" by C. M. Goethe, and "The Age of Scandal" by T .H. White.

Of great interest to many students will be "The Grand Alliance" by Winston Churchill. This book is the story of World War II as seen from the standpoint of the British Prime Minister. The Battle of France, the Epic of Russia, the year Great Britian stood alone, the Attack on Pearl Harbor and the Surrender are woven into an effective combination of the story of the whole English-speaking world waging war and creating the Grand Alliance.

DRAMA

For those still wondering about the meaning of the plot in "Aria da Capo," here is an explanation. It is a symbolic anti-war play. Del Earisman and Wally Schroeder represented nations of the road to war; Jim Dance and Sara Jo Emert portrayed youth and their frivolities during pre and post war periods; Bob Lehr symbolized fate.

MUSIC

Miss Dorothy Horne chairman of the Artist Series committee has announced a tentative schedule for the 1950-51 series. On November 23 the Alabama String Quartette will be presented. This quartette played here last spring and is re-appearing by popular request.

Wiktor Labeuerli, a Polish pianist who specializes in the compositions of Chopin, will be the guest artist in February. Efforts are being made to secure the West Texas College Choir for the March sereis. This choir is quite widely known for its Victor Red Seal recordings. In the spring it will go on tour with the Dallas Symphony.

Graduate Schools Draw Maryvillians To Study

More happenings in the Alumni world include the marriage of John E. Gates, class of '45 to Marion M. Thompson. Gates is the brother of Anne Gates Paxton, class of '50, and son of Dr. and Mrs. John A. Gates, formerly of the college faculty. He is under the mission board of the Presbyterian Church USA in Lebanon and was married in Choueir, Lebanon on August 31.

Craig Fisher and Charles Mabry, both '50, are freshmen at Emory University School of Medicine, Atlanta, Ga. Don Hyatt, '50, is at the Medical College of Virginia Dental School, Richmond, Va.

Mary Mills, '50, is a Home Economist with the New Jersey Public Service Electric and Gas Co. in Newark. Beverly Moore, '50, is a copywriter for Montgomery Ward. Margaret Newland, '50, has entered Miss Hickey's School for Secretaries in St. Louis, Mo.

Preston Mulford, '50, is now studying at Boston University School of Law, Boston, Mass. William Nish is staking graduate work at UCLA in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reeves (Shirley Ballard), '49, were on campus recently. Bob is studying at Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa., toward his Master's in bacteriology and expects to finish in February, '51.

Robert Frost, '50, is doing graduate work at Louisiana State and Dolores Green, '50, did graduate work on her Master's during the summer at Cortland State Teachers College in New York and is now teaching in Binghampton, N. Y.

Ben Paxton, MC '50, is taking graduate work at UT while on an assistantship there. At present, Paxton is cast in the role of Dr. Gibbs in UT's production of "Our Town," which is also currently being rehearsed by Maryville Players.

Other MC'ers at McCormick include Orval Wintermute and Bill and Esther (Cornelius) Swenson, '50 graduates.

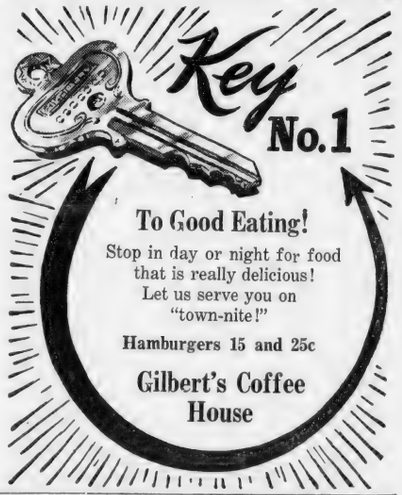
Letters To The Editor

To The Editor and Members of The Junior Class:

The Junior Class executive committee met Monday afternoon and talked over the Hallowe'en party and the financial status of our class. We thought you as members of the class would be interested in the following report of our financial status for the first semester.

Cash on hand
Balance brought forward	$31.67
Dues collected	60.00
Total cash on hand	$91.67
Expenses
Yearbook security fund	$50.00
Previous class debt	4.12
Student Council dues	8.00
Halloween party	30.00
Barnwarming flowers	3.00
Total expenses	$95.12
Expenses	$95.12
Cash on hand	91.67
Total deficit	$ 4.05

We realize that the class has been very cooperative in paying their dues. Yet, may the above financial statement be a reminder to those 25% of our class who are slightly delinquent in the payment of their dues.



Bob Cuthill, President
Beverly Jacobi, V.-Pres.
Edith Lancaster, Secretary
C. L. Hager, Treasurer.

Singers Elect Officers, Choose For 'Serenade'

Men's Glee Club officers elected Tuesday night are Larry Thompson, president; Jim Townsend, vice-president; Bill Faulkner, secretary-treasurer, and Bob Larson, social chairman.

BLOUNT SANITARY Laundry and Cleaning

123 BROADWAY

Sports Echoes

By Neal Pearson

●LAST SATURDAY WAS A BLACK DAY in Maryville College athletic history. UT came over and ran the cross country team literally into the ground and Centre, well, we'll not mention that fiasco.

We've been harping on the pep angle a lot and maybe some people think a little too much. But all we can say is that last week was the sorriest week for pep that we've seen in our short period of stay here. George Day did a pretty good job with his end of the Pep arrangements and so did a few still-stout-hearted few but there wasn't any pep at all from both the students and players—we may as well realize it. We hope that all those folks who complained of there being too much pep(?) too early in the week are satisfied now. They'll be able to eat in peace, too.

The team goes away tonight on its first road trip of the season with the backing of a small group of supporters. We hope that there are a goodly number at the game (men that is) and if not tune in over WGAP and holler from your radio side. If not able to tune in on the crystal set, let's have a slap on the back for them—the boys are gettin' down in the dumps now and we're going to need it more than ever before with Emory & Henry coming up next week.

Preacher Roberts is out for revenge after last year's upset on the home grounds and tonight's game will be ETS' homecoming. So, the works will be shot at the Scots tonight. Here's the best of luck to you, men.

●ALFALFA'S SHORT AND SWEET to members of the bovine family and so is Alf Holmberg to UT's cross country coach, Carlton Crowell. Holmberg came near the course record with John Trent for Maryville's cross country run with 16 minutes and 59 seconds Saturday in slapping down the Orange and Garnet with his fellow UT teammates. The Swedish transfer student, studying journalism, might have busted across the tape with a new standard had he really been pushed. Trent, a junior, has also improved over the past years, so Holmberg must be helping in more than one way.

Crying over the meets' results we also saw that the times were a lot worse than for time trials, Thursday. TPI has cancelled as far as we know, but we'll discuss it later. UT hadn't run any time trials up to Saturday because there was no need (they said) and so they were fairly fresh. The reason for this being the Orange and White's small squad—eight men on the varsity and five on the frosh team. Maryville can really be proud of the number of men who have turned out for the hill-and-dalers and have stuck it out—they've got our respect and their own self-respect.

UT has an "awfully" good team this year and will have for the next couple of years. There are only three upperclassmen—Trent, DeVault, and Blane. Unless something else happens, we'll see Holmberg and company for two more years and perhaps three. (No, Coach Crowell, don't hit me). The last line is in reference to a remark slanted this way last Saturday afternoon by the personable Coach Crowell. It seems that he, too, has been reading this propaganda machine's output "Don't rake us over the coals too much this week," was his laughing comment 'fore the meet. The UT mentor also hinted (we hope from what he said) that he liked the turnout. From our viewpoint, it was the biggest and best in Maryville history. It took three years to do it, but it was done. Over at UT, the sport is almost unknown save to the character-builders who engage in it and a few others—however, even Tom Anderson and others are admitting that the sport is not a game of tiddily-winks and are giving the UT team four inches of spread now on page five instead of only two on page six.

LET'S BEAT ETS.

●THE FOOTBALLERS WON'T LIKE IT, but here's more cross country dope. Holmberg's little jaunt with Trent came near the record of Art Perkins' 16:47 of last year. Del Earisman did the golf course and woods jaunt in 17:46 against Sewannee in 1948 for the lowest one on that particular stretch of ground.

Charlie Allen also put a new one into the books as he raced back for 85 yards against Centre Saturday night with the kickoff. We've been trying to compile some football records but haven't come across one that big, so it's going down in the books—congrats to you, Charlie.

●NEXT WEEK SEES THE RETURN of the ancient Scotch sport of golf to Maryville. Just like a thrifty Scotchman has been the doings of Coach Johnson and company in settting out the three-hole course. The holes are long but think of the same old scenery for 36 holes!

While we're on the subject, we may as well mention the story concerning the old nine-hole course's first hole-in-one.

It seems that one, Eddie Lavender, ace pole vaulter, who holds the record for the bamboo-bender hereabouts, scored the first drive-blind shot. On Wednesday, December 4, 1935, he had about given up the search for his elusive pellet on a drive to the seventh green (in the Fine Arts Center now) when he noticed a tell-tale track on the sand of said hole. Peering hopefully into the cup, he found of, all things, a golf ball. Upon seeing it there, he solemnly averred to one George Fishback, a coach who was witness to the event, that he, in truth, would quit golf on the spot. We don't wish any of you to quit the game but wouldn't mind seeing you out there

Centre Drops Scots For Third Defeat

Allen Bright Light In 14-7 Loss With Brilliant Run

It was a bunch of sad and crying Scotties that walked off the field after Saturday night's game with Centre. The Colonels won for the first time in 33 years by a 14-7 score. The loss was also the first ever sustained against a team using an unbalanced line.

Slow Moving Game

Most of the game's action took place during the first half with Centre pushing Maryville, if the word pushing can be used, around and during the second half. Maryville did the pushing. But neither team had any of the old zip and fire that has marked this old rivalry. The Scots seemed to have lost the old snap that they had against Jacksonville State.

You Take It

Maryville opened up by kicking off to Centre and Woody Long returned to the 24. Centre couldn't gain and was forced to kick. Maryville got the ball, couldn't advance the ball enough, and also kicked. This Alphonse-Gaston farce lasted until the end of the first period when Centre took over on their own 37.

Long Scores

Long, who was playing left half on the Notre Dame box affair faded back and tossed one to fullback Carrol Holmes who switched out to wingback for 37 yards and a first down on the MC 29. John Acton and Long alternated on carries through the tackles and advanced the ball to four from whence Long swept right end for the score. Frank Cain booted the placement to put Centre ahead.

Allen Nearly Saves Day

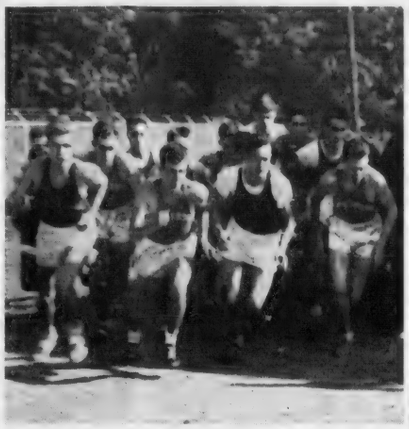
Then came the most thrilling play of the game. Charlie Allen went in for the kickoff and took Cain's long boot on his own tow. Allen headed down the middle, received nice blocking, and then swerved to the right sidelines where he picked up some blocking and sped all the way. Holmes made a dive for Allen on the 20 but only flicked Allen's ankle. Allen recovered his stride and made it into the end zone with a 85 yard runback to his credit. Jimmy Callaway came in, also, and tied up the score with a perfect boot.

Holmes Catches Again

Both teams switched possession of the ball and Centre took over on her own 48 with about three minutes left. Long still had a nice target in the person of Holmes and flipped one good for 23 yards off the double wing down to Maryville territory. Holmes plunged for eight to the 40 and Acton picked up more yardage to the 36. Two more plays saw the ball resting on the 28 and Maryville's defense tightening up. So, Dan Moody, called for the same double wing play as before and Woody flipped fifteen to Holmes on the left side. Holmes took the pass and twisted the remaining 13 yards to score. Cain again booted the point.

No Go

Allen returned the kick-off 30 yards to 35 but Maryville could do nothing with the ball and that set the pattern for the rest of the game. After the intermission, MC got up enough steam to halt the Colonels' attack on defense but could not put the ball across when inside the 30. Maryville completely halted the Centre running attack—the Colonels not getting one first down. The Highlanders got seven chain movers during the last half but could not put them together at crucial times. Maryville filled the air with long passes but could not connect like the Colonels had and so both teams played the game out.



Passing Us Silly

MC's pass defense was woefully weak in the game as was the pass offense. Woody and Moody completed six out of eleven passes for 119 yards altogether while the Orange and Garnet could complete only three for fifteen. The long passes just weren't working with the result that short passes were the order for the coming week. All in all, the game was played very "slow" with neither team really looking bright. The Highlanders will have to buckle down on both offense and defense against a pass minded ETS team or else it will be too bad.

Statistics for the game follows:

	MC	Centre
Yds. Gained Rushing	151	146
Yds. Gained Passing	30	119

UT Takes Second Triumph Over Maryville

Alf Holmberg poured it on once again to lead the Orange and White of Tennessee to a smashing 15-45 victory over the Scot bunion burners on the Cherokee Boulevard Course in Knoxville. Holmberg ran the rolling street course in 16:18 and was followed in number two spot by John Trent.

Coach Carlton Crowell's seven also took the next three spots as Frank Albertson, Al Kuykendall, and Walter DeVault, broke the tape neck-and-neck for a three day way tie for third.

Bill Menges again was Maryville's first as he came in sixth with a time of 17:26. Del Earisman of Maryville was seventh and John Bland was eighth for UT and Ric Rogers edged Carl Thompson to take the ninth spot. Following in order were Dave Helwig, Tom Kelly, George Day, Dick Kerr, and Al McCulloch.

After the meet was over, there was no question in anyone's minds but that UT had a better team than they had last year and that they were one of the tops in the nation.

UT Wins First One

Alf Holmberg and John Trent led UT to a resounding 17-42 triumph over Maryville's thinlies. The loss broke the Scots' win streak at six games.

Holmberg, who wasn't pushed for this victory, lagged enough to enable Trent to stay up with him, and both took first place honors. Their time was 16:59. Frank Albertson took third place for UT with a 17:27.

Menges Fourth

Bill Menges captain of the Maryville squad, first Scot to cross the finish line only three seconds behind Albertson. Fifth and sixth places also went to the Orange and White as Al Kuyendal and Walter DeVault gave Coach Carleton Crowell's squad the rest of their seventeen points.

Del Earisman took seventh with a time of 18:06. John Blane of UT took eighth followed by Jim Thurston in the ninth position. Ric Rogers just made the top ten as he beat out Earl Thompson of UT who took the eleventh spot.

Theother Scot distancers came in as follows: Dave Helwig; Dick Kerr; Tom Kelly; Al McCulloch; and Harold Black.

Coach Johnson has a meet scheduled with William Jennings Bryan University here on the 8th of November. WJBU has no cross-country course so no meet can be run there. The two meets scheduled with TPI have been cancelled because they have on team this year.

Scots Meet ETS

SCOTS HIT ROAD FOR FIRST TIME

The thrice defeated Maryville Scotties take to the road tonight to tackle East Tennessee State at Johnson City. The Scots, leaving the hill for the first time this year, hope to break a six game losing streak. Litkenhouse rated ETS a favorite by 3.3 points (ETS—19.7 and MC—16.4).

Bucs Want Win

The Bucs from ETS beat Tennessee Wesleyan, 38-12, in their opening game. Then they hit the skids and dropped the next two by one touchdown margins. They lost to Erskine, 12-6, and to the Catamounts from Western North Carolina, 13-6. Tonight's game is the homecoming game for the Bucs and a huge crowd of alumni is expected.

Oh, For The Old Days!

The Maryville vs. ETS rivalry first started in 1922 with the Scots taking a thumping 59-0 win. The next year Maryville rolled to a mighty 73-0. For the next ten years the Bucs left the Scots alone, and then they came tearing back to gain revenge by winning eight of the next thirteen games up to the present time. Last year the Scots ended up on top of a 20-19 contest on old Wilson Field.

Coach "Preacher" Roberts lost eighteen players in graduation last spring. Add to that the number of men taken by the services and you will find that they have lost as many experienced men as the Scots.

Centers Head Team

The squad is headed by Captain Mac Sutherland who is in his fourth year of snapping the ball for the Bucs. Bob "Snake" Evans, a tall, rangy 190 pounder, is co-captain and also a center.

Buddy McCurry, who scored the Bucs only touchdown last week, will be found in the tail back slot. McCurry gained only three yards in two attempts last year against the Scots, but he did snag a pass in the flats for 20 yards and a first down.

Ken Bryan, a 225 pound junior, will fill one of the starting roles at tackle.

Intramurals....

FOOTBALL

The post season play in the Intramural Football was all but completed this week with the All-Star game between the select members of each league still to be played.

A determined Bluejay crew annex this year's championship. Tom Yeaworth's good right arm figured in all three Bluejay touchdowns. Tom Jones was on the receiving end of one of three scoring passes, outjumping three Y.M.C.A. defenders in the end zone for the game's first touchdown.

Y.M.C.A. was unable to untrack themselves against the spirited Bluejays. They showed signs early in the second half as they drove for their lone score, Hugh Hamil finally tossing to Charlie Williams standing alone on the ten. With the score twelve to seven and Y.M.C.A. pressing, Tom Yeaworth tossed to Bruce DeNagy, who snared the ball on the dead run and was never headed on his trip to the goal line. The play covered sixty yards and broke up the ball game. Final score: Bluejays eighteen, Y.M.C.A. seven.

The Athenians regained some prestige for the Orange League by downing the A. S. Scotties, nineteen to twelve in Monday's afterpiece.

The annual society classic saw Alpha Sigma gain a six to two victory over their bitter rivals, Athenian.

MC, C-N Treaty Signed This Week For Two Years

Members of Carson-Newman Student Body met with campus officers of Maryville last Wednesday night, October 11, to renew the Sportsmanship Agreement between the two schools. A pact was signed two years ago but became void as of this year.

"We, the representatives from Maryville College and Carson-Newman College in conference agree to the following:

1. The student body of each college will make a sincere effort to maintain a friendly spirit of cooperation and fair play toward the other college.

2. When each college visits the other, cooperative arrangements will be made for welcoming, parade, band program, seating, etc.

3. We agree to carry out friendly rivalry such as cheering, parades, etc. on either campus. In carrying this out we agree not to participate in any activity that would permanently or temporarily damage or disfigure the campus or commit any act which would be detrimental to the good feeling between the two colleges. We students agree to uphold this agreement but in the event that an individual or student body violates this agreement, the student body will make full and complete restitution.

4. This agreement shall be in effect for a period of two years and will be subject to renewal with the ratification of the student body.

The suggestion has also been made that girls would make very nice caddies for the intramural golf tournament. (Don't know what it'd do to the game, though, but it's a good idea).

●THOUGH NOT GIVEN TO COMPLIMENTS we kinda felt in the mood this week to throw a few laurels the way of George Day, Mrs. L. L. Williams, and Thomas Peter Kelly who also delivers the "Journal."

Day handled Pep arrangements for Athenian (sorry Del) last week and did most of the work himself. It was a game try George. We'll have to go some to do better.

Mrs. Williams sewed the uniform for "Mis Pep" on her own free time and saved "Abey" Townsend some 20 dollars. Thanx to you, too.

Wobblin' Sam, as his fellow bunion burners call him, has been helping out with statistics and his work of art is that little box you see following the rehashing of a past game—the team statistics. Way to go, Tom Kelly is also out for cross country trying to outdo Johnny Baird in trying to make at-least-enjoyable a sport that isn't that at all. Orchids for both!

LET'S BEAT ETS.

●THE BLUEJAYS ARE THE CHAMPS of the Intramural football league and Athenian is the runnerup winner. Tom Yeaworth's "flock" defeated the Y, 19-7 in the little contest Monday afternoon. Best in our books for the game were Tom Jones who caught one TD pass with men all around (and, maybe, on top of) him, Bruce DeNagy who caught the other two TD's and intercepted one, and Hugh Hamil of the losers.

The Athenians defeated the Alpha Sig Scotties for runnerup honors of the two leagues in the second macth. No comment save that Athenian had a fair running attack and that Chuck Hoisinger really gave it the old try.

Get off dem letters of those sweaters, you high high school wounders. . . .

New packs of "the finest ever honed" will be forthcoming to Messrs. Shaffer, Caldwell, Thurston, Schaumberg, Upham, and company if the team pulls through. The Gillette Company thinks the drive to win games is all right and will donate some of its brand toward the furtherance of this goal. Measurements for entrance into the event will take school wonders. . . . .

Premiere Of 'Our Town' Arrives Thursday Night

By Mary Sue Munson

"Our Town", a three-act drama by Thornton Wilder, will be presented by the Maryville College Playhouse on October 26 and 27 at 8:00 p.m. in the Alumni Gymnasium. The play is directed by drama director Kathleen Craven.

Cast in the principal role, that of Stage Manager, is Bill Starr, senior English major from Baltimore, Md., president of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic fraternity and member of College Playhouse. Other leading roles are George Gibbs, played by Joe Stater, freshman from Trenton, iMch. and Emily Webb, played by Joanne Edwards, freshman from Patterson, N. J.

George Caldwell, freshman from Cincinnati, Ohio, is cast as Dr. Gibbs; Sara Jo Emert as Mrs. Gibbs; Phyl Jackson as Mrs. Webb; and Dave Reed as Mr. Webb. Sarah Jo Emert is a senior dramatic arts major from Maryville and has played in previous Playhouse productions, including "Laura", and "Hedda Gabler."

Phyl Jackson, senior psychology major from Boston, Mass., is president of College Playhouse, member of Theta Alpha Phi, and chairman of Drama Board of Control. Dave Reed is a junior philosophy major from Delhi, N. Y. and a member of College Playhouse and Theta Alpha Phi.

Supporting Cast

Supporting cast is Wally Webb, played by Clifford Church, Joe Crowell, Jim Hunt; Professor Willard, Carl Drescher; Howie Newsome, Bob McKean; Constable Warren, Clint Bopst; Sam Craig, Don Larson; Joe Stoddard, Ray Kuhn.

Mrs. Soames is played by Nina Ruth Gillette; Simon by Bill Holt; Rebecca, Lou aMsters; Man-in-Auditorium, Hugh McSpadden; Woman-in-Balcony, Louise Packard; Woman-in-Box, Lucy Carrick, and two baseball Players by Ken Rutherford and Kent Buser. There are fifteen extras besides the regular roles.

"Our Town" shows a typical small town, Grover's Corners, New Hampshire, and the townspeople play the parts by merely acting themselves. The Stage Manager holds the play together, setting the mood by his informal, confidential manner and giving the audience a feeling of oneness with those on the stage. The three acts represent Life, Love, and Death.

No Scenery

Notable is the effectiveness of the sceneryless stage. This is not a new idea, but Mr. Wilder has made the most of it. The story is told in a strange combination of pantomime and Greek Chorus recital by the Stage Manager, who acts the part of a narrator.

Although his inclinations are toward new England, Thornton Wilder is a Mid-western by birth, and spent his youth in China where his father had been sent as an American Counsel-General. Sent back to this country for schooling, he won his A.B. at Yale and took his A.M. at Princeton. He then turned his hand first to writing for the stage and later to novel writing. "Our Town" was his first full length original drama to reach the stage. It was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for 1937-38 as being the best play by an American author to have been produced that season.

"Our Town" has been praised highly as "one of the finest achievements of the current stage" (New York Times); "an exciting theatrical experience, moving in its drama, expressive in its philosophy and fascinating in its technique" (Philadelphia Ledger).

'Opera' Presented On Bankers' Night By MC Singers

"High Spots In Opera," a program by the students of the voice department of Maryville College, Harry H. Harter directing, was presented at the East Tennessee Bankers' Banquet, Wednesday evening, October 18, at the Maryville High School.

Operas represented were early comic operas, "Don Giovanni" by Mozart and "The Barber of Seville" by Rossini; the tragedy, "Rigoletto" by Verdi and "La Boheme" by Puccini; the American folk opera, "Down in the Valley" by the late Kurt Weill.

Principle figures in the program included Evalyn Smith, Gloria Measamer, Ken Shaffer, Conrad Eaddy, Rosalie Munson, Betty Hammers, Don Brakebill, and William Robinson, singers; John Sayre, Alice Eaddy, June Hood, and Dorothy Vawter, accompanists.

Mrs. W. Buchanan To Speak In Chapel

Mrs. W. Verne Buchanan, President of the National Council of Women's Organizations of the Presbyterian Church, USA, will speak at the chapel service, Tuesday morning, October 24.

Mrs. Buchanan was elected to this highest office among Presbyterian women at the National Meeting in Ocean Grove, New Jersey, last June. Her term is one of four years. She succeeds Mrs. John M. Irvine, of Pittsburgh, who spoke at MC in 1949.

Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan, who live in New Philadelphia, Ohio, are to visit a number of institutions in the South. They will be guests in the home of President and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd, of Maryville College, on next Monday and Tuesday. From Maryville they will go to North Carolina.

IRC To Attend Political Rally

Members of International Relations Club were urged at their meeting Monday night to attend the public political rally at the Blount County Court House Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. Speakers will include Governor Gordon Browning, Rep. Albert Gore, and nominee for Congress Frank Wilson.

It was reported to the club that over 300 signatures, representing 25 states, were collected on the Freedom Scrolls circulated on campus last week. The drive was made in cooperation with the city campaign.

Debate Gets Topic Begins Preparation

"Resolved that the non-communist nations of the world should form a new international organization" is the debate question which the debate class is working on. The question is sent out by Pi Kappa Delta, an honorary forensic society.

MacMillan, Breen Will Vie Tuesday, Wednesday For Barnwarming Court

Thursday morning's student body meeting was held for the purpose of nominating two girls and two boys to appear on the ballot for Barnwarming King and Queen. Voting to elect the king and queen will be held next Tuesday and Wednesday in all day ballotting.

Judy Breen, senior English major from Anniston, Ala., will compete with Jane MacMilan, senior education major from Acworth, Ga., for the title of Barnwarming Queen.

Clark vs. Proffitt

Bob Proffitt, senior pre-med student from Maryville and Andy Clark, senior philosophy major from Pittsburgh, Pa., will vie for the title of Barnwarming King.

The four classes met separately for the purpose of nominating two girls from each class to run for class sponsor.

Senior class nominated Gerry Hopkins, senior education major from Fort Valley, Ga., and Alice Huddleston, senior English major from Maryville. Nominated by the junior class were Mary Kelton and Hazel Wood, physical education major from Abington, Va.

Hammers-Lewis

Running on a sophomore class ticket will be Betty Hammers, transfer sociology major from Stewartstown, Pa., and Pat Lewis, English major from Union, Miss.

Peggy Points, freshman home economics major from Dry Ridge, Ky., and Ruth Ann Roach, freshman sociology major from Apollo, Pa. will compete for freshman class sponsor.

'Messiah' Opens Rehearsal Season. To Be Sung Dec. 10

Regular rehearsals for the "Messiah" will begin on Sunday, October 22, at 3:30 p.m. in the Alumni Gym. Places in the chorus are open to community singers as well as college personnel.

An invitation is extended to all who are interested to sing with the combined choirs. "Messiah" performance will be Sunday afternoon, December 10, and will be under the direction of Assistant Professor Harry H. Harter. The orchestra is in rehearsal under the direction of Mr. W. Curtis Hughes.

NO BAINONIAN

There will be no Bainonian meeting this week because of the Homecoming activities.

Cox Elected Prexy Of Tau Kappa Chi

Pat Cox, senior music theory major from Pittsburgh, Pa., was elected president of Tau Kappa Chi in an election held last week. Other officers include Carolyn Marshall, vice-president and program chairman; June Hood, secretary-treasurer; and Louise Lloyd, pledge chairman. Miss Lloyd is outgoing president.

Tau Kappa Chi is an honorary organization for women music majors and interested applied music students who are honor students. Its aims are to raise the general academic standard of the music department; to provide a goal for all students interested in music; and to promote thoroughly trained musicianship and further the understanding of all types of music.

Dance Writes Play For Horror Show On MC Halloween

The Junior Class is sponsoring a monster show "They Made Me A Monster," at 9:45 p.m. following the Halloween class parties on October 20. The script, written and directed by Jim Dance, is a sequel to the performances of former years. It is the story of the Great Zeppo, a magician (Archie Swarztrauber) and his two assistants (La Donna Baylor and Beverly Jacobi) who get stranded in an old mansion owned by Dr. Nightmare (Dance).

Others in the cast include Mrs. Graves, the housekeeper, Rosie Pascal; Miss Blair, the doctor's nurs, Barbara Blum; Mr. Talbott, his assistant, Joe Poland; the Butler, Jim Kren; Sheriff, John Schaumburg; Dracula, Allan Caldwell; Snider Woman, Diana Mirshak; Wolf Man, JoePoland; Monster, Charles Williams.

Set and Stage Design, Ruth Nicholas; Lights, George Barber; Special Effects, Dan Dunbar; Electrical Equipment, Branin Boyd.

Although this show is sponsored by the Junior Class, all are invited to come out to the Alumni Gym to climax the evening.

Camera Club Meets Mon.

Camera Club members will make snow scene Christmas cards at Camera Club this Monday at 6:45 in Fayerweather. A snow scene will be set up on a table ten. Members are asked to bring their cameras.

Camera Club To Instruct

Several members of the Camera Club are willing to give instruction in developing and printing pictures to anyone who is interested. Sign-up sheets are in Thaw and Anderson.

The Camera Club is also planning a trip soon to take colored pictures of the autumn trees. Everyone is invited to attend the club's meetings.

Fine Arts Recital Presented Tuesday

The Division of Fine Arts will present a student recital on Tuesday afternoon, October 24, at 4:30 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall.

Jeannette Whitaker will sing "Du bist wie eine Blume" by Schumann and "Sounds" by Klemm, accompanied by Barbara Scott. Accompanied by Lesta Merrick, Kenneth Shaffer will sing "My Lady Walks in Loveliness' by Charles. Following this, there will be two piano solos: Carol Mitchell playing "Intermezzo", Op. 119, No. 1 by Brahms, and Doris Holt playing "Waltz in E minor" by Chopin. "Pur di cesti" by Lotti will be sung by Rosalie Munson, accompanied by Doris Holt. Barbara Paine will then play Gavotte in G Minor (Third English Suite) by Bach and Prelude No. 3 by Gershwin.

"Sonata in G Major (K189h) Presto by Mozart will be played by Barbara Scott. Evalyn Smith will sing "Old Sir Faulk" by Walton, accompanied by Dorothy Vawter. Concluding the program will be a quartet composed of Rosalie Munson as Gilda, Betty Hammers as Maddelena, Don Brakebill as Duke of Mantua, and William Robinson as Rigoletto in their rendition of "Bellfiglia dell amore" from Rigoltto by Verdi. Their accompanist will be June Hood.

Schulz Talks At Vespers

Speaker at Vespers tomorrow in the Library at 7 p.m., will be the Rev. Dr. Rudolph G. Shulz, pastor of the St. John's Lutheran Church, Knoxville. The Vesper Choir, under the direction of Harry H. Harter, will sing "Salvation Is Created" by Tschesnokoff and "God's Son Hath Set Me Free" by Greig.

'Dogpatch' Arrives As Gals Grab Guys On Sadie Hawkins'

The annual Sadie Hawkins Day program will take place next Saturday night, October 28, in the Alumni Gym. The program will be a television show of the life on Planet Pincus Number 7, presented by the Girls' Choir and the Boys' Glee Club. There will hill-billy orchestra to accompany.

The girls are to ask the fellows for dates for the program and pin "He's Took" signs on them. Each girl is to make a corsage for her date out of anything available, and then pick him up at Carnegie at 8:00. There will be prizes given for the best corsages.

Every one should come dressed as some character from the "Li'l Abner" comic strip. The best L'il Abner's and Daisy Mae's will be picked during the evening.

Lou Masters is in charge of the program and script; Beverly Edwards, publicity; and Pat Lewis, refreshments.

Art Department Offers New Course In Arts, Crafts

Besides the regular courses in applied art and art history, a course in arts and crafts is to be offered next semester. Sufficient interest exists among the students to warrant adding such a credit course, which will be scheduled as an art lab, four hours per week plus two more at either BL or FL. The hour chosen will be the one that seems to accommodate most schedules.

The applied art courses under Mr. Dashiell will continue as Art 62, 72, and 82. Students wanting non-credit work should register for Art 11 and arrange their hours specially. Each credit course represents a different level of work and is open to all interested. Techniques of drawing and painting as well as principles of composition are taught. Study of sculptural techniques may be arranged if interest demands.

Art History

An important aspect of the art program is the attention given to art history. Though these concerts might appear to be just for the art major, that is not the case, especially in a liberal arts program. Art 208, the Renaissance in Italy during the 16th, 17th, and 18 centuries, lays emphasis on painting with reference to important and parellel developments in architecture and sculpture. Reproductions of paintings and drawings of the masters are studied, as well as contemporary writings. This course is suggested as a corollary for history, Bible, and literature students, but is open to all except freshmen.

Art 308 deals with Europe after the Renaissance and before the impact of 20th century thought. The development of painting from the 18th century through the 19th with emphasis upon the leadership of France is presented. Development in painting during this time shows a close correlation with that in history and literature. Students in those subjects would find this study particularly pertinent.

Athenians, Sigs Meet

A talent night program featuring frosh members will be presented to Alpha Sigma tonight at 6:15 in Thaw 214.

Athenian will meet tonight at 6:15 in Bartlett Auditorium.

Festivities Include Address By Dr. Mackay, Crowning

By Dick Newman

Founder's and Homecoming Day began at chapel at 9:45 this morning with the annual Founder's Day address, given this year by Dr. John A. Mackay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N.J. Also participating in the service were President Ralph Waldo Lloyd, Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, and the vesper choir.

Dr. Mackay, a native of Scotland, holds degrees from many internationally-known colleges and universities. He is chairman of the International Missionary Council, president of the Presbyterian USA Board of Foreign Missions, and editor of "Theology Today" magazine.

At 12 noon, Dr. Mackay will speak to over 50 pre-ministerial students at a luncheon meeting at Lyon's Restaurant.

Homecoming Parade

The homecoming parade, sponsored by the Pep committee, will leave for town from the South Gate at 1:15 led by the Everett High and College bands, the parade will consist of 20 floats sponsored by campus organizations, and 10 convertibles with the Homecoming Queen, her court, and other notables.

Jim Townsend, assisted by Tom Kees and George Barber, is in charge of parade arrangements. Several Maryville business firms have donated trucks, tractors, and automobiles.

Alumni Barbeque

The Alumni Homecoming Barbecue is scheduled to take place on the baseball field at 5:30 p.m. President of the Alumni Association is Dr. William C. Crowder, '28, a Maryville physician.

The Fine Arts Division has made arrangements for the new Fine Arts Centers to be open during the day to visitors for inspection.

Judging of dormitory decorations will take place during the parade by a committee of alumni and faculty. A trophy will be awarded to the winning dorm. Again this year, a drum will be sounded at brief and regular intervals all day.

The uniform of Jane McMillan, Miss Pep, has been completed this week. New accessories include white belt, sporan, cap broach, and spats.

Football

Completing the day's program is the Homecoming football game with Emory and Henry College on Wilson Field at 8:00 p.m. To be crowned Homecoming queen is Mary Wills, senior sociology major from Bartimore, who was elected by the student body during balloting held last week. Her escort will be Bill Starr, senior English major from Baltimore, Md.

Court attendants are Ruth Nicholas, senior art major from Drexel Hill, Pa., and Sally Kemp, senior physical education major from Acworth, Ga.

Vols To See Film On Translations

"O for a Thousand Tongues" is the title of the motion picture which will be shown at the Student Vols meeting tomorrow night following Vespers in Bartlett Auditorium.

The documentary movie was filmed in color and sound in Mexico and Peru. It was produced by Dr. Irwin Moon for the Wycliffe Bible Translators, Inc. and portrays actual translating of the Bible into many tongues.

The Invocation will be given by Grace Greenawalt. Bill Starr will read the Scripture and Lora Kinsinger will offer prayer. Ken Shaffer will lead the singing.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1950

Welcome Home . . . .

We sincerely welcome back to campus this weekend all the MC grads, a long and impressive list. It is our hope that your "homcoming" will be a memorable one.

It is indeed an honor for us to have Dr. John A. Mackay, Princeton Seminary's president, with us for our Founder's Day ceremonies and extend a hearty handshake to our other distinguished visitors.

May 1950 Homecoming be the best ever!

Orange and Garnet, Please!

Each fall there comes to Maryville a numerous assortment of letters earned in the high schools from every Hometown, USA. While these letters represent hours of work and achievement in the field of athletics, they also represent the past.

Since you have come to Maryville and Maryville has chosen you as one of her students, let's throw our all to support the Orange and Garnet color scheme. The guys and gals who have earned their "M" here are justly proud of it. An "M" symbolizes so much.

So a word to the wise would be sufficient, the word being to put away that alphabet and get in the fight for your "M" too.

There Shall Be Peace

October 24, 1950, will mark the fifth anniversary of the day in 1945 on which the United Nations Charter came into force as world law, expressing the hope of the people of the world that ther shall be peace.

On October 31, 1947, the General Assembly adopted a resolution declaring October 24 United Nations Day. This time, the Assembly declared, should be devoted to making konwn to the peoples of the world the aims and achievements of the UN, and to gaining their support for the work of the UN.

The strength of the United Nations depends upon the support it receives from the people of the world. It is only when each individual becomes aware of his responsibility that the aims of the United Nations will be realized. Not enough emphasis can be placed on the need for individual action in order that the aims of the United Nations may become a reality.

The observance of United Nations Day in 1950 is particularly significant because of the period of anxiety and crisis now existing. Differences of ideology and national interest make the maintenance of peace unusually difficult. It is these factors which make the work of the UN even more important. Some of these gaps have been bridged, yet there is still a long way to go.

United Nations Day remains the only day of dedication to peace and progress which is honored throughout the world, in countries of widely different heritage and habit. Its celebration acts as a cohesive force, binding together the peoples of the world, and it gives to ach individual the feeling that he is participating actively in the pursuit of peace.

The underlying theme of the campaign of the National Citizen's Committee is "when the bells ring out (at 11 o'clock) on United Nations Day, October 24. . . say a prayer in your church, in your home, in your heart for the UN. . . our best hope for peace with freedom."

In supporting the United Nations, the people of the world are working to make their own future secure. General Romulo, president of the General Assembly in 1949, stated "the peoples of the world succeed only insofar as they are sincere in their desire for peace, and unfaltering in their determination to work together to secure it."

So let each observe United Nations Day with a prayer in his heart, and pledge his support in order that there shall be peace.

MLM

Scots & Soda

Of Queens and Things

Coincidental as it may be, it's worthy of mention—the fact that our most recently elected royalty answers also to the title of "Mary, Queen of Scots." Seems to us that some where along in our passing (well,most of the time) acquaintanceship with historical matters we heard that the same "queenie" was also called "Bloody Mary."

Naw, It's Safe—

Phyll Jackson was in to see Dean Massey the other day about arranging some species of a party. Mrs. Broyles in the outer office questioned her as to the number of chaperones, "Oughtn't you to have more than one chaperone for all those people?"

"Oh,no," Phyll assured her seriously, "it's not that kind of a party."

Meaty Items

Dr. Orr, eminent philosophy professor at MC, was lecturing on various and sundry items in Ethics last week and quotable quotes include "When they go to the store to buy the meat for the dining hall, or wherever they do go to buy it. ."

Marriage Counsellor

Social Science Survey was treated to a wise bit of information as to the cause of the high divorce rate by George Carpenter. "Hollywoodites," quoth Mr. Carpenter, "make love all day to their leading ladies and so when they go home to their wives at night, they sometimes get confused."

Vesper's Voice

After the choir had finished practicing the selection, Mr. Harter faced them and said: Okay, do it once more and leave out all the jerks.

Refresher

Dr. Buchanan's "World Religions" course had a unique experience this week. They were treated to two out-door meetings by the good doctor. During one, he passed around a Hindu bucket and discovered a good number of pennies in the bottom of it.

The next class hour "Doc" had brought gum and distributed it to the tune of a lecture.

Passing Review

From what will meet our wondering eyes this afternoon, it will appear that Maryville has dropped one of its traditions, thriftiness (Scot's style). Take along look at that line-up of convertibles: Oldsmobiles, Nash, Mercury! ! It could be known as "Keeping Up With The Lloyds."

Heaps of 'Em

Lots of congratulations to the hard-working crew of Townsend, Kees, and Barber without whom much of today's success would not be possible.

Is It You?

Yes, who is "Miss 1951 Esquire Calendar Girl?"

Phenomenal

Strange things appear on dorm bulletin boards but, oddly enough some of them are quite logical and seemingly true. Such a one was a cartoon of a liquor-taster's convention with Mr. Mac's portrait porminently in evidence in the picture. Reporting, reporting. . . . ! !

TALK OF THE WEEK By John Olsen '54

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

CINEMA CARICATURES

Be prepared, studes! Monday and Tuesday at the Capitol features "Paid in Full," a tear jerker, starring Robert Cummings, Lizabeth Scott, and Diana Lynn.

Liz has accidentally killed the only child her sister, Diana, can have. Hence Liz hitches with Bob when he finishes divorcing. She knows that she must die in childbirth, but she bears Bob a child. Then after Liz's death, Bob and Diana remarry and raise the child as a substitute.

Wednesday sees the appearance of "Davy Crockett, Indian Scout" starring George Montgomery and Ellen Drew. Davy (George and Red Hawk (Phillip Reed), a good Indian, discover that the bad Indians are on the warpath. A wagon train with a cavalry escort is headed for trouble in injun territory, but Davy and Red Hawk save the day. Oh yes! Ellen is a St. Louie school teacher and a spy for the bad injuns, but she turns good.

"Sword in the Desert" with Dana Andrews, Marta Toren and Stephen McNally appears Thursday and Friday. It concerns the Israeli-Arab squabble with little factual action and much beautiful scenery. It even creates its own stereotypes of the British, Arabs, and Jews. And on Saturday we have Gene Autry in "The Big Sombrero."

Park's fare on Monday is "Barbary Pirate" with Donald Woods and Trudy Marshall. Townight and Wednesday you can see "Tarzan's Triumph" with Johnny Weismuller. Friday and Saturday is "Pinky," which you've probably already seen. It is a top-grade picture on the racial question, combining an excellent plot with good facts, and few recognizable stereotypes.

ON THE BOOK SHELF

Making a timely appearance in the state of world affairs is "United States Relation with China", a 1054 page US Department of State volume. There is a special section on the 1944-49 period.

Also covered is the general policy from 1844-1943, and the Chinese Communist Party from 1921-1944. One half of its pages are devoted to annexes on documentary papers.

"Racial Attitudes" compiled by Fisk University is a collection of interviews with Northern and Southern whites on the racial question. It covers a wide range of occupational and educational levels, but it should be read only for the individual opinions expressed and not as any survey of representative opinion.

Poetry lovers should have a field day when they find the "Home Book of Modern Verse" by B. E. Stevenson, "Crashaw's Poetical Works" by William B. Turnbull, George B. Woods' "Poetry of the Victorian Period" and Shelley's "Complete Poetical Works" edited by Thomas Hutchinson.

When you are graduated, and go to Venice, take along Grant Allen's compact and comprehensive "Venice," a guide to the beautiful city.

"Actors on Acting," edited by Toby Cole and Helen K. Chinoy, presents theories, techniques, and practices of great actors as told in their own words.

MAGIC MELODIES

Rise Stevens, one of the world's leading mezzo-sopranos, sings at the Alumni Memorial Auditorium in Knoxville on October 24. Miss Stevens has been with the Metropolitan Opera, and has appeared on radio and with the movies and TV, so you will find her photogenic as well as "sonogenic."

If you have radies three whole hours of good music may be heard over WROL on Monday evening from 8 p.m. to 11. There is the Railroad Hour, The Voice of Firestone, The Bell Telephone Hour, and the Bands of America, each half-hour programs. Topping the list is the NBC Symphony for a whole hour from 10-11.

Tricky Numbers

During half-time tonight, take time out from looking at your girl and try looking at the tricky and very interesting numbers the marching band has ready. Mr. Hughes should be congratulated for a marching band with such fine performances and music.

RCS

Say! Have You Met

"Oh, I think the girls at Maryville are the most cute I have seen in the United States," grins Roger Padron, our Boy of the Week. And we think Roger is just about the nicest thing that could have happened to this year's freshmen class. Answering to the names of "Poncho," "Pedro" and "Amigo," he says the thing he remembers most, "Oh, when my many friends remember my birthday and I have a cake and they sing to me. It was good then."

ROGER PADRON

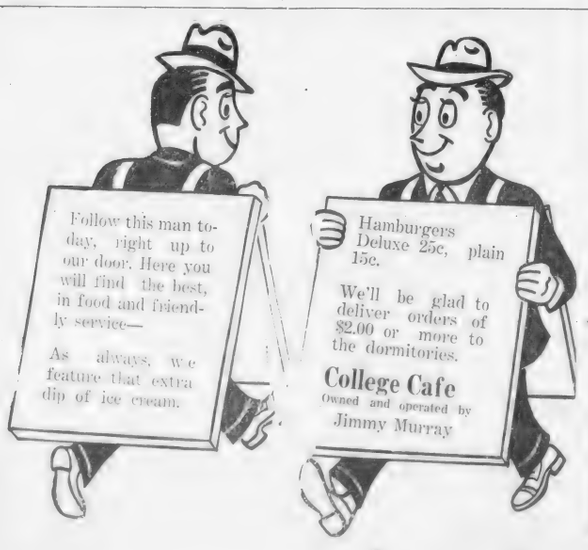
Roger came to Maryville from Cardinas, Cuba where he has lived all his life with his father and mother ,four sisters and three brothers. Everyone here knows about his big brother, Joseph, for Roger talks about him all day long.

Roger graduated from Colegio Presbiteriano La Progresiva this year and came to Maryille on the advice of Miss Pino, his English teacher there and a Maryville graduate of a few years back. "School in Cuba is not like United States," he told us. "In Cuba we have six grades and then one year of preparatory school. Then the boys and girls go to the Colegio. There is no high schoo."

Roger's most thrilling experience was his plane trip from Cuba to Miami on his way to school this fall. "All my life I dream about flying," he sighed.

"I know all my friends are glad they do not have to write what they are trying to tell me," he says. "Now I understand everything you say to me and I am learning good English very fast."

Letters To The Editor



To The Editor:

May I say it was an inspiration to me as it must have been to the football team to hear the enthusiastic cheers of the group of Maryville students attending the ETS game Saturday night.

One of the cheerleaders for ETS spoke very truthfully when she said that the small group on the Maryville side was making more noise than all the students and alumni on the ETS side.

I'm sure it means more to your team than you know and also impresses others with your spirit when you continue your vocal support even unto the end.

Scots To Play Wasps Tonight

Sports Echoes

By Neal Pearson

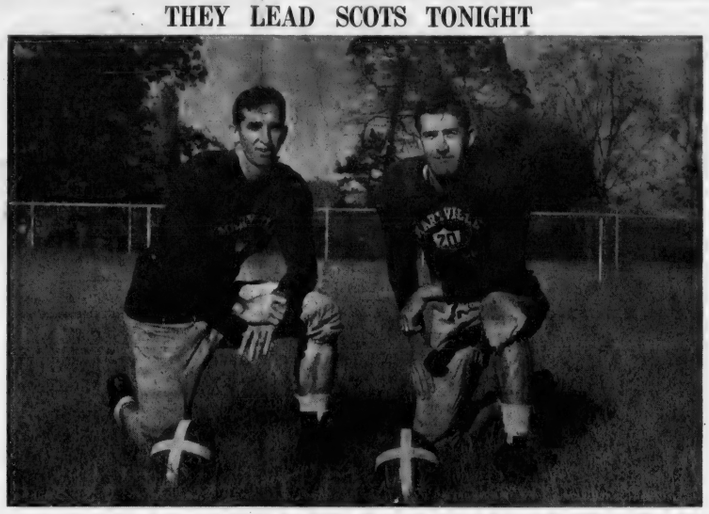
Ghost Riders On The Field

A coach was coaching one dark and cloudy day,
He paced along the sidelines, his team began to play.
But when the game was over and all the gear laid aside
You should have heard that coach as he sadly cried,
Penalties for offsides, penalties for offsides
They give us penalties for offsides.
—The Barber of Seveirville with apoligies to Vaughn Monroe

●TWEET, TWEET..... This seemed to be the most prominent thing on the field against Maryville in the East Tennessee game in the third quarter with Maryville on the forty. Signals were crossed up on six out of seven straight plays and MC incurred a five-yard loss on each one of them. We aren't hollering at the officials or anything like it, but it really showed how heads-up a team has to be to play the game of football. This spot after ETS scored their third TD was the turning point in a game which we thought MC had a chance to win after the calibre of play in the first half save for two lapses. These two lapses also showed that you've got to play hard all the way. Maryville's line (esp. the ends) failed to get down field fast enough on Berrong's kick in the first quarter and ETS scored a touchdown on the mixcue. Later on when MC had settled down and was charging the Bucs almost out of the stands, Hal Morrison got behind the MC secondary and hauled in a Howze pass to put the Bucs back into contention. On the penalty side of things, the assessment of ninety yards against Maryville was the greatest ever levied against a Scot gridiron squad since football has been resumed on the Hill. Highest ever before was 75 levied against State last year. Boy, did they hurt! Let's hope everybody gets things straightened out tonight.

●THE MOST PROMINENT THING OFF THE FIELD was the noise and cheering put out by a bunch of entuhsiastic Maryville men at the game. Some 35-40 got up there by "hook or crook" and outshouted the whole East Tennessee State Homecoming crowd. Without cheerleaders, they ran off in perfect execution Howie, Howie, Stand up, sit down, Fight, team, fight, and a host of others. But their most prominent cheer was a spontaneous one. It seems that ETS had a halfback named Bud McCurry with the result that everytime that worthy one carried the ball or even moved a muscle, they commented on it to the tune of the well-known rib around campus. Boys, it was good and we hope to see more of this stuff of attending away games. The faculty will probably string me up for this but On to Carson-Newman, Tusculum, and Georgetown!

●LAST WEEK'S CROSS COUNTRY STORY carried a sentence which mentioned the fact that TPI wasn't having a team in that sport this year. The week before saw a thumbs down on the sport at East Tennessee State. The "reasons" given for this are that they don't have any money for the sport and that there isn't enough interest. To those who are in the know, this doesn't seem very plausible, for if we can remember correctly Cross Country was revived here three years ago without any budget. Many was the day when the guys griped vociferously because they had to furnish their own towel, socks, shoes, shirt, etc. and it got so they stood up and barked in the corner. But this has all been changed now and the men are entitled to check out some equipment at the first of the year and to use it throughout the season. Not casting any stones towards Bartlett way, we say that most of the gripes of the other days were just something to gripe about like the old running schedule was last week. The thing that impressed us was that the men didn't really care about what they wore, but that they wanted to get out and run. It must be that that isn't the spirit at the other schools. TPI was an example of one of the sorriest coaching jobs done for a sport when the thinlies witnessed the TPI setup—the coach hadn't even been around the course or even to practice for a week before the Maryville meet. Though this may cause many a raised eyebrow, we'd be willing to say that because there is subsidization of football, all the emphasis is on that sport and none on the others at both schools.



The latest word from the cross country men is that they would be willing to make two trips to ETS or to TPI if money is the question and on their own hook. We hope that these two schools try to do something in the way of encouraging the sport—you just can't have a winner overnight in cross country—it takes time and effort mostly, with a lot on the effort side.

More dope on the hill-and-dale sport is the taking up of Fartlek, the Swedish system of running. The whole thing centers around a continuous running—be it jog, sprint, or stride—with a quitting when the runner feels tired. Knowing the boys as we do, we dare say that they will want to stick to this "got off when you're tired" system. Rousing cheers greeted Coach Johnson when he made the announcement and we hope that the men stick to it because it puts the responsibility on them to run.

●TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT for the eighth time since a certain date last year when MC was started on her losing streak. Whether or not superstition pays off or not, last Saturday night's contest was the seventh one following a Friday the 13th and the dope on the good side of the horoscope is that for the last five years at least, Maryville hasn't lost a homecoming game though she was the favorite or the underdog. Emory & Henry was supposed to win the homecomer two years ago but lost, 12-6, in the fray. Two years ago, MC lost to ETS by 20 points, also, before upsetting the card table against

ETS Trips Scots 33-14 On Road Trip

Scot Mistakes Hurt Again

Maryville's Scotties tried to repeat their surprise victory of last year over East Tennessee State's Bucs last Saturday, but after making a valiant bid in the first half, folded up almost completely on pass defense in the final stages of the game. The result was that the Bucs ultimately rolled on to a 33-14 triumph.

8,000 Of Them . . .

Staged before a homecoming crowd of 8,000 which had come to see the unveiling of the Bucs home stand, the game was settled in the fourth quarter when the Bucs' came up with two clinching touchdowns. This was more than sufficient to wipe out MC's one point halftime lead.

Hustle From Now On!

Maryville had received Howze's kickoff, but couldn't get anywhere with the ball. King Berrong backed up and kicked 55 yardsto the Buc 30 where the Scots' first mishap caused them much damage. Bob Lloyd, the Buc's speedster-back, took the punt in his arms, raced around the Maryville men down to "cover" him, and swept 70 yards for a touchdown. Maryville's ends, to hear Coach Honaker, "had loafed" down field and Lloyd, a 10 second man on the cinder paths, got up steam and swooshed around his own right side and picked up blocking to go all the way. Howze then toed a perfect placement with scarcely two minutes gone.

Both teams then buckled down on defense and exchanged punts with Charlie Allen getting off some nice ones to back up the Bucs. The first quarter ended and Maryville intercepted a Burns' pass with Allen on the intercepting end returning it three yards to the enemy 48. Ken Yunkers peeled off four on a quickie through right guard and Allen found Babe Keny with a 16 yard pass. Harold Glad then bulled his way for 16 and two, down to the fifteen. Tweet, tweet, on the whistle now became the style for the day for the first time and Maryville lost a touchdown for an offsides penalty on the play—a pass from Allen to Bob McClelland. Another five yarder to the rear for the same infraction put MC back on the 27. Yunkers picked up six on an old fashioned reverse and Allen also pulled another fuzzy. He faked a pass, got good blocking, and scooted around end for 20 yards down to the one. He made it on the next play and Callaway tied up the contest with another perfect placement.

Hooray!

Burns couldn't get the State offense to clicking and the Maryville line had the Bucs heavier forwards reeling back on their heels at this point with the result that the Scots still had hope of fighting back. Bud McCurry was hit hard and fumbled with Homer Garren recovering on the 20. Allen faded back again for a a good deal of promise.

In the surprise move of the week ex-quarterback King Berrong has been shifted to the all-pass and it worked like a charm again as McClelland gathered in the pigskin in the end zone. Callaway was forced to kick five yards further back because of an overly-long huddle, but again split the uprights to make it 14-7 and send the small contingent of MC fans into a frenzy.

The Preacher tried something new and stuck another quarterback, Frank Webb, in. Webb found Morrison's hands to his likening and completed two tosses in a row for 47 yards and a

Bruce DeNagy	Lowell Duffy
Jim Kren	Bob Wainer
Chuck Holsing	J. Schaumberg
Stan Downs	Joe McNeil
Frank Farmer	Charlie Williams

SOCCER

The soccer season started with a bang (to put it mildly) this week. After the dust had cleared and the bruised bones taken care of, the resulting scores were as follows:

Alpha Sigma, 0 Y.M.C.A., 1
Pi Lumbago, 2 Loafers, 1
Pre-Min., 0 Alpha Sigma, 3

Pi Lumbago and Y.M.C.A. will play an exhibition soccer game in the second part of Tuesday night's program.

A new Intramural rule has been iniitated with the beginning of the soccer season. All players must be signed up on team rosters before they can represent any team in a game. The use of any player not signed on a team roster will result in the forfeiture of that game by the offending team. Team rosters are posted on the bulletin board in the Intramural Office.

Thinlies Switch To Swedish Running System–Fartlek

Coach Johnson has introduced a new training program for his cross-countrymen in an effort to put them back in the win column. After suffering two straight setbacks at the hands of the distancers from UT the Scots are out to win their last three meets of the year.

Holmberg's System

The new program, known as the Fartlek (the t is silent) system was written and sent to this country by Coach Gosta Holmer of Sweden. Coach Holmer was the Chief Coach for the Swedish Olympic Team in the track and fiel events, held in London in 1948. Fartlek means in English, play of speed or speed play.

HIGHLANDERS PLAY EMORY & HENRY IN HOMECOMING GAME

Scots Out To Win

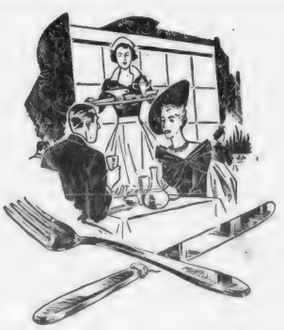
Maryville's Scotties face a powerful Emory-Henry team here tonight in the annual homecoming game. Several thousand alumni and guests are expected here for tonight's festivities.

The Scots, a 47.5 point underdog according to Litkenhous, will be out to break a seven game losing streak, four of them this year. The boys are pepped up and are disregarding the "dope masters" in an effort to win this one.

Emory-Henry will present a power-packed team this year which is headed, perhaps, for its second post-season bowl game in a row if it can roll over the rest of the schedule. Last week Coach C. T. Snidow's squad lost a tough one when the Quakers from Guilford College in Greensboro, N. C. upset the highly favored Wasps, 21-20. The Wasps hold previous victories over Elon, 33-12, Milligan, 41-0, Carson-Newman, 39-0, and Hamden Sydeny, 48-21.

Two years ago the Methodists came here for the homecoming contest highly favored to win the fray. They mis-calculated the spirit of the Scotmen and came out on the rough end of a 12-6 upset. Last year the Scots fought hard but lost out an a 38-27 score. Maryville holds the lead in the down-through-the -years record with nine wins against four loses.

The Scots will be looking up with the return of Herbie Palmer to his guard position. A new line-up in the backfield has been announced, caused partly by the broken finger suffered by freshman Dick Mirshak in the Centre game.



Sophomore Bill Gibson is expected to call the plays tonight for Coach Lombe Honaker's split T using Scots. Charlie Allen, speedy star of the Scots so far this year, will be found in the usual left-halfback position. At right half will be a new face to the starting lineup in the person of also speedy Ken Yunkers, a sophomore who has shown the Wasps. But it'll take more than tradition to beat the Blue and Yellow Wasps of Conley Snidow. Little All-American Bob Miller & Co. will be out to rack up as big a score as they can against the Scots rather than have the kind of a game that was played by the Scots last year. The Scots fought back to lead with eight minutes to go in the contest when the combination of a bad snap from center, a step off the wrong foot, and a fake-punt-run put the Wasps back in the ball game after trailing 25-18. Miller was the big gun, then, and will be so tonight. The Wasps have a powerhouse attack—scoring 181 points to their four opponents 54, this year. Biggest scorer against them was Guilford which upset them, 21-20, last week. This augers something bad for the future unless things brighten up. But things ought to be hot and sparkling tonight with both teams pouring their best into the fight and using all the tricks in the book. Maryville will have Herb Palmer back and his presence in the line ought to inspire some good old-fashioned blocking and tackling tonight. LET'S GO GET 'EM MEN.

Jackson, Dance Read

Phyllis Jackson and Jim Dance will read at Writer's Workshop next Wednesday, October 25, at 4:30 in Dr. E. R. Hunter's classroom, Anderson Hall. Critics will be Ruby Harris and Carolyn Miller.

Carol Corbett and Bill Starr read at the last meeting. They were criticized by Del Earisman and Associate Professor Arthur Bushing.

Episcopalians Hear Panel

A panel will discuss "To What Extent Should Economic Problems Be the Province of the Church?" at St. Andrew's Episcopal Church School tomorrow at 9:30 a.m.

Members are Robert Newman, George Ogle, John Shew, and Robert Wainer and the moderator will be political science instructor David Ainsworth.

Students To Lead In Sunday Schools

The following leaders have been announced for the Sunday School worship services at the Maryville churches tomorrow:

Members of the Crusader Class are in charge of opening devotions at New Providence Presbyterian. Dick Lane will read the scripture and Carolyn Miller will offer prayer. Helen Seay is the soloist and Barbara Stidham is pianist. Singing will be lead by Charles Williams. Dr. E. R. Hunter teaches the Crusader Class and Mr. A. F. Pieper is the College Class teacher.

Wright, Howell

At Broadway Methodist, Morna Wright will read the scripture and George Howell will sing a solo. College Class teacher is Mr. Bill Kneeland.

Grace Greenawalt will lead worship services at First Methodist. Jimmy Britton is song leader. Mr. C. C. Chamberlain will teach the class.

Larry Wallace will present a musical program at First Baptist where Mrs. Hamilton Traylor is teacher.

TD. Howze missed the point and MC left at halftime with a one point margin.

Another Passer

Stunned by the turn of events, Coach Roberts & Company came back charging and used still another quarterback. Roberts pulled out of his collective helmet of tricks Frank Howze, heretofore a kicking specialist, to throw the ball around. And well did Howze throw the pigskin. Their new "take-charge guy" used the same receiver, Morrison, to Maryville's damage. Lloyd and Howze had alternated on rushes through the middle and by the time they got down to the four, they had figured that the MC defense had pulled in far enough to halt their ground attack. So ,they switched to the air and Morrison was open. Howze completed the toss to Morrison and then kicked the point to put the Bucaneers ahead, 20-14.

Dang It!

MC still was in the ball game and took the kickoff on the 15 with Vananda returning 12 to the 27. Allen and Glad took the ball up to midfield on successive plays but they all went for naught. Illegal holdings by a Maryville played sent the ball back to the MC 12. Allen tried the line for eight but it went for notihng as five more straight offsides penalties put MC back on the seven. This was the turning point of the game. MC lost a glorious chance to march for a TD and go ahead to knock the Bucs off their feet. Maryville did not get the ball again in the quarter and the Bucs began grinding out yardage and punting till MC was back on the 30 in the fourth. Somebody got signals crossed up and Buster Haylock threw a pass on fourth down with three to go which was over Allen's head in the flats and the Bucs took over on the 31. Howze again toed his way on to the field and completed his seventh pass in iight tries to Miller for 31 yards behind a sieve-like MC defense and then kicked the point.

Maryville dug in and stopped the next Buc attack on the five as Webb's pass was grounded. The Scots moved out to the 18 on a pass from Allen to Jimmy Campbell and Allen faded back to toss another. Alert Jerry Ford on ETS defense got to the ball first and returned it to the Maryville 23. Burns, out for two quarters, came back in, and he, too, found the range, with J. L. Jones doing the snagging. Howze missed the try from placement but the game was over two plays later as Allen's pass was intercepted.

important plunging position of fullback. A change has been made in the line, too, as Homer Garren, who usually plays center, will start at left end.

Little All-American Bob Miller is expected to put on quite a show for the Wasps, although he is not scheduled to start the game. The Wasps are starting an experienced line with four seniors, a junior, and two sophomores. The backfield, however, is in experienced for the most part with one junior, two sophomores and a freshman.

DANCE COOKS AGAIN WITH MONSTER SHOW—EEK!

U. OF ALA. QUARTET OPENS SERIES FRIDAY

'MONSTER' SHOW COMES TUESDAY FOLLOWING HALLOWEEN PARTIES

Juniors, Frosh, Sophomores Hold Big Festivities

Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior classes will hold Halloween parties Tuesday night, October 31. The Senior Class holds no party but seniors may visit those of other classes. Following the parties at 9:45 p.m. will be the presentation of the third annual monster show sponsored by the Junior Class.

Prexy Bob McClelland has announced that the Freshman class party will be held in the Broadway Methodist Gym at 7:00 p.m. Committee chairmen are Connie Howell, publicity; Jerry King, program and social; and Malcolm Moore, decorations and refreshments. Square dancing and singing have been planned.

Sophomores will gather in the Intramural Gym at 8:00 p.m. for a party centered around a county fair. Paul Merwin is party chairman. Working with him are Lois Lerch, entertainment; Isabel Leitch, refreshments, and John Schaumburg, decorations.

Juniors In Gym

Alumni Gym is the site of the Junior Class party. Beverly Jacobi is chairman. Working on committees are Jessie Dye and Branin Boyd, decorations; Wilma Borter, refreshments; and Hazel Wood and Bob Kees, program. Party starts at 8 p.m. Square dancing is scheduled along with other attractions.

The script for the monster show, "They Made Me a Monster," was written by Jim Dance who is also directing the performance. It is the story of the Great Zeppo, a magician (Archie Swarztrauber) and his two assistants (LaDonna Baylor and Beverly Jacobi) who get stranded in an old mansion owned by Dr. Nightmare (Dance).

Others in the cast include Mrs. Graves, the housekeeper, Rosie Pascal; Miss Blair, the doctor's nurse, Barbara Blum; Mr. Talbott, his assistant, Joe Poland; the Butler, Jim Kren; sheriff, John Schaumburg; Dracula, Allan Caldwell; Spider Woman, Diana Mirshak; Wolf Man, Joe Poland; Monster, Charles Williams.

Set and Stage Design, Ruth Nicholas; Lights, George Barber; Special Effects, Dan Dunbar; Electrial Equipment, Branin Boyd.

Mrs. W. Buchanan Visits MC Campus

Mrs. W. Verne Buchanan, President of the National Council of Women's Organizations of the Presbyterian Church, USA, spoke at the chapel service last Tuesday morning.

She described some of the delegates to the international meeting of Presbyterian women held in Ocean Grove, N.J., last June, and discussed their messages to that group.

Mrs. Buchanan, accompanied by her husband, is to visit a number of church-related institutions in the south.

ALL-CAMPUS PRAYER HELD EVERY THURSDAY NIGHT

Ruth Burgos will lead the all-campus prayer meeting Thursday night in the Y-Rooms at 9:30 p.m. The subject for her talk will be "Our Christian Responsibilities". Florence Clark will play a flute solo, a paraphrase on Dr. L. Mason's "Nearer My God to Thee" as arranged by Otto Langey, Op. 133. The hymn singing will be led by Wally Schroeder.

Lyerly, Miller To Read; 'Chips' Goes On Sale

Mary Lyerly and Carolyn Miller will read at the Wednesday afternoon meeting of Writers' Workshop and will be criticized by Jim Kren and Bill Holt.

"Better To Have Loved," a short story by Phyllis Jackson and "Second Childhood," a fantasy by Jim Dance, were read and criticized at this week's meeting.

Annual "Chips" which contains selection written by Writers' Workshop members will be on sale before and after meals in Pearsons lobby and cost is 35 cents.

Mixed Chorus Sings At YM-YW; Radio Has Mission

The Knoxville College Mixed Chorus will be presented at a joint meeting of YM and YW tomorrow in the Library, at 1:30

The Chorus, a group of 18 singers, is accompanied by Dr. Fitzpatrick, director of music at Knoxville College. This is one of the annual exchange programs sponsored by the Y.

Students taking part on the program are Lynn Miller, who will give the invocation; and Bill Morse, who will pronounce the benediction.

Home Missions

"Know Your Own Back Yard," a Home Missions program dealing with conditions within the local and surrounding communities, will be the theme of the Y Radio program, Monday, 9:30 p.m., over radio station WGAP.

Beverly Jacobi and Jack Waka, representatives of the Y committee on Home Missions, will tell of their work in and around Maryville.

In addition, a 15-minute drama, "Bright Light at Big Lick, Tenn." will be presented.

The program November 6 will be "Christ in the Fine Arts."

MC Celebrates Nat'l. Art Week

November 1-7 has been designated as American Art Week by the American Artists Professional League, Inc. Maryville is cooperating in observing this with display of twelve paintings selected from the Elizabeth Gowdy Baker collection placed in the Art Gallery of the Fine Arts Center. It will be the first time since the fire that these have been formally shown. The Gallery will be open on Friday evening, November 3, following the program by the Alabama String Quartet. On Sunday afternoon, November 5, there will be a gallery talk, concerning Mrs. Baker and her work, to which faculty, students and townspeople are cordially invited. During this first week of November, the Library will present a display on modern American art, and the "Y" radio program will offer an opportunity to accent art.

Art's Place

"In a country such as ours, art has a large part to play and the artist has a real challenge and a need to meet: in architecture and all of its ramifications including interior decoration: painting including advertising; industrial design whose problems are akin to those of sculpture which is concerned with creative design suitable to function and materials. Town Revisions Come To Student Body On Thursday

Ratification of Proposal To Lower, Raise Penalties

Student Council will present Town Night Proposal revisions to the student body for ratification this Thursday morning, November 2. Following are the revisions in brief which are brought to the attention of the students for consideration.

The limits which are to be observed on Tuesday night are to be observed on Tuesday night are to be extended to include Cusick Street which runs from the Court House on Court Street up to Broadway.

Lowering Penalties

Being out of bounds and overstaying the privilege penalty has been lowered from three months to two months suspension of privileges. Failure to be in specified groups and loitering penalty has been reduced from two months to six weeks.

Failure to sign out and in will bring a 3-week penalty while failure to sign in will carry a two week suspension.

It is to be noted that penalties will remain in effect after holiday periods if the penalty is applied and does not run its full course before the scheduled holiday.

Demerits Raised

To give more strength to the Proposal, three demerits rather than the previous two will be applied if or when a party goes to town during period when privileges have been suspended.

Cusick Street was added to the list of boundaries to make towngoing more convenient and was brought into the discussion because it was not there when the proposal was first drawn up. Cusick Street appears to be a well-lighted and better street.

Penalties have been lowered because it is felt that college students do not intentionally break the rules and have proved themselves worthy of more freedom.

Fair Play

It is only a fair play to rule that those who acquire penalties at the end of a seemster be made to complete suspension period after holidays when those who acquire suspensions early in the semester have had to serve their full term. For this reason, it was proposed that penalties carry over holidays.

Because it is easy to forget to sign in the penalty was lowered more than the signing out penalty which is more apt to be deliberate.

Balch Awarded ACS Membership

Carolyn Balch, senior chemistry major from Hickory, N. C., has been elected to the East Tennessee section of the American Chemical Society, it was announced this week.

Each year four awards are to senior students in chemistry on the basis of merit. The awards are in the form of a Junior Membership in the Society.

This year one student was elected from Maryville, one from Carson-Newman, one from University of Tennessee (chemistry), and one from University of Tennessee School of Chemical Engineering.

Alpha Sigma Has Frosh Show, Initiation

After having been postponed for several weeks, Freshman Talent will be presented to Alpha Sigma in Thaw 214 tonight at 6:15. New members who have not been initiated will be initiated tonight.

The University of Alabama String Quartet, shown above, is to appear in concert for the first program in this year's Artist Series, Alumni Gymnaisum, Friday, November 3, at 8 p.m.

Playhouse Closes 'Our Town' After Two Performances

Maryville College Playhouse held a two-night stand of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" this week. Playing to full houses both nights, the play was the first major production of the group.

Holding the leading role was Bill Starr. Cast included six co-star spots: George Caldwell, Sara Jo Emert, Phyll Jackson, Dave Reed, Joe Stater, and Joanne Edwards.

Supporting Roles

Supporting players were Clifford Drescher, Bob McKean, Clint Bopst, Don Larson, Ray Kuhn, Lou Masters, Nina Ruth Gillette, Bill Holt, Hugh McSpadden, Louise Packard, Lucy Carrick, Kent Buser, and Ken Rutherford.

Director for the production was Kathieen Craven and assistant director and stage manager was Austin Van Pelt. Call boy was Bill Green and prompter, Joan Titley.

Allan Caldwell and Jim Dance were on Make-up and Lou Masters was wardrobe mistress.

Labor Leader Speaks To IRC

Fred Comer, past president of the Knoxville Typographical Union, will speak to International Relations Club Monday, October 30, at 6:30 in the Ethics lecture room on the second floor of Thaw Hall. He will discuss the international aspects of organized labor.

IRC members have been urged to attend the public political rally to be held at the Blount County Court House this afternoon at 2:00 p.m. Speakers will include several nominess for Congress.

Program Will Include Big Square Dance, Contest, Trip to Planet Pincus 7

Today's the day, Alumni Gym's the place, and 8:00 p.m.'s the time for the annual Sadie Hawkins Party when all the Daisy Maes drag their Lil' Abners to the big show.

The television show portrays Lil' Abner's search for the rest of the picture of a girl, the only part of which he has seen is the knees. He has made his journey through space and has finally landed on Planet Pincus No. 7.

The leading characters are Lil' Abner, Bob Mizelle; Daisy Mae, Lois Layton; Mammy Yokum, Edna Brown; Gooella Parsnips, Norma Lou Loetz; and the announcer, Dick Dart.

Square Dance

Included in the program will be square dancing called by Mr. Kelly, of Maryville.

Lou Masters is in charge of the script and program; Pat Lewis, refreshments; and Beverly Edwards, publicity.

Girls have tagged the man of their choice with "He's Took" signs all this week and will call for their dates at Carnegie Hall, corsage in hand, to take them to the Gym.

Curriculum Offers New Courses In Drama, Latin

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, has announced that several new courses will be offered next semester. They will include a course in Drama and Speech. One of the following will be offered, according to interest, Advanced Interpretive Reading, Or Voice Building and Speech Correction. Those interested must contact Miss Kathleen Craven at once so that final arrangements can be completed.

A course in the Latin "200" group will also be offered for those who need or want a third semester of Latin. Anyone interested in this course should contact Assistant Professor Paul J. Cooper.

Solo Auditions Held For 'Messiah'

Solo tryouts for the "Messiah" will be held Saturday, October 28, and Monday, October 30. Sopranos and altos will audition on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. and basses and tenors on Monday at 7:30 p.m.

All tryouts will be held in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. Mrs. Bernice Blair, Mr. Curtis Hughes, and Mr. Harry Harter will be the auditioning committee.

Regular practice of the "Messiah" chorus will be held at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Alumni Gym. Attendance is required of those who signed up

Series To Include Piano, Texas Choir In '50-'51 Season

By Sally Brown

The University of Alabama String Quartet, the first presentation of this season's Artist Series, will appear in concert Friday, November 3 at 8 p.m. in the Alumni Gymnasium. Reserved seats are available at student price of 20 cents for a single performance or 60 cents for a season ticket for those who hold activity cards.

Included in the concert program are Haydn's Quartet in D major, Op. 64, No. 5 (The Lark), Shubert's Quartet in D minor Op. Posth. (Death and the Maiden), and Quartet in G minor, Op. 10 by Debussy.

The University of Alabama String Quartet, a group hailed by critics as representing the highest standards of ensemble playing, was founded in 1944 by Ottokar Cadek, professor of music at the university, and for 14 years first violinist of the New York String Quartet. Other members of the group, all of the university faculty, are Margaret Christy, cellist, who attended the Bach Festival in Prades, France, this summer and coached with the celebrated master cellist, Pablo Casals; and Emily Searcy, second violinist, and Henry Barrett, violist, who studied under Professor Cadek and noted masters.

Quartet-In-Residence

Known as quartet-in-residence, the group practices together two hours a day and makes both spring and fall concert tours.

All who attend the concert are invited to attend a reception for the quartet artists in the Fine Arts Center immediately after the program. Miss Charlotte B. Johnson has announced that the art gallery will be open at this time for those interested in seeing a special exhibition in celebration of American Art Week.

The second concert of the series will be given February 23 by Wiktor Labunski, noted pianist, and the final concert will be presented by the Choir of the North Texas State College March 29.

The Maryville College Artist Series is sponsored jointly by the YWCA, the YMCA, and the college.

Fine Arts Organ Is One of Five Used In Country

Maryville College organ students are now using a new Holtkamp practice organ which was installed in the new Fine Arts Building last week. The organ is of classic design, with all the pipes exposed. There are five ranks and 353 pipes.

The organ was designed especially for practice purposes, and is one of a group of five in use in the nation. Of the others, two are at Syracuse University, one is at Trinity University, San Antonio, Texas, and one is at Oberlin Conservatory, Oberlin, Ohio.

The organ at the Fine Arts Center is the only one of the five to be constructed in its manner according to W. Curtis Hughes, instructor in organ.

DISC CLUB MEETS PREVIEWS CONCERT

Disc Club will meet for the first time this year Thursday, November 2 at 6:45. The meeting will be held in the lounge of the Fine Arts Center. The program is planned as a preview of the concert by the Alabama String Quartet the following night. Parts of the concert will be played and commented upon. Works to be performed include Haydn's "Lark" Quartet, Schubert's "Death and the Maiden", and Debussy's G

Kagawa and Carolina–

Toyohiko Kagawa, undoubtedly the outstanding Christian leader in Japan today, is currently visiting the United States. He is recognized as a man of brilliant leadership and accomplishment, and known internationally as one of the real Christian greats of our time. Dr. Kagawa's visit to this country has recently been marred by an incident so serious in its implications both world-wide and local, that it requires thoughtful consideration and action here.

Scheduled to speak at the University of North Carolina in a visit through the South, Dr. Kagawa's engagement there was cancelled, and only because he is a man of color and because his audience was to be interracial. This almost unbelievable situation seems to be a part of the University's current policy; for when its new president was recently inaugurated, the ceremonies were attended by a thousand college and university presidents and representatives (including Maryville), not one of whom was a Negro.

The implications of North Carolina's treatment of Dr. Kagawa are mainly twofold. A Christian saint because of his yellow skin has been subjected to the vicious prejudice of a theoretically Christian nation. His own unequalled spirit of Christian love will keep him personally from embitterment, but the incident at UNC could destroy in a moment any sympathetic feeling of yellow Asia toward this country as a nation, as a political system, or as a representative of Christianity.

We are engaged in a global war for ideas. We do not sell democracy to the world by being fascistic at home. We are poor symbols of Christianity when we treat a Christian apostle as if he were unfit for our lily-white company. We have reached a low ebb in education when a major university considers color before accomplishment and ability.

The second implication is a local one. North Carolina has stood for some years as an outstanding university. It has, time and time again, been the leader in creating in the South a new spirit; it has probably contributed more than any other institution to the building of The New South, in the finest sense of those words. Especially, its liberal attitudes toward race have been specifically responsible for the gaining of new ground and the creating of new ideals in that realm. Racial gains in both the tangible world of visual accomplishments and the intangible world of higher concepts have made North Carolina a great university and a national symbol.

If that great liberal tradition is destroyed, if that point of view does not remain the policy of UNC, the South will have lost a great portion of the advances it has made in the field of social sciences. North Carolina has become over the years symbolic of something fine and good. It could all be lost as the result of a few thoughtless acts. It is our sincere hope that those acts have not already been committed.

NOOSE OF THE WEEK

Tonight is the night, studes. The United States and Pearl Harbor, and MC has Sadie Hawkins Day. It's only the beginning, though. Next semester there is Open House. That's when the gals really clean up. We've had a sneaking suspicion anyway for a long, long time that the Women's Suffrage Movement really started on our own campus.

When you get the call, buddy, your best bet is as Big Barnsmell. Remember? He owns and operates the "Skonk Works." Of course, she might go as Moonbeam McSwine, but what is life except a great big chance.

It might be said about a few of you that He 'Stagged' instead of He's Tagged, but don't count on it. The girls' gym classes have exercised quite a bit this past week getting in training.

It seems to us that the whole affair is backed by the Home Economics Department as a part of the practical training in Home Management. Did you see the well timed Library bulletin board display on cooking. Rather prophetic was the title of one jacket, Dangerous Curves Ahead. If all the girls try to get ahead, it's going to be a pain in the neck.

First there was Judas Iscariot, then Caesar with his Brutis. The U.S. had Benedict Arnold, and MC has Marryin' Sam. Even other parallels could be drawn, but the curve is more dangerous.

The two most dangerous misconceptions in the world are: A straight line is the shortest distance between two points, and tag is a harmless game for children. Yea, verily hath the game of children become the sport of women.

'Tis better to run than remain. The cu. . . . urk! I've been tagged.

STATICALLY SPEAKING

If anybody has been getting poor reception over his radio recently, particularly over WGAP, do not blame it on the radio. Dan Dunbar is announcing.

MC HIT PARADE

Top tune of the week last Saturday night probably was:

Sprinkle, sprinkle little rain,
How we wish you'ld start to wane.
Soaking us from head to foot,
So for the team we couldn't root.

RESEARCH DEPARTMENT

According to MC professors, Maryville College accumulates so much knowledge because it is brought in by the students when freshmen and left behind when seniors.

TOUCHE, EARL

Earl Shellkopf asserted in Miss Walker's Medieval History class that a certain deceased historian could put out a second volume to his contribution if he employed a 'ghost writer.'

STANDING ROOM ONLY

The way some of the studes were let down in Chapel last Tuesday, we didn't think they would stand for it. But they did.

IT'S A TOUGH LIFE

Acting is getting to be so strenuous at MC that a wheel chair is being used at the horror play rehearsals.

SIDE LIGHTS

Just by strolling around campus, one would think MC is going to the dogs.

POPULARITY POLL

Bob Larson was almost voted "Meanest Man in the World." He announced a fifteen minute pop quiz to be given at the end of the period in Philosophy 217. Fortunately—for him and the class—he didn't give it.

OH RALPH!

During a parlor-date conduct discussion at a third floor meeting in Pearsons, Meg Brown said, "Just use common etiquette. I know this is a touchy subject."

BY-LINES

A first nighter at "Our Town" on Thursday night was rather impressed with the way Joe Stater expressed his love for wife Joanne Edwards in the second act.

As Joe held Joanne "under" for the third minute, the enthuiast remarked, "What a way to die!"

Curriculum Changes

Austin Van Pelt was telling us the other day of Mr. Mac's apparent confusion on the Sociology Department's "Labor Problems" course.

Carnegie's proctor thought the course should be offered in Fayerweather rather than Thaw.

TALK OF THE WEEK By John Olsen '54

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

Monday and Tuesday "Father of the Bride" will be shown at the Capitol, the second time it has been in Maryville this year. It is worth seeing, however, if you missed it the first time. Spencer Tracy turns in one of his best performances as the harassed father of Elizabeth Taylor, who in turn plays the part of the bride of Don Taylor. Joan Bennett is Tracy's wife and is always there to soothe him as he tears his hair over bills and arrangements. Some of the scenes, such as the trying on of a too tight tuxedo, are uproariously funny. In fact, the whole movie will keep you laughing.

Wednesday, the Capitol will have "Traveling Saleswoman," with Joan Davis, Andy Devine, and Adele Jergens as the stars. It seems to be an unknown picture, since none of the magazines have reviews of it.

"Bright Leaf" will be on Thursday and Friday. It is the story of the rise of the cigarette in the old South. Gary Cooper as the hero ruins the local tobacco tycoon with his new cigarette-making machinery, marries the daughter, Patricia Neal, and gets involved with Lauren Bacall, who is running a "ladies' boarding-house." In the end, Cooper finds that power corrupts and none of his friends love him anymore, so he rides his horse away into the sunset. It's probably a good thing for him that he gets off so easily. We're not saying as much for the audience.

At the Park on Monday Marlene Dietrich and Randolph Scott will star in "Pittsburgh." Tuesday and Wednesday "In the Navy," a Bud Abbott and Lou Costello comedy, will be shown, and Thursday and Friday George Brent will appear in "The Kid from Cleveland."

BOOK BRIEFS

New books in the library this week are made to order to fit even the most varied taste. For those concerned with world affairs, there is Winston Churchill's "The Second World War," and "American Freedom and Catholic Power", by Paul Blanchard.

Poetry fiends will have a picnic with J. R. MacGillivray's "Keats: A Bibliography and Reference Guide", Stedman's "Victorian Poets", and "The Poetry and Prose of Heinrich Heine", while drama enthusiasts will be delighted by "Working Up a Part", by Harry Darkes Albright, and Eugene C. Davis' "Amateur Theater Handbook".

For biography bookworms there may be found "Benjamin Franklin", by John T. Morse, Grace Moore's "Your'e Only Human Once", and Aubrey's Brief Lives", by John Aubrey. Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Episode of the Wandering Knife" and Agatha Christie's "A Murder is Announced" are both guaranteed to give the timid reader chills and thrills by the bucketful.

To turn to a subject close to all of us, there is "Foods, Their Selection and Preparation," by Louise Stanley and Jessie Clive. Music majors, being presumtbly above such things as food, may like to read Norman Demuth's "Cesar Franck," while Anegla Thirkell fans will be glad to know that she has a new Barsetshire novel out, "County Chronicle." It is another of the long series about the people of Barsetshire, the mythical English county created by Miss Thirkell.

CURTAIN UP

Combining a sceneryless stage and good use of pantomine and Greek chorus effects, Maryville Playhouse opened the final curtain on a two-night stand of "Our Town" last night. The play was written by Thornton Wilder and directed by Kathleen Craven, Playhouse director.

Playing to a full house both times, the cast staged the production remarkably well with a notable amount of freshmen talent.

This play has been praised highly as "one of the finest achievements of the current stage" (New York Times) and MC's staging was remarkably well executed. The absence of scenery and the strange combination of pantomine and the Greek chorus recitations by the Stage Manager was notably effective. The mood was set by the Stage Manager who by his confidential, casual tone gave the audience a sense of propinquity with those on the other side of the footlights.

Conspicuously Good

Though holding a rather small part, Lou Masters was appealing in scenes teamed up with her brother, Joe Stater. The natural air with which the brother-sister role was presented magnified the homely tone of the whole play.

Commendable was the interpretation of the Stage Manager's role by Bill Starr. His long "chats" with the audience effectively tied the scenes together. Rather similar maternal roles were made distinctive by Sara Jo Emert and Phyll Jackson.

The audience was held spellbound during the third act when, in death-like silence, they were treated to excellent portrayals by Joanne Edwards, Phyll Jackson, Bill Starr, and Dave Reed.

Making their initial appearances on the collegiate stage and deserving applause for jobs well done were Joanne Edwards, Joe Stater, Jim Hunt, George Caldwell and Carl Drescher.

Scotties Meet Sewanee Today

Sports Echoes

By Neal Pearson

●MC FANS DON'T REALIZE IT but Maryville athletic teams haven't won a scheduled athletic contest this year. The football team, bless their hearts, has been stomped on, chewed on, and spit on—so far, that is. And UT has taken care of the character builders out for cross country. But we may see a new awakening this afternoon and perhaps the start of a win-streak in many sports. Sewanee will bring a cross country team that has yet to dent Maryville's winning status but which will be well-nigh equipped to do so. The Purple and White have one of the top runners in the country in Art Perkins but luckily enough for MC the talent wears out thinner down the line. With men like Holmberg, Scott, Trent, and Perkins running around this section of the country, MC will no doubt drop back into the practice of letting the Purple and White's captain do the best he can and then fill up the next four and five spots to cinch the race before another Sewanee man can get in. Maryville beat Sewanee last year and the year before on the same principle of taking the second, third, and fourth places in front of an enemy fifth and then again loading up the middle with Orange and Garnet runners. Let's all be out at three to holler them on!

Though the new system of Fartlek seems easier to run than the old-fashioned deal of straight running, it is going to leave it up to the men themselves to stay in shape. Because it lets a man quit when he is tired, we hope the tendency doesn't grow up to get tired faster. There'll be no on to drive them on when the race gets hard. The switchover has been done in good stride and the men, to be trite, "love it."

●NO DOUBT ABOUT IT but that Emory and Henry's Wasps are one of the best teams in this section of the country. The Blue and Gold got away with murder in setting up a crazy defense which stopped MC on the ground. But this is considered by many to be the mark of a good team. Maryville, save for a few instances couldn't get clicking. MC passing improved somewhat but so did the Wasp's intercepting—the run of Sokol from end zone to end zone was a beaut even though he was a member of the other team. One thing that few know that undoubtedly helped the Virginians cause was their refusal to play with a white ball. The brown pigskin used after it got splashed in the clay a few times looked hidden half the time when used in the E&H deceptive plays. And, also, as if they meant to rub it in, quarterback Chick Davis played 60 minutes of football and called a nearly-perfect game. Miller was no slouch, either. The warhorse of the Appalachians averaged seven yards a try.

After it was all over, the general feeling among the really-ardent Scot supporters was one of dejection. Such a game makes one feel as if he should hang up his football uniform and take up plumbing. Not only were the boys beaten physically, but they were clobbered mentally—"Geez, can't we ever do anything right." The score was the biggest calciminations since 1935 when the Kentucky Wildcats clawed all over the Scots, 60-0. And times have been worse, The Vandy Commodores who seemed to have loved to apply the old whitewash once rang the gongs for 100 points in a game back in 1912 and also came close in 1905 when touchdowns flew everywhere, 97-0. Let's cheer up—things aren't so bad after all and we'll clobber the Commodores in wrestling.

Austin Peay's Governor's who seemed to have had a lapse, also, were dumped unceremoniously into the defeat column by Milligan's Buffaloes, 7-6, last Saturday. Previously, Emory & Henry had nearly annihilated the Buffs by a 46-0 score. So, let's have a lot of pep next week for things may take a turn for the better.

●ALTHOUGH THEY MAKE A LOT OF NOISE, the Sports announcing crew at the football game seldom has a kind word put in for their efforts—even though they get paid and we don't. The gang whose feet stick in our ribs at every game consists of Dick Jones and Bill Shields at the mikes (appropriate for the first one's talents) and Horace Beckwith and Arnold Munn at the spotter-boards. They have a neat set-up in "the press-box which was moved over from the old field with all the comforts of home," and although they don't produce exactly like the big time, they function considerably better than some of the Knox-veal talent we've heard. An amusing bit once rendered by Tom "Two Spitoon" Anderson of the Pillar of Truth might be helpful if not poetically correct in understanding the PA boys' situation. Here it is with a few additions and subtractions.

"Don't envy the football announcer,
Who sits there each week in the stands.
While you and your friends in your glory
Admire all the stunts of the band.
When Fordham is playing, it's awful;
Indeed, it is far from a joke;
"Krywicki, and Modezewlewski" are not easy.
On "Parpinoe" you may not choke.
They hand him a list of players;
"Crotty, Hudacek, Lambeau,"
They sound like Hungarian mayors;
"You're trying to kid me, I know."
Then he stumbles all over the lineup
"Krywicki, Sartori" are not easy,
"Semanik, Petroskas, Paniatowske,"
And soon he must throw in the clutch.
There are "Shekka, Santilli, Yorovuch"
He must call as he follows the game
While "Peezzella, Colisimo, and Serpe"
Sit with "Sallazzio" waiting for fame
Till at last when the game's nearly over
You wait for his words, highly prized,
But the poor fellow's mute as he signals and cries.
"I'm sorry, my tongue's paralyzed."

●THIS COULD NEVER HAPPEN HERE (or at you know where). . . Now that most of the season's mid-semester exams are over, we ran across this

Wasps Sting Scots In Homecoming

Miller Leads E-H In Worst Defeat Since '35

The Maryville College Scotties went down to a humilating 56-0 defeat last Saturday night at the hands of the Emory-Henry Wasps. The affair, the annual home-coming game, was played before a disappointed crowd of 5000 fans. Besides the poor showing of the Scots, the elements—in this case a drizzling rain—helped to dull the festivities.

Wasps Buzz All Over

The smooth-playing Wasps showed the fans what a well-oiled machine can do to an experienced team. The Gold and Blue ran up a total of 301 yards rushing and 72 through the air plus long runbacks on interceptions and kicks to completely outclass the hapless Scots.

Oh, For a Miller!

As usual, Little All-American Bob Miller (and he deserves the honor) was the offensive star of the evening with three touchdowns. Miller carried the ball seventeen times and gained 128 yards for an average-per-try of just under 7 yards, mighty good in any league.

Miller Once

The game started with plenty of action and in ten plays the Wasps scored their first touchdown. Harold Glad kicked off Miller taking the ball on his 14 and running back to the 34 yard strip. Davis, first Wasp quarterback, led the team with continual drives and passouts to Miller, one of which was good for a 33-yard gain. Miller scored on a five yard run. Cubine kicked his first of eight successful boots and the Methodists led, 7-0.

Where's That Line?

Maryville was unsuccessful in her first attempt with the pigskin and punted down to Miller on his 38. He ran it back to the MC 41, and in six plays the Blue and Gold had scored again.

Scots Begin, Then Fade

The Scoties then took the ball and made two first downs, both on passes by Charlie Allen to Bob McClelland, one for 14 yards and the other 16 yards. It looked as if the Scotties were really rolling, but Spurgeon intercepted one of Allen's passes on the 20 and Maryville's threat was over.

The quarter ended with the ball in the Wasps hands. Then there was an exchange of kicks with the Emory-ites taking over on the Scots 37. Eight plays later they had another TD, this time Saltz carried it over from the six.

Charlie Connects On Long One

Another exchange of kicks found the Scots in possession of the ball on their 14. The Scots picked up a first down via the running method to their 30. Allen let loose with a long pass that went way over the heads of all the Emory backs and into the waiting arms of Jimmy Campbell. But Campbell couldn't dodge a back and was brought down on the Wasp's 28—a 42 yard gain. The next two plays found the Wasp line really buckling down and the Scots lost seven yards. Then linebacker Roy Miller intercepted an Allen pass and plugged it back 40 yards to MC's 35.

This set up more disaster for in the five plays they added another TD. Cubine continued his mastery of the goal posts and the score read 28-0. The half ended two plays later.

No Half-Time Festivities

Because of the rain that fell continually during the first half, the band did not take the field, and the fans were left for twenty minutes without entertainment.

In the third quarter the Wasps could connect for only one touchdown. The drive was climaxed by a two-yard plunge by Miller for his third marker in the game. Cubine again added the extra point. This left the score at 35-0.

Who's Got The Ball?

The most unusual play of the evening took place in the third quarter. Allen let loose with a long pass which was intercepted by an Emory player. Faced with certain tackle, he lateralled the ball to a player near him going the same way. His face was really red when he discovered that it was to a Scot that he had lateralled.

The fourth quarter saw plenty of action. The Wasps intercepted a pass on the MC 20 and drove to the twelve before Bob Larsen recovered a fumble for the Scots. Two plays later another fumble gave the Wasps possession of the ball on the MC 25. This time Sokol carried it over from the eight after a pass had set up the play.

The seventh touchdown resulted from a sensational play. Wesley Kinser let fly with a long pass which was intercepted by Sokol in his end zone. He took off with the ball through half of the Maryville team and didn't stop until he was in the Scotties

The soccer season roared into full swing this week with every team seeing action at least once. The early season play saw Pi Lumbago and Y.M.C.A., each with two wins and no defeats, emerge as the top contenders for the league championship.

An underdog Pre-Min. team gave Pi Lumbago a hard tussle, but Morton's goal in the second half, the only one of the game, provided the margin of victory for Pi Lumbago.

Y.M.C.A. garnered its second victory of the young season by edging United Nations, one to nothing.

The Loafers and Pre-Min. played to a scoreless deadlock, neither team being able to boot a deciding goal.

Standings

Pi Lumbago	3	0	0	1.000
Y.M.C.A.	2	0	0	1.000
Alpha Sigma	1	1	2	.500
United Nations	1	2	1	.333
Loafers	0	1	2	.000
Pre-Min.	0	2	1	.000

FOOTBALL

The All-Star football game was postponed last Tuesday night because of wet grounds. It will be played Tuesday, November 7 at seven fifteen.

30 Basketballers Working Out Kinks

Basketball practice has been going on for several weeks now with about thirty hopefuls still out. Most of those out have had little experience in college basketball. The process now going on is intended to weed out those who have had little or no experience and who do not show much promise.

The ending of the football season will see the beginning of the regular daily practices with everyone present. Vets from last year's team include "Babe" Keny, Charlie Allen, B. R. Crisp, Bill Gibson and "Meano" Shields.

Coach Ken Johnson is watching the boys now while Coach Lombe Honaker is attending football practices. Hugh Hamil, one of the key clogs in last year's quintet, is assisting Coach Johnson. Last year the squad ended the season with ten wins and twelve losses.

The freshman team has its first game on the 9th of December against the UT frosh in Knoxville. It will be the preliminary game to the UT-Chattanooga game.

HIGHLANDER THINLIES RUN AGAINST PURPLE AND WHITE AT THREE

This afternoon at three o'clock, the Cross Country team will attempt to get back into the victory column in a race with the Purple and White of Sewanee. Last year, Coach Johnson's charges outgaited the Mountaineers from Sewanee in two meets, 24-32, and 23-35.

Sewanee's Tough

But Coach Huntley Elebash's men will be out to change the score with a team featuring every man back from his last year's contingent. Art Perkins, another headliner, is Sewanee's top man and holds the course record for the present hill-and-dale run. Perkins is one of four Juniors on the Sewanee squad. The others are Henry Harriss, Bill Pilcher, and John Stewart, Wyn Ragland is the only senior on the team while the two frosh back are, surprisingly enough, Sewanee's best besides Perkins. Little Elliot Puckette, sophomore, came in fifth in last year's final meet giving Maryville's thinlies a run for their money. Dick Hogan is the other sophomore.

Let's Win For Curly and Whip—

Missing from last year's race with the Sewanites are the two sidelines, "Coach" Baird and "Gimpy" Pearson whose ankle is slowly healing. The rest of the team is in good shape with the men taking to the new Swedish system of Fartlek like a duck to water. Captain Bill Menges, Del (I need some inspiration) Earisman, Jimmy (I'm coming Uncle Sam) Thurston, and Ric Rogers will be Maryville's best bets to give the record-holding Perkins a run for first place money. Tom Kelley, Dave Williams, Dave Helwig, and Dick Kerr will aim to get into the next three positions for the Orange and Garnet. Meet time is at three.

Footballers Loaf For One Day; Then Work Hard For AP

Allen, Gibson, Coaches In Scot Swaps For A Win

Variety was the order of the week as the Scotties sat back on their haunches for one day and licked their wounds while recuperating from the onslaught of Emory & Henry. After being slammed around the turf Saturday night, the Scots weren't in too good of a condition to go right off into practice and rested Monday—besides, the field was hardly even in practice condition.

Now Playing Quarter. . .

The other big news of the week has been Charlie Allen's switch to quarterback and Bill Gibson's reversal to Allen's vacated spot. To put it bluntly, Coaches Davis and Honaker have not found a quarterback who can run with the ball around end and pitch it away going at full steam. The Split-T isn't any good without the pitchout, so maybe the change will hope both Allen and Gibson. Emphasis was also placed on the backs driving into the line and the lineman's play also took a going over.

For the week, Coaches Honaker and Davis switched positions, also. Coach Honaker taking the line and Coach Davis the backfield in an attempt to help each other out—to use Coach Honak-

SPANISH CLUB INITIATES FOUR

Four new members were initiated Thursday night into the Spanish Club in a meeting held in Mr. Schwam's classroom. The four, Mary Ann Hicks, Hazel Smarr, William Morse, and Paul Merwin, went through a candlelight service conducted by President Jean Pelton, read short sketches of their lives in Spanish, and sang songs with the old members.

At the next meeting on November 9, Miss Charlotte Johnson of the Art Department will speak on Spanish Art.

tistic principles and understanding.

Art Appreciation

College students should become aware of these things and develop a high calibre of understanding and taste. Such is the function of the art appreciation course (Art 313) to be offered again next semester. As before, it will be scheduled for the same hour as the music appreciation course (Music 313) so that occasional lectures may be exchanged in presenting the scope of art and music expression throughout the ages. The art course lays its emphasis upon painting with reference to architecture and sculpture as needed to fill out the development. There are four lectures a week and the course has no pre-requisite and is open to upper classmen."

bit of interesting information. It seems that one John Zegger who was a captain of the Columbia Lion's track team could not compete this year in track or cross country because he, check this, studied too much. A Columbia prof, making a routine check, found out that said track man had passed in so many subjects that he technically became a graduate student and was no longer eligible for varsity competition. . . . . And to top that one off, it's pro basketball which is having trouble with the reserve clause. Clown-boy Danny Gardella got a job from the Cards when he made threats though he didn't have much subsequently-proved talent and now two teams in Iowa, the Waterloo club of the National Basketball Association are at it. It will be inteersting to see what effecets the suit brought by the latter will have on the cage and other sports.

Thinlies Run Sewanee . .

Fartlek, has brought a change in the running habits of the thinlies in that it's new and "easier". The object of the system is not to tire the men but to build them up.

The general plan is for easy running to warm up, lasting about ten minutes, and then steady hard running for approximately a mile; rapid walking for five minutes followed by more easy running, broken by occasional wind-sprints; an uphill course to be run twice a week; and some pace work.

Finns Brought It About

Coach Holmer first developed this system in 1930 when the Finns were at their peak in defeating the Swedish distancers. He felt, "that it is not the races run that make the runner, but rather his training methods." He therefore rejected the American idea of running fixed distances daily in training, substituting instead the system below. This system enables the boys to understand themselves and to fix the training according to their own individuality.

Worst Since

The last rally was added after a 51yard runback of a punt. Saltz passed to Booher for the last TD. Cubine kicked his eighth extra marker, and the score stood at 56-0. A few minutes later the whistle blew and Maryville had suffered its worst defeat since 1935 when the University of Kentucky slammed a 60-0 defeat on the Scots.

er's words, "I couldn't hurt the line's play anymore with my coaching the way they played Saturday night." This was, no doubt, in a half-jest but the line needs work on blocking and charging which have been woefully weak the last couple of games.

Swope Sweepin' Agin

All this preparation is taking place for the season's final game with Austin Peay's Governor's next week. Last year, A-P started the Scots on their losing streak with the first of three straight 20-14 wins and the Scots will be pointing to make A-P end it. Back for the Governors again is Swope their right half who scored two of the Guv'nor TD's last year, and he'll be the man to stop.

Letters To The Editor

To The Editor:

We have had quite a few football games this year and each one has further prompted the writing of this letter. Obviously it hasn't come to the attention of the cheerleaders that there has been much criticism of them.

There is a general consensus of opinion among groups of students that this year's cheerleaders are taking their job to lightly. The cheers are few and far between or come in brief spurts. We would like to give our boys cheers when they can hear them—during time out, between plays and the like.

When an enthusiastic group of students start a cheer they simply look at them benignly. We wish they would lead them. . . . in the same cheer, for goodness sakes, and not in a new one.

Our cheerleaders were chosen to lead cheers, not to flirt with each other, twirl batons, or talk to the team. They seem to fail to realize that they could be leading a very enthusiastic group of students and that the students would like them to share the enthusiasm.

A suggestion, if you will—let's have the last home game of the year the most cheered one of the season.

Barnwarming Uses 'Golden Jubilee' Theme For Annual 1950 Celebration

Huddleston, Breen, Nicholas To Head Big Arrangements

Barnwarming chairmen Judy Breen, "Happy" Huddleston, and Ruth Nicholas have announced "The 1950 Golden Jubilee" as the Thanksgiving show for this year.

The feature attraction will be the Avenue of the Half-Century. The program will be reminiscent of the last fifty years by tracing the activities of one family over this period. The committee recommends that "everyone look over grandpop's photo album."

Annual Affair

Barnwarming is the annual Thanksgiving show which is jointly sponsored by the YWCA and YMCA. Ruth Nicholas, Tom Kees, and George Barber are working on the decorations and set. Irene Mellon and Sherman Lester are business managers.

Publicity

Mary Wilkes and Bev Jacobi are publicity chairmen; Jackie Lenderman, Joyce Lenderman, and Betty Lester are working on costuming.

Court procedures are being taken care of by Pat Love and Rosemary Gambill. Allan Caldwell is doing make-up. Music Directors for the show are Johnny Sayre and Dick Ribble.

Dance routine will be done by Maree Richards. Booths will be set up by Happy Huddleston, Lynn Miller, Beryl Stewart, Hazel Wood, Pat Lewis, Mary Kelton, and Janet Cummings.

Horrors, Parties Crown Hallowe'en On MC Campus

The Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior classes held their Halloween parties last Tuesday night, with the Seniors as visitors.

The Freshman party was held in the Broadway Methodist Gym, with square-dancing and singing as entertainment. The committee chairmen were Connie Howell, publicity; Jerry King, program and social; and Malcolm Moore, decorations and refreshments.

Merwin Heads Sophs

The Sophomores met in the Intramural Gym for a county fair party, with Paul Merwin as the party chairman. His assistants were Lois Lerch, entertainment; Isabel Leitch, refreshments; and John Schaumburg, decorations.

The Junior, party, with square-dancing and other entertainment, was held in the Alumni Gym. Beverly Jacobi was chairman and the committee heads were Jessie Dye and Branin Boyd, decorations; Wilma Borter, refreshments; and Hazel Wood and Bob Kees, program.

After the parties, the show, "They Made Me a Monster," written and directed by Jim Dance, was given in the Alumni Gym. Zeppo, the magician, was played by Archie Swartzrauber; his two assistants by LaDonna Baylor and Beverly Jacobi; and Dr. Nightmare, the owner of the haunted house, by Dance.

Cast

Others in the cast included Mrs. Graves, the housekeeper, Rosie Pascal; Miss Blair, the doctor's nurse, Barbara Blum; his assistant, Joe Poland; the butler, Jim Kren; sheriff, John Schaumburg; Dracula, Allan Caldwell; Soider Woman, Diana Mirshak; Wolf Man, Joe Poland; and Monster, Charles Williams.

Set and Stage Design, Ruth Nicholas; Lights, George Barber; Special Effects, Dan Dunbar; and Electrical Equipment, Branin Boyd.

Moyer, Rogers Win Dogpatch Honors Sadie Hawkins Day

Sadie Hawkins Day found Daisy Maes and Lil' Abners invading Alumni Gym by Rocket Ship as well as on foot. Those coming by rocket ship were Lois Layton as Daisy Mae and Bob Mizelle as Lil' Abner along with many other Dogpatch characters. Those coming on foot included a big proportion of M.C.'s population.

In the latter group prizes were given for the best costumes and corsage. Maryalice Moyer was the best Daisy Mae and Ric Rogers the best Lil' Abner. The most original girl's costume was worn by "Injun" Jean White and the most original fellow's by "Hairless Joe" Bob Greene. Best corsage, made by Ellen Turner and modeled by Bob Burgreen, was made up of a toy cricket, corncob pipe, chewing tobacco, candy, dish mop, baby's rattle, perfume, bells, salt shaker and was decorated with crepe paper and ribbon.

Between the show and the awarding of prizes a big square dance was held. The caller was Mr. Kelly of Maryville.

Vesper Choir Takes Out-of-Town Trip

Maryville College Vesper Choir will journey to the campus of Knoxville College tomorrow in caravan style. The sixty voice choir will go in cars driven by various faculty.

Traditionally the Vesper Choir and the Knoxville College Choir have exchanged programs each year, and this trip is a return engagement for the one Knoxville College gave here last spring.

Program

Selections will be in groups of two and will include as Group I: "Psalm 150" by Lewandowski and "Salvation Is Created" by Tschesnokoff.

Group Two will include Thompson's "Alleluia" and Schreck's "Entrance Scene " from the last movement of the "Advent Motet."

Lloyd To Speak

The third and last group will include "In Heaven Above" by Christiansen and "Psalm 50" by Christiansen.

President Ralph Waldo Lloyd will be the guest speaker and the program is in charge of Professor Newell C. Fitzpatrick of Knoxville College.

Art Disolav Shown In FAC Building; Johnson Will Speak

The first art exhibition of the season is now on display through November 15 in the Art Gallery of the Fine Arts Center.

On Sunday afternoon, November 5 at 4:30 p.m., Miss Charlotte B. Johnson will give a gallery talk on the life and work of Elizabeth Gowdy Baker, twelve of whose paintings are in the display.

Students and faculty are invited by the department to view the paintings at their convenience during the next two weeks.

Bainonian Shows Movies

A program of moving pictures will be featured at today's meeting of Bainonian at 3:45 in the chemistry lecture room in Fayerweather. Refreshments will be served and members are asked to bring a few pennies to cover costs. Chanters Nu and Chi are in charge of the program.

Nine Students Give Recital In FA Hall

Division of Fine Arts will present a student recital in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center on Tuesday, November 7, at 4:30 p.m.

Included in the program will be George Carpenter playing with his left hand only Scriabin's "Nocturne Op. 9, No. 2, William Robinson will present Beethoven's "In Questa Tomba," accompanied by Joyce Lingenfelter.

Selander, Crews

Wlibur Sleander will play Rimsky-Korasakow's "Flight of the Bumble Bee," accompanied by Katherine Crews. Evalyn Smith will sing "Il est doux, it est bon" (Herodiade) by Massanet. Miss Smith will be accompanied by Dorothy Vawter.

Carol Barnett wil play Debussy's "La plus que lente." Johnny Sayre will accompany Gloria Measamer as she sings "To the Children" by Rachmaninoff.

YW Sees Slides; YM Has Freshmen; Radio Airs Arts

At YWCA on Sunday at 1:30, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Proffitt will show colored slides of the Passion Play at Oberammergau, which they visited this year. The slides are picture scenes and characters in the all-day play which is given every ten years. This year's performance was the first since the war.

YWCA will meet for the first time in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. There will be a very brief business meeting before the program begins. Lucy Carrick will lead the worship service at the end of the meeting.

All-Frosh At YM

The YM meeting on Sunday will be an all-freshman program, with Armando Divas giving a devotional talk. Carter Williams will read the Scripture and Jack Durant will offer the prayer. Wesley Kinser is the song leader and Ed Brahms will play the piano. The benediction will be pronounced by Bob Buchanan, and the invocation by Malcolm Moore.

"Christ and the Fine Arts" is the subject of the Y radio program over WGAP at 9:30 Monday night. Three faculty members representing the fine arts departments will take part. They are Miss Carolyn Blair, Miss Dorothy Vawter, and Miss Charlotte Johnson.

Hughes Presents Short Selections On Classic Organ

Mr. W. Curtis Hughes will play a short program of Chorale Preludes on the new classic organ in the Fine Arts Center on Tuesday morning, November 7, at the A period class.

Though the program has been planned primarily for the second year theory class, anyone who has the hour free may attend. Since, however, the seating is limited, students are urged to give their names to either Miss Dorothy Horne or Mr. Hughes if they plan to attend.

Bach

Chorale preludes will includes selections from the Bach Orgelbuchlein, from Brahm's "Eleven Chorale Preludes," and from "Improvisions on Chorales" by Karg-Elert.

In an exclusive release to the Echo, Harry H. Harter, Assistant Professor of Music, announced the results of voice try-outs for solos in the 1950 presentation of Handel's "Messiah" to be given December 10 here on campus.

Jeanette Whittaker, sophomore voice major from Knoxville, will sing recitatives: "And Lo the Angel of the Lord Came Upon Them" and "And Suddenly There Was With the Angel." Margaret Ann Warren, junior sociology major from Selma, Ala., will sing recitatives "There Were Shepherds Abiding In The Field" and "And the Angel Said Unto Them."

Munson, Smith

Junior voice major Rosalie Munson from Rochester, N.Y., will sing the air "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of zion."

Dora Evalyn Smith, senior voice major from Knoxville, will sing airs "Come Unto Him" and "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth."

Altos Measamer, Hammers

Gloria Measamer, senior voice major from Crossville, will sing two airs and two recitatives. Included in her selections will be "Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened," "He shall feed his flock like shepherd," "O thou that tellest good tidings to Zion," "Behold, a Virgin Shall Conceive."

Betty Hammers, sophomore transfer sociology major from Stewartstown, Pa., will sing the air, "He Was Despised."

Tenor Soloists

Ken Shaffer, sophomore voice major from Philadelphia, Pa., will sing "Comfort Ye My People," recitative, and "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted," air.

Sophomore psychology major Wally Schroeder from Buffalo, N. Y., will sing recitative "Thy Rebuke hath broken His heart," and air, "Behold and See." Don Brakebill, sophomore voice major from Rockford, will sing recitative "He that dwelleth in Heaven," and air "Thou Shalt Break Them."

Bass solo, "Why Do the Nations So Furiously Rage," will be sung by William Robinson, junior theory major from Maryville. George Howell, junior chemistry major from Maryville, will sing recitative "Thus Saith the Lord," and air "But who may abide the day of His coming?"

Supt. Doyle Gives Teaching Hints In FTA Chapel

Mildred Doyle, superintendent of Knox County schools, spoke in chapel Thursday in recognition of National Education Week. The program was under the auspices of the Maryville College chapter of the Future Teachers of America. Others taking part on the program included Jane McMillan, president of the group; Barbara McNeil; Dr. David H. Briggs, faculty sponsor of FTA; and Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd.

Miss Doyle, UT graduate who attended Maryville her freshman year, emphasized that any profession one may choose should be selected with the idea of service to the public in mind. "No matter what field we enter, we will be dealing with human beings," she said.

According to Miss Doyle, the public has a right to expect from the teacher adequate training, knowledge of fundamentals as well as specific subjects, an understanding of human nature, a professional attitude toward his job which would lead the public to respect his profession, and ability to guide pupils to future life of service.

She concluded by saying that a teacher has a right to expect from the public respect for his profession, co-operation with parents, adequate renumeration, and some type of security.

Del Earisman's 'The Net' Footlighted In Friday Eve Experimental Theatre

Korean Minister Speaks To Vols

Speaker at Vols this week after Vespers is Rev. T. K. Kang. Rev. Mr. Kang, a native Korean who graduated from theological seminary in Kobe, Japan, will use as his topic "Christian Church in Korea." Others taking part on the program are John Baird and In Sun Kim.

After his graduation in 1936, Rev. Mr. Kang worked as a Korean minister in cooperation with Southern Presbyterian missionaries. He was put in prison many times because he was a Christion. In 1940 he was forced to leave for Manchuria, where, with a group of other Koreans, he had five churches.

After the War, when the Communists took over Manchuria, the Koreans were again forced to leave. He was put in charge of some 600 other refugees who had to go back to South Korea.

Rev. Mr. Kang is now doing post graduate study at Bob Jones University, Greeneville, S. C.

Course, Listening Hours Announced By Music Division

A course offered primarily for those who wish to learn how to listen to music intelligently, Music 313 (Appreciation of Music) will be offered at the BL period next semester, according to a release this week. Class hours in such a course will be devoted to discussion and various examples of styles in the development of music from the Renaissance to the New Music of today. Lab periods are spent in listening to records of this music.

Listening Booths

Fine Arts Center is equipped with individual listening booths and larger rooms for group listening. Listening rooms are open at the following hours for students who wish to come and listen to records:

Monday, Wednesday, Friday—
3:30-5:30 p.m.;
6:30-7:30 p.m.
Tuesday, Thursday—
2:30-4:30 p.m.
6:30-7:30 p.m.
Saturday—1:30-2:30 p.m.

Town Churches Use Student Leaders

The Baptist Church's college Sunday School class will meet with the young adults' class on Sunday, November 5. Fenton Ferguson will have charge of the devotional, while Ric Rogers will have charge of music.

At the Broadway Methodist Church Joyce Lenderman will be in charge of the worship program, and at the First Methodist, Lillian Bevans and Jim Day.

Korean Speaker

The Rev. T. K. Kang, Korean Christian clergyman, will speak to the St. Andrew's Episcopal Church School tomorrow morning at 9:30. His topic will be "Communism in Korea."

Kren, Somerville Read

Jim Kren and Doris Somerville will read at Writers' Workshop Wednesday, November 8, at 4:30 in Dr. E. R. Hunter's classroom, Anderson Hall. Critics will be Phyllis Jackson and Janet Cummings.

"Paris and Helen" was read by Mary Lyerly and a "Review of 'Wind, Sand and Stars'" by Jessie K. Johnson, Assistant Professor of English, at the last meeting.

Student Body Ratifies New Town Proposals

The student body unaminously ratified the complete Town Night Proposal presented by President Joe Poland at a student body meeting after chapel last Thursday morning. Several changes alter the Proposal which has been in effect this past year.

Limits observed on Tuesday night were extended to include Cusick Street, which runs from the Blount County Court House on Court Street up to Broadway.

Being out of bounds and overstaying penalties have been lowered from a three months to two months suspension of privileges. Failure to be in specified groups and loitering penalties have been reduced from two months to six weeks.

Demerits Up

Failure to sign out and in will bring a three week penalty, while failure to sign in will carry a two week suspension.

Penalties will remain in affect after holiday periods if the penalty is applied and is not completed before the scheduled holiday. Three demerits, rather than the previous two, will be applied if a party goes to town during a period when his privileges have been suspended.

SC Briefs Senate Report, Hears Memo From Dean

Student Council held a brief meeting in the Student Center lounge on Wednesday evening at 8:30 p.m. to discuss Thursday morning's Student Body meeting.

Carol Corbett and Joe Poland, presiednt, gave a summary report of the Student-Faculty Senate meeting. It was stated that the Student Center Agreement had been passed by the senate. A committee appointed by the senate was to look into proposed changes of MC smoking habits and make a report after such observation.

Letter From Dean

It was brought to the attention of Council by a memo from Dean F. D. McClelland that there was some questionable Town Night behavior and discussion by council followed the reading of the letter.

There were no Town Night violations reported.

Tentative Schedule Made For Second Semester

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, has announced that a tentative schedule for next semester's classes will be released about the middle of next week.

Students are asked to refer to it and consult Dr. Hunter about probable difficulties in the tentative scheduling. A permanent schedule will be posted near the end of the month.

Rev. Paul E. Davies Preaches At Vespers

Rev. Dr. Paul E. Davies will be the guest speaker at the College Vesper service tomorrow evening at 7 p.m. in Lamar Memorial.

Dr. Davies, professor of New Testament Greek and Exegesis at McCormick Seminary, Chicago, is the brother of Miss Katharine C. Davies, chairman of MC's Fine Arts Division.

Mr. W. Curtis Hughes will direct the All-Girl Choir in several choral selections.

Lambert, Stater Are Noah's Sons

Maryville College Experimentalists will present their second two-run production of the season this Friday, November 10, in Bartlett Hall. Curtain time will be 7:30 and 9 p.m.

"The Net Which They Hid," an original play by senior English major Del Earisman, will be the solo feature and is a two-act symbolic play depicting man's ideas of war. Cast will include Sid Lambert as Mr. Ham and Joe Stater as Mr. Shem. Lambert is a senior politcal scence major from Madison, Ind. and Stater is a freshman from Trenton, Mich.

MC's staging will be the initial production of "The Net" which was presented by Earisman at Writers' Workshop.

Author Earisman

Earisman is from Harrisburg, Pa. and was vice-president of the Student Body last year. At present he is president of Alpha Sigma, a member of Writers' Workshop, Shakespeare Readers, Ministerial Association, and Cross Country Team.

Walter English will be seen as Joe; Kent Buser as Bob; Grace Myers as Mrs. Ham; Ginni Schwarz as Mrs. Shem. Mary Wilkes is Ann; Joan Durig, Pietra.

Del Earisman will direct his play.

Crews

Joe Poland will head the stage crew and have as his assistants Bill Starr, Dan Dunbar, Ray Kuhn, and Clint Bopst. Scenery chairman is Bobbie Porter, assisted by Mary Ann Hicks, George Caldwell, and Mary Wills.

Phyll Jackson, as chairman, Ray Kuhn, and Norma Lou Loetz will be in charge of make-up. Lou Packard will be assisted by Carl Drescher on publicity committee.

Housemanagers are Allan Caldwell and Clint Bopst. Barbara Blum and Jane Hassinger will be in charge of props; Austin Van Pelt, chairman, Sara Jo Emert, and Clifford Church, will take care of lighting.

Tickets, Sound

Gloria Hinehan is ticket chairman and will be assisted by Norma Lou Loetz and Joan Titley. Joanne Edwards is in charge of costumes, assisted by Joan Titley and Mldred Simmons.

Lou Masters is script and sound effects chairman.

Announcement will be made early in the week concerning ticket distribution.

Future Teachers Celebrate Nat'l. Education Week

FTA chapter at Maryville College is sponsoring several activities in the observance of American Education Week, November 5-11. The theme for the week is "Government Of, By, and For the People." Thursday chapel was to "set the stage" for the events to follow.

Film To Be Shown

A film entitled "Why I Want To Teach," starring Miss America 1947, will be shown on November 8. The scenes in the picture are those of Memphis State College where Miss America studied.

WGAP has given the FTA chapter a half hour program to celebrate the week over the air.

Those working on various committees are Laura Pritchett, publicity; Mary Kelton and Beryl Stewart, radio program; and Jane McMillan and Barbara McNeil, chapel program.

The Town Night Revisions

Last Thursday morning in chapel, the student body unanimously voted to accept the revisions in the Town Night Proposal as presented by the Student Council. (See news story, page 1). These revisions, which, at first glance, seem like only minor changes, represent a definitely progressive attitude toward the whole Town Night idea. Maryville has enjoyed Town Night privileges for a comparatively brief period of time. These new measures prove that as a student body we have accepted the responsibilities involved in Town Night, and have merited the liberalizing proposals which are now to go into effect.

On the occasion of this ratification, The Echo extends a commendation and an exhortation. To the current student body administration and student council responsible for these changes, we express the appreciation of the entire student body. The proposals advanced were wisely chosen, well balanced, and a definite improvement of existing Town Night regulations. We recognize the difficulties involved in dealing with a subject matter as touchy as the whole Town Night situation is. We feel that the Council's action is an intelligent one, and the best possible at this time.

To the student body we express the hope that they will recognize the new privileges which are theirs and use them wisely. Only by a complete acceptance of the responsibilities which are coupled with these new freedoms will there come in the future acceptable proposals improving the Town Night set-up even more. Only by that acceptance can there be possible, as the Town Night Proposal Preamble states, ". . . a better rounded social program, the primary purpose of which is to promote a more normal campus life through the extension of social privileges."

More Pacts?

The intelligent student does not take hearsay or one man's opinion or merely idle chatter as his basis for formulating his own opinions. And it takes a really intelligent person to differentiate between what is just talk and what is fact. It takes a trial and error method usually before one learns where to draw the line and how much to accept as sound.

This week there appeared in a small town daily not far from here an editorial which, if there were no basis for such accustions, should have aroused spirited public opinion rather than the whole-hearted agreement which it did. The article concerned the alleged unsportsmanlike conduct of next week's foe, Carson-Newman, and condemned the athletic department for encouraging such brutal playing. By name, players and their "crimes" were cited to further the purpose of the writer.

If there were some basis for saying such "nasty" things about the C-N team, then perhaps we should sign more than a student body pact with these "barbarians" before we meet them in an away-game next week.

Furthermore, if the report is true, should we not wisely suggest that there be some cutting of teams from our next year's schedules—or will our team be ready to meet such tactics itself?

Y'GOT THE TIME, BUDDY

Best little dialogue which took place in years was the one at a performance of "Our Town."

Dave Reed: Good evening, Constable. .

Clint Bopst: Good morning.

ATTENTION MR. GALLUP

Groves' Corners is quite a rapidly expanding little burg. On Thursday it was 85% Republican, 6% Democrat and the rest indifferent. Friday it was 85% Republican, 12% Democrat and the rest indifferent. The population also made a drastic change overnight—even without the twins. Either we weren't supposed to see the play both nights or else Dave Reed should get those lines straight!

OOPS, "SLIP"PED!

That choice place Judy Breen has for putting certain articles of clothing makes things quite embarassing when she goes out with Andy and it starts to rain. Oh, the unmentionables that fell out of that umbrella!

MR. SMOOTHIE:

Allan Caldwell may tell you that he shaved his whiskers for the Horror Show but don't you believe it. He probably read the caption under a cartoon showing a long-bearded guy: "I think it was back in '41 when a coach swore not to shave until he won a game."

AT YOUR SERVICE

It's been rumored but not confirmed that Ralph's car got a wash inside and out via Pistol Creek on Hallowe'en. Could be some of the student help is getting overly ambitious?

FAMOUS LAST WORDS:

Dick Dart: "I'm going to buckle down and study this semester." (Hasn't he heard—never let your studies interfere with your education!)

Barbara Rogers: "The reason I'm not studying this year is to give the draft-age boys a better chance to make the top 50% of the class."

COUNT 'EM AGAIN, BARBARA

T'other day in philosophy Armando Divaz was attempting a simple explanation of the Trinity, and said that "you have three fingers but all of one flesh."

Barbara Blum looked down at her hand and murmured: "But I've got five fingers."

OH HORRORS!

After seeing Joe Poland and Charlie Williams for the third time in their respective roles as the Wolfman and Frankenstein, it must have been a grave situation that made the Junior Class dig them up again.

SUBTILTY PERSONIFIED

And how about Bill Greene offering chaperone Dean McClelland a carrot "to improve his eyesight' 'the other night at the Sadie Hawkins' shindig!

DANCE NO MORE!

Dr. Lloyd, currently being heard by the Ethics division of the senior class, reviewed his methods thus: "And when making an outline I usually begin with a Roman "I" followed by a capital "A" followed by a numeral "I" and subheaded by a small "a". Then I take a (1) in parenthesis and follow it with a small (a) in parenthesis and then I'd take. . . ,"

"Then I'd take an aspirin and begin again," filled in a third row Senior, one known for "Monstrosities!"

CAN YOU TOP THIS?

Pre-Horror show program included Jim Dance's announcement: "When the lights go out now, I have a few suggestions to make. . . ."

Chatter was cut short by Phyll Jackson who said: "When the lights go out, we don't need any suggestions!"

Dance's motion to "hang the editor of the Highland Echo" was almost carried!

DEMOCRATIC DISCUSSION

Most discussed topic of the week at the dining hall tables was how our friend Harry was caught with his pants down by those Puerto Ricans.

TALK OF THE WEEK JOHN OLSON

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

REELS

"Three Came Home," "Big Wheel," and "The Return of the Frontiersmen" will play at the Capitol Theatre next week.

Taken from a Book of the Month Club selection, by Mrs. Agnes Keith, "Three Came Home" tells of the three years she and her young son spent in a Japanese prison camp during the Second World War. Claudette Colbert plays Mrs. Keith and does a truly marvelous job in the sensitive role. Her husband is played by Patric Knowles and Florence Desmond portrays one of her helpful prisonmates. However, the show is virtually stolen by a matinee idol of yesteryear, Sessue Hayakama, in the role of the prison commandant who tearfully takes some of the prisoners' hungry children to his home for lunch after hearing that his whole family was killed by the atom bomb in Hiroshima. Although it lacks the timeliness it would have had a few years ago, "Three Came Home" is really a great picture—don't miss it on Monday and Tuesday.

Mickey Rooney appears as a "hot-rod" racing driver, on Wednesday in "Big Wheel", who eventually ends up winning the Indianapolis Speedway race. In his travels he meets Mary Hatcher, who plays the role of a grease monkey. This is a fine picture for those who like "noise, uncomplicated heroics and sudden death" type of movie but there is little in the film to interest the quieter person.

"The Return of the Frontiersmen", a musical starring Gordon McRae will play Thursday and Friday.

BOOKS

Budding actors and actresses will find two books of interest to them on the new book table. "An Actor Prepares" by a Russian, Konstantin Alekseev, is an attempt to show the faults of acting and the old ideas which have lost their usefulness and have become an impediment to the production of plays.

"First Steps in Acting" by Samuel Selden shows the young actor how to begin—stressing the fact that first thngs must come first or the effort of acting is lost.

A two volume biography of John C. Calcoun by Charles N. Wilse portrays the great statesman as a Nationalist during the period 1782-1822. The second volume is concerned with Calhoun, the Nullifier, from 1829 to 1839. "The Papers of Thomas Jefferson," edited by Julian P. Boyd, has attempted to present accurately and completely the writings and recorded actions of Thomas Jefferson.

"Conservatism Revisited," by Paul Viereck, is an analysis of the classic conserative, Prince Metternich. Mr. Viereck states that "conservatism aims to conserve the values underlying civilization."

"Politics, Parties, and Pressure Groups", by Valdimer O. Key, is a text book which considers pressure groups, a discussion of violence, and the educaton of political techniques in a way not usually found in such books.

"Versailles— Twenty Years After" by Paul Birdsall is an analysis, not a formal history, of the diplomatic factors which shaped the general character of the Treaty of Versailles.

"In Our Image" by Gustave Carus is a small book with a few lines on each page which "intend to express some of the many diverse conceptions of the diety, the cosmos, and humanity. . ."

CURTAINS

After seeing the third annual presentation of the Junior Class' Horror Show, one wonders where sanity leaves off and insanity begins.

No doubt Jim Dance deserves a lot of credit for some very clever lines but additional credit goes to Misses Jacobi and Baylor who successfully displayed these "lines."

One suggestion, however, might go well: that (poor accoustical arrangement of a gymnasium taken for granted) voice projection might have been more carefully rehearsed. Some of the best lines were probably heard only by the first few rows.

MEET HIM–

Few of us knew very much about Korea before the recent war began there a few months ago. Now we at Maryville have the good fortune of having with us a native of that country.

In Sun Kim has lived most of his life in Seoul, the capital of South Korea. He attended a mission high school in Korea five years, then went to the University in Tokyo where he majored in English Literature. Kim was

SCOTTIES MEET GOVERNORS TONIGHT

Sports Echoes

By Rolfe Duggar

●THE FOOTBALL TEAM WILL TRY again tonight to end a losing streak, now extending over eight games. This is the last home game of the year and all week long Alpha Sigma has been pushing for spirit among the student body. Neale Pearson has been in charge—making all kinds of signs and such with the aid of a few willing workers. Two weeks ago at the E&H game when the cheerleaders and the band were "under cover" the student body showed that it could yell. In fact, it was one of the few times this year the student body has been unified in its cheering.

IT SEEMS TO BE the general concensus of opinion that any lack of spirit is the fault of the cheerleaders. This, in part, may be true, but not wholly. No student likes the idea of two different cheers going on at the same time because the cheerleaders can't get together. More than once this year some students have wondered which group of cheerleaders to follow. We have a bad situation because the cheerleading squad has had to be split, but that could be easily taken care of if the captain had a megaphone so all could be together. They do it at other schools—why not here?

●AUSTIN PEAY COMES HERE TONIGHT with a strong squad of veterans. The Scots want to win this one more than any other game because the Governors starte dtheir losing streak last year with a 21-14 defeat. The line should be one of the toughest the Scots have met this year with plenty of beef and two Little All-Americans in it. The backfield and reserve bench are strong also. But reports from members of the Scotties say that with Charlie Allen in at quarterback and with Dick Mirshak off the injured list the offense should really get moving. Let's hope so and let's all get out there and cheer our team on.

●FOUR ROSES AND CHAMPAGNE to the cross-country team for being the first Maryville squad to win a match in regular intercollegiate competition. (The tennis teams' two wins over Carson-Newman in practice matches don't count). The boys have been working hard since school started and really deserve a hand for their come back after two disastrous defeats at the hands of the distancers from UT. Way to go team!

●SPEAKING OF CARSON-NEWMAN I have here before me an article from "The Elizabethton Star," the daily of Elizabethton, Tenn. It seems that the opposition is finally catching up with the rough and tumble tactics of CN. Last year we heard of their tactics in geenr a,lbut never anything definite. Now this comes out and is admitted by a member of their board of drectors. I'd like to quote the editorial a little.

"The sad part about the whole thing is that the coaches of Carson-Newman encourage their boys to cheat the rules with their dirty tactics. A member of the C-N board of directors was surprised Saturday night when he heard the coaches tell the C-N players not to heed the warnings of the officials about the way they were doing, even after the whistle was blown.

"Ed McBroome, big Carson-Newman tackle, smashed a Milligan boy near the C-N bench. The boys sitting on the bench encouraged him to 'kill him' even after the whistle ehead blown. McBroome gabbed the boy and jerked him over by the arm and could plainly see that the boy was koncked out. The Carson-Newman player wasn't satisfied so he grabbed him by the head and twisted his neck and then threw him back on the ground.

"On other occasions, a big player would kick the ball carrier in the face after the whistle had blown and while still in the pile-up. Of course, after the whistle blows, a player is not expecting his opponents to walk up and throw a 'boot' in his face. The officials failed in their duty by not running the 'cowards' from the playing field. Of course, any teaem can cheat and get by the officials with their dry tricks if they have been trained in that method of playing."

It goes on to say—

"Carson-Newman, in the words of a member of your board of directors, 'The athletic department needs cleaning up, now.'"

It certainly is too bad that any school could have such charges brought against it, especially a Christian one." This report may be biased, but then again it might be true. Until our game next week-end with C-N though, we can only quote what others are saying.

●SEVERAL PEOPLE HAVE ASKED how the scores in cross-country are determined. It's quite simple onc eyou catch on so here's the dope. Seven men from each squad are officially entered, but only the first five are counted at the end of the race. You then add the finish positions of each man of your team by number and you have your score. To illustrate this, let's take the Sewanee meet. We took second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth. Add hese numbers up and you get twenty. Sewanee took first, eighth, ninth, eleventh, and twelfth.

These give you forty-one. The reason they did not get seventh and tenth positions was because our other two distancers took these. That gives the 20-41 score that MC won by. Of course, like golf, low score wins.

Final Home Game With Austin Peay

Scotties Look For Win

By Neale Pearson

Tonight at 8 o'clock, the 1950 edition of the Maryville Scots will trundle onto the field for a game with the Austin Peay Governors. It was this same Austin Peay team which started the Highlanders on their present ill-stroke of luck by defeating them 29-14 in a game at Clarksville. This game, called by many who were there as the best of the season, was the first of three straight 20-14 mushroomings which resulted in the longest losing streak in the history of Scot football. So, the Highlanders will have plenty to shoot for tonight in going for a win.

But the Governors of Coach Dave Aaron will be no cream puffs. The Red and White has 23 veterans back from last year's 6-2 team and 19 of them are veterans.

Reach 'Em And Weep. . .

On the ends are L. E. Oakley and Tom Lincoln. Oakley got all conference honors last year and was voted to the Scots' All opponents Team. Oakley a 185 pound Senior completed 29 passes last year for 543 yards or an average of 18 yards plus per game last year and so will pose more than a small threat for the Scot secondary. Flanking him will be Tom Lincoln another man up in the stratosphere who got Little All-American honors. Lincoln had a 22 yard average gain per pass caught last year so it'll be double trouble on passes.

Do I Have To Play!

As if that weren't enough, the tackles are just as heavy as the ends are tall. Waldo Binkley and Phil Krug, a transplanted guard, both reach the avoirdupois of 200 pounds with "Brother Binkley" adding 35 more on for good measure. And to keep it in the family, Waldo has a sophomore brother, Harris who weighs also as much, for relief. Ray Darnell is the starting offensive tackle on the right side and is a 200 pound junior.

Why Are They At AP?

Two lettermen, Julius Sneed and Melton Self, will man the offensive guard positions with nonvets playing on defense. Sneed, at 190 pounds, also got the laurel wreath from the Little All-American boys.

At center is letterman, Hendricks Fox who bongs 'em with 195 pounds and Chad Choate, a 215-er, who plays on defense.

Got A Spare One . .

In the backfield, there is talent galore, also. There are three veteran quarterbacks around with Dick Hays getting the nod over Frank Ruble at the first of the season. Ruble was the Scots' All Opponent signal-caller last year running 34 yards on a bootleg for a T.D. Ruble has been called by Uncle Sam, tho, which may be a help for MC. Hays had the highest percentage of a regular last year in the passing department and so it looks like more passes to the skyscraper ends. Another returnee, Charlie Oakley, has put on the best show for the Governors so far this season in having had his brother for a target. In the 23-21 win over Arkansas A. & M., the two worked together to complete eight of ten for 121 yards and a TD.

Running Over

Five lettermen are returning at the halfback posts with Gordon Potter, Bob Swope, Merwin Borne and Ben Fendley, those with experience. Swope is the question mark. Last year he cruised for one of their touchdowns on a 70 yard run. As for this year, the gifted one from Nashville appeared in their first four games according to our information from said four games, but in the line-up and roster sent to Coaches Davis and Honaker, his name wans't mentioned. Fendley, though, isn't such a dark-and-shadowy figure, though his running and kicking fast year were a nightmare to the Scots. Fendley was the most-worked man for the Red and White last year but still averaged 6.8 yards in 92 cracks at the line. Only Swope's 10.0 average for 39 carries topped his mark. Fendley also handles the punting and kicking chores. Among the freshmen, John Gron has shown the best talent and is listed as starting half—no mention is made of Swope. As a result, something smells fishy.

He Just Runs—

Two returning lettermen, Charles Quarles and Jimmy Drye take care of the fullback situation a 180 pound plunger is strictly that—a running specialist.

Better'n Ours—

As for their season's record, they started off by beating Union 28-13, and upsetting Arkansas A. & M., 23-21 on the strength of a safety worked by Krug who smashed through the line and caught the Weevil quarterback behind the double shripes. They edged Florence State Teachers of Alabama, 6-0, and then dropped one to powerhouse Middle

BUST IN THERE!

Maryville's four senior guards will see plenty of action tonight in the last Highlander home game of the season against the Governors of Austin Peay. From left to right they are Jim Lester, Bob Proffitt, Herb Palmer, and Dick Isenberg. Lester and Isenberg play mostly on offense while Proffitt and Palmer play defense.

Basketeers Work On Screen Plays

At the end of the week there were still thirty hopefuls out for the varsity and junior varsity basketball squads. Emphasis so far has been on screen plays in an effort to teach the boys something, and to weed out those who are not basketball material.

As soon as football season is over Coach Lombe Honaker will take over the reins. With Honaker will come several of last year's varsity and a good number of other hopefuls who are currently on the football squad.

Intramurals....

SOCCER

Pi Lumbago and Y.M.C.A. continued to set the pace as the season reached the half-way mark. Pi Lumbago edged out in front by winning two games and tying one while Y.M.C.A. was winning one and tying two. The two teams met Tuesday and played to a one-one tie.

Pre-Min. and United Nations showed signs of coming to life. This past week they proved to be anything but pushovers, Pre-Min. holding Y.M.C.A. to a scoreless tie and Pi Lumbago just managing to squeeze by United Nations, one to nothing.

The Loafers and Alpha Sigma, after getting off to a fair start, dropped to the bottom of the heap, each losing two games.

Standings:

	W	L	T	Pts.
Phi Lumbago	5	0	1	11
Y.M.C.A.	3	0	2	8
United Nations	2	2	2	6
Pre-Min.	1	2	3	5
Alpha Sigma	1	4	2	4
Loafers	0	4	2	2

Maryville Thinlies Meet Sewanee Runners In Return Meet There

Highlander Thinlies Wallop Purple, 20-41

Maryville's cross country team will try to make it two in a row this afternoon when they meet the runners of Sewanee on the Sewanee course.

Yaa—hoo. . .

The Orange and Garnet trounced the Purple and White of the University of the South in a meet here last Saturday, 20-41. Albert Perkins won the race with a scintilating time of 16 minutes 59.2 seconds. But this time was 12 seconds shy of the mark he hung up last year. But a first wasn't good enough for the visiting Purple team, and the Scots filled up the next six places before the Sewanee set could place one.

Way To Go

Bill Menges led the Orange and Garnet pack in, followed by Del Earisman, Ric Rogers, Tom Kelly, a surprising fifth, Jimmy Thurston, and Dick Kerr. John White, who started off fast for the University of the South aggregation, lost his second-place contention behind Perkins on the way through the woods and wound up eighth. Dave Williams, running unattached for Maryville, actually edged White in coming in, but since he wasn't officially carrying the Orange and Garnet colors, his eighth place went for naught save towards a letter. White was followed by Cliququenroi of Sewanee who in turn edged Dave Helwig of Maryville. And from there on, every man that came in was a Sewanee man.

Take Hadacol

Elliot Puckette, number two on the Sewanee team last year, developed stomach trouble during the race and dropped back miserably. However, this week's meet with the Sewanee team during half-time festivities of the Sewanee-Wabash football ought to find

Intramural Stars Vie Tuesday Under Lights In Game

Tuesday night at 7:15, the All-Stars of the Orange League will take to the new football field against the bright lights of the Garnet League. Both teams will be made up greatly of members of the YMCA and Bluejays, winners of their respecitve leagues. Hugh Hamil will be the man on the spot for the Orange while Tom Yeaworth will have the dubious honor on the other team. Men expected to show up brightly will be Tom Jones, Garnet end, Bruce DeNagy, Garnet scatback, and George Stanfill, Orange back.

A soccer game between the Loafers of Dean Allison and Chuck Holsinger's YMCA will follow at about 8:15.

Both contests will furnish plenty of wide-open play. Come out and holler for the boys who get cheered in contests like this only once in a lifetime!

Pasteurizer Installed At College Farm Dairy

Complete pasteurizing equipment has been installed and is now in operation at the dairy on the College Farm, according to Director of Maintenance Louis A. Black.

The equipment, which necessitated some changes in the Dairy building, consists of one stainless steel milk pump, one creator to coll 100 gallons of milk, two stainless steel covers for acreator, one recording thermometer, one space heater, one oil burning boiler, one Quiet Heat oil burner, with temperature fire brick combustion chamber, automatic and safety controls and 100 gallon storage tank, and one electric water heater.

Thinlies At Sewanee . . .

Puckette and his other mates up father in the contention. It will be a fighting-Purple team to run against this time.

Eight men are making the trip with Coach Kenneth Johnson. They are Menges, Earisman, Rogers, Kelly, Thurston, Kerr, Williams, and Helwig. The team hopes to bring home the bacon and to be back in Maryville for tonight's last home game of the season.

Other news on the hill-and-dale front was the return of Neale Pearson to the pathways. Pearson's ankle is slowly mending but he probably will do no real running in meets this season because of his being out-of-shape.

SCOTS WANT WIN . . .

Tennessee State, 34-14. Their injuries showed up badly against Milligan, and the Buffs—beaten by E & H, 47-0—upset the dope by winning a closie, 7-6. Last week-end, the Governors took on Jacksonville State and came out with a 13-13 tie after leading.

Coming over to see the game with the Scotties will be a large contingent of Austin Peay fans and also their band. The trip to Clarksville is the longest one on the Scots' schedule and so their students and such will really be making an effort to come to the game.

Though, editorializing isn't supposed to take place on a story like this, let's all get behind the Scots and have some cheering and zip from the time you read this till the old chapel bell rings in Anderson Tower after the game—we'll be a-waiting to ring the thing for a couple of hours—sleep for townspeople or not.

Another Tea For One?

Whereas Emory & Henry's Split T was stronger and better on the outside, the Governors use it more in the middle and for passing. Their line will average around 190 on offense and 210 on defense. And the Governors are specialized to the nth degree. They have seven different line-ups for offense, defense, kickoffs and kick-off returns, punts, and punt returns, and extra points. The charges of Coach Dave Aaron are also specialists on defense using about seven different defenses which are also intended to confuse—and do the offense. It will be a tough one, but the Scots have a chance if they play heads up ball all the way and don't let their heretofore sieve-like pass defense weaken or else it'll be too bad.

'Bout As Ready As Ever

As for the Scots, the rest over last week enabled Bob Larsen's rib to heal up some but the pleasure of meeting the big Binkley and Company has not aided the situation. Harry Myers who was banged up badly in his kidneys is still out and is not expected to play. Theme for the week was "If you don't drive and run hard, you ain't a-gonna play." So, tonight's contest should be a slam-bang affair.

Changes in the Maryville line-up are Charlie Allen calling signals, Harold Glad at full, and Grant Sharp at left half.

"It's the best back field we've had yet," said Coach Davis "and oughta to play a better game than ever."

Line-up for tonight's game:

F. Garren	LE	Lincoln
Walker	LT	Krug
Isenberg	LG	Self
White	C	Fox
Lester	RG	Sneed
Larsen	RT	Darnell
McClelland	RE	Oakley

By Phyll Jackson

Six students of Maryville College have been awarded recognition in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities, according to word received from the National Council this week.

Biographies of students will appear in the volume by that name to be published next spring by H. Pettus Randall. The number selected is a decrease from last year's quota and does not fill the allotted number of places for this year.

In addition to being listed in the volume of national circulation, students will be authorized to wear official Who's Who keys. Those selected are of senior rank.

Heading the alphabetical list is Betty Carol Corbett, English major from Jacksonville, Fla. and president of WSGA. Miss Corbett has been a member of varsity debate since her sophomore year when she was elected to Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary debate fraternity. At present she is president of the Maryville chapter of the fraternity. She is also a member of Student Council, serving on the Student-Faculty Senate, and a member of Writter's Workshop. Miss Corbett held the title role in Maxwell Anderson's "Joan of Lorraine" last spring.

Janet Cummings

A pre-med major, Janet Cummings has been active in YWCA work, serving as secretary in her junior year and vice-president this year. She was also a Nu Gamma leader in her sophomore year. An honor student for three years, Miss Cummings has been a member of Student Council for two years and a four year member of Vesper Choir. She was in the college orchestra in her freshman year and is a member of Bainonian. Miss Cummings is from Maryville.

James Lester

Economics major from Birmingham, Ala., Jim Lester is president of the senior class and a member of the Y cabinet for the second year. In his freshman year, Lester was a May Day attendant. He has been a four year member of varsity football team and has been in the cast of the Y Minstrel show since his freshman year also. A member of Student Council for three years, Lester was Athenian vice-president in his sophomore year, a member of Inter-Club Council in his junior year and president of both the Men's "M" Club and the Athletic Association in that year. He has also held the office of secretary of the YMCA and been a member of track team.

Louise Lloyd

President of YWCA is Louise Lloyd, music major from Maryville. Miss Lloyd serves on Student Council this year, Student-Faculty Senate, and Social Board. Active in YW work, she served on the cabinet in her junior year and as a Nu Gamma leader in her sophomore year.

Miss Lloyd is a four year member of Vesper Choir and has been on the Dean's list for three years. She has been a member of French Club for three years, serving as president in her junior year. She is a member of Tau Kappa Chi, honorary music fraternity and was president in her junior year also. She was Theta Epsilon secretary.

George Ogle

President of campus YMCA now and a cabinet member last year is George Ogle, psychology major from Pitcarn, Pa. and ministerial student. Ogle was president of his class in his freshman year and has been a member of the Ministerial Association since then, serving as secretary-treasurer in his junior year.

Ogle is an Athenian and was vice-president in his sophomore year. He has served on MSO Coordinating Council, Student Council, and Student-Faculty Senate. A three year honor student, Ogle

Students Travel To C-N College For Annual Scot -Eagle Tilt Tonight

C-N Homecoming Billed As Clash Of T Formations

The Maryville Scotties take to the road tonight to meet their most deadly foe, the Eagles from Carson-Newman. The Scots have lost nine straight now and are desperate to get a win, especially against the Eagles.

Busses for the annual Maryville-Carson-Newman football classic are scheduled to leave the campus at 5:45 this afternoon. Supper will be served in the dining hall at 5 p.m. instead of the usual 5:30.

The majority will make the trip to Jefferson City for C-N's Homecoming via Student Council sponsored busses. Jim Callaway, chairman of the Executive Board of the Athletic Association, is in charge of arrangements.

Cost of the trip is $2.20, with $1.00 for game admission and $1.20 for transportation. The college band and cheerleaders will go, their expenses paid by the Athletic Department.

The Eagles haven't done too much better this year as they have only two wins against four loses and one tie. They have victories over East Tennessee State, and Tusculum and have tied Milligan while losing to Tennessee Tech, Emory and Henry, Wofford and Union. Comparative scores and Litkenhous would give the Eagles a slight advantage.

Down Through the Years

The C-N vs. MC rivalry is one of the oldest in the state. It first started in 1903 when Maryville romped home with a 72-0 victory, a score wished for repeating by all Scot fans. The height of all greatness came in 1915 when the Scots just managed to squeeze out a 99-0 win. Since 1903 the Scots have won seventeen games from the Eagles while dropping only eight; there was one tie. Last year the two teams met twice, and each came out on top once.

In the first game the Scots scored twice to walk off with a 13-0 win. In the second meeting the visitors turned the tables on the Orange and Garnet and took a 20-12 win. Right half John Jennings was the thorn in the side of the Scots in this game scoring two touchdowns and setting up the other with a pass interception.

This year's team is stronger than their record indicates but because of a large number of injuries the team has been hampered. Hubert Ashe, ace half back, will be back in the lineup for the first time in three weeks Ashe is their chief kicker.

J. D. Price, a freshman, will be in the fullback spot. Price is probably the oldest man on the team as he graduated from Rule High in Knoxville ten years ago. He has showed considerable promise in the last few games and may prove to be a threat to the Scots. Price got his chance when the regular fullback, Clanky Smith, broke his leg early in the year.

Holt, Harris Will Read

Bill Holt and Ruby Jean Harris will read at Writers' Workshop Wednesday, November 15, at 4:30 in Dr. E. R. Hunter's classroom, Anderson Hall. Critics will be Carol Corbett and Doris Somerville.

Jim Kren and Doris Somerville read at the last meeting. They were criticized by Phyllis Jackson and Janet Cummings.

Panel Discussion On The Philippines Highlights Vols

A panel discussion on the Philippine Islands will be featured at Student Vols in Bartlett Auditorium tomorrow night immediately after Vespers.

Joan Frei, Philippine-born daughter of missionary parents, will be the principal speaker. Questions will be directed at Miss Frei by John Baird and Carol Demler concerning her parents' mission work, wartime conditions in the Philippines, and opportunities for missionary work there today. A discussion will be centered around these topics.

Joan Platt, will give the invocation, Clint Bopst will read the scripture, and Betty Jane Greenwald will offer prayer. Special music will be by the Conqueror's Quartet. Wally Schroeder will lead the singing and Dick Ribble is pianist.

Del Poling planned the program and special music was arranged by Dan Thamisch.

Library Adds New Books From Kind's Private Collection

During the past week the Library acquired full sets of 12 standard authors, totaling 153 volumes. The books were purchased from the private collection of Dr. John L. Kind, now retired, but formerly head of the German deparament of the University of Tennessee.

Knowledge of the availability of these books came about through Assistant Professor H. S. Reber, a friend of Dr. Kind. The books were secured for considerably less than one dollar a volume, because of Dr. Kind's interest in the College. It is estimated that on the market they would have cost from three to four times that price.

The sets are all attractively and serviceably bound and the pages are clean and usable. The items of the collection are:

Defoe, 16 volumes; Eliot, 8 volumes; Fielding 12 volumes; Ibsen, 13 volumes; London, 6 volumes; Meredith, 29 volumes;

O. Henry, 7 volumes; Poe, 10 volumes; Richardson, 19 volumes; Smollett, 12 volumes; Sterne, 4 volumes; Stevenson, 15 volumes.

Free Test Made During Nat'l. Week

Diabetic Week will be nationally observed from November 12 to 18. Since many cases of diabetes, if diagnosed early, could be treated or cured, the College is cooperating with the Blount County Medical Association in this national drive for the early diagnosis of the disease.

During this week, free urinalyses will be made and personal reports sent to individuals. For further information, all students and faculty are to contact the Intramural Office for women or the Athletic Office for men.

Swift, Enloe, Lloyd Attend Assembly

Ella Swift, Nannette Enloe and Louise Lloyd were elected delegates to the Fourth National Assembly of the Student Christian Association Movement at a business meeting of the Association last Sunday. The Assembly will meet at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. MC chapter of YWCA is affiliated with the movement.

Lynn Announces Annual Deadline

Bob Lynn, '51 Chilhowean Manager, announced this week that the deadline for Chilhowean orders will be Friday, November 17, since the total number of orders must be sent to the printer then.

Those who have not ordered yet may do so at times and places which will be announced. Price of the Chilhowean is five dollars, but a two dollar down payment will reserve a copy. Students who cannot make announced times or places may see Bob Lynn, Newell Witherspoon, Carson Seeley or Cora Anthony for reserving copies.

There will be no extra copies in the spring and all students are urged to make reservations.

FAC Art Gallery Shows Eliz. Baker

Fine Arts Center Art Gallery is currently through November 14 displaying a group of watercolors done by Elizabeth Gowdy Baker and donated to the collection in 1937 by Daniel B. Baker.

Included in the group of portraits are "James Hill." "Fifi Stillman." "Barrone Du Gabe." "John Wallace." "Blond Boy in Red Suit".. and "Peshliki Novojo."

Landscapes

A group of landscapes includes "Purple Mountain." "Village Street." "Street in Tetuah." "Village." and "Sailboat."

Miss Charlotte B. Johnson gave a gallery talk on the life, work, and education of Elizabeth Gowdy Baker on Sunday, November 5, in the Center.

Theatre Presents Earisman's 'The Net', Two Stagings

"The Net Which They Hid," an original play by senior English major Del Eairisman, was presented in two performances last night as the second production of the Experimental Theatre. "The Net," shown for the first time on the stage last night, originally was read to Writers' Workshop.

Starring in the two-act symbolic drama depicting man's ideas of war, were Sid Lambert, political science major from Madison, Ind., as Mr. Ham; and Joe Stater, freshman from Trenton, Mich., as Mr. Shem. Stater was introduced to Maryville audiences recently as George in the Playhouse production of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town."

Others in the cast included Walter English as Joe; Kent Buser as Bob; Grace Myers as Mrs. Ham; Ginni Schwarz as Mrs. Shem; Mary Wilkes as Ann; and Joan Durig as Pietra. Earisman directed his play.

Crew heads were Joe Poland, stage; Bobbie Porter, scenery; Phyll Jackson, make-up; Louise Packard, publicity; Barbara Blum and Jane Hassinger, props; Austin Van Pelt, lighting; Gloria Hineman, tickets; Joanne Edwards, costumes; and Lou Masters, script and sound effects.

ABC Girls Chosen, Presented Dec. 9

Photographers Willard Rahn and Al Springfield are currently taking pictures of Athenian-Bainonian calendar girls who will be presented on December 9 in the annual show.

George Barber, chairman, has announced long-range plans to include a sixteen-voice chorus, male quartet, and soloists. George Day is in charge of music for the event.

YW Dramatizes; YM Hears Scouts Radio Has Vols

The origin of several famous hymns, such as "Bless Be the Tie That Binds" will be dramatized at the YWCA meeting tomorrow at 1:30. Leading roles will be played by Dot Johnston and Barbara Miller.

YMCA will meet in Bartlett Auditorium at 1:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Andy Clark and Bob Lynn have charge of the program which will feature Boy Scouts from Knoxville. The Scouts will present a skit.

Members of Student Vols will present a program portraying missionary service, the Life of Challenge on the Y radio program, "Pathways," Monday evening at 9:30 over WGAP.

The program will be narrated by Bill Varker and musical selections wil be given by Dick Ribble, Helen Worrilow, and Janice Marion. Others taking part are Louise Lloyd, Alita Bryant, Lois Johanson, Armando Divas, and Dick Dosker.

Disc Club Meets In Center Lounge

On Thursday, November 16, Disc Club will meet in the Lounge of the Fine Arts Center. Pat Cox will comment on "Boris Godounof" by Moussorgsky which will be played at that time.

Laurie Dale, chairman, urges that everyone feel welcome at Disc Club programs. Program length is approximately 45 minutes and programs are planned to present music you like to hear.

Chairmen Release Future Plans For Barnwarming

In keeping with the Barnwarming theme "The 1950 Golden Jubilee," chairmen Judy Breen, "Happy" Huddleston, and Ruth Nicholas have announced the booths which will be the feature attraction along the Avenue, of the Half-Century.

The first decade of the twentieth century will be presented by a 1900-1910 Photography Studio in charge of Pat Lewis. A Competition Shop set up by Barbara Scott will depict the years 1910-1920. Lynn Miller's 1920-1930 Theatre will give a glimpse of show business during the "Roaring Twenties."

The years 1930-1940 will be represented by a Music Shop. Shopkeepers are Hazel Wood and Beryl Stewart. Janet Cummings is in charge of the Food Booth which will depict 1940-1950. Reminiscent of the entire half-century from 1900-1950 will be a Museum under the supervision of Mary Kelton.

Funds For Aid

Barnwarming is the annual Thanksgiving show which is jointly sponsored by the YWCA and YMCA. This year all proceeds of the program will be sent to aid student education at the United Christian Schools, Jullunder City, East Punjab, India. This school is one of the first coeducational institutions in India and is under the direction of Methodist and Presbyterian Foreign Mission Boards. School principal is the Rev. George B. Leeder, whose daughter, Anne, is a junior home economics major here.

Ruth Nicholas, Tom Kees, and George Barber are working on the decorations and set. Irene Mellon and Sherman Lester are business managers. Mary Wilkes and Bev Jacobi are publicity chairmen; Jackie Lenderman, Joyce Lenderman, and Betty Lester are working on costuming.

Love, Gambill On Court

Court procedures are being taken care of by Pat Love and Rosemary Gambill. Allan Caldwell is doing make-up. Music directors for the show are Johnny Sayre and Dick Ribble. Dance routines will be done by Maree Richards.

All girls in YW who signed up to help with Barnwarming will soon be called on to work on the set.

Thetas Surprised!

Theta Epsilon will meet this afternoon at 1:30 in Theta Hall Program chairmen Joyce Lenderman and Betty Lester have charge of the surprise program.

Advance Courses Offerings, New Scheduling Posted

A tentative schedule of second semester offerings was released this week from Dean Hunter's office and is being displayed on bulletin boards on campus for student reference.

Attention is called to courses which are either new or are given over such long intervals as not to be fully familiar.

Art 42FI, a studio course in Crafts, will be taught by Mr. Dashiell; Biology 302XL, a course in Systematic Botany and Plant Ecology, Mr. Kolter; Chemistry 208DL, Elementary Biochemistry, Professor Howell; Drama and Speech 314CI, a course in Voice Production and Projection of special value to teachers and ministers, Miss Craven.

English, German

English 242B, Twentieth Century English and American Literature, will be taught by Professor Hunter; German 314A, German Romanticism, Mr. Reber; History 220C, The Far Eeast, Mr. Ainsworth; Latin "200"X, A Survey reading course in advance of two semesters of Latin, Mr. Cooper; and Physics 304DL, Meteorology, Prof. Walker.

Muses Sponsor Table Decorations

The Muses will again sponsor the awarding of prizes for Thanksgiving table decorations in the dining hall. Each table must be ready by 11:00 a.m., Thursday, November 23, and the amount spent for decorations must not exceed 50 cents. A prize will be given to the best decorated table to be judged on price, size of the table, simplicity, and originality.

The judging committee, composed of members of the Muses, includes Florence Clark, Laurie Dale, Doris Holt, Mary Wilkes, Louis Evans, Janice Eakin, Fred Sieber, George Caldwell, and Connie Howell.

College Receives $87,771 Bequest

A bequest of $87.771.50 has been received by Maryville College through the will of the late Mrs. John M. Ross of Knoxville. A similar amount was received by the University of Tennessee.

Mrs. Ross specified that the money is to be used in assisting students in obtaining an education and teachers in doing graduate study.

President Lloyd has announced that the college, with the approval of the executors of Mrs. Ross' will, has allocated $50,000 to the sabbatical leave plan for faculty and staff; and $37,771.50 to the permanent student help endowment funds.

Dr. Bernardin Speaks

Speaker at Vespers tomorrow at 7:00 p.m. in the Library will be the Rev. Dr. J. B. Bernardin, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Maryville.

The Vesper Choir, under the direction of Harry H. Harter, will sing

Politics—

Now that the elections are over, many people will forget the forms of smear tactics used. Unfortunately, many persons have acquired, either willingly or unwillingly, one of the most insidious and destructive tactics common to campaigners ever devised. This is the stereotype.

Stereotypes are old, probably originating as an easy way out for remembering difficult concepts or ideas. Many are harmless such as representing a timid man as a Casper Milquitoast. Others have become relatively harmless through the passage of time. We now have entered into a period of using some of the most harmful terms coined.

By preying on peoples' fears and, oftentimes, lack of knowledge, some people have degraded certain words by association with derogatory terms. Decent terms which have thus been destroyed are "liberal" and "conservative." Even more harmful is the indiscriminate labelling by some people of others, whose viewpoints differ in some respect.

Stereotypes used destructively in common practice now are "liberal," "conservative," "communist," "socialist," "reactionary," and "radical." Pseudo-liberals brand everyone else as reactionary, and reactionaries brand liberals as communistic or socialistic. Very regrettable is the fact that once labelled, the stigma is difficult to remove.

A most disgusting example of the smear tactic by stereotyping was Senator McCarthys vituperative tirade against the State Department, which, as everyone now knows, subsided when it was brought to the acid-test, proof. An example of how asinine such labelling can be is shown by the labelling of George Seldes. If Seldes is all that, then he is a greater man than most for having combined such opposing views.

Our country needs both true liberals and true conservatives if the two party system of checks and balances is to survive. It won't if these smear tactics are continued. Even more harmful is the destruction of respect which people should hold for other people's opinions. Once these two effects have been accomplished, America will no longer be a haven for the persecuted, which has been a cardinal concept of our people. Let us remember. Preserve America and its freedoms by respecting other's opinions and determine exactly where they sand—don't label indiscriminately.

Scots & Soda

Weather Report, Sir!

We no'thuners didn't know how to act—neither did the 'suntherners for that matter—when that winter finally poked its red nose into the scene! But it's for sure that both rebels and yankees made good use of the 'Arm-strong Heaters" at last week's ball game!

Favorite comment heard: "Get away a little closer, honey. Ah'm cold!"

Better Late Than Never:

Vesper Choir, Maryville style, pulled into Knoxville College campus a little late (five minutes, they thought) at 7:35 last Sunday night for their annual exchange concert. As they ran down the aisle to the tune of the first hymn which had started when the organist heard the cars stop in front of the chapel, they discovered that the service should have started some 35 minutes before.

Famous Last Words:

Dr. Lloyd: "No, I'll lead the caravan to Knoxville College. I ought to know the way after twenty years of commuting." Some three miles and a half hour beyond the road they should have turned in, Lloyd and companions discovered the rest of the caravan missing. When the Oldsmobile 88 did pull up at the K. campus, occupants found they were the last ones to arrive.

Short Cheer!

Bert McMahon is currently receiving congratulations for some good plays he made in last Saturday's game, even though he sat in the bleachers. Seems that Charlie Allen's profile didn't stick out far enough beyond that helmet to identify him when he donned Bert's dry uniform at the half.

Yo, Ralph:

It might prove statistically interesting to note the number of times both Bob Lynn and Mary Wade Newton have been locked in the Fine Arts Center. . . .together! Dan Cupid is Del Poling, FA custodian.

Wha Hoppened

That noose that hung from the rafters in the junior chapel section for days has finally disappeared Tuesday but it was of great concern to some senior-sectioners to note that the junior who sat right underneath said noose was also missing that day!

Courtesy Line

And it's interesting to note that four MCer's (mixed species) spent some time "courtesy Royal Crown Cola" on a Knoxville bench waiting for the 10:30 Maryville bus last Wednesday night!

Similes Again!

. . . .as proud as senior-ring wearers. . . . as happy as MC cross-country "thinlies" or MC recipients of "What's This" honor. . . as contented as we who vacationed from Ethics this week. . . . as sad as those who paid off election bets. . . . . as wealthy as those who will trip up to C-N tonight. . . . as out-of-this-world as Scotties if we win tonight's game!

Just Wondering . . . .

What big name band will be signed for the Christmas formal? Where that freshman boy got those worse-than-bob-brown's-green-ones orange socks? Where our statistician is who is keeping track of days left in this tired old semester? When Chilhowean's will arrive next semester? Why we even wonder thinks like this?

Sign-happy

After several very impressive floor and house meetings about (sh-h-h) NOISE in Pearsons, sign appeared all over the dorm reminding girls that "it's better to be caught dead than breathing out loud" and that "stairs 7-14 on the first floor staircase creek, so better skip them:!! Latest addition was a cemetery cross bearing the inscription "Here lies one Pearsons girl who forgot to install her muffler—she lies in peace, now we can!"

Sounds Fabulous!

Then there's the boy who started the rumor that all Groom's Course students stay in the Y Rooms for two weeks to put into practice what they've learned and run competition for their girl friends.

Finally

John Baird found the diamond ring Proffitt's put in their Anniversary cake and now Mary can have a real negagement ring!

TALK OF THE WEEK

JOHN OLSON

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

CAPITOL CAPERS

Studes who visit the flickers on Monday or Tuesday will find Raymond Massey, Dane Clark and Ruth Roman (the latest of the sultries) starring in "Barricade." Ray, a brute, handles a shady gold mine operated by lesser brutes. Dane and Ruth are fugitives from the law who came into Ray's clutches before they can get away and square themsleves. Attention Muses! Ray quotes Shakespeare and loves Richard III whom he tries to emulate.

"Father is a Bachelor" on Wednesday only, or so the program said. Anyway, Bill Holden is a bachelor part of the time since he is a vagabond medicine show performer who "adopts" four waifs. These three boys and their little sister have been having a hard time since their parents died keeping shack and avoiding the relief officers. Bill, after adopting them, gets them accepted in the community and finally wins the hand of a rich neighbor.

On Thursday and Friday one may see "The Darned Don't Cry" as one midwest Toonerville theatre marquee had it advertised. Joan Crawford is the shiny-nosed household drudge who is misunderstood by her husband. She escapes and swiftly travels the road to degradation, undoing four men as she goes. Finally she reaches the top of the bottom and sits on the lap of an underworld titan, where she learns the wages of sin never loom as large as the dividends.

ON THE BOOK SHELF

J. M. Dawson's "Separate Church and State" is another book like Paul Blanshard's "American Freedom and Catholic Power" on a subject which, unfortunately, is considered taboo. Mr. Dawson treats contemporary scenes and current problems. The book is documented although not as much as Blanshard's.

A new "Reference Shelf" series is "The Welfare State," edited by H. L. Marx, Jr. It admits, as do most people, that since no one can agree yet on a working definition of the welfare state, the questions concerning it cannot be solved. The text does have chapters by such people as Pres. Truman, Robert Taft, David Lilienthal. Henry Steele Commager, Henry Wallace, Norman Thomas, Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., Herbert Hoover, Walter Reuther and many others.

"Goethe and the Modern Age" is the publication of the compiled speeches on Goethe and his views presented at the Goethe Bicentennial at Aspen, Colorado. Men like Karl Reinhart, Herman J. Weigand, Albert Schweitzer, Thornton Wilder, Robert Hutchins and others are presented.

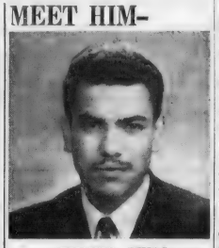
Those who love opera and don't know what is being sung will be interested in the set of Wagner's operas, "Lohengrin," and "Tristan and Isolde." Each contains the vocal scores in German and English and a table of motifs.

An immense book, approximately 8 by 12, is on Auguste Rodin and his works. It contains excellent full-page photographic plates of his works, and detail plates of the more important works. A text explains each work, and is also about Rodin, himself.

Of the same size as the above, but even thicker is "The Ancient Glass of Caterbury Cathedral," by Bernard Packham. It, too, has full-page plates of the important stained glass sections with the most important in color. The text explains each section, gives translations of inscriptions and explains the coloring of the black and white plates.

Of no particular interest to the majority of MC students is "New Naval Phraseology," but it should be interesting to language students even though the text is not of common phrases and dialogue. It contains every English nautical term or phrase and follows it in parallel with the Portugese, Spanish, Italian, French and German equivalent. Then it takes situations and gives the complete dialogue between naval officers and men, and does it in English and the above foreign languages.

BENEATH THE FOOTLIGHTS



Congratulations, Del, for writing an excellent play. And Experimental Theatre, too, gets congratulations for recognizing its merits, and producing it so well. A lot of credit should always go to the backstage crews, whose work is not always self-evident, but after seeing the unusual lighting effects, we're sure the audience appreciated the work of the crews.

It was worth waiting two weeks and sitting in the cold to see the half time band formations at last week's game. It's still a puzzle to us how the band, and especially the drum majorettes and flag bearers withstood the cold like they did.

Anyone who has a little extra money should save it for three very fine musical performances in the near future. The U.S. Marine Band will present two performances on November 12, and the Royal Philharmonic conducted by Sir Thomas Beecham will present a concert on the 17. Both of these organizations are world renowned and should prove very enjoyable to lovers of good music.

MEET HIM-

ARMANDO DIVAS

Armando Divas came to Maryville this year as a transfer sophomore from Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaton, Mass. He originally came to the United States from Guatemala because he was awarded a scholarship for engineering training by the Commerce Department of the United States Government.

His family had been converted by Presbyterian missionaries in Guatemala, and he had gone to mission school and to university engineering school.

In 1948, Divas decided to enter the ministry and transferred to Eastern Nazarene College. This year, on the recommendation of Dr. Edward Elson, pastor of National Presbyterian Church, Washington, D. C., he came to Maryville and is under the care of Washington Presbytery.

He likes Maryville very much and enjoys sports, such as pingpong and soccer, and other activities.

After his graduation, Divas plans to enter Princeton Theological Seminary and then go back to Guatemala and spend the rest of his life in church work.

BAINONIAN

Bainonian will meet in Bainonian Hall at 4:15 this afternoon. Dr. D. H. Briggs, professor of psychology, will demonstrate the lie detector.

ECHO FORUM

To The Editor of The Highland Echo:

War has touched Maryville College. Some of our fellow students have been called into the armed forces, while others are anticipating such action. The minds of all of us have been affected, with much of our talking and even our prayers reflecting the spirit of war that has gripped our nation.

And yet on this campus, as on other Christian campuses, there are those of us who conscientiously and wholeheartedly reject and renounce the way of war. Feeling that war is the outgrowth of selfishness, misunderstanding, injustice, prejudice and greed, we feel that the negative approach of killing one's enemies and bringing destruction and suffering all over the globe tends not to bring peace, but to breed more wars.

We, therefore, renounce this way which creates rather than destroys misunderstanding, which adds to the sufferings of mankind rather than to alleviate suffering and supply needs, and which thrives on bitterness and hatred rather than love.

We Maryville College students feel that peace is not a bad word, as some of our newspapers would have us believe, but that it is an extremely good and Christian word. Believing this, we wish to advocate peace wherever we go, endeavoring to build a social order based on love and reconciliation.

In believing that Christ was eminently practical when he advocated the way of turning the other cheek and when he told Peter that those who live by the sword shall perish by the sword, we follow in the steps of many early Christians who suffered martyrdom rather than take the lives of their fellow men. We follow in the steps of such outstanding contemporary religious lead-

●TONIGHT FOR THE FIRST YEAR IN a long time, Maryville's Scotties will really be the underdogs as they take on the Carson-Newman Eagles. Gone from the firing line for the first time in some 20 years will be Frosty Holt, twitchy coach of the Carson-Newman team. The ulcers and worries finally caught up with the venerable mentor last year and he wound up in the hospital for three months. However, he must be out to outlast Coach Honaker who was also out for a spell. He and several of his players were seen scouting at ETS in one of the Scots' better moments and last Saturday night, only two young gentlemen in topcoats were seen as they furtively crawled over the South stands. Could it be that Carson-Newman doesn't think much of us. The Blue and White Eagles are now under the tutelage of J. H. Stafford. We feel that the more they think less of us, the better. The series which initiated the bitter rivalry between the two began way back in 1903 with MC winning by a 72-0 score. Maryville has won 17 of the contests since then and C-N eight. And every time MC has lost by one touchdown she has come back the next year to win by that margin or less. The pair divided honors last year, MC on top 13-0 and then on bottom 12-20.

LET'S ALL GET ABOARD THE BUS OR OUR THUMBS AND CHOP THE HEADS OFF THOSE EAGLES.

●THEY HAD A BETTER TEAM than we did was the coaches' opinions after the heart-renderer last week, but the officials' calling didn't help us out any either. And we are inclined to agree. The officials doped off in several spots. When Hendricks Fox carried the ball down field in the second quarter to set up their second touchdown. Fox snapped the ball to Hays, who placed it on the ground, and Fox scooped it up and ran down field with is. The play was illegal on two points: the officials blew the whistle when Hays set the ball down and on such a play the lineman carrying a ball must face the opposite goal to which he is going and be at least one yard back of scrimmage. The other play was on Dick Mirshak's receiving of Fendley's attempted field goal on the three yard line. According to little black letters in the NCAA's handout, such an attempt is classified like a punt and can be run back. Herb Palmer and Jerry King hollered for Mirshak to run which he started to do, but the officials called for the ball and he had to give it to them. Not a soul was beween him and pay dirt but the miscue splotched the attempt in the bud. Though the plays had no effect on the game's outcome, they did hurt and put MC out of the game early. We don't know why it happens, but a team which is losing can never get any of the breaks when they are handed out but everything goes against them. After it was all over, one of the men who called the contest admitted that he had called a punk game, but what can be done about it? Nothing. Oh, well, here's more water over the dam and off our chest. One thing we will say is that if Ben Fendley hadn't been there, our ". . . .Christian Soldiers" might have won. Fendley really played a winning ball game. The reference to a certain song was one of those played by the what-some-folks-called—Austin Peay's "country band." The director played a trombone and shuffled in the mud with the best of them. But their brassiness could brass about because they had a football team to back up their pride.

●THE ORANGE WON over the Garnet in the Annual "Tin Cup" classic featuring stars of the Orange and Garnet pitted against each other. Tom Yeaworth's boots for attempted field goals were beauts though he was two feet wide on both occasions. Niftiest pass catch was Stanley Downes' catch in the first quarter which went almost all the way for the Orange but didn't. The Garnet had their share of stars too in the personages of Hugh Hamil and Bob LaFollette but they weren't enough. Pass interceptions by DeNagy, Holsinger, and Hamil, were the important plays and Holsinger's snag and run with a couple of minutes to go was the game's turning point. Though it wasn't as spectacular as it could have been, the calling of officials Jim (B-B Eyes) Lester, Jimmy Campbell and Lawrence (I'm tired) Major was entertaining and also pretty efficient. Thanx go to Dean Allison, Intramural Manager and Coach Johnson for lining up the game and making the "Championship Trophy" and ribbons which were handed out at the end of the game.

●CROSS COUNTRY ENDED WEDNESDAY with a win over William Jennings Bryan for Menges and company with the boys satisfied that they had put in another year of character and victory building. We will have a big splurge next week for Menges, Earisman and company. WAY TO GO, GANG!

●AT THE RISK OF A BROKEN NECK we are sticking our necks out in defense of the single wing offense which was ditched this year in favor of the T. There is something in our blood which gives us a perverse delight whenever an old-fashioned single wing team out slicks, out-maneuvers, and overpowers one of those streamlined T formation gadgets. The post-war "let's use the T, boys" vogue nearly relegated the old-fashioned single wing to the junk heap and made it seem like a relic of the days when players drop-kicked field goals from distance up to fifty yards out. But what has happened. The spectators have been grumping about the trend to the game of "Button, button, who's got the button?" It takes even a good grandstand quarterback time to tell and then the play's over with.

Among the teams which have been shocking spectators with their use of this new-fangled lineup which has a halfback on the outside of the end and a blocking back betwen guard and tackle are Princeton, Tennessee, North Carolina State, Pennsylvania, Michigan State and some team from Columbus, Ohio.

The Black and Orange of Princeton have been the goats upon which the wolves were to have descended this year for their use of the single wing. Charley Caldwell long had to listen to alumni and fellow coaches who wanted to know when he was going to get hep and start scoring touchdowns and forget about defense. This season, Caldwell came up against the Big Red of Cornell who under one Lefty James had also switched to a scrambled T though their master had been a single wing man under Carl Snavely at North Carolina. This was to be a test of which was better—old or new. And the dope before gametime was that the Tiger mentor was secretly praying for rain, thinking that only the great equalizer, mud, would give his team a chance. But when the firing was over, the score showed that the Tigers could have won in a desert or a cloudburst. That's how superior the single wing of the sons of Old Nassau was.

And fans watching the ball had a much simpler time: there was the ball right out there in the open, beginning with a center putting both hands on the ball and hurling it through the air to one of the men who had lined up some five and six yards back of the scrimmage line. Why this was unorthodox! Cornell's line would smash 'em before they even got to the line—why everyone could see what thy were going to do! Yes, even Cornell could follow the path of the ball, but it had its hands full in trying to stop it.

Fans began seeking the advantage of this new system. A back could get his steam up well back and then blast his way through a hole made by two men blocking one. But this was a sissy thing to do: two men on one. Who ever heard of that. Why anyone knows that one man on one is fast enough for a halfback to have a hole. And to make it even fancier, there was some play called a "fake reverse" following something called a "spinner." When it was over Princeton had rolled downfield some 356 yards (297 on the ground) while holding the Ivy League champions to 27 on the ground. Something had happened to the game.

But this new system was still pretty much of a "dodo". Some team featuring a halfback named "Reds" Bagnell had scuttled Dartmouth whose coach Tuss McClaughry, had also given up the single wing for the T after a "short time of use" of the former. Playing tailback on this over-shifted offense he had only ground out 490 yards in 18 tries to set some kind of a new record with bullet passes and off-tackle smashes. Somehow or another, he had also completed 88 straight passes to his ends against "surprisingly weak" opposition. Another team using this new offense, Michigan State had somehow slipped over Notre Dame, one of the "Old Guard." Some team from the mountains of Tennessee, I think they call them the Vols, had also won another victory. And some team called the "Nuts" from Columbus, Ohio, where people don't even think of football as a fall time diversion, but would rather play chess, had a rather measly per-game scoring average of 43 points. Another "hillbilly team," Wyoming, was far behind in scoring 41 points a game to their opponents five. Methinks but that the game of football is going to the dogs.

The above is slightly sarcastic in some respects but we still think the single wing is a pretty fair formation: When playing in mud there is little chance for a fumble because of the lack of a pitch-out, there is some protection for the runner, and a small lineman can team up with another cohort to manhandle an opposing lineman who otherwise would smash each of them single-handed. And a smart team can work just as many "foolers" off of it as off of the T. What many of the coaches over the country are doing is to throw out defense and concentrate on out-scoring the other team.

But who are the leaers in defensive play this year—why Ohio State, Army, and Wyoming—single wing addicts save for Blaik's blocks of granite who always have stressed defense. One thing that happens when the "slow-motion" single wing is used is that the ball is held longer in slowly grinding out pulverizing yardage but the possibility of long runs is not ruled out. And thuogh we don't know too much about football, we are inclined to think that the same rule which applies to basketball—the longer you have possession of the ball, the less the other team has a chance to score—can be applied to football. If our two readers think that this means we would like to see the return of and use of the single wing next year after the disastrous bunch of losses which use of the T has put us (though we'll win one with it yet), they are absolutely right. And as for me and my house, we'll stick with Red Grange, Broncho Nagurski, Knute Rockne, and Uncle Charlie Moran.

Ben Fendley Leads Rout Of Scots With 29 Points

Maryville College ended its home stand for the 1950 season and again Scot fans went home disappointed as Austin Peay's Governors won again, this time by a 35-0 score. Last year, the Governors initiated the Scots' losing streak in a 20-14 setback and with much the same team again plastered the Highlanders with mud, footballs, and cleats.

Maybe . . .

Maryville opened the game with lots of zip and held the Governors of Dave Aaron pretty much to a standstill and kept it up during the second quarter until Dick Mirshak was hit hard back deep in Scot territory and the ball scooted from his arms, Balthrop, defensive end for the Clarksville team recovered on the Orange and Garnet eight. Two plays later John Cron banged through center for the TD. Fendley came in and booted from placement.

Charlie Allen returned Fendley's kick from the five to the 26 and Scot hopes burst to a new high one play later. Dick Mirshak started around left end, found himsel trapped, reversed his field and swept around right end with the aid of a key block and raced 31 yards down field where a combination of the mud and one of his own player's being in the way forced him to slip and fall. A plunge through the Governor's eight-man line failed as did two Allen passes and Allen kicked out on the five.

The Governors again started on the march but Bob Wheeler, big frosh tackle fell on an AP fumble to stop that. Maryville could not gain enough and when an Allen to McClelland pas failed to get the necessary yardage, the Governors took over.

Four Blind—

Merwin Bourne and freshman John Cron alternated in carrying the ball from their own 32 up field and then downfield where Charlie Quarles helped by throwing in eight yards around the ends on two plays. This set the stage for the game's most controversial play. Hendricks (The Old-) Fox snapped the ball to Hays, the quarterback. Hays "dropped" the ball between the "Fox's" legs and he picked it up and ran to the three. The play fooled everyone on and off the field save the Red and White team. The official's whistle had blown when Hays' "fumbled" the ball but since "he didn't have possession of it," Hays could pick it up and run. MC'ers were vehement on this play and even Coach Lombe Honaker who usually has

Thinlies Win Third In A Row Over W. J. Bryan

Scots Run Today In Return Meet There

Maycumber Sets New Record But MC Fills In Middle

Maryville's cross country team was again the proud possessor of a three-game wining streak when they made it number three in a row over William Jennings Bryan U, Wedensday, 23-38. Again it was a member of the other team who won the race but Maryville got the all-important second and third spots and then filled up the rest of the middle.

This afternoon, if nothing gets crossed up, the Scot thinlies will travel to Bryan's four mile course for a return meet.

New Speed Mark

Randy Maycumber of Bryan set a new course record in running MC's 3.2 mile course in 16 minutes and 37 seconds. This topped the old mark held by Art Perkins of Sewanee which was 16 minutes and 47 seconds. Right on his tail were Bill Menges and Del Earisman of Maryville who also approached Perkins' mark but did not eclipse it. Bryan got the number four spot on a fine race by Dick Malone but from there on down the line, Orange and Garnet jerseys were the only ones seen.

Here's How MC Won

Ric Rogers of MC was fifth, then came Dick Kerr, Dave Williams, Tom Kelly, and Jimmy Thurston. Don Walker of Bryan was tenth. But here again came a host of Orange and Garnet jerseys. Running unattached, Al McCulloch and Dave Helwig came in for Maryville ahead of Don Kontz of Bryan who overtook Neale Pearson of the Orange and Garnet on the last lap.

Then came Darwin Neddo, Bryce Christie, and Jack Eddleston of Bryan. Harold Black, of Maryville, edged out Eddleston on the final half-mile. Since McCulloch, Helwig, Pearson, and Black were running unattached, their finishes were not official and Bryan got the 12, 12, 13, and 14th official places.

MC Outruns Sewanee

Saturday was a red-letter day even though it was snowing as the Maryville Cross Country team journeyed to Sewanee and defeated the Purple and White, 24-32. In the meet held the Saturday before, the Orange and Garnet thinlies had won by a 20-41 score. Coach Earl Shotwell's number one man, Art Perkins again led the pack in winning the race but had little help from his teammates further on down the line. The Tigers' captain won the four-mile course in 22 minutes and 57 seconds. The meet was run during half-time ceremonies of the Sewanee-Wabash football game in a driving snow which slowed down times considerably.

Way To Go

But after this, it was all Maryville's meat and potatoes as Captain Bill Menges crossed the finish line in 23.43 followed by Del Earisman of Maryville, Dave Williams, of Maryville, and Elliott Puckette of Sewanee. The last two were the ones whose presence changed the score from that of meet ran on the Maryville course. Williams was eighth on the MC hill-and-dale course and Puckette, a victim of stomach trouble finished 14th in the previous week's run.

Still surprising folks and coming in seventh was Tom Kelly of Maryville who crossed the tape behind Dick Hagon of the Sewanee septet. Ric Rogers of Maryville was eighth ahead of John White and Jimmy Thurston. John Stewart wound up eleventh followed by Dick Kerr and Dave Helwig of Maryville and Cliqunoi and Pilcher of the Sewanee team.

SOCCER

Pi Lumbago continued to run out in front of the rest of the rest of the league by beating United Nations, one to nothing. They remain undefeated, their record being marred only by a tie with Y.M.C.A.

Y.M.C.A. has yet to be beaten, but they have been held to a tie three times and are two points behind Pi Lumbago in the standings. They posted a win and a tie last week to gain a point on Pi Lumbago.

Standings:

Pi Lumbago	6	0	1	13
Y.M.C.A.	4	0	3	11
Pre-Min.	2	2	5	9
United Nations	3	4	2	8

Theta Alpha Phi Meets, Changes Point Requirement

At a banquet-business meeting held Thursday night, members of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic fraternity, revised their constitution to meet the Delta chapter needs. Main revisions consisted in changing the number of points earned for roles and jobs connected with Playhouse productions.

In the field of acting-directing, a student may earn 10 points for a leading role in a major Playhouse production:

Supporting role	5 points
Minor Role	3 points
Walk-on role	1 point
Assistant Director	3 points

Staging

Stage manager	8 points
Assistant Manager	3 points
Lighting Manager	5 points
Assistant	2 points
Script and Sound	3 points
Properties Chairman	3 points
Make-up Chairman	3 points
Costume Chairman	3-5 points
Crew job	1 point

Business

House Chairman	2 points
Publicity Chairman	3 points
Tickets	4 points
Committeemen	1 point

Writing

Writing a play which is produced will earn 20 points provided the play is a full length, three act play. Writing a small play will earn 10 points, while adapting a play, 5 points.

The twenty points required before applying for membership in Theta Alpha Phi must be distributed in three fields: acting, directing, and writing as one, business, and staging. A total of five is earned in each field with the remaining five points accumulated in any other field.

10 Point Limit

New rules say that a student may not earn more than 10 points in any major play and that in addition to the twenty point requirements one hundred hours must be spent in the Drama Laboratory in Bartlett.

Major roles, stage manager, or director of an Experimental Theatre production will earn two points, while a small part or crew position will earn one point. Anything else in this field is one point.

Those who are interested in Theta Alpha Phi or who have questions concerning the new systems are urged to speak with members for information. Members are George Barber, Jim Dance, Phyll Jackson, Bill Starr, Joe Poland, Dave Reed, Jim Townsend, Arch Swartrauber, and Mrs. W. Curtis Hughes, faculty advisor.

Athenians See Film

Athenian will hold its regular meeting tonight in the Chem lecture room at 6:45 despite the C-N game. The main attraction of the session will be movies shown by Al Springfield.

Chuck Holsinger is in charge of the program.

9 Singers Named To 1950 Madrigals

Nine members of Vesper Choir have been named as 1950 Madrigal Singers. At present the group is working on a program of Christmas carols to be used at a Vesper Service and to be presented to the Kiwanis Club on December 13.

Those selected for the group are sopranos Evalyn Smith, Rosalie Munson, and Margaret Ann Warren; altos, Ruth Nicholas, Gloria Measamer, and Betty Hammers; tenors William Robinson, William Cunningham, and Gerald Williams.

Joseph Poland

Active in the politics of the campus having served as president of his class in his sophomore and present president of the Student Body, is Joe Poland, economics major from Beverly Shores, Ind.

A four year honor student, Poland is a member of the cheerleading squad, of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic fraternity; and Maryville Playhouse, serving as vice-president this year. He was on Chilhowean business staff in his junior year and served as treasurer of Athenian in that year also.

The matter of the attitude of a Christian youth toward war is one which vitally concerns every Maryville College student.. How wonderful it would be if those members of our student body and our faculty who thus believe in the power of constructive reconciliation, as opposed to the negative way of violence and war, could know each other and receive the mutual encouragement of having fellowship with those of kindred mind.

There are a number of students here who do believe that Christian pacifism and positive reconciliation provide the way to peace. To those who feel this way, let me remind you of how much it would mean to all of us to know who the others are who conscientiously share these convictions.

To those who do not share these convictions, may I ask this question: which is the greater risk—taking a chance on global war with hydroogen bombs and many other modern weapons yet to be discovered, or taking a chance on the way of love and reconciliation? College students have their lives before them. Which risk will Maryville College students take?

For your consideration,
John Laney.

IRC Hears Lloyd On Federal Aid

President Ralph W. Lloyd will speak to International Relations Club Monday, November 13, at 6:30 p.m. in the ethics lecture room on the second floor of Thaw Hall. His subject is "Why I Am Opposed to Federal Aid to Education." A question period will follow.

At the club's next meeting on November 27, Dr. David H. Briggs, professor of psychology, will speak on "Why I Favor Federal Aid to Education."

Austin Peay again welcomed this opportunity and the Hays-Fendley combo went to work. Five plays later, Guess-who circled left end and booted the placement.

Guy Smith Speaks, Students Arrange Town Services

Guy Smith, editor of the "Knoxville Journal" and chairman of the Tennessee Republican Party, will speak to the college class of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church tomorrow at 9:30 a.m.

The class is continuing a study of Communism and Mr. Smith will discuss "The Republican Party's Answer to Communism."

College class, Andy Clark, president, will lead at New Providence Presbyterian Sunday School tomorrow at 9:15 a.m. A solo will be sung by Evalyn Smith, June Hood will be at the piano; song leader is Jake Peppers. The prayer and scripture reading are by Ann Leeder and Nanette Enloe.

Rousey Leads

At the First Methodist Sunday School Shirland Rousey will lead the devotional and George Day will act as song leader.

Baptist Sunday School devotional is to be led by Joyce Toomey. Members are urged to be present to sign up for the program of having dinners in town homes.

All-Star Foot Ball Game

Orange All-Stars Whip Garnet, 7-0

The long-awaited game between the outstanding players of both leagues was finally played last Tuesday night and those who attended were treated to a well-played, spirited ball game.

It was nip and tuck until late in the fourth quarter when Chuck Holsinger intercepted one of Hugh Hamil's passes and raced back thirty yards to the Garnet two. Jim Kren sneaked over for the score from his center position after one of the backs catching a Yeaworth pass. Tom Yeaworth, who had missed field goals from the forty-five and thirty-five by scant inches earlier in the game, added the extra point.

The hard charging Garnet line stopped the Orange ground attack most of the evening, but Yeaworth's aerials kept the Orange offense rolling. Hugh Hamil supplied most of the Garnet offense, getting away on several twisting runs, but the Orange defense always seemed to rise to the occasion.

Scots Tackle C-N Eagles On Gridiron

With Ashe at left half John Jennings will play right half. Jennings has been terrific at times this year—being their ace in the hole—and may get loose tonight. As for Carson-Newman's line, it'll be another 200 pound average group of behemoths facing the Scots. Particularly strong are the C-N guards and tackles—the middle of the line.

King Berrong will be back in the lineup tonight after having been out several weeks with a shoulder separation, King Berrong may get a chance to play against MC's big rivals—but the hurt shoulder may preclude his throwing of the ball around and Charlie Allen may get the nod at quarterback with Berrong going to full. During the past week, the emphasis was on pitchouts and for the first time this season, the Split-T seemed to be working out as it was intended to be.

For those who can't make the game WGAP will in all probability carry it at 8 o'clock, Tune in!

Hughes Conducts Annual Orchestra Concert, 8 P.M.

By Mary McConnell

W. Curtis Hughes, will conduct the College Orchestra in its first concert of the year tonight at 8:00 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Included in the program are "Symphony No. 184" ("London" Symphony No. 7) in D Major by Joseph Haydn; "Russian and Ludmilla" (Overture) by Nichael I. Glinka; and "Marche Slave" by Peter I. Tschackovsky.

Because of the lack of seating capacity of the Music Hall, it has been requested that all the front seats be filled before the back seats are taken. This will make it easier to seat as many students as possible."

The College Orchestra, one of the oldest organizations on campus, presents two formal concerts each year, and usually has a student guest accompanist or soloist at one of these concerts. This year there are 28 members in the Orchestra, which is now working on the orchestral accompaniment for the annual presentation of the "Messiah".

Davies Issues Set Of Rules Covering Use of Lounge

Miss Katharine C. Davies, Chairman of Fine Arts Division, issued a set of rules governing the use of the new Center Lounge this week.

1. Use of the lounge and kitchenette shall be restricted to semi-official college affairs.

2. The lounge and kitchenette are not to be used for purely social affairs.

3. Any activity held in the lounge must be sponsored and attended by a faculty member. Application for use of the lounge must be made in writing a week in advance of the date to Miss Davies and have the approval of the maintenance committee.

4. Any breakage or loss is to be paid for by the parties using the lounge. The kitchenette and lounge are to be left clean and in order. All linens must be laundered, ironed, and returned within three days.

Faculty Appoints Seven New Muses

Seven new members of the Muses have been appointed by the faculty committee, with Art Instructor Charlotte Johnson in charge. They are George Caldwell, Florence Clark, Janice Eaken, Louis Evans, Doris Holt, Connie Howell, and Mary Wilkes.

Not only majors in the fine arts are chosen for the organization, but students interested in the arts in general. It is not a club, but a committee which plans programs in the arts which would be of interest to the whole college.

Every year one or two members of the Muses are carried over. This year they are Laurie Dale and Fred Sieber. New members are appointed every year to spread the interest over a large section of people and not restrict it to one small group.

Spaniards To Meet, Elect

Spanish Club will not meet next Thursday, Thanksgiving, but instead will meet on Nov. 27, the following Monday for election of next semester's officers and program.

Sigs See Doll Show

Theta's Doll Show will highlight Alpha Sigma's meeting tonight at 6:15 in the Y Rooms. Attendance is required for an important business meeitng, according to Rolfe Duggar, program chairman.

Wed. Town Night, Voting Suggestions Made By Council

It was announced that Wednesday night, November 22, would be officially Town Night instead of the preceding night by President Joe Poland at last Wednesday night's Student Council meeting in the Center lounge.

The Smoking Committee reported from the Senate meeting that the "Big Steps" will continue to be designated as officially approved smoking grounds until a better place or improvement can be made. Professor George Howell and Archie Swarztrauber were appointed to look into plans for keeping receptacles in the area and keep it cleaned up.

A letter from the College Hill Grille was received asking that the Grille be included in Town Night boundaries. No action will be taken on the suggestion this semester, similar requests having been received from various establishments throughout town.

Voting Procedures

Continuing a two week discussion on probable improvements in MC's voting procedures, Council set forth some suggestions concerning elections:

1. Petitions will be available on Tuesday morning at 7 a.m. of the election week in the spring.

2. Petitions will be due at midnight of that same day with 75 (an addition of 35 signatures over previous requirement) signatures on each one.

3. Campaign publicity will begin on Wednesday of the election week, continuing all day, and must be down by midnight of that same day.

4. A political rally will be held on either Wednesday night of the election week or Thursday morning following chapel on the election day.

5. Voting will be held one day, Thursday.

6. Should it be necessary, a run-off will be held on Friday, the day following the voting.

7. Possible increase in the number of voting places on campus was suggested: for example, outside the College Post Office.

8. In connection with suggestion No. 7, that there be an increase in the number of voting places, it is suggested that voting lists be done away with and that each voter be marked with a chemical known as Orange No. 2 after he has cast his ballot. Should a run-off be necessary, the same method with a color change will be used Friday.

9. Election results shall be held for the Saturday edition of the Echo.

Motions

A motion was carried to have the Election Committee of Student Council review election procedures and draw up a current code of ethics. A second motion to leave publicity methods up to each individual candidate and his manager rather than have Council set up rules concerning it was also passed.

Considerable discussion as to the number of rallies to be held was finally culminated in the motion that there be an Introduction-Rally on Thursday, election day, following chapel with details worked out by the Elections Committee.

A second motion was stated to hold an optional Wednesday night rally for the benefit of those desiring it held under the auspices of the Council.

Walker, Noted Art Curator, Visits MC

John Walker of Washington, D. C., Chief Curator of the National Art Gallery, visited the college's Fine Art Center Wednesday while spending some time with his grandmother, Mrs. John Walker of Maryville.

From 1935 to 1939, Walker was associate in charge of the Department of Fine Arts of the American Academy in Rome, and during the war he was special adviser to the American Commission for Protection and Salvation of Artistic and Historic Monuments in Europe.

Watson, Newman Read

Sue Watson and Dick Newman will read at Writer's Workshop Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. in Dr. Hunter's classroom. Their work will be criticized by Newell Witherspoon and Dr. Hunter.

At the last meeting, Nov. 15, Bill Holt read a play in verse, entitled "When I Died Last." Ruby Jean Harris read a humorous essay on flies and a short description entitled, "An Impression." Carol Corbett and Doris Somerville criticized.

Copies of "Chips," annual Workshop publication, can still be had for thirty-five cents from any Workshop member or member of the English faculty.

Student Vols See 'Lonely Journey'

"Lonely Journey," a color film, will be the main feature at Student Vols Sunday night in Bartlett Hall following Vespers.

"Lonely Journey" is the story of an Indian leper woman and her wanderings before she was found by a leper colony. This movie was produced by the American Mission to Lepers.

In charge of the program are Sue Watson, Anne Kirkpatrick, and Naomi Burgos.

'Stairway To The Stars' Becomes Theme Of Alpha Sigma-Theta Epsilon Dance

"Stairway to the Stars" is the theme of the Theta Epsilon-Alpha Sigma sponsored fall dance, to be held Saturday, December 2 from 8 p.m. in Alumni Gym.

There is no admission cost; dress is informal. There are to be no corsages, stags will be admitted, and music is to be recorded according to Carolyn Marshall and Charlie Flood, general chairmen.

Committeemen

Committee chairmen are J. A. Cameron and Peggy Kettles, decorations; Jessie Dye and Wilma Borter, refreshments; Jay Bright and Peggy Kessler, publicity; Jim Townsend and George Barber, lighting and set; and Bob Moser and Bill Menges, music.

Sid Lambert and Ken Hammond are co-chairmen of the clean-up committee.

Socialist Party Leader, U-T Professor, Students Will Conduct Classes

Dr. C. C. Cloud of Knoxville, Chairman of the Tennessee Socialist Party, will speak to the college class of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church School tomorrow at 9:30 a.m.

He will discuss "The Socialist Party's Answer to Communism."

Charles Chamberlain of the University of Tennessee faculty will teach the lesson at the First Methodist Sunday School. Leader of the worship service will be Earl Helms, and George Day will be the soloist.

Nancy Dunn, representative from the high school class, will lead devotions at the Broadway Methodist Sunday School. Ralph Reed will teach the lesson. At 8:30 a.m. the high school and college classes will have breakfast together at the church.

Diana Ross will lead the devotional service at the First Baptist Sunday School. The lesson will be taught by Mrs. G. H. Traylor. All those signed up for home dinners should be sure to be present.

Radio Airs Show, 'We Are Thankful;' YM Hears Negroes

Y Radio will present a Thanksgiving drama entitled "We are Thankful" over WGAP on Monday night at 9:30.

Those taking part in the play are Sara Jo Emert, Lucy Carrick, Grace Myers, Bill Starr, and Joe Poland. Gloria Measemer will sing a solo as part of the program.

The Negro Misison of St. Paul's African Methodist Episcopal Church in Maryville will present a program to YM this Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in Bartlett Hall.

Howard Lawson is in charge of the program. A chorus of the negro children from the Mission will sing spirituals and dramatize the story of Zacheus.

Ath-Bains Meet Jointly

Athenian and Bainonian will meet jointly this week to hear a program called "What's Your Line?" in Bartlett at 6:15 tonight.

Panel of experts will be Carol Corbett, Jim Dance, Arch Swarztrauber, Bill Starr, and Lynn Miller. Master of ceremonies will be Chuck Holsinger; music will be by Glenn Watts.

Former Barnwarming Festivities Exhibit Development In Originality

By Carson Seeley

Atlantis, Mars, the Mardi Gras—what thoughts of romance or mystery do they bring to your mind? Perhaps you also at one time or another have wanted to visit other planets, sunken cities, or world-famous pageants.

And, as most people do, you have dismissed them with a flourish. Atlantis is a myth; travel to other planets is improbable. Maybe the trip is just too expensive. These answers brand you as being a freshman. Now we must not berate our frosh for their lack of knowledge. It is merely that they have not had time to view the capricious whims of Maryville.

MC can claim the distinction of having had visits by the Mardi Gras, the Big Top, the Old Show Boat. Possibly excelling these would be the conducted tours through Atlantis, Mars, or a Futuristic Fair.

But what guiding light, what magnetic attraction is there that brings these colossae to our venerable campus? It is our own YW and YMCA.

Origin: Nostalgia

In days of yore, when many of us were not, there was no Barnwarming but there were many homesick students. Showing initiative, the girls planned a carnival for Thanksgiving evening. Under the auspices of the YMCA it became an annual affair.

In 1929, however, the carnival did not meet the deadline and an impromotu barnwarming was held. From that time it has grown and flourished, rivalling even a Cecil B. DeMille epic.

During 1930 two momentous occasions occurred. Dr. Lloyd was inaugurated and our staid and conservative Echo omitted the news of Barnwarming.

As the years progressed, so did the price. Witness 1931's ticket price of 10 cents, 1933 was possibly the least expensive—to the boys—it was "Dutch Treat."

Barnwarming for '34 proved quite memorable. Two debuts were made, one by the boys' tumbling team, the other by the first Barnwarming King. Evidently some of the former queens complained of being lonely. The faculty has taken part many times in Barnwarming. Two of their more popular booths were 1935's "House of Horrors" and 1949's "Freak Show." Taking advantage of Mother Nature's moist affection for MC, the old Show Boat docked at the gym and presented students with talent akin to that put on by General Robert E. Lee or the Natchez.

'50 Extravaganza Reviews Life Of The Half-Century

By Sally Brown

This year's Barnwarming festival, "The 1950 Golden Jubilee," will open in the Alumni Gymnasium Thanksgiving evening, November 23. Booths lining the Avenue of the Half Century will open at 7:00 p.m. Traditional presentation of the court, which has been kept secret and which is comprised of the king, queen, and her attendants, the class sponsors, will be made at 8 p.m. The court will reign throughout the remainder of the program.

Five booths, each representing one decade of the half-century are a 1900-1950 Photography Studio in charge of Pat Lewis, a 1910-1920 Competition Shop set up by Barbara Scott, Lynn Miller's 1920-1930 Theatre, a 1930-1940 Music Shop kept by Hazel Wood and Beryl Stewart, and a 1940-1950 Food Booth managed by Janet Cummings. Reminiscent of the entire half-century from 1900-1950 will be a Museum under the supervision of Mary Kelton.

Reed Is Emcee

Dave Reed will announce the court and introduce George Caldwell as Grandfather. Caldwell, in turn, will start a story to his two grandchildren, Ruth Mason and Clarence Reaser, which will extend over the last fifty years.

Included in the cast of the "Jubilee" will be Susie Martin, John Shew, Bev Jacobi and Wally Schroeder, Sara Jo Emert and "Eight Brats," Betty Hammers, Gracie Scruggs and Jody Richardson, Joe Poland, Bill Starr, "Murt" Kennedy, Peg Kettles, Jim Hunt, Joe Stater, and The Ballad of America chorus.

Barnwarming, the annual Thanksgiving presentation since 1926, is jointly sponsored by the YWCA and the YMCA. Tickets priced at 35 cents each went on sale yesterday. All townspeople and students, including those in the cast, must have tickets.

Indian Fund

In deviation from the procedure of several years, proceeds of the program will not be sent to the World Student Service Fund, but will be sent directly to aid student education at the United Christian Schools, Jullunder City, East Punjab, India. This school, one of the first coeducational institutions in India, is under the direction of Methodist and Presbyterian foreign mission boards.

Barnwarming chairmen are Judy Breen, "Happy" Huddleston, and Ruth Nicholas. Tom Kees, George Barber, and Ruth Nicholas are working on the decorations and set. Irene Mellon and Sherman Lester are business managers. Mary Wilkes and Bev Jacobi are in charge of publicity. Jackie Lenderman, Joyce Lenderman and Betty Lester are working on costuming.

Court procedures are being handled by Pat Love and Rosemary Gambill. Allan Caldwell is doing make-up. Music directors for the show are Johnny Sayre and Dick Ribble. Dance routines will be done by Maree Richards.

YM Council Holds Regional Program Clinic In Knoxville

Southern Area Student Council of the YMCA is holding a regional program clinic in Knoxville today from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. for the purpose of sharing ideas on varied Y programs. Full-time Y directors will give suggestions on developing programs and activities in the various Y organizations.

Maryville delegates are Dave Reed, Del Poling, Jim Kren, Howard Lawson, and George Ogle.

Exchange Program

Tuesday night, November 14, the YM gave an exchange program at the University of Tennessee which consisted of a short devotional and an explanation of the campus activities of our YM.

Those in charge of the program were Rolfe Duggar and George Howell; assisting were Ken Shaffer, Dick Ribble, Charlie Schroeder, Wally Schroeder, Dick Lane, Del Poling, Ralph Theisse, Jim Lester, Jack Waka, Dave Reed, and John Baird.

Church Schools Sponsor Annual Union Service

The annual union church school Thanksgiving service will be held at First Baptist Church Thursday, November 23, at 7:00 a.m.

Murt Kennedy will lead in the invocation. George Day is song leader and Glenn Gentry is organist. The scripture lesson wil be read by Peggy Hughes and music will be provided by a string quartet and the Schroeder brothers.

Dick Newman, Harriet Peters, and Tom Kees will offer prayer; In Sun Kim and Bill Varker are to speak. The benediction will be pronounced by the Rev. James Windham, pastor of First Baptist Church.

Participating church schools are Broadway Methodist, First Baptist, First Methodist, New Providence Presbyterian, and St. Andrew's Episcopal.

Case Preaches Tomorrow At Vesper Service

The Rev. Dr. Ralph T. Case, professor of sociology, will be the preacher at the vesper service Sunday at 7:00 p.m. in Lamar Library.

The Vesper Choir, under the direction of Harry Harter, will sing.

Lloyd Authors Article

President Ralph W. Lloyd is the author of "What We Have," a sermonette in the November 11 issue of "Presbyterian Life" magazine.

"One of the deep disallusionments of life," Dr. Lloyd writes, "is the discovery that so many of us, even in the church, are endeavoring, openly or secretly, to have and to hold rather than to have and to give. On the other hand, one of life's deepest satisfactions is the discovery of a Christian, . . . whose belief and principle 'What we have, we practice are built around the principle 'What we have, we give.'"

MC Directors Hold Fall Meeting, Nov. 21

The Annual Fall Meeting of the Board of Directors of Maryville College will be held Tuesday, November 21, on second floor Anderson at 10:30 a.m.

Chairman of the board is Judge S. O. Houston and Recorder is Joe Gamble of Maryville.

Theta Epsilon Meets

Theta Epsilon will meet in Theta Hall for a Thanksgiving program at 6:15 tonight.

A delegation of Theta girls will present entertainment to Alpha Sigma at the same time.

Fear Nor Favor—

Several Maryville students seem to be sorely disappointed that we of the Echo will not air their pet gripes, headlining them on the front page somewhat on the order of a Hearst newspaper—regardless of whose throat is cut in the deal.

Constructive criticism is of paramount importance to us but personal gripe-matters have no place in a college newspaper. Journalism is an ethical profession—not to be lightly treated by those who are a part of it. The purpose of this newspaper, as should be that of other newspapers too, is for the betterment of the community which it serves. Neither fear nor favor can be tolerated if a newspaper is to succeed in reaching this objective.

Neither the editorial nor the news comment of the Echo is censored by the administration and, in that respect, those who feel that the editorial policy of the Echo has sugar-coated some issues under pressure are wrong.

We will publish letters relating to any phase of our college life—and if we feel you are right, we will back you in trying to correct the deficiency. We have no intention now or ever of covering up anything. We do reserve the right to discard anonymous letters, feeling that those who are strong with the pen should be strong enough to take credit for their masterpieces.

This is your newspaper—we serve you! At the same time we respect your intelligence and your ability to discern what is sensible and for the best of all concerned.

American Heritage

Of all the holidays observed in this country, there is none so distinctively American as Thanksgiving. It is cherished because of the romance and traditions that the early Pilgrims gave it.

The origin of the day we now celebrate must be attributed to Governor Bradford of Plymouth. In November, 1620, the Pilgrims landed on the desolate coast of New England and passed the following winter with great suffering and privation. The following spring they sowed their seed and waited with great anxiety, for on the result depended the lives of the colonists. When the grain was cut and the harvest was found to be abundant, there was great rejoiieng, and the governor proclaimed a day of thanksgiving.

In the summer of 1623 the little colony was again facing starvation. A drought which began in May almost destroyed the crops. About the middle of July the Governor appointed a day for fasting and prayer. Soon after this the weather changed, saving the crops. About the same time captain Miles Standish returned from a voyage which he had taken to secure provisions, and brought with him not only food, but also news that a ship which was expected from Holland, been sighted. In acknowledgement of these blessings a day of thanksgiving was appointed and held on July 30, 1623.

It is probable that both these celebrations had their influence in forming our present Thanksgiving Day. The credit for bringing about a universal date is usually given to Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, who through her position as editor of leading magazines, and supplemented by her letters to various governors and presidents, served to create public sentiment in favor of the proposed national holiday.

The day was never observed régularly each year until 1864, when President Lincoln issued a proclamation appointing the fourth Thursday in November, with the view of having the day observed every year thereafter. President Johnson and each president since has followed his custom. On receiving the president's proclamation the governors of the different states issued a proclamation on their own, naming the same day. Thanksgiving Day is now observed everywhere throughout the United States and is kept as a legal holiday in almost every state and territory.

The Day has long been celebrated in Canada, where it is proclaimed annually by the governor-general. The date is now fixed as Monday of the week in which November 11 occurs.

So it is that we observe Thanksgiving Day each year. Let us be proud of our American heritage, and keep this important day as one of thanksgiving for the blessings of the year.

HOME, SWEET HOME

Latest reports from your statistician's calendar indicate that there are 32 more days 'til vacation. At MC "shopping days 'til Christmas" don't count. More exactly, there are 2,778,240 seconds until the end provided, of course, you read that line at 8:16 (short chapel) a.m. on November 18, 1950. It may take a little longer for some to get home. We understand that there are to be exams at the end of the semester.

BEHIND THE SCENES

Prof. "Dr." Bushing got a sample English text recently with an excellent illustration of Dante's Inferno. Overjoyed, he rushed over to show it to Miss Blair, who said: Heavenly days!

NO! replied Mr. Bushing, and added: If we use this text, I won't get to put my drawing on the board which proves I'm art by nature as well as Art by name.

OF THE RECORD

Most recent rumor being circulated around campus is that we're to have a holiday on the twenty-third. Don't believe it. Rumors are dangerous, and it's necessary for our welfare and security not to spread them. Anyway, this is just about the time of the semester when such rumors start.

MIO AMIGO

Bob Young asked D. L. Beard recently what he would do if he was locked in his room. D.L. said he'd holler through the transom, whereupon Bob grabbed the key, ran out, locked the door, and proceeded to band practice. When D.L. realized his shouting was to no avail, he made himself a rope from sheets and started out the window. Archie Masiloni who was just passing by pleaded with him not to do it, and got Mrs. Coulter, who unlocked the door. Bob is bruised because he and D.L. were so overjoyed at being reunited.

PARDON MY PASS

Maybe Miss Lilly Pilly in "Buz Sawyer" would give some money to MC. Even she couldn't complain about football here, noot when we put up a sign saying "Beat C-N Please."

ROGUE'S GALLERY

Bill Stein, a waiter, awoke one morning to the sound of buzzing razors and other early morning activities. When told it was 6:30, he dashed out of bed, dressed, and dashed over to Pearsons accompanied by the rest of the fellows. Upon arriving he noticed the strange darkness and the still, small calm. He demanded the real time. . . I a.m.! ! As is our usual policy, we let no injustices go unavenged. The culprits are Dan Buchanan, Ray Padgett, Homer Rose, Wayne Freehrer, Tom Gneiser, Bill Andrews and Bill Espenshade.

BRING A BUCKET, FELLOWS

Unless something drastic is done soon, the fellows in Carnegie will die of starvation. Their source of supply for Saturday and Sunday evening hot cheese sandwiches has been eliminated since the advent of soup.

QUIET PLEASE

Maybe the other clubs have trouble getting speakers, but not IRC. Last Monday, they had two expounding notables, Dr. Lloyd and John Jennings. Both seem to be well-versed in the science of circumlocution.

TIME TO TUNE UP

Our music department seems to be giving us a little more variety at the chapel services. After the trumpets in one of last Wednesday's hymns, the announcements were accompanied by some poorly tuned chimes on the steam pipes. Now that the semester is drawing to a close, the heat is being turned on in quite a few other places, too.

TALK OF THE WEEK

JOHN OLSON

The United Nations, there were disturbing factors occuring both in the display on the football field on November 4, and in a dormitory. While it is indeed praiseworthy to pay respect to the United Nations, elements were introduced into the pageant which were representative of a spirit unalterably opposed to worldwide efforts toward attaining peace.

Placing the American flag in a position obviously intended to represent a superior position of our country in the United States is not only factually incorrect, and politically unenlightened, but subversive to the principles set forth in the Charter of the United Nations.

The League of Nations was rendered impotent largely through the refusal of the United States to join. This refusal was brought about by the insistence of certain senators that the US not lose one bit of its sovereignity to a world organization.

The United Nation's greatest weakness lies in the promiscous use of the veto power in the Security Council. This veto power was included in the charter on the insistence of American delegates as much as the representatives of the USSR, and for almost exactly the same reason that the controversial restrictive clauses were to be made necessary before the US would join the League.

By this time it should be recognized by any thoughtful and observant person that as long as any nation refuses to give up part of its sovereignty, and become a member of an international organization purely on the basis allowed it in the charter of that organization, the cause of world peace is immeasurably hindered. As long as Americans, whether editing morning newspapers or producing exhibitions, insist upon a chauvinistic glorification of their own state, even if done in ignorance, they are contributing to a spirit which has been proven by two world wars, and the possibility of a third, to be destructive of peace (and possibly civilization).

The only proper way to conduct such a program would have been to secure a United Nations flag and to have given to it the place of honor granted to the American flag, which should have been included in the formation on an equal basis with the flags of the other member nations.

In conjuction with United Nations Week, an emphasis was placed upon a Crusade for Freedom, in which millions of people all over the world, including students of Maryville College, signed scrolls which, in effect, reaffirmed their faith in the dignity of man through the insistence that he be granted certain freedoms and exemptions from certain measures which would curtail that freedom. Yet, during the display on the football field, an incident was occuring in Pearsons Hall closely resembling the activities of a totalitarian state.

We do not question the legality of the administration officials entering and searching rooms for stolen articles in a college dormitory. However, freedom from search is one of the inalienable rights guaranteed every American citizen.

The dormitory rooms are in effect as much a home as a college student attains while at college, and we do question the moral right of an administration to enter and search rooms without the permission of the owners if those officials avow themselves to be preparing students to live in a democracy. If this were Nazi Germany or Communist Russia, such procedures would be expected but in a Christian college they are deplorable.

A dormitory sneak-thief merits nothing but contempt and at the same time it is better that one of these remain unapprehended than that the practice be instituted which would destroy the privacy and with it part of what little bit of freedom Maryville College girls are allowed. Lip service to a principle is not in itself bad, and it may be good, but, if it must be qualified by assertions of a spirit inimical to that principle and negated by actions in contradiction to that principle, then it were best dispensed with.

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

CAPITOL CAPERS

Showing at the Capitol Theatre Monday and Tuesday is "Three Little Words," a Technicolor musical starring Fred Astaire, Vera-Ellen, and Red Skelton. The film is based on the songs of Kalmar and Ruby, a song-writing team of the vaudeville days. Although the plot is thin, the dancing of Vera-Ellen and Astaire make it a highly entertaining movie.

"Mrs. Mike" is showing on Wednesday only. Evelyn Keyes is the young girl, fresh from turn of-the-century Boston, who marries a Sergeant (Dick Powell) of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They gain strength and faith in each other as they face the wilderness together. The actors' performances rank with the best of their careers.

"Wagon Master", starring Ben Johnson, Joanne Dru, Harry Carey, Jr., and Ward Bond, may be seen on Thursday and Friday. It is the story of a band of Mormons crossing the plains of Utah Territory, and is complete with beautiful scenery and menacing outlaws.

BOOK BRIEFS

On the New Book Shelf in the libary is "Your Amiable Uncle" by Booth Tarkington. It is made up of letters written by the famous author to his three young nephews, and is illustrated with his original sketches.

"Pioneer Life in Kentucky" is another book of letters. They were written by Daniel Drake, M.D., who lived in the late eighteenth century. The letters were intended for a family record, and give an intimate and detailed picture of farm and family life in an interesting period of American history.

"Human Starvation," in two thick volumes, would be of special interest to pre-med students. It tells about experiments that were carried on during and after World War II to study the effects of prolonged deprivation of calories and to find out means of rehabilitation.

Other new books are "A Barbarian in Asis" by Henri Michaux, "Scandinavia Between East and West," and "The Mothers."

ATTENTION, MUSIC FANS!

The College Orchestra, conducted by W. Curtis Hughes, will present its first concert of the year tonight at 8:00 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

The program includes "Symphony No. 104" ("London" Symphony No. 7) in D Major by Joseph Haydn, "Russian and Ludmilla" (Overture) by Nichael I. Glinka, and "Marche Slave" by Peter I. Tschaikovsky.

Because there is not enough seating capacity in the Music Hall to accomodate all those wishing to attend the concert, it has been requested that all the front seats be filled before the balck seats are taken. This will make it easier to seat as many students as possible.

ECHO FORUM

To Editor of the Highland Echo:

Once again we find in the Echo an article concerning those who made the "Who's Who" for college students. My curiosity was aroused and I looked in our library and could not find a copy of this "Who's Who" on the reference shelf or in the catalogue. There are six or eight other "Who's Who" books on the shelf.

It seems a bit odd that the library wouldn't have at least a sample copy. Checking with my home town library, including the Pennsylvania State Library, the librarians claim they have never heard of it. Now it seems that if it really meant anything, there would be more information concerning it available.

Questioning people about it around the campus brings forth the following dope: that it may be just a racket to sell books to those who get into "Who's Who" (and keys also). I don't know who makes the keys, but I see according to the article in the Echo that the publisher is not a well-known one.

Also the number selected for the "Who's Who" was small (as stated in Echo). It seems that there are three or four other "worthies" who could have been entered without even crowding the quota. Just what are the

To the Editor of the Echo:

Although it was gratifying to see Maryville College participating in the effort to acquaint people with, and arouse their sympathies for, such an admirable organization as the United Nations, there were disturbing factors occuring both in the display on the football field on November 4, and in a dormitory. While it is indeed praiseworthy to pay respect to the United Nations, elements were introduced into the pageant which were representative of a spirit unalterably opposed to worldwide efforts toward attaining peace.

Placing the American flag in a position obviously intended to represent a superior position of our country in the United States is not only factually incorrect, and politically unenlightened, but subversive to the principles set forth in the Charter of the United Nations.

The League of Nations was rendered impotent largely through the refusal of the United States to join. This refusal was brought about by the insistence of certain senators that the US not lose one bit of its sovereignity to a world organization.

The United Nation's greatest weakness lies in the promiscous use of the veto power in the Security Council. This veto power was included in the charter on the insistence of American delegates as much as the representatives of the USSR, and for almost exactly the same reason that the controversial restrictive clauses were to be made necessary before the US would join the League.

By this time it should be recognized by any thoughtful and observant person that as long as any nation refuses to give up part of its sovereignty, and become a member of an international organization purely on the basis allowed it in the charter of that organization, the cause of world peace is immeasurably hindered. As long as Americans, whether editing morning newspapers or producing exhibitions, insist upon a chauvinistic glorification of their own state, even if done in ignorance, they are contributing to a spirit which has been proven by two world wars, and the possibility of a third, to be destructive of peace (and possibly civilization).

●THE SINGLE WING ISN'T DEAD by a long-shot yet—at least not around here it isn't. Those who saw the C-N game, we are willing to say, will grant you that MC's Scots never looked better this season—for three quarters, at least. And for three quarters, we had hopes that we were going to win and it sure looked like it as MC gained on the exchange of punts all through the quarter. Then came the time out and the television weather—raw and cold—hit the dumbfounded Eagles and woke them up. They pounded out another TD as they did to open the second quarter play and then took advantage of a couple of breaks to administer the coup-de-grace with four minutes to go.

We still are inclined to think though that if we only had, not "Five Minutes More," but perhaps five seconds more in the first half, the Scots could have crossed into the Promised Land and then gone hog-wild in the second-half. The Eagles were hanging on the ropes at the half and again at the third quarter, but the bell truly saved them. But again as has happened in every game so far this year, the dam really broke in the fourth quarter and the gates were opened.

●THOUGH ONE NOTICES IT NOT, take a look over at the statistics on the C-N game. . . (if they are still there). . . . and what hits you in the eye? Nothing, huh? Well, take another look. . .especially at the number of passes completed by the other team. . . . ah, hah. . . well, what do you know . . .C-N completed not one pass against MC defense. Though they only threw three, the Eagles didn't complete a-one against the here-to-fore sieve-like MC pass defense. And while C-N Roberts was under-throwing, Charlie Allen was either over-throwing or doing like Roberts. MC ends were open for the first time this year good but the passes weren't there. And the ones that were there were our "Missionary" passes, a phrase of Coach Honaker—we gave them to C-N out of the goodness of our heart. Allen and Roberts have been walking around the past week with the rather ignominious appellations of "Colorblind" as referring to their "Missionary" work in dangerous countries. Statistics also show that MC outgained C-N on the ground 180 yards to 170 before the fateful fourth which shows the extent of ball the Scots were playing before all hang broke loose and they fell apart at the seams. But Allen Glad, the Garrens, Herb Palmer, and the rest have to be congratulated for their parts in making the re-birth of the single wing somewhat of a success. We'll win with it tonight!

●STATISTICS FOR RUNNING now instead of passing show that King Berrong who has taken a layoff from carrying the ball still with the best avg. while Charlie Allen has the most—Allen carrying the hide 22 times for 108 yards in a real day's work against Carson-Newman.

Player	Tries	Yardage	Aver. Per Try
Berrong	18	92	5.11
Campbell	23	76	3.30
Sharp	21	46	2.19
Allen	81	243	3.00
Glad	35	151	4.31
Mirshak	23	72	3.12

●SOMEWHERE ELSE ON THIS PAGE is a story concerning Maryville's honored bunion-burners who have hung up their socks for the last time this season save for the Intramural Meet which they plan to run off next Monday and a big feed somewhere which no doubt will entail some long walking to get to. Over the last three years, Bill Menges, Del Earisman, Jimmy Thurston, and John (running on the sidelines this year) Baird have seen the Orange and Garnet triumphant in 11 of 16 meets with UT, TPI, Sewanee, and William Jennings Bryan. Though the sport was rather unknown when they first began bringing home the lean slabs of bacon, right now it is coming into its own and maybe next year, the boys will be making a little overnight jaunt to Atlanta for meets at Emory, Fort Oglethorpe, or Georgia Tech (we beat them in wrestling also). Next year will also see a possible match on Homecoming Day between the probably-broken-down-and-decrepit Alumni of the past couple of years and the 1951 team. The 1951 team will also have a burden on its shoulders for Sewannee—which has yet to win a meet in six encounters—will have all its veterans back from this year and especially "Gunshot" Art Perkins. And William Jennings Bryan, just starting, but in a big way, will have its newcomer, Maycumber (Let's hope he's a cucumber by then). All we can say is that they have left an enviable record which will really leave those who are coming back with a high mark on which to set their goal.

●SHARPENING THE AXE is on tap tonight when it'll be do or die against Georgetown. What Dickovicky, Young, and company, will be wondering about and which may give the Scots a slight advantage is that the Pioneers—we didn't see one of their Scouts at C-N—don't know for sure whether it'll be a T, single wing, or what offense, tonight. Their defensive work is tossed out. Perhaps we should write a defense of the scrambled-eggs formation and see its effect on the team. The names of the Pioneer operatives above are those of their left half and fullback who have been giving the opposition much trouble from their Split and Straight-T formations and also short punt. Tomorrow we hope to see Union Barbers——, ——, and ——in action in front of Pearsons. WE'RE GONNA WIN TONIGHT BY JINGOES!

Honakermen Hit Road; Play Tusculum Pioneers

SCOTS HAVE TOUGH GAME ON HANDS

In their next to last game of the season, the Highlanders of Maryville College will travel to Greeneville, Tennesse, and a game with the Pioneers of Tusculum. The Scots will be primed for a win on this "do or die" battle which will determine whether or not they will end the season really on the deficit side or have at least one win to their credit.

Tusculum, 6—ETS, 2!

Football hasn't been faring too well at Greeneville for Tom Armstrong who was on the two elevens which beat MC. But he has won two ball games over Hiwassee (14-0) and (read this slowly) East Tennessee State (6-2). The ETS score was in none of the surrounding area's papers (perhaps for obvious reasons) and was received by the Echo only through the Football News. Woe be it to the Scots, then, who went down to the Bucs, 33-14, for the Pioneers "will be a bunch of wildcats" after that upset. In games with Centre and E&H, the Pioneers have also fared better than MC.

Another T Team

Armstrong's team runs off the straight T 90% of the time and also off of the Split-T and Short Punt. His big threats are right half Tony Dickavicky, 160 pounds, and Ernie Carleomagni, at full. Roger Hays at quarter and Larry Mans round out the starting backs. Joe Young and James Letchford are the sub backs who play anywhere.

Tony Alvarez, Arthur DeFillipo, and Mike DeCarlo anchor down the line from the two guard spots and right tackle.

Eight Men Charging

The two guards will lead a line that nine-tenths of the time will have eight men charing the ball. DeCarlo, a 250 pounder, played left end in the '47 and "is a god boy." The rest of their line is Russell Baker at left end, Leonard Kuwalkik at the left tackle sport, Allen Tischbein in the middle, and Bob Anderson at the right terminal spot. Tusculum has a lot of pas plays and flanker formations and with the ETS game in mind will really throw the book at the Scots.

Ends Are MC Hope

Maryville has been working on reverses and passes for the past week along with conditioning because of the last quarter collapse against C-N. The stress on the end runs and flips has been necessitated because of the charging pioneer line which made E. and H. cough up the ball on fumbles seven times despite their loss which was failure to cover on punts returns, mainly.

"If we don't win this one, we ought to hang up our usits."

WGAP will carry the game at eight o'clock.

Probable starting lineups:

MC	Pos.	Tusculum
Keny	LE	Baker
Walker	LT	Kuwalik
Isenberg	LG	Alvarez
White	C	Tischbein
Lester	RG	Defillipo
Larson	RT	DeCarlo
Cox	RE	Anderson
King or Gibson	QB	Hays
Allen	LH	Maing
Vananda	RH	Dickovicky
Sharp	FB	Carleomagni

Eagles Rally To Win

Scot Offense--Defense Collapses

Saturday night's game with Carson-Newman saw the return of the single wing from antiquity and antique formation almost carried Maryville's Scots to a victory over their foes, but Father Time and his minions caught up in the fourth quarter.

The Highlanders were trailing but by a 14-6 score and were backing the Eagles up toward their own goal line on each exchange of punts as the whistle blew ending the quarter. The momentary respite seemed to do the Eagles of J. H. Stafford some good for the Maryville defense and offense seemed to collapse after this point. Evidently hollorings from the sideline coaches had their effect and quarterback Pat Evans got it into his head to run an optional play over tackle or end with the ball remaining his on a bootleg or else pitching it out to one John Jolliffe, newly entered into the game. Evans, Bill Jennings, Jollife, and Billie Bales alternated on the play and within seven plays, Jennings had cruised around left end for 21 yards and a score. Jennings booted his third point of that many tries but it was of no matter.

Carson-Newman took the kick-off and marched to Maryville's ten yard line but the Scots fighting line held with inches to go and drove C-N's Carl Roberts back on fourth down with a one yard loss.

A Pleasant Surprise!

And then the surprise was sprung into action! Charlie Allen and Harold Glad began punching a the line and sweeping the ends off the single wing and couldn't help but gain as they peeled off four straight first downs. The Orange and Garnet were now down with five to go. But the pass went awry and Wallace Myers, defensive center, intercepted the now "colorblind" Charlie Allen's pass, and ran it back to the MC 40.

Jennings Jaunts

This time the Highlander line couldn't hold and after six plays which saw Jenings and Bales doing most of the carrying, Roberts got the chance to plunge over from the six for the game's first score in the first play of the second quarter. Jennings made a perfect emplacement.

The teams switched hands on the ball twice and Carson-Newman's Eagles found themselves in possession of the ball. Roberts, on a gamble, passed and Dick Mirshak intercepted on the Orange and Black 32. But after an Allen to McClelland pass garnered 18 and a chain-mover, two end sweeps and a reverse failed and MC kicked. Bales gained another first down as before and Jennings carried.

Scot Thinlies End Winning Season

Highlander Thinlies Win Fourth Meet In A Row Over William J. Bryan

Last Saturday, Maryville's Orange and Garnet thinlies travelled to Dayton, the home of William Jennings Bryan University, and a triumph over said home-team, 23-36. The victory was the fourth in a row for the hill-and-dalers and ninth in eleven starts over the past two years.

Maycumber Again—

Randy Maycumber won the race for the Bryanites with the scintilating time of 21 minutes and four seconds but 'twas for naught as the powerful Maryville middle-section contingent came through. Bill Menges ran a sterling race, his last one for the Orange and Garnet—and was followed by Del (Mule) Earisman—also running his last race. Dick Malone again came in fourth for the Bryan-ites followed by Tom Kelley whom he edged in the last 200 yards when the latter though the finish line was where it curiously wasn't—200 yards short of the real finish line. Dave Williams and Ric Rogers followed in order to sew up MC's win. Don Walker of the home team bested his showing of the week before and came in eighth ahead of Dick Kerr and Jimmy Thurston of Maryville. Don Koontz also liked the advantage of running on his own "touch-the-bridge" course coming in eleventh ahead of unattached Dave Helwig of MC. Darwin Neddo, Bryce Christie, and Jack Eddleston finished in the running and all were of WJB.

The Season's Work

Now for a brief summary of the season's work: Eleven veterans came back from last year's undefeated squad determined to try and extend their five-game winning streak. But luck befell them from the first. Neale Pearson and John Baird went out the first week of action. Baird, a guy with guts if there ever were one, came back with doctor's orders not to run. Pearson's was another case. He began running, bothered only by what he thought was a sprained ankle. It was found later that the ankle was broken just enough to put him out for the season. Two down and one to go. George Day, another veteran, quit because of studies. As a result it was a weakened MC team which met the mighty Vols of UT on October 7 and again on October 12th.

Holmberg Has First . .

In both cases, UT's Alf Holmberg led a UT team to smashing victories. The first time it was 17-42, the second time, 15-45. Holmberg, the transplanted Swede, won the first race in a tie with John Trent in 16:59. Frank Albertson was third for the Orange and White and Captain Bill Menges of Maryville was three seconds behind at 17:30. In the second encounter run over the UT Cherokee Boulevard Course, Holmberg came in by himself with a time of 16:18. Trent, Albertson, Kuydenahl, and DeVault came in in order before MC's Menges and Earisman.

But MC Wins Middle

A member of the other team's runners won the race again but the thinlies discovered once again an ancient secret weapon. They let Sewanee's Art Perkins win in 16:59 but then filled up the middle places to deprive the Purple and White of any advantage gained. Bill Menges led the Orange and Garnet pack in, followed by Del Earisman, Ric Rogers, Tom Kelly, a surprising fifth, Jimmy Thurston, and Dick Kerr. Dave Williams, came in eighth but since he was running unattached, his eighth-place finish did not count. Score of this meet was 20-41.

And Finishes Sewanee

Then came a trip to Sewanee on the next week end and a meet run in the snow. Perkins again won with Menges right behind despite his having to run without glasses since glass-shield wipers weren't available. Captain Menges was followed in by Del(Mule) Earisman, Dave Williams, a sophomore transfer student ,and Elliot Puckette of the Sewanee team. Puckette was a victim of stomach trouble in the previous meet but managed to have an empty stomach the second time and came in fifth. Tom (Wobblin' Sam) Kelly came seventh behind Dick Hogan on the four mile course.

And William J. Bryan

William Jennings Bryan University of Dayton started a cross country team this year—one of few schools in this section to do so—and the Scots were invited to run.

MC rooters didn't know what to expect of the newcomers to the Scot schedule much less the fine performance turned in by the victors Randy Maycumber who set a new course record with a 16 minute 37 second job over the 3.2 mile jaunt. But the same thing which jinxed Sewanee was the downfall of the Bryan Septet. Maryville let Maycumber have first but plugged up the whole

Soccer ended appropriately enough last Tuesday when Pi Lumbago and Y.M.C.A., the league's two top teams, met in the season's final game. Y.M.C.A. needed a victory to gain a tie for first place, and Pi Lumbago needed a victory or a tie to annex this year's championship..

The game was hard fought with both teams missing various opportunities to score. Bill Menges' goal late in the game put Pi Lumbago out in front and they were never caught.. Final score: Pi Lumbago 1, Y.M.C.A. 0.

Final Standings:

PING PONG

The Intramural Office has announced that a Ping Pong Tournament will begin Monday, November 20th. The draw sheets will be up in the Student Center and all contestants are to enter their own score. Come, all you whizzes. Here's a chance ta test your skill.

BASKETBALL

Twenty teams have signed up for the Intramural Basketball League and play will start this week. The teams will be divided into two leagues, the top teams of each meeting in an elimination tournament at the end of the season.

CROSS COUNTRY

For those who do not care to bat around a ping pong ball or run around a basketball court, the Intramural Office has arranged a cross country meet. The big event will be held Monday afternoon (time to be announced) and participation is restricted to those who did not letter in the varsity sport of the same name.

There will be an Intramural players meeting Monday at 1:00 p.m. Basketball rules will be discussed. Dean Allison, Intramural manager, also anounces that any team manager, seeing him the week before schedule is posted, may be able to have his games re-arranged if his team-members have a test, etc. on some weekday—not Saturday.

Anyone wanting to referee, though doubting his ability, can sign u pand signify if he is willing to keep time and score since the later are needed—gives 100 rocks.

Carl Dreshcher is leading the Golf Tourney with 147 for 36 holes—if you haven't played, do so, or the ribbons will go to him.

For A 4-2 Record

The meet with WJB there last Saturday was the last in the careers ran by Menges, Thurston, and Earisman. It was also the last for John Baird who assisted Coach Kenneth Johnson in turning out a winning team for the third win in a row. . Lettermen were Menges, Earisman, Rogers, Williams. Kelly, Kerr, and Thurston.

Others who didn't letter but who will help form the nucleus of next year's squad, which will have tough opposition, by sticking it out all season were Dave Helwig, Al McCulloch. Harold Black and Neale Pearson, who came out and jogged the course in the WJB meet.

gobs on leave.

When MC students visited Mars in '41, an interesting revelation was made. Food at Pearsons would be served in the form of pills, maybe in various colors. While students were learning that, they held their noses—as sulfurous fumes drifted by, emitted by a slowly descending rocket ship in which the king and queet sat.

As we near our own times, Dr. Edwin Hunter was seen as Winston Churchill in the war-time "Mazdadaze." In '48 the Mardi Gras paid a glamorous visit and last year, befitting a Tennessee locale, came "County Fair."

This year, appropriately amid all the celebrations of this Half-Century year, comes "Golden Jubilee." It promises to excell—see you there!

WIN NOBEL PRIZES FOR LITERATURE

William Faulkner Bertrand Russell

Drum, Merrick, McGaha, Barnett Heard In Recital

Tuesday afternoon a Student Recital will be held at 4:30 in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Participating in the program will be Sara Drum who will play Reinhold's "Impromptu, Op. 28, No. 3," and Lesta Merrick who will play Brahm's "Intermezzo, Op. 116, No. 4." Lena McGaha will play "Sonata, Op. 13, Grave, Allegro" by Beethoven; Carol Barnett will play Mozart's "Fantasia-Sonata in C Minor (K 475), Allegro."

on the 16. The Maryville fans went wild on the south side of the field as they saw Harold Glad trip-hammer his way over center for 14 to the two and then over right tackle for the final two and a score. Jimmy Callaway came in to kick the all important kick, but his try was low. Callaway had been warned of the field's sloping downwards but his kick, though true in respect to the posts, was a foot low.

Possession of the ball was exchanged with the quarter about half over and another Roberts' pass was intercepted, this time by the other Garren, Homer, on the 47 and ran back to mid-field.

Allen went back to pass, found no one open and hustled around right end for 20 yards to the 30. With the clock making its last round. Allen hit blocking back King Berroog on a delayed pass for 11 yards to the 19. Glad then carried into the center on a buck lateral play handing off to Bill Gibson who in turn pitched out to Allen who carried to the ten as the whistle blew ending the half.

Push-Em Back

The Highlanders were now called "The Redhots" and piled back onto the field determined to win. And win they might have for the defensive line of Palmer Walker, Cox, McClelland & Co. held and on Allen's punts gained. As the quarter ended, the Eagles were being slowly pushed back to their own goal and let Allen's punt die on the 21,.

Then came the rest period four plays later and C-N had 14 to MC's six. The game's turning point had passed.

Two of Them

However, the Highlanders held on gamely till four minutes were left in the game and Bales hit tackle on the forty and went all the way for a TD—getting excellent blocking all the way. Jennings' kick was good again with the score now totalling 21-0.

Jennings booted downfield and Dick Mirshak moved after the ball. But the elusive pigskin bounced off his chest and upfield where Ed McBroome recovered on the 22. Bang, bang, and Jerry Conners was over on a quickie from the 12 with 30 seconds left in the ball game. MC got one more chance but an Allen pass was intercepted by R. L. Ballew in the middle and Roberts' carry over guard ended the ball game.

IT SEEMS TO ME-

By Dick Newman

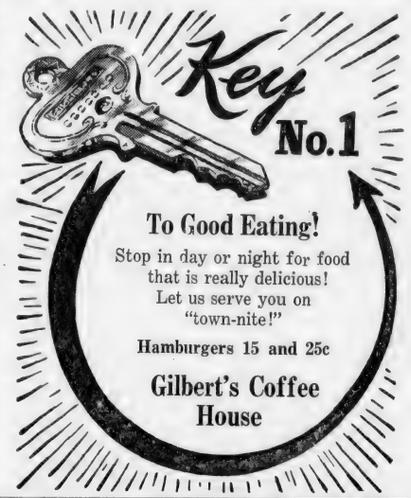
Things have to give way to science, or something that passes for science, we're told. In fact, we're told that just about all the time by somebody who wants to go around changing things, mechanizing things, "improving" things one way or another. And society, or civilization, rushes on, in an almost do-or-die frantic haste to streamline itself, almost as if it had a deadline to make.

But some things, little things, are lost sometimes: that kind of makes you wonder about what it is that's passing for progress, and if it's worth it to take the losses that are bound to come.

This year the college library has devised a new system for checking out books, one that doesn't take the time or bookkeeping of the old system where you had to sign the little card in the back of the book. Now you just sign a card that doesn't stay in the pocket in the back of the book, but gets thrown away when you bring the book back.

Maybe it's sentimentalism or nostalgia or something (and it doesn't pay to get accused of that), but this new system seems kind of cold and hard, somehow, without any question but that it's more efficient and streamlined.

But, personally, that list of signatures in the back was the first thing we looked at when we considered checking out a book. It gave it a sort of personality in a way, an index to character, and a key to the kind of company it kept. And if we wanted to associate and identify ourselves with it, we added our own signature—with the sure knowledge it would stay with the book as long as there was room for another on the card.



Well, that's gone now. The intimacy of that personal relationship of a book with the people who read it has had to be sacrificed in the name of progress and science. We don't have much case except sentimentalism, but we miss it somehow. And we intend to go on reading those names—and adding our own!

Breen, Clark Become 1950 Royalty At Barnwarming's 'Golden Jubilee'

By Claire Hoffman

Seniors Judy Breen, English major from Anniston, Ala., and Andy Clark, philosophy major from Pittsburgh, Pa., were crowned 1950 Barnwarming King and Queen at the annual festivities held Thanksgiving evening in the Alumni Gymnasium.

Looking Through

The drama for the festival was called "Looking Through Grandpop's Photo Album of the last Fifty Years." George Caldwell as the grandfather showed his album page by page to his grandchildren, Ruth Mason and Clarence Reaser. Each of the six pictures appeared as a tableau in a golden frame and then became animated.

The first picture, in which the family went on a picnic and saw a bathing beauty contest, took place in 1905. In 1910 the picture was of a schoolroom and a teacher who had eight unusual children. The third picture was a scene during the first World War, and the fourth picture showed life at MC in 1925. The family Christmas during the depression era was shown next, while the last photograph pictured a canteen in Italy during the second World War.

There were five booths, each of which represented, one decade of the halfcentury. They were a 1900-1910 Photography Studio, a 1910-1920 Competition Shop, a 1920-1930 Theatre, a 1930-1940 Music Shop, a 1940-1950 Food Booth, and 1900-1950 Museum.

Committee Heads

Booth girls were Pat Lewis, Barbara Scott, Lynn Miller, Hazel Wood, Beryl Stewart, Janet Cummings, and Mary Kelton.

College Class Has Big Square Dance

College Class of Broadway Methodist will entertain with a square dance next Tuesday night, November 28, at 7:30 p.m. jn the church gymnasium. In charge of the program are Rolfe Duggar and Bob Navratil who invite all to come "stag or drag."

Featured on the program will be the musical talent of Johnny Sayre, Hayden Bryant, Barbara Link, Alice Kelly, Gracie Scruggs, Jody Richardson, Wally Schroeder, Charlie Schoeder, and a Mystery Quartet.

Refreshments are in charge of Mo Wright, Murt Kennedy, and Myrt Watkins and the square dance will be called by W. T. Kleinsasser.

MC Directors Hear Of Growth, Elect New Staff

The Board of Directors of Maryville College met last Tuesday, November 21, for the fall meeting with President Lloyd giving its twentieth annual report. The development of the past twenty years and the guiding principles for future years were stressed.

Judge S. O. Houston of Knoxville was re-elected Chariman of the Board for another year. He has now served 18 years. Attorney Joe C. Gamble of Maryville was re-elected Recorder and Secretary for the second year. Rev. Dr. Frank M. Cross of Birmingham was re-elected Vice-Chairman for the third year.

Committee Additions

Two new members were elected to the Committee on Administration, Rev. Donald A. Spencer of Chattanooga, and Rev. Chester F. Leonard. Leonard has been the director of the Presbyterian Community Project with its headquarters at Vardy. Members of the Committee on Administration who were re-elected are A. D. Huddleston of Maryville, and Rev. C. E. Barbour of Knoxville. Ex-officio members are President Lloyd, Judge Houston and Joe Gamble.

The members of the Committee on Finance were continued for another year. They are Joe C. Gamble, Clyde T. Murray, Hugh R. Crawford, A. M. Brinkley, and Dr. R. W. Lloyd, all of Maryville; F. E. Barkley of Knoxville, and R. J. Maclellan of Chattanooga.

Alpha Sig - Thetas Sponsor Fall Dance

By Phyll Jackson

Maryvillians will whirl to the music of the big name bands next Saturday night as Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon present "Stairway to the Stars," their annual fall dance. Dancing will be from 8 p.m. in the Alumni Gymnasium.

Dress is informal, ruling out corsages and admission cost. Stags will be admitted, according to Carolyn Marshall and Charles Flood, dance chairmen.

Moser, Menges on Music

Helping to transform the gym into Paradise will be Peggy Ketles and J. A. Cameron in charge of decorations; Wilma Borter and Jessie Dye on refreshments; Jay Bright and Peggy Kessler on publicity.

George Barber and Jim Townsend will execute the lighting and set design; Bill Menges and Bob Moser are in charge of music. Sid Lambert and Kent Hammond are co-chairmen of the clean-up committee.

Second Spin

"Stairway to the Stars" marks the second time Theta and Alpha Sigma have sponsored a dance this year. According to the rules drawn up last year governing such occasions, the two social societies also sponsored "Moonlight and Roses" dance as part of the May Day celebration last semester.

Athenian and Bainonian will present their first formal next spring and in turn will be the sponsors of a dance next fall.

Dr. Lloyd Travels, Attends Council Held In Cleveland

President Lloyd will be in Cleveland, Ohio, next week for the formation of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the USA. He is chairman of the Presbyterian (USA) representatives to this convention to which Dr. C. E. Barbour is also a representative.

The organization of the National Council is considered a "significant development in cooperation in the history of the American Church." Its constituency will include ninety per cent of the Protestant church members in the US.

Eight Merge

The National Council is being formed by the merger of eight principle inter-denominational bodies which have grown up in this country during the past half century.

The merging bodies are:

(1) The Federal Council of Churches, consisting of 27 major denominations with 28 million members.

(2) The Foreign Missions Council of North America, composed of 99 church boards and agencies, representing 54 denominations.

(3) The Home Missions Council of North America, composed of 37 Home Missions boards and agencies of 22 major denominations.

Council of Church Women

(4) The International Council of Religious Education, representing 40 denominations and 33 State Councils of Churches.

(5) The Missionary Education Movement of the US and Canada, representing 29 denominations.

(6) The National Protestant Council on Higher Education.

(7) The Council of Church Women, which works through 1,720 state and local groups, and represents approximately 10 million church women.

(8) The United Stewardship Council, representing 28 denominations.

'50 Laurels—

Comes the end of a very sad season, some say. We'd like to stick our necks out long enough to say they are wrong. Statistically speaking, this hasn't been Maryville's harvest of laurels on the football field, if you are looking for triumphant scores and victorious scores. But intermingled with the seemingly inevitable defeats has been victory, immeasurable by outward appearances.

First has come the undaunted spirit with which our Highlanders have met each new foe. Faced by being under-dogs every time and with the fact that they were not backed 100 percent by the student body, they never gave in. We'd like to throw out a few verbal orchids to each one of the team and say thanks for lots of things which also come under the heading of victories.

Secondly, the Pep Committee under the terrific leadership of one Jim Townsend has done a remarkable job of keeping the cheers loud and long. Campus displays as well as pep rallies boosted morale, Jim. So to you and each of your committee comes some more gratitude.

Under difficulties sometimes, the cheer leaders deserve their share of the credit for backing the '50 team, for they followed the men to each fray. With them went a band of loyal MCer's, bugles and all.

Still further extending our necks, we'd like to see the day when Maryville too will summon athletes with scholarships. We've had some winning teams without such but in this day when schools, small and large, are attracting the tops in brawn, it does seem as though we too might profit by such a move. It is admirable when a high school hero puts out his all on the collegiate gridiron because he really loves the game but the temptation to play for tuition-pay is becoming stronger and more convincing.

We'd hate to see another such season go down on the record when it would be possible to replace our graduation losses with some additional winning material.

—PAJ

Thanksgiving Evaluation—

Perhaps Thanksgiving Day does not lend itself to evaluation. Perhaps all appraisals should have been made before Thursday. But Thanksgiving at Mayrville seemed so significant that The Echo feels responsible for offering congratulations in two fields of endeavor on that day.

The union church school Thanksgiving service was in complete keeping with a spirit which is admirable and noble. The ecumenical movement is really effective only when it reaches success on the community level. The cause of the world-wide church is helped immeasurably by just such services as these, in which members of different ecclesiastical and denominational groups forget minor points of difference and unite in common expression. The real meaning of the brotherhood idea of our faith is discovered only in its actual practice; the ecumenical church is a reality in our lives only as we make it so.

Worthy of more than appreciation was the entire Barnwarming show Thursday evening. Done on the grand scale which is difficult to do well, the show's clever theme and excellent display of new talent made it one of the best of the semester. The dedication of the program to the year's stage crews is one which is long overdue. All in all, the outstanding set and the quality of several of the sequences made it one of the better programs.

For the spirit of the union service and for the good job of Barnwarming. The Echo extends congratulations and the hope that future services and programs will take their cue from that spirit and that quality.

Scots & Soda

"OLD FAITHFUL"

Jim Watt and his girl really personified school spirit when they waited in the early morning cold for a pep rally. However, Jim, it was after chapel, not at 7:45.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Maybe it doesn't mean anything, but the lights in Dr. Lloyd's office have often been on late at night recently.

THAW HAW!

When Millard Stephens was asked where he was going as he left chapel that frigid Tuesday morning, he replied: "I'm going to Thaw."

FINE? ARTS! DEPARTMENT

The 1950-51 wrestling schedules for Coach Davis were placed in Miss Davies box in the Personnel Office. Nothing serious happened since Coach Davis is a member of the "Fine Arts" faculty.

THE FROZEN TOES WOES

Diana Ross was in such a hurry to get back to the dorm after chapel that she couldn't take time to go around the fish pond. She had to go through it. Early morning tub, Diana.

INFORMATION PLEASE

Any doubt about the statement that librarians are repositories of useful knowledge was removed recently. We happened to gaze down at the cartoon 'neath the glass on the circulation desk. It showed a grinning hubble sitting beneath the library's "Quiet" signs, saying: "I always bring my wife here. It's a great rest for me." Of course, it does not seem to work with the couples at MC.

ATTENTION FROSH

Although the "Golden Jubilee" should be hot stuff, don't worry. It won't be a hot enough barnwarming to have another chapelwarming like we had several years ago.

I DON'T BELIEVE YOU

After explaining a statement in class, Dr. Briggs said: "Now watch the board while I go through it again."

WISHFUL THINKING

That hopeful gaze on some junior and sophomore countenances is caused by the realization that '50-'51 marks the end of the trial period for special studies. They are now due for re-evaluation.

FACTS ON FILE

Tusculum enrollment: Two hundred men and forty-seven women! Wow!

QUOTABLE QUOTE

"The best years of a man's life are those before he stumbles and Mrs."

ENJOY YOURSELF!

Happiest people on campus probably are the seniors whose comps are over, the seniors whose "bachelor's theses are done, and the other studes who remembered just in time not to cut classes the two days before and after Thanksgiving.

JUST REMINISCING

Turkey dinner, cranberry sauce, pumpkin pie, the family car, classical music, "Fido," That Girl, and, naturally, Mom and Dad.

HOLIDAY HABITS

Some planned to do their homework before the holiday and have the day off for pleasure, but found themselves doing homework.

Others planned to catch up on back work during the day, but found outside pleasures attracted them more. And some just slept.

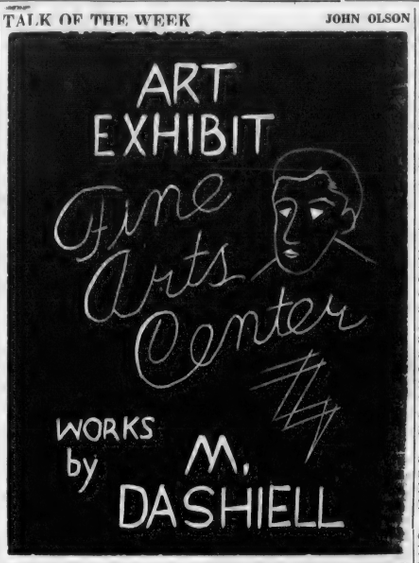
PASSING GLANCES

Dick Newman is the only fellow we know who needs a cane for help because of a broken rib. Incidentally, someone (a frosh, probably) though he was one of the Board of Directors.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

Has the Personnel Office noticed the increase in new cars and the like on campus? Wev'e seen an Olds 88, two others Olds, thre enew Chevvies, two Buicks, about four Plymouths, two Studies, a Ford and a new Nash (betcha can't guess whos). Wonder where they came from? ? ?

RECENT CONGRATULATIONS



We hear that Sherman Lester very romantically gave Irene her diamond on Thanksgiving eve with "Here, take the (censored) thing!" Congrats anyway—we like you lots.

GROWING UP!

What with the advent of 12 o'clock privileges for Pearsons gals, we wonder what's the next rule to be gone with the wind.

TALK OF THE WEEK — JOHN OLSON

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

"THE HEIRESS"

Movie-goers at the Capitol this week have some excellent movies from which to choose. Coming Monday and Tuesday is "The Heiress;" Wednesday, "Quicksand;" and Thursday and Friday, "Abbott and oCstello in the Foreign Legion."

Town-Nighters will have the opportunity to see an excellent prize winning film, which has received wide acclaim from critics across the country. "The Heiress," starring Olivia de Havilland, is based on Henry James' novel "Washington Square." Long before psychologists put a tag on every straying thought, great poets and novelists knew what went on in the mind and could create human beings who in turn often revealed to the reader his own motives and desires. In fact, at one time, these works often served as a valid introduction to life. Just so it is James' novel which gives it a tremendous impetus, and gathers force in the direction until the film seems a record of what would inevitably have happened to a girl deprived from childhood of the affection which she needed.

Olivia de Havilland plays Catherine Sloper, daughter of a wealthy doctor, whose devastating discovery that she is unloved, both by her father and by the handsome fortune hunter to whom she has given her heart, threatens to turn her into a recluse. Miss de Havilland's voice is admirably suited to the heroine's stilted speech, so that her excessive shyness never seems assumed, though she never makes the girl seem retarded, as Wendy Hiller did in the stage version. Sir Ralph Richardson, too, makes a living person of the bereaved doctor who can not bear the fact that the life of his beautiful wife was the price paid for an unsatisfactory daughter lacking in feminine graces. In his cool patience, his always measured kindnesses, he makes one see that the doctor actually thinks he is a good parent and loves his child. Montgomery Clift plays the suiter. The script, written by the authors of the play of the same title, which had a year's run on Broadway, is a masterpiece of good plotting, with dialogue that is always in character. In addition to its love story, which is timeless and unusually suspenseful, the film recreates New York society of a century ago with authentic and beautiful settings and costumes. This is literate and absorbing entertainment of the first order!

"QUICKSAND"

"Quicksand," starting Mickey Rooney, sketches in realistic detail the steps by which a boy, with no criminal record or recognizable criminal tendencies, goes from petty theft to near murder in the course of a few weeks. Although the plot elements are a little too neatly planned for real life, nothing happens which couldn't have befallen a young man trying to buy himself out of one tight spot after another. Rooney goes through the paces oof crime without ever seeming involved and Barbara Bates seems a mere device, as if the plot needed a "good girl" at certain points. Jeanne Cagney is convincingly hard bitten as the girl who leads the stupid boy astray.

"FOREIGN LEGION"

"Abbott and Costello in the Foreign Legion" relates how Bud and Lou get themselves into the Foreign Legion (quite by accident, of course) and the experiences they have while there. They are involved in a desert war; get lost and have a bout with several mirages before they find an oasis, complete with a fish equipped with false teeth; and rescue a parcel of maidens. All very silly, but funny, if Abbott and Costello are favorites of yours!

Plans are still rather uncertain at the Park, and bookings were not available for release by publication time.

INTER SANCTUM

Among books between the book ends on the New Book Table in Lamar Memorial Library this week are Paul Brickhill's "The Great Escape;" "Government and Politics of China," by Tuan-sheng Ch'ien; "An Interpretation of Shakespeare," by Hardin Craig; "The Spanish Gardener," by Archibald Cronin; "Roman Society from Negro to Marcus Aurelius," by Sir Samuel Dill; "Concept of the Corporation," by Peter Drucker; "Manual of Botany," by Asa Gray; "Seventy Years of Life and Labor," by Samuel Gompers;

ECHO FORUM

To The Editor of the Highland Echo:

Although it is gratifying to find that some students in Maryville do take an interest in the half-time ceremonies presented by the college band and an interest in the United Nations organization, we would like to suggest that before any more articles such as the one written last week are presented that the authors do a bit more research before signing their names to a writing which we feel shows a great deal more sensation than thought.

In the first place our half time ceremony was designed to honor the United States as drawn up in the UN Charter as it stands today. The United Nations is nothing more than is stated in its charter, namely, an assembly set up to arbitrate any disputes between nations involved. If we were honoring the possibility of a future Federal World Government, the thoughts of the previous article we are sure would be greatly appreciated. The UN today is, and is not said to be, nothing more than a loosely connected confederation of sovereign countries. Someday, perhaps, and it is the hope of all democracy loving people ,the UN will evolve into a world federation. Until that time let us do our best to honor the UN as it stands today and work toward the future rather than condemn the past.

As for the second point pres-

Sports Echoes

By Neal Pearson

●SO CLOSE AND YET SO FAR were the only words left to express sadness over the loss to Tusculum's Pioneers last Saturday. And how did the Pioneers win? Well, they scored their TD on a play that they picked up from Maryville some four or five years ago—on the play the quarterback or blocking back pitches off to the tailback going around right end and then loafs down the left side for a pass. Carl Simpson passed to Barry Mains and the play which beat Tusculum several weeks ago beat MC this year—paradox or something, I guess. Other hash-making remarks on the Tusky-game. Though MC's Press Box situation is nothing to brag about—and we hope the situation is alleviated—that up at Greeneville was worse. When certain people from Maryville arrived at the field and at the press box atop the one stands, it was found that there was no one spotting for Maryville, keeping statistics, announcing a P.A., or even handing out programs. So, to clear up a muddy situation, Lee Cook and others volunteered to do the job with the result that MC students were doing what the home team should have been doing. On the same grounds, we found out that WGAP was the only radio station carrying the game—the Greeneville station carrying the Silvertone Sisters—a revival program—we wonder if our team is really that bad.

Also along the line of radio-casting, it was reported over the radio that Charlie Allen was hurt late in the last quarter.—Well, that was one of our usual errors as probably most of our three readers know. On the play in question, Allen hustled around right end, there was a pileup, Allen was picked off the ground and escorted to the sidelines. But the truth of the matter wa sthat one of he Pioneer players had tackled Allen "above the ears" and was trying to wrench the ball loose. It seems that Allen didnot appreciate what the young gentleman was doing and tld him to get off his back. The next thing that happened was that both players weer kicked out of the game for unsportsman-like conduct.

Now, we are for clean-playing (probably too much) but we doubt the legality or the need for such a thing. The expulsion of Allen certainly didn't help MC's cause any. Along with Harold Glad's injury, some ten plays earlier, the loss of Allen put a definite crimp in the MC attack which was moving goal-ward way with two minutes to go. . . Another radio error was that of the omission of Dick Mirshak from most of the game's play—over the radio, that is. When giving Ted Lyons, the announcer, the pregame dope, we inadverdantly omitted Mirshak's name from the lineup and when we discovered the error at halftime—due to a mixup in our minds on jersies—it had gotten into the head of Mr. Lyons that Mirshak was Bill Vananda. Both did play, but Mirshak didn't get any recognition. We're sorry for hat . . . . Though Allen and Glad were on the sidelines, Ken Yunkers and Grant Sharp really took over admirably. Yunkers was a house afire in "slashing" off 68 yards in 17 attempts and Sharp didn't do so bad for himself either. Yunkers figured in the saddest play of the night when he carried in the third quarter and got the upper half of his body over the goal line, but not the ball—being hit from one side and spun backwards. Oh, for a man to have hit him from the back or "ears high." It was really a black moment in Scotty football history.

●BETTER WATCH OUT, TOM—This impertinent phrase is one concerning the results of the Intramural Cross Country Meet. Al McCulloch knocked off a minute and 44 seconds from Tom Kelly's record. Wobblin' Sam did the course in 15:43 last year while the frosh runner lowered it to 13:59. The course was shortened some by the removal of "the loop" because of lumbering operations, but McCulloch's time, we think, may still have bettered Kelly's record. Anyhow, the gist of the matter is that Kelly must have got it into his head, last year, that he could run for he came out during track and cross country seasons and developed into the surprise of the squad—he'll be a mainstay next year—and if McCulloch develops like Kelly did with his good start—perhaps track prospects won't be so bad.

Another hidden meaning behind this spouting off is that Wrestling and Basketball practices start officially next week. Kelly and McCulloch didn't have too much outward ability when they first came out for cross country but it developed. So, if you can even lift a sack of Miss Ware's sugar, drop around the gym or the mat room—maybe you've got something you ain't discovered yet.

●EXTRA NOTHINGS—"One of our sweatsuits is missing" came the cry from Bartlett this week as the Coaches began seeking unaccounted-for equipment. We don't know if you utrned yours in and whoever took it forgot it or what, but the fact remains that the wrestlers haven't got enough sweatsuits to go around and may have to resort to running and grappling in overalls. With the building of the new football field, and its later unoccupancy during games, the Scotties lost over $4000—FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS—in admissions which weren't there. Football has to pay for the bulk of Intramural and other sports (baseball, cross country, etc.)—the costs add up fast—and so the loss of funds hurts, not to mention that expenses for the field will be removed from the Athletic fund for the next five or more years. Scotsman Honaker will really have to watch that penny now and added expenses for six sweatshirts or basketballs will cut into the

Pioneers Edge MC

Tusculum Holds In Tight Spots To Win By 7-6

They say an elephant never forgets ,and thus it must have been for one Tom Armstrong who saw his Tusculum Pioneers hold in the last half long enough to gain a 7-6 victory. Armstrong was on the 1932 and 1934 Pioneer team which did beat the Scotties. Last Saturday's Game with the Pioneers was the 22nd in a long series—of which MC has won 17 and lost only three.

Offsides—Off Victory

As for the game's play, it could be said that an over-anxious charging across the scrimmage line was the MC's downfall. Glad had kicked off and Tusculum gained only 7 yards in three smacks at the line and went back to kick. An MC man was offsides and the Tusculums got an automatic first down on the Maryville forty. Still painfully grinding out they plunged on till they got to the required ten-yards-yardage, the MC eleven from whence Barry Maines caught a pass out in the left-deep-flats from Carl Simpson who had started a run out around right end.

The pass was chest-high and Maines hugged it for dear life and then Bill Baker lit the uprights for the game's deciding margin.

Things remained quiet for the rest of the opening period until MC got the ball in the beginning moments of the second quarter. MC penetrated on the basis of plunges over guard by Harold Glad and jaunts around end by Charlie Allen to the 14. Allen was tossed for a loss and then an Allen-pass was intercepted on the ½ yard line and kicked out of danger to the thirty, but Bill Gibson returned it to the twenty. A reverse lost and an Allen pass was intercepted by Maines on the Pioneer fifteen.

Both Teams Give

But any semblance of an attack by both parties was out of question till the next half. Then came the same process that equalized C-N in the third quarter—MC gained on the exchange of punts and took over on her own forty with about half the quarter down. And who was doing all the carrying? Ken Yunkers and Grant Sharp nearly saved the day, and the two alternated on plunges and sweeps till they got down to the 35 from whence Yunkers threw his first pass of the year complete to Jimmy Campbell by way of Bob McClelland on the 18. Yunkers gained another first down from the spread formation to the eight and then hit the line three times after King Berrong had carried to the five but could not make it over. On the last try, Yunkers was over partly, but not the ball and the defensive halfback threw him, head and shoulders back over the goal line to the one foot line. Maines kicked out and Gibson returned it to the 20. MC lost 15 for the illegal use of the hands but Allen was over in seven straight plays.

Jimmy Callaway then came in to connect the extra point too MC's total of six. His kick was wide to the left and that was the final margin.

Another Chance (Failure)

MC gained one more chance when Grant Sharp intercepted Simpson's pass with about two minutes to go. Just before this, Harold Glad was hurt and had to leave the game— his absence hurting the MC defense and offense. And upon Sharp's interception, the other half of the "duo" was tossed out of the ball game. Allen carried around right end and was hit "above the ears" by a Tusculum man—according to one version of it. Allen told the guy to get off his back—and he didn't. As a result both were given the old-heave-ho. This hurt the Highlanders more than the Pioneers for their backs were intact but half of the Orange and Garnet's were laid up. MC made an FD with a minute to go, but Wesley Kinser in attempting to pass, was smeared, and fumbled the ball. Tusculum stalled for time and the clock ran out with MC on the 50.

CROSS COUNTRY MEET

A brave field of eleven would-be harriers tried the two and eight-tenth mile jaunt through the College Woods. Al McCullough was the first to wander home and pick up one hundred points towards an Intramural Medal. The durable McCullough, who posted the very nice time f 13:59, was chased home by Dave Helwig, Neale Pearson, and Donold MacDonald, second third. *Pearson's finish did not count because he lettered in 1949; thus MacDonald gets the official third place finish.

BASKETBALL

Twenty anxious teams are waiting to start this year's chase for Intramural basketball honors.

The Ex-Scrubs will be back again with most of the crew that came close to annexing last year's crown. The Globetrotters, who defeated the Ex-Scrubs in last year's pay off game, will be represented also. Lawrence Major will manage the team in its quest for a second straight championship. Chuck Holsinger's Y.M.C.A. team, with most of last year's good team back, should be in the thick of the scramble. Alpha Sigma will furnish two quintets, the Scotties and the Dixie-Doo-Woodmen. Neale Pearson will get the blame for any of their losses, while the potentially-good Redmen will give any extra laurels that they acquire to Red McKean. Ray Rose has announced that the Wheels will field a great team this year as usual.

Thus it looks like that the Leagues' playing will be one of keen competition. Play starts Monday. More information on other teams will come later.

Georgetown Beats Scots To End Losing Season

Highlanders Lose 26-14 Game To Tigers Even Though Allen Plays Greatest Game

Night settled quietly over a little stadium in Middlesboro, Kentucky, Thursday, and it was no day of Thanksgiving for the Maryville Scotties. Georgetown's Orange and Black Tigers applied the finishing touches to the 1950 season by slpapping the Scots 26-14.

Two plays on which the Scots had worked their defense all week in preparation for the game still worked and the Tigers won the ball game when five minutes had not even gone by.

First Tiger Win Since '23

Andy Hewlett's men took over after Maryville failed to gain in the first quarter and went 34 yards for a TD. Fullback John Turner had returned Allen's kick 25 yards but failed to gain on the ground. Don Franklin then went out as a flanker to the right in motion and took off downfield full speed to receive a pass from Pinchback, his quarterback, on the five. Pinchback then fired a bullet to Don Fightmaster for the TD from the five on the other play which saw Franklin in motion to the right an dthe left end (Fightmaster) going to the left.

Sure, It'll Work

The Tigers then picked up another six points—Jenkins' first extra try being no good—when Harold Glad fumbled and Bob Vaskuhl, 250 pound center, recovered. Turner and Wayne Rausch couldn't gain on the ground in three plays and so Pinchback passed to Turner on the man-in-motion-to-the-right-and then-downfield play which had worked before. This play covered 23 yards.

Allen Goes After 'Em

MC came back after the ball had exchanged hands and on the first play from scrimmage, with the ball on the thirteen, Charlie Allen went off right tackle, cut to his left adn outdistanced the rest of the field in going 87 yards for a score and putting MC back in the ball game. Jimmy Callaway booted the point from placement.

Both teams exchanged possession of the ball and when Georgetown got their hands on it, they started a drive from their own 39 and plunged adn ploughed 61 yards for a score mainly on rushes over the middle with the big Voskuhl doing most of the heavy-duty blocking.

Tigers Tromp

Turner and Asher did the carrying on this series of ten downs with Asher bulling his way the last 14 yards over center for the score. Jenkins missed the point and it was 19-17, theirs.

Allen Passes This Time

After intermission, MC held and started a drive from her 20 which went all the way. In 13 plays, the Orange and Garnet scored with Allen toting the pigskin the last seven plays in a row and tossing to Babe Keny twice for 11 and 19 yards, the latter being the payoff toss. Callaway again placed the ball mid between the goalposts and it was 19-14.

Then commenced a series of fumblings by both sides—MC's Bob Larson, and Homer Garren recovering for MC in between which MC lost possession. MC was on the 39 with about six minutes to go and Allen went back to pass—the 12th straight play in which he either ran or passed it —only to have his toss intercepted by Clarence Craft on the 20 and run back to the 40. Six plays later, Franklin wheeled around right end for the final tally which wasn't needed since the interception by Craft killed all MC chances.

A Couple for The Record

Allen's run of 87 yards equalled that of Blondie Law against C-N last year on a reverse and his total yardage gained of 187 yards topped that of Boydson "Baby" Baird who ran off 156 yards against Cemberland's lawyers in 1939. Allen was MC's outstanding man while Voskuhl was a terror on defense, stopping 2-3 of the plays over right side.

Grapplers And Cagers Start Practice Sessions

Preparation for Maryville's winter sports will go into full swing Monday as candidates for the basketball and wrestling teams begin day-to-day workouts in readiness for meets and games.

Both the basketball and wrestling situations have dim outlooks especially the cage sport which lost seven lettermen from last year's 10-12 team. Biggest handicap still is the lack of heighth.

First game for the Scot cagers will be with the UT freshmen on December 5, there. First scheduled home game is December 9, with King College over whom MC won last year twice, 62-38, and 75-68.

On the mat scene, Coach Davis will have Co-captains Herb Palmer, 175, and Chesley Anderson, 136, J. A. Cameron, 128, and Jimmy Callaway. 145, as mainstays of a team which "will be hardpressed to top last year's record of seven wins, two losses to mighty Auburn and Arkansas State, and a second place in the Southeastern AAU championships behind Auburn. Others back with experience fighting for spots will be Bill Morse, Donald MacDonald, Willard Rahn, J. A. Bright, Curt Willbanks and Don Benton.

Thinlies Meet, Eat, Vote Kelly Captain

Maryville's 4-2 Cross Country team was feted at a steak dinner Wednesday night and elected Tom Kelly captain for the 1951 season. Kelly, a junior political science major from Morris Plains, New Jersey, follows in the steps of Bill Meanges, physics major from Kennet Square, Pennsylvania.

Letters were not given out since they had not arrived but plans were made for their distribution. Speaker for the occasion was Neale Pearson who discussed Maryville cross country history, past and present.

●CONGRATULATIONS TO YOU, TOM KELLY for being elected Cross Country captain for the year 1951. We wish hi mthe best of luck and hope he can follow in Bill Menges' and Del Earisman's shoes. . .

FOOTBALL came to a vain and inglorious end Thursday with the Georgetown defeat and setting what some people called a "perfect record." It may seem funny to them, but it doesn't to us. Personally, we are of the old school of which Ty Cobb was a great example. They say we should take defeat "like a man" and be "good losers." Cobb's expression on the subject just about suits us: "Show me the man who is a good loser. All of us are bad losers. We all hate to lose. It hurts us to lose. The difference is that some of us can hide it. We're known as 'good losers.' Others cannot hide it. They frankly show it. They're the 'bad losers.' The difference between th two is that the good loser is dishonest about it and the bad loser is honest." And because Cobb wanted to win above else and said so, he made more enemies on the sports scene than probably any other ball player. If wanting to win makes people dislike us and enough already do—we hope we haven't a friend in the world because next fall there is really going to be a "will to win" and a determination to back it up—the game of football is not going to be nor will it ever be a "sissies" game.

ented in last week's article: through a means of comparison the authors have attempted to point out the United States as an isolationist nation. When the League of Nations was formed our system of government in the US was a free enterprise system of government. This system is what our whole democratic government is based upon. It seems that the authors would have each sovereign nation, as a private individual, give up its freedom for a central power. This seems to be running a very close parallel to the communist form of government. The system that has made our country what it is today is free enterprise and individual rights of the four freedoms. In short, it is sovereignty.

May we suggest that the writers of last week's article examine more closely the issues involved before writing an article which is not only detrimental to the principles set up by this college but also obviously socialistic, contrary to the American system of government.

In the final paragraph the writers went on at length about the inalienable rights of the American people. The college has, and rightly so, the authority to search any campus building believed to be lodging a suspected person for the protection of the rest of the inhabitants of that building. This is also one of the inalienable rights of the American people, the right of protection of property. When a high school graduate enters college, he is previously told of the requirements and policies set up by the administration and, therefore, should not exepct the same privileges and rights given him at home. If he does, he should not be attending that college.

College is one of the best preparations a person can have for later life. If a student will not accept, live up to, and stand by the rules and regulations of college, how then can he expect to live in a society where rules and regulations are obligatory.

NEW YEAR TOO!

MC Goes To 'Dreamland' With Frosh Talent Show

"Dream Fantasy," a cavalcade of dreams, will be presented tonight at the Freshman Talent Show. Dreaming starts at 8:00 in the Alumni Gym.

Jim Hunt, from Uniontown, Pa., is in charge of the evening. He will be assisted by Walter Elwood and Helen Drinnne.

George Caldwell is the "Dream Pedler," who, from his perch in heaven, watches the cavalcade as it passes before him. After an introduction by Freshman class president, Bob McClelland, the pedler and the audience see the following dreams:

Leo Armstrong, Mary Beth McIndoe, Nancy Naylor, Peggy Reed, Harriett Peters, Jim Darroch, Wilma Trumbull, Tish Buchanan, Marilyn Bickmore, Ruth Anne Roach, Barbara Newman, Ruth King, Jo Ann Cowan, Barbara Clark, Millie Mowery, Ken Tuck, Bill Baldwin, Jean White, Helen Seay, Joann Bash, D. Lee Beard, Bill Stein, Dave Gates, and Ethel Shockley.

Scenery, makeup, and posters will be done by Tish Buchanan, Marilyn Bickmore, and Barbara Newman.

Hunt urges all faculty and students to "come and see your favorite dreams."

Fireside Readings Presented Sunday Eve By Bushing

YM and YW organizations will present the traditional Christmas reading by the fireside in Pearsons Hall on Sunday evening, December 10, at 7:30 p.m.

Assistant Professor Arthur S. Bushing will read selections this year.

Last Show

Closing their 1950 scheduled broadcasts, YM-YW aired "The Christmas Carol" on "Pathways," weekly radio show over WGAP.

Chairmen for the shows have been Bill Starr and Dave Reed.

Swarztrauber Heads Athenians As Chief

At the last meeting of Athenian elections were held. The following men were elected to serve nexet semester:

Archie Swarztrauber, president; John Schaumberg, vice-president; Bob Sprague, secretary; Jack Rorex, treasurer; and Charles Reid, program chariman.

1951 Semester Opens January 10

The second semester will begin Wednesday, January 10, 1951, with the 8:00 a.m. chapel service in Alumni Gymnasium. Full classes will be held that day with required attendance. Dormitories will be open at 9:00 a.m. Tuesday, January 9, and the first dining hall meal is to be supper at 6:00 p.m. on Tuesday.

All college fees must be paid by January 13, or the late payment fine of $5. will be applied. January 12 is the day on which schedules may be changed, and the student help office will be open January 9.

Dormitories will close at noon on Thursday, December 21, and breakfast on December 20 will be the last meal of this semester.

Labor Problems Class Hears CIO, Industrial Leaders

Paul Christopher, state organizer for the CIO, will speak to Mrs. Mary Gladys Pieper's Sociology-Economics 313 class, Labor Problems, next Tuesday, December 12, at 10:30. He will discuss CIO's structural organization and jobs within labor unions.

William H. Davis, personnel manager of ALCOA's reduction division plant spoke yesterday on ALCOA's collective bargaining arrangements with organized local employees.

W. J. Rogers, in charge of recruiting and labor relations with the Knoxville regional office of TVA, discussed last Wednesday the collective bargaining arrangements of a government agency with organized employees.

Maryville College's eighteenth annual presentation of "The Messiah" will be given tomorrow afternoon at three in the Alumni Gymnasium. President Ralph W. Lloyd will give the invocation.

A chorus of 225 students and townspeople will be accompanied by the College symphony orchestra, an organ, and a piano, in the performance of Handel's great oratorio. For the tenth year Professor Katharine Davies will be organist, and Miss Garnet Manges will be at the piano for her sixteenth year as "Messiah" accompaniist. Concert mistress will be Miss Catherine Crews. Assistant professor Harry H. Harter will direct the entire production.

Eleven soloists will take part in the performance. Jeanette Whitaker, sophomore voice major from Knoxville will sing recitatives, "And Lo the Angel of the Lord Came Upon Them" and "And Suddenly There Was With the Angel." Margaret Ann Warren, junior sociology major from Selma, Ala., will sing recitatives "There Were Shepherds Abiding In The Field" and "And the Angel Said Unto Them."

Junior voice major Rosalie Munson from Rochester, N.Y., will sing airs "Come Unto Him" "And I Know That My Redeemer Liveth."

Gloria Measamer, senior voice major from Crossville, will sing two airs and two recitatives. Included in her selections will be "Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened," "He shall feed his flock like a shepherd," "O thou that tellest good tidings to Zion," and "Behold, a Virgin Shall Conceive."

Betty Hammers, transfer sophomore sociology major from Stewartstown, Pa., will sing the air, "He Was Despised."

Ken Shaffer, sophomore voice major from Philadelphia, Pa., will sing "Comfort Ye My People," recitative, and "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted," air.

Sophomore psychology major Wally Schroeder from Buffalo, N.Y., will sing recitative "Thy Rebuke hath broken His heart," and and "Behold and See." Don Brakebill, sophomore voice major from Rockford, will sing recitative "He that dwelleth in Heaven," and air "Thou Shalt Break Them."

Bass solo, "Why Do the Nations So Furiously Rage," will be sung by William Robinson, junior theory major from Maryville. George Howell, junior chemistry major from Maryville, will sing recitative "Thus Saith the Lord," and air "But who may abide the day of His coming?"

"The Messiah" was composed in 23 days by the German composer Georg Frederick Handel in 1741. The text is taken from the Bible, largely from Isaiah and the New Testament. The work is divided into three sections. Part I concerns the prophecy and the narrative of the nativity; Part II tells the story of the passion and the resurrection, reaching its climax in the mighty "Hallelujah Chorus;" and Part III deals with man's hope of his own resurrection. "The Messiah" was first given at Maryville College in 1933, under the direction of Miss Frances Henry.

Mystery ABC Girls Pose Tonight For '51 Calendar

By Claire Hoffman

The third annual presentation of ABC girls will be held tonight in the Alumni Gymnasium at 6:30. A sixteen-voice chorus will accompany the presentation of the six girls while Athenian prexy, Jim Watt, pins a corsage on each. Providing program music will be Ken Shaffer, George Day, and Grace Myers.

A revolving stage will be used for the first time in collegiate history for the presentation of each girl. Charles Reed and Howard Lawson are program and set chairmen.

Surprise In 1949

The original six Athenian-Bainonian Calendar girls were presented in 1949 at Club 49, climaxing weeks of suspense as to what "ABC" meant. Since then Athenian has annually selected six Bainonians to grace the pages of a calendar. This years sextet will be unannounced until the program tonight.

Porter, Lehr, Schaumberg

Bobby Porter is in charge of art work; Bob Lehr and John Schaumberg; lighting; George Day, music, with Ed Brahams at the piano. George Barber is master of ceremonies and general chairman of the evening's performance.

Photographers Willard Rahn and Ken Bowers have taken informal poses of the girls which appear in the 1951 edition of the calendar.

No Comment

Chairman George Barber was asked for a comment last night concerning the release of the girls' names: "Sorry, this time The Echo doesn't get a scoop."

Lynn Elected Spanish Prexy

In elections held last week, Bob Lynn was elected President for next semester. Lynn is a junior economics major from Elmhurst, Illinois, and is also Business Manager of the 1951 Chilhowean.

Other officers elected were Charlotte Wyman, senior Spanish major from Elgin, Illinois, as Vice-President; Dave Helwig, sophomore business ad major from Youngstown, New York as Secretary; Hazel Smarr, education major from Winnsboro, S. C., as Treasurer; and Mary Ann Hicks, sophomore Spanish major from Willard, Ohio, as Program Chairman.

Following the same schedule of previous years, the exam schedule will start with

A period—Saturday, Dec. 16, 9:30-11:30 a.m.

X period—Saturday, Dec. 16, 1:30- 3:30 p.m.

B period—Monday, Dec. 18, 9:30-11:30 a.m.

C period—Monday, Dec. 18, 1:30- 3:30 p.m.

D period—Tuesday, Dec. 19. 9:30-11:30 a.m.

E period—Tuesday Dec. 19, 1:30- 3:30 p.m.

F period—Wednesday, Dec. 20, 8:00-10:00 a.m.

Bookstore Hours

Starting Saturday, December 16, the bookstore will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Students are requested to turn in rented books immediately after each exam in order to avoid lines.

Books must be turned in before students leave for the holidays in order to avoid a fine.

Dining Hall Hours

The last meal of the semester will be served in the college dining hall Wednesday morning, December 20.

The dining hall will re-open on Tuesday night, January 9, 1955, for supper.

Sunday Schools Use Holiday Idea

Devotional services at First Baptist Sunday School tomorrow will be led by Ginnie Lind Robinson. Mrs. Traylor will give the lesson. A program of entertainment is being prepared for the orphans on Tuesday night.

Thad Godwin and Bob Mizelle are leaders at Broadway Methodist Sunday School tomorrow. On the 17, a special program will be held. The theme is "What Christmas means to Me."

Scriptures and prayers will be offered by the class officers. Frank Morton, Bob Sprague, Morna Wright, Tom Kees, Myrt Kennedy and Bill Kneeland. Ralph Reed will read "Why the Chimes Rang."

Special music is by Rosalie Munson, who will sing "O Holy Night," Louise Packard and Miss Munson will sing "Away in the Manger."

Rochester Drafts Boring, '50 Star

Quite a bit of interest was stirred up on campus by the news that Bob Boring, ace MC baseballer had been drafted by the Rochester Redwings of the International League. Boring hit .419 in leading the 1950 edition of the Scot baseballers to a 13-4-1 record. This summer, he and Hugh Hamil played for Elizabethton of the Appalachian League where the ex-Highlander shortstop, playing third base, hit .387 and bashed out 26 home runs.

KOREA

Chinese Reds continued their invasion of Korea this week, pushing U.N. troops back toward the 38th paralell. This push by the Reds has forced the U.N. troops to abandon the former North Korean capitol of Pyongyoung.

We nominate for joke of the week the story that hit the front page of every newspaper in the nation. (Quote) "Troops will be home for Christmas" (end-quote). As it looks from here the boys won't be trimming the tree until '53.

ATTLEE

Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain arrived in Washington to confer with President Truman on the current world cirsis. Here's hoping that they come up with a solution that will give us "Peace on Earth" this Christmas.

A-BOMB

World reaction to Truman's announcement that we would use the A-Bomb was instant and varied. Attlee warned the U.S. not to do anything that would lead to a global war at this time. Congressmen, however, seemed to agree with the President. It seems to me that American lives are more important or at least as important as those of the Chinese. If the bomb will save American lives, then why not use it

29 Prospective Graduates Will Receive Acclaim In Mid-Year Commencement

29 prospective graduates will receive recognition at the regular chapel service, December 16, at 8 a.m. The service is held to recognize those who have completed graduation requirements at mid-term; diplomas will not be awarded until the May Commencement, 1951.

Those graduating are John S. Baird, Bible major from Oakland, Calif.; Edward Bennett, History major from Atlantic City, N.J.; Leon Berrong, physical education major from Maryville; Robert O. Brown, sociology major from Los Angeles, Calif.; Laurie Richards Dale, sociology major from Wilmington, Del.; Delbert Earisman, English major from New Cumberland, Pa.; Hugh Hamil, physical education major from Louisville; Minnie Lucille Highsmith, biology major from Baltimore, Md.; Margaret D. Hughes, sociology major from Mt. Carmel, Pa.; Lucie Jean Hunt, English major from Elizabethton; William Holt, English major from Philadelphia, Pa.; Richard C. Isenberg, business administration major from Sevierville;

Edwin Jackson, biology major from Madison, N.J.; Sidney E. Lambert, political science major from Madison, Ind.; James E. Latham, psychology science major from New Brighton, Pa.; Lawrence Major, physical education major from Mascot; Carol Mitchell, music major from Circleville, Ohio;

Basil Petree, business administration major from Friendsville; Eugene Reynolds, physical education major from Alcoa; Alberta Ahler Ross, home economics major from Harriman; Virginia Schwarz, psychology major from Glenside, Pa.; William Shields, political science major from Maryville; Fred Sieber, English major from McAlisterville, Pa.;

Participating in the program will be Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, Dean Edwin Ray Hunter, and Dean Frank D. McClelland.

Madrigal Singers Hold Traditional Yule Log Burning

On December 12 the Maryville College Madrigal Singers will present a program to the Kiwanis Club where they will be guests for a luncheon.

The same evening the Singers will hold their traditional Olde English dinner and burn the yule log. Mr. and Mrs. W. Curtis Hughes will be guests of honor. 1950 Madrigal Singers are Evalyn Smith, Rosalie Munson, Margaret Ann Warren, Ruth Nicholas, Floria Measamer, Betty Hammers, William Cunningham, William Robinson, and Gerald Williams.

YM Offers Trohpy To Best Athlete

The YMCA is offering an award for the Intramural Athlete of the year. A committee of ten men plus the "Y" athletic director who will nominate five men they feel are eligible to receive the award on the basis of requirements and merits. These five men will be presented to the men who participated in Intramurals to vote on, on a cumulative voting basis (Five points for first, four for second, etc.)

Winner of the award will get a personal trophy with his name engraved on it. Requirements and merits for the award are:

1. Must participate in at least two of the major league sports:
2. Does not gripe or complain to officials:
3. Is a good loser and extends a friendly hand to an opponent:
4. Does not in any way use underhanded tactics:
5. Plays the game for the joy of playing and not to win at any cost through means of "dirty" playing;
6. Plays for the team and not himself;
7. Gives his all in any contest;
8. Has general ability in the various sports but does not necessarily have to be a "star."
9. Can be a member of any class.

"The overall purpose of this award," as stated by Chuck Holsinger, Y Athletic director, "is to stimulate a better attitude of sportsmanship in the entire intramural program and to increase the spirit of cooperation between individuals on the team and with the officials."

Fred Hope Fund Requires $738.91 To Complete

Latest figures show that $738.91 remains to be paid into the Fred Hope Fund in order to completely fulfill the $1887.25 pledged by students and faculty. Payments may be made at any time in the Printing Office, first floor, Anderson.

There will be a table set up in Anderson on Saturday, December 9, for the payment of pledges.

450 Maryvillians Dance 'To Stars' Saturday Night

Some 450 students and faculty climbed the "Stairway to the Stars," annual fall dance sponsored by Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon Saturday in the Alumni Gym.

The Gym was decorated with a sky of blue crepe paper. Dancers, as they entered, could see a stairway of pink which lead to small stars cut from silver foil. A revolving spotlight made alternating light and semi-darkness in the room.

Those assisting dance chairmen Carolyn Marshall and Charles Flood were J. A. Cameron and Peggy Kettles, decorations; Wilma Borter and Jessie Dye, refreshments; George Barber and Jim Townsend, lighting and set design; Bill Menges and Bob Moser, music. Official chaperones for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Dashiell. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Schwam.

Saturday night's affair was the second dance sponsored by Alpha Sigma and Theta. The first, "Moonlight and Roses," was in connection with May Day festivities last spring. Athenian and Bainonian will sponsor the formal dance next spring and the informal dance in the fall, according to rules set up by the Social Board last year.

Scandanavian Meal, Opera Presented At Faculty Club

Faculty Club met Monday, December 4, at 6:30 in the Home Economics rooms of Fayerweather Hall for a Scandinavian Smorgasbord supper and a program concerning the development of opera under the direction of Mrs. Conrad Eaddy, music instructor.

Christmas Vespers Features Choral Singing, Quartet

Annual Christmas Vespers will be held in the Alumni Gym on December 17, at 7 p.m. The program will consist of congregational and choral singing. Maryville College String Quartet will play the prelude.

Choral groups taking part in the presentation are Vesper Choir, All-Girl Choir, and Madrigal Singers. Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd will bring the annual Christmas meditation

Semester's End

This semester has been a significant one in the history of Maryville College, even with the realization that each semester leaves its mark and makes its peculiar contribution. The Echo has tried to report the news fairly and honestly, making interpretations only in this editorial column, and here only because we feel that events have been important and that we are living in an important time.

Most significant, locally, is the new Fine Arts Center, both as a building and as enlarged and improved college facilities. As a building, it is unequalled and unsurpassed on a national level, architecturally speaking. Concerning usage, it adds immeasurably to the facilities of the fine arts division, making it one of our strongest. This improved status promises to be extremely important in the current and future development and progress of the college.

The semester has had its share of good speakers, athletic excitement, elections, plays, queens and all those things which have come to be part of normal campus existence. The football team chalked up a perfect season, in some sense, but displayed an unmatched spirit and character, two intangibles which count for far more than big scores in the long run. There were some familiar faces missing in the faculty reception line this year, but some new ones had replaced them, as the new has a way of doing. There were new books in the library, controversies, Barnwarming, bull sessions, dances, Homecoming, special studies and on through the list of visibles and invisibles which go to make up Maryville College life as we know it.

Most significant, nationally and internationally, and by its very scope, almost crowding out the normalcy of our life here (at least of our thinking) has been the war. It has grown in seriousness since the beginning of the semester, and things at the present are the blackest yet. A number of reservists in the student body have already been called and many are exempt only until the end of the school year. So, the implications are only beginning to be felt. It is difficult, near impossible, for us to realize that if this spreads to a global scale, our whole society, our entire civilization are the elements at stake. We must explore every avenue of peace before we dare expose western civilization to the possibility of extinction. The greatness of our decisions is almost incomprehensible.

These are the times when the great religious background of this college is most vital and most necessary. Only through the concept of love as defined by Jesus of Nazareth can be found the ultimate solution to our problems, idealogical and practical. This must be our basis and our standard. So we leave the semester with mixed feelings and emotions. We have accomplished much, individually and collectively, and give promise of accomplishing more. But our world is in a serious time, and conditions call us back to basic faiths if past accomplishments are to be worth preserving and future accomplishments worth striving toward.

'SNO' FUN

Roger Padron was so fascinated seeing snow for the first time that he carried armfuls into his room and scattered it around. No one told him it melted.

THE GENTLE SEX

Girls' clothes seem to be getting more and more practical. Barbara Blum has been wearing a pair of gloves which are nothing more than a pair of miniature boxing gloves. Women's Suffrage has become men's suffering.

PROFS' PRANKS

After seeing barnwarming, it was amazing to find out how well some of the faculty hold their age. Some studes are even wondering about the constitutionality of that beauty parade. And even if the men were judges, one was just a little bit too "nosey."

WEATHER PROFIT

The cold weather brought some good, which should show that there's some good in evil. Several classes were dismissed because of cold rooms. Now, if only classes could be dismissed because of "cold" subjects. . . .!

COLD COMMENTS

Dr. Hunter: "The room may be cold now, but I'll fill it up with hot air."

Dr. Orr, as he strode into the room wearing a heavy overcoat: "Now this room may be cold to some of you, although I'm not cold."

SEEING IS BELIEVING

The science pond is just filled with biology lab specimens (not to mention a few elsewhere), and a few other tihngs, but we never expected to see an old English sailing ship turn up.

WIN, PLACE, OR SHOW

Place your bets here. Odds are changing constantly. When will Doris Somerville present her speech after having postponed it two weeks already? Will our netmen keep up their high scoring? Will the draft give any of our athletes the cold shoulder for a little while?

SILENCE IS GOLDEN

When the Fine Arts faculty members were stranded in Cincinnati because of the snow, the campus certainly seemed bare without the strains coming from the practice rooms.

STAIRWAY TO THE STARS

It certainly is hard to understand why people should complain about tired feet after the dance. With their light hearts and light heads, the weight had to rest somewhere, didn't it?

IN MEMORIAM

Heartfelt sympathies are expressed for the student for whom Special Studies was too much. A collection will be taken later for flowers.

HELP WANTED

Will someone advise yours truly on how to correlate a Physics major with a special studies on Daniel Defoe, since all the necessary manuscripts and notes are had: That was quite a clean-up job in the library.

INTO THE NIGHT

Tuesday night Bill LeNore and Jim Frain were studying peacefully in their room. In burst Joe Bender who hollored: "The KKK is on the march." The three fellows rushed to the door and saw. . . . the be-candled Vesper Choir doing their Christmas carolling.

JOKE OF THE WEEK

Rosemary Gambill has one for the books when she says that the end of a football game and some seniors are alike—they are both in the last quarter. (Ah, Ethics!)

IT CAN'T HAPPEN HERE

They just can't start drafting women yet but Dr. Hunter sure had us fooled for a minute when he read that chapel notice.

NOT A CREATURE WAS STIRRING—Ha!

When Sara Jo Emert made her early morning appearance on Pearsons balcony, some thought she was sleep-walking. Theta Alpha Phi members gathered below knew she was going to wax romantic with "Romeo and Juliet." Ah, but love was cold that night.

JUNIORS, YOUR TROUBLES . . . . .

Seniors joyfully laid Special Studies problems in the hands of Juniors last Friday night when, led by a band of white-coated stretcher-bearers, they invaded and bombed the library. They're all yours, kids! !

THE END! ! !

For those who were able to get this far, and for all the others including profs, we extend a very MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY NEW YEAR. Hope to se you back here next semester, too.

—Carson Seeley

TALK OF THE WEEK

JOHN OLSON

Mary Wilkes, Pat Lewis, Barbara Scott, Lynn Miller, Hazel Wood, Beryl Stewart, Janet Cummings, Mary Kelton, Jay Spencer, Myrt Watkins, Nannette Enloe, Pat Love, Rosemary Gambill, and Lucy Carrick who put so much time and thought into making ideas live.

And to all those on the program who spent hours on hours and night after night rehearsing, goes another "thank you." And especially to Johnny Sayre who did the entire job of arranging and accompanying do we owe our thanks. And to the many others who helped—"thanks a lot."

FLICKERS

"Stars in My Crown" comes to the Capitol Monday and Tuesday. The picture stars Joel McCrea as a small town—Walesburg, to be exact—preacher. The time is just after the Civil War. With his wife, Ellen Drew, who is pretty smart, and Dean Stockwell, his young nephew, Joel is accepted by the townspeople. Then the "slow fever" strikes, and he finds himself at odds with James Mitchell, the community doctor, over the subject of typhoid, its cause, cure, and prevention. In the course of the story the two men, representing God and Science, reconcile their differences and are both the better for it.

Joel goes on another crusade when he gets after the "night riders," who are out for an emancipated Negro who won't sell his land, which contains a rich mica vein. Joel, representing the right, of course, wins the upper hand.

"Louisa," showing Wednesday, apparently sets out to prove the old saying, "You're never too old to fall in love". In this unusual story with a novel twist, Spring Byington plays grandma, who must be still quite spry, for she has two boy friends who vie for her hand quite energetically. One is the corner grocer, Edmund Gwen, and the other is her son's wealthy boss, Charles Coburn, but true love wins out, and Spring's son gives the bride away.

Contrasting with Wednesday's picture, "Night and the City," showing Thursday and Friday, is a melodrama about the escapades of a double-dealing night-club lookout, Richard Widmark. When Widmark, a shifty cheat, sets out to get control of London wrestling, he doublecrosses everyone in his way, which is every major character in the movie and several minor ones, and ends, by crossing himself up. The whole city's underworld is set after him in a rather anticlimatic chase when he dupes his partner, Wrester Stanislaus Zbyszko, into fighting a grudge fight, and the wrestler is killed.

Echo Forum—

To the Editor:

On the night of dress rehearsal for Barnwarming, we, the Barnwarming committee, sat talking over the odds and ends that pop up the last minute in any program, when suddenly it dawned on us that Barnwarming was on the next night. There was the old picture frame, up and ready to do its duty; booths with bright-colored paper were on each side; a couple of fellows were hanging from the rafters stringing wire and rope; groups of kids were practicing songs and dances by the piano. No longer was "Golden Jubilee" merely an idea and a dream—it was becoming a reality.

And why? It was because weeks ago we had asked certain people to do certain things and with no hesitation they had worked and planned for hours. Not only that—but their ingenuity popped up with new ideas to make Barnwarming a better production. They willingly gave of their time and energy at a time in a semester when both are mighty low.

So to these people we want to say the biggest "thank you" we can muster! To the kids on the stage crew whose only applause is found in long hours of hard work and no sleep: fellows like George Barber, Jim Townsend, Bob Kees, John Schaumberg, Howard Lawson, Charles Reid, J. A. Cameron, C. L. Hager, Bob Kees, Bob Cuthill, Jim Kren, Wes Miles, Bob Newman, Jack Moyer, Bob Brown, Neale Pearson, Don Moffett, Jay Bright, and Don MacDonald—all who never complained but stayed till the job was done.

Girls like Irene Mellon, Jackie and Joyce Lenderman, Betty Lester, Maree Richards, Bev Jacobi,

All We Want For Christmas . . . .
All we want for Christmas is two front rooms, two front room;
Gee, if we could only have two front rooms,
Then we could sing Merry Christmas, Christmas.

●THE MEN'S M CLUB want a Christmas present and the most fitting one we think they could have would be the long-delayed presentation of one or two rooms in Bartlett for that purpose or some other room. And though the club is just ceelbrating its first anniversary tonight, Dec. 9, it has done a lot. Precisely one year ago, 45 athletes, pseudo or otherwise, reorganized the club with several aims and purposes. First on the agenda after a "happy" week of shoe-shining and mule-riding of which this corner was a "grudging" participant and which will also begin again next week for a new crop of boys, was insuring Maryville College athletes in conjunction with the College. That fell through because the College didn't have the money to spend but something was done to clear up the matter and this semester, students (athletes or otherwise) can get nine bucks of insurance which is well worth their trouble —we know it well.

The M-sters also set their sights on getting a club room as a spot where various trophies and team pictures of Maryville teams could be kept and enshrined for students and visitors to see and also if possible to have a lounge where members could engage in differenet forms of rcration which weren't available—legally—in town such as billiards for a nominal fee. But what has happened. Photographs and team "color" is scattered all over Bartlett and half the people on campus don't know that they are there. Formerly, it was intended that trophies and other laurels be kept in what is now Miss Craven's room and next door. But the Old Chapel fire ruined this with the result that no spot is available for the cherishing of old memories. We hope something is done about the matter—let's not let the past go to pot around here!

●SECOND BALL GAME OF THE SEASON is on tap tonight over at UT when our frosh plays the powerful UT frosh. The Varsity season opened Tuesday with a game against the Businessmen who certainly looked as if they had been resting their feet too long on their desks from the gasps emanating from them when third quarter rolled around.

●FINALE

"CHRISTMAS"
'Twas the night before Christmas
And all thru the lockerrooms
Not a creature was stirring,
Not even a broom.
The shoulder pads were hung in the lockers
In hopes that a Maryville win would soon be near;
Three coaches were grinning from ear to ear—
They wouldn't see an athlete till sometime next year
(If then).

Congratulations Go To Charile Allen, Jimmy Callaway, and Bob Boring!

ALL-STAR LINE-UP

The lineup above represents the Maryville Highlander's all opponent team as chosen by 26 members of this season's squad. Unlike last yeaer's balloting there were no ties with only two repeats from last year's powerful opponent team—these being Austin Peay's skyscraper end, L. E. Oakley and Emory & Henry's speed demon, Bob Miller at left half. Miller was the only unanimous choice and thus gets the distinction of being honorary captain of the team.

FOOTBALL STATISTICS

With all the action on the firing line over with the Georgetown game, statistics show that Charlie Allen ground out the most yardage be it by land or air and also had the greatest total. King Berrong had the best average on the ground with a 5.00 yard gain in every one of his average attempts. Allen's big run against Georgetown was the season's longest. Babe Keny was the leader in passes caught with 11 for a 14 yard advance every time he caught one. Jimmy Campbell gained the most distance per pass caught with a 30 yard average.

Boots and Bunions

Harold Glad and Dick Isenberg were the only entries in the kick-off ledger with Glad getting the distance and Isenbereg the average. Isenberg hurt his big toe early in the season and so got away without hurting his 48.7 average on 4 kicks which traveled 195 yards. Glad booted 16 times for 693 yards and a 43.3 average.

Give Me Some Blocking

While the aforementioned two had an easy time of venting their rage on the ball, 13 men had the rather dubious pleasure of returning kickoffs against 11 men swarming down the field to maul them. Charlie Allen carried the most times (14) for 393 yards and a 28.1 average while Dick Mirshak gained the most in his one runback—42 yards. Other backfield men participating in this unpleasant diversion were (times, ydg., pct.) Glad (5-67-13.8); Jerry King (2-41-22.5); Jimmy Campbell (2-63-32.5); Don Alford (1-24-24); Paul Merwin (1-20-20); Bill Gibson (3-50-16.6); King Berrong (1-25-25); Bill Vananda (1-12-13); and Ken Yunkers (2-35-17.5).

Linemen who got to carry the ball on this big play of the game were Ralph Greaser who carried on kick back for one yard before he was piled on and Bob McClelland who got a little further—ten yards—in his one carry.

Now, Go Get 'Em!

The punting field wasn't much bigger than the kickoff group but it got more action. Allen booted the most and the furtherest on 30 punts which travelled 1184 yards or 39.4 yards each time which isn't so bad, considering King Berrong booted 18 times for 687 three-footers and 38.1 average. Bill Gibson got away two kicks for 71 yards (35.5 avg), while Jerry King and Grant Sharp each booted one for 35 and 33 yards, respectively.

Help!

Really working in the line of dangerous duty were Allen and Gibson who had the punt returning specialty all to themselves. Allen ran back nine for 75 yards and an 8.3 average while Gibson topped this mark with a 9.4 average for 5 totes which gained 47 yards.

Almost The Whole Team

Guess who also led in the pass intercepting business with 3 which he returned 13 yards. Bill Gibson was behind Allen with two "took-it aways" which he brought back six yards, while Grant Sharp gained two yards for MC on a likewise number of interceptions. Homer Garren also picked off two for seven yards. Others who frustrated enemy attempts to gain with one interception apiece were Bob White—gain: (4 yards). Jim Cox (3); Ken Yunkers who brought his single-job back 10 yards for the greatest individual return; and Dick Mirshak who was hit right where he intercepted a pass in the C-N game.

Not Much Here

Scoring for the season, which didn't happen frequently enough saw Allen score the most TD's—4; Jimmy Campbell, one; King Berrong, two; and Frank Garren, Bob McClelland, Harold Glad, and Babe Keny, who each had one.

Jimmy Callaway got a chance to boot the ball through the post ten times and connected on eight of them with one of the misses hurting badly but also bettering last year's mark in which only about 40% of the extra point attempts were made.

Allen's New Records

New records were set by Charlie Allen though the present ones are still slightly incomplete. Allen made the longest TD run from scrimmage—87 yards against Georgetown—tying Blondie Law's C-N of 1950 gallop. He also gained the most groundage in one game with 277 to top Boydson Baird's 156 against Cumberland in 1939 and had a total yardage gained through passing and running this year of 729 yards against Bobby Neff's 446 last year. Hershel Merriman ground out 365 yards last year but Allen gained by rusihng 477 this year. However, with the kind of record MC had this year, these new marks will probably die by the wayside.

Wrestlers Work To Get In Shape

Twenty-two grapplers showed up last Monday for first practice as Coach Davis issued his initial call to colors. The mat hopefuls were disappointing in the fact that they were lacking in the important weight divisions.

Only Three Returned . . .

Only three lettermen are back from last year's successful squad. Those three are co-captains Herbie Palmer and Chesley Anderson, 175 and 136 pounders respectively, and 128 pounder J. A. Cameron.

This year's crop of hopefulls divided into weight divisions are as follows: Bill Clark and John Stephenes, 121's; Cameron, Bill Morse, Jay Bright, Bob Kees and Albert McCullock. 128's; Anderson, Jack Mowatt, Don McDonald, Curtis Wilbanks and Roger Sangster, 136's;

Weak Weights

Don Benton, Paul Maier and Jim Callaway, 145's; Joe Poland, Bob Buchanan and James Squires, 155's; Grant Sharp, 165; Palmer and James Cox, 175's; and Bob Wheeler the sole heavy weight.

Scots Clip Win; Face Six Games

The Maryville Scotties led by Meano Shields opened their 1950-51 basketball season Tuesday night by trouncing National Business College of Knoxville, 93-49.

The score ewas the highest a Scot squad has run up in modern day basketball. Previously the modern high was 82 for a Scot aggregation run up against Emory and Henry last year in a one point less.

The Scotties face six opponents before the next isue of the Echo comes out next semester. Three of these games come next week. Monday night King College invades the Scot floor in an effort to get a win against the MC'ers On Thursday Lincoln Memorial University comes here to try to even up a deficit in games. Saturday night sees Georgetown here.

After Christmas vacation the Scots hit the floor right away with a game with Chattanooga on the 12th, followed by games on the 15th and 20th with East Tennessee and Milligan respectively.

Globetrotters Win First

In the preliminary game, the Intramural Globetrotters defeated the MC Freshman, 47-18. Lawrence Major's quintet of "worn-out" ex-varsity men and wrestlers applied the skids to Hugh Hamil's frosh beginning in the second quarter are being tied in ●AFTER RUNNING AROUND TO ALL THE GAMES this year with pencil, paper, and imagination, we think we have what are some statistics on how the individual Scots fared this fall. And as statistics go, they cover the exploits of the backfield men mostly with "Four Records In One Year", Allen running away with top honors. We hope that maybe next year, that we can keep a tabulation of tackles made for the benefit of the unsung linemen. And there is also the All-Opponent Team which the footballers voted on this past week.

Fairly Even Choices

Right behind Miller in the voting for backfield spots was Austin Peay's Ben Fendley who scored 29 points in his teams 35 win, C-N's John Jennings and Miller's signal caller, Chick Davis, who got 12 and 20 votes respecitvely. Only other back in the running was Jacksonville State's John Krochina who tallied eight votes.

Oakley Like A Tree

Oakley had little opposition as to his worthiness as an end and pulled down 18 ballots. The other end post was a battle with Peay's Tom Lincoln and ETS's 200 pound freshman flanker gaining the most adherants. When the smoke had cleared Morrison was ahead 14 votes to nine.

Gamecocks' Tackles

The left tackle spots were also closies with three men, Jacksonville's Wesley Hardy, Austin Peay's Julius Krug; Emory-Henry's Jim Neblett, who lost out last year by a close margin also, fighting stout. Ballot count was Hardy 12; Krug 7; and Neblett.6. At the right tackle post, The Governor's other behemoth, Ray Darnell, won handily over eight other nominees with seven roses.

Every Vote Counts

The center race was decided on the last two counted ballots as Georgewton's big, big, Bob Voskuhl, who also plays basketball, win over Emory & Henry's Jim Earp 11 to ten in the metter of votes probably on the strength of his great defensive work at Middlesboro.

COLLEGE GETS $100,000 FOR CHAPEL FUND

Four Societies Compete Tonight In Annual Skits

By Trudy Furman

Tonight at 8 o'clock in Alumni Gymnasium the four societies of Maryville College will compete in the annual Skit Night program.

The prize for the best skit, as considered by the judges, will be a cup which is presented by Mr. Ralph Reed, a Maryville attorney. Theta Epsilon won the trophy for the second time in 1950 with a skit entitled "A New York Town Night."

Betty Hammers and Betty Carroll are in charge of the Bainonian program. Lou Masters, Mary alice Moyer, Shirley Posthelwaite, Beverly Jacobi, Mary Wilkes, Maree Richards, Nanette Enloe, Janet Cummings, Nina Ruth Gillette, Grace Myers and many other Bainonians will be seen in the musical show.

Theta Epsilon will present a musical featuring Phyl Jackson, Martha Coyner, Gracie Scruggs, Norma Lou Loetz, Margaret Ann Warren, Carolyn Marshall and Sara Jo Emert with a host of other Thetas. Murt Kennedy and Betty Hunter are Theta Skit Night chairmen.

Alpha Sig, Athenian

Alpha Sigma's skit was written and directed by Neale Pearson with the help of Charlie Flood, Ray Kuhn, and Bob Navratil. Also a musical, it will present Charlie Flood, Jake Peppers, Jim Kren, Arnold Munn, Bob Navratil, Sid Lambert, Jim Townsend, and others.

Bill Starr will have the leading role in the Athenian skit, which was written and directed by Jim Dance. Others in the comedy will be Archie Swarztrauber, Dave Reed, Al Shakely, Allen Caldwell, Walter English, Bill Faulkner and many more.

Alpha Sig Elects Flood and Beasley

Charles Flood, senior biology major from Manasquan, N. J., was elected president of Alpha Sigma with Ted Beasley as vice-presiednt. Neale Pearson and Ray Kuhn were elected secretary and program chairman, respectively. Bill Menges is carry-over treasurer. Pearson, Kuhn, Flood, and Bob Navratil are working as members of Alpha Sig's Skit Night program.

Dr. Franklin Talks To. IRC Monday

The Rev. Dr. Sam H. Franklin, Jr., will speak to International Relations Club Monday at 6:30 in the ethics lecture room on the second floor of Thaw Hall.

Dr. Franklin is a graduate of Maryville College and was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1946. He served as a navy chaplain and is currently on the faculty of Union Theological Seminary of Japan.

Pieper Speaks At Y On "Korea"

Archibald Pieper, associate professor of political science, will speak to the YMCA at their regular Sunday aftrenoon meeting, 1:3 0p.m. ni Bartlett Hall.

YWCA will hold no regular meeting because of the Christian Life Work Conference being held on campus this week-end.

Bainonians Elect Nicholas President

Ruth Nicholas, senior art major from Havertown, Pa., was elected president of Bainonian society in balloting held last month. She succeeded Mary Wills in the office.

Ann Leeder, junior, was elected vice-president. Other members include LaDonna Baylor, treasurer; Joy Hayes, secretary; Betty Hammers and Betty Carroll, Skit Night chairmen; and Izzy Leitch and Lois Lerch, program chairman.

Stein Plays Title Role In Playhouse's 'Mr. Pim'

Cast in the title role of A. A. Milne's "Mr. Pim Passes By," Maryville College Playhouse's first spring production, is Bill Stein, freshman philosophy major from WilkesBarre, Pa. Tryouts for the play which will be staged March 9 and 10 were held Friday evening, January 12, in Bartlett Hall.

Austin VanPelt, junior sociology major from Denver, Colo., will take the part of George and the role of Olivia, his wife, will be played by Grace Myers, sophomore Religious Education major from East Springfield, Pa. Van Pelt is a College Player and Miss Myers was seen in the cast of "Hedda Gabler" given here last spring.

Masters, Stater

Lou Masters, senior English major from Roseville, Mich., will take the part of Dinah and Joe Stater, freshman from Trenton, Mich., will play opposite her as Bryan. Both Stater and Miss Masters were seen in the Playhouse production of "Our Town" last fall.

Lady Marden will be played by Louise Packard, junior French major from Hammonton, N. J., and Anne by Joan Titley, sophomore English major from Corinth, Mississippi.

Crews

John Schaumberg, George Barber, Jim Townsend, and Joanne Edwards are scenery committee. Jane Hassinger is properties chairmen, helped by Arthur Van Alystyne, Jim Hunt, and Clifford Church. Lighting chairman is Dan Dunbar assisted by George Caldwell and Norma Lou Loetz. Ticket chairman is Walter Elwood; Jean Titley, Ruth Nicholas, and Mary Wilkes.

Church Moderators Meet In Knoxville

Dr. Hugh I. Evans, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church, U.S. A., and Dr. Benjamin R. Lacy, Jr., Moderator of the Presbyterian Church, US, or "Southern Church," will be principal speakers at the Pan-Presbyterian Youth Convention to be held in Knoxville on February 3 at the Second Church.

Maryville A Capella Choir and Knoxville College Choir will provide special music. The purpose of the convention is to provide wider fellowship among Presbyterian Youth of this area and within a certain radius. It will climax National Youth Week in America.

Disc Club Elects Chairman, Members; Choses New Theme

Nina Ruth Gillette, George Caldwell, Larry Wallace are new committee members for Disc Club, it was announced this week. Pat Cox, senior music major from Pittsburgh, is the new chairman.

The semester theme will be "Music of the Stage" and meetings are held the first and third Thursdays of each month in the FAC lounge at 6:45 p.m. The first meeting will be held January 25 and the commentator will be Annabelle Libby.

Lloyd Participates In Nat'l. Groups

President Ralph Waldo Lloyd will take part on Tuesday and Wednesday, January 23 and 24, in the third general meeting of the National Conference on Church Union at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Among the nine or ten denominations which will be represented are Presbyterian USA, Presbyterian US, Methodist, Congregational Christian, Disciples, and Evangelical and Reformed. Chairman of the Conference is Bishop Ivan Lee Holt of the Methodist Church; Vice-chairman is President Lloyd; and secretary is Dr. Dougals Horton of the Congregational Christian Church.

From Cincinnati President Lloyd will go to New York for the annual meeting of the Advisory Committee of the National Student YMCA, of which he is also a Vice-chairman.

Tuesday and Wednesday of this past week, President Lloyd was in New York attending meetings of the General Board of the National Council of Churches and the Executive Board of the Division of Christian Life and Work of the National Council.

The week school opened the President attended meetings of the Association of American Colleges and the Presbyterian College Union in Atlantic City.

Germans Elect Shellkopf

Results of the German Club elections held last semester are as follows: Earl Shellkopf, president; Carson Seeley, vice-president and program chairman; Jesse Anderson, secretary-treasurer, and Jean Anderson, publicity chairman.

The club will hold its first meeting January 22 at 6:45 in Herr Reber's classroom.

Dr. Lloyd Announces Gift Raised Fund To $400,000

By Phyll Jackson

The announcement of a $100,000 gift to the college for the chapel fund by a friend who wishes to remain anonymous was made by President Ralph W. Lloyd in Thursday chapel. The gift brings the fund to a total of nearly $400,000, a sum which is double the original estimated cost of the chapel. Construction can begin as soon as plans are completed, government regulations, availability of materials, and the national military situation permitting.

In a "family talk" concerning the war crisis and its relationship to the college, Lloyd spoke of encouraging signs for us in the midst of the emergency: the many friends of the college and the present gift to the chapel fund.

He presented four basic facts on which college men agree: 1) that the present national crisis has two time schedules, making it different from other crisis, if we can analyze it: the first of these time schedules could be called a "short pull," meaning the present emergency in which we find ourselves in Korea, an emergency which when it is done is finished; the second, a "long pull," meaning the conflict which is waged between two ideals such as Communism and democracy; one not easily finished. 2) that the situation can bet met by a) military measures which would prove the most definite and prominent, the current national policy being to mobilize three and a half million of an armed force and b) educational and spiritual measures which would take into consideration each individual and his relation to all-out war.

3) that both of the two basic facts above effect the lives of youth today and tomorrow more than any other age bracket. Business can be waged by older heads but war is primarily waged by youth. 4) that colleges are affected by a national crisis more than any other institution. The enrollment of colleges, especially the male element, depends on government policy and the total situation. While the U.S. has less than one fifteenth of the world's population, it has over one half of the college population.

Maryville's Future

U.S. colleges face a decided drop in enrollment and thus Maryville is affected. There has been an eight percent drop in college enrollment; more specifically, there has been a seven per cent drop in liberal arts college enrollment.

As far as the draft concerns men students, now all may stay in college until the end of the college year. Those who have left already have done so voluntarily, expecting to place themselves better by enlisting. A new draft law which will come into effect is as yet unknown. Fifteen formulae are being presented in consideration of this new law.

Church Vocations Conference Held On MC Campus

There is being held on Maryville campus this week-end a conference on church vocations for students of several colleges in this part of the South. The conference is under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church USA boards of Christian Education, National Missions, and Foreign Missions.

Directors are Dr. Clifford E. Davis of Philadelphia; the Rev. Laurance W. Lange of New York; and the Rev. Paul R. Lindholm of New York, recently a missionary in China and the Philippines. There will also be several other guest leaders.

Enrollment Drops To 744 Students

Enrollment for the second semester of Maryville College's 132nd year is 744 students, a reduction of 82 under last semester's total. The reduction was much less than anticipated, the Personnel Office announced.

The second semester of 1949 saw enrollment drop by 52 students, and in 1950 the reduction was 42.

'51 Varsity Debate Team Announced

Tryouts for the 1950-51 debate squad were held on December 12, 1950. As a result of the contests the following were selected as members of the debating teams: Men: Bill Caldwell, Bob Cuthill, Lewis Evans, Tom Kelley, Gerald Knecht, Charles LaRue, Henry Van Hassell, and Newell Witherspoon; Women: Carol Corbett, Elenor Kramer, Pat Lewis, Carolyn Miller; Lorraine Petterson and Ruth Reeves.

Dr. David Briggs, Dr. V. M. Queener, and Miss Arda Walker were judges for the tryouts.

Associate Professor A. F. Pieper is the coach of this year's team. He is assisted by Mrs. Pieper and Miss Walker.

The Question for debate is "Resolved, that the non-Communist nations should form a new international organization."

Should College Men Be Drafted ?

Whether or not war comes as actually declared by the President, it is obvious that our country will continue to build a fairly large armed force for some years to come. Plans are now in Congress for additional forces. The backbone of these forces, of course, will be the young men. But the question upon which educators disagree is this: What young men shall be forced to serve? All young men?

Or should the brainiest youths be allowed deferment from compulsary military services and go to college so that the country will be assured of a flow of educated men for the future?

A month or more ago in Look Magazine James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, stated his views on this. He suggested that every youth in America —without exception—be called into military service for two years.

And by every youth, he meant just that, with the physically able compelled to serve in the armed forces, and the physically unfit to serve in other jobs for the government at the pay the armed forces get.

What about college students? Should they be exempt? Conant says no. He says they can go to college after serving in the Army, Navy, or Air Force. Conant suggests that every youth, upon reaching 18 or upon graduation from high school, be enrolled in military service. But what of deferring military service for a youth who wants to go to, or finish, college?

Conant says: "To defer military service until a man's education is complete may mean deferring it four to eight years." Opposing that he thinks they'd be better off, and so would the country, if they put in their military service first and then went to college.

Shortly after President Conant's views appeared, the Association of American Universities adopted a resolution saying for the most part what Conant said. This association is made up of 37 major colleges and universities out of the 1,800 in this country. Briefly the AAU plan goes like this:

Military service of 27 months for all males, starting at 18, not later than 19. Seventeen-year-olds could volunteer. No deferments except for extreme physical, mental or moral disability. The physically fit would have to serve in the armed forces. The defense department could use the others in necessary jobs under army pay.

But still another group have ideas. These were scholars, scientists, and educators who were asked for help in 1948 by Major General Lewis Hershey, director of Selective Service. Hershey was faced with this problem: Since the country needs draftees but at the same time will need a continuous flow of college-trained men, should college men be deferred, or what, and how? He asked six committees of scholars, scientists, and educators for recommendations. They have been studying the problem since 1948 and have come up with this answer:

That the brainiest youths, with their intelligence determined by tests, should be deferred from service so long as they went to college and achieved a certain prescribed scholastic standing.

These recommendations of the Hershey committees have not been completed fully. The American Council on Education, while following pretty much the recommendations of the Hershey committees, would lower a bit the standards of the intelligence tests by which these youth were picked.

Should College men be drafted?

Mrs. John Walker—

Maryville as a college and as a community was much grieved last month at the passing of Mrs. John Walker of Morningside. She will long be remembered by those who knew her as one of vibrant personality and spirit; and by those who had not the privilege of a personal acquaintanceship, she will be remembered through the college's many physical improvements which were her gifts. She was a remarkable woman who reached a remarkable age, and we are indebted to her in every sense.

Still, at this time, we must guard against a danger in our thinking. The important thing is not what she gave, but that she gave. Although the size of her gifts do make her memorable as an outstanding benefactor of this college, the spirit in which she made those gifts surpasses them in real significance and importance. By all means, let us remember the many things she did for Maryville College, but above them let us place those intangible qualities of character which were hers as of greater consequence. That is the way she would have wanted it.

March Of Dimes–

When the announcement is made for us to support the March of Dimes, it is hoped that Maryville College students wlil respond geenrously. Too often people are prone to expect a large well-known organizaiton of this kind to survive on the donations of others. Some consider what they have to contribute too insignificant. And most of us, never having experienced the type of problems these organizations deal with, do not realize their gravity.

Disease never singles out those who can best afford to pay the expenses, but it is often found among those who are most helpless against it. But the March of Dimes is not just a fund for the destitute. It provides a security for the thousands of average families who cannot meet adequately all the expenses. This makes it an investment for us, too. If we help it now while we can, it will help us when we are unable to help ourselves. GIVE GENEROUSLY. —RCS.

THE NIGHT BEFORE FINALS

'Twas the night before finals, and all through the dorm
Not a creature was stirring, not even a worm.
The blue books were spread on the table with care
In hopes that vacation time soon would be there.
The students were cramming, but longed for their beds,
While visions of failures dragged through their heads.
Roommate in her curlers and I in my robe
Had just settled our brains our studies to probe,
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter
We sprang from our chairs to see what was the matter.
Away to the window we flew like a flash
And threw up the shade as well as the sash.
The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow
Gave a lustre of mid-day to objects below,
And cut on the sidewalk just what should we spy
But a little old man with a glittering eye.
With his hat on his head he resembled an elf,
And we knew in a momen it had to be Ralph.
More rapid than eagles his curses they came,
And he whistled and shouted and called us by name,
"Now Carol, now Barbara, LaDonna, and Doris,"
And they stuck out their heads and answered in chorus.
"You know," he continued, "it's so late at night,
You should be in your beds—so turn out that light!
You've used all your light cuts, I know, cause I've checked.
I watch every night, and I'm always correct.
If you don't obey me, disaster will be,
For I will report you to Dean Miss Massey."
"Oh, please, Mr. Irwin, please don't be so cruel!
In three years we want to get out of this school."
Just then in the doorway they saw Mary Ann.
"What is all this noise?" the House Chairman began,
"You know that it's late. There should not be a peep,
Cause other poor students are trying to sleep.
Mrs. Fordham will wonder just what is the fuss,
And she will be so disappointed in us."
She turned on her heel and went straight to her room,
But Ralph was still waiting down there in the gloom .
They whispered their pleas, and he finally agreed
To let them take light cuts, so great was their need.
He jumped in his car, to his horn gave a toot,
And took off with a roar, the nosey old coot.
But we heard him exclaim ere he drove out of sight,
"Happy Light Cuts to All, and to All a Good Night."

HERE WE ARE AGAIN and it looks like we'll be here for about 18 or so weeks, unless Russia has other plans for us! The proverbial question, "Did you have a nice Christmas?" has been thoroughly run into the ground by now so we'll just say it's good to see you back and add our wishes for a very successful number of grade points.

BEEN HEARING ALL SORTS of reports about weather during the holiday vacation. In Florida they say it was like summer while in the north it snowed so hard "I had to carry my briefcase six blocks from the station, but I made it safely." Speaking of Dr. Lloyd, we see that he has been doing much of his favorite pasttime!

AND IT DIDN'T TAKE Mary Hamelman long to find out that the California climate was the only thing that would really be effective for her "incurable heart disease.' ' Her "flight into Egypt" was pretty successful but left too many behind debating whether to follow suit or pine away.

JACKIE LENDERMAN WAS pretty sympathetic when she read Mary's farewell notice. Not realizing that the "heart disease" was one of Cupid origin, Jackie sighed, "Aw, the poor kid!"

THERE'S NOTHING SLOW about Barbara Clark when it comes to romances in Memorial Hall laundry room but she's not telling the secret.

A RETURN TO CIVILIZATION has definitely been noted since we started eating with real forks again. Question of the week is, "Where, oh where did my pillow case go?"

DURING REGISTRATION one of the new freshman was browsing through a list of courses offered in business administration when he came upon one catalogued as "Accounting For Women." In large bold letters he tallied, "There's no accounting for women!"

TALK OF THE WEEK

JOHN OLSON

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

CAPITOL CAPERS

According to all the reviews, if you want to see the best show this week with your girl, town night would have to be Thursday or Friday. Perhaps one of you could get it changed. However, even the best of reviews can be wrong.

"Tea For Two" is the fare being served at the Capitol Theatre for Monday and Tuesday. It is a musical comedy based remotely on the stage presentation "No, No, Nannette." Active participants in the cast are Doris Day and freckles, Gordon McRae, Eve Arden, and Billy DeWolfe. Basically it is about a group of young hopefuls who try to get a musical comedy staged during the 1929 stock market crash.

Wednesday evening you can live with Robert Mitchum "Where Danger Lives." The girl he should never have met is Faith Domergue. Supporting members of the cast are Claude Rains and Maureen O'Sullivan. Look in the December 18, 1950 issue of Time mag for a review. It wasn't around when it was needed for this column.

"Treasure Island," a picture rated one of the best of the year, is showing Thursday and Friday. This is Walt Disney's first production completed with all flesh-and-blood actors. Since it is based on Robert Louis Stevenson's book of the same name, there is little need for presenting the plot. Bobby Driscoll plays Jim Hawkins, the cabin boy, and Robert Newton plays Long John Silver.

Allan "Rocky" Lane rides in on Saturday in the "Covered Wagon Raid." Also on Saturday is your last chance to see how everything is solved by "Superman."

First on the list this week is that little volume which can answer every question, but those on exams, John Kieran's "1951 Information Please." For anyone with a little extra time and a flair for memorizing, it can provide hours of fun. There is even a travel section with maps for the fellows.

"Not so Long Ago" is the second book by Lloyd Morris dealing with American life from 1896 to the present. This book presents the effects on our social life (in the broader sense) caused by the radio, automobile and moving pictures. It is profusely illustrated.

"Their Search For God" by Florence Field concerns the manner of worship of the main Oriental religions. It, too, is profusely illustrated.

Science received the largest portion of the bookshelf this week. There is the autobiography of Robert Millikan, the "Structure of Matter," "Radio Technology," Experimental Embryology," "Television Simplified," and a two volume set on differential and integral calculus. People do read these books.

DOWN MELODY LANE

Maryville College is certainly fortunate musically speaking. There are four music associations which bring fine music to or near our locality: the UT Fine Arts series, the MC Fine Arts series, the Blount Civic Music Association, and the Knoxville Civic Music Association.

Since the semester has started, there has been Leonard Pennario, pianist; the Robert Shaw Chorale, and the Boston University Seminary Singers. In the very near future, there will also be the First Piano Quartet. It is very pleasant to note the number of MC students who take advantage of these programs as much as possible.

Echo Forum

To The Editor:

There seems to have been some debate and discussion in the city of Maryville recently over the innovation of opening the town's gas stations on Sunday. Although the college isn't the most affected group involved, because of our close interrelationship with the community, we feel we rate an opinion anyway.

In the first place, if we were going to try to be technical, we'd probably point out that the Old Testament laws about observing the Sabbath apply just to the Sabbath, which is, of course, from sundown on Friday to sundown on Saturday, and don't involve the exclusively Christian Lord's Day, or Sunday, at all. But the ideas concerned with keeping a day of rest which the Jews devised for their seventh day, or Sabbath, have been pretty much taken over by Christianity and applied (if with technical error) to Sunday, the first day of the week.

And considering the spirit rather than the letter of the law, there also seem to be some rather conclusive things involved. We do not see that right or wrong is conditioned by temporal circumstances. In other words, if it's wrong to do something (including buying gas or having one's oil checked) at one time, it's probably wrong at any other time; and if it's right, in an ethical sense of that word, then it's right any time and not more or less so on any certain day of the week. We also fail to see why it necessarily follows that opening service stations means that the next step is a "wide open" town on Sunday. Gas stations could almost be classified with drug stores in the necessity category anyway.

We trust that the good people of Maryville have been so conditioned by the healthy and strong influences of home and community and church that the mere opening of the gas station on Sunday will not drastically affect local moral and spiritual life.

FROM THE DEAN OF WOMEN:

Recent questions about the "extra" concerts on the UT Concert Series make it advisable to remind all concerned of the procedure worked out two years ago by the Student Faculty Senate and approved by the Student Council and the Executive Council of the Faculty. The action was taken in view of the considerable problem created by requests to attend numerous off-campus concerts in the Knoxville-Maryville community totaling twenty or more during the year. It was generally agreed that in view of the already crowded schedule of Maryville College activities, attendance at off-campus concerts must necessarily be limited in the interest of economy of time and money. The main points of the plan worked out two years ago and put into effect at the beginning of last year are as follows:

1. Each year students so desiring may buy season tickets to attend the regular University of Tennessee Concert Series. Transportation to and from each concert will be arranged by the College.
2. Extra concerts will not be included except in the case of an extra concert of unusual artistic merit which may be approved by the student-fac-

"One Bright and Sunny Day. . . (Not) To My Surprise"
As I was walking down the street,
One bright and sunny day,
I chanced upon an old new-sheet,
A-blowing on the way
I grabbed it up,
And opened it up,
And (not) much to my surprise—
I discovered the scores,
Right before my eyes.
—The Barber of Sevierville

"Added Comment"
Old, decrepit, wornout and outmoded Single Wing,
On New Year's Day, You were allowed one, last fling,
Your past. . . . forgotten,
Your future. . . rotten.
Oh, oh, pardon me, sharp and vivacious Single Wing,
Please tell me, confidentially, aren't you, "The Thing"?
—Mehre Fellow

Ah, yes, Pop Warner and all of his old adherants had their field day on January 2. And the old tinge of our usual insanity popped out again. "The thing" was the Single Wing. In four out of the five top bowls, the winning team used that old "outmoded" formation called the single-wing, but its faithful die-hards proved that the new souped-up thing operated by young specialists can score just as many TD's as the modern T and Split T. Since the war, with the advent of the old-buck lateral play, the single wing this year more than held its own and as some folks say "The old horses and buggy offense has gotten a television set and radar added." Some stuff has been lifted from the T and combined with the two-on-one blocking, most defensive men didn't have a chance. It was all a very enjoyable day.

●THE OUTLOOK FROM HERE (To be read especially by Freshmen) It is rather bleak on the mat front considering the losses from last year's squad which won seven matches and lost only two—to powerful Auburn, SEAAU champs, and Arkansas State's Indian's who are perennial Southwestern contenders. Among those gone are Jim Marvin, 121 pounder finalist of the SEAAU tourney; Tom Yeaworth 155-er; Tubby Callaway, Most Valuable Wrestler of the SEAAU tourney and 145 champ; Lawrence Major, 155 pounder who was known more this past year for his taping-specialties as football trainer; Captain Hershell Merriman, 165-lbs, with 7 wins and only two setbacks; and Bob Whizzer White, Maryville's greatest contribution to the histrionic activities of the sport.

However, with lettermen Cameron, Anderson, talent which fills the upper weights comes through and Palmer, back to form the nucleus of this year's squad, the Scot matsmen may do better if the frosh in tough spots. This is Coach Davis' biggest worry for co-captain Palmer is the only experienced man from 157 pounds on up. Great godsend so far this season has been the coming out of Harold Glad and Dick Patton who have caused both Palmer and Coach Davis to bubble over with enthusiasm as to their potentialities. Perhaps after tonight's meet, a brighter idea may be available as what to expect for the season.

●BASKETBALL—Not too much can be said about the cage sport after the debacle Monday night. In the first 12 minutes of the fray it seemed as if it were a recurrence of the Emory & Henry game and when MC finally did hit the rim, "loyal" Scot fans set up a "rousing cheer." However, with the count 32-7, things began to take a turn for the better and the so-called sarcastic cheers or jeers turned to the real thing as the scrubs pulled an about face on the Bucs. From this point on during the game, MC played Coach Ed Brooks' team to a standstill and even outscored them 25-24 pernts. But with such a lead, any kind of a team would have won. It's funny (and we don't use the word in it's comical sense but in the strange quirk of fate meaning) how a fast break team or any other team for that matter gets in such a rut that no matter what they do, it winds up wrong; and the whole shebang stops suddenly when a bunch of scrubs or guys using some other system—be it any kind of sport—get in there and do what ordinarily wouldn't be done and make it work. As in football, a basketball takes many a funny bounce.

Tonight, the Scots take off for Milligan and a four game road trip. We sure hope that things get to working as they did the first part of the season and the last portion of the ETS game.

One of the strange quirks we've noticed so far this season is in that usually unproductive field of statistic. So far this year, in games MC has played, the team, be it Maryville or ETS or Podunk Center, the team that has fouled the most has won.

We aren't advocating a policy of "Get Tougher and Rougher", but just noticed the strange facts as they were. And as the season goes along, we'll see whether it follows such a course the year through. Might be int'resting.

●GIVING CREDIT WHERE CREDIT IS DUE goes to Jimmy Townsend who headed this year's pep committee and gave the MC campus some of the greatest pep ever seen on The Hill even though odds were agin' it. Credit also geos to George Barber, To mKees, and all those others who helped Townsend stage the very successful Homecoming Parade and Faculty members Mr. Ainsworth and Miss Walker who transported the cheerleaders and Pep Committee members to away games at their own cost. Orchids also go to Pep Members Sara Jo Emert, Sally Kemp, Dick Jones, J. A. Cameron, Arch Swarztrauber, and the Coaches and football men who did their darndest to win.

●THOUGH ITS OUT OF SEASON we are calling any and all attention to the new football field. The field covers up half of MC'c ancient and antiquated track, and, as of now, provisions are just being made for making the track on the same pattern that the Cross Country men run on.

We don't know what it means, but if the track is left idle it will mean that there won't be any track next spring—at least at home anyhow. Track was revived in the last couple of years and somehow or another Coach Davis has managed to get one track meet here each year and to stir up some interest. Unless the faculty and bigdomes do something, track may die out through a policy of non-action. A good track could be built on the present site and a concrete boulevard edged around it to keep the weeds out and the cinders in. Let's get something done in this direction.

●ANOTHER SPORT ON ITS WAY OUT? Perhaps the next five years will see WRESTLING on its way out. Yes, that's right, wrestling—a sport in

HIGHLANDERS MEET BUFFS IN FIRST OF ROAD BATTLES

Maryville's Scots left for greener pastrues this morning and the first of several road trips to four East Tennessee schools. First on the agenda is a game with the Milligan College Buffaloes who will have the big nucleus of last year's team back again. Sid Hathaway, poured in 28 points in two encounters against MC last year, leading Coach Edwin Olds' team to victories when in both instances the Buffs were trailing. Hathaway and Kenny Hyder made six baskets in a row and eight points in a row respectively, in the encounter in MC's gym. And in a game this year, the agile Hathaway, both a driver and set-shot artist poured 38 markers in, thus marking him as the one to watch. Over the years, Milligan has won fifteen contests and MC 14, so the series has been a close one, though, the Buffs have been gaining the upper hand lately.

Krown King!

On Monday night, the Highlanders meet King's Tornadoes in a return game at Bristol. MC won the first encounter on the home boards as center Babe Keny swished and swooshed 'em. Last year, the Honakermen walked off to an easy 62-38 win on the Alumni floor but had to battle to win a 75-68 game there. Coach Grant Johnson will depend on forward Jim Flanagan to carry the burden of the Tornado attack. The sparkling freshman dumped in 19 points to lead King's forces in the Scots second contest of the season.

Blast The Buc's!

The following night sees the Bucaneers of East Tennessee State host to the traveling Highlanders. ETS won the initial necounter of this year by a 75-52 score after running up a 32 point lead in the initial stages of the game. Coach Ed Brooks has a fairly new squad this year, but paced by triple-sport athlete, Bob Lloyd, the Pirates aren't doing so bar. However, those wh believe strongly in the workings of superstitution and precedent may take some consolation in the fact that both teams have split all games played since 1941—If ETS won the first, MC won the second and so on down the line. Since 1917 when bucketing relationships were established, Orange and Garneteers have come out somewhat to the better—21 wins as opposed to 12 losses.

Split Them Rails

And on Thursday, MC will take on the Railsplitters of LMU at Harrogate. Coach Dean Bailey's Big Blue won the first encounter this year by a thrifty seven point margin. MC has won 21 of 34 contests with LMU on the long end of 13 of 'em. For the last year's in the long run, the Big Blue have been building up the sport and the number of their wins. Last season it was an MC loss on the road and one likewise for LMU when they came to Alumni Gym. Big men to look out for will be Center Bill Bargo and Guard Gene Wright who pushed in 13 and 11 points, respectively.

Highlanders Win One; Drop Three In A Row

ETS Wallops MC

A smooth East Tennessee State crew of sharpshooters spurted to a fifteen point advantage in the opening minutes of the game and they were never headed as they downed Maryville's Scotties 76 to 52, last Monday night.

In the closing minutes of the first half the Scotties caught fire and narrowed the visitor's lead considerably. Maryville fans roared as the Scotties, who were outscored by only one point in the second half, tried desperately to overcome the early Buccaneer lead.

Couldn't Miss

The almost phenominal State marksmanship—their field goal percentage was just slightly under five hundred—was too much for the Maryville Five. Forward Bob Lloyd, with twenty-three points, and guard George Woy, with seventeen points, were the night's top point producers.

Babe Keny, who spearheaded the Scottie drive in the second half, was high point man for the Scotties with eleven points. Stan Down's contributed ten points to the Maryville cause.

MOCS SUBDUE SCOTS

Maryville's spirited bucket brigade invaded the tiny University of Chattanooga gym last Saturday night and wound up on the wrong end of a 69 to 36 score.

Couldn't Hit

The Scotties managed to stay in the ball game through the first half, trailing by just twelve points when they left the floor at the intermission, but they couldn't keep pace with the fast-moving Chattanooga hoopsters. Center Al Heil poured fifteen points through the hoop in the second half as his team pulled away from the outplayed Scottie quintet.

Heil's total of nineteen points was high for the evening while Joe Hopkins' twelve points paced the Maryville attack.

Voskuhl Lead Tigers To Close 67-62 Win

Two personages, named Bob Voskuh and George Pennington, led the Tigers from Georgetown, Ky., to a close 67-62 win the last minutes of a thriller played before the Holidays. The big, big, Voskuhl just waded in and controlled most of the rebounds besides leading the scoring with 25 points, Pennington, "off his usual form" according to his coach, dropped in a measly "24" counters and aided in backboard control. Meano Shields, MC forward, got to faking the opposition well enough for the little man to score 20 points. Center Babe Keny was right behind with 16 and did most of his rebounding off the visitors' basket because of their superior rebound heighth and ability.

Free Shots Win For LMU

Superior accuracy at the free throw lane which saw them make the most of their charity shots as well as field goal attempts enabled LMU's Railsplitters to take victory home in the last moments of a sharply-changing game. LMU ran out to a quick lead only to see it vanish away. After tying 32-all in the first ten minutes of the second half, the LMU heighth began taking rebounds and potting all-important free throws.

Keny Kracks King

Center Babe Keny was the whole show in this game as he racked up 25 points in leading MC to a 68-56 conquest over King College on Alumni hardwood. Maryville after a close first quarter, pulled ahead in the earily part in the second half with King closing the gap against the subs, but not before the gong had sounded. Bob McClelland and Charlie Allen were next with 11 apiece.

Intramurals....

BASKETBALL

The rough and tumble Intramural basketball season continued on its merry way with eight games already played this week and six more slated.

In the Orange League the Whizzers maintained their hold on first place by drubbing the Recruits, Johnson's nineteen points leading the way. Redman stopped the winles Gobblers, 18 to 4, and moved into a tie for third place with Alpha Sig's Woodman, who were upset by the Nighthawks, 26 to 24.

Pre-Min. A. continued its winning ways by downing the previously unbeaten Creamers 14 to 13. Pre-Min. B split two games this week and the Hig Nips moved up to third place from fifth and show promises of making a lot of trouble for the League leaders.

Intramural Briefs

The Intramural Office has announced that the annual foul shooting and thirty second shooting contests will start January 29th. and the Intramural track meet is slated for May 7th. Lists are up in the Intramural office for those wishing to sign for any of the above mentioned sports. The Intramural office is also back... a Badminton tournament which will start Monday and the tournament is open to both men and women. The tournament will be sponsored by Coach Johnson's Community Recreation Class and all details (we hope) are to be handled by the intellectual students taking the course.

MATMEN MEET 'NOOGAS MOCS

Wrestlers Go On Road For Opener

Chattanooga will provide the scenery tonight in the first big test of action for Maryville's wrestling team. With the loss of six starting members from last year's quad, tonight's match will provide a good idea of what to expect in the future.

Rough and Tough

Co-captains Herb Palmer and Chesley Anderson, along with J. A. Cameron and Jimmy Callaway will face the hardest test of any MC men because the strength of George Carpenter's team lies in their weights 175 or Heavyweight, 138, 130, and 147 pounds, respectively.

Scores of last year's matches with Chattanooga were 22-7 and 21-10. So far this year, Chattanooga has tied Vanderbilt, 18-18, and

Way Down Low

Starting for MC at 123 pounds—all weight classes having been upped two pounds will be one of three men for MC—all aggressive enough but not all down to the right weights. So far, Clyde McCampbell of the trio is the only one to be down below weight maximum. Bill Clarke and Bob Kees will be the other men who may or may not get the job of taking on the Moc's entry. One thing, tho, MC's man'll have a chance because George Owens of the Mocs—their last year's captain—is gone.

Let's Win Three

J. A. Cameron will go at 130 pounds against Chattanooga's Ted Van Tanhausen. Last year, Cameron defeated Chattanooga's entry in that class, Cornelius, in the first going, and was drawed by Owens in the second encounter in a fancy switching around of weights. Tanhausen won over his opponent from Vandy as the Commodores were tied by Chattanooga, 18-18.

Chesley Anderson will go against Art Conroy at 138 pounds with little known about its potential outcome. Anderson outslicked his Moc-opponents in both matches last year while Conroy defeated his Vandy opponent in their first meet.

Jimmy Callaway will take on the same opponent as did his brother Tubby last year and will have a battle on his hands. The redoubtable 147 pounder from the Lower Bend was pinned by the elder C. in the second period of their lone match.

Keep Out Of A Pin

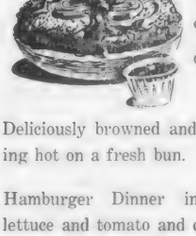
And from here on in, it will be a question of whether or no, MC's wrestlers can keep away from getting the ignominious nickname of "Canvasback." Three newcomers to the mat will wear Scot leotards into the fray. Joe Poland came out this year for the 157 class, made it, and should give a good account of himself against an unknown Chatty opponent.

At 167 pounds, it will either be Jerry King or Jimmy Squires againts a Moc of unknown entity. Here's another danger spot upon whose outcome may rest the outcome of the match. The inexperienced King and Squires have not picked up all the tricks of the trade and still lack somewhat on the aggressiveness part because of said lack of knowledge. Jimmy Cox will wrestle in the 177 pound clas and will be told to keep out of a pinhold if possible and to try and get a decision. Cox has picked-up greatly but against a Chattanooga wrestler of these same unknown qualities. Anything can happen.

Two Vets Battle

As happened last year, Herb Palmer will start out as a Heavy weight representative and work down to his accustomed 177 for next Saturday's macth with Knoxville Y. Palmer will have to use all of his mat science because his opponent Tom Drake is a veteran. Drake faced the fan's favorite, Bob White last year in his lone encounter and buffoomed the Whizzer into a pin in the second period. This year, he defeated his Vandy opponent to pull the Mocs into a tie with the Commodore team.

Scots Kicked Over By Hiwassee, 73-69



A banged-up thumb and theloss of a man via the foul route broke Maryville's basketeer's chances of busting out of a slum and Hiwassee's Tigers wo ntheir third in a row over MC, 73-69. MC had gone out in front by halftime, mainly on the strength of Shields who pushed in 15 points, to MC a 36-33 lead. Then came the mishap soon after the intermission plus Charlie Allen's leaving the game via the foul route shortly after. Hiwassee edged up and it was seesaw till the half centurv mark whence the Tigers pulled ahead. One other noticeable feature of the game was Hiwassee's non-substitution during the fast and very rough game.

which Maryville has had but one even-close losing year and has won 99 matches and lost only 22 while tieing five. What's the trouble?—a lack of men in the 155 pound classes and up. It hasn't been so bad in the 155, 165, and 175 pound classes up until this year with only a lack of heavyweights creating a problem. But this year, there is only one tried veteran in the upper classes—Herb Palmer in the 175 pound class. For the last five or six years, MC has been forced to wrestle 175 pounders against Heavyweights and it has hurt in close matches—Paul Yambert, John Briggs, and Palmer having had to wrestle men fifty pounds heavier than they. So if you weigh 155 or over, come out and give it a try—you'd be surprised at how much you'll pick up in the matter of knowledge of the game and in boosting the morale.

Faulkner Brothers Attend Convention

Bill and Sam Faulkner from Memphis represented Maryville College at the Fifth Annual Intercollegiate Forum meeting in that city at Southwestern-at Memphis. Attending the forum were 38 students from 20 colleges and universities.

Topics under discussion at the Forum were "Higher Education-East and West," "Everyday Problems in Higher Education," "Does the American College Student Asume His Political Responsibility?"

The U. S. Eighth Army fought back this week in what has been described as "reconnaissance in force." The Eighth Army has advanced some 16 miles in this counter-attack. So far, however, it is doubtful that the Allies are ready for the big push at this time. It's encouraging to know that in spite of the heavy odds our troops haven't lost sight of their goal, to drive the Red Aggressors out of Korea.

Ike Eisenhower arrived in Italy this week to discuss the Italian contribution to the new European defense army. The Communist Party of Italy called for a general strike and mass demonstrations to protest Ike's action. The government took action to prevent these measures.

A rejection of the U.N. cease fire order by the Chinese Reds was forthcoming this week on the grounds that it would only give the U.N. forces time to rest up.

Collegium Series Given January 26

For their Collegium Musicum Series this year, the music faculty of Maryville College has chosen to present the history of American music. Three recitals are planned: the first, to be presented Friday evening, January 26, will illustrate the beginnings of music in this country and the influence of German romantics; the second will present music influenced by French impressionists, Scriabin, and the native jazz rhythm; the third will illustrate music of the contmeporary period.

Friday night program which will be held at 8:15 in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center includes: J. F. Peter's "Quintet in D," James Bremner's "Trumpet Air," Raynor Taylor's "The Bells," Francis Hopkinson's "Beneath a Weeping Willow Shade," Taylor's "Cupid and the Shepherd." Barnard's "Mear," William Billing's "Rocky Nook" and "Majesty," Daniel Reed's "Russia;"

W. H. Fry's "Grant Me Only One Hour." Gottschalk's "Pensee Poetique," Mason's "Fruhlingsblume," J. K. Paine's "Fuga Giocosa," McDowell's "Thy Beaming Eyes." Farwell's "On a Faded Violet," and Horatio Parker's "O bona Patria."

Participating

Dorothy Horne will be the commentator for the program. Faculty members included in the series will be Katherine Crews, Alice Eaddy, Dorothy Horne, Katharine Davies, Harry Harter, Bernice Blair, Curtis Hughes and Thelma Nelson; students, Joy Hayes and Doris Somerville.

$100,000

As yet there are no plans for military units to be placed here on campus as were during '43 and '44. The organizing of such groups would, of course, help to financially balance the loss in enrollment. The national average increase in college cost somewhere near 65 percent whereas Maryville has jumped only fifteen per cent in comparison.

There is an encouraging tone to the whole situation, however. The Fine Arts Center is completed and in use and prospects for a chapel soon look good. Since the addition of this most recent gift, the total fund stands at somewhere near $400,000 dollars. Originally it was thought that $200,000 would build a chapel but building costs have doubled and accordingly the amount necessary has. Still with the necessary cash on hand, government restrictions are prohibitive and the sum does not cover furnishings, a very necessary part of the building.

In closing, Dr. Lloyd urged, "We ought to make a resolution to the effect that we should live with faith and courage. We must reject the idea that another world war is in evitable. Christian faith is adequate—we must go forward with utter dependance on God."

At present there are four such series with a total of more than twenty concerts each season: The UT Concert Series, the Knoxville Symphony, the Knoxville Civic Music Association, and the Blount Civic Music Association. When the present plan was adopted two years ago, it was recalled that the UT regular series did not necessarily comprise the six best concerts and that groups would at times prefer other numbers. The only practical plan, however, was the one chosen, because it was the only way to have all the announcements of dates and numbers in advance and the only way students could take advantage of season ticket rates.

Since the Four-Piano Quartet on January 23, and the Atlanta Symphony with Oscar Levant in February, are "extras" no arrangements for transfortation have been made.

Passing of Mrs. Walker Mourned

By Claire Hoffman

Just before the Christmas holidays, the death of Mrs. Susan Walker was announced. Most of us didn't know Mrs. Walker personally, so we didn't realize how much she had contributed to the life of the college.

During her residence on the campus, she helped toward beautifying it; she donated the Walker Gates at the College Street entrance of the college and the corduroy which leads to them, and she added many flowers and shrubs to the grounds. After the chapel fire, hers was the first check for the chapel fund, and she gave more afterwards, especially for the Vesper Choir. Her last check before she died was for the fund.

Mrs. Walker came to Maryville from Pittsburgh in 1932 after the death of her husband, John Walker, who had been one of the boyhood partners of Andrew Carnegie and became associated with him in 1873..

She built "Morningside" here so that she could be near her sister, Mrs. William Stevenson, whose husband was resident pastor. Under terms of an agreement drawn up when she moved to "Morningside," the house was to go to the college at her death.

Although Mrs. Walker spent her winters in Florida, she always celebrated her birthdays on campus. It was an annual custom for the Vesper Choir to serenade her on these occasions. This April 9 she was 98, and it had been hoped previous to her death that she would live to be 100 in the place to which she had rendered so many thoughtful services.

During 1951, 44 local chapters in Tennesee were forced to obtain advances from National Headquarters totaling over $100,000. There are bills still outstanding in these chapters. Join the March of Dimes!

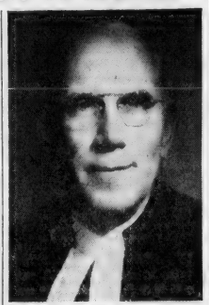
FEBRUARY MEETINGS OPEN JANUARY 31st

Pan-Presbyterian Convention Brings USA, US Moderators To Knoxville



Dr. Hugh I. Evans, Moderator of Presbyterian Church USA, will one of the principle speakers at the Pan-Presbyterian Conference being held in Knoxville's Second Presbyterian Church next weekend. Along with Dr. Evans will be Dr. Benjamin R. Lacy, Moderator of the Southern Presbyterian Church.

The convention is being planned to provide wider fellowship among Presbyterian youth of this area, to provide information and inspiration concerning youth work, and to climax National Youth Week in America.

Maryville College Vesper Choir will take part in the program as will the Knoxville College Choral Group.

Transportation is being provided for Maryville students wishing to attend the convention. Total cost will be $1.25 which includes transportation and dinner. Those planning to go must make arrangements with Assistant Professor David L. Engelhardt by Wednesday, January 31.

Busses will leave the college at 1 p.m. on Saturday and return by 9:30 a.m.

Dr. Hugh I. Evans

Sigma Goes Theta

An Alpha Sigma Quartet will entertain Theta girls at 6:15 tonight in a joint meeting to be held in the Y rooms.

Jim Kren, Jake Peppers, Arnold Munn, and Charlie Flood are the singers.

Plans will be discussed for Alpha Sig's Sweetheart program. Theta girls will also entertain at the meeting.

Lloyd, Enloe, Swift Attend Nat'l. SCA

Louise Lloyd, Nanette Enloe, and Ella Swift represented Maryville College at the fourth National Assembly of the Student Christian Association Movement at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, from December 27 to January 2.

The National Student Council YMCA and National Student YWCA make up the Student Christian Association Moement, whose Assembly meet every three years to determine policies and programs. About 1500 students from 706 colleges and universities participated in the conference.

The Assembly heard two series of addresses by outstanding church and educational leaders, who discussed such topics as "The Christian and Politics" and "Christian Vocation."

Commission hearings and committee reports gave the delegates the opportunity to join in making policies and stressed the basic characteristics of the Student Christian Association Movement.

Students, Faculty Honor President Lloyd Tuesday

By Phyl Jackson

In commemoration of his twenty years of service to the college as president, the students, faculty and staff will honor Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Waldo Lloyd at a reception on Tuesday evening from 8:00-10:30 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center.

Since Tuesday night is also Town Night students are required to be on the hill at the regular time but will be given an added half hour to be present at the reception. Dress will be either formal or informal. Attendance is restricted to members of the student body, faculty and staff of Maryville College.

Brief History

In these twenty years, Dr. Lloyd's relationship to the college has been much more than an official one in that three brothers, one sister, two sons and two daughters have all been students here while he himself graduated in 1915. His brother has given to the college its newest and most costly building, the Fine Arts Center. In Dr. Lloyd's own words "the presidency, which has now covered twenty years, has never seemed to be an honor or a "job"; it has always seemed an opportunity to join other members of the Maryville College family in a natural labor of love."

"The history of the half-century has created for every Christian college, like Maryville, staggering problems but at the same time has created an essential ministry and opportunity. That Maryville College, with its insistent emphasis on Christian higher education should have continued its service through this period with its disruptive events and its growing secularism, and that the College is today stronger than ever before, are evidences of its mission and of God's providence. At no time has Maryville College been more needed or been faced by a greater challenge."

20 Years Progress

The progress of Maryville has been notable, though not chiefly in size for year after year many applicants are turned away. The progress has not been in endowment or buildings as much as it has been in the total foundation, program, quality, recognition, and serviceableness.

Throughout the twenty years students have come from a wide area: in 1949-50 there were 40 states and and foreign countries represented. The proportion coming from a distance has increased markedly. Constant and cosmopolitan, the enrolment has remained chiefly from church homes, ninety-nine per cent being Protestant and nearly sixty per cent Presbyterian.

Changes

During the present administration two major revisions have been effected: the extending of college week from five to six days and the introduction of a program called Special Studies.

The campus acreage has increased from 275 in 1930 to a present total of 385. Twenty years ago there was but one section of paved road while today all roads are paved.

The tragic loss of the Elizabeth R. Voorhees Chapel effected the college life tremendously and as yet the rebuilding has not been undertaken. The announcement was made last week of a additional $100,000 gift to the fund by a friend who wished to remain anonymous. Three main gateways have been added during the period under consideration as have the big steps, the dining hall annex, the college dairy and equipment, Morningside and the Guest House in the woods, the Student Center, the office annex.

PRESIDENT RALPH W. LLOYD

Dr. Stein, Chicago, Is Guest Speaker

By Dick Newman

Dr. Luther E. Stein, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Oak Park, Illinois, will begin the 75th series of February Meetings Wedensday, January 31.

Services will be conducted each morning except Sunday at 9:45 in Alumni Gym and each evening except Saturday at New Providence Presbyterian Church at 7:10. Interview schedules will be announced.

Dr. Stein, who conducted the Meetings in 1946, is a graduate of Hastings College, Nebraska, was pastor of the San Anselmo Presbyterian Church, California, and Glendale Presbyterian Church in Los Angeles, and was head of the Division of Church Relations of the Board of Christian Education before accepting the Oak Park pastorate.

Dr. Sidney E. Stringham, pastor of the Cabanne Methodist Church in St. Louis, returns to lead singing for the 29th year.

Introductory services will be at New Providence Church on Sunday morning and at the vesper service Sunday evening. President Lloyd will preach the sermon and the choir will sing in the morning and Dr. Thomas A. Graham, pastor of the church, will be the speaker at vespers.

"There is no period in the college year when the best interests of students and faculty are invested so definitely and earnestly as in the period of the February Meetings.

Dr. Luther E. Stein

"And there is no part of the Maryville College life which alumni remember more gratefully," announced President Ralph Lloyd.

'Everyman' Footlighted March 16th. By M C Experimental Theatre Cast

By Carson Seeley

Cast for the Experimental Theatre play, "Everyman," has been announced by Miss Craven, Maryville College Playhouse director. Members are George Caldwell, as Everyman; Bill Starr, God; Dave Reed, Death; Jim Hunt, Fellowship; Katherine Blackburn, Kindred.

Ray Kuhn is Cousin; Mary Ann Hicks, Goods; Joanne Edwards, Good Deeds; Norma Lou Loetz, Knowledge; Dorothy Greenhagen, Confession; Jane Hassinger, Beauyt; David Latis, Strength; Mary Wade Newton, Discretion; Walter Elwood, Five-Wits; Mary Wilkes, Messenger.

Austin Van Pelt is House Manager. Carl Drescher is Stage Manager assisted by Ken Rutherford, Dorothy Greenhagen and Lou Masters. Lighting is handled by Dan Dunbar with Mary Wilkes assisting. Mary Wade Newton, Joanne Edwards and Clifford Church are in charge of costumes.

Art Van Alstyne assisted by Ruth Nicholas is in charge of scenery. Dorothy Greenhagen is in charge of tickets, Joan Titley and Norma Lou Loetz assisting. Grace Myers, assisted by Louise Packard and Phyl Jackson, is in charge of publicity.

"Everyman," the first Experimental Theatre production this semester, will be presented March 16 in Bartlett Auditorium at 7:30 and 9. It is an allegorical morality play originating in medieval times.

"Everyman" is summoned to go with Death unless he can present an adequate defense on why he should go to heaven. In his defense he asks his friends for aid, but they all forsake him except Knowledge and Good Deeds. "Everyman" then learns that he needs Good Deeds, of which he has few, to get him to heaven.

Workshop Hears Starr, Blum; Elects Johanson

Writers' Workshop met last Wednesday to hear papers by Bill Starr and Barbara Blum.

Lois Johnson has been elected as a new member of the Shop to fill a vacancy left by a mid-year graduate. Newell Wilkerson was elected to the Governing Board; no chairman for the board has been elected as yet.

Women Students Compete In T. T. Alexander Prize

All women students interested in competing for the T. T. Alexander Oratorical Prize will meet in the Philosophy lecture room, Thaw 214, on Thursday, February 1, at 10:30 a.m.

The T. T. Alexander Prize Fund which is open alternately to men and women students is an annual prize awarded to the persons placing first and second in an oratorical contest sponsored by the Bible and Religious Education faculty. The Fund was establsihed by a friend who wishes to remain anonymous.

Dr. Lloyd Authors Magazine Article

President Ralph Waldo Lloyd is the author of an article entitled "Can the Presbyterians Get Together Again?" in the January 20 issue of "Presbyterian Life" magazine.

Chairman of the permanent Commission on Inter-church Relations in the USA Church, Dr. Lloyd points out specific instances of cooperation between branches of the Presbyterian Church.

He says that "'avenues of acquaintance and cooperation' are being explored and travelled" and that all projects "reveal an increasing unity in spirit and program."

Vols Meet, Hear 'Great Challenge'

A program entitled "The Greatest Challenge of the Year" will be presented at Student Vols tomorrow evening in Bartlett auditorium immediately after vespers.

Speakers participating are Doris Somerville, Bill Varker, Mary Wills, and Dick Ribble. Special music will be provided by Ruth Thomas and Ruth Nicholas. Charles Reid is pianist.

At the close of the program, pledge cards and service cards will be available for all persons interested in becoming active members of Student Vols.

Creed For Youth Heard Over WGAP

Y Radio weekly show will air "A Creed for Youth" this Monday night at 9:30 over local WGAP. Those participating will be John Shew, Sue Martin, Nannette Enloe, Barbara Blum, Dave Reed, and Bill Starr.

The program will be one of word and music telling a creed of life and the thoughts of youth on work, freedom, strength, giving, friendship, love and joy. This is the second show this semester, the first being the transcribed story of Sam Higginbottom under the direction of Bill Starr.

With Uncle Sam—

Chuck Gahagan, ex'51, USN, now attached to USS Shea:

"Since I last saw you all, I have covered much ground and water. I left the Charleston Mine Craft Base on the 22nd of November for Italy, stopping at Springfield, Mass., where I flew the Military Air Transport Service to Newfoundland, Azores, Port Tyantry, French Morocco, and then to Nice, France. In France I saw the Crown Prince and Queen of Holland. At this writing we are just a few hours out of Trieste. We are spending Christmas here and will serve as Santa Claus for a group of European children."

John Ferris, '50, USN, now in Guam:

"The days here on Guam seem to fly by quickly, though I can't quite understand for we don't have much to make them go. The beaches are good and, of course, we go for a swim every chance we get. I've used a mask and swam down under water—you can see coral growing and all kinds of fish. I heard the "Messiah" on Dec. 28th—it was an excellent presentation."

Ray Kirby, '50, USA, now at Scott Air Base, Ill.:

"I am serving as a Welfare Specialist with the Wing Chaplain here at Scott. The Air Force isn't bad now that I've finished with Texas and basic training!"

YM, YW Sponsor Prayer Chapel

Because of the desire of many students for a prayer chapel on campus, YM, YW, Student Vols, and Ministerial Association, in conjunction with the administration have undertaken such a project. Renovation of the old Chatterbox is nearing completion and the Prayer Room will soon be available for daily individual or group meditation. Announcement of its opening will be made soon.

January 30th has been set aside as a Day of Prayer for the February Meetings. Special dorm meetings and Morning Watch will be especially emphasized during the extent of the Meetings. The All-Campus Prayer Meeting has announced a theme for the semester, "Prayer Is Power." and the All-Campus Devotions Committee is posting a message for "Today" outside the library doors daily.

Spanish Club Elects Members

Five new members were voted into the Spanish Club at a meeting held Thursday in Sr. Schwam's room. Joan Bash, Naomi Burgos, Mary Alice Moyer, Dean Allison, and Ethel Shockley are the new members.

Three old members, Jenny Lind Robinson, Jane McMillan, and Barbara McNiell, were also reinstated.

Mr. Schwam also announced the opening of the Modern Languages Laboratory in room 203 Anderson. The room will be open for special work in Spanish on Mondays and Tuesday, for French on Wednesdays and Thursday, and for German on Friday.

DR. GRAHAM SPEAKS

Dr. Thomas A. Graham will speak at the vesper service tomorrow night at 7:00 in the library. His topic will be "Of the Blood Royal."

Bainonian Sees Slides

Bainonian will meet tonight at 6:30 in Bainonian Hall. Tom Cumming will show slides he has taken of Maryville's campus and other places all over the country.

News Capsules—

By Walter Elwood

The 18 year old Draft made up a large portion of this week's news. The newest angle is that 18 year olds are needed to replace the casualties of the Korean "police action." It seems the boys in the defense department would like to take advantage of the present emergency by having Congress include UMT in the new draft extension bill. Although Secretary of Defense Marshall denies he is trying to slip UMT "in through the back door" we can't help but wonder.

* * * *

Russian made jets were no match for U.S. Thunderjets in the air war over Korea. In the two all-jet air battles this week the score stacked up this way: 4 Russian jets destroyed, 2 others probably destroyed, and 7 damaged. Uncle Sam's F-82s suffered no damage. Another example of American "know how" coming out on top. It seems a pity we never can find time to direct our energy into peaceful channels.

* * * *

Ground action was confined to patrol action this week. Many opinions have been offered for this lull in the fighting. Some say it is just a trick to throw our forces off guard, while others think it could mean a general withdrawal. Since this is a free country you can take your choice.

* * * *

Although action was quite on the fighting front not so back home where the controversy still rages over price control. John L. Lewis fanned the flame a little higher by asking for a $1.60 a day raise for his soft coal miners.

* * * *

We suppose the most serious news this week was the attempt by the U.S. to have Red China branded an aggressor in the U.N. The opposition among our so called Allies was rather alarming. It seems they would rather not get mixed up in this mess.

In a conflict such as this it is certain that one side must be the aggressor. If, it is not Red China, as our Allies assume, then it must be the U.N. forces. Since our policy is not one of aggression why not just withdraw our troops?

Eight Students Play In Recital

Eight students will take part in a Student Recital to be held in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center Tuesday afternoon at 4:30, January 30.

June Hood will play Mozart's "Sonata (K 300d)"; Barbara Paine will present Grieg's 'To Spring—Op. 42, No. 6"; Jeanette Whitaker will be accompanied by Barbara Scott on "Jeune Fillette" by Dayrayac and "Were My Songs With Wings Provided."

Carol Barnett will play a Rachmaninioff selection while Joyce Lingenfelter will play pieces by Chopin and MacDowell. Dorothy Horne and Carolyn Marshall will play Hindemuth's "Sonata for Violin and Piano in C". Doris Holt will play Bartok's "Allegro Barbaro."

Knoxville Quartet Sings To YW, YM

The Knoxville College Quartet directed by Newell Fitzpatrick will present a program of song to the combined Y's Sunday afternoon at 1:30 in the Library.

Jim Lester De Poling, Cora Anhony and Alita Bryant are in charge of the program.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 27, 1951

Dr. Lloyd—

It is not our object to immortalize you here within these pages. However, we are taking this opportunity to speak as a Student Body in expressing our deepest respect and sincere gratitude to you who, without a doubt, have made Maryville a true symbol of Christian education.

We think of all the times when you must have desperately wished that we would stop quipping about "It's great to be back" and "I have just returned from. . ." But we appreciate the ready smile which has always greeted remarks about you being the world's busiest globetrotter. You haven't spoiled our traditional family joke as worn out as it is.

Then we think of missing hymn books, missing chapel seats, hidden alarm clocks and other pranks which we have pulled when Maryville was being exhibited to campus guests as a typical small college. We liked the way you laughed it off though we're sure you could have personally wring each freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior neck. Knowing a little psychology, we realize that your treatment of such situations was intelligent and thorough.

The personal way in which you greet each student has always ranked you high on our list of favorite college presidents. We're sure that sometimes you couldn't remember whether we were Mrs. Brown's or Mrs. Jones' son or daughter, but we appreciated the warm handshake.

And we're justly proud of the way you have and continue to represent Maryville on the various boards and committees throughout the United States. . . and China! We consider it an honor for us as well as you that you have been so elected to serve universally. We sometimes wish it were a reflection on our intelligence also.

The Fine Arts Center has and will continue to be an architectural phenonmenon to us. It is obviously true that without you we should not have such a structure. The funds which you have raised in unceasing and untiring effors for a better Maryville have reached the staggering total of one million dollars. We're speechless!

We should not, however, leave out the very important part of your life, Mrs. Lloyd. We're sure that a great deal of your good nature comes from years of happiness with her by your side. We've read somewhere that great men usually owe some part of their good fortune to a woman—and this may well be the case here.

Therefore it is to you, Dr. Lloyd that we dedicate this issue of The Highland Echo in commemoration of your twenty years of service to Maryville College as an outstanding president. Our sincere best wishes for many more years of service in the cause of Christian Education.

Mr. Bushing was describing Belinda, the leading lady in Pope's "Rape of the Lock," to his sophomore English class. "Now," said Sir Arthur, "Belinda didn't appear at the breakfast table in the same face she got up in for she used cosmetics—the very best of cosmetics—probably Eve Arden."

Mrs. K., St. Albans, N.Y.: If your air mail letter was late in arriving please don't blame the postal authorities. The cause of the delay was that it was posted in a personnel office absence reports box instead of a mail box.

Crazy people seem to be Bill Starr's specialty lately. He has written two Writer's Workshop selections on those who have a "screw loose," the first being called "Mother Goes to the Asylum." Psychologists have a lot to say about obsessions, Bill!

"Dr. Bushing" Objects to using the words "pop quiz" to refer to the practice of pulling a fast one on the students in his classes. He prefers, he explained to his English drama class, to call it an "intellectual probing."

We Can't Forget either the time this week when Mr. Bushing was lecturing to the same class on "virtue and other vices." At the same time he asked a sophomore English lit student for an explanation of what she meant by "bad virtues."

The Art of Cataloging was being discussed at one of the library staff meetings this past week. Miss Grierson was stumbling through an expanation of the how's and why's of filing difficult subjects when she illustrated it with "Take love for example. Some people find this confusing"

The Boys of Alpha Sigma back in the early 1900's were presented with a book called something like "The Duties, Rights, and Responsibilities of Being a Woman." We thumbed through it in the stacks the other night and decided that it was a good thing that the '51 Sigs weren't aware of the small volume's presence or we'd all be toeing the mark.

Among The Popuar Sports in which Tuesday night town-goers engage we find some of the major ones. Joe Poland and Charles Williams were discussing a double date on which they were going to embark come last Tuesday night and at the same time making reference to Joe's latest activity as a wrestler. The conversation had gotten a little beyond Charles who remarked as Joe was leaving the room, "Then it is settled that we go wrestling next Tuesday night?" Yea, same thing!

Complaining of Long Assignments a junior in Mr. Bushing's (again!) fifth period class said that it had taken her a good hour and a half to get through the assigned reading matter. Ever ready with a quip, Mr. Bushing tallied, "My, you must have enjoyed it, Miss Thomas!"

TALK OF THE WEEK

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

VMS

"SIERRA" comes to the Capitol Monday and Tuesday. Ask your friends what it's about—or look at the review of it in last year's September 25 Newsweek, when it comes back from the binder's.

SHOWING WEDNESDAY is "Miss Grant Takes Richmond". You may and must judge by title as to content, for a review of this film also was not available to us at time of publication.

"Let's Dance" will show Thursday and Friday. Starring Fred Astaire and Betty Hutton, the film first shows them as a wartime song-and-dance couple who don't know how well off they are. Betty leaves to marry a man from a very proper Boston family and Fred tries his hand at being a businessman, but his success is nil.

Several years later they meet again and both go back to dancing, Betty having been left a widow with a small son and in-law trouble. Fred's dancing rescues this technicolor musical from the run-of-the-mill class.

BROWSING

Have you browsed among the books on the new book table lately? Someone has, for all that are left are books on drama and science as far as we can see.

Most of these tomes on Drama are rather technical (drama students, take note), but there are two books by Allardyce Nicoll you might look through. "The Development of the Theater" has many fascinating illustrations, and "World Drama from Aeschylus to Anouilh" is not too deep, but tells the story of drama in an interesting, entertaining way.

Do you consider the removal of freckles by magnetism as a passing thought while eating breakfast? If so, you may be another Thomas Alva Edison. His "Diary and Sundry Observations" shows how the mind of a scientist works. See if your diary would be similar to Edison's.

Every dime will help in the fight against this disease which strikes all age groups all seasons of the year. Give to the March of Dimes!

Wendell W. Cruze Graduate '28 Publishes Psychology Text Book

General Psychology, new college textbook by Wendell W. Cruze, is due off the press in the near future. This book is a basic text for psychology students and is an improved synthesis of existing materials. It is being published by Prentice-Hall.

Advance reviews state that the outstanding achievement of this text is that it maintains a strictly scientific point of view without being "heavy," and has superior organization. It provides the back ground material for those without previous courses on the subject and builds the necessary technical vocabulary.

The new book has been tested at Wilson Teachers College, John Hopkins University, and in summer sessions at George Washington University and the University of Southern California.

This is his second book. The first, EDUCATIONAL PSYCHOLOGY, was published by Ronald Press in 1942 and has been well received. It has been used as a text at Harvard, Yale, University of California, University of Southern California, Johns Hopkins, Notre Dame, Rutgers, Ohio Wesleyan, University of Cincinnati, and many other colleges and universities.

Born in Maryville, he graduated from MHS in 1924, got his A.B. from MC in 1928, M.S. from University of Tennessee in 1929, and Ph. D. from Peabody in 1934. He taught at Porter High School from 1929-1930, and was Asociate Professor of Psychology and Dean of Men at Lincoln Memorial University 1930-1933; Teaching Fellow in Psychology at George Peabody 1933-1934; Instructor in Psychology at University of North Caroline 1934-1936; and Professor of Psychology at Wilson Teachers College (the teachers college of D. C.) since 1936. Mr. Cruze served as Visiting Lecturer in Psychology at Johns Hopkins since 1938 and as Visiting Professor of Psychology in the summer schools of George Washington University, University of Southern California, and Johns Hopkins University.

During World War II while on leave of absence from teaching duties, he served with the War Department General Staff with the rank of Lt. Col. He was decorated with the Legion of Merit for work in developing and implementing programs for the rehabilitation of battle casualties and military offenders.

Sports Echoes

By Neal Pearson

●WE NEVER THOUGHT THAT IT WOULD HAPPEN . . . one more person has been added to the valiant crew of two who dare to read this column for what it is not worth. And how do we know? Well, a rather disgrunteling incident as refers This is Compliments Week which came off last week. It seems that our rather hasty list of those who we thought deserved a little commendation was much too meager and so our two readers and a third person ventured to us that we might add the band's name to the list along with Mr. Hughes. We herewith do so and have ordered the printers to tear down last week's column and to insert said group's names—every last one of them. They have deserved every word of praise spoken or not. And as a project for the year, we will run a list some two or three weeks from now in which all names of those associated in some way with athletics will be mentioned. So get your list of heroes and heroines in soon—this offer will not last long. Also enclose one Grapenuts boxtop to cover accounting fees.

P.S. We will not disclose the name of our third reader nor of those other two.

●ANOTHER FUNNY INCIDENT which has come to our minds and we use the word funny in the same tone as we did last week is that of the ommission of Vanderbilt from this year's mat schedule. We noticed it some time ago, and asked Coach Davis what the scoop was. He said that as far as he knows they told him that they "had no records of having wrestled Maryville ever." It seems that this notable quote deserves some kind of mention as being the "Biggest Crock of the Week." Could it be that the Western Carolina complex has hit the old Commodore's school. (If you frosh want to know what that is, just ask an oldie around the campus—they should know and besides this maybe we can make them do something more worthwhile than wearing the seat out of their bifurcate garments.)

●A SHREWDIE WAS PULLED last week by wrestling mentor, John A. Davis, who outfoxed Chattanooga U's Ken Carpenter. Last year, Carpenter switched his weights around in the second entanglement of the MC-and-Mocs and closed the gap considerable. This year starting with the 157-ers, Coach Davis reversed the procedure and outfoxed Carpenter. Jim Frain took over in the 157's; Don Benton in the 167's and Joe Poland in the 177's. The notable switch saved MC from being victimized by the expectant two pins which Coach Davis had expected with the regular contestants of those classes. Even though Frain was forced to forfeit because of his fouled-up shoulder and Benton was forced to hear the slap of the mat, Poland kept his opponent from pinning him and Co-Capt. Palmer scienced his way to a draw—thus winning for MC the match. Tonight, we may expect something different and again Monday when Auburn's "Brutes" hit the campus. Come out and see the matches. Who knows, J. D. may take a visit to Chilhowee Park and come back with a couple of gorillas to wear the Orange and Garnet and to outfox the opponents besides adding a little fun to the matches.

●AFTER HEARING ONE HINT AFTER ANOTHER IN A CERTAIN MEETING last Saturday, we hereby give wind to the fact that the YMCA through Chuck Holsinger, its Commissioner of Athletics, is giving out a trophy for the Intramural athlete showing the most sportsmanship in said form of competition. We agree with him and others that it is a noble thing and heartily endorse it to you all's consideration. The only thing you have to do is to pick up your opponent and dust him off after running over him in a game of basketball or when spiking him in softball which entails you to sew up the rip in his pants. Seriously, it is a good thing and say that it might even look good in your trophy closet.

●DIS—A AND—A DATA—overheard in Intramural Gym this week in game between teams bearing name of gym. "Coach, the only reason I ain't hittin' is cause I've lost my girl's ring. I ain't got no inspiration—ya gotta help me find it.". . .Ask Hugh Walker why there are no box scores for MC's road games this week. It seems that when the team was up at Bristol palying King, the portly Walker left it ther. He must have been spending most of his itme in the sack because that's where he last remembered leaving it. . . The tentative Grid schedule for '51 is elsewhere on this page—we hope—as of now no homecoming game is yet slated. . . . Maybe Coach remember last year's . . . . oh, woe, oh woe. . . . Auburn's Tigers or Plainsmen, whichever you prefer, come to the land of the All-day Rain, carrying the rather proud distinction of never having lost to an MC team on the wrestling mat in the four matches held between the schools lest you forget, they are about the only school that has anything better than a .500 mark in that kind of competition, so it ain't so bad after all. . . Tonight was the night for the second staging of the Annual "Stinking Shoe" Classic between members of Alpha Sigma's and Athenian's Intramural teams. However, because of previous commitments, several of the Athenians can't come. The game, started as an incentive for boys to play on their society teams developed into quite a thing last year as the Greeks won a closie. This year's contest will start at 6:15 in the Intramural Gym regardless of whether or not Alpha Sigma's four male thrushes get through singing to Theta's lassies. Prize memento for the occasion will be a pair of footgear donated last year by this corner. . . . Jim Watt turned 'em over to Arch Swarztrauber this year as the new prexy took office. . .so far they haven't been located. . . and if not, Swarztrauber will be trussed and dolled up appropriately for the occasion and exchanged if the game's outcome so decries. . . we hope that the thing can be staged soon enough to calm the ruffled waters stirred up by members of each society saying There is the better team or as JW says Oh, your father uses Hadacol!

Pioneer, Tiger Squad On Cage-Mat Schedule

MC Athletes In Second Doubleheader Monday

On Monday night, the MC cagers and matmen will take to the open spaces of Alumni Gym for their second basketball-wrestling doubleheader of the season. Tusculum's Pioneers will furnish the cage opposition and Auburn will furnish the wrestling attractions. Game time is slated for the Tusculum affair at seven with the mat sport at around 8:15.

Coach Tom Armstrong will bring a Tusculum team that has so far this season been flirting with the .500 mark. They've lost two to ETS as MC has, trounced King on King's grounds which MC failed to do, and against Carson-Newman and Milligan they've fared about the same way—won over the first and lost to the second. The Orange and Black have a six-letterman team back paced by two frosh Ben Saul and Mike Langol, who have followed the Tusculum football tradition of coming down from New Jersey where Armstrong formerly coached to show their wares. Both are frosh and have been scoring around 20 points a game. Both are also six foot even.

As of late, nothing has been heard of Saul—his name hasn't been in the lineups for several games—but no one will know till game time. Others back from last year's squad which split with MC are Earle Blake, Bob Mathias—13 against MC in the second encounter—Jim Baird and Barry Mains. Newcomers to the starting ranks are John Cocula and Ernie Carlomagno, both fairly fast boys though both are under six feet in heighth. Tusculum is facing the same heighth problem as MC and Blake is the tallest at 6'3." Only two seniors adorn their rosters and so if nothing happens between now and next year, Armstrong may get something.

Wrestling Sees Champs

As for the wrestling end of Monday night's twin bill, Coach Arnold Umbach will bring his SEAAU champs to Alumni Gym in an attempt to take home another win. Last year, MC travelled to Auburn and lost on the Poly-mats, 22-8.

Five of 'Em Back

Five lettermen have come back to bolster the Plainsmen's hopes and have formed an effective nucleus for the team. A new man, Eddie Cresaps, of New Orleans, or an old one, John McGill, who won over Marvin here, will go for the Tigers in the 123 pounds class while J. A. Cameron and Sonny Dragoin will meet for the fifth time in the athletic relations of their respective schools. Cameron took the first one here, two years ago, then lost out in the SEAAU finals. Last year, Dragoin took both decisions, both on his own mat—in the SEAAU meet and in the regularly scheduled contest.

That's Mah Boy

Chesley Anderson and Richard Belfonti also had mat-relationships with Anderson taking care of the Auburn boy in taking a 5-4 decision. Theirs is now the 138 class.

Jimmy Callaway's opponent at 147 is not known, but if he's half as good as Spider McKenzie was last year, he'll have a hard time. Jimmy's brother, Tub got pinned by the Spider in their regular match while Tub reversed the charges with a decision later.

Robin Baker, 155, lost a match to MC's Major on a pin in last year's regular match but went on to improve himself and his record by winning the SEAAU championship for his weight. Robert Long, a junior, decisioned MC's Hersh Merriman in two last year and will be their representative in the 167 pound division.

Probable goer for Swede Umback in the 177 class is Bobby Drake of Montgomery, Ala., or John Glenn of Pelham, Georgia. Herb Palmer won over Glenn in the first round of last year's SEA AU tourney and will no doubt be glad to repeat the performance Monday while Glenn would like to return the compliment. John Brnilovich, the Auburn Tiger's big tackle and Heavyweight of a year ago isn't back but two other big ones, Daniel McNair or Fred Duart of Yankee-land will go against MC's representative. Probable MC man is Patton or Glad.

SCOTS LOSE FOUR On DISASTROUS TRIP

LMU again applied the skids to MC victory hopes as the Big Blue took their second victory of the Scots, 76-52. LMU got and early lead which was spread to nine points at half time and then upped it up in the second half.

LMU, 76		MC, 56
Cantrell, 1	F	Downs, 5
Seals, 6	F	Shields, 10
Bargo, 14	C	Keny, 10
Butterini, 10	G	Allen, 12
G. Wright, 10	G	McMahon

Subs: LMU—Roberts, 18; Wells, 4; Wolfe, 5; C. Wright, 4; Boni, 2; MC—Wiley, 6, McClelland, 1; Abbott, 7; Hopkins, 1.

Scots Dumped By State

ETS's Bues handed the Scotties their eighth straight defeat of the season at Johnson City last Tuesday night 87 to 49, as Maryville's cagers just about completed a disastrous five game road trip. They took on LMU Thursday and return to our gym for six games before winding up the season at Carson-Newman.

State, who appeared here in our only home game since the Christmas holidays, poured it on again with a deluge of baskets. Lloyd and Blackburn, each connecting with twelve points, paced the State scorers.

"Meano" Shields and "Babe Keny garnered nine points apiece to lead Maryville's cagers, who just couldn't match the ETS sharpshooters.

Boxscore:

Maryville Drops Two

Maryville's Scotties traveled to Milligan College Saturday and ran into a 96 to 61 pasting. The next night they finally succumbed to King College at Bristol, taking it on the chin to the tune of 68 to 63 after leading by fifteen points at half time.

A rough and tumble Milligan squad, with Hathaway's thirty-two points leading the way, moved out in front early in the game and was never headed. The fans saw a wild contest with sixty-two personal fouls and four technical fouls being called.

"Meano" Shields and Charlie Allen both netted fifteen points against the Bristol lads, but the roof fell in with about five minutes left to play, when the Scotties kicked away a twelve point lead.

Scot Grapplers Win Over Mocs

MC Opens Season, 18-16

A trip to Chattanooga University and a match with the Moccasins of that school opened up the 1950-51 mat season for Maryville Scgotties. The Scotties using a revamped lineup came home with their opening win of the season by an 18-16 score.

Bob Kees started for the Orange and Garnet at 123 pounds but the Chattanooga man failed to make his appearance on the mat and thus forfeited to MC. J. A. Cameron then lifted MC's team score to eight points as he pinned Wells with a Crotch and Nelson hold in 2 minutes and 45 seconds of the first period.

Six More Points

Chesley Anderson couldn't repeat the feat but added three more points to MC's total by outdistancing his man three times in outpointing him, 9-3, for a favorable decision. Anderson gained his points via an escape, two takedowns, one reverse and two points more for riding time. Jimmy Callaway repeated in outpointing his man, Bill Hodges, to the tune of 10 points to five.

Woe Is MC

MC's misery then started in the 157 pound class as Coach Davis started Jim Frain in an attempt to stay away from pins because of Frain's experience. However, Frain was forced to forfeit when it was found out that his shoulder had been forced out of place with his opponent Frank Williams ahead in points, 2-1. Frain was forced to leave the mats after thirty seconds had gone by in the final period.

Whap!

Don Benton also went nearly twenty pounds out of his way to take on Bob Farmer of Chattanooga. The match went into the second period without anything having been done but by the time the period was nearly over, Farmer had used a crotch-and-Nelson hold to pin Benton. The time was in 2 minutes and 19 seconds of the second period.

Joe Poland also wrestled above weight in taking on Mickey Myers, heavyweight from last year's Moc-team in the 177 semi-finai. Poland stayed out of a pin but could gain no points and the beefy Myers took a 9-2 decision on a reverse, two take-downs, an escape and two points for riding time. However a pin would have definitely put a crimp in MC's chances.

Come On Herb!

With the score now, 16-14 in faor of MC, CoCapt. Herb Palmer tok on the Moc's "Blond Favorite," Tom Drake to see whose team would win the match. Palmer got the only take down of the clash while Myers got two points for riding time. Both men had a pair of escapes and each reversed the advantage position once. When the three periods and the bout had ended, both had six points and a draw with the result that both teams picked up two points and the spread was preserved—MC winning 18-16.

Summary of the bout's matches:

123 class—Kees (MC) won by forfeit.

Cagers-Matmen In First Twin Bill

WRESTLERS OPEN HOME MAT SEASON

Tonight at 8 o'clock the 1950-51 version of the Maryville Scotties mat team will take to the mats in a match against Knoxville YMCA. The frosh cage B team will open up the night's festivities at a quarter till seven with a game.

Coach Johnson's Frosh team, flirting around the .500 mark will take on a team of soldiers from the 663rd Air Corp Detachment stationed out at the airport. Little or nothing is known about the Fly-boys but in all probability, they will have a big team that is not in too good of shape to play firehorse basketball for four quarters.

The boys from Knoxville will be primed for tonight's match—having faced three opponents this year already and having defeated two of them. Middle Tennessee State and the Atlanta Y fell to them while they in turn lost to Western North Carolina.

Took Two Last Year

Last year, the Scots whipped the Knoxville team in two sets, 30-0 and 25-5, and so they will be here with a vengeance. MC with the Auburn match coming up Monday may pull a switcheroo or two tonight with one of the boys in a weight class going tonight and another Monday night.

Knox Newcomers

Bill Arnold is a newcomer to the mats for Knoxville Y in the 123 pound class and in his last outing took a pin in the second period against MTS and did likewise against Atlanta Y. At 130 is Bob Crittenden who lost to both Jim Marvin and J. A. Cameron last year. Chesley Anderson won a match by default over Red Walker, Knox Y's 138 last year in their only meeting when the latter hurt his elbow. Anderson was ahead on points, 2-0.

Don Jones, a newcomer to the Knox colors won in his last outing against MTS as did most of his cohorts, so nothing definite is known about him save that. Hal Hanes or John Fine will go for the Y in the '57 class with a couple of wins to their collective credit. It'll be Poland or Benton against them.

Foxie, Huh

At 167 pounds is possibly the Y's best man, Harold Fox. He was the only man not to lose to a Western Carolina and pinned his MTS opponent in their last outing. Dick Ottinger has won two and grabbed a pin in his last outing. He's a new man, too. And at the Heavyweight tussle it will be Bronce Bailey for the Y versus Patton or Glad. Bailey is a big 200 pounder and so there should be some loud and rough slamming in that match.

Palmer Still Hurt

As for Maryville's line-up for tonight, Bill Morse another good man for MC will go against the Y while J. A. Cameron will get set for his boy, Dragoin. The same goes for the 146 class where Donald MacDonald will get to show his wares while Anderson waits for Belfonti. Co-Capt. Herb Palmer, still out with abruised shoulder, will sit out tonight's match while Jim Cox or Bob Proffitt go against Ottinger. More than likely, the one not going will wrestle and exhibition match. It is hoped that Palmer's shoulder will be healed enough for him to go Monday night. His presence will certainly help MC chances.

Somewhat more good news has been the coming out of Bob Proffitt and Willard Rahn for the 177 and 167 classes. Both boys have had experience but classes and labs have interfered.

AUBURN WRESTLING

Lineups for tonight's and Monday's matches: Second man or underlined man wil go against Auburn; otherwise will be in an exhibition tonight.

Weight	Maryville	Knoxville Y	Auburn
123 class	Kees and Clarke	Arnold	McGill
130 class	Morse and Cameron	Crittendon	Dragoin
138 class	McDonald & Anderson	Walker	Belfonti
147 class	Callaway	Jones
157 class	Poland and Benton	Haynes	Baker
167 class	Cox and Proffitt and Palmer	Ottinger	Glenn
Heavyweight	Proffitt, Glad or Patton	Bailey	McNair

Intramural Info . . .

BASKETBALL

The sizzling Intramural basketball league moves into the final week with the Wizzers as likely winners in the Orange League and a toss up in the scramble for first place between any of five teams in the Garnet League.

The Wizzers, class of the Orange League, downed the Globetrotters and ran up ninety points against the Buffoons to pull away from the rest of the League. Athenian's Rebels and Alpha Sigma's Woodmen both registered wins and they will battle it out for runner-up honors.

The Globetrotters lost two games from the win column while the Athenian Rebels and Buffoons each gained a win. The Globetrotters had defeated these two teams earlier in the season, but they used ineligible players doing so and the Intramural office has ruled the two games Forfeited.

While at the other end of the standings, Alpha Sig's Scotties finally got out of the slump and won on two straight.

Art Talk Scheduled For F. A. Center

A gallery talk was given on Friday afternoon, January 26, at 4:00. The discussion dealt with the Japanese prints and brush paintings which are on display in the Art Gallery of the Maryville College Fine Arts Center. These prints are being offered for sale, and prices range from 25c to $1.50.

The prints are based on the blocks by the 18th century "old masters" and work after Hokusai, Hiroshige, and the like, is represented. The brush paintings show the traditional style in water-colors, and in black and white and gold lacquer. Subject matter is varied and colorful, presenting figure, genre, bird, flower and landscape pieces.

Dr. Stein's Stay

By Sally Brown

"The friendly spirit of Maryville students and the joy of renewing acquaintances among the faculty are making my stay on the campus most pleasant," stated Dr. Luther E. Stein, leader of the 75th Series of February Meetings, in an interview Thursday.

Dr. Stein is a native of Nebraska and a graduate of Hastings College, Nebraska, and of San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anslemo, California. He has held many responsible positions in the Presbyterian Church. For the last four years has been pastor of the Oak Park Presbyterian Church, Oak Park, Illinois, a church of 1800 members. Dr. Stein is also a member of the Board of Directors of McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago.

Dr. Stein is married and is the father of two children. A married daughter lives in California and a son who graduated at Northwestern last year works in a research laboratory in Chicago.

In addition to her duties as hostess of the manse, Mrs. Stein finds time to do a bit of professional counseling under the noted psychologist, Dr. Fritz Kunkel.

With the exception of the loss of the chapel and the addition of the Fine Arts Center, Dr. Stein said that the campus is very much the same as when he visited it in 1946— especially the weather which he described as "stinky" on both visits. He went on to say, however, that the Maryville rain, wind, and snow seemed like a balmy spring day to him, since the temperature in Chicago was 15 degrees below zero on the day he left for the South.

For use in interviews, Dr. Stein has two possessions that are of interest. The first is an alarm watch which was given him by a member of his church and may be set to alarm at the time an interview is scheduled to close. Dr. Stein considers this a very worthwhile devise.

The other possession is a visitor's register which was started by him when he lead February Meetings here in 1946. It includes names, addresses, and church affiliations of 72 students with whom he conferred at that time. The register is being continued this year.

Among the names of the 1946 students are those of Mary Edna Smith, now a missionary to China supported by the Fred Hope Fund; Catherine Stout, now church secretary at New Providence; Barbara Bertholf, now Mrs. Harold Hunter; Bill Vogel, now studying at Princeton Seminary; and Katy Carpenter, now a student at McCormick Seminary.

In concluding the interview, Dr. Stein expressed the hope that during these "Days of Discovery" all may discover something new about Christ: that those who do not know im as Lord and Savior might find Him; and that those who found Him long ago might find both new ways to serve Him and new maturity in Christian growth.

Other Beginnings

The faculty and staff retirement plan; the Sabbatical Leave plan; life, health and hospitalization insurance protection made available to staff, students, and faculty; endowment of the college cemetery; student government organization; scholarship honor societies and many other additions are among the beginnings.

In 1932, Maryville was placed on the approved list of the Association of American Universities and in 1942 it became a member of the National Association of Schools of Music, the national accrediting body in that field.

Associates

Dean Frank D. McClelland says: "I have had the privilege of knowing Dr. Lloyd when we were students here together many years ago and of being associated with him during somewhat more than half of his twenty years as President of Maryville College. He is a wonderfully fine person to work for and with—understanding, considerate helpful, stimulaitng.

"The splendid advancement of the college during his administration is evidence of his intellectual keenness, his vision, his courageous spirit, and his wholeearted devotion to the Church and the cause of Christian Education. No small part of his success and our progress is due. I am sure, to the gracious, loyal and unassuming service of Mrs. Lloyd through these years."

Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum, has added: "All of the traditional cracks about the college president as a roving ambassador to the universe and about his spending half his time going away from the college and the other half coming back have been cracked about our president, but they are just "cracks," for he has for twenty years been remarkably "on the job," representing the college in high fashion in the forefront of the Church and in the Educational circles.

"And at home his has been a skillful hand on the financial, academic, religious, and community aspects of the life of the institution, building for it a respected place among the good colleges of the nation. Long may he wave!"

Miss Frances Massey, Dean of Women Students, told us: "It has been my very good fortune to know Dr. Lloyd both as a student and a member of the faculty. In fact, you might say we were freshmen together in 1930—he in his first year as president and I as a lowly member of the Freshman class.

"One of the high points in my memory of these years is the series of February Meetings led by Dr. Lloyd that year around the theme, "Be Loyal to the Royal in Thyself." In my estimation he has always lived by this theme himself and his leadership, vision, and Christian spirit have been most important in making Maryville what it is today."

Dr. Benj. R. Lacy

She's Winning Over Polio

Infantile paralysis struck Mrs. Marguerite Dunn more than ten years ago, but this young mother of Fresno, California, refused to give up. Here she is shown in Fresno County General Hospital physical therapy pool, attended by Physical Therapist Helen Cadwallader. Not shown, but still very much in picture, is the March of Dimes which is helping Mrs. Dunn back to recovery.

LERCH, ALLISON HEAD DEAN'S LIST WITH 9.0

Dr. L.E. Stein Continues Annual Meeting Series

By Carson Seeley

A list of the addresses to be presented during February Meetings has been prepared by Dr. Luther E. Stein. These will be helpful to students in budgeting their time, but it must be remembered that the topics are subject to change.

Services during the morning including Sunday follow the general theme of "Days of Discovery." Tomorrow, Dr. Stein will present "New Lives for Old." On the following mornings will be "What Do I Get Out of It," Monday; "What I Means to Grow Up," Tuesday; "Where Do I Begin," Wednesday; "Remember Jesus Christ," Thursday.

"The Christian's Destiny" will be delivered tomorrow evening. On Monday he will present "Don't be Half-Baked;' on Tuesday evening, "Security In the Atomic Age;" on Wednesday, "The Five Girls I'm Glad I Didn't Marry."

Evening services are at 7:10 in New Providence Presbyterian Church. The Sunday Morning Service is in New Providence at the usual worship hour. All other morning services are in the Alumni Gymnasium at 9:45.

During the preceding morning services, Dr. Stein presented "Born to Receive," "Something Hidden—Go and Find It," "To Whom shall I Go" and "What Must I Do." In the evenings he delivered "I Am Four Monkeys,' 'Life as a Laboratory," and "What Good Does It Do Today."

Below Zero

Plans for revision of the edict freezing both wages and prices were under way this week. The original order has been said to be too general and too rigid. Cyrus S. Ching, chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board said that the board is trying to clear up the edict and make it better understood by the public.

Nevada-Shaking Event

Still echoing this week were comments on the atomic explosion carried out by the Atomic Energy Commission at the Air Force Bombing and Gunnery Range. The blast, said to be only one of a series of periodic tests, was felt in Las Vegas, Nevada, about 30 miles away.

Russian Return?

The return of 670 ships turned over to the Soviet Union under the wartime lend-lease agreement has been demanded by the U.S., as a part of the settlement negotiations now going on with that country. There appears to be little likelihood that Moscow will accede the demand.

Tough Going

The U. N. forces have been considerably slowed by hardening enemy resistance north of recaptured Suwon. Slight gains have been made despite counter-attacks by Chinese Communist forces.

Athenians, Sigs Meet

Athenian will meet at 6:15 tonight in Intramural Gym to attend the Theta-Bainonian game.

Alpha Sigma will meet at 6:15 in Thaw 214 to nominate and vote on the Alpha Sigma sweetheart.

Ballet Appears At U-T

Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, fourth concert in the current University of Tennessee series, will appear at U-T Thursday, February 8.

Tickets may be secured from University Concerts, U-T, Knoxville. Transportation will be arranged from Maryville.

Musicians Sponsor City Choir Festival

A Choir Festival under the sponsorship of the Maryville-Alcoa Music Club, will be held Sunday February 11, at 4:00 p.m., at New Providence Presbyterian Church.

The program will consist of anthems and favorite hymns sung by the combined junior and senior choirs of New Providence Church, First Methodist Church, Broadway Methodist Church, and First Baptist Church. The College Vesper Choir will also take part, making a total of nearly 300 voices.

Mrs. J. W. Carter, organist of First Baptist Church will provide organ accompaniment, while Garnet Manges, organist of Broadway Methodist Church, will be pianist for the program. Katherine Crews, violinist, of the MC faculty, and Miss Manges will play the offertory music.

The invocation will be asked by Dr. George Davies, and the benediction pronounced by Dr. Gambil, pastor of First Methodist Church.

Assistant Professor Dorothy Horne is president of the Music Club, and Mrs. Harry Harter is chairman of the festival.

Lester Announces No YM

There will be no YMCA meeting this week because of the February Meetings, it has been announced by Jim Lester, program chairman.

New FAC Library Lists Facilities

The Library of the Fine Arts Center has recently been placed in full operation. It is open to the entire student body, as well as music and art majors.

Facilities include a large record library with provisions for open listening periods, standard reference material, a limited number of periodicals, and browsing collection. The latter will be changed every month, and each month will feature music and art books on a certain subject. For February, the subjects will be the mid-nineteenth century in France, and will include a portfolio of works by Daumier and the new "Berlioz and the Romantic Century" by Barzun.

Reference works recently added are a complete set of Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians and the Apel Harvard Dictionary.

Juniors Elect Clarke Treasurer

Bill Clarke, Business Ad major from Lake Charles, La., was elected treasurer of the Junior Class in balloting held last week. He succeeds C. L. Hager who has joined the Navy.

There will be a meeting of the Junior Class within the next two weeks, it has been announced.

Stein Moderates Y Radio Panel

Dr. Luther E. Stein, leader of the February Meetings, will moderate a panel discussion on Y Radio over WGAP Monday evening at 9:30.

Taking part will be Louise Lloyd, president of YWCA; George Ogle, president of YMCA; Lois Johanson, president of Student Volunteers; and John Shew, president of the Pre-Ministerial Association.

'God Of The Atom' Seen By First Methodists

"God of the Atom," a Moody Bible Institute film will be shown at the First Methodist Sunday School college class at 9:15 a.m. tomorrow morning. A brief hymn sing will open the service; the leader is George Day.

Students Volunteer Blood In National Appeal For Bank

Over 50 Maryville College students have volunteered to donate blood in the national appeal of General George Marshall and the Department of Defense to build up a bank for use in Korea and civilian defense.

If 500 residents of the county pledge to donate, a Red Cross unit will be sent to local American Legion headquarters on February 14 15, and 16. The county quota is 300 pints, but 500 pledges are necessary to allow for those rejected.

The sign-up sheet is on the counter of Personnel Office and Dean of Students Frank D. McClelland urged those who wish to donate to sign for an appointment. There is no danger involved, he said.

Those under 21 must have their parents' permission, but ought to sign now and receive a permission blank, it was announced.

Prayer Services Planned For Feb. 9

World Day of Prayer services will be held at the First Baptist Church on Friday, February 9 at 2:30 p.m. The service will be of planned and voluntary prayers, and the program will also include a play written by Mrs. Hamilton Traylor, and produced by Mrs. Judson B. Murphy, in which Dr. T. A. Graham, Mrs. C. V. Morton and foreign students at Maryville College will participate.

The Hall High School choir of 40 voices will sing, and Mr. In Sun Kim of Korea will be the speaker of the afternoon.

A nursery for young children is being provided by the women of the church.

Writer's Workshop Hears Lyerly, Shew Wednesday

Writer's Workshop will meet Wednesday February 7, in Dr. E. R. Hunter's classroom in Anderson Hall. John Shew and Mary Lyerly will read and will be criticized by Barbara Blum and Lois Johanson.

At the last meeting Jim Dance and Assistant Professor Arthur Bushing read and were critized by Lucy Carrick and Neale Pearson.

Choir buses will leave Maryville at 1 p.m.

The choir will sing this afternoon at the Pan-Presbyterian Youth Conference to be held in Second Presbyterian Church, Knoxville.

'Everyman' Will Be Experimental Play On March 16

"Everyman," the first Experimental Theatre production this semester, will be presented March 16 in Bartlett Auditorium at 7:30 and 9. It is an allegorical morality play originating in medieval times.

"Everyman" is summoned to go with Death unless he can present an adequate defense on why he should go to heaven. In his defense he asks his friends for aid, but they all forsake him except Knowledge and Good Deeds. "Everyman" then learns that he needs Good Deeds, of which he has few, to get him to heaven.

Cast for "Everyman" are George Caldwell, as Everyman; Bill Starr, God; Dave Reed, Death; Jim Hunt, Fellowship; Katherine Blackburn, Kindred.

Ray Kuhn is Cousin; Mary Ann Hicks, Goods; Joanne Edwards, Good Deeds; Norma Lou Loetz, Knowledge; Dorothy Greenhagen, Confession; Jane Hassinger, Beauty; David Latis, Strength; Mary Wade Newton, Discretion; Walter Elwood, Five Wits; Mary Wilkes, Messenger.

Austin Van Pelt is House Manager. Carl Drescher is Stage Manager, assisted by Ken Rutherford, Dorothy Greenhagen and Lou Masters. Lighting is handled by Dan Dunbar with Mary Wilkes assisting. Mary Wade Newton, Joanne Edwards and Clifford Church are in charge of costumes.

Art Van Alstyne assisted by Ruth Nicholas is in charge of scenery. Dorothy Greenhagen is in charge of tickets, Joan Titley and Norma Lou Loetz assisting. Grace Myers, assisted by Louise Packard and Phyl Jackson, is in charge of publicity.

Bainonians, Thetas, Meet For Annual Basketball

Theta and Bainonian will not meet in their usual meeting places tonight, but will gather in the Intramural Gym at 6:15 for the annual Theta-Bainonian basketball game.

Two years ago, Bainonian won, while last year, Theta girls, paced by Jean Davis, racked up the win.

Officials for the event are Harry Newberry and one other yet to be announced.

Maryville College's Spirit Makes Dr. Stein's Stay 'Most Pleasant'

By Sally Brown

"The friendly spirit of Maryville students and the joy of renewing acquaintances among the faculty are making my stay on the campus most pleasant," stated Dr. Luther E. Stein, leader of the 75th Series of February Meetings, in an interview Thursday.

Dr. Stein is a native of Nebraska and a graduate of Hastings College, Nebraska, and of San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anslemo, California. He has held many responsible positions in the Presbyterian Church. For the last four years has been pastor of the Oak Park Presbyterian Church, Oak Park, Illinois, a church of 1800 members. Dr. Stein is also a member of the Board of Directors of McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago.

Dr. Stein is married and is the father of two children. A married daughter lives in California and a son who graduated at Northwestern last year works in a research laboratory in Chicago

In addition to her duties as hostess of the manse, Mrs. Stein finds time to do a bit of professional counseling under the noted psychologist, Dr. Fritz Kunkel.

With the exception of the loss of the chapel and the addition of the Fine Arts Center, Dr. Stein said that the campus is very much the same as when he visited it in 1946— especially the weather which he described as "stinky" on both visits. He went on to say, however, that the Maryville rain, wind, and snow seemed like a balmy spring day to him, since the temperature in Chicago was 15 degrees below zero on the day he left for the South.

For use in interviews, Dr. Stein has two possessions that are of interest. The first is an alarm watch which was given him by a member of his church and may be set to alarm at the time an interview is scheduled to close. Dr. Stein considers this a very worthwhile devise.

The other possession is a visitor's register which was started by him when he lead February Meetings here in 1946. It includes names, addresses, and church affiliations of 72 students with whom he conferred at that time. The register is being continued this year.

Among the names of the 1946 students are those of Mary Edna Smith, now a missionary to China supported by the Fred Hope Fund; Catherine Stout, now church secretary at New Providence; Barbara Bertholf, now Mrs. Harold Hunter; Bill Vogel, now studying at Princeton Seminary; and Katy Carpenter, now a student at McCormick Seminary.

In concluding the interview, Dr. Stein expressed the hope that during these "Days of Discovery" all may discover something new about Christ: that those who do not know im as Lord and Savior might find Him; and that those who found Him long ago might find both new ways to serve Him and new maturity in Christian growth.

SATURDAY FEBRUARY 3, 1951

On February Meetings–

We are now in the midst of Maryville College's 75th series of February Meetings. At this half-way point it might be well to consider again their primary function and purpose and how we may best achieve the real values that lie in them. They are chiefly designed, it seems to us, to provide a specific time under capable leadership where an emphasis on spiritual life and spiritual living can be advanced. But that defintion calls for explanation and interpretation.

This is a church-related college, and religious life here, quantatively speaking, is probably unexcelled and perhaps unequalled, at least in recognized institutions. But any knowledge of our faith tells us that there is more to the religious life than a quantatative aspect. We must all admit that the spiritual man has a kind of attitude or way of looking at things that makes him distinctive. That intangible inner quality is something that comes only after serious thought and serious dediation, in the best sense of that word. Its expression can' be seen in a true humility of spirit; a mind that is inquiring and critical, yet appreciative of the best; and those ways of thinking and doing which are the highest.

It is significant that this college sets aside a week each year where there is an emphasis on the growth and development of that attitude. There is something good intrinsic in February Meetings; what we get out of them depends on our basic attitudes—whether we approach them with a willingness to seek out the best they have to offer and a sincerity concerning the spiritual life they involve.

But there are dangers. Writing in The Echo last year, Don Whelan said "Allowing either bane of 20th century Christianity—the pall of superrespectability or, on the other hand, the cheapness of sensation—to take over, we would lose what should be the spirit of Maryville College's February Meetings." We believe that is true. And we further believe that neither of these banes need ever mar our meetings, at least so long as we keep secure a sense of their true meaning and opportunity.

Combating Communism–

Congressional witch-hunters who smear innocent people could take a lesson from an "American way" campaign which the Veterans of Foreign Wars has launched against Communism. The VFW campaign stresses "community service" to combat conditions on which foreign "isms" thrive —poverty, unemployment, illiteracy.

As the VFW's new commander, Charles C. Ralls of Seattle, explained to President Truman: "The best way to lick Communism is to get at the roots that propagate it. And those roots are chiefly poverty and ignorance. If we see to it that there are no hungry children or impoverished families in this country, we don't have to worry too much about Communism."

"That's the proper approach," agreed Truman. "Communism is a state of mind that is aggravated by bad economic conditions. If we change the conditoins, we change the thinking of underprivileged people who might be duped into Communism. A great deal more can be accomplished toward making good citizens of impoverished people by raising their living standards than by pointing fingers at them."—Reprinted.

ALL TIED UP

"Tis a little late for this, but there seem to be at least 15 couples who made New Year's resolutions which they will have to keep. Meanest man in the world says it's the b(r)and that seals the bond. Good news or bad, some sociologist a few years back estimated that there would be approximately 1,400,000 more women than men in the U.S. by 1970.

I DIDN'T FALL, I WAS BUSHED

Assistant Professor Bushing was overheard saying that he would like to sue The Echo for libel for quoting him so many times in this column. We don't blame him. How could anybody want to take credit for those items of his.

SIMIAN SEMANTICS

Judging from the address given by Dr. Stein last Wednesday evening, he must want to make monkeys out of us.

QUOTABLE QUOTE

Mrs. Pieper, while having a discussion in her Social Minorities class, said: "The most prejudiced people are college graduates, successful businessmen, and Republicans." Could it be the enlightenment from education?

WHO'S THAT RAPPING AT MY DOOR

Lacy Woodie, once the most popular fellow with the men in Carnegie, will become the most unpopular if he persists in delivering those long, brown, official envelopes.

CENSORED

Howard Hughes is producing a movie called "The Thing." You old timers will remember that he was the one who introduced Jane Russell,

LET'S NOT GET PERSONAL

"I just want to address Joe Doakes, or Joe and Joanne, or John and Susie." Dr. Stein must really have been puzzled about the laughter following that statement until John and Susie went up and explained.

SHE'S WITH YOU, GIRLS

During another discussion in Mrs. Pieper's Social Minorities class this one on prejudices caused by stereotypes, the class discussed the Minstrel Show and what might replace it. Replied John Laney: "A burlesque show." Continuing the same discussion, they mentioned other shows which might cause prejudice, such as the Horror Show, and Sadie Hawkins' Day. Now Mrs. Pieper replied: "Oh no, we couldn't do away with Sadie Hawkins' Day. You girls have enough trouble as it is."

TIPS TO THE FRESHMEN

The only successful way to fight a woman is with your hat: grab it and run.

You won't be running around in circles if you take time to study all the angles.

JUST AWOND'RING

Why the police car was travelling around Circle Drive right after supper several weeks back.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

It had us worried when we found out where the religious organizations were going to hold their prayer meetings and such but we see that the sign "Chatterbox' 'has been removed from its place of prominence over the doorway.

DAFFYNITIONS

Vacation: Work accomplished by our Editor when HE is around.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT by ROBERT RIPLEY

Famous speeches by men of renown.

President R. W. Lloyd of Maryville College: "Amen."

This momentous speech was delivered January 30, 1951 during a student celebration of President and Mrs. Lloyd's twentieth anniversary at Maryville College.

THIS COLLEGE AIN'T KIDDING

Paul Kidder happened to be grumbling about the amount of work required by some teachers, and muttered: "What do they want, blood?"

"You heard what they said in chapel, Tuesday morning," answered Jim Davis.

O, SOL MIO

Rivalling the Boy's Glee Club in quality and volume is the newly-formed Third Floor Carnegie Glee Club. Washroom performances are held nightly, and a tour is being planned.

UNCLASSIFIED

Sine this column is almost always the last to go to print, here are some items that should appear elsewhere, but probably were not to be had at the right moment. Friends of Ray Packard will be interested in knowing that he is training for Uncle Sam at Fort Dix, New Jersey. Also, anybody interested in wriitng, and who has talent, should see about getting on The Echo staff.

TALK OF THE WEEK

Reprint by Rip Reeves

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

ON THE SCREEN

Coming to the screen at the Capitol Monday and Tuesday is "The Nevadan," starring Randolph Scott and Dorothy Malone. It is a horse opera which plays down gunplay and hard riding in favor of laborious plot complications, and even popcorn-matinee fans may find it just plain tedious.

Briefly, Randolph Scott appears as a U.S. marshal looking for stolen gold. The manhunt which involves his surly quarry, a girl, and her gold-mad scoundrel of a father is neither bloody, convincing, nor especially suspenseful.

Wednesday's feature is "Walk Softly, Stranger," an occasionally moving love story of two cripples, one moral, the other physical.

Gambler Joseph Cotten arrives in a small town to establish a hide out in preparation for holding up a New York gangster. He goes to work in a local factory and falls in love with the manufacturer's daughter (Valli), who has been confined to a wheelchair by a skiing accident. The hold-up comes off as scheduled, but New York gunmen are soon on the scene and what began with a provocative situation soon degenerates into a routine chase sequence and ends with an off-to-prison finale.

Ruth Roman, Elenor Parker, and Patricia Neal star in "Three Secrets," Thursday and Friday.

Across the way at the Park Theatre, Vera Vague and Warren Douglas may be seen in "Square Dance Katie" on Monday.

Showing Tuesday and Wednesday is "Ma and Pa Kettle Go To Town" starring Marjorie Main and Percy Kilbride.

"Abilene Town" with Randolph Scott is the attraction Thursday and Friday.

ON THE SHELF

Gracing the new book table in Lamar Memorial Library this week are a number of weighty looking volumes. Among them are "The Second World War" by Winston S. Churchill, "Lectures on Theology" by Richard Beard, "Piety Versus Moralism" by Joseph Haroutunian, "From the Wagner Act to Taft-Hartley" by Millis, and other books covering many fields of interest, but too numerous to mention in this limited space.

ON THE KEYBOARD

Wiktor Labunski, a Polish pianist and a graduate of the old Imperial Conservatory in St. Petersburg will be on campus February 22 and 23 for the second number of the 1950-51 Artist Series. A formal recital will be presented on the night of February 23. Labunski's specialty is the music of Chopin.

●REVENGE IS THE MOTIVE tonight as Coach Davis' wrestlers take to the mats against Chattanooga's Mocs. The whitewashing applied Monday night, we hope, will give the boys in the Orange and Garnet something to shoot for. The same goes for Coach Honaker's basketeers who have been getting the calcimination for the last several games. Things looked much better Monday against the Pioneers but field-goal percentages were woefully low again. Two years ago, a similar Chattanooga team came up to MC after whippin' the stuffin's out of an MC quintet on their own homeboards (as per this year) only to run into the barrage of shots and play by an MC team all year. We hope this process bears repetition of itself also.

●SEVEN SECONDS DON'T MEAN MUCH or do they? That was the time margin in two of the Knox Y matches wherewith MC's man was on the bottom only that long—Poland and Callaway—before they reversed the holds and were on top. On the other hand, if Herb Palmer could have gtten out some 23 seconds earlier in his match with Bob Drake, he might have had a draw or possibly a win in his match with the Auburn man. Don MacDonald was only three seconds short. More about that later and in the story. Jimmy Squires, after a fast first period rush, picked up some time on top, but tired and could only pick up one point. Had it been possible for him to get out just a wee bit sooner, his match—lost to a Knox Y man, might have been different.

●AUBURN ANGLES . . . The Knox Y meet showed several things . . . Bill Morse and Don MacDonald will be all right in the future. Both men, going as replacements for regular; literally rubbed their men's faces in the mats and many voices were saying that "they've had it" referring to the Knox-men. By the end of this year, they should really be capable replacements. Hard luck stories of the Auburn match, besides the pins and score, were Ches Anderson and Herb Palmer's. Anderson went after a pin against Belfonti and just wore himself out in trying to put MC back in contention with five rather than the three points he might have picked up by conserving himself. F. -boy Palmer was a good illustration of the fact that "practice makes perfect." Since the Chatty-match, Palmer hadn't worked outso to speak-an iota and in the process had to lose three pounds to make 177 class. By the time second period and Drake vs. Palmer rolled around, the other co-cap couldn't muster enough energy to get rid of his man and some points. Though we aren't the betting type, we would be willing to lay some old use sheets of copy-paper against paper of a green color that the next time, MC's tired old "coons" meet their Auburn "dogs", the situation will turn out different. You just watch.

●TUSCULUM RUM-DUMS . . . Aguy that hadn't been hitting much all year spelled the difference Monday night as Tusculum's Pioneers came through to win. Ernie Carlomagno found the defense to his liking in the second half and using the same old driving shot scored 15 to win for his team. He did some nice ball-hawking too. In the first half, it was his center Blake, who did the damage and some sets, remindful of Boring, by Malkowski also brought forth ohs and moans. Stanley Downs seems to have been picking up some of the slack lately and perhaps tonight everyone will be clicking. Charlie Allen's push-shots in the first half were beauts also with Downs 'being one reminiscent of bailing water with a bucket from the hip or sump'n. Because of his new "Bail Bucket" shot, Downs is now leader of the home-field-goal parade with a .529 average. Meano Shields is now scoring leader, just o'er Babe Keny by five. We hope everybody raises theirs and the teams 34% average on fg's. Here is an unofficial tabulation of the stuff.

Player	HFGA	HFGM	Pct.	SFG	SFTA	SFTM	Tot.	Fouls
McClelland	46	16	.360	20	18	8	46	17
Shields	49	24	.406	48	57	35	131	28
Downs	34	18	.529	33	26	15	81	17
Keny	93	34	.365	56	31	14	126	27
Hopkins	46	15	.328	27	21	11	65	17
Allen	63	22	.349	42	38	13	97	25
McMahon	23	8	.360	14	15	8	36	22

●SCOT SHOTS . . . Arch Swarztrauber is hunting for a pair of old clod-hoppers, commonly called Army shoes (surplus stores type, of course) for which a certain classic will be strived for. . . Distinguishing mark of the leatheroids is their smell . . . . if you should run across them, turn them in to Arch . . . the classic will not be staged tonight—Instead the lassies from Bainonian-Theta will engage in a little competition (nothing new) on the basketball

Wrestlers Split Matches With Auburn, Knoxville Y

MC Wins Opener; Drops To Tigers

After hitting the mats of Alumni Gym with a snappy 19-11 conquest of Knoxville Y, MC's grapplers dropped a second match to Auburn two days later. In the Knox Y scrap, the Scots went out and got an early lead which was slowly decimated through the upper weights.

Bill Clarke started the evening off with an exhibition match against Bob Warlick of the Y and came out on top, 6-2, with a reverse, a takedown, and two points for riding time.

Kees Opens Gate

Bob Kees then had the honors of opening up the regular season's festivities by repeating Clarke's scoring job and having three minutes more riding time—said three minutes not counting on time advantage, though.

Bill Morse went in the 130 pound class for J. A. Cameron who was to wrestle Monday against Auburn. Morse really went in there piling up eight points before pinning his opponent John Dennis in one minute and 32 seconds of the third period with a crossface armlock hold. Morse was in command of the situation all the way.

'Nother Sub-Pin

Donald MacDonald did a sub for Chesley Anderson in the 137 pound class and also performed a five-point operation on Red Walker—the final touch being a cross body hold with a double armlock. The fall came in one minute and seven seconds of the second period.

Jimmy Callaway and Don Jones went at it in the 147 pound class with Callaway slipping away for two on a reverse, taking down for two more and gaining two points for riding time. Joe Poland went in the 157 class and piled up a few more points to add another three counters to MC's team score. Poland, wrestling for the first time along every one else save Proffitt and Callaway on the home mat, took John Fine, his Knox Y adversary, escaped one and had two near falls plus seven minutes riding time good for two more points and a 11-0 decision.

Too Fast At First

Jimmy Squires was next on the mats for the Orange and Garnet and made a good showing until the third period when he tired out and couldn't get the necessary escape which might have changed the match's outcome. Richard Joiner of the Y picked up a point on a penalty against Squires' two for a takedown, Squires likewise and two for a near fall. Squires picked up his other point for riding time in the first period.

Dick Ottinger of the Knoxville team also did a re-copy on Jim Cox in the 177 class by taking a 5-2 win. Cox got his for a takedown while Ottinger had a reverse an escape, and two points for ridin' time.

Faulty Forfeit

Bob Proffitt was slated to give Bronco Bailey a tussle in the heavyweight class but after only some fifteen seconds of action, the two fell off the mat and Proffitt suffered a cut alongside his left eye—more or less a floor-burned-cut. When the cut had been taped up and Rapid Robert went back into play again, the two fell again to the mat and the cut opened again. At that point, referee Julius Nicely stopped the match and Bailey picked up five points for a forfeit match.

Summary of the night's matches:

Exhibition—123 class Bill Clarke, (M) over Bob Warlick (KY)

123 class—Kees (M) decisioned Arnold (Y), 6-0

130 class—Morse (M) pinned Dennis (Y) in 1:32 of the third period.

137 class—MacDonald (M) pinned Walker (Y) in 1:07 of the second period.

147 class—Callaway (M) decisioned Jones (Y), 6-0

157 class—Poland (M) decisioned Jones (Y), 11-0

167 class—Joiner (Y) decisioned Squires (M), 5-3

177 class—Ottinger (Y) decisioned Cox (M), 5-2

Heavyweight—Bailey (Y) won a forfeit from Proffitt (M), cut eye first period.

Plainsmen Plaster MC

The next meet for the Highlanders was that with Auburn's Tigers or Plainsmen and MC went in thinking that the meet might be somewhat salvageable though they knew the Alabama team was SEAAU champs. When it was over, they knew why they were champs. It was a debacle on the scoring side with a few seconds here and there often deciding a match's outcome. Auburn took its third win of the year against one loss—to mighty Appalachia—by a 30-0 score. Donald MacDonald and James Johns wrestled a weight-differentiating exhibition at the start of the meet with Johns winning, 5-4. MacDonald might have come out with a draw had he had three seconds less time on the bottom or that much on top.

Bob Kees and Eddie Creseps tangled in the first regular bout at 123 with Creseps slamming a pinhold on Kees 40 seconds after the second period had started. The five-pointer was a crotch and cross chest carry hold.

J. A. Cameron was slated to go against an old "Friend" in the 130 pound class but a bad cold prevented it and Bill Morse took his place. At that Morse didn't do so bad against Sonny Dragoin losing on a decision, 6-0. Dragoin gained the advantage spot once on a take down and another on a reverse but the SEAAU 128 champ could not up-end Morse.

Couudn't Do It. . . .

MC was trailing 8-0 in the team column, when Co-Capt. Chesley Anderson took to the mats against Auburn's Richard Belfonti, determined to win back some of those points by getting a pin. But Belfonti held out long enough in the first and second periods until Anderson was tired and then picked up enough riding time to win a 9-6 decision. Each man had a pair of reverses and a takedown—while Belfonti got a n escape.

Robin Baker who won the SEAAU laurels as a 155-er last year took off seven pounds this year and went down to the 147 class where he met Jimmy Callaway. Baker had a takedown and escape and a minute and 23 seconds riding time over and above Callaway's for a 4-1 decision. Callaway's point came on an escape.

What Happened

Joe Poland also was doing nicely in his match with Charlie Borum in the 157 class until the 3rd period was halfway over and

Chattanooga Cagers, Matmen Face MC Tonight

First Scot Twinbill Affair At 7:30

Two Maryille College athletic teams will try to get back on the victory path as they meet similar squads from the University of Chattanooga. The vansity basketeers will engage Chattanooga's quintet on the boards at 7:30 while the matmen will tangle at approximately 8:45.

Break That Streak

Maryille' luckless quintet steps a little out of its class tonight whne it takes on the University of Chattanooga—this time on our own court. The Scotties invaded the Chattanooga U. gym earlier this season and took a 69 to 36 trouncing. In the last fifty years the Scotties have only been able to beat the Moccasins once in twelve hardwood engagements—the '48-'49 quintet turning the trick.

The University of Chattanooga will bring two regulars from last year's team with them: Hauser, a forward, and Sompayrac, a high scoring guard. Newcomer Heil, the starting center, collected nineteen points against the Scotties in their first encounter this season. Back for MC will be defensive stalwart Bert McMahon whose broken nose has healed up possibly enough for play. Probable lineups ofr the 7:30 contest are:

MC	Pos.	Chat.
Downs	F	Hauser
Shields	F	Wilker
Keny	C	Heil
Allen	G	Jumper
McMahon	G	Silas

Wrestling At 8:45

On the matfront, the situation is somewhat brighter since the fact remains that MC did beat them in the opening match of the season. And MC has taken six of seven matches from the Mocs since mat-relations started in '46-'47—the other one being a 14-14 draw in '48-'49.

Biggest worry facing Moc coach Ken Carpenter has been a lack of a 123 pound man to go for him. Bob Kees picked up a forfeit and five team points in the last contest and if he does so again, victory will gain an added boost. J. A. Cameron racked his man Wells with a pin in their first engagement and may do so again if his "bad cold" ever passes away. Otherwise Bill Morse will tangle.

Ches Anderson MC co-cap, decisioned the Moc's Melvin Haskins, 9-3, and may repeat the stunt tonight if there is no shakeup and Art Conroy goes for Carpenter. Jimmy Callaway took a decision from the Moc's Bill Hodges, but this week, Hodges may have gotten down to his old 136 weight of last year and Haskins may in turn then go at 147.

Poland and Williams

Chattanooga's Frank Williams took a forfeit over MC's Jim Frain but the pickings may not be quite so easy against Poland—Frain went nearly three periods too, and wasn't far behind. Bob Farmer pinned Don Benton in the last outing but against Willy Rahn or Jimmy Squires, the tussle may last longer or different. The one thing stacked up against Rahn is his labs which afford him too little time for getting in shape. Mickey Myers won over Poland in the 177 class but Palmer will be after a win in his fourth-year come-back for honors and it should be a roughie. Last year the two went to an 8-8 draw.

"The Blimpe"

And at heavyweight, Dick Patton or Bob Proffitt will go, depending on whether Proffitt's eye-cut has healed sufficiently. Blonde Tom Drake and Palmer drew in the first match of MC thus either MC man will have a job on his hands.

MC	Wt.	Chatt.
Kees	123	——
Cameron	130	Wells
Anderson	137	Haskins
Callaway	147	Hodges
Poland	157	Williams

BASKETBALL

Intramural basketball goes into it's final week of play with the championsip of both leagues still undecided. Sparked by Galen Johnson, "Leakie" Campbell and Ralph Thiesse, the Wizzers kept their unblemished record intact by drubbing the Redmen while Athenian Rebels stayed into a second place tie with Alpha Sigma's Woodman by polishing off the Nighthawks, Gobblers, and Recruit in quick succession.

Over in the Garnet League the Ex-Scrubs edged out in front by notching two victories this past week. The Hig Nips added three scalps to their belt and moved past the Shudas, who were uncerimoneously dumped by sixth place Y.M.C.A. in a thriller.

The bottom two teams in each league will be the only teams that will not participate in the round-robin, single elimination tournament scheduled for the week of February 13 through 18. League champions and runners-up will be ceded and the remaining teams will draw for opponents at a time yet to be announced.

VOLLEYBALL

Sign-up sheets for the Intramural Volleyball tournament are available at the Intramural office. All team rosters must be in by February 15—none will be accepted after that date.

Seedings and such have been made for the Intramural Badminton tourney this week by promoters of the event. Seeded in the women's singles are Sally Kemp, Jane Child, Barbara Rogers, and Sue Watson. In the women's doubles, the pairs Shirley Roussey and Sue Watson, Jane Spencer and Betty Anne Roach are seeded tops.

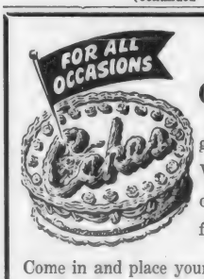
Leading the Men's sngles pack are Clyde McCampbell, Bob Larson, Jim Lester, and Sid Lambert. Pairs for the double tourney are McCampbell and Kent Buser and Lester-Larson. The Mixed Doubles event has seeded persons Dck Thom and Jane Child and Watson-Drescher.

According to information handed out by the Community Recreation class sponsoring the event, games can be played any time in Bartlett Gym during the day. The draw sheet is posted in Bartlett and games must be played off by next week when the finals will be staged.

Tusculum Edges Highlanders, 63-57

Carlomagno Paces Win

Charlie Allen and Stan Downs each rang the bell for fifteen points as the Scotties extended Tusculum's Pioneers, but a few defensive lapses gave Tusculum an edge which they clung tenaciously to the rest of the way.



Allen and Tusculum's Mathias matched baskets for most of the first quarter as the lead changed hands several times. Blake and Carlomango hit for a couple early in the second quarter to boost the Tusculum lead to six points, a margin that did not change much the rest of the game. Maryville left the floor trailing 31 to 35 at half-time.

Pouring it on right from the start of the second half, the Scotties clawed to within one point of the Tusculum lads. Mathias, whose set shots kept his team in the game during the first half, fouled out, but Malkowski took over for him and sparked Tusuculum's climb back to a six point lead. Down's and Carlomango then started hitting for their respective teams and they raced down to the wire with six points separating them—the scoreboard showing 63 points for Tusculum and 57 for Maryville.

BOX SCORE:

MC (57)		Tusculum (63)

Calls Goal Representation For All Statement of Southern Council

(The following is reprinted from The New South, official publication of the Southern Regional Council).

Discriminations long taken for granted in the South are today yielding their bitter harvest. The Southern states are discovering that equal opportunity—as defined not only in the U.S. Constitution, but also in their own laws and constitutions —is expensive and difficult of achievement. They are learning just how unequal our "separate but equal" facilities are, in health, education, housing, recreation, and scores of other public services. Under the pressure of court action, they are discovering that the time is rapidly running out when postponement and token approaches to equalization will suffice.

An Unpaid Debt

The problem is talked about in terms of dollars and cents; repairing the neglect of generations is a costly business. But, as the Southern Regional Council has repeatedly pointed out, the problem is a material one— and something more. The South has an old unpaid debt to its Negro citizens; to reward patience, service, and loyalty with recognition of full citizenship status. This debt will not be satisfied merely by bestowing upon the Negro population increased benefits long overdue (although that is an end far from attainment).

As Dr. Benjamin Mays declared recently in New South: "There is a growing conviction among Negroes that if one racial group makes all the laws and administers them, holds all the power and administers it ,and has all the public money and distributes it, is is too much to expect that group to deal as fairly with the weak, minority, non-participating group as it deals with its own."

Shift to Democracy

What is needed is a shift from paternalism to democracy. Negroes should have full and fair representation are being asked to rule, that sentative bodies. These would include, of course, boards, and commissions governing the whole range of public services. But the need today is of special urgency in the field of education.

In county after county over the South, Federal courts have ruled equal school facilities must be provided for Negro children without delay. School boards and other public officials are anxiously examining their budgets and making belated starts at improvement. A few politicians, more interested in votes than in progress, are shouting defiance at the courts and seeking to incite the public to anger. Other spokesmen have taken on the futile task of justifying and explaining away the inequalities which are too plain to be denied. Still others, while deploring existing discriminations, deplore even more the filing of law suits demanding correction.

Such protestations are neither justified nor constructive. In view of the long record of evasion and ination, it is hardly surprising that Negroes are turning with increasing frequency to the courts for the remedy to old injustices. That is a lawful and accepted procedure in our democracy, and should not cause dismay or indignation. On the contrary, it should cause some honest self-examination. School suits, by and large, are the fruits of bad faith. There is every reason to believe that the Negro plaintiffs, like the defendants, would prefer a less expensive and more cooperative method to reach agreement. The best way to achieve that is for Negroes to have a voice in the policy-making which determines the quality of education children are to receive.

What Is Equal?

Much attention is being focused just now on the attainment of two equal school ssytems. Who is to say what is equal? In past experiences, our only arbiter on that is the courts. And the briefs prepared for the courts by contending parties inevitably stress the mathematics of equality: How many desks, of what model, at what cost, on how many square feet of floor space, for how many white pupils, as compared with how many of each of these for how many Negro pupils. And ultimately a court must state a formula—a number.

However, true equality is not static arithmetic. It is a running matter. It requires trustworthy day-to-day administration. How can that be contrived? The only answer is representation of all parties on the important policy boards. If we are to have flexibility and order and understanding in the conduct of our school system in the South, we must build a system of school administration which all concerned can believe in.

Honest Representation

In places where boards of education are elective rather than appointive, it is up to qualified Negro persons to seek the office. It need hardly be pointed out that no representation can be effective unless it honestly expresses the feelings of the group represented. In places where boards of education are appointive, public officials will be tempted to appoint persons whose compliance and readiness to please would make for easy agreement. But such appointments will not accomplish their purpose. True agreement—particularly in a matter as sensitive and important as educational opportunity—can be reached only if the minority view is voiced with frankness and considered with respect.

The opportunity is before us to strengthen our region and hasten its progress by admitting all our people to the ranks of our common citizenship. There could be n o more appropriate time than now, and no more appropriate field than education, for that step to be taken.

court in Intramural Gym. . . promoters of the event are expecting a full crowd of sideline coaches and railbirds (the whistling brand) from the male societies. . . game time is at 6:15 . . . we don't know what kind of trophy is at stake in the meeting . . . though it may be called "The Leaking Bucket" Affair or something similar. . . . each of the female groups has won one game. . . The girls made plans for this contest and carried them thru in one week's time while promoters of the Stinking Shoe classic have done about as good as the name applies in scheduling theirs. . . . Whatsamatter, huh. . . .

"We've got about the best balanced team we've had in a long time" said Coach Arnold Umbach following the Auburn wrestling match. "Swede" had a team strong in spots last year but not all over as this year. . . . Seems as though they've picked up some tricks from T. Callaway as of last year—leg holding—which will not suffice for them when tourney time rolls around tho. . . The unheard of news: we've picked up another reader—way out in Texas, too, at San Antonio. . . make it four . . . don't know the real reason save that he may not know the true situation . . . since he lives out thar when "men"/live, we'll give a hint. . . his roommate's initials are W.M. . . . heh, heh, fooled you, ya, didn't know there were 20,000,000 folks in the US.. alone with those initails . . . Look for some hot Intramural games next week as the leagues get down to their final throbbings and spots in the standings differ by only a game apiece. . . . Work may start on the track soon, we hope (a hint).

. . . One of the latest things to hit the newstands and which has touched our heart somewhat though others maintain we haven't any is Tom Siler's articles on MC's athletic director, L. S. Honaker. . . his stories which began Wednesday have contained some of the old rehashed and rehashed incidents of Coach's life to which he has purposefully or innocently been the victim of . . . "Assistant Coach" Miss Heron had asked us earlier in the season, since Lombe is heading into his thirtieth year at Maryville, if we couldn't possibly be made to cough up an All-Honaker-Time football squad. When approached about the matter, Coach was non-commital and pooh-poohed the idea since there have been so many, he would hate to make a choice. . . . However, since the All——selectors are putting in two plattoon rosters, maybe Siler can get him to cough one up and then perhaps a series could be run on the individuals to bring modern day MC'ers up-to-date on such fellows as John Stone, Shorty McCall, Speedy Ruble, and all the others—perhaps some Phys Ed major could make a special studies out of it . . . goodness knows but such stuff is practically non-existant and maybe Coach would give an A for a good job done . . we hereby give him one for his job.

. . . We've been falling down on another front as usual as re the sports scene. Coach Johnson's frosh flashes performing their finest o fthe season, really rolled to a victory in defeating a team from the Air Base. With Jimmy Campbell and Joe Hopkins sparking the flcor attack, the Flashes didn't look any better . . . especially interesting was Hopkins blocking of the 663'rd' center's shots from the side, . . once Joe got six in a row or else the man faked the ball into Joe's hands. . . . perhaps, next week, we can give them a little play as to their record.

As always you'll find the best foods at the lowest available prices. Fine short orders, and excellent dinners cooked to your order make your town-nite "a night" out that will be long remembered.

We will continue to serve that extra dip of ice cream.

he found himself in an unfamiliar hold, looking up at the rafters. After struggling vainly for some time, Borum held MC'c man down long enough for a slap of the mat and a pin at one minute 47 seconds of the third period. The hold was a double armlock.

Robert Long, SEAAU 165 titler, also kept his slate clean for this year's tourney as he "skunked" Willard Rahn, 8-0 on a take down, a reverse, a near fall, and riding time. Rahn's big effort of the night was in escaping Long's attempted-pin hold.

Come On Fat Boy

Herb Palmer was loosening up for MC on the near end of the court as Rahn's match came to a close and MC fans expected that the Orange and Garnet would not go blankless for the first time in history as the 177 Palmer could maybe science his way to a draw or something. But the week-long lay-off since the Chattanooga meet was too much and when Palmer wanted to lift his opponent, Bob Drake, when the latter was on top, he couldn't do it. As it was, Drake just won the match by 23 seconds more riding time. He had a minute and 22 seconds more than Palmer and picked up one vital point in that method of scoring. It was a case of too much strength.

The End

Dan McNair then went against Dick Patton in the heavyweight class and the big McNair applied a crotch and nelson hold to gain five more points in one minute and 45 seconds of the second period.

Exhibition—Johns (A) 143 pounds decisioned MacDonald (M) 135 5-4.

Boys Of Alpha Sigma Elect Third Annual Sweetheart

By Sally Brown

The presentation of the 1951 Sweetheart of Alpha Sigma will be made Saturday, February 17, at 6:30 p.m. in the Intramural Gymnasium, it was announced this week by Alpha Sig President Charlie Flood.

A program of entertainment will accompany the presentation and background music will be provided by a six piece orchestra.

The results of the Sweetheart election held last week are being kept secret until the night of the presentation. Jane McMillon was the first Sweetheart of Alpha Sigma in 1948. The last Sweetheart elected by the men's society was Alice Davenport in 1949. Since that time, Miss McMillan has put the pin presented to her in perpetuity and it will be passed on from year to year.

Commitee heads for the event are, as announced by Producers Dick Jones and Joe Stater; House, Sid Lambert and Bill Menges; Set: Jack Mowatt, Neale Pearson, Jim Townsend, and J. A. Cameron; Maintenance: Jack Mowatt, Ken Hammond, and Ed Scott; Music: Bob Moser and Johnny Sayre; Publicity: J. Bright, Curt Wilbanks, and Neale Pearson.

Marshall, Robinson Give Recital Friday

Carolyn Marshall and William Robinson will be presented in a Junior Recital next Friday afternoon in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Carolyn Marshall, pianist, will play the "Allemande," "the Courante," "the Sarabande," and "The Gigue" from the "French Suite No. 6 in E Major by" Bach, the "Larghetto" from Mozart's "Concerto in D Major (K. 537)" with Miss Davies at the second piano, "the Romance," "Scherzino," and the "Intermezzo" from Schuman's "Faschingsschwank aus Wien, Op. 26," and "Freely poetic," "Soft and languid," "Muted and sensuous," and "With bounce" from Copland's "Four Piano Blues."

William Robinson, baritone, accompanied by Joyce Linginfelter, will sing "Now Phoebus Sinketh in the West" by Thomas Arne, "In Questa Tomba" and "Der Kuss" by Beethoven, the recitative "Bravo, Signor Padrone" and the aria "Se uol ballare" by Mozart, "L'Esclave" by Edouard Lalo, and "Clouds" and "Stampede" by Ernest Charles.

MLLE. Announces Fiction Contest

MADEMOISELLE, a young women's magazine, announces its 1951 College Fiction Contest with $1,000 in prizes has opened to all women undergraduates. The prize money will be divided between two winners whose stories will appear in the August 1951 copy of the magazine.

Stories which have appeared in college publications are acceptable only if they have not been published elsewhere. Manuscripts may vary from 3,000 to 5,000 words in length, typewritten, double-spaced on one side of the paper only. Each copy should be clearly marked with the contestant's name, home address, college address, and college year.

MADEMOISELLE editors will be the judges and entries must be postmarked by midnight April 15; manuscripts should be addressed to College Fiction Contest, MADEMOISELLE, 122 East 42 Street, New York 17, N. Y. Further information may be had in the ECHO office.

Brown, Kessler, Drum Elected

Margaret Ann Brown was elected vice house-chairman of Pearsons Hall in a recently held WSGA election. Other officers include Evelyn Kennedy, first aid chairman, and Hazel Holm, secretary.

Sally Drum was elected vice house-chairman of Baldwin and Shirley Atwell is the new secretary-treasurer. Peggy Kessler and Hazel Timblin were elected vice house-chairman and secretary-treasurer of Memorial Hall, respectively. Connie Howell was elected Fire Captain of Memorial and Barbara Stidham, Pearsons.

President Lloyd Attends Buck Hills Conference

President Ralph Waldo Lloyd will leave Monday to attend the western section of the World Presbyterian Alliance. The meeting will be held in Buck Hills Falls, Pa. and Dr. Lloyd is a delegate.

Harter To Direct Festival Choirs

Harry H. Harter will direct a mass chorus of 300 voices from the churches in Maryville at the 1951 annual choir festival to be held at 4 p.m. in New Providence Presbyterian Church tomorrow. Katherine Crews of the college music faculty will also take part in the program as violinist.

The program will feature hymns and anthem appropriate to the Lenten season. Dr. George F. Davies will participate in the service.

Proffitt Elected National Head Presbyterian Men

The National Council of Presbyterian Men elected David W. Proffitt of Maryville their national president last week at a meeting in Chicago. Mr. Proffitt served as vice-president last year.

This is the highest office a Presbyterian layman can hold. The installation service was conducted by Dr. Hugh I. Evans, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church USA.

Lavender Speaks

Dr. B. B. Lavender of the Shanondale Presbyterian Church will be the speaker at vespers Sunday night at 7 in the library.

MC Experimentalists Footlight Two Productions Of 'Everyman' Friday

By Pat Lovette

George Caldwell, freshman Dramatics Arts major from Cincinnati, Ohio, will play the title role in the Experimental Theatre production, "Everyman," to be presented February 16 in Bartlett Auditorium. The first performance will begin at 7:30 and the second at 9:00.

Others in the cast include Bill Starr, God; Dave Reed, Death; Jim Hunt, Fellowship; Katherine Blackburn, Kindred; Ray Kuhn, Cousin; Mary Ann Hieks, Goods; Norma Lou Loetz, Knowledge; Dorothy Greenhagen, Confession; Jane Hassinger, Beauty; David Latis, Strength; Mary Wade Newton, Discretion; Walter Elwood, Five Wits; and Mary Wilkes, Messenger.

"Everyman" is the most justly celebrated of all the old English morality plays. It was based upon an earlier Dutch play of the same title, the earliest English around 1520.

Death summons "Everyman" to go with him. "Everyman" tries to show Death that he should go to heaven by asking his friends to help him, but all but Knowledge and Good Deeds forsake him. "Everyman" then realizes that Good Deeds is what he needs to get to heaven.

Austin Van Pelt is House Manager for the play. Carl Drescher is Stage Manager, assisted by Ken Rutherford, Dorothy Greenhagen, and Lou Masters. Art Van Alstyne assisted by Ruth Nicholas, is in charge of scenery. Lighting is handled by Dan Dunbar with Mary Wilkes assisting.

Mary Wade Newton, Joanne Edwards, and Clifford Church are in charge of costumes. Dorothy Greenhagen is in charge of tickets, with Joan Titley and Norma Lou Loetz assisting her. Publicity is being handled by Grace Myers, assisted by Louise Packard and Phyll Jackson.

To date $1275.09 has been paid towards the pledged $1887.25 for the Fred Hope Fund. The balance left unpaid is $612.16. This year the fund goes to support Mary Edna Smith, '48, who is a short term missionary now serving in Hong Kong, China.

Tables will be set up in the Printing Office doorway, first floor, Anderson Hall, on Saturday, February 10, from 8:30 a.m. to noon. Payments can be made during that time or at any time to Mrs. Kenneth Johnson in the Printing Office. "If you are among those who have not completed payments on pledges, won't you do so as soon as possible?"

Ath-Bains Have 'Romeo and Juliet'

Athenian and Bainonian societies will hold a joint Valentine party this evening instead of a regular meeting. Each Bainonian is requested to bring two desserts. At the door each person will draw a slip of paper bearing the name "Romeo" or "Juliet." Every Romeo who goes to the party will have a Juliet.

Songs and games are also on the agenda for the evening.

Colombia Students Lead Vols' Meeting

Student Vols will meet in Bartlett Auditorium tomorrow night immediately after vespers. The entire program, including special music, will be presented by students from Colombia Theological Seminary, Decatur, Ga.

After the service an announcement will be made concerning the missionary project. Each year Student Volunteers send money or supplies to further mission work in a foreign country.

Mid-South Synod Groups Meet Here

Nearly 400 people are expected on the Maryville College campus from June 26 to 29 at the annual meetings of the Presbyterian U&A Synod of Mid-South, Syncdical Society, and Westminster Fellowship. Five states are involved in the area to be represented.

President Ralph Lloyd attended a special synod committee meeting on program and arrangements in Chattanooga Wednesday.

U-T Art Dept. Exhibits In FAC Gallery Feb. 13

Mr. Ewing, Mr. Cox, Mr. Cress and Miss Huper, all of the U-T Art Department, will hold a discussion of their works on Tuesday evening, February 13 at 7:30 in the Art Gallery. Their works are considered representative of the contemporary trends in painting and sculpture.

The current exhibit in the Art Gallery contains paintings by the above people and the following students of the U-T Art Department: Miss Arlene Goff, Miss Mary Ann Hagler, Miss Eleanor Creekmore, Joyce Robinson, Mr. George Mussett, Mr. Carroll Shope and Mr. H. Lane. Miss Huper has also loaned three pieces of sculpture. The display will continue through February 20.

Holt Presented In Student Recital

Doris Holt will fulfill her sophomore recital requirements at a Student Recital next Tuesday afternon at 4:30 in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. She will play the Allegro from Mozart's Sonata in F Major (K. 533), the Valse in E Minor and the Nocturne in C Sharp Minor, Op. 27, No. 1 by Chopin, and Debussy's "Reflets dans l'eau" from "Images," and "A Short Story," "A Little Joke," and "Etude" from Fifteen Children's Pieces, Op. 27.

Other participants in the recital will be Barbara Stidham with "Yellow Leaves" (Bagatelle No. 1) by Miaskowsky and "The Rails" by Dechevow; Bettey Hammers in the spiritual "O What a Beautiful City"; Larry Wallace playing the Allez Modere, the Tres modere, and the Alerts from Poulenc's Mouvemens Perpetuets; Evalyn Smith singing "Tu che di gel sei cinta" (Turandot) by Puccini, accompanied by Dorothy Vawter; Gloria Measemer singing "Hopak" by Moussorgsky, accompanied by John Sayre; and Mary Lee Snodderly playing the Prelude in G Major (W.T.K. Baxter Ragsdale, president of the University YMCA, and Elizabeth Frost, president of the University YWCA, will lead the program. There will be a discussion on the activities and function of the Y on a university campus.

Del Poling is in charge of arrangements.

College Assists In Day Of Prayer

Maryville observed a Day of Prayer yesterday joining with the Blount County church women in commemorating International World Day of Prayer. At 9 a.m. yesterday morning the College drama classes presented a radio program over WGAP, Mrs. W. Curtis Hughes directing.

Mr. In Sum Kim, freshman here at the college, spoke at the Day of Prayer services held yesterday afternoon at the First Baptist Church. Mr. Kim is a Korean and presented the Korean situation; the special offering was divided between a local project and a Korean mission.

Medical Schools List May Exam

Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1952 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May, it was announced today by the Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test for the American Medical Association. These tests required by a number of the leading medical colleges throughout the country will be given twice in a calendar year.

Application forms and a bulletin of information which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available directly from Educational Testing Service, Box 592, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must be in the hands of the ETS by April 28 for the May Test.

Choir Makes Trip To Harriman PTA

Maryville College Vesper Choir left campus yesterday at 1 p.m. in the choir buses to give a concert in Harriman. In the afternoon they sang in the High School and in the evening they gave a formal concert under the auspices of the Harriman PTA with Mrs. J. S. Kring, Maryville alumna, as chairman.

The trip was postponed last semester due to weather conditions and several inches of snow which fell Thursday night almost prevented the second attempt.

Theta's See Magician

Theta girls will be entertained this evening by the magician acts of George Day.

Stein Closes 'Meetings', Returns To Chicago

By Dick Newman

The Rev. Dr. Luther E. Stein, pastor of the Oak Park, Illinois, Presbyterian Church, closed the college's 75th series of February Meetings Thursday morning in chapel with the sermon theme "Remember Jesus Christ."

Dr. Stein spent yesterday visiting former parishoners in Oak Ridge and was scheduled to fly to Chicago today to resume pastoral duties. Dr. Sidney Stringham, song leader, has returned to his pastorate at the Cabanne Methodist Church, St. Louis, Mo.

In response to student requests and needs, Dr. Stein changed several sermon topics from the list originally released to The Echo. Last Saturday morning his theme was "Born to Give."

At Tuesday's chapel service he preached on "By the Renewing of Your Mind;" Wednesday morning, "Finding a Vital Faith;" Monday evening, "My Committment;" Tuesday evening, "Finding the Will of God;" Wednesday evening, "Marriage for Maturity."

After the evening service on Monday, Dr. Stein moderated a panel discussion on "Pathways," the Y radio program over WGAP. Saturday he spoke to Student Volunteers and attended the Pan Presbyterian Youth Conference held at Knoxville's Second Presbyterian Church, where the principal speakers were the moderators of the US and USA General Assemblies.

Tuesday noon Dr. Stein spoke to the Maryville Kiwanis Club; Tuesday evening he participated in an informal discussion at Pearsons Hall.

The Y's sponsored a tea and reception for Dr. Stein and Dr. Stringham at the Fine Arts Center Wednesday evening after the final night meeting. Y presidents Louise Lloyd and George Ogle also stood in the receiving line.

Railroad workers returned to work this week making a quick recovery from their sickness which had kept them confined to their homes and trains confined to the yards for almost a week. Funny how some men will bicker over a 40-hour week while asking other men to risk their lives 168 hours a week "policing" Korea.

A Second Tax bill was presented to Congress this week by Pres. Truman. This new measure called for a 6 million dollar increase to supplement the 10 million boost asked for last week. We wonder what our forefathers would think of these measures; they fought a Revolution because of a penny tax on a pound of tea.

A-Bomb test held this week served notice on pal Joe Stalin that Uncle Sam isn't fooling around this time. Reports out of Washington indicate that these bombs are vastly improved over the ones used toward the end of the last war. Stringham Completes 29th Year, Prefers Buttermilk

By Trudy Furman

Sidney E. Stringham, leader of music for the 75th Annual February Meetings first came to Maryville College in February 1922. With the exception of the meeting in 1934, he has served each year since his first as chief song leader.

Mr. Stringham is primarily a minister of the Methodist Church, having joined the Holston Conference at Knoxville in 1919. He was also trained as a singer of evangelistic songs and received his training under D. B. Towner, one of the greatest writers of gospel hymns as well as a conductor of note. As a director of music and a teacher, Mr. Stringham serves summer institutes, conferences, assemblies not only in the Methodist Church but in other churches as well.

Public Solo

He sang his first public solo at the age of three in his home church in Ottumwa, Iowa and was made a member of the church choir when he was five years old. In his youth he was under Prof. Weeks, a prominent teacher of music in his home city of Ottumwa. In St. Louis, he was a member of a choir of two hundred voices which regularly sang with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Dr. William Heyne.

Mr. Stringham was educated in the schools of the Christian Church, but united with the Methodist Church in 1919. He is now pastor of Cabanne Methodist Church in St. Louis, Mo. Mr. and Mrs. Stringham have two daugh-

'Communism Will Not Succeed' Says Jimmy Bang From Shanghai

By Dick Newman

James Holmes Bang, 18, of Shanghai, China, who has been in this country only a month and a half, became a Maryville College freshman at mid-semester last month.

His family has been Christian for three generations, his grandparents coming under the influence of Presbyterian missionaries. His father, mother, and three brothers remain in China, with two brothers studying at St. John's (Methodist) University in Shanghai, and the other at Lowire Institute, a Presbyterian mission school.

Jim studied for one year at (Baptist) University of Shanghai and hopes now to finish his education here and return to China as an engineer or teacher. "That is, unless the Communists are still in control," he said.

He described the great difficulty involved in leaving the country and he himself had to travel to British-controlled Hong Kong and then to Formosa in order to obtain the necessary papers. On the island of Formosa, where the Nationalist government is now located, Jim met Madame Chiang Kai Chek and was impressed by her "warm and friendly" personality.

Hong Kong alone contains nearby 8,000 students who have passports to the United States, but who are unable to obtain visas into this country, he said. There is a great deal of sentiment against the Communist government in South China, and Jim believes that Chiang could retake the country because of this dissatisfaction and the large numbers of Nationalist guerrillas in the villages.

Communists from the north were able to take the country in a short time because of the lack of confidence of the people in the corrupt Nationalist regime and the effective propaganda devices of the Communists. Freedom is limited under the present government and taxes are high. The Communists have also fostered much anti-American sentiment, Jim said.

Christian churches in China are able to continue all services yet "they are cautioned about preaching, and cannot speak freely on all subjects." Most of the Nationalist officers on Formosa are Christian, Jim pointed out.

His father is a well-known and widely-travelled commercial artist in Shanghai, but Communist taxes and restriction have made life difficult. All Shanghai school curricula have been revised to include a required course, entitled "New Democracy," which stresses a Communist point of view.

But Jim does not believe that the Communists will ultimately succeed in his country. They have broken family relationships—so important in the Orient—in connection with the Communist program, and he believes that will be their downfall.

In the meantime, tall, good-looking, friendly James Bang becomes a part of Maryville College life, and is welcomed to the hill with the traditional spirit that is Maryville's.

The American Tragedy–

Nine years ago last month a sneak attack on American forces at Pearl Harbor destroyed the major part of this country's naval fleet and brought death to a large number of American servicemen. World conditions prior to that time had been such as to warn the United States government and the people that such action was entirely possible at any time. Because of the pacifist sentiment in many sections of the country and the strong block of isolationist senators and representatives in Washington, this nation was totally unprepared to meet the armed challenge.

The chief executive had tried constantly to bring American forces up to par with those of the three major powers that were challenging the peace of the world. Congress preferred to soothe the fears of the people by telling them that preparedness was unnecessary. Voters have a habit of blessing the bearer of good tidings at election time.

Ironically nine years later, we are faced with much the same type of problem in about the same area of the globe as before. Again the attack comes to us in the way of undeclared war. Modern warfare depends upon the element of surprise and military leaders and diplomats no longer resort to such niceties as a declaration on intentions.

The situation that America faces today is just as grave, and perhaps more so than the one of 1941. At that time the nation enjoyed the leadership of a president who had the power to whip erring congressmen into line when the course we had to take became clear, and he enjoyed the stronger backing of Democrats in the two houses of legislature.

Today the enemy we face is strong, fanatic, and bent upon world conquest. Defeat of that enemy will take the total resources of all the nations of the West, depending first of all upon a united and determined people.

America is not united.

Both parties of the political scene have lowered the highest elements of our international problems that require unity of statesmanship to the political crevice of partisanship and political self-perpetuation. The Republican party has created an attitude of distrust whereby the American people have lost faith in all of the national leaders. To counter the constant and selfish attack, the Democrats have approached every world and domestic problem with the next election, instead of the safety of the nation, foremost in their minds.

Nine years ago the American people met the challenge of war firmly and proved themselves capable as a nation of winning against tremendous odds. Today, the American people are still capable, but before the foe can be met squarely the people must convince their leaders that political bickering and senseless political attack within the two parties must take a back seat until the present crisis is over.

Democracy thrives on a sincere exchange of opinions; but it can be destroyed by a constant deluge of selfish internal bickering at a time when the enemy is coldly calculating the destruction of the democratic movement.

First, there must be unity!

DAFFYNITIONS

Here's a little information which might be of help to you when some "intellectual probing" is being done on you. It's the definitions of the terms used by profs on their quizzes.

Explain briefly: An abbreviation for "explain briefly and you'll get a C." In answering be sure to include everything whcih the reader might possibly consider relevant.

Hour exam: This term is used ambiguously sometimes referring to a time limit and sometimes referring to subject matter. Concerning the former, it is three hours work to be done in one hour. The latter refers to the "pop quiz" variety which usually occur during the first or the last 10 minutes of a period.

Evaluate: Give the professor's opinions on the subject. This is one of the most frequent types of questions given though it is not often labelled "correctly."

Trace the evolution of: Write a complete history, and be sure to know your references if you don't include them.

Discuss: Tell everything you know. This term is often erroneously used by professors for "evaluate."

Be specific: Quote the prfoessor or the text verbatim.

Define your terms: Define the meaning of any word with more than one syllable. This one is often used on the pretext of having the student positive that he knows what it means. However, it could only be applied logically to the professor.

TO FLIT OR NOT TO FLIT

Judy Breen: "Every time I see Clyde McCampbell's Crosley, I don't know whether to run or get the Flit gun."

DAYS OR DAZE?

Miss Guss was telling her Greek class a few new things about the Greek language when Andy Clark quipped: "Days of discovery."

ALL WORN OUT!

After two years, Alpha Sig is at last getting a new sweetheart.

DR. STEIN SEZ:

"Presbyterians are Methodists who take Hadacol." And about the sinner, he says: "The Methodists save him from the gutter, the Baptists wash him clean, the Presbyterians starch him stiff, and the Episcopalians iron him out smooth." The good Doctor also claims that there was a girl in one of his groups who was called "Ansco." "She was overexposed and underdeveloped."

THAT'S WHAT HE THINKS

An oldtimer on this campus, who prefers to remain anonymous, remarked the other day: "Today, fellows like girls 'out of this world.' In my day we liked them a little closer."

PO'TRY

Here's a little poem to gladden the hearts of poetry lovers.

A is for Apple polishers
Who boast of their feats,
B is for Bookworms
Who deaden their suites,
C is for Card players
Who take life with ease,
D is for Day Dreamers
Who do as they please,
F is for Fellows
Who don't just know how,
And I mean I'll do it later
The heck with it now!

MOURNING GLORY

Andy Clark popped a question to Mr. Pieper the other day. Mr. Pieper just stood with a blank expression on his face, so Andy repeated the question. Replied Mr. Pieper: "I knew there was something I forgot to do this morning. I forgot to shave."

A HANDY GREETING

While standing in line Wednesday night to shake Dr. Stein's hand, Jim Watt and Neale Pearson were approached by Walt English, who asked if they would help him out a bit. Five hundred cups and saucers later they met Dr. Stein in the Fine Arts kitchen with their aprons on, and promptly offered him a dish towel, also.

WRITERS' WORKSHOP TO WIT

These comments occurred during a Writers' Workshop discussion on the sale and distribution of their annual publication "Chips."

Jim Dance: "Mark them down, and say 'the Chips are down.'"

Mr. Bushing: "Auction them off as 'Chips off the old block.'"

Lucy Carrick, after suggesting distribution through the dorms: "Let the Chips fall where they may."

Just by way of a reminder, there are always more splinters than chips in any block.

TALK OF THE WEEK

Reprint by Rip Reeves

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

MOVIES

Monday and Tuesday at the Capitol the show will be "Saddle Tramp," in Technicolor, with Joel McCrea and Wanda Hendrix. McCrea plays the part of a saddle tramp who is forced to take a job when he becomes responsible for four orphan boys and a girl (Wanda Hendrix), who is running away from her wicked uncle. Since his boss is a child-hating rancher, he hides the children in the woods. They in secret help him with his chores, and with the uncovering of a plot against the rancher. The whole thing is rather short on action, but a pleasant story.

Wednesday the Capitol offers "Johnny One Eye," with Pat O'Brien and Wayne Morris, and Thursday and Friday Red Skelton in "Watch the Birdie."

At the Park Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday will be "Captain Carey, USA." Alan Ladd stars as an ex-captain of the OSS who returns to a little Italian village to discover the informer who betrayed him and two wartime comrades to the Germans. One of the victims, a young Italian countess, played by Wanda Henrix, turns up alive, but married to a suave nobleman. In addition, the community is hostile to Ladd because his wartime mission is blamed for the killing of 27 hostages by the Germans. He is then accused of a new murder. Ladd manages to bear everything with his usual stiff-lipped composure, but is nearly lost in the slow-moving story and obscure plotting.

"Our Very Own" will be shown Thursday and Friday at the Park. Its stars are Farley Granger, Ann Blyth and Joan Evans. It's a good picture if you haven't already seen it.

BOOKS

A good many of the new books this week seem to have a historical twist, although dealing with different subjects. "Paths to the Present," by Arthur Schlesinger, is a history of American government and traits of the people, with various aspects of American civilization. "The Confederate States of America 1861-1865" by Merton Couulter gives a good background of the Civil War and Gone-with-the-Wind days.

The "Historical Anthology of Music" by Archibald Davidson and Willi Apel, gives characteristic works of important composers of the Baroque, Rococo, and Pre-Classical Music periods. The scores are for voice, and for various instruments.

The "Photofact Television Course" will give any radio ham a basic knowledge of television and its problems. It is prepared from the lectures of Albert Saunders.

FOOTLIGHTS

Maryville College Experimental Theatre presented the unusual again last night with the production of "Everyman," a medieval play with lots of allegory in it. The play comes from the class of dramas called "Morality" plays. It's surprising how up-to-date the moral of the play is when one sees the date attached to the writing and how much entertainment is provided by a play which makes the audience use its intellect.

Appreciation goes to the cast, some of whom were making their debut on the Theatre stage: Katherine Blackburn, David Latis, and Walt Elwood; and to the director, Kathleen Craven for holding a good production.

Letter To The Editor–

Editor The Highland Echo:

We wish to express to The Highland Echo and through you to the students, faculty and staff of Maryville College our profound gratitude for the friendly recognition of the twentieth anniversary of our coming to Maryville.

The celebration was a genuine suprise to us. The plans were near completion before news of them reached us.

We sincerely appreciate the generous words published and spoken the lovely reception, and especially the thoughtfulness and good will which all these things represent.

At the end of twenty years on the campus we are glad we accepted the call to come. Our faith in and devotion to the College and those who study and work here year by year are more established than ever. We know also that these feelings are shared by our two sons and two daughters who have lived most of their lives and have done their college work on the Maryville campus.

We extend our thanks and our good wishes to all.

Sincerely
Ralph W. Lloyd

"Small Colleges Are Better . . ."

James F. Byrnes

"You are extremely fortunate in having had the opportunity to attend a small college. Today there is a mistaken worship of bigness. We like to boast of the bigness of a skyscraper, a cotton mill, and a farm. Whatever the advantage bigness may have in other fields, I think it is a distinct disadvantage in the field of education.

"Some of our universities have increased the student body to such an extent that the students have entirely lost the intimate association with talented teachers which has been a precious privilege of university life. Many universities have become education factories. Young men and young women are placed upon the educational assembly line. As they pass a professor tries to hammer something into their heads. They seldom get a chance to ask him a question. If the students are to miss all the personal association with teachers, they might just as well read lectures printed in a correspondence course.

"Last year I attended the commencement at a university where there were more than 7,000 graduates. It was a mass production of Bachelors of various kinds. It is a great university, but I doubt that human beings can be standardized like automobiles."

● BITTEN AGAIN . . . was the final outcome of the Chattanooga basketball game. The Scots again were sniffing the reward of victory or what comes close to it at halftime against Chattanooga—though trailing by three—but could muster no scoring attack in the third period and it was soon all over—even the shooting. Billy O'Brien ordered his men to work play after play at halftime and the ensuing practice must have done some good as the Mocs hit nearly 60% of their shots during the opening ten minutes of the second half. What hurt MC indefinitely was the failure of Charlie Allen and Babe Keny to hit. Allen who is not normally a 20-point man could not get a shot in for love or money—connecting on only one field goal attempt for 15 shots. Keny was only one better—1 out of 14. And there was no one to take up the big slack though Stan Downs and Dick Abbott came through with 14 and ten. Downs' shot is still an interesting one to most MC'ers with the vociferous head-wager still being Coach Honaker who still doesn't believe his eyes when Downs gives with his knee-action shot. We hope the slack is taken up all around against Hiwassee. We still remember last year. . . .

Taking Thursday night's TWJC game as an indicator of things to come, percentages improved greatly and the team as a whole perked up in the scoring column as did the general spread of the scoring. Keny and Allen found their eyes and we are now just itching for another triumph over Hiwassee. Statistics for the season as follows. HFGA means those attempted on the home court while HFGM is an indicator that said player has connected on so many field goal attempts in Alumni Gym. SFG is field goals for the season and FTA is free throws tried.

●DIS—A AND DATA—Very enjoyable ils what can be said of last Saturday night's Theta- Bainonain basketball(?) game. Theta won on a closie (50-49) that was really a closie. The girls in the green looked as if they had things sewed up at the end of the first half of play. But Theta sparked by Jean Davis' 17 points came roaring back to win. After seeing the diminutive Miss Davis fake-and-dribble around her guard like a pro, we're tempted to ask just how well she would do with an unlimited amount of dribbles. Gracie Scruggs held her Blue team in the game during the first half with 14 tallies and then in the last half combined with Barbara McNiell and Davis to hook 'em in. As for the Bainonian lassies—wow (now, now, control yourself) Trig (Spivey) Moyer topped all scoring for the night with 24 points. My but if she could develop a half-decent pivot shot she'd be a terror—and even Lombe could use her. Of course with the war situation as it is, he may be using the Misses Davis and Moyer come next fall. . and the Scots would perhaps draw a few more fans at home and away. . . Gerry Hopkins, prexy of Theta, also joyously received a little tin cup which will now be cherished as a winning memento of the occasion and passed on down to the winning team in the years to come. . .Thanx go to Misses Lerch, Smith, Ray and Leitch who made the event possible. And also to scorer Chuck Holsinger, timer, Sug Handley (B. McNiell gets the credit here), Ken Yunkers and Harry Newberry who reffed and all the guys and gals who attended played, or cheered, especially those girls who played defense for both teams and got little credit. Now dear four readers, if we have missed someone who is dear to your heart, please tell us and we will include them in our post-mortem column next week. . . . While MC men were slapping Chattanoga's Mocs to the mat here in Alumni Gym last Saturday night, another MC-man was standing up and slapping an opponent in the Golden Gloves tourney held in Knoxville. The gentleman carrying the Orange and Garnet was Jake Peppers sometimes referred to as "Joke." Jaken went in the 137 pound class all the way to the finals but lost on a TKO a la Proffitt-Knox Y when his nose literally started pouring out blood on the mat. . . otherwise he might have won—being ahead on points at the itme. . . a none too small contingent of MC fans also attended which makes us smile. . . even though the double-header was on at the time. . . a none too small contingent of MC fans also attend-groups there. . . we're glad Jake got that far and only wish he could have gotten by without the bloody nose and taken the belt—winning one, that is.

●TONIGHT THE ENGINEERS come to Maryville for a wrestling match with MC. The bout will be the biggest one of the season as far as they are concerned—the Chattanooga matches being briefers, so to speak. Not too much is known of the Tech's squad but with a little shove here and there, it has been improving over the years. MC has a 5-1-1 record so far and we hope that after tonight that it will be up and over the hump wth 6-1-1. We also hope Fat-Boy Palmer's shoulder muscles are out of recrudescense and that "the kid" gets back on a victory streak.

●RETREADS ON WRESTLING . . . "This thing has got to come to a screeching halt." These were the words uttered by Dick Patton and nearly about the same by Harold Glad at the finis of their bouts in the wrestling tourney. Both of the novices at the game had gotten flattened out on the mats by their opponents previously to these utterings. Previous to

Scots Put Clamps On Moc Matmen

MC Wins Third Match

Two forfeited matches helped out greatly as Coach Davis' Scot wrestlers took their third win of the year over Chattanooga U's grapplers last Saturday on the home mats.

Coach Ken Carpenter of the Moc team had no representatives in the 123 or 130 pound classes and thus MC picked up ten team points the easy way.

Half and Half

The evening's matches started out with two exhibitions both of which went either way and resulted in pins. Don Benton of MC and Sam Genow of Chattanooga tangled in the first fray with Benton applying a chest lock good for two seconds in one minute and 45 seconds of the second period. Tom Drake, who went for the Moc-men in the heavyweight class against MC when MC wrestled in Chattanooga, then went out after Harold Glad for the Orange and Garnet and within 45 seconds after the opening whistle had him in a pinhold which was good enough for a slap on the mat.

Three Decisions

Co-Capt. Chesley Anderson and Capt. James Haskins of the visitors then went on for the evening's first regular match and the Maryville man won a 4-1 decisin. Chesley had one take down, an escape and two minutes for extra riding time.

Jimmy Callaway and his opponent Bill Hodges, must have had plenty of grease in their system when they went in a 147 pound class match for theirs was a match of reverses. Callaway had three and Hodges two. MC's man also had a take down and a near fall plus 2 points for riding time to win a 12-5 decision.

Joe Poland also picked up two points for riding time in his match with Frank Williams and save for one reverse on Poland's part, MC's had the advantage spot on the Chattanooga man for most of the night.

Showing Better

Willard Rahn showed up much better in his 167 pound bout with Jim Gross and lost by an 8-2 decision. Rahn had a takedown in his favor while Gross had two reverses, two points for five minutes of riding time and two points for a near fall.

Two football guards clashed in the 177 pound class with MC's Bob Proffitt and Mickey Meyers of Chattanooga furnishing the opposition. Both men got away from each other on reverses while Meyers' take down provided the winning margin. Score of their match was three and two.

John Hawkins and Dick Patton engaged in another battle of footballers in the heavyweight class. Patton again was victimized. This time it came in one minute and forty-five seconds of the first period when Hawkins put together a double armlock with a cross body ride.

Summary of matches:

123—Kees (M) won on forfeit.
130—Cameron (M) won on forfeit.
138—Anderson (M) decisioned Haskins (C) 5-1
147—Callaway (M) decisioned Hodges, 12-5
157—Poland (M) decisioned Williams, 4-0
162—Gross (C) decisioned Rahn (M) 8-2
177—Myers (C) decisioned Proffitt (M), 3-1
Heavyweight—Hawkins (C) pinned Patton (M), 1:45 of the first period.

Intramurals....

With everything over but the shouting, two big games were yet to be played. The outcome of both could create first place ties in both leagues.

The Hig Nips picked up two wins this week to move past the idle Ex-Scrubs. The third place Shudas, by upsetting the Ex-Scrubs in their remaining game, can move into a second place tie and knock the Ex-Scrubs out of a first place tie. The two teams will meet Saturday afternoon at 2:45 in the Intramural Gym.

In the Orange League the Wizzers romped to a 51-21 win over Alpha Sigma's Woodman, but they couldn't shake off the rejuvinated Athenian Rebels, who added two games to their win column this past week and are right behind the first place Wizzers in the standings. The two teams meet in the last regularly scheduled game for each and an Athenian victory could gain them a first place tie in the Orange League's final standings:

The play-offs start this Monday. A representative from each of the qualifying teams must be present Monday afternoon at one o'clock in the Intramural office to draw for positions in the tournament. A list of participating teams will be posted on the Carnegie bulletin board Sunday evening.

Twenty-six boys turned out for the annual Intramural foul shooting tournament and saw Horace Beckwith defeat John Anderson in a second round of shooting. Both hit 22 out of 25 on their first tries while on the second Beckwith swooshed 15 and Anderson fell off to nine for 20. Galen Johnson took third with 21 and also took the 30 second shooting contest by pouring through 20 field goals in that amount of tmie. Carl Drescher and Bob Larson tied for second with 18 apiece in the half minutes of time allotted while Marshall England was third with 13—all three having tied on the first round with 18 and repeating in the second save for England.

Scots Drop Eleventh

It was another case of falling apart at the seams where the shooting and defense were concerned as MC's cagers dropped their eleventh ball game in a row to Chattanooga's Mocs. Coach L. S. Honaker's five drove after an opening lead and held it until it was 10-9 whereupon Chattanooga commenced to make things tougher. However, MC still hung on Chattanooga left the boards only abruptly before taking practice with a 22-19 lead. Some half-time practice seemed to have done the Chattonoogans some good for they scored six out of eight times halfway through the first ten minutes of the second half while MC could connect on only two out of fifteen for the whole ten minute period. This was enough and Chattanooga coasted in with a 60-44 margin.

Big man for the Mocs was Howard Sompayrac on offense with 17 while Spears' rebounding was tops for Chattanooga.

Theta Wins Closie Over Bainonian

Davis, Scruggs, Moyer Star In Annual Game

A bucket by Jean Davis in the last minute of play gave Theta a 50-49 win over the lassies from Bainonian in the big Inter-Society clash before a jam-packed crowd in Intramural Gym last Saturday night. Theta's Blue were ahead by one point before a field goal by Trig Moyer put Bainonian ahead. Miss Davis then put a crip in and Theta's defense prevented the big Moyer girl from "dropping" one through.

Bainonian Bounces Out

Sally Kemp and Moyer started things off for Theta by running up a 24-12 quarter lead and a 31-22 halftime lead. Fourteen by Gracie Scruggs was all that kept Coach Janie McMillan's offensive trio in the game. But McMillan's defensive trio of Sloan, Maxwell, and Watson clamped down on Bainonian's offense more than the latter's defense did agin Scruggs, McNiell, Davis & Co. High girl for the evening was Moyer with 24, followed by Scruggs and Davis with 21 apiece, Kemp with eight, Ruth Anne Roach with five, Lois MacIlwaine with six, McNiell, eight, and Peggy Sangster, Ann Leeder and Pat Lovette with eight, three, two and one respectively.

Cagers On At 7:30 While Wrestlers Go at 8:45

Two big-time teams, one in the sense that they are a big school, and the other in the sense that they've knocked off the Scots in athletic contest before, invade the confines of Alumni Gym tonight in the season's third twin cage-mat bill. The first team to use the Gym as an action spot will be Hiwassee's cagers after another basketball win with the cage contest starting at 7:30.

Scotties Seek Revenge

Maryville's bucket brigade, out to increase its win streak will try to reverse a 71 to 63 decision dropped to Hiwassee on the Tiger home ourt earlier this season.

Coach Lombe Honaker's charges who have showed signs of coming to life in their last two outings, may get win number four in this one. Guard Burt McMahon should be ready to see full time duty again, but guard Dick Abbott turned in a good performance in the Chattanooga game and he will probably see more action from now on.

Led by forward Don Williams, the Tigers will bring a crew of steady scorers to the Maryville campus tonight. In his previous outing against the Scots, Williams totaled twenty-two points. The rest of the Hiwassee five averaged twelve points apiece.

Probable Starting line-ups:

Maryville		Hiwassee
Downs	F	Williams, D.
Shields	F	Williams, Don
Keny	C	Henderson
Allen	G	Rodgers
McMahon	G	Rasnick, Len

Georgia Tech, a powerhouse in Southern football much more than in wrestling up to this year, will engage Coach John Davis' wrestlers at 8:45.

MC travelled down to Tech last year after going against Auburn's Tigers and came home with a 19-11 win. MC, all in all has taken five from Tech dropped one and tied two since the series started.

Weak Lightly

As for the Tech team, they revamped last year and have thusly a veteran squad returning. In the 123 pound class, Bill Morse will probably go against Tech's unknown man. Because of the skill of both he and J. A. Cameron, Wee Willie went down from the 130 class to the 23'ers. In case Tech brings along another 23 man, Bob Kees will no doubt go in an exhibition. Cameron will go for his fourth straight win over Garner Ivey. He came out the victor twice in the SEAAU tourney and last year won a 3-0 decision on the Atlanta mats.

Thank Goodness He's Gone

Co-Captain Chesley Anderson will go for another decision over Tech's Garrard in the 138 pound class. Anderson's margin last year was 8 and 5. Tech's frosh flash, Philopolous, who tore the 136 class apart in the tourney lost out on his grades last year and thus Anderson may not have as hard a time. Jimmy Callaway's opponent is probably a newcomer but nothing is known definite about the Engineer's 147 pound man. That is not the case for Joe Poland's opposing matsmen. Harold Zell who went against Herb Palmer two years ago in the 175 class wrestled at 155 last year and beat MC's Major twice in competition. Thus begins the rating of points for the other team unless Poland and the other heavies come through.

Conk Cone & Calloses

Hersh Merriman defeated Tech's 165 man last year, Ralph Cone twice, but the Tech man will have a chance to even the score tonight against MC's Squires, King or Rahn—King having improved greatly over the last couple of weeks.

Rally Rhodes is another good Tech bet in the 177 pound class. He clobbered Rahn, 8-0 on the Tech mats in regular season competition and then decisioned Palmer in the semi-finals of the SEAAU tourney. If Palmer's shoulder muscle doesn' t heal up in time for the match, Bob Proffitt, who has been getting some action since his eye-cut healed may go. Tech has another formidable in her heayweight Beck and MC's Dick Patton will have another rough match on his hands.

"Not Too Bright"

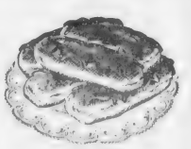
The situation was anything but optimistic as Coach Davis ran his charges through stiff workouts this week. "We're going to have to have four or five of the lower weights and maybe one or two of them by a pin to cope with Tech's strength in the heavy classes. We've had to depend on them all season long and here's another case of it." (Probably the worst since Auburn was strong all the way around.)

Line-ups for tonight's bout:

Class	MC	Tech
123—	Morse	Scott
130—	Cameron	Ivey
138—	Anderson	Garrard
147—	Callaway
157—	Poland	Zell
167—	Rahn, King, or Squires	Cone
177—	Palmer	Rhodes
Hwt.—	Patton	Beck

Scots Score Win; Break Loss Streak

Keny, Allen Lead TW Win



Maryville's basketball Scotties finally found the proverbial oasis in the desert as they found both their shooting eye and the basket in garnering an 80-59 team win over Tennessee Wesleyan's Bulldogs. The Bulldogs pulled out to a short-lived lead, but paced by Capt. Babe Keny on the rebounds and Charlie Allen on the scoring, MC fought back to a 40-20 halftime lead. Coach Hudson's Bulldogs were not to give up the ship though and made a fighting comeback themselves to pull within eleven points of MC when the Scots were at the 50-point mark. However, Coach Lombe Honaker sent in some fresh reserves who halted the onslaught and then raised the score themselves to preserve the comfortable final spread.

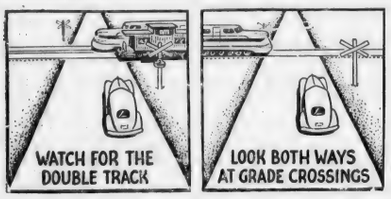
Answer to Question No. 1:

1. Yes, but statistics can fool you. Increase in chronic disease actually means we are getting healthier in our younger years, strange as that seems. Only one half of the people born in 1900 could expect to die of a chronic disease since so many of them were the victims of childhood diseases for which no cure had been found. Today four out of five persons die of a chronic disease, but at a much more advanced age, simply because we now are healthier in our youth and live longer.



Answer to Question No. 2:

2. Gingivitis is an inflammation of the gums caused by faulty diet, irritation or infection. While pyorrhea is more serious, since it means that actual pus is present, it is still important to correct gingivitis and thus prevent pyorrhea.

Answer to Question No. 3:

3. There is an old saying, "It takes a lean horse for a long race." If the condition of underweight is not due to illness, such as tuberculosis, thin older people (that is, those over the age of 55 years) live longer than the overweight.

Noted Biologist Visits Maryville During Tour

Dr. George C. Kent, Jr., noted biologist, stopped in Maryville for a visit on a tour of the larger museums of natural history in the north and east. Accompanying Dr. Kent are his wife, the former Lila Carringer of Maryville, and their daughter, Carolyn. Their home is in Baton Rouge, La., where he is associate professor of Zoology at Louisiana State University.

Both the Kents are Maryville College graduates; Dr. Kent in 1936, Mrs. Kent in 1937. He received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Vanderbilt.

Their tour will include museums at Yale and Harvard, New York's Museum of Natural History, the Smithsonian in Washington. In the last named he will collect material for a textbook in comparative anatomy. He has already compiled a college laboratory manual.

Dr. Kent is listed in Amerian Men of Science and is an authority on the growth and reproduction of the golden hamster on which LSU is now conducting research.

Will It Be 1951! Who Knows?

The year 1951 has started off with many predictions— some logical—some fantastic. The American public has begun to expect that, however!

Here are some of the more valid arguments, pro and con, as to whether 1951 will see us in or out of a shooting war with the Soviet Union.

To those who believe that war will catch up with us this year, here are some of the more factual reasons:

1. Russia, relatively, never will be stronger.

2. West Europe, without real defenses is a choice and provocative prize.

3. West Germany may be rearmed. Russia insists that a strong Germany would prove a dangerous threat to the Soviet Union.

4. The United States, given time, will grow much stronger, and finally surpass Russia's might.

5. Russians can strike now and Europe is theirs; delay and Europe may get away!

On the other side of the armed fence, we find just as many sound reasons working against war in '51:

1. 1,000 A-bombs, in war, will play havoc in Russia.

2. Oil to power a Russian offensive, to operate Europe if won, will be short.

3. The U.S., weak now, will get stronger in war. The U.S. cannot be defeated and will win in a long war.

4. Tito may cause untold unrest and trouble in Communist dominated ountries, and in utrn, spread war.

5. West Europe, though conquered could not be digested; it might have its industries destroyed by the U.S. The prize could be easily lost.

6. Avoid war and there may arise an opportunity to digest East Europe and much of Asia.

Here are some facts! What is your idea?

the match, Hugh Walker, pseudo-manager of the basketball team had asked Glad (jokingly, of course) to tell him how many nails there were in Alumni roof when it was over." When it was over the reply was "1750". . . Willard Rahn, was also in nearly the same spot as Glad and Patton when Gross had him in the corner and didn't even think anything was wrong. . . When told that the young gentleman from Chattanooga had a near fall on him, the ungainly Rahn seemed surprised. . . 'What to do I do now, Coach." These were J. Poland's queries during his match with Frank Williams. Poland had so much time on top that he was asking Coach Davis and Assistant Coach Palmer what to do." Seems to us he might have taken his knitting out to while away the time. . . .

●WE'VE GOT AND THEY AIN'T. . . . While MC is crying for heavyweights, Chattanooga's crying need is for 123 and 130 pounders. Coach Ken Carpenter ain't got a one out and thus when every match comes up, boom, he loses five or ten points via the forfeit route. MC was almost forced to doing almost that bad until Glad, Patton, Prffitt, Rahn, Cox, and Co. answered the call for heavyweights. Maybe Coaches Davis and Carpenter could work out a lend lease system with Chattanooga sending some of her surplus heavies up here since they've got more than they need(sic.) while MC could send some of her surplus fob-weights down there. Both schools would benefit from the trade in having men to go in those classes and the boys themselves could pick up a lot of experience. . . .

Alpha Sigma Sweetheart Makes Her Debut Tonight

Some lucky Theta gal has won the admiring glances of the Alpha Sig boys and will be presented at 6:30 p.m. tonight as Alpha Sigma's 1951 Sweetheart. Her court, composed of five more Thetas will attend her.

A program of entertainment will accompany the presentation and background music will be provided by a six piece orcehstra.

The results of the Sweetheart election held two weeks ago are being kept secret until the night of the presentation. Jane McMillan was the first Sweetheart of Alpha Sigma in 1948. The last Sweetheart elected by the men's society was Alice Davenport in 1949. Since that time, Miss McMillan has put the pin presented to her in perpetuity aind it will be passed on from year to year.

Job Applications Received By AMSC

Applications are now being accepted by the American Friends Service Committee for college students to participation in summer projects, it was announced in a recent communique to the ECHO. These projects include institutional service units; internships in industry, in labor unions, and in agriculture; work camps and community service units, seminars and in institutes of international relations.

Approximately 70 volunteers will be sent to 15 countries in Europe and to Jamaica and Haiti. The volunteers will work in refugee camps, harvest fields, clear lands, rebuild homes, schools, community centers, and playgrounds.

Young men and women will study problems in the international cooperation and peace in seven-week International Service seminars and in ten-day Institutes of International Relations this summer. In both programs, well-known authorities on international affairs serve as faculty members and staff. The Service Committee will sponsor six seminars abroad, three in Europe and one each in Japan, India, and Pakistan.

Additional information may be had at the ECHO office or by writing to American Friends Service Committee, 20 South 12th Street, Philadelphia 7, Pa.

Mr. Pieper To Address German Club Monday

Mr. A. F. Pieper, Associate Professor of Political Science, will speak on the present day position of Germany at the German Club meeting February 26 in Thaw 206 at 6:45 p.m. Dean Allison's pictures of Germany and France were unable to be shown at the last meeting, and will be shown later.

Dr. Crothers Speaks To IRC On Korean War

The Rev. Dr. W. H. Crothers, will speak to International Relations Club Monday evening at 6:30 in Thaw 214 on recent developments in Korea.

Dr. Crothers, a former missionary to Korea, is retired from the pastorate of New Providence Presbyterian Church.

Fall Semester Fees Up Approximately $40.45

In accordance with the rising cost of living expenses, the Executive Council of Maryville College voted to up the tuition, room, and board fees for the Fall semester which opens September 4, 1951, it was announced this week. Increases in compensation paid under the student-help program are being worked out to offset somewhat the fee increase.

Tuition fees will increase from $100 to $120 per semester; Board from $118 to $133; and Room Rent from $35-45 to $40-50. Other charges will remain unchanged.

"In accord with its historic policy of minimum charges to students, the College did not increase any of its rates last year although prices were at record highs and most colleges were raising their fees. It was hoped that the cost of liing would pass the crest and recede. But the national rearmament program has kept prices rising with promises to raise them still higher," Dr. Lloyd announced in a release to the ECHO.

"The relatively small increases we are making will not be a hardship on some of our students but will make attending college more difficult for a considerable number. We regret this necessity. To help somewhat we are working out some increases in compensation paid in our student-help program," he continued.

NOTICE

Due to circumstances beyond our control, there will be no February 24th edition of the HIGHLAND ECHO. The next edition will be March 3. Club and organization announcements are now being taken for that issue.

Dr. V. M. Queener Authors Article On ET Republicans

Dr. Verton M. Queener, professor of history and chairman of the social science division, is the author of an article entitled "The East Tennessee Republican Party, 1900-1914" in the 1950 publication of the East Tennessee Historical Society.

Dr. Queener, a member of the executive committee of the Historical Society, has written seven articles for publication. Six have appeared in the East Tennessee annual publication and one in the Tennessee Historical Quarterly. Five deal with East Tennessee politics and party situations and two are biographical.

'Heart Of India' Shown At Vols

A ful-color film, "Heart of India," will be shown at Student Volunteers Sund aynight in Bartlett Volunteers Sunday night in Bartlett ices.

The professionally-made film presents an excellent picture of the life of an Indian Christian of the untouchable class. It traces his life from the time of his parents' conversion to his own search for a life-work. The narration is done by a missionary and an Indian Christian.

Taking part in the program will be Sue White, Bruce Miller, and Betty Roach. Wally Schroeder will present special music. Doris Somerville is in charge of the program.

Student Recital Given On Tuesday

A student recital will be held in the music hall of the Fine Arts Center at 4:30 on Tuesday, February 20.

Featured in the recital will be Ann Taylor playing Valse Brillante by Chopin; Jeannette Whitaker, singing Rose Softly Blooming by Spohr and Se Florinde e fedele by A. Scarlatti, accompanied by Barbara Scott; Lesta Carol Merrick, playing Sonata, Allegro, Adagio, Allegretto, and Prestissimo, by Beethoven; Jeanette Whitaker, L'heure exquise by Hahn, and Connais-tu le pays (Mignon), by Thomas; Jodie iRchardson, playing Etude, by Chopin; Jeannette Whitaker, playing Thou Art the Night Wind, by Gaul, Corals, by Treharne, and Extacy, by Shaw; and Lesta Carol Merrick, playing Intermezzo, by Brahms, and Rondo Capriccioso, by Mendelssohn.

Jeannette Whitaker and Lesta Merrick are fulfilling their student recital sophomore requirements.

Dude Ranch Party Featured At Choir

The combined Glee Clubs of Maryville College held an annual Valentine's party with the theme of a "Western Dude Ranch Party" in the Intramural corral at 8 p.m., Tuesday night. The ranch was complete with bench fences, an open campfire and a chuck-wagon, dispensing hamburgers and cokes.

Featured on the program were Lou Masters as ranch foreman, Pat Holstead and Ann Kostenbader as a Talented Horse, Gracie Scruggs and Jody Richardson as cowgirls; Ray Kuhn, Ed Scott, Charlie Flood, Bill Faulkner, and Jim Townsend as cow-hands.

Mrs. W. Curtis Hughes presented senior choir pins to senior members in the absence of Mr. Hughes. Square dancing followed, called by Mr. Ben Russell of Maryville.

The following senior boys and girls received their keys in honor of their being in the choir so long. Boys who got senior keys were Glen Gage, George Barber, Jim Townsend, and Bob Larsen. Girls who got their pins included Irene Mellon, Ruby Arp, Edna Brown, Marlene Mauger, Hazel Holm, and Anne Higdon.

Eaddy To Discuss French Music at French Club

Mrs. Conrad Eaddy will speak briefly on the history of the development of French music at French Club which will meet Thursday, Feb. 22, at 6:45 p.m. in Fine Arts Center 104. Music illustrating the talk will be recordings of pieces by Chopin, Debussy, Ravel, Berlutz, and Loeffler.

Miss Dora Evalyn Smith, senior voice major, will sing two solos in French, "L'hiver" and "Voici Noel." The club meeting is being opened to members of the student body and faculty for this special program.

Debators Attend State Tournament

Maryville's debate squad returned last night from the Tennessee state debate tournament at TPI, Cookeville, too late to include results in this week's Echo.

Attending were Elenor Kramer, Ruth Reeves, Carolyn Miller, Carol Corbett, Bill Caldwell, Tom Kelly, Charles LaRue, Newell Witherspoon, and Coach A. F. Pieper.

This year's question is "Resolved: That all non-Communist nations should form a new international organization." The Maryville team debated both sides.

Lloyd Elected Secretary By Presbyterian Alliance

RALPH WALDO LLOYD
President of Maryville College

President Ralph Waldo Lloyd was elected Acting American Secretary of the World Presbyterian Alliance Wednesday at the annual meeting of the Western Section of the Alliance in Buck Hill Falls, Pennsylvania. He will hold this office until the next meeting of the World Alliance which will probably take place in 1953 or 1954.

The honor came to Dr. Lloyd following his election Tuesday as executive secretary of the Western Section of the World Presbyterian Alliance to succeed the late Dr. William Barrow Pugh of Philadelphia.

Official name of the organization which chose President Lloyd as its executive secretary is the Alliance of Churches throughout the World Holding the Presbyterian System. Churches included in the Alliance are those using the same system of church government, and are United Presbyterian, Reformed Church of America, Presbyterian US, Presbyterian USA, Evangelical and Reformed Church, all of the United States, and United Church of Canada and Presbyterian Church of Canada.

Dr. Marcel Predervand, executive secretary of the World Alliance with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland, attended the meeting in Pennsylvania. He was given the honorary degree Doctor of Divinity by Maryville College in 1949.

A Capella Choir Presents Concert

The A Capella Choir, directed by Harry H. Harter, will present a program at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in Knoxville on Sunday evening, February 18 at 7:30. This presentation will be the second in a series of pre-Easter concerts.

The choir will start out by singing Psalm 150, by Louis Lewandowski. Following will be Salvation is Created, by Paul. Tscheshokoff; Alleluia, by Randall Thompson; God's Son Hath Set Me Free, by Edvard Greig; Beautiful Savior, by F. Melius Christiansen and Fiftieth Psalm, Madstoso con moto, Andante, and Allegro, also by F. Melius Christiansen. After a short intermission the choir will continue with Madame Jeannette, by Alan Murray; Just As the Tide was Flowing, arranged by R. Vaughan Williams; Sleep, Baby, Sleep, by Robert Shaw; Hodie, Hodie Christus Natus Est, by Healey Willan; O Magnum Mysterium, by Tomas Luis de Victoria; Fum! Fum! Fum! arranged by Kurt Schindler, and Lord Hosanna, by Gustav Screck.

Following the concert refreshments will be served in the social hall of the church. Dr. Arthur E. Dallas is pastor.

Y's Host To Mixed Knoxville Chorus

Maryville College YWCA and YMCA will play host to Knoxville College's 16-voice Mixed Chorus Sunday afternoon at 1:30 in Lamar Memorial.

The organizations will join for the semi-annual exchange program. Dr. Newell Fitzpatrick will direct the chorus in selected spirituals and anthems.

The Knoxville College Quartet will also be present for special music.

Barbour To Speak

Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, will be the guest speaker at the YM meeting next week. The time has been moved up to 2 p.m. in Bartlett Hall.

Polish Pianist Will Give Concert

By Sally Brown

Dr. Wiktor Labunski, noted Polish pianist and guest artist for the second number of the 1950-51 Artist Series will arrive on campus Thursday, February 22, for a two-day visit.

On Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center, Dr. Labunski will show a film entitled "The Logic of Motions in Piano Playing." After the film he will conduct an hour's master class in which selected students from senior, junior, sophomore, freshman, and preparatory piano classes will perform. Among the participants are Louise Lloyd, Carolyn Marshall, June Hood, Doris Holt, Joyce Lingenfelter, and Jerry Williams.

All persons interested in this lecture demonstration may attend. Later in the afternoon, Tau Kappa Chi, honorary music sorority, will serve tea for Dr. Labunski, piano majors and their instructors.

On Friday, February 23, at 10:30 a.m., Dr. Labunski will speak informally in the Music Hall. All persons having the period free may attend.

Formal Concert

Dr. Labunski will present a formal concert Friday evening at 8:00 in the Alumni Gymnasium. The first section of the program includes "Chaconne" by Bach-Busoni, "Adagio in B Minor" by Mozart, and "Adagio Sostenuto." "Allegretto," and "Presto Agitato" from Beethoven's "Sonata Quasi un Fantasia, Op. 27, No. 2."

"Romance and Prelude" by Arensky, "Gavotte" by Prokofieff, "Venezia Prelude" by Palmgreen, "Reminiscence" by Labunski, and "Poissons d'or" by Debussy compose the second section of the program.

The concluding section of the program is all Chopin and comprises "Polonaise in B flat Major, Op. 71," "Two Etudes," "Impromptu in F Sharp Major," "Two Mazurkas," "Nocturne in F Sharp Major," and "Scherzo in C Sharp Minor, Op. 39."

Tickets for the concert will go on sale Monday. Prices are $.20 for holders of Student Activities Cards and $1.20 for others. All seats are reserved.

European Study

Dr. Labunski is a graduate of the old Imperial Conservatory in St. Petersburg and consertized widely in Europe before coming to this country in 1928. After his Carnegie Hall debut he became quite popular as a performer and as a teacher. He was the third person to receive an honorary doctorate from Curtis Institute of Music. For several years Dr. Labunski was head of the Nashville Conservatory of Music and he is now director and artist teacher at the Kansas City Conservatory, Kansas City, Mo.

The Psychologist Observes Dining Hall Behavior-Where Are You?

It has been estimated that over 600 Maryvillians trudge, fight, or slide their ways to Pearsons at least twice a day to partake of their daily bread. Some, in search of coffee, make their journey three times.

This conglomeration of humanity has been analyzed for almost every known characteristic, and the data has been tabulated so as to simplify man's understanding of himself. He can tell from the latest charts and opinionaires whether he is conservative or radical, frustrated or properly sublimated, tall or short, happy or depressed.

Realizing our duty, we placed observers throughout the dining hall. We are sorry to say that the Presbyterian method of arrangement could not be used, four being the least number of groups the mass could be divided into.

The first type, which may be personified by Junior Napkinlap, is of the executive calibre, all business. Every meal, every day he arrives promptly, says as many greetings as are necessary, is annoyed by the time lost waiting for grace to be said, and is conserative in any conversation which he is forced to use. Like Annie Rooney's Mrs. Meany, he stares in disgust at anyone who seems to be enjoying himself at the table. He is also possesses definite commanding possibilities: "Pass the sugar, cream, bread, butter, meat, potatoes, peas, bread, butter, peas, potatoes, bread butter. . ." One might sometimes recognize him by the legs on his silverware or the pad by the side of his plate to keep the table from wearing out his elbows.

Across from Junior usually sits a petite young thing, sweet lovable Sally. She sits hemmed in by two big bruisers and very quietly smiles all the time. Coy by nature, and mannerly, she would never suggest by speaking that she might be able to carry on a conversation with anyone other than her roommate. When the waitress asks, "Anyone want seconds?" she gives a quick, imploring look, restrains her hunger pains, and leaves. Junior can sometimes persuade her that she doens't even want her cherry pie and ice cream.

The third group of diners has several divisions. There are Jacks and Jills who always must help

'Blood, Sweat, No Tears' Is Attitude Of US Collegians Concerning Future

The University of North Carolina student body is convinced now that cherished plans for the next few years are gone with the wind of a third world war, and most of them, including a lot of the more mature coeds, expect to be in some kind of a uniform before the next twelve months have ended.

This, says the latest issue of Look magazine, summarizes the attitude toward the draft it found on four representative colleges—California, Northwestern, Princeton, and North Carolina. The vast majority of students, the article reveals would prefer to serve in the Navy or Air Force. The Infantry and Marines are regarded as having "mighty little future."

There is little hoopla on the campuses, and not much flag waving. While students agree Russia is to blame for the current world situation, President Truman has lost their confidence, and dissatisfaction with Washington leadership is general. As one Northwestern campus leader put it: "If the foreign policy were more intelligently handled or at least more clearly and cleanly handled, I'd be more willing to go. I'm not going to volunteer. . I'll go when I'm called but not willingly."

In spite of this, Secretary of State Dean Acheson "is far and away the most popular" figure in the Administration, according to students at the University of North Carolina, and, the article states, ex-President Herbert Hoover's "Operation Gibraltar" stand has been widely rejected.

A general falling off in the quality of class room work is noticeable at Princeton and elsewhere. In fact, at this Ivy League school the standard greeting has become, "Where dya stand?", meaning in the draft.

There is a realistic acceptance of the future by our young men and women, Look concludes. Today's students are ready for "blood, sweat—but no tears."

Seniors Make Application For Graduate Records

Seniors expecting to graduate at the end of the spring semester are in the process of filling out forms for the Committee on Recommendations. These records list all college work taken during the college course, information concerning the prospective graduate, and faculty members from whom the graduate wishes recommendations.

These forms will be returned to the Alumni office, accompanied by six commercial photographs to be placed on file for future needs.

Lehr Confined

Bob Lehr, junior, was operated on this week at Blount Memorial Hospital. He returned to campus Tuesday.

Pathways Presents 'Great Hymns'

Pathways, the Y radio show will present a musical program over WGAP this Monday night.

A narration on "Great Hymns of All Ages" will be given followed by the singing of two of these hymns by a male quartet consisting of Dick Hughes, Jake Peppers, Bill Robinson, and Randel LeQuire.

Solos will be sung by Dora Evalyn Smith and Wally Schroeder. A piano solo will be played by John Sayre.

Barbara Blum, Bill Starr, and Dave Reed are in charge.

On Ethnocentrism

Sociologists define ethnocentrism as involving a distrust of anything which is not one's own; and this distrust carries with it elements of suspicion and ignorance. This kind of feeling exists not only with members of large and distinct culture groups, but, unfortunatley enough, is often found in the everyday situations of everyday people—even on this campus. A knowledge and appreciation of one's own background, political and theological views, and place of birth are doubtless good, but the narrow provincialism they often degenerate to has no real place in the college mind or the college life.

Perhaps the only way to insure keeping ethnocentrism from one's own thought patterns is to make and continue consistant association with larger groups. Maryville College has the distinct advantage of having students and faculty of every political, social, economic, and religious point of view and background from nearly every state in the union. To fail to know them is to fail to understand them, and to fail to understand them is to fail to appreciate them. In retreating into any kind of narrow fraternity, one does himself the injustice of not making the kind of contacts necessary to a true appreciation of all his fellows.

Any kind of small group is just not just sufficient for a complete social life. Of necessity, it makes for exclusion and an antisocial nature. Wendell Wilkie travelled around the world and was shocked to find that it was one. Every current international situation calls us to a new realization of global interdependencies. It is not now the time for narrow horizons, isolationism or gibralterism, or any aspect of ethnocentrism. Eliminating these on our own personal and local level is the beginning of eliminaitng them on the international level—where they do international harm.

Council–

A letter from Dr. Lloyd expressing the appreiation of both he and Mrs. Lloyd to the Student Body was read at the regular meeting of Student Council last Wednesday night at 8:30 p.m. in the Student Center Lounge.

The election procedure which had been revised by the Council last semester and sent to the Student-Faculty was received back from that body with more revisions. These revisions concerned the time limits of publicity for the all-campus elections in the spring.

The idea of a student drive on campus for the chapel fund was presented by President Joe Poland other members of Council presented plans for the carrying out of this fund. Since the plans are merely in the idea stage, there will be continued discussion concerning the possibilities and advisabilities of the drive.

A report of two violations was read and the penalty was imposed.

COLUMBUS SAILED THE OCEAN BLUE . . .

Dr. Case in Sociology 301 a few days ago asked Marilyn Edge when Columbus made his famous voyage.

Marilyn replied innocently, "1620."

Dr. Case struggled with his memory for a moment, scratched his head, then answered, "Well, perhaps, we'd better not go into history."

WHAT'S THAT AGAIN?

Another teacher gave his class something to think about when, after a long lecture he gave them for not doing their homework, he came out with the startling statement, "I'm not really mad; I just act it."

WHA'D SHE SAY?

The sophomores are currently studying something called "Imitations of Immoraltiy," courtesy of Wordsworth via Miss Blair.

FAST WORKER

It is surprising that Margaret Reed is still allowed to attend college here after a Chattanooga cager sat in her lap while the game was being played. What's more shocking—she looked as though she enjoyed the position and the company!

INFORMATION PLEASE

Can't figure out why a fellow doesn't want his girl to talk about her other dates, and yet he'll take her to see "Everyman."

OVERHEARD

Carson Seeley was standing around waiting for the crowd to leave the bookstore so he could see if he had a package. Dr. Griffitts cut him down by remarking, "There's nothing for you. You're no one's Valentine Baby."

CUPID CAPERS

Speaking of Valentines, there are signs that Charley Williams is going to turn into one of those ardent-minded husbands. He was seen buying a Valentine on the very day it was expected. Since it was expected, maybe he should have foxed her!

CLOUDY WEATHER

The meteorolgy class fellows really have their heads in the clouds these days, or should we say clouds in the head, judging from some of the forecasts?

BRIGHT DAYS

Mr. Ainsworth is all set to wow his classes now that his F period class gave him a bright yellow tie to liven up his bachelor days. It's rumored that his B period class is going to compete with a red one.

CUPID CAPERS

Then there's Bill Starr who excells in originality when it comes to Valentine's gifts. SHE really had to work for it! Notes were planted all over the girls' dorm, clueing Nanette as to where she would find the gift and the trail eventually led back to her own lil' bed. WSGA officials in cooperation with the Massey Bureau of Investigation are checking Mr. Starr's whereabouts on the afternoon of the 14th, his chances for planting those notes in person looking too good! !

LONELY HEARTS CORNER

It's better to buy a car than to marry. It's easier to back out of a garage.

Marriage is something like a cafeteria—grab something good-looking and pay for it later.

SPRING FEVER SPRUNG

Ever since the advent of those spring-fever days this week, business on the green benches has picked-up in the after-dinner-sports realm. As soon as this begins to happen, it's invariably time for the campus crew to make the green things disappear under guise of painting them.

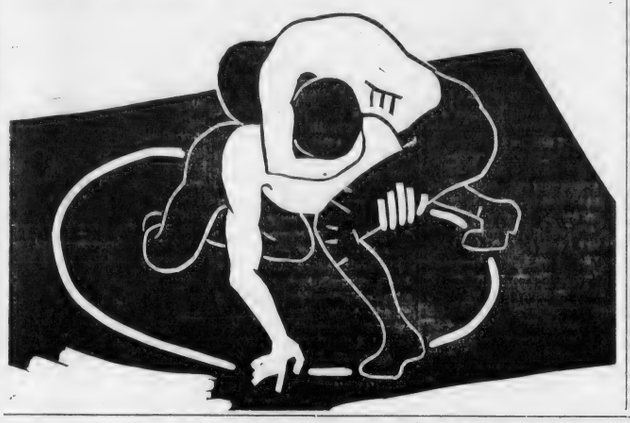
No Ulcers–



We cheer our teams on to victory with a justifiable amount of enthuiasm. We got wild with victory and we like the feel of a good game played fair and square.

And so we are inconsistent when we change our cheers to "boo," "the ref's blind," "whatsa matter; need glasses, ref?" A certain amount of good natured opposition is perfectly natural but where the roars become so obvious as to have faculty and townsfolk comment on them, it's time to calm down (or become ulcerated!)

Granted the referee can't always see everything, being blessed with only 2 legs and 2 eyes, he's being as impartial as he knows how. Let's not be branded as poor sports—we can take defeat too! Haven't we?

TALK OF THE WEEK

PSYCHOLOZIST . . . . .

each other carry the pail of water. (That is, the lovebirds who die each time they come late and can't find two seats together; the assistants who want Jill to come "tumbling after"; and the "gimme sumof what John jusemptied" who make waiting any table an uphill climb.) There are the Little Jack Horners who put in their thumbs and pull out the plums. (That is, the birds who switch desserts, snitch a little from the neighboring plate and get persecution complexes if Sally happens to get a larger portion once.)

The last and, finally, the welcome group is the all-inclusive average man. Some are slightly odd; others more so, but they are all agreeable. Some where in this conglomeration of humans is the prize, a perfect diner. Maybe he sits at your table. Your waitress probably prays for him and six more just like him every semester.

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

CAPITOL CAPERS

Showing at the Capitol Theatre Monday and Tuesday is "The Men," a film about the life and problems of the paraplegic veteran. The story was filmed at an actual hospital in California, the Birmingham Veterans Hospital in Van Nuys. Marlon Brando, the Broadway actor, plays the film's lead. He lived for a month in a 32-bed ward, enacting the paraplegic's strenuous if confined routine.

The script is based in great part on dialogue and situations that the writer picked up from the veterans themselves. While the camera focuses on the distraught relationship between Brando and his fiancee, Teresa Wright, and their subsequent adjustment to marriage, essentially the story concerns some 300 paraplegics who are first conditioned to accept the futility of hoping for a cure and then to fight for the chance to lead useful existences. This picture is one of the finest to come out of Hollywood, and should be worth while to see.

At the Park Theatre.. Monday and Tuesday, "Shakedown," will be shown. "Shakedown" is the story of the rise to fame of a newspaper photographer, Howard Duff, who is always on the scene when a photographic news beat occurs. This is due to the cooperation of a big-shot racketeer (Brian Donlevy) who gets double crossed for his trouble. Duff tries to blackmail the wrong man and goes to his downfall. Peggy Dow, Anne Vernon, and Bruce Bennett make up the supporting cast of this thriller, and Howard Duff is very convincing as an unqualified heel.

ON THE BOOKSHELF

Among the new books on the bookshelf this week is The Future Medicine, prepared by the New York Academy of Medicine. This book consists of six essays, written by prominent men in the field of medicine. These essays offer a spelndid and embracing display of medicine's relationship to the many segments of the contemporary scene.

Myths After Lincoln by Carl Sandburg is also among the new books and should be well worth the time spent in reading it.

Thermodynamics in Physical Metallurgy is a book on metals prepared by the American Society for Metals. It is a seminar on thermodynamics in physical metallury held during the 31st National Metal Congress and Exposition in Cleveland, Ohio, October 15 to 21, 1949.

FOOTLIGHTS

Although the Experimental Theatre production, "Everyman," has been written up several times, let me say again, "hats off" to a splendid cast for such a good production.

Wha'd He Say ?

Daffynitions:

Sweet Adeline: Bottle hymn of the Republic.

Professor: One who talks in other people's sleep.

Oh, No!

Summer visitor: I do hope you keep your cows in the pasture.

Milkman: Yes, madam, of course we keep them in the pasture.

Summer visitor: I'm glad to hear that. I have been told that pasteurized milk was better.

Horton Says 'Go Ahead, Draft Women'; Hershey Says 'No'

Why doesn't somebody do something about drafting women? "The social forces which make women hesitate to volunteer for military duty would vanish if they were drafted," says Mildred McAfee Horton, wartime head of WAVES, in her article, "Why Not Draft Women?", in the February issue of Ladies' Home Journal.

"Selective Service officials are having a hard time finding men," Mrs.. Horton says. "Veterans, fathers, boys in the middle of their educational training are being drafted. How much better for the nation, it would seem, to draw from the 16,000,000 young men and women of draft age, rather than try to fill our military needs from 8,000,000 boys.

"There is a pseudo-gallantry which discourages using women for war duty. They must be saved from the burden of war—though how they are saved by drafting their husbands, leaving them with young children whose fathers have been sent to war, is hard to see. Worst of all, so-called chivalry led too many people to think that girls in uniform were somehow lesser in quality than the nice girls who stayed at home to work in a factory. Rumors about their manners and morals spread like wildfire. Most of the rumors were wild.

"It seems safe to assert that the experience of most service women was a positive, healthy, morally wholesome experience, maturing rather than degrading, enriching rather than cheapening. As a matter of fact, the armed services are probably less dangerous places for young women than are new jobs in war industry where less adequate provision can be made for twenty-four-hour-a-day welfare of personnel.

Just this week following publication of Mrs. Horton's article Draft Director Hershey announced that women would not be drafted. Said he, "There are far too many enlisted women and enlisting women now. The armed services do not have places for them all."

Of Course!

She: Do you know what they're saying about me?

Sports Echoes

By Neal Pearson

●THE GAME'S NOT OVER TILL THE LAST WHISTLE" is an edict we've heard pounded into ours and thousands of other athletes by coaches who say just the above. And the Tech wrestling match just illustrated that point. When MC had gone ahead 14-3 several "loyal" partisans of the Scottie-cause wer seen shambling their way down the bleachers to the nearest exit denoteful perhaps of over-confidence. They forgot to realize that the evening's matches were not yet over. We deplore this kind of an attitude and hope we don't see any more of it this year. There was other fan attitude of the night which we shall comment on later.

Tech's Coach, as is said somewhere else, was mighty glad for a tie and well might he be. With the ailing Fatboy still out because of a re-re-bruised shoulder muscle and J. A. Cameron just on the up-heal, MC might have done better 'gainst Tech. Tech's coach, Jack Griffith, is the son of the mentor out at Oklahoma A&M and the younger generation of the family is trying to build up the sport at Tech. He seems to be doing well especially with football players like Rhodes and Beck around for still another year. Coach John A. Davis who doesn't usually utter forth much in praise of an opposing player was much impressed by Beck's work on the mat—"Wish I had him." Griffith's comment on Beck's first appearance in the Tech-wrestling room, "The moment I laid my eyes on him, I knew I had no heavyweight worries." So, Glad didn't do so bad after all.

Witnessed and spoken to at the match was Tubby Callaway, last year's mat captain. Callaway in talking came up with the suggestion that we plug a high school wrestling tourney in the near-future to both build up interest in the sport—both fan-wise, and kid-wise which will in turn help financially-wise. We herewith hope to do something along that line.

●SOMETHING ELSE WHICH NEEDS A PLUG . . . some weeks ago we mentioned the dire nothingness of the MC quarter-mile cinder track. So far, nothing's been done and though Ches Anderson's Men's M Club has volunteered to start work on the oval, no much has been done so far. Let's not forget about it fellas, remember the season's just around the corner. . . .

● WE'RE ALL FOR IT—SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION that is . . . during halftime and afterwards there was witnessed by this humble corner a demonstration of fan support never before equalled in this school year save by that honored group which made the ETS pigskin trek. When the strains of the Almy Mammy came drifting into the Drama Dept. dressing room (where Coach Honaker's boys were resting at halftime) our spineless heart took a quick little happy jump upwards. What with the cheers which multiplied upon it afterwards, we certainly feel that the cheerleaders and all those others who helped put some zip into things deserve a fine hand. The same thing also goes to that sparse crowd of some two hundred who whooped things up for the frosh against UT's freshmen, Monday night, 'twas also welcome. Commenting on the game, all we can say is that if MC might have made a few more free throws the count might have been in different hands. Coach Carleton Crowell's hard-riders made 16 out of 21 while MC made only 4 for 13—take your choice. Playing inspired ball, the Flashes might have won had they had same will and aim at the free-throw line. Against a ball team like the UT frosh—one has to play a nigh-on perfect game to win—we almost did but not in all departments.

●SCOT SHOTS. While mentioning of the affable Crowley, we discussed a bit about an ex-alumni of his and ours—Earl Downey who was Captain of the Columbia Seminary squad which took to the courts following Crowell's game-ending Whoopee. Downey has gotten the unfortunate stigma attached to him a la 1946 and a transfer to UT from MC for running ability. Downey was all praises for Crowell and was still somewhat chagrined at MC attitude—one James Thurston was particularly vociferous in his remarks—at mid-court, too—"Don't let him score." They were ex-friends needless to say. And on the Downey-chagrin part, Downey had to say "It never gets away from me. . . just tonight, some

MC Tied By Tech With Final Pin

Beck's Pin Makes It 14-14

Strength in the upper weight classes again showed to advantage—but for another team as the Engineers of Georgia Tech squeezed into a 14-14 tie with MC on the wrestling mat last Saturday. Ray Beck came through with his team five points behind to pin Harold Glad, going for the first time in the heavyweight class, in two minutes and 50 seconds of the first period. Glad had gone through the period almost unscathed by UT the promising Beck applied a chicken wing and an arm nelson to tie the wrestling match up.

More, Morse, More

MC had started the evening's matches knowing full-well that she would have to build up a substantial lead in the lower weights to match Tech's power in the heavies. Bill Morse led things off to a good launching wrapping up his opponent Ed Ward, with a double armlock in one minute and 35 seconds of the first period.

J. A. Cameron back after a recovery from a severe cold then when against an old foe in Garner Ivey in the 130 pound class. Most of the people in Alumni Gym scarcely figured Ivey could tie up Cameron as he did but he got a good arm around the waist lock and Cameron could neither "switch" or escape with the result that Ivey took the match with a reverse and two minutes for riding time. Cameron countered once on an escape but could not muster the drive necessary to get a reverse or another 'scape.

Come Back Here

Tech's Bill Davis and Chesley Anderson then countered against each other in a 138 bout with the sophomorian Davis seemingly having taken an inkling toward the area close by the edge of the mat. Each man had an escape while Anderson had a takedown early in the first period. Davis must have realized that if he were taken down, it would hurt his team's chances badly.

Maybe We'll Squeak Through

As it was, Jimmy Callaway and Joe Poland took their matches by respectable margins but only on decision. Both had lots of riding time. Callaway had the advantage on Guy Lookabaugh for one second less than five full minutes and a take down and an escape to win handily, 5-0. Poland had it somewhat tougher as he was penalized two points for using an illegal toe hold on George King, his Georgia foe. Poland reversed his man once and had an escape to finish his night's scoring.

It's Not Over Yet!

The score now stood 14-3 (with some Orange and Garnet fans leaving in sheer over-confidence—sports editor's note) but Tech had a few big tricks up her figurative sleeves. Tech was figured to take the next three matches in the upper brackets and was even thinking (aloud) of taking two by pins. The first one of these was in the next weight class—167. Jerry King went for the first time this season for the Highlanders in that weight and showed up very well against Junior Bob Ingalls of Jack Griffith's team. Ingalls had 5 minutes and 54 seconds of riding time and a reverse but could not turn King over. The court was now 14-6.

Bob Proffitt again subbed for the ailing Herb Palmer in the 177 class and played it smart, much to his opponent. Rhally Rhode's chagrin. Rhodes had a takedown and two points for riding time plus a reverse to an escape for Proffitt. Rhodes had Proffitt nearly in a pin hold several times but could not get it and when the match was over, MC was assurred of at least a tie for the night's competition with Tech lacking six points to win and having the possibility of only getting an utmost of five. Glad then went out in his first heavy bout of the season and showed up remarkably well—going the route longer than any man in that class this season save for Palmer against Drake at Chattanooga. It was with about 20 seconds to go in the match when Beck got his fall and had Glad finished out the period unscathed, who knows, he might have gone all the way.

123—Morse (M) pinned Ward (Y), 1:35 of the first period
130—Ivey (T) decisioned Cameron (M), 4-1
138—Anderson (M) decisioned Davis (T), 3-1
147—Callaway (M) decisioned Lookabaugh (T), 5-0
157—Poland (M) decisioned King (T), 5-2
167—Ingalls (Y) decisioned King (M), 4-0
Rhodes (T) decisioned Proffitt (M), 6-1
Hwt.—Beck (T) pinned Glad (M), 2:50 of the first period.

After the playoff games Monday which saw the Scrubbs dominate play over the Hig Nips and Horace Beckwith's free throw with twenty seconds to go winning for the Woodmen, the tourney got under way. In the first game Tuesday, the Scrubs took another win, this time over the Crumbs. The Athenian Rebels played the Hig Nips in a number two team game and the Rebels aagin lost the game with about a minute to go. The damaging basket was one by Sonny Short. Charley Williams' Shudas then took a battle from the Nighthawks after encountering some stiff opposition from Bill Van Benthysen's slants. Earl Valentine's Whizzers whizzed up for bigger games to come against the Pre-Min B while Alpha Sigma's Scotties got a forfeit win from the Redmen who did not bother to show up for their Wednesday game.

CN Eagles, Emory Mat-Cage-Men Here Tonight

CAGERS, MATMEN WANT WINS

Maryville athletes will go after their second winning double-header sweep of the winter season as the cagers and mat men go into action on Alumni court. The basketball team will go against Carson-Newman's rampant Eagles at 7:30 and the wrestlers will aim for an 8:45 starting time.

Maryville's Scotties will try to start a new once again a win streak tonight at the expense of Carson-Newman's Eagles when they clash head on to continue an old rivalry. The Scotties have enjoyed a slight advantage, winning twenty-four games while dropping twenty since the two schools have started matching baskets. Seeming to have regained their early season spark, the Scotties will be gunning for win number eight.

The Eagles will bring a well seasoned quintet with them. Their starting five includes three seniors, a sophomore and a freshman. Center Joe Shipley, a six foot three rebound artist, and freshman Gordon Gilbert, at a forward slot, carry the brunt of the attack. They have both averaged better than twelve points a game for the Orange and Black. The other operator up front is six foot Jimmie Dew while Alvah Crawford and Bill Gregory capably handle the guard spots.

This game will probably be the turning point of the season for the Highlanders. If they can come up with this one it's pretty safe to say that they will pick up more than a couple of wins in their remaining games and they may crawl over the five hundred mark for the season. No matter how you look at it, this sure would be a good one to win.

Emory University will bring a fairly new squad to Maryville for their sixth match of the season. Last weekend, the Bears won one from Western Carolina while previously they dropped four to some tough teams from Appalachian State and Auburn and one to Georgia Tech—tiers of the Scots last week-end.

"Two Very Good"

Emory's best men will be in the 123 and 136 classes according to reports received from Chuck Mabry, student from MC studying at Emory. MC's reports that Leon McGhee in the 123 class and Jeff Smith in the 137 division "are very good." They will face two good men for MC in those classes though, Bill Morse and Chesley Anderson. Elsewhere fro MC J. A. Cameron and Herb Palmer are about their old selves and should finally give MC rooters a real inclination as to their potentialities for the season. Jimmy Callaway and Joe Poland or Don MacDonald, may go for the ailing Callaway who may be out with a cauliflowered ear because of a bruise; while Bob Proffitt will go in the heavyweight in an attempt to stave off the returning pins that have been besetting MC and the five points which MC loses.

As for Emory's potentialities, they have been having the same trouble in the upper classes as has MC save for Kairk who pinned his Carolina opponent. Both 177-er Watson and heavyweight Sotus were pinned themselves. Clyde Traylor pinned his last opponent when going in the 157 class while Matt Stewart, a 157 was decisioned in his last outing. Matt Duggan is Emory's 130 pounder and little is known of him.

Monday night, Coach Davis will take fifteen men to Knoxville for a return match with the Y. There will be two rounds of wrestling, one official and the other unofficial. Previously, MC defeated the Y squad by a 19-11 count here.

In the last Y match, Bill Clarke, Bob Kees, Bill Morse, Don MacDonaid, Callaway and Poland took triumphs while Cox, Squires, and Proffitt, lost matches via decision and cut-eye routes. Line-up's for tonight's and Monday's matches. Second man will probably go against the Y in the exhibition matches.

123—Morse and Kees (MC); McGahee (E); Arnold (Knox Y)
130—Cameron (MC; Duggan (E); Crittenden (Knox Y)
137—Anderson (M); Smith (E); Jones (Knox Y)
147—MacDonald (M); Stewart (E); Fine (Knox Y)
157—Poland and Benton Traylor; McConnell (Knox Y)
167—Rahn or King (M); Kairk (E); Fox (Knox Y)

TWJC Stops Win Streak

Tennessee Wesleyan's Bulldogs put a temporary halt to MC cagers' comeback a sthey eked out a one point victory Thursday on the Athens, Tenn. court.

Playing an inspired game in all departments of play, the Bulldogs basked into victory as MC outfield-goaling them, 23 fg's to 19, hit only eight of 19 free throws while they hit 15 out of 26.

Scots Win Again; Beating Tusculum

MC Wins Fourth In Row

Somehow the Scots seem to have found the key to success as they travelled to Greeneville, Tuesday night and returned after defeating Tusculum's Pioneers, 70-65. The bashing in of the Pioqneers was MC's fourth win in a row in a late season comeback and sixth of the season against eleven losses. Previously, Tusculum had taken a 63-57 win over MC on Alumni's boards.

Let's Win This'un

MC's shotting was again reminiscent of the TWJC game as the Scots pounded out to a quick opening lead on the strength of Stan Downs and Meano Shield's shooting and rebounding by Ray Keny. By halftime, the Orange and Garnet were ahead of Tom Armstrong's quintet 40-31.

Watch Out

Tusculum turned on the heat in the second half as the officials almost let the game get out of hand for both teams and narrowed the gap down. It was back to a see-saw battle with neither team picking up anything of a lead until with about five minutes to go. Charlie Allen then started hitting with sets and one-handers to push the Highlanders out front an dMC took home a 70-65 win. Tusculum's big man was Mike Langol who scored on short, drive-in shots, 22 points. However, Ernie Carlomagno who had done such damage to MC in the first outing was held to two points by a close MC zone or man to-man offense which Coach L. S. Honaker used varyingly.

Tigers Taken, 63-43

Maryville's Scotties piled up the same margin of points as in the two teams' first contest, but Hiwassee Tigers were limited to 43, and so won victory number four of the season.

Showing signs of snapping out of a prolonged slump in winning number two in a row, Coach L. S. Honaker's Highlanders trailed only momentarily in the first half's wakening moments, but then edged into the lead and held it for the remainder of the game through the Tigers edged up briefly at the beginning of the second half.

Team Work

Maryville's shooting per cen was down a little but the scoring was spread all around through Downs, Keny, Abbott, and Allen. Hiwassee's tallying was limited to Don Williams who scored mainly on hooks under the bucket and Bill Shelton, center, likewise against an MC zone defense which was very effective in stopping Hiwassee's fast break. Particularly effective was Dick Abbott, frosh guard who broke up many Tiger passes.

ON OTHER CAMPUSES

Carroll College's "Carroll Echo" reported a Human Relations Conference held for student leaders or representatives of campus organizations to discuss leadership. The conference was in the form of a retreat, a week-end affair. Forums were held in which various phases of campus life were critically analyzed and practical suggestions were made for the improvement of the college life.

Eastern Kentucky State's "Eastern Progress" tells of a Male Panel Group which was organized to give their views on the female way of life. The group decided that they liked a girl to dress for a date, to concentrate on her date for the evening and not talk about the "other guy"; they wanted to look 'em all over before going steady, to put the jinx on public smoking and drinking for the fairer sex, and to go ahead and get married while in school if the couple can work it out okay.

Scots Drop Preachers

The winning streak of MC was lengthened to three games in a row with a big 82-45 win over Columbia Seminary's "Traveling Preachers". MC was up again on her shooting, hitting 35% of all field goal attempts taken, and the defense was humming true also especially in the last half.

Wish We Had More

Ed Hopper and Bill Iverson, a couple of impertee's from Davidson, led the Decatur, Georgia team in a fight to stay in the game during the first half. The blond Hopper was rebounding also to the dislike of MC's centers and guards. During the second half, MC's defense tightened up though and limited Coach Dick Sauerbrun's team to eight field goals—the "Pulpiteers" though were definitely off their eye since in that 20-minute period they flung 47 shots at the hoop.

Not Short Lived

MC pulled out to a quick 4-0 lead and increased the margin somewhat during the first half. The second half of the ball game was altogether different, though, and the Highlanders ran up their scores almost at will.

Babe Keny began pivoting them in while Stan Downs used a push shot very well. Meano Shields finally got the range also and pumped through nine.

The last quarter-portion of the game saw the reserves in, picking up experience.

UT Frosh Whizzers Win Triumphs Over MC Frosh

The Frosh basketball team saw their record go down somewhat in percentages during the week as they dropped two ball games by close scores to the UT Frosh on Monday and to the Whizzers, Intramural League champs last Saturday. Coach Ken Johnson's already badly-decimiated-in-the-ranks-quintet now has a 7-5 record with three games to go.

In the affair with the Whizzers, the Intramural team jumped out to a 9-7 lead and held it only till shortly before halftime when the Frosh tied up the game again. The Flashes jumped out ahead following the intermission on the strength of buckets by Young and Kinser. However, Earl Valentine's teams used Galen Johnson's seven points plus his six to well advantage to overcome a small Whizzer lead and win. High man for the game was Donnie Young of the Freshman team with 13 while Leaky Campbell and Johnson each had eleven for the winners.

So Close And Yet . . .

The frosh then took to the court in a prelim game Monday against the UT frosh of Carleton Crowell who had previously walloped them 81-40. MC outhit the Orange and White-stars from Knoxville in the matter of field goals—25-21—but a scoreless session at the foul line made the difference. The UT frosh made 16 for 21 free throws while the young Highladdies made only four out of 13—not making one in the last half and missing three in the latter part of the first half for 8 misses in a row.

The UT frosh led by Bob Parmenter's long sets had an 18-9 lead with some eight minutes gone but Dick Gardner got hot for the frosh and led the Johnson-team to within one point at halftime— 26-27. The Crowell-coached team pulled away with points to spare in the third quarter but saw their lead cut down again by the whole frosh team which scored four points apiece in the final quarter with Dick Abbott another. The UT defenses held, though, and the MC team lost a toughies, 58-54.

Varsity Debaters Attend So. Atlantic Tournament In NC

Maryville Debate Team is taking part in the South Atlantic Tournament being held at Hickory, North Carolina from Thursday until noon today. Debating the question, Resolved: That the Non-Communist Nations Should Form a New International Organization, are Carol Corbett, Carolyn Miller, Ruth Reeves, Elenor Kramer, Lorraine Petersen, Newell Witherspoon, Lewis Evans, Bill Caldwell, and Bob Cuthill. Accompanying them on the trip are Mrs. A. S. Pieper and Miss Arda Walker.

Maryville took second place at the tournament held two weeks ago at T.P.I. Carolyn Miller and Carol Corbett won second place in Women's Debate. Carol Corbett was judged the best women's debater and took first place in the After-Dinner Speaking and third place in the Peace Oratory. Carolyn Miller won first place in Women's Oratory.

Sigs Meet In Y Rooms

Alpha Sigma will meet in the Y rooms at 6 p.m. tonight for short business and social program.

The Lloyds Move To Morningside

Willard Memorial To Be Women's Dorm Facilities

President and Mrs. Lloyd moved to Morningside, formerly the residence of Mrs. John Walker. Mrs. Walker died on December 14, 1950 and left the 22-room house to the College.

The buildings also include a garage with a four-room apartment over it and a five-room brick guest house. The entire layout became college property under a life-tenure agreement. Mrs. Walker left all the furnishings for use in the two houses.

It was Mrs. Walker's wish that Morningside become the presidential residence. Because it is so far removed from the central campus, it would be impractical to use it in any other capacity.

The house in which the Lloyds have lived for twenty years was also the home of two former presidents: Dr. Boardman for ten years and Dr. Wilson for 29 years. It was built in 1890 by Mrs. Sylvester Willard of Auburn, N.Y., as a memorial to her husband.

The present plans are to use the house for additional women's residence facilities.

McMillan Named Sigma Sweetheart

Miss Mary Edith McMillan, sophomore sociology major from Marietta, Ga., was presented as the 1951 Sweetheart of Alpha Sigma at the annual Sweetheart Show on February 17. Miss McMillan was escorted by Alpha Sigma President Charlie Flood who presented her with that society's pin. Four Theta "Cupids" escorted by Alhpa Sig officers were the attendants. They were Miss Peggy Kettles, escorted by Bill Menges; Miss Pat Love, escorted by Neale Pearson; Miss Betty Lester, escorted by Ted Beasley; and Miss Gerry Hopkins, escorted by Curt Wilbanks.

In keeping with the show's Valentine theme, the four "Cupids" wore pink gowns and carried heart-shaped bouquets of pink and white carnations. The Sweetheart was gowned in white and carried a similar bouquet of red and white carnations.

Preceding the presentation which climaxed the show were a chorus of Thetas and Alpha Sigs singing "Pretty Baby," a novelty song by Jody Richardson and Gracie Scruggs, a dance routine by Ruth McSween and Bill Stein, and a duet, "Sweethearts," by Jeanette Whitaker and Arnold Munn. Background music was provided by a four piece orchestra composed of Joe Bender, Charlie Flood, Bob Moser, and Johnny Sayre.

A quartet including Arnold Munn, Jim Kren, Ray Kuhn, and Ed Scott sang "Sweetheart of Alpha Sig" as the presentation ceremonies began.

Producer Joe Stater was master of ceremonies for the entire event.

Pearson, Kren Read

Writer's Workshop will meet Wednesday, March 7, in Dr. Hunter's classroom in Anderson Hall. Neale Pearson and Jim Kren will read, and will be criticized by Lynn Miller and Jim Dance.

At the last meeting, Sue Watson and Betty Roach read and were criticized by Phyllis Jackson and Jessie Johnson.

Open House Held Today, Tomorrow

Fourth annual open house, sponsored by MSO and WSGA, will be held tonight and tomorrow afternoon. The women's dormitories will be open from 7 to 10 p.m. tonight and the men's residences open from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Dormitory visiting hours are as follows: Memorial—7 to 8 p.m.; Baldwin—8 to 9 p.m.; and Pearsons—9 to 10 p.m.; Saturday. Carnegie and Bartlett—2:30 to 4:30, Sunday.

Joan Platt is in charge of refreshments at Pearsons and Ralph Thiesse is refreshment chairman for Carnegie.

Largest MC Group Takes 12 Day Trip

By Walt Elwood

In a release to the ECHO Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd has announced that the Maryville College A Capella Choir will make a 1500 mile tour to the East and Middle West, leaving Maryville campus on April 13. The tour is expected to last until April 25.

This will be the most extensive tour ever made by a choir or any other large group representing Maryville College. Choir director Harry H. Harter is in charge of the trip.

Itinerary

Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, Baltimore, Aberdeen, Md., Wilmington, Del., Darby, Pa., New Brighton, Pa., Columbus, O., and Cincinnati are the cities in which concerts will be given.

The opening engagement will be in the National Presbyterian Church in Washington, D. C. President Lloyd will speak at the morning service. The pastor of National Presbyterian is Rev. Dr. Edward R. Elson. The final service will be held in Covenant First Presbyterian Church, Cincinnati, where Rev. I. S. Yeaworth is pastor. Dr. Yeaworth has had two sons and a daughter attend Maryville.

Transportation

Transportation will be by bus and the private car of Mr. Harter. Because the cost of more than one bus would be prohibitive, it will be necessary to limit to forty the number of choir members making the tour. Selection will be made systematically on the basis of various factors.

Francis Willard's Life Broadcast

The Life of Francis Willard, the second president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and the founder for the World organization of the WCTU, will be dramatized on "Pathways," the Y Radio Show Monday night at 9:30 on Station WGAP.

Francis Willard devoted her life to the cause of temperance i nthe world. Y Radio Show directors are Bill Starr and Dave Reed.

Members of the cast are Lucy Carrick, Jody Richardson, Sara Jo Emert, Peggy Kettles, George Caldwell, Carl Dressler, Jim Hunt, Norma Lou Loetz, Jo Ann Edwards and Nina Ruth Gillette.

Milne's 'Mr. Pim' Opens Friday Night; Myers, Van Pelt, Stein Seen In Leads

By Claire Hoffman

Grace Myers, sophomore Religious Education major from E. Springfield, Pa., and Austin Van Pelt, junior sociology major from Denver, Colo., will appear beneath the footlights this Friday and Saturady night, March 9, 10, as the leading roles in "Mr. Pim Passes By," a comedy by A. A. Milnes. Bill Stein, freshman philosophy major from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., will be seen in the title role.

The curtain will rise at 8 p.m. both nights on the play which is sponsored by Maryville College Playhouse. All seats are reserved; admission cost is 60 cents.

The part of Dinah will be taken by Lou Masters, senior English major from Roseville, Mich., and that of Brian, her romantic interest, by Joe Stater, freshman from Trenton, Mich.

Louise Packard, junior French major from Hammonton, N. J., will take the part of Lady Marden, and Joan Titley, sophomore English major from Corinth, Miss., that of Anne.

Crews

John Schaumberg, George Barber, Jim Townsend, and Joanne Edwards are the stage committee; Jane Hassinger is properties chairman; Dan Dunbar, lighting chairman; Phyll Jackson, publicity chairman; and Walter Elwood, ticket chairman.

House Managers are Allan Caldwell and Phyll Jackson; Ray Kuhn is Stage Manager. Head ushers for the two performances will be Allan Caldwell and Phyll Jackson. Assisting on Friday evening will be Bill Starr and Nannette Enloe, John Shew and Susie Martin, and Charles Williams and Ann Robinson. Ushering on Saturday night will be Joe Poland and Beryl Stewart, George Ogle and Margaret Ann Brown, and Jim Kren and Pat Love.

Popular Comedy

"Mr. Pim" has been ranked as one of the most popular comedies of the English stage, and has been successfully produced in England, America, and Australia. It has become an especial favorite with amateurs. Mr. Pim, the hero, is a gentle, meek, little man, but he proves to be an upsetting factor in the lives of George and Olivia, when he drops in on them.

Miss Kathleen Craven, Playhouse director, is in charge of the production.

Life-Saving Course Opens March 5-16

The senior life-saving course will open on March 5 and continue through March 16, a period of two weeks, it was announced this week. Sessions will be held at the college pool on Mondays through Fridays from 7-9 p.m.

Instructors will be Ric Rogers, Barbara Rogers, and Harold Naron.

French Club Meets

French club will hold an important business meeting Thursday, March 8 at 6:45 in Miss Wilkinson's classroom in Anderson. The meeting, at which an amendment to the constittuion is to be discussed, will also feature "Pierre la Pim", an illustrated dramatic reading given by John Harris.

Brown, Rorex To Head 1952 Chilhowean Staff

Sally Brown, sophomore history major from Laurel, Md., was elected editor of the 1952 Chilhowean in a sophomore class election held last Thursday. Jack Rorex, sophomore business administration major from Kingsport, was elected business manager. Running against Miss Brown and Rorex were Claire Hoffman and Marie Richards.

Miss Brown has been a member of the ECHO editorial staff for two years. She is a member of the Artist Series committee, a Nu Gamma leader, and Bainonian. Miss Brown was editor of her high school annual.

Rorex is a business assistant on the ECHO, a member of the varsity football squad and treasurer of Athenian.

Civil Service Commission Announces Examinations

United States Civil Service Commission announces examinations to be held for a $1470 a year Dietetic Internship and an Elementary Teacher position at $31000 a year.

The internship is for duty in Veteran's hospitals in either Los Angeles, Bronx, N.Y., Hines, Ill., or Memphis. The teaching positions are open in middle western and southern states. Application blanks may be had upon inquiry to the Knoxville Post Office.

Further information may be obtained in the ECHO office.

Smith Speaks At Vespers

The Rev. James R. Smith, pastor of Graystone Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, will speak at the vesper service tomorrow night in the Library at seven.

Rev. Smith graduated from Maryille Colege in 1935 and is a former executive secretary of the Alumni Association.

Dr. Hunter Speaks To Philologists

The forty-fifth annual meeting of the Tennessee Philological Association opened yesterday in Lebanon at Cumberland University for a two-day conference.

Taking an active part in the opening sessions of the meeting was Dean E. R. Hunter who presided at a subscription dinner held last night. Dr. Hunter also will read a paper, "Poetry in the Plays of Christopher Fry," at the afternoon session today.

Attending from Maryville College were Dean Hunter, Associate Professor A. S. Bushing, Assistant Prof. Carolyn Blair, Assoc. Prof. Jesie Heron, Instructor E. C. Kennedy, Asst. Prof. J. H. Schwam, Assoc. Prof. Catherine Wilkinson, Assist. Prof. Martin, Instructor Guss, and Instructor Ingebord Rodeman. Mrs. A. S. Bushing and Mrs. J. H. Schwam accompanied the group.

Professor E. R. Walker— 'A Veritable Storehouse Of Interest'

By Carson Seeley

If a selection was ever to be made for the title of Grand Old Man of Maryville College, there would undoubtedly be several aspirants. With many of the science students, however, there is little doubt as to who it should be—Professor E. R. Walker of the physics department.

He fulfills all the usual requirements for such a title—loyalty and length of service—yet he has many more attributes that rank him above the average "long service" professors. There are probably few students on campus who know him well, and fewer still who realize the extent of his service to the college.

Before telling you about "Prof," as he is known by his students, I should like to present some background material relevant to the early phases of his life on the campus. The MC campus after a heavy rain is a mild illustration of what the whole of Maryville was during the "unpaved" days. Court and College Streets followed the land contours resolutely, and did not have nearly the gentle slopes which they have now.

As scenic as the surroundings are now, they can compare to nothing which has been. One just has to listen to "Prof" talk about a hollow, or a grove of trees, and have him point to a cluster of houses or a large store.

The campus, itself, would have been considered quite barren if a present day student were to travel back in time. Anderson, Baldwin, McLain Memorial and Lamar Memorial (bookstore) were the only buildings here when Prof. first appeared on campus. Very soon after Willard Memorial (president's residence), Bartlett and the first two stories of Fayerweather appeared. By the time he had started teaching, Voorhees Chapel, the Lamar Memorial Hospital, Carnegie and Pearsons were completed.

Yes, the campus grew as Prof did, but in some ways we have yet to equal some of the records during his early years. In 1909 we beat UT in football 14-0, and in 1919, we had the largest student body so far. In numbered 1100 students (and the dining hall was designed to handle only 700 students).

By looking over the building construction dates, you have probably wondered whethr the catalog date for Professor Walker is right or not. It is if you consider when he started teaching here. But it was back in 1889, eleven years before the turn of the century, that he first became affiliated with the school. He was a student in the fourth grade.

From that humbie beginning he progressed until he received his B.A. degree from the college. Then he continued studying at the University of Chicago and U-T, receiving his M.A. from U-T. After graduating from MC, he taught such subjects as mathematics, physics, geology and Eng-

Y Representatives Go To Atlanta

YMCA representatives attended the Southern Area Student Council meeting held in Atlanta last week-end. At the meeting, which lasted from Friday to Sunday, various topics including the student's relationship to the YM in the college, and the present world situation were discussed, Dr. Lloyd taking a part in the program.

Maryville representatives which attended were Assistant Professor Arthur Bushing, Howard Lawson, George Ogle, and Ralph Thiesse.

YM Sees Sports Film Sunday P.M.

The film, "Sports Highlights of 1950," which features the Alabama-Tennessee football game will be shown at the YMCA meeting at 1:30 Sunday afternoon in Bartlett Hall.

"Men, come out and support your Y; for only through your support can the YMCA become a strong organization to serve you," says George Barber, program chairman.

Man . . . His Own Star

"Man is his own star; and that soul that can Be honest is the only perfect man."

The temptation to get an education the easy way has become far too prevalent on the American college campus—in short, the temptation to be dishonest seems to be so strong among collegians that the very idea merits publicity in two or three of our widely circulated magazines and becomes a topic of wide-spread discussion among prominent educators of today.

It would be wrong to make a blanket statement that college youth are not interested enough in having "what it takes" to put forth honest effort for individual attainment, for we would be offending a great many students whose honest zeal is worthy of note.

And yet it becomes equally criminal to say that today's students are all of the highest calibre and typify the ideal, the ultimate in educational achievement.

Maryvillians are in the midst of mid-term, or commonly called "six-week tests." The majority have burned the midnight oil in an effort to cram into the cranial cavity all the essentials necessary for passing Professor Hardnose's course. Then there are those who have also burned the midnight oil, diligently making out card after card containing all the information the old prof could ever ask. Obviously the difference between the two is that the former can trust himself to take the test unassisted while the latter would not dare leave the sanctity of his room without his crip sheets.

And the cold truth is that both these types have the opportunity to make a high grade, the latter often ironically bettering the former's grade. It does a little more than make the honest student "see red." The fraud himself thinks the whole thing is rather amusing, the fact that he could outsmart that dumb old phogy with the baggy trousers and partial hearing.

It's nothing new here at Maryville—the problem has baffled interested educators and Student Councils for decades and no one has come upon a solution. There are many answers to the question as to what makes an honest man and what causes the other kind.

We do not suggest any definite plan either. Rather we should like to propose the advent of some sort of Honor System among students when it comes to the classroom. Some colleges have elaborate systems of courts and judges, handled by students entirely. Others have systems whereby each student is his own individual judge and also his "brother's keeper." Within these walls of learning a student is caught once and deported to the outer world immediately, dishonesty being a capitol crime guilty of maximum sentence.

Maybe a sys tem like that here would be a total failure—maybe the best way after all is that "man is his own star." Certainly individual responsibility could go a long way in killing these test-paper-gangsters and making the classroom a rather decent place to live in after all.

Scots & Soda

THIS WEEK SAW THE END of lots of things: basketball games which sometimes rivalled the gridiron sport; those comfortable easy chairs the senior chapel section has been enjoying; days of wondering which prof would win in his effort to kill off the student population via six-week tests; vacation days for YE ECHO staffers!

RALPH HAS USED MORE BATTERIES in his trustly old flashlight this week trying to catch "Mr. Pim" as he passd by all over the campus. We've got to admit that good old Pim gets into the most amazing places and he left more foot-prints behind him!

FORM WAY UNDER THE BLEACHERS came the bark of one of the campus canines in answer to Dr. McClelland's query about the draft in chapel Tuesday morning. And he had a right to his two-cents'-worth too! Ever heard of the K-9 corps?

CONGRATULATIONS ARE IN ORDER to such lucky people as Sally Brown (our own ECHO gal), Jack Rorex, the choir members, and that whole cast of "Much Ado."

WITH OPEN HOUSE COMING UP TONIGHT we are reminded of those ghastly embarrassing times last year when that tall boy walked into our room and slid his fingers along the ledges above the doors; that freshman imp (who now being a sophomore might be wiser) ducked his head under the bed for dirt woolies; that favorite professor sat hard in that hair with the wobbly leg and re-enacted the fall of man; and that favorite boyfriend found dust on his picture frame. It could have been worse! We decided last year that never again would we be so energetic in cleaning our rooms for those boys but here we are again with aching backs and broken fingernails. See ya tonight?

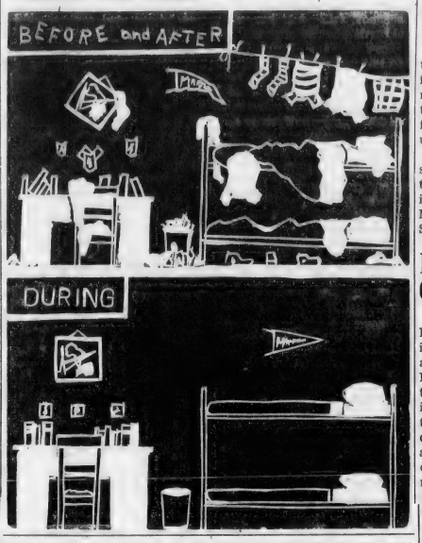
THEN THERE ARE THE ENTERPRISING CHAPELGOERS who passed the word around the morning before their chapel monitor lead devotions and oddly enough the next morning there were two gaping empty rows in the sophomore section. Profs with good long-range vision might still take attendance, kids!

MORNINGSIDE SEEMS AWFULLY BIG with its 22 rooms and just the good Doctor and his wife. Besides, we're wondering (just off the record) how much bigger it will seem to Mrs. Lloyd when "Doc" is "on his way!"

Brotherhood—

The month of February was designated by the National Conference of Christians and Jews as national Brotherhood Month. As good as this particular emphasis is, we trust that we are beyond the stage of needing these words; with their foundation in our Christianity and our democracy, there can no longer be any question in our minds about which concepts are highest and best. We trust we no longer need to convince each other that brotherhood in every sense is right and just and a basic structural foundation of our way of life. We are past the need for words.

The time has come, long overdue though it is, for the actual crystalization of ideals and promises into everyday, practicable situations. For a long time men have been sitting around saying how good brotherhood is. Those who believe that is true have the responsibility of putting that belief into practice in society. Those few who are still not yet convinced had best re-examine their point of view in the light of their religion and their political system or prepare for some shocks.



We believe it is only a question of time before Negroes are admitted to the University of Tennessee on the graduate level. And UT is only 15 miles from Maryville College. It is only a question of more time before they are admitted to the University's undergraduate division—and then here at Maryville.

If we continue to hold any kind of democratic ideas, it is inevitable. It is inevitable because it is basically good and will always find individuals and groups who are willing to fight and sacrifice that it might come about. That is the way social progress works.

We have faith in the democratic system and in democratic peoples. If we believe in that system and count ourselves among those peoples, we had best work for that fact and prepare ourselves for it, realizing it is but a greater fulfillment of a common ideal.

TALK OF THE WEEK

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

KIM

Town-nighters are going to get the chance to see a really good movie at the Capitol this week. Rudyard Kipling's beloved "Kim" will be shown in all its glory through the technicolor scenes filmed right in the heart of India. Kim is played superbly by Dean Stockwell who is supported by Errol Flynn as Mahbab Ali and Paul Lukas as the Tibetan lama. The screen play follows remarkably well the adventure novel which has thrilled so many who have read it. Be sure to see this Monday or Tuesday—you won't regret it!

Wednesday a Tarzan film entitled "Tarzan and the Slave" will be shown.

GROUNDS FOR MARRIAGE

Van Johnson is back in comedy again in "Grounds for Marriage" playing at the Capitol Thursday and Friday. Van is a nose and throat specialist who treats his ex-wife, Kathryn Grayson, an opera singer, whn she loses her voice. The triangle is completed by Paula Raymond who plays his fiancee. Could be better—could be worse.

Allen "Rocky" Lane will star in the Western shown Saturday.

NEW BOOKS

For those of us who are still fighting the Civil War "The Blue and the Gray" by Henry Steele Commager gives the facts about all the major campaigns as well as every other aspect of the conflict.

"Appeal to Arms," by Willard M. Wallace, a history of the American Revolution, will also interest historically minded people. The bad as well as the good on both sides is brought out.

If you have a more fanciful imagination try "The Thirteen Clock" by James Thurber. Typically Thurber, it is a mixture of parable, fairy story and poem.

For those who would like to mix their history with laughs Burr Shafer has written a book just for you, "Through History with J. Wesley Smith." History was never taught like this!

Unitarian Pastor Speaks To IRC

The Rev. Richard E. Henry, pastor of the Tennessee Valley Unitarian Church, Knoxville, will be the speaker at International Relations Club Monday evening at 6:30 in Thaw 214.

His topic is "A Positive Program for Peace," and will include a discussion of the "Point 4" concept of economic rehabilitation as a positive answer to the world Communist program.

Heaps Suffers Attack

Henry Heaps, senior from Street, Md., was operated on Monday afternoon for a sudden attack of appendicitis. He has been confined to Blount Memorial Hospital this week.

Bainonians Meet, Quiz

Bainonian Society will meet tonight at 6:15 in Bainonian Hall. Plans are to be discussed for the annual banquet to be held this year on Tuesday night, March 13, at the College Hill Grill. After this, there will be a Quiz Program, under the direction of Florence Clark.

Brakebill Sings In FAC Recital

Don Brakebill will fulfill his sophomore recital requiremnts on Tuesday, March 6, when he will sing in a Student Recital to be held in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. His accompanist will be Barbara Paine.

Also included in the program will be George Carpenter and Jodie Richardson. The musical selections will include pieces by composers Handel, Haydn, Bach, Faure, Massanet, Chopin, Charles, and Goreau.

Vols Hear Miller, Regional Secretary

Student Volunteers meeting tomorrow night in Bartlett will feature Dave Miller, regional secretary of Student Volunteers for this district. He is to show a film, the title of which is as yet unannounced.

Charlie Schroeder will lead the singing; Jack Moffat will give the invocation. Others taking part in the program will be Athony Maturo, Donald Moffett, Wally Schroeder, and Art Van Alstyne.

FAC Library Opens Book Shelf

The "browsing shelf" in the Fine Arts Center Library has for its subject for March contemporary American expressions in the Fine Arts. There will be a selection of books dealing with painting, sculpture, music, and literature. The subject was chosen because the Music Faculty is giving a recital of contemporary American music, and the Art Department is displaying a loan exhibition entitled "What is Modern Painting?" from March 6 to 26. All are invited to become familiar with this field of expression in the Fine Arts.

Faculty Gives Collegium Musical

The members of the music faculty presented a program of American music from 1900 to 1925 as part of the Collegium Musicum Series last night in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Featured in the program were Miss Katharine Davies giving The Fountain of the Acqua Paola from Roman Sketches by Griffes; Mrs. Bernice Blair, accompanied by Miss Thelma Nelson, in The Sleep That Flits on Baby's Eyes by Carpenter, Symphony in Yellow by Griffes, and When I Bring to You Color'd Toys by Carpenter; Miss Katherine Crews, and Mrs. Alice Eaddy playing the violins, Miss Dorothy Horne the viola, and Doris Somerville the cello, in Music for Four Stringed Instruments by Loeffler; Mrs. Alice Eaddy in New York Days and Nights by Whithorne; Miss Katherine Crews and Miss Dorothy Horne playing the violins, accompanied by Miss Katharine Davies, in Bourree, Sarabande, and Rigaudon from Suite Antique by Stoessel; and Miss Thelma Nelson and Miss Katharine Davies presenting an American in Paris by George Gershwin.

●IT FINALLY COMES TO AN END . . . Basketball bowed out gracefully last week as Carson-Newman's Eagles applied the coup-de-grace for a new record in defeating the Scots . . . Joe Shipley, for most of the year, played just a so-so game, never over 12-15 points. . . But what happens when he hits Maryville. . . in one game he scores 19 points in one half and in the next he scores a mealy 28. . . you just can't win when they're laying low for you. . .

Wrestling comes to a rather hoped-for glorious end tonight in the SEAAU tourney with MC going for the runner-up spot since Auburn decided to enter a team but perhaps with a little luck here and there, the Scots might win. . . they almost did last year in spite of accommodations to the contrary. . . . The matmen have piled up according to Co-Captain Palmer, "a better record than the basketball team, the football team, and the cross country team." We salute you and your cohorts. . . we shall do 30 salaams to the east at eight tonight when you wrestle. . . . good luck anyhow boys. . .

●STATISTICS OF A SORT have been compiled finally for the season with the aid of several persons who have tried to record friendly and opposing shots in Alumni Gym plus the aid of two and three scorebooks. With all the shootin' over with, Stanley Downs came home with the best shot-percentage on the home boards—a neat .430 . . High man for the season was Mean Shields with 241 who bypassed Babe Keny the last two games of the season. . . Shields had the rather dubious honor though of committing 53 personal fouls against Keny's 49. . . Best man at the free throw lane was Wes Kinser. . . he had one for one. as for the regulars, it's a toss-up, no one had enough to pull away from the field, so figure 'em out yourself—the best ones are around the .667 mark. . . One other thing. . our discovery that the winning team might commit the most fouls in a game because it is more aggressive followed out in all but three games and these were with what might be classed as "minor league talent—Col Seminary, Hiwassee and TWJC. . . Leave us not take this remark as to these institution's standing as did the Dodgers with one Memphis Bill Terry. . . the phrase referred to numbers in attendance. . . Well, here they ar after a lot of wasted space. . . .

●'TIS SPRING AGAIN and the ball and bat are on the wing again as baseball, tennis, and track officially warm up next week. . . Lombe's looking for many a baseballer as Coach Davis is scouting for dash and field men for his track team. . . . last year, he was lucky to have three men in the field events. . . Also on the matter of track, if you want to tell your kiddies twenty years from now that you helped build something at college besides character, come out this afternoon to the track—especially you connivin' track men—and assist the Men's M Club in its work—frugal as it may be. . . it will be appreciated by more than a few. . . .

●A COUPLE OF GOOD COACHES ARE WE was what G. Walker and G. Gage could have been saying to themselves after the finish of last week's "successful" Stinking Shoe Classic. Trailing at halftime, the Athenian masterminds masterminded their team to a three-point victory by dubious or otherwise means. . . perhaps there should be an investigation. . . they are to be congratulated though along with all who helped.

●SLIPSLUSH ON THE PAST SEASON, and whatever else comes in handy. . . one of the oddities of the basketball season was Bert McMahon's shooting in games on the hardwood court. In all the home games we can recall, the Madman connected on his first shot of the game, whether it was from out long or in short. . .It was a kind of funny thing. . . He couldn't seem to tally all the time but he sure made that first shot count. . .

J. A. Cameron is in charge of the Intramural Wrestling tourney which is scheduled for matistication next week and urges all potential Intramural wrestlers to steer over Bartlett Way for the clinics they have over a two day period before the "real" thing gets started. . . He and Blimp Palmer and company will try to demonstrate what to do and what not to do. . . Coach Davis also has pressed into service some scouts to sign up the guys who look like they know the "what to do." He got Poland from last year's winners and if it'll work once, it may work twice, who knows. . . Dean Allison of the Intramurals Dept. is also to be congratulated for his new type of volleyball score sheet—strictly an MC invention.

●"KNEW I HAD IT ALL ALONG. . ." These might have been the words uttered by "Coach Adolph" Heron after the game last Saturday night when her Fancy, Frivolous, and Foolish Faculty flipped the flopperoo on Bainonian's lassies. Last year, the "old dames" grabbed off a stirring 11-0 victory—that's what the "always wrong" Echo files say anyhow—and this year were not expected to do so well. . . However, if the Globetrotters of Abe Saperstein can get by with it all the time, perhaps "Coach Heron" figured her "Sad Sax" could do as well, and they did. . . so we hear. . ."

Also, for the latest in high school basketball, see the Finals of the tourney in Alumni gym.

At the annual Bainonian-Faculty game held Saturday, Febru-24, Coach Queener's Faculty gals ran over Captain Ruth Ann Roach's Bainonian girls to the tune of 9-6. The game was close all the way, but due to the efforts of Manager Heron, who kept her girls in the ball game by giving them doses of Hadacol and smelling salts, the Faculty finally triumphed, proving that they still know how to play basketball.

Playing the entire game for the Faculty team were Miss Hunter, Miss Lightfoot, and Mrs. K. P. Johnson playing at the forward position, and Miss Guss, Mrs. Law, and Miss Hennemuth playing guards.

Wrestlers Win Two From Emory, YM

Scots Finish With 5-1-1

Maryville Wrestlers closed out the regular season with wins number four and five of a rather mixed-up season over Emory University and Knox Y. The match with the Emory team was slated to be a closie because of MC's weaknesses in the upper weights, but wrestlers Herb Palmer and Bob Proffitt came through with wins in the 177 and heavyweight classes to cinch the match and send everybody home hpapy especially since Proffitt's win was the first MC win in the heavyweight class since Palmer took a win over Knox Y's Andy Castleberry in an out-of-weight class bout a year ago and the second since "lightweight" John Briggs took a pin two years ago over a Chattanooga man. Don Benton started off the night's matches in an exhibition against Emory's Bill Lammers and lost, 8-2, on reverse, time and a takedown.

Morse Good For Five

Bill Morse started off the regular matches with an 8-0 win over Leon McGahee using two reverses, a near fall and 4 minutes riding time to build up points. J. A. Cameron, still on the comeback could not muster enough strength to effect an escape on his opponent Mal Duggan in a 130 pound bout and neither could Duggan, so both gained a scoreless draw—both teams collecting two points.

An Old But Effective Way

Chesley Anderson then found a good formula to build up points by letting one Jeff Smith escape for one point and then effecting a takedown for two, himself, thus gaing one point each of the four times the process was run through in a 12-4 MC victory. Donald MacDonald subbed for ailing-in-the-ear Jimmy Callaway in a 147 pound match and went down by a 4-1 count—MacDonald getting an escape while Stewart gained his for a locked-hands penalty, a take down, and one point for time on top.

Joe Poland also picked up a big 6-1 win over Clyde Traylor getting a reverse, a takedown and using them for 3:59 riding time and two points.

Got Set For Finals

Randy Karrh took a win over the unlucky yet Willy Rahn in the 167 class with a reverse, a takedown, and 8 minutes and 15 seconds riding time. Karrh certainly had the formula in that case. Herb Palmer went out against Gary Watson in a 177 pound bout and gained a 2-0 decision over Johnny Miller's boy with an escape and one minute's riding time more than Watson.

Come On Bob!

Then came the match of the night, Proffitt went out against the 210 pound Emory Sophomore. Pete Sotus and both proceeded to butt heads for approximately two minutes when Proffitt found out he could push the big Sotus when he wanted to bad enough. Came the start of the second period and MC's "heavyweight" made good an escape for one point and also held on long enough to pick up another point for time advantage. After this, the crowd was definitely on his side.

Result of the match: Exhibition —157 class—Lammers (E) decisioned Benton (M), 8-2 123 class Morse (M) won over McGahee (E), 8-0

130 class—Cameron (M) and Duggan (E) drew, 0-0

138 class—Anderson (M) won over Smith, 12-4

147 class—Stewart (E) won over

C-N Eagles Win Two From Scots

Shipley Paces Final Wins

Center Joe Shipley of the Carson-Newman Eagles had two of the greatest games of his career in the final two games of the season played by his team against the Scots on the last two Saturdays. The tall Shipley arched in 19 points with an overhead shot in the first half of the first game that was all that kept the Orange and Blue in that game. And last week, he scored 28 in leading C-N's Eagles to a 95-73 win which broke last year's E&H scoring record of 83 points and the Chattanooga Moc game of the previous year. Coupled with MC's 73, it also set a new high for a total score in a game with 168 beating the E&H 165 of last year's last game. In that one, Bob Boring also scored 28 points as did Shipley the other night. The twin defeats made MC's record 7 and 12—very poor in the light of the past.

The first game started out rather close with both teams exchanging brief leads—Shipley hoisting any and most of C-N's scores to lead at halftime 40-31. Only three quick baskets by Dick Abbott with a minute to go kept MC in the ball game.

During the second half, MC began carving away the Eagle's surplus of points on Shield's and Downs' shooting till with four minutes left they zipped ahead, 54-51, only momentarily as Shipley fouled out. But Alvar Crawford and Jimmy Bivens, wanting to win for Old Joe and for C-N connected on four sallies down the court—two on intercepted MC passes to set up a big enough lead-to-freeze margin.

Why Don't We?

One of the big things that kept C-N in the ball game was her accuracy at the free throw lane—14 out of 19 for the game against an MC of 11 for 19 but the Eagles made eight for likewise in the first half to build up their big halftime margin. Babe Keny's shooting was also off par for the night and it hurt—the big center hitting for only six points on 19 shots.

McMahon, 6	G	Crawford, 14

Subs: MC—McClelland; Hopkins; Gardner, 1; and Abbott, 10. C-N—Bivens, 13; Lawson, and Potter.

In the final game of the season for both teams, defense was thrown out the window, to judge from the final tallying, as the Eagles won a 95-73 triumph on their own court. Center Joe Shipley paced the Eagles to a still-in-the-ball-game 43-35 lead at half time but then the Eagles of Coach Ashford began to pull away. As Shipley had been the week before, so was the whole C-N team in this game—the Orange and Blue hitting on 45% of its shots from the floor and 75% on her free throws to a 36% fg 50% free throw percentage for MC. It was a case of C-N not knowing what the word miss meant.

MC Wrestlers Journey For SEAAU Mat Tourney

Scot Grapplers End Season Tonight

Coach John A. Davis took eleven boys with him to Chattanooga yesterday morning and the annual SEAAU mat tourney to be held at the University of Chattanooga. Last year, MC's grapplers took a long trip to Auburn, Alabama where they finished second to Auburn's Plainsmen in the tourney.

Been Runners Up Already

In 1949, MC started off rather slow with an especial weakness in the heavier weights. Now as the season has progressed, Coach Davis has slowly got the workings of a representative squad that may again repeat last year's feat of beating out Tech, Emory, Chattanooga, and a couple of the Y's. Bob Kees, if he can make the weight, wil go for a win in the 155-pound class or otherwise will tangle in the 123 class with MC's Willy Morse. Both the 115 and 123 classes are open since Chattanooga's George Owens and Emory's Ed Pound have graduated. Sonny Dragoin still holds the 130 pound title and MC's representative in that class will be J. A. Cameron who finally showed some of the shades of his old self in the Knox Y match. Both have met five times in the last three years with Dragoin the winner four times to one.

The 137 pound class is vacant because of Tech's Philopoulous "flunking" out. Auburn's Dick Belfonti and MC's Chesley Anderson are the favorites, but a dark-horser in the class will be MC's Donald MacDonald who is just about even to Anderson in the 138 class. It wouldn't hurt matters at all for both of MC's representatives to meet in the finals.

Bring It Back Again

Jimmy Callaway is one of the contestants for his brother's title in the 147 class with Robin Baker of Auburn, the other big contender. Don Benton, will also go in this class after losing some six pounds over the last week. MC also fielded two men in the 157 class—Joe Poland and Willy Rahn, also down, from 167 pounds. Rahn who had about as much trouble as any one wrestler could have this year in the 167 class should have fared considerably better since he has been giving Poland a fairly rough time in the wrestling room at his new weight. "Heavyweight" Bob Proffitt was down to 167 yesterday and was entered in the 167 pound affrays whose title is held by Auburn's Robert Long.

A Chance Here

The 177-laurels will be open to anyone who takes them since Auburn's John Mantrone is gone. MC's Herb Palmer won them three years ago in the 1948 tourney while this year, Palmer, Auburn's Bob Drake, and Chattanooga's Andy Myers, are the big contestants.

MC has no heavyweight representative with the favorites in the tourney coming possibly out of Chattanooga's Tom Drake, Auburn's Dan McNair, or Tech's Ray Beck.

Matches started yesterday afternoon, and finals at eight tonight —thus some grapplers may be wrestling once every 45 minutes as was the case last year for several of MC's matmen. Science plus conditioning will pay off.

Scots Drop Buffs

The Scots ran into another one-man team when they played Milligan's Buffaloes on the Alumni court, Tuesday night a week ago, in the final home game of the season. Sid Hathaway in the first Buff encounter (61-19) with the Scots had poured in 33 points, but in this contest was limited to 19—rather he limited himself as he fouled out with some six minutes to go. The agile Elizabethton boy had poured through 19 in the first half but piled up two quick fouls in the second half's opening moments which forced him to rest out a greater part of the second half because of a total of four.

Coach Edwin Old's quintet poured on the coal in the first quarter after Bert McMahon had connected for his usual first shot of the night and a short-lived 3-0 lead to jump out to a 17-14 lead after the ten-minute mark which they kept adding to with Hathaway contributing 15 for a 36-28 halftime lead.

Move It, By Cracky

A fiery halftime talking-too by Coach L. S. Honaker drove the Scots back into the game and they began closing the gap sparked by the play of Abbott and Allen on the rebounds and breaking-up of passes. It was 46-42 then 46-44, then 48-44 before Babe Keny cashed in with his first two hooks of the evening to put MC ahead for the first time and for the rest of the time. Stan Downs had fouled out and Jimmy Campbell sent in to take his place. The hustling little "Mouse" drove in and out of the fray scoring nine points on breaks and crips to help widen the gap and insure the Scots their seventh win of the season against 11 setbacks. Campbell's play also fired up the rest of the Highlanders and Keny, Allen, and Shields all dropped in their share of a 29-point last ten-minute flurry. Milligan could only get 16 in the same length of time.

Up In The Air

What probably paid off more than anything else, besides the increased morale at the end, was MC's ability in the jump circle and at the free throw lane when it counted. MC got approximately ⅔ of the evening's contested jumps—whether or not she should have—and banged in half of 22 free throw tries. Milligan was weak when jumping save for center Grindstaff but missed seven-in-a-row during the fatal mid-way period in the last half. Especially weak in that area was the Buff's big Kymor Grindstaff who missed five in a row and hit on only three for 10. With Hathaway out of the way, Milligan had little offense save for two moments when Phil Rousch and Boatwright hit a couple of long sets in a row.

Intramurals....

EX SCRUBS COP CROWN

The Intramural basketball tournament was climaxed last week by the meeting of the first place Whizzers and Ex-Scrubs. The Whizzers went down to their first defeat of the season as the Ex-Scrubs pecked away and accumulated 33 points to the Whizzers 22.

In final first round games of the tournament, the toppers came through as expected the Hig Nips just edging Athenian's Rebels, 20 to 19, and Alpha Sig's Woodmen squeeking by the Creamers, 28 to 27.

The Whizzers, Ex-Scrubs, Hig Nips, and Shudas all survived the quarter finals and collided head on in the semi-finals. Uneffected by previous performances, the Hig Nips battled the Whizzers down to the wire before finally being eliminated, 31 to 28. A spirited Ex-Scrub crew then applied the pressure and out-bucketed the Chudas 38 to 17, to earn the right to meet the Whizzers in the finals.

From the opening whistle it was all Ex-Scrubs. They forged a slight lead a last quarter spurt which iced the game for them. Joe McNiel and George Stanfil each hit for eleven points to account for 22 of the Ex-Scrubs' 33 points.

Athenians Triumph Over Alpha Sigma

Win Stinking Shoe Game

After trailing 26-18 at halftime, Athenian's Intramur'lers made a rousing comeback to trip the Intra'mur'lers of Alpha Sigma in the Third Annual Stinking Shoe Classic, 53-50 in a thriller last Saturday night. Glenn Gage and G. Walker's combined groups had jumped out to a short-lived 4-1 lead but the Sigma's paced by Horace Beckwith and Bob Lyons came back to lead 16-12 at the end of the first quarter and at halftime.

Something's Lacking

In the second half John Anderson found the Sig's defenses to his liking and his contribution of eleven points soon put the Athenian team ahead along with assistance from Kent Buser on the firing line and Ken Lake on rebounds. The Sigma's shooting average was far off in the last half and eleven misses at the free throw lane didn't help matters at all.

Art Exhibit Displayed March 5

The current art exhibit, on display from February 28 through March 5, is made up of reproductions of Goya's etchings. These are selections from "The Caprices," "The Proverbs," "The Disasters of War," and "The Bullfights." This exhibit is of special interest to history and Spanish students and to the art classes.

A loan exhibition from the Museum of Modern Art will be shown in the Fine Arts Center from March 6 to 27. It is made up of a series of reproductions under the title, "What is Modern Painting?" The thirteen panels present examples of the work of Hopper, Braque, Renoir, Cezanne, Picasso, Dali, and Van Gogh. Each panel deals with one aim of modern art, which is not necessarily representational, but expressional. All are invited to come to the Art Gallery and become better acquainted with the artist's aims and creative experiments.

Hobby Show Opens 28th To Students, Faculty

A hobby show, open to all students, faculty, and staff, is being planned for March 28 to April 10. It will include photography and handicrafts. Anyone wishing to participate should hand in a list of entries to Miss Johnson or Mr. Dashiell by March 21.

MC Students Donate 51 Pints Of Blood

Maryville College students donated 51 of the 373 pints of blood collected in Blount County in the recent Red Cross drive. The blood was sent directly to Korea, it was announced.

(2) The election shall be held during the second full week in April. A majority of votes shall be necessary for election. If no candidate receives a majority of votes, there shall be a run-off involving the least number of those candidates receiving the highest votes and whose total votes are a majority of all votes cast. The run-off shall be held within three school days following the first election.

MC Alumni Gets Pittsburgh Church

The Rev. Raymond J. Dollenmayer is to be installed as associate pastor of East Liberty Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, by the Presbytery of Pittsburgh tomorrow evening. He has recently been the church's assistant pastor.

He is a graduate of Maryville College '31, McCormick Theological Seminary '34, and was assistant professor of Bible and Religious Education here from 1937 to 1943.

President Ralph Lloyd will preach the sermon at the installation. Pastor of the church is Dr. W. Sherman Skinner. Pastor emeritus is Dr. Stuart Nye Hutchinson, former moderator of the Presbyterian USA General Assembly and a director of Maryville.

"The East Liberty Church is one of the largest in the Presbyterian denomination, with probably the finest church building in America," said President Lloyd. "It has 3,000 members, and the building, donated by the Mellon family, cost nearly six million dollars."

Broadway Entertains

A Roller-Skating Party will be held in the Broadway Methodist Church gym on Tuesday, March 6, Dick Thom, recreation chairman announced.

The party is open to the campus public and the hours will be from 7:15 to 9:30 p.m.

Theta Gets Bow, Arrows

Theta will meet tonight at 6:15 in Theta Hall. Program chairmen, Stan Ray and Jackie Smith, have announced that elections will be held for a "bow" and four "arrows", to be a take-off on Alpha Sig's Sweetheart.

This is not to be real election but is intended as a humorous program.

USMC Officer Visits, Interviews

Major A. A. Atskin, Marine Procurement Officer for Tennessee announced this week that the U.S. Marines are now accepting applications from young men and women who desire Marine Corps commissions. Major Atskin was here on campus Wednesday and interviewed prospective applicants.

College seniors and graduates may enroll in the Officer Candidate Course, the first class of which will begin on April 23. This is a ten week course, upon successful completion of which a commission in the US Marine Corps is attained.

Qualified undergraduates now attending college may enroll in the Platoon Leaders Class or the Women's Officer Training Course, attend two six-week classes during the summer and receive their commissions upon graduation from college.

Major Atskin will visit Maryville College on March 29 and 30 and in April, the exact date to be announced later. Interested persons may contact him then or write Marine Recruiting Office, Room 23, Court House, Nashville.

Scots Win Returner

On the following Monday, February 19, the Orange and Garnet matmen travelled to Knoxville for a return bout with the Y which was taken by a much more comfortable 29-5 score—the first engagement turning out 19-11.

Pins And Needles. . .

Bob Kees, striving gainfully to get a lettr, took a pin from Y's Bill Arnold in the rapid time of 45 seconds after the two first locked hands.

Bill Morse also took another pin over a Y man in the second period when he applied a crotch-nelson hold with 1:55 of the second period gone by. J. A. Cameron also picked up his first pin of the year in an exhibition 130 pound match against Bob Warwick. His crotch-nelson pin was slapped with 45 seconds of the second period gone. Donald MacDonald also pinned his exhibition opponent Endry. His fall coming as the result of a nelson hold in 1:52 of the first period.

The regulars went back to work again and Chesley Anderson took another long-short 8-2 decision over the Y's Don Jones, down from 147 pounds. Jimmy Callaway then took on Harold Fox, the Y's best man for his poundage, an ex-67'er, and took a close 8-6 decision. The winning margin was by virtue of a couple of more takedowns than escapes as was Anderson's case. Joe Poland then took a clear 7-0 decision from the Y's McConnell with some riding time thrown in.

About Time, Huh?

A 167-er finally won a match for MC as Jerry King, improving all the time pinned the Y's John Fine in 2:31 o fthe first period with a three-quarter nelson hold. Herb Palmer also got his first pin of the year in using the predominatinng - favorite - for - the-night crotch-nelson hold against Dick Ottinger in 2:31 of the first period. Bronco Bailey then broke the scoring column for the Y by using an arm-scissors hold on ill-fated Dick Patton in a quick 58 seconds of the first period.

Bob Proffitt and Jimmy Squires went in exhibition bouts—Proffitt winning a 4-2 decision over the Y's Woods and Squires getting the fastest pin of the year with a fall 35 seconds after his match with John Fine got started.

Results of the match:

Exhibition—130 class—J. A. Cameron (M) pinned Crittenden (K) in 45 seconds of the second period.

Exhibition— 167 class— Jimmy Squires (M) pinned Fine (K) in 35 seconds of the first period.

Exhibition— Heavyweights— Bob Proffitt (M) decisioned Woods (K), 4-2

123 class—Kees (M) pinned Arnold (K) in 45 seconds of the first period.

130 class—Morse (M) pinned Crittenden (K) in 1:55 of the second period.

138 class—Anderson (M) decisioned Jones (K), 8-2

147 class—Calaway (M) decisioned Fox (K), 8-6

157 class—Poland (M) decisioned McConnell, 7-0

167 class—King (M) pinned Haines (K) in 1:53 of the second period

177 class—Palmer (M) pinned Ottinger (K) in 2:31 of the first period.

Heavyweight—Bailey (K) pinned Patton (M) in 58 seconds of the first period.

WALKER . . . .

lish in high school.

Because of his excellent teaching and physics' demonstrations, the president of MC asked him if he would like to teach at the college. He accepted, and we have benefitted ever since. He has taught most professors on campus, who have taken physics at MC. Among them are Dr. Griffitts, and Dr. Sisk, whom he taught math in high school, and also the brothers of Dr. Lloyd.

From 1909, when he started teaching, to 1912, he also served as Proctor of Men's Residence. One of the students under him was Mr. E. E. McCurry, the present Proctor. Many of us think that our present rules are restrictive. Here are some of the rules Professor Walker, and later, Mr. McCurry, had to enforce.

Boys as well as girls were not allowed to leave the dormitories after 6:30 in the evening. After the same hour, any visiting of rooms had to be done with permission. Absence slips were given for absences from the dorms as well as from classes. Coats and ties were worn in the dining hall.

Yes fellows, one night a week in town may be stifling, but back in the "good old days" you could only date a girl once a week. And that was for a few hours on Saturday afternoon. Chaperones were necessities even for the rare evening public affairs at which you were allowed to date.

Since there was no official Dean of Students, Professor Walker also had to serve in that capacity. This has led him through some situations that were very intriguing, and amusing now that they can be viewed in retrospect. Seems to me, even the word "police" was mentioned.

By now you've probably assumed that the campus and dorms were very quiet places then. Tsk! Tsk! According to Prof, there were as many ways of letting off steam then as there are now in such harmless means as sports. And he says, "Human nature doesn't change."

Now is a good time to settle the matter of anecdotes. He will not relate any—at least not for publication. You see, he has taught quite a few of our staid professors and . . . ! We were even lucky to get this material from the interview. He shuns the publicity from interviews and has refused interviews by the local papers, which recognize him as a veritable storehouse of human interest anecdotes, etc.

He is one of the few people who can stay young in mind and spirit. His statement "Education doesn't just consist of a diploma" is rarely heard, but always put into practice. One can usually find him in his office reading the latest texts on physics and other sciences. At home, he assiduously follows current events and other important topics, reading much not related to his field. He feels that colleges are not yet the places to begin concentrated specialization in one's field. More could be gained by taking fewer classes and reading much outside material. To him, college is more to prepare us to enter the world enlightened as to its general aspects than to train us in a profession, that is what graduate schools are for.

But he is no pedant, nor is he onesided physically. His hobby is farming, and at one time, he managed a large dairy farm. Now he contents himslf with a little one, which provides him with exercise morning and evening when he is not reading.

Of all his attributes, the most defined are his fair-mindedness, tolerance and self-control. A semester spent in one of his classes, or even a brief talk with him quickly proves this. And as a final proof if needed there is the devotion to him held by the science students studying under him.

JACOBI ANNOUNCES 1951 DAISY CHAIN

Bachelor Of Ugliness, Miss MC Election Held

Have you had the funny feeling that you were being watched latley? Perhaps you're not a case for an alayst after all; you might be right.

Actually a committee of eleven people, chosen from each class, have been briefing everyone on campus these past few weeks for a very special reason. An ECHO-sponsored election of a Bachelor of Ugliness and a Miss MC is being conducted, the results to be announced at a later date in the ECHO.

New Tradition

To our knowledge, no one has been elected to these titles here at Maryville and it is hoped by the committee that two representative people will be elected this year to start the ball rolling toward another tradition.

Basis for selection of these lucky people is very simple. To qualify as a Bachelor of Ugliness, a boy may come from any of the four classes, be comparatively good-looking, be representative of the true Maryville spirit of friendliness, and be a generally all-around fellow.

There will be no balloting by the campus public. The election will be held by the committee after careful consideration of all those nominated.

Watch for them—they'll be presented in the April 7 edition of the ECHO. They may be you or you or even you!

Vespers Hears Four Students

The speakers tomorrow night at Vespers will be the leaders of the four campus religious organizations: George Ogle, YM; Louise Lloyd, YW; Lois Johansen, Student Vols; and John Shew, Pre-Ministerials.

Reeves Places First In NC Tourney

At the South Atlantic Tournament held last week in Hickory, North Carolina, Ruth Reeves took first place in Situation Oratory. Carolyn Miller won second place in Women's Oratory and in the Impromptu Speech. Two teams consisting of Carol Corbett and Lynn Miller and Elenor Kramer and Ruth Reeves, took third place in Women's Debate.

Harvard Professor Says Modern Dull and Docile

The modern college student is alarmingly passive and ready to conform, according to Oscar Handlin, associate professor of history at Harvard University.

In an article in the Atlantic Monthly Handlin remarked, "This generation welcomed the shackles of orthodoxy—all those eager faces looking up at the platform, waiting to be told what to do, what to believe. There was delight in dogma; know the authorities, accept the classics, and wash your problems away.

"When I hurled these charges at groups of them they sat back complacently. What I intended as epithets, they took as compliments. Released, they would tell me they were well-adjusted because they were better brought up.

". . . if Emerson's America was the country of young men because it believed in progress and had faith in itself, has our America ceased to be the country of young men because it has lost confidence and no longer believes in itself?"

"Mr. Pim" Sees Second Run-Off Tonight At 8 P.M.

By Sally Brown

The initial performance of A. A. Milne's comedy, "Mr. Pim Passes By," was footlighted last night at 8 p.m. in the Alumni Gymnasium. A second peerformanc is scheduled for tonight.

Austin Van Pelt, junior sociology major from Denver, Colo., and Grace Myers, sophomore religious education major from East Springfield, Pa., were seen in the leading roles as George and Olivia Marden. Bill Stein appeared in the title role as Mr. Pim, the man whose visit to the Marden's English country house provides the tangled web of comic anxiety around which the story is centered.

Cast in the supporting roles of Dinah and Brian, a couple whose romance gives a breath of youth to the plot, were Lou Masters and Joe Stater.. The part of Lady Marden was taken by Louise Packard and that of Anne by Joan Titley.

The play was sponsored by the Maryville College Playhouse under the direction of Miss Kathleen Craven.

John Schaumburg, George Barber, Jim Townsend, and Joanne Edwards were the stage committee. Ray Kuhn was stage manager. Jane Hassinger was properties chairman; Dan Dunbar, lighting chairman; Phyll Jackson, publicity chairman; and Walter Elwood, ticket chairman. House maangers were Allan Caldwell and Phyll Jackson.

Scotty Wrestlers Finish Second In SEEAU Meet

Scots Behind Auburn Have Two Champs—

For the third time in four years, Maryville College's Scotty wrestlers took second place in the annual SEAAU wrestling tournament, held in Chattanooga last Friday and Saturday. Auburn's powerhousers took the meet with 42 points—getting a great big jump by having five firsts in the meet. MC was second with two firsts, while Baylor Prep, Tech, and Emory each won one of the laurels.

MC had two winners, both in the lower weights, Bill Morse and Chesley Anderson in the 123 and 137 pound classes while Don MacDonald, going unattached tangled with Anderson in the finals of the 137 match and lost by a skimpy margin.

The meet's matches started Friday evening after weigh-ins and preliminaries during the morning. Bill Morse opened MC's efforts by taking a forfeit in the afternoon and then a rousing 16-7 win over Memphis Navy's McAdoo with a takedowns and reverses being mixed up liberally. Don MacDonald also started working his way to the finals by pinning Tech's George Philopoulos in a 137 encounter in the opening period. Both MC men were unseeded and were followed on the double mats by Joe Poland and Jimmy Callaway who took wins over Baylor's Shores and Chattanooga's Bill Hodges, respectively. Callaway already held two victories over the Moc's man in previous seasonal encounters. Finishing out MC's representing for the day was MC's Don Benton who lost a close match to Emory's Don Stewart who had tagged MacDonald in a 147 bout here—so Benten's efforts were not entirely of no naught.

Matches opened up at eight Friday night with Morse taking his win in the 123 bout over McAdoo while Bob Kees, MC's other entry in the 13 class lost a 4-2 decision on time to Vanderbilt's Bill Frierson who had taken two matches from MC's Marvin last year.

J. A. Cameron took his first match of the tournament with a pin over Baylor's Morgan in 2:57 of the first period. Saturday afternoon, Cameron ran into Auburn's Sonny Dragoin who drug out a 6-0 decision over him and then pinned Emory's Mal Duggan in a quick 1:32 of the first period.. Dragoin's win won him the honor of being in a consolation match to win third place with a 4-2 win over Baylor's Downey, using a reverse, a takedown, and time advantage to gross his points.

MacDonald took on Memphis Navis Stotsla in a 137 pound bout

MacDonald, Anderson Win

Friday evening quarter-final match and won 9-8 on the awarding of one point through a penalty being imposed on the Memphis man. Both had three reverses and a takedown for eight points. MacDonald then advanced to the finals and his match with Chesley Anderson by taking a 11-6 win over Auburn's James Johns—two near falls spelling the difference. Previously to his encounter, Bill Morse had took a 12-3 triumph over Castle Height's Military Speice having two reverses, two takedowns, two points for time, and two for a near-fall.

Chesley Anderson opened his bid for tournament honors Friday afternoon with a 5-1 win over Chattanooga's Melvin Haskins using his favorite scoring tactics of getting takedowns while the other man was escaping. Anderson then advanced to the finals with a 5-2 win over Memphis Navy's Le Blance—using different scoring methods

YM, YW Teams Open Ball Season

The baseball season will open early at Maryville this year with the YMCA playing the YWCA before a joint meeting crowd in Thaw Hall at 1:30 tomorrow. The game to be played will be Bible Baseball with Dr. Thomas A. Graham, the umpire and the questioner.

Teams announced this week are YWCA captained by Betty Jane Greenwald; Tish Plowman, anet Cummings, Katherine Blackburn, Cora Anthony, Ruth Nicholas, Doris Somerville, Lola Hudson, and Lois Johanson.

YM's Captain Bob Van Nest will have a nine-man squad determined to avenge last year's defeat with players listed as Van Nest, Al Shakely, Dick Dosker, Hubert Beuhler, Jerry Knecht, Howard Lawson, Willard Rahn, Neale Pearson, and Jack Maxwell.

Vols Use Theme Of Mission Fields

Student Vols will meet tomorrow night after Vespers in the Bartlett Auditorium.. The theme of the meeting is "Teach Us to Pray," and the purpose is to show the specific prayer needs on all mission fields.

The first part of the program will be a song service, with hymns illustrated by colored slides and interspersed with scripture readings and solos.

During the second part of the program, the meeting will divide into three groups with six mission fields being discussed; Europe and Asia led by Dick Dosker, North America and the island missions led by Jerry Knecht, and Africa and Latin America led by Betty Jane Greenwald. A summary of the general prayer needs will then be given by Lois Johanson.

Campbell Warns College Crisis

At the National Council of Churches meeting held in Columbus, Ohio, Dr. E.. Faye Campbell warned that Protestant colleges face the most critical struggle for survival since the Civil War. The following excerpts from an Associated Press report tells his story. He urged financial support by churches to keep the colleges going.

"Many Protestant affiliated colleges now are wrestling with the problem of how they may stay open beyond next June," he said, citing dwindling enrollments and resulting financial losses because of draft and defense jobs.

"Some of these colleges are older than the United States.

"These colleges may accept tuition from the government to train specialists in fields adaptable to their curricula. However, there is no disposition to seek or accept outright subsidy."

Dr. Campbell said that 475 Protestant related colleges and universities have assets of 500 millon dollars in buildings and 600 million in endowments. For a combined enrollment of 450,000 students there are 25,000 teachers, he added.

In citing financial losses to schools, Dr. Campbell stressed that the biggest loss, however, was in "what has happened to the morale of the American youth of college age. The 1951 undergraduate seems to have lost his grip on the future... He is concerned only with what may happen to him today."

Louise Packard, junior French major from Hammonton, N. J., placed first in the Poster Contest held by Maryville College Playhouse in connection with the spring production of "Mr. Pim Passes By" this week. Miss Packard received the first prize cash award.

Placing second was Art Van Alstyne, sophomore English major from Pittsburgh, Pa. Van Alstyne won the second place cash award. Receiving honorable mention for entries and winning a free ticket to the show are Jack Waka, Emily Smith, and Louise Packard.

Ralph, The Nightwatchman Tradition Says Watch Out For Him

By Carson Seeley

"And watch out for Ralph," the "little brother" is counciled before coming to Maryville by his "big brother." When he does reach the campus, it isn't long before he says, "Why, Ralph's a nice fellow!" To this, the retort is "But that's not Ralph. That's the president."

Then weeks, months and even a semester or so may pass before the neophyte makes his acquaintance with the most elusive man on campus. The first meeting is often not during the most propitious circumstances, but even the embittered must admit that Ralph is not quite the ogre that he is conjured up to be. For every student reported, there is probably one who deserves and is given a second chance.

My interview with Ralph was my second meeting with him—we won't discuss my first. During the whole hour that I talked with him, I sat on edge. I was afraid that he might consider me a time-consuming decoy for some ingenious escapade by the fellows.

At last we finished. Now all the inside information, his schedules, stratagems, and equipment, can be reported. Take your time, though. It's enjoyed more if one has to wait for it.

In The Beginning Ralph

Ralph Irwin, the nightwatchman, started to work for Maryville College on October 1, 1917 as a team driver for the farm. The following year he became a boiler tender, and, during the latter half of his third year, he assisted the previous night watchman. Since starting out on his own, he has worn out three new cars, two nearly-new cars, numerous shoes, and an innumerable number of flashlight bulbs and batteries. He is now working on his sixth car.

During his time here as boiler-tender, he made history in a limited manner. Many organizations can lay claim to having challenged the U.S. Army, and some have bested it. Ralph challenged it (or, at least a very minor segment thereof), and bested it single-handedly.

In World War I when soldiers were studying here, a few incidents occurred which aroused the ire of the captain in charge. He placed a guard around the campus, and issued the orders that no one was to leave or enter the campus. The difficulty with which staff members had in entering or leaving testifies to the diligence which the orders were carried out with.

At this time the heating plant was located on campus between McLain Memorial and Anderson. Ralph and his wife lived in a suite in Memorial.

Ralph had just come back from town on an errand, and he wanted to check the steam pressure in the boilers. But the guard would not let him in, not even after hearing the explanation concerning the boilers. Finally the guard consented to call the Corporal of the Guard.

Whne the Corporal of the Guard came, he reluctantly let Ralph in, after much discussion. When Ralph finally got in and saw that the steam pressure was down to 10 pounds, his own steam pressure raised. He decided to leave the fires untended and to let the dorms freeze.

Soon there was a knocking at

Beverly Jacobi, vice president of the junior class, has announced 14 members of the 1951 Daisy Chain which will be presented at the May Commencement ceremonies. Girls are selected on the basis of being a representative cross-section of the junior class. The vice president is automatically in the chain.

Girls elected this year are Laura Pritchett, Margaret Shields, Morna Wright, Joyce Lenderman, Jean Davis, Wilma Borter, Ann Leeder, Janet Kihlgren, Joy Hayes, Ella Swift, Carolyn Miller, Nannette Enloe, Edith Lancaster(and Beverly Jacobi.

Jean Davis, a physical education major from Seymour, is a member of women's varsity and is present vice president of the "M" Club. Last year she served as secretary of her class and vice president of Theta Epsilon. She was a Scottie majorette during the '50 football season and serves on the Athletic Board of Control. Miss Davis is also a member of B.G. Club.

Joyce Lenderman whose homo is in Birmingham, Ala. is an education major. She has served on Barnwarming 1950 as costume chairman. Miss Lenderman is a member of the Y Missions Committe and has been program chairman for Theta Epsilon.

Nanette Enloe, a sociology major from Atlanta, Ga., was Rush Week chairman for Bainonian this past fall. She is a member of "M" Club and has been a Nu Gamma Leader. At present she is publicity chairman of YWCA, serving on the Y Cabinet in that capacity. She is also a member of B.G. Club.

Wilma Borter from Springfield, N.J. is a Home Economics major and a member of Theta Epsilon. Miss Borter has served on May Day, Barnwarming, and house committees. She was on the Theta-Alpha Sig Dance committee last spring and fall. A member of the Girls' Glee Club in her freshman year, she was also a committee head for Theta's Rush Week.

Lancaster, Miller

Mornan Wright, education major from Columbus, Ohio, is a member of Bainonian and Future Teachers of America. A Vols member, Miss Wright has served on the Y Missions projects and Barnwarming committees.

Joy Hayes from Atlanta, Ga. is an education major and was Bainonian secretary this year. She has served on May Day committees and is a member of Y projects, teaching piano under the Mission. At present she is secretary of WSGA and a member of Girls' Glee Club.

Edith Lancaster from Hendersonville, N.C. is an elementary education major. She is at present secretary of YWCA and has served as a Nu Gamma leader. Secretary of the junior class, Miss Lancaster is a member of Bainonian, Girls' Glee Club, B.G. Club, and was an ABC calendar girl for Athenian.

Jacobi, Kihlgren

Carolyn Miller, a member of varsity debate and Pi Kappa Delta, national debate honor society, is a sociology major. Hailing from Monmouth, Ill., Miss Miller is editor of the 1951 Chilhowean and has served on the ECHO editorial staff. She is also a member of Y and Bainonian, serving as skit chairman last year.

Beverly Jacobi, elementary education major from Point Pleasant, N.J., is vice president of the junior class. An ABC calendar girl for 1951, Miss Jacobi was Bainonian's Rush Week chairman last fall and has served on the YWCA cabinet.

Another education major from Berkeley Heights, N.J., Janet Kihlgren is a member of Bainonian, Girls' Choir, and Student Volunteers.

Hands Off—

Sometimes it is only by repetition that people take notice. Every semester we print by request a suggestion concerning publicity which is put up by various committees representing the many campus clubs and organizations.

Posters take time to make. Their purpose is to inform the campus public and to advertise meetings, programs, contests, plays and the like. The posters belong to the persons who put them up and be touched by no one else unless by permission.

It should be needless to say that willful defacement and destruction of publicity is juvenile. Little brains are required to scrawl crude remarks across the face of a poster or to tear a sign from a bulletin board. Such activity is rather a mark of deficiency in character.

Let's let the rule of "hands-off" apply here also. If it does not delong to you, leave the poster alone.

Communism-No Berth

The Midland, newspaper of Midland College in Nebraska, has started an all-out campaign to suppress communism on the college campuses. The Midland called for a pledge by all students in the United States "to allow no berth for Communism on the campuses of our universities and colleges."

The paper hopes to influence a national movement. To further this goal, the paper printed an appeal to the nation's students to join them in this project. A copy of the paper was presented to Governor Val Peterson and some 2400 copies were being mailed out to educational institutions, nationally known commentators, and high government officials including President Truman.

Here are some excerpts from the Midland's paper appeal: "We, the students on the campuses and universities of our land, must dedicate ourselves to the great task. We must destroy that which would destroy.

"Let us, the combined university men and women throughout the land, join hands. Let our hands, so joined, form an insurmountable barrier to stop, now, those tentacles, those poisons—Communism.

"For Communism shall have no berth on the campuses of our colleges and universities."

In commenting on the movement, an editorial in the Daily Nebraskian said, "We firmly believe in the aim of this plan. . .. . But the execution of the movement raises some questions in our minds. Suppressing Communism is not as easy as signing a pledge.. . .. . The pledge would involve those who do not believe in Communism but strongly believe in freedom of political beliefs. The University of California discovered this complication when they demanded loyalty oaths of all faculty members."

Man In The Dorm

Open house has come and gone and with it the frantic rush with water, brooms and mops. As the call was heard, "Main in the dorm", dustcloths flew over the surface for a last minute check-up only to have the first fellow come in, reach up on the sprinkler pipes and get his dainty, little white fingers—absolutely black. While we found plenty of eats in most of the rooms one fellow heard that the way to a woman's heart is through daffodils—Two demerits, Allan!

Good Morning To You

We have heard of birthday parties at all times of the day and night, but Jim Watts' tablemates really did it up right when they surprised him with a cake and all the fixings at breakfast. In case you're thinking of trying it, take a word of advice from Naomi, "Don't."

Ironical Comment

The drafting of our All-Americans being a pertinent topic around the gals' dorms these nights, one pert miss was heard to say: "Yea, and next year only three societies will put on skits for Skit Night—Theta, Bainonian, and the Pre-Ministerials."

Bedtime Tales

B. J. Greenwald certainly was a surprised one when she slid her hand under her pillow as she closed her eyes for a trip to dreamland one night last week. She felt a little box with one of those "yes-I'll-marry-you" pieces of finger jewelry in it sent all the way from California by fiance, Glenn. How unique can a guy get when he's 3,000 miles away!

The moral of the story is that every night 500 girls religiously slide their hands beneath their pillows in high hopes but, alas, we haven't heard of another such case. . . .yet! !

Orr's Elses

Dr. Orr was seriously explaining a theory to his Psychology of Religion class one day last week using himself as the example. After much thought, Andy Clark drew the conclusion from the illustration that Dr. Orr was crazy.

"Yes, I am nuts but do you see why?" the good doctor further queried. The class murmured and slowly broke into laughter, giving Dr. Orr a very obviously affirmative answer.

Rival Sweethearts

Vieing for honors this week as Theta Epsilon's Beau were eleven Alpha Sigma lads and each enough to make your heart do hand-springs. Don't know whether the Theta gals are trying to share the traditional sweetheart spotlight with their brothers or not but along with the presentation of the Beau will be a shaft of Arrows. Those lucky guys!

Statistics

If every boy in the US could read every girl's mind, the gasoline consumption would drop off fifty percent.

If all the coeds who didn't "neck" gathered in one room, what would we do with her?

True, All True!

"What have you done," St. Peter asked,
"That I should admit you here?"
"I ran the ECHO," the editor said,
"At M'ville for one long year."
St. Peter pityingly shook his head.
And gravely touched the bell.
"Come in, poor thing; select a harp—
"You've had your share of hell."

Business man at Heart

Mr. Bushing was trying to make Mary Lyerly see the tearful elements to one of the plays the class was discussing in English drama and said: "If you were sitting in the audience, Miss Lyerly, you and everyone else would be crying, I'm sure."

"If I saw everyone else crying, I wouldn't be sitting in the audience," quipped Jimmy Dance. "I'd be running a Kleenex concession."

Mr. Pim Passed Here Too?

Perfect impressions of footprints were found leading down the first floor hall of Baldwin from the shower room to Sally Brown's door. Someone screamed, "Mr. Pim's been here too!" Further discovery proved that it was only the impression left by Miss Brown's wet sponge-rubber bedroom slippers and not the famous old guy after all.

TALK OF THE WEEK

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

ON THE SCREEN

Maryvillians who had the opportunity to see Jose Ferrer as "Cyrano de Begerac" in Knoxville's Pike Theater this week were treated to a real cinema great. The combination of one of the outstanding romantic plots of all time with the superb acting ability of Ferrer made for a film that will rank with Oliver's "Hamlet" and "The Red Shoes."

It is seldom we see united in one picture the qualities of poetic expression, depth of feeling, and superior acting as they are interwoven in "Cyrano". May more American films aspire to that kind of excellence.

Almost in contrast, as far as quality goes, is the Capitol's Monday-Town Night offering "Branded". Alan Ladd attempts to star in this technicolor shoot-'em-up, but fails beautifully.

Most exciting scene in the whole western thriller is when hero Ladd takes off his shirt for a tattoo artist to fake a birthmark on his shoulder, somehow essential to what's passing for a plot. About the only way to improve the whole thing would be to substitute co-star Mona Freeman for Ladd, in that one scene anyway.

A surer bet for Tuesday night is the Park's showing MGM's impressive "King Solomon's Mines." Done on a scale even big for Hollywood, here is 200,000 feet of African whoop-de-doo guaranteed to replace for the average cinamogoer at least three travelogues.

Sans much of a plot, the picture shows some African geography, scenery, and life that's really terrific. Whether or not you think you like jungles, primitive peoples, and wild animal stampedes, you'll like them here. The situations and scenes have all been done before, but never quite like this; see it if you can.

Orson Wells stars in, but does not produce, direct, or write "Black Magic" Wednesday at the Capitol. Maybe he should have. "Born to be Bad" at the Capitol Thursday and Friday applies, we guess, to heroine Joan Fontaine, but it can add to the picture too.

The ranch set takes over both houses Saturday for the usual display of fast-shooting, hard-riding horse opera. Brave the crowd and go sometime; they're fun, really.

IN THE ZONE

New in Lamar Memorial Library this week are "Financial History of Tennessee Since 1870" by Sewanee's James E. Thurgood; Herman Bell's "Religion Through the Ages"; and the fascinating "Book of Mormon," part of the scriptural foundation of the interesting Latter Day Saints sect which was supposedly discovered on golden plates in the last century as a record of the lost tribes of Israel in this country .

Also new is volume 3 of Princeton's ambitious set of "The Papers of Thomas Jefferson"; "A Firm Faith for Today" by Methodist Howard Bosley of Duke's Divinity School; "Readings in Russian History" by Warren B. Walch of Syracuse:

"The Negro in Mississippi, 1865-1890" by A. R. Newsome in "Studies in History and Political Science" in connection with North Carolina U's suspuicentennial publications; and the 1950-51 "Book of the States" compiled by The Council of State Societies.

Letter To The Editor-

To the Editor of the Highland Echo:

Although the ideas set forth in DN's article which appeared in the last issue of the ECHO are basically good, I for one hope we will never see the day when Maryville will become an interracial school.

I firmly believe in economic equality, and equality of opportunity for the minorities but I also believe that only through segregation can a proper working of these equalities be seen.

It is granted that people would need a complete re-education concerning minorities before southern colleges could be opened to all races. Such re-education would take generations and perhaps hundreds of years before such a breakdown of racial barriers could take place. In the process of breaking down the barriers new ones spring up and the good done becomes lost in the shuffle.

Racial equality is an ideal. Anyone who claims Christian beliefs certainly would agree to that. In a utopian society where problems did not exist racial equality would be something taken for granted. But in the complexity of our society equality cannot be realized.

Sports Echoes

By Neal Pearson

●Congratulations Dept. . . . . First Orchids of the week go to wrestlers Bill Morse, Chesley Anderson, and Donald MacDonald for their work in the SEAAU tournament. Anderson ended a colorful career jn his topping of the elusive MacDonald who could not stay on Anderson long enough to gain any time advantage. Coach Davis' early season prediction that MacDonald would be giving Anderson a fit at the season's close certainly came true. Willy Morse who lost his only match to Auburn's Dragoin in a 130 bout also gets a bouquet or two. . . Both he and MacDonald will be back next year in attempts for the crowns for the present holders.

Also ending their careers, winning more than they lost, are J. A. Cameron, Joe Poland, the one-year wonder, Willy "Tough-luck" Rahn, Bob Proffitt, erstwhile heavyweight, and Herb Palmer, 177-er whom the fates caught up to early in the season and plagued the rest of the year as they did with Cameron. . . The two boys are about ready for the coaching ranks now—to this corner's mind (if any) having wrestled all the wrestling out of their systems.

Roses go to the others who stuck it out through the season. . .. wrestling or not. . . who will make a good nucleus next year. . . Clarke, Callaway, Benton, Squires, King, Cox, Glad, Patton, McCulloch, Willbanks, Mowatt, Kees, Sangster . .

●AD GLIB on the tourney. . . . MC shortage in the lightweights could be seen in the tourney's final standings. . . MC's representatives in the finals and consolation rounds did all right—winning three and losing one. . . but all lighties. . . If we can ever get some good heavies we will win the thing. . . .

●OTHER GOOD COMPLIMENTS WEEK . . . Since all those who do anything toward the furtherance of the school's athletic program, forwards, backwards, or otherwise, deserve and think-they-ought to-get-some-mention-of a compliment, we hereby go down our monthly list of those who belong in these categories—horizontally and six feet below or otherwise. . . To the M Club boys who slaved over hot griddles making hot dogs and over cold drink boxes getting frozen fingers in order that their treasury might be enhanced, we say, "Way to go," and may you find a sockful of slaw and bottle caps next Christmas. . . Anyhow, if this doesn't make sense (which is usual), not many people know of the work put in afternoon and nights last week during the high school tourney by the M Clubbers. . .. to referees Lester (he sells hot dogs, too) and Glad who did a good game of officiating the Stinking Shoe Classic as well as Scorers Flood and Navratil, many shiny new whistles and better-pitched booing from the stands. . . . To the MC frosh basketball team which won 11 and lost four, many field goals and free throws made and none missed. . . To Dick Jones who was the Echo's "secretary" at the SEAAU tourney last week-end while this corner's representative sat in comfort day and night at the high school tourney.

●NOT TOO MUCH TO WORK WITH . . . Track started off this week with the foregoing statement in the fore and plenty of to's, too's, two's, in confusion. . . Two lettermen (English and Menges), a track to be finished, two meets, not too many out (especially in the field events) . . . . .However, the cross country team came out and MC-ers will witness maybe three-milers competing in the hundred and 220, and throwing the shot and pole-vaulting as they go around the curves. . . a gentle hint. .. .

●BASEBALL is quite indefinite also save that Coach Honaker will have a somewhat fair pitching staff to build around and two or three other vets to work with—at least they'll be strong down the middle—Campbell (J), Yonkers, and Valentine, along with pitchers Kren, Short, and Campbell (L), MC's top-hitter for last season—on bunts, too. Schedule will come out next week. . . .

●PLENTY OF LETTERMEN in comparison are out for Coach Johnson's tennis team which will have its first match in about three weeks. . . Anderson, Miles, "Brains" McCampbell, and Gage back to continue a fine winning streak of 17 out of the last 18 matches over a two year period since the renaissance set in. . . .

●THEIR DAY is Monday at 3:30 in Bartlett. . . If you're wondering who this is, it is the Intramural wrestlers who will have the finals of their tourney next Monday in the Wrestling Room. J. A. Cameron has everything lined up and many of the winners will be the mat-men Scrubs. . . Plan to attend, huh? . . . Also for some news on the world situation and how it affects you plus, listen to "Campbell's Soup" Murrow at 7:45 each night next week plus his big Friday night show.. He may come up with somehing of interest to us all. . . . Just wait. . . .

Highlander Basketeers Finish Loosing Season

Maryville's Scots, after setting a single game scoring record for an MC team in the season's opener, slipped into a post holiday slump—during which time they dropped nine straight games. They finished strong however, taking five of their last eight games—three of them from teams they had previously bowed to.

Garnering two quick wins to get off on the right foot, the bucket brigade ran up 93 points against Knoxville N.B.C. and dumped King College, L.M.U. and Georgetown then handed the Scotties two consecutive losses which gave the team a five hundred percentage to take home over the Christmas holidays.

Unable to untrack themselves, MC's quintet dropped eleven more in a row—seven of them on foreign courts—before they could get back into the win column. Coach Honaker's lads then reeled off five wins in a row, reversing decisions against Hiwassee, Tusculum and Milligan. Tennessee Wes. and Decatur Seminary also perished in the wake of the rejuvinated Orange and Garnet squad.

After trailing for three quarters and finally overtaking C.N.'s Eagles with about five minutes to play, the Scotties blew the game and wound up on the wrong end of a 66 to 60 score. They then sandwiched a win over Milligan between the first C-N game and teir final game, a 95 to 73 scorcher dropped to C-N this one in the Eagle's nest.

Shields, Keny Pace Scorers

"Meano" Shields with 241 points and "Babe" Keny, with 235 points, topped the Scot scorers. However the squad had two other 200 point men among the first five, Charlie Allen contributed 207 points to the cause while Stan Downs almost hit it with 196.

The seven and fourteen record hardly indicates the brand of ball the Scots could play and which they exhibited at times. The team did not click until about the first of February, after which they looked like a new team. Uncle Sam permitting, the basketball picture looks bright indeed for '51-52.

WESTLING

The Intramural Wrestling tournament started off with a large group of contestants Thursday afternoon who were narrowed down to a pair of finalists through the competition.. Finals of the Intramural tournament, announced by J. A. Cameron, director of the meet, will be held at 3:30 in the Wrestling room at Bartlett on Monday. Finalists in the different classes are:

123 class—Homer Rickabauld winner by default.

130 class—Jay Bright vs. Clarence Reaser

137 class—137 Curt Wilbanks vs. winner of Al McCulloch-Dave Helwig match

157 class—Harry Southern vs Ronald Fleming

167 class—Ed Brahams vs Paul Merwin

177 class—Jerry King vs Don Merwin

Hwt.—Jim Lester vs Don Nichols

Only title-holder going for a re-conquest is Jay Bright in the 130 pound division—Sid Lambert losing in a 165 match.

In big matches held during eliminations Friday and Thursday, Ed Brahams beat Bob Buchanan on time advantage, Paul Merwin pinned Lambert with a crotch-half nelson, and Helwig's defeat of Jack Mowatt, also by time on top, and Fleming's defeat of George Ogle with a fall in the second period..

Scots Finish Second—

this time with a reverse, an escape, and riding time.

Jimmy Callaway won a referee's decision over Memphis Navy's Thielson in his second match Friday for superior aggressiveness. Both men had tallied five points—Callaway getting two reverses and an escape while Thielson had a reverse and a take-down and one point for riding time. Saturday afternoon Callaway lost a 11-8 to Georgia Tech's Rice—ineligible during the season. Some 45 minutes he went against Auburn's Bain's for the right to enter the consolation finals of the tourney and the Auburn man took a 4-0 win with a reverse and riding time. In the other consolation semi-finals Cameron took a 6-4 win over the Navy's Switzer with a near fall being the winning margin.

Willy Rahn went in a consolation semi-final against Memphis Navy's Castleman, losing 2-0 on an escape and riding time after Auburn's Charlie Borum piled up a big 8-0 win over him.

Poland Has Rough Time

MC's other 157 pound man, Joe Poland, went against the future winner of that class, Auburn grad-man Wilcox, in his first bout of the tourney and lost by a 7-5 count—Poland having a take-down and one reverse to a reverse, takedown, riding time for two, and an escape for his opponent. In his Consolation bout with Castleman of the Navy team, who had beaten Rahn previously, Poland lost out by a 3-2 tallying. Poland having two escapes to Castleman's one getaway and one takedown which was the matches difference. This one was one of the whole tourney's roughest bouts as both boys tossed each other around roughly.

Two Bad Breaks

The Scots had two men in the upper weight classes but both were victimized by bad breaks. Bob Proffitt pinned his McCallie opponent Taylor in two minutes of the first period but in so doing pulled his shoulder out of place and he had to forfeit the rest of his bouts though winning his initial match in a promising manner.

Herb Palmer won his first match Friday night against UC's Bayne with a pin in 1:52 of the first period and advanced to the semi-finals and a bout with Georgia Tech's Rhally Rhodes. Palmer was leading two escapes to one, when Rhodes got a hold on Palmer and attempted to up-end the MC man. He couldn't and, in trying to do so, both men went off the mat and the referee awarded Rhodes the winning points. In a consolation match, 45 minutes later, Palmer lost to Memphis Navy's Black who ground out an 8-1 score in doing everything right against a tired, mentally and physically Palmer.

Ahead For Awhile Anyhow

When the evening's finals opened up, MC had three men vying, Bill Morse met Emory's Bill McGahee whom he had beaten in a match on the Alumni mats (9-2), and proceeded to "warp" him again, winning 8-0. Morse had a reverse, a takedown, a near fall, and two points for riding time. At the same time, on mat two, Cameron was downing Downey, to give MC the top team score with 13 points. Auburn won the 130 lb. class with Sonny Dragoin pinning Duggan in a quick time.

Not Bad, Huh!

A sort of unexpected pairing was next in the 137 class as MacDonald and Anderson paired off against each other. Both men were reversing time after time—Anderson (4 times) and MacDonald twice on each other while MacDonald evened the count by dropping Anderson on takedowns twice to once and escaping four times to make it twelve-twelve. But Anderson was on top just a bit longer and picked up the deciding point.

As it was, MC won 16 bouts and lost 10 for a very good showing. Winners of the Tourney's titles:

115 Class—Scruggs (Baylor) won over McNabb (M. Navy), 6-3
123 Class—Morse (MC) won over McGahee (Emory), 8-0
130 Class—Dragoin (Auburn) pinned Duggan (Emory), 1:32
137 Class—Anderson (MC) won oer MacDonald (unattached), 13-12
147 Class—Baker (Auburn) won over Rice (Ga. Tech), 13-4
157 Class—Wilcox (Auburn) won over Wilcox (Auburn), 6-2
167 Class—Long (Auburn) pinned Karrh (Emory), 2:56
177 Class—Rhodes (Ga. Tech) won over Blackmar (unattached)
191 Class—Drake (Chatta.) pinned Kerfoot (Ga. Tech)
Heavyweight Class—McNair (Auburn) pinned Hawkins (Chatta.), 42 seconds of the first period.

Scot Athletes Commence Spring Sports Practice

As the week opened, some one hundred athletes of differing abilities took to the athletic fields for practice in Baseball, Track, and Tennis. Things will be rather dull for two weeks or so but then Scot athletes will begin playing other schools at an average of a game every two days.

Grid Men Start Spring Practice

Some thirty-three footballers turned out for the first session of practice on Wednesday of Spring football. Conditioning and plays were the main emphasis of the first few days with the first scrimmage slated for next week.

Those going out include: Bob McClelland, Jerry King, Don Monroe, Dick Hughes, Paul Maier, Joe Bender, Bert McMahon, Jimmy Squires, Hershal Mosier, Neal Halliburton, Malcolm Moore, Jimmy Callaway, Jake Peppers, Ralph Greaser, George McGahee, Grant Sharp, Dick Allison, Bill Moody, Dan Oldwin, Jack Rorex, Dick Gardner, Charlie Allen, Harold Glad, Bob Wheeler, Dick Patton, Bill Caldwell, Don Merwin, Paul Merwin, Frank Garren, and Arthur Haylock.

Of these 33 men, nine earned letters last fall and they will form the nucleus of a team—even with Uncle Sam not intervening—that will have a tough job on its hands.

Baseballers Work Out First Kinks

Scot Nine Opens Practice

Baseball practice opened Monday for some fifty boys as Coach Lombe Honaker was blessed with sunshine for the first time in several years which enabled the tyr-outs to go outside and work the kinks out. Only one letterman, Jim Kren, is back from last year's squad which won 14 and dropped only four in hard competition. Kren had a 5-2 record and 1.998 ER average. Sonny Short and Leaky Campbell are two of the other pitchers back—Short having a 2-0 record and Campbell a 1-1 average.. Infielders back are Jimmy Campbell at short or second and Ken Yonkers at third—the former hit .400 in 15 chances at bat while Yonkers hit .266 in the same number of tries. Outfielders back are Earl Valentine and Walt Rowley. Only time can tell what the opening day line-up will be:

Spanish Club Has Guatemalan Talk

A talk on Guatemala with slides was presented by Miss Martin to Spanish Club Thursday in a meeting held in the Fine Arts Center. Previously to that, members welcomed in new initiatees Ethel Shockley, Naomi Burgos, Mary Alice Moyer, Dean Allison, and Joanne Bash.

Dues may also be paid to Hazel Smarr, treasurer, it was announced.

Tennis, Track Men In First Workouts

First ranking in the tennis ladder for 1951 were listed this week as Coach Kenneth Johnson's netmen started volleying for places on the 1951 tennis team. Blessed with four veteran lettermen back plus other vets of the game among old-and newer-classmen, the Scots' net chances look comparatively well.

The tennis ladder: Wes Miles, Clyde McCampbell, Kent Buser, Chesley Anderson, John Anderson, Glan Gage, Marshall England, Ed Scott, Dick Gardner, Andy Clark, Bill Faulkner, Jerry Knecht, George Roberts, Bob Osborne, Dick Leibold, and Bob Johnston.

A Small Group . . .

Coach John Davis' trackmen took their first official workouts of the season this past week with the runners taking to the woods paths and the fieldmen to the sawdust pits. Back to form a nucleus of the 1951 team are Walt English, Jimmy Thurston, and Harold Nairon in the sprints with newcomers Horace Beckwith, Bob Sprague, Bob Lynn, Jimmy Bang, Neale Pearson, Jack Maxwell; Bill Menges, Dave Helwig, Tom Kelly, Dick Kerr, Emerson Flurkey, Bob Sangster, and Jay Bright in the middle and long distances. Only hurdler out is Morris Taylor with both boardmen from last year gone.. Field event men out are George Kipp, Tasker Robinette, Ken Hammond, Ric Rogers, and Joe Bender.

the door. It was the Corporal of the Guard with a message from the captain who wanted a little heat in his rooms. Ralph remained adamant until something was done about the guards. The next day there were no guards.

Things Became Hotter

With that beginning things became hotter. He soon had his hands full discovering fires, a total of twelve having occurred during his time here, with the most climatic being the Voorhees Chapel fire. Most of the others were minor ones such as this: A Baldwin girl who was cooking (illegally) with alcohol spilled the alcohol and set fire to the curtains and shade. For such fires as this, the college used to have a fire department which had regular drills by running up the fire-escapes with hose.

Rules Again

As usual, every time I am with an oldtimer, the discussion turns to old rules. It seems that with the strict ruls of those days, they were even stricter in enforcing them. The demerits that were given for dancing were even given if two girls were caught dancing with each other. Lights out at ten meant just that since they were controlled by a master switch in the heating plant.

Freshman girls could only go to town once a week during the day, and seniors had only two parlor dates a month. When Mrs. Worley was head of Baldwin she often used the reverse side of the old regulation sheets as sign-out sheets. One girl wanted a copy for herself, which straightway was passed around the dorm as the new regulations. Quite a row ensued afterwards.

Baldwin grils seemed to have more than their share of excitement. Another time, a girl going towards the chapel asked, "Say Mr. Irwin, where are you going?"

"I'm right starting to Pearsons."

"Let's have some fun going to Pearsons. You drag me by the arm, and I'll cry."

Thus it happened. And the next morning every girl in Baldwin wanted to know who it had been that Ralph dragged in.

You know doubt are wondering by now, as I did, why all of Ralph's anedotes are about girls. It seems that most of the items about the fellows are unprintable. We don't print that which is printable, however, because we wish to stifle the aspirations of the freshmen. After much probing, a little information on the boys was divulged. Take a back seat, fellows. There is very little variety in the stunts accomplished during the years. You do have perserverance, though, for it seems that some of you have stayed up half the night to determine Ralph's rounds.

At the risk of being ridiculed by those who have successfully accomplished a coup de maitre, it should be pointed out that Ralph has no special rounds. Only during the first inspection of the buildings each evening does he follow a schedule. After that—well, he can't be everywhere, but he certainly gets around.

One night he was walking along the road which used to connect the one by Pearsons with the one past the bookstore, when someone whistled behind him. The whistle sounded again. The fellow recognized Ralph as he turned around and fled. As Ralph leaned up against a tree a girl came up and said, "Get away before the night-watchman catches you."

Yes ,these anecdotes and many others which you already know are the ones which will become the legend of Ralph. And years from now, as you bounce Sonny on your knee, you will tell him about the time you escaped or got caught by Ralph during an escapade which will add to the legend of Ralph.

Austin Of UN Says Educated People Carry Load

Warren Austin, chie f US delegate to the United Nations, declared recently, "There was never a time in history when organized education carried a heavier responsibility than at the beginning of this half of the twentieth century. We shall need all the knowledge and leadership and wisdom we can muster to preserve civilization and apply the body of knowledge to the improvement and welfare of mankind.

"The polls. . . show conclusively that university-trained people take a more realistic and informed position on world affairs than those with less educational background. USMC Enlistment Team. Doctor Visit

The Marine Corps Officer Procurement Team will visit the campus on the 29th and 30th of March, it was announced in a release received by the ECHO this week from the Nashville headquarters. The purpose of the visit will be to interview interested men.

A Navy doctor will examine men who have applied for either Platoon Leaders Class or Officers Candidate school at that time.

Student Prince Played At Monday German Club

Fannie Weber will play records of "The Student Prince" and present a commentary on them to German Club Monday at 6:45 in Thaw 206.

At the last meeting, Mr. Pieper, Associate Professor of Political Science, spoke on the "Importance of Present Day Germany." Some of the salient features were the complicated political relations between Germany and her neighbors, the fact of no definite policy for Germany after the war, and the position of divided Germany as a buffer state in the present situation.

Theta Features "Beau"

Theta Epsilon will meet tonight at 6:30 in Theta Hall. A take-off on the "Sweethearts of Alpha Sig" will be given when Theta's Beau and Four Arrows are presented. The Beau and Arrows were chosen in an election held last Wednesday. Jackie Smith and Stan Ray have charge of the program.

Radio Workshop Airs Schweitzer's Life, Service

Monday night over station W-G-A-P, Y Radio Workshop will present "Prophet in the Wilderness," a transcribed narration and dramatization of the life of Albert Schweitzer, musician, doctor, and minister. It will describe his service in Africa.

The poetry to be used in the program was written by Bill Starr and Barbara Blum; the soloist will be Betty Hammers, accompanied by Jean Ellis; and the program is under the direction of Barbara Blum.

Dean Says Divorce Aids College Flunk

Retarded reading and broken homes are among the main causes for students' failures in college, Prof. Frank R. Hunt, dean of students at LaFayette College, says after a three-year study of reasons for failures.

Dean Hunt asserts that too many students arrive at college with inadequate preparation, a limited vocabulary, and a general inability to comprehend issues from the printed page. The remedy, he says, is smaller classes, more teachers, a more careful selection of those planning to prepare for college and more personal attention to those students.

As for home environment, Prof. Hunt says that the great increase in the divorce rate since World War I has resulted in many students in college from broken homes. The common results of the student's emotional reaction from broken homes is inability to concentrate on the work at hand, the dean holds.

Loss of Security

His study has shown that such a student has lost his sense of security, is frequently torn between loyalty to one or both parents, is ill at ease in accepting invitations from friends to visit their homes because he cannot reciprocate, and often feels responsible for the financial support of his mother.

Other reasons isted for failures include financial factors, inability to work independent of supervision and lack of experience in using the freedom which is found in college life.

Honaker Honored At Banquet, Gets '51 Buick From His Former Athletes

By Neale Pearson

Coach Lombe S. Honaker was honored by alumni from all over the country in a big banquet held at Chilhowee Inn last Saturday night with the ceremonies which were in honor of the venerable MC coach being climaxed with the presentation of a new '51 Buick and a check for nearly a thousand dollars to be spent on a vacation trip.

The banquet which started as a spontaneous thing was the brain child of Tom West, Maryville Used-Car Dealer and Jim Holloway, local businessman, both of whom played for MC many years ago. The movement spread like wildfire through the Alumni-athletes of MC after a slow start and was climaxed with the "big feed" last week-end which was attended by some 150 of his ex-students.

Dunn Not Dunning

Entitled "the 30th Chapter" of The Honaker Story the program was master-ceremonied through masterfully by Maynard Dunn, local alumnus who was the first of many former MC athletes to add their eulogies to Maryville's thirty - years - of - service coach. Cracking jokes in a very lively manner, MC Dunn set the stage for the main speaker—or more serious speaker, Dr. Lea Callaway—by panning the many guests there and reading telegrams—some fictitious, some actual—from various athletes of the past who, though not being able to make it, send their regards for the occasion.

Callaway Stresses Purpose

Dr. Callaway, captain of the 1931 team which won five, lost two, and tied two, and a practicing physician in Maryville emphasized "the unanimity" of the project as compared to the dissention faced in many local matters such as schols, churches, etc. In a talk entitled "The Kickoff," Dr. Callaway gave a brief and interesting history of Coach Honaker's life with its added sidelights and touches and how he was induced to come to Maryville by one Dr. McMurray who was president of Lincoln College in Illinois where formerly both had been—one as president and the other as coach. His speech, he summed up in the lines, "We're here to honor (our coach) for what he's done—the instilling of the principles of the way of life for which he stands and which is what counts."

McClelland For College

After a brief kidding by MC Dunn, Dr. Frank McClelland "took the witness stand" in telling "What The College Thinks Of Its Coach." As head of the Faculty Committee on Athletics, Dean McClelland expressed the college's gratitude for what Coach Honaker had done in his thirty years on the Hill and that the College wished he could stay more."

"The Man Of The Hour" was then presented and master-of-ceremonies Dunn was made to eat some of his own words by the ever-ready Honaker who confessed that he hated "to admit that what was going on before everyone was one of his pupils" and then proceeding to add a few other remarks at which everyone laughed.

Coach Honaker Ready-Wit

Coach Honaker then proceded to give another history of his life and also to explain—probably one of the very few times he has done so—his philosoohy of life and why he was at Maryville College. His "parents had thought he might become a preacher" and the "idea must have stuck" to him. His aim was that he "might show his boys a way of life—which would entail some hard

Theta Alpha Phi Initiates Series Of 'Great Moments'

First in a series of three radio broadcasts, "Great Moments in Drama" was presented last Thursday evening at 9:30 over local WGAP by the Tennessee Delta chapter of Theta Alpha Phi. An adaptation of the Elizabethan "Shoemaker's Holiday" was dramatized.

Directed by Mrs. W. Curtis Hughes, fraternity sponsor, the play was narrated by Allan Caldwell. Theta Alpha Phi members taking part in the show were Bill Starr, Joe Poland, Arch Swarztrauber, Phyll Jackson, Jim Dance, Jim Townsend, George Barber, Dave Reed; and Kathleen Craven, MC drama director.

Trio Presents Program To YM

The Y.M.C.A. will meet Sunday, March 18, in Bartlett Hall at 1:30 p.m. A girls' trio from the Second Presbyterian Church of Knoxville will present the program. The members of the trio are Almeeda Beeler, Ruth Love, and Mary Lee Moser. They are popular among many of the churches and Y groups of Knoxville.

They will sing several religious numbers such as "Faith, Hope and Love," "Lift Thine Eyes," "God So Loved the World,' "O Saviour of the World," and "Great Is Love."

Corp. Eaddy, USA, Leads Camp Choirs

Conrad Eaddy, ex-'52, has recently been promoted to rank of Corporal and is now stationed at Camp Lejeune, N.C. Eaddy is a member of the permanent personnel staff at the camp in addition to being assistant director of the Chapel Choir.

He will direct 'The Seven Last Words" on Good Friday and an Easter Sunrise Service which is being presented jointly by the Camp Lejeune Band, Chapel Choir, Midway Park Chorus, and the high school choirs.

Eaddy, a voice major from St. Petersburg, Fla., was a member of the Vesper Choir.

Caldwell Speaks On French Easter At Club

Allan Caldwell will speak on "Easter in France" as part of a Holy Week program at French Club meeting in Miss Wilkinson's classroom at 6:40 Thursday, March 22.

Ken Garrison, president, has announced that there will also be an important business meeting at that time.

Foreign Students Speak At IRC

A program centered around "Impressions of Democracy at Work" featuring foreign-born students as speakers will be presented at International Relations Club Monday, March 19, at 6:40 in Thaw 214.

Describing their impressions of this country will be In Sun Kim, Korea; James Bang, China; Roger Padron, Cuba; Luis Amando Divas, Guatamala; and Bent Oleson, Denmark.

Lloyd Leads Y On Catholicism

Dr. Lloyd will speak at YWCA tomorrow at 1:30 in the library on "The Roman Catholic Church in America".

Question boxes were placed in dormitory lobbies this week in which any questions which girls may have were deposited. Dr. Lloyd will attempt to answer the questions during the meeting.

Carrick, Harris Read

At Writers' Workshop next Wednesday afternoon, the readers will be Lucy Carrick, criticized by Carol Corbett, and Ruby Jean Harris, criticized by Mary Lyerly.

The meeting is held at 4:30 p.m. in Dr. Hunter's classroom.

Alpha Sigma Hears Kren-Moore Performers

Alpha Sigma will meet in Thaw 214 tonight at 6:00. The program for tonight will feature Jim Kren, Jack Moore and their company of fun makers. There will be fun and frolic for all. so all old and new members are urged to attend.

Recasting, Crews Announced; Play Begins Rehearsals

By Trudy Furman

The role of Batrice for the commencement play, "Much Ado," was recast to Katherine Blackburn, junior biology major from Knoxville, this week. Other women's roles tentatively recast are Hero, Joan Titley; Margaret, Jo-Anne Edwards; and Ursula, Mary Ann Hicks. Rehearsals for the play started Thursday evening in Bartlett.

Asst. Director, Managers

Phyllis Jackson, senior psychology major from Boston, Mass., will be assistant director of the production. Art VanAlstyne, sophomore English major from Pittsburgh, will be stage manager.

House manager is Austin Van Pelt. Stage assistants will be Bill Starr, Joe Poland, Lou Masters, and Lou Packard. Scenery committee will be Bobby Porter, chairman; Dorothy Greenhagen, Grace Myers, Walt Elwood, Hugh McSpadden, George Caldwell, Norma Lou Loetz, and Carl Drescher.

Barbara Blum will head properties committee with Gloria Hineman, Sara Jo Emert, and Ruth Nicholas as her assistants. The Lighting Committee will be headed by Dan Dunbar, chairman. Others on the committee will be Joe Stater, Hugh McSpadden, and Bob Green.

Tickets, Publicity, Costumes

Tickets committee will be composed of Joan Titley, chairman; Ruth Nicholas, Jim Dance. Bill Starr, and Mary Wilkes. Louise Packard will be the chairman of the Publicity committee. Working with her will be Austin Van Pelt, Ken Rutherford, and Dan Dunbar. Costumes committee will be Joanne Edwards, chairman; Lou Masters, Barbara Blum, Cliff Church, Jim Dance, Dot Greenhagen, Mary Wilkes, and Mary Ann Hicks.

Grace Myers will be the Prompter.

Y's Present Easter Pageant

An Easter play will be presented by YM and YW the evening before Easter, March 24, in the Alumni Gym. The play follows the Bible story, and includes the people involved in it—the disciples, Pilate, Mary, and the women.

'As You Like It' Opens Dorms, Gym, Rec Center

Arch Swarztrauber, Social Board chairman, has announced an "As You Like It" program for tonight which will feature a variety of activities. The evening will be "with absolutely no reflection towards any event in theatrical history; any resemblance to anything Shakespearean is purely accidental," said Swarztrauber.

Open Parlors and Swimming

Parlors in Pearsons, Baldwin, and Memorial will be open from 7:30 p.m. until 10:15 p.m. for social dating. The Student Center will be open for all its regular activities and the Y Store will be open all evening for business.

Shuffleboard equipment will be available in Bartleit Hall. Intramural Gym will be available for basketball and other sports.

The week-end activities was originally planned to take care of those who did not go on the Y hike which has been postponed due to weather conditions.

Due to the fortunate thinking and fast work of those concerned, George Barber who is in charge of the Intramural Swimming meet consented to have the meet moved up to tonight. The big splash will start at 7:30 and will also feature two challenge races in the 150 yard medley and 200 freestyle between Athenian and Alpha Sigma in the "Wallowing Duck Classic." Points will be awarded on the same basis as in the regular events to those who finish.

There will be clown diving by Bo Henry and Don MacDonald. Theta and Bainonian will clash in a relay. A combined relay of Theta-Alpha Sig vs. Ath-Bains will be included.

Piano Recital Given Tuesday

There will be a two-piano and concerto recital next Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

The two concertos to be given are the quasi adagio and allegretto vivace from Liszt's Concerto No. 1 in E flat major, played by Louise Lloyd, and the andante sostenuto from Saint-Saen's Concerto in G minor, op. 2, played by June Hood. Miss Davies will take the orcehstral part on a second piano.

Randal LeQuire and Patricia Laing will play the Allegro by Hadyn-Samuelson; Sara Drum and Jesie Lyons, the Grand Valse Caprice by Engelman; Larry Wallace and Miss Davies, the Andante by Chaminade; Lesta Merrick and Lena McGaha, the Scherzo from A Midsummer Night's Dream by Mendelssohn-Phillip; Patricia Lovette and Dorothy Wells, the Allegro Brilliant by Low; George Carpenter and Barbara Sandos, the Romance in E flat major by Rubinstein-Scionti, and Ann Hoover and Mary Beth McIndoe, the Lobster Quadrille from the Alice in Wonderland Suite by Simmons.

Watch For Them

Watch for them! They will appear in the April 7th edition of the HIGHLAND ECHO. Miss MC and the Bachelor of Ugliness were elected this week by an ECHO-appointed committee. It may be you, you, or even you!

V Radio Presents Crucifixion Story

The Y Radio Workshop, Monday night at 9:30 over WGAP, will present "Jesus Through the Eyes of Those Who Knew Him," a series of dramatic monologues given by the followers and accusers of Jesus, telling the story of the crucifixion, and connected by a musical background.

Bill Starr is the director of the program.

FAC Dedication Scheduled; Nat'l. Figures Invited

President Ralph W. Lloyd announced this week that the Fine Arts Center will be dedicated on Baccalaureate Sunday afternoon, May, following thre days of Fine Arts Festival.

It is expected that the donors, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Alfred Lloyd, of Chicago, will be here and perhaps will speak at the occasion. Other prominent speakers are being invited. Definitely accepting the College's invitation thus far are Dr. Paul Calvin Payne, Philadelphia, General Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education; Mr. John Walker, Chief Curator, National Art Gallery, Washington, D. C.; Mr. Doyle Price, Murray, Ky., President of the National Association of Schools of Music. Other invited have not yet confirmed their acceptance.

On Saturday, May 12, there will be held for high school seniors competitions in piano and voice for scholarship awards. These scholarships awards are made possible by funds provided by friends of the College and will give material assistance toward expenses at Maryville College. At the same time a scholarship award will be made in art to that high school senior who is adjudged to have submitted the best example of work in art.

Artists See "Hobbies"

"Hobbies Across the Sea", a color film featuring "Sunday Painters" was shown by the Art Department last Thursday night in the chemistry lecture room. The film was loaned to the department by the Museum of Modern Art, N. Y. C.

Proffitt Speaks At Vespers

David W. Proffitt, national president of the National Council of Presbyterian Men, will be the guest speaker at tomorrow night's regular Sunday Vesper service.

Mr. Proffitt is a Maryville graduate and his present position on the Council is the highest office a Presbyterian layman can hold.

Flood Presented As Theta Beau

Charlie Flood, senior biology major from Mannasquan, N.J., was elected Theta Beau last week during balloting held by the society. He was presented to the girls last Saturday evening during ceremonies held in Theta Hall.

Arnie Munn, Bob Mizelle, Andy Clark, and Bob Proffitt were elected Theta Arrows in the same election. Gerry Hopkins, Theta president, pinned Flood with a Theta bow. Each of the boys wore boutennaires. Escorting the Arrows were Sara Jo Emert, Millie Coper, Hazel Wood, and Helen Miller.

Nancy Ferguson, Maree Richards, Stan Ray, Ann Hoover, Mary Beth McIndoe, and Edie McMillan, mistress of ceremonies, took part in the program.

COMING SOON—

Third in the '50-51 Artist Series will be the concerts given by the North Texas State College Choir. The date will be March 29; admission will be by activity card plus a small fee.

Date Moved Up To April 14

By Dick Newman

"My Blue Heaven" was announced this week as the theme of the Athenian-Bainonian sponsored Spring Formal to be held on Saturday, April 14. Dance chairmen are Lou Masters and Hazel Holm of Bainonian and George Barber and Tom Kees of Athenian.

The setting involved with the theme will include a penthouse motif. Music chairman is Bob Moser and music will be provided by a student dance band. Other committees have not yet been named.

Dancing From 8

Hours of the formal will be from 8 till 11 p.m. Dress is formal, but tuxes are not required. Corsages are permissable, but their cost must not exceed $3.

Athenian and Bainonian are sponsors of this spring's formal, according to the Social Board policy of alternating major dances between societies. They will also sponsor the Fall Dance next semester, and Theta and Alpha Sigma will be in charge of next year's Spring Formal.

Ruth Nicholas is current Bainonian oresident; Athenian's head is Archie Swarztrauber.

Bainonians Review Old Days With Leitch

Bainonian girls will meet tonight at 6:30 in Bainonian Hall for a presentation of the early days of Bainonian. Isabel Leitch, in charge of the program, will make use of a manuscript prepared in 1913 by a charter member member of the society.

Plans for a banquet and the spring formal will be discussed at this meeting.

Barker Speaks On Japan At Vols

Bob Barker of Princeton Seminary will be the guest speaker at Student Vols tomorrow night after Vespers.

Barker, who spent three years in Japan under the J-3 program, will tell of his experiences with the students in that country. He will supplement his talk with colored slides.

Dick Ribble will sing "The Lord's Prayer" and Charlie Reid will play the piano. Others on the program include Joan Platt, John Shew, Al McCullough and Don Stilwell.

Sisk Speaks At MAA, Nashville

Dr. and Mrs. Augustus Sisk are attending the meeting of the Mathematical Association of America at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, on March 16, 17.

Dr. Sisk was in charge of Section C yesterday and will speak today at the morning section. His subject will be "Poles and Polars With Respect to a Triangle" with an application.

Dr. Sisk has his Ph. D. from Cornell University and is listed in "Who's Who in American Men of Science" and "Who's Who in American Education."

Broadway Has Dancing

Broadway Methodist Church will feature square dancing this Tuesday night from 7:15 p.m. Mr. Kleinsasser is the caller.

R. C. Thom announces that all college young people are welcome.

Dining Hall Crew Gather For Annual Party, Fun

Pearson's dining hall crew and their dates will gather Tuesday evening for their annual party in the main dining room. Al Shakely is in charge of the program and will be assisted by Lou Masters and Murt Kennedy.

'MacKenzie Report' Reveals Dating Habits Of Maryville Male, Female

By R. Carson Seeley

Even with the possibility of future repercussions, we will present the results of a Maryville College dating census taken by Mrs. A. F. Pieper in conjunction with her "Marriage and the Family" class. The Highland Echo is the only publication which will publish the data.

When we first received this information by the survey, we immediately thought of giving it to our favorite publishing house. After looking it over, however, we perceived what we thought would be the answer. "It can't be true. It's not what the Kinsey report says."

But here are the astounding results: the startling revelations which will rock Maryville on its heels, and shake it to its very foundations. Before presenting them, though, we wish to relate the basis on which the percentages are founded.

Among the fellows, 70 of the 113 freshmen, 72 of the 99 sophomores, 46 of the 84 juniors and 64 of the 96 seniors were tested. Among the girls, 94 of the 118 freshmen, 85 of the 101 sophomores, 72 of the 76 juniors and 50 of the 60 seniors were tested. This gives us a grand total of 559 of the 774 students, or approximately 75% of the student body.

Figures Are Dull

If one examines the figures, it is easy to see why a publishing house would not be interested in the basic facts. The chart shows that the percentage of students dating occasionally (at least twice this semester) decreases as the students advance from freshman to seniors. Likewise, the percentage of students dating regularly (with different people) decreases as the students advance.

Now if one wanted to make figures falsify, we could stop here where we only present half the case, and say, "See, the students date less and less as they progress. Evidently they realize why they originally came to college, and study more and more."

The percentage of students going steady, and the percentage engaged increases as the students progress. The percentage of girls not asked for dates also increases, but what this indicates has not yet been evaluated. Since this fact seems to run counter to the other facts mentioned, we will just disregard it.

Shades of Nancy O. (Read L'il Abner if you don't know who she is.) There are even girls who by preference don't date. Fortunately for the fellows, this percentage decreases through the years.

Few Conclusions Drawn

Not many conclusions can yet be inferred from the data showing the students' date preferences by classes. To do this much elaborate and complicated investigation must be done, so here are just a few superficial observations.

Girls seem to prefer dating fellows in their own classes. With the fellows it is somewhat different. The freshmen very definitely stay in their own class. The sophomores are equally enthusiastic about freshman and sophomores. The juniors have no preference, and the seniors prefer freshmen.

SATURDAY, MARCH 17, 1951

Time—Gone—

"Time, when time is past, is not time." The old proverb deserves the college student's serious thought somehow, since time is something which is getting away from most of us too fast.

We all hear the excuse, "But I didn't have time to do the assignment" or "I had so much else to do that there just wasn't any time left to read that." We have all at some time or another offered it in rationalization. As poor, misguided students, we find that our schedule is so crowded that it is impossible to do daily assignments.

No one can tell someone else how long to spend with his books, or how long to sepnd on the tennis curts, or how much time to spend with his heart interest, but one can be reminded of the fact that each day has only twenty-four hours, each one of which can be used for something constructive.

It is common knowledge that each one's day should be adequately divided to cover the three main portions of one's needs: academic, social, and personal or spiritual. The conscientous student—and there is such a creature—has no definite schedules, but does apportion his time, allowing enough for each phase. If he is a slow student, he will not carry as heavy a load of outside activities as to keep him from spending the proper amount of time studying. At the same time he does not carry so much academic work as to ball and chain him to his text books. Finding the proper balance, here he will also not neglect his spiritual life.

It is a wise student who knows himself and, by this introspection, can determine his own course.

Council—

The possible exclusion of the Quickway Restaurant on Broadway and the Dubby's Grill on Ellis Street from student bounds was discussed Wednesday night at the regular meeting of Student Council. This request has been made by the Student-Faculty Senate following reports of questionable behavior on the part of patrons of these places.

Council voted to support the proposed action of the Student-Faculty Senate in putting the two out of bounds. Possible inclusion of College Hill Grille in Town Night bounds was also discussed.

Miller and Stanley Avenues necessarilly would be added to the list of in-bounds streets if such action was taken.

Discussion of the relationship of the Homecoming Queen to the Alumni Association which foots the expense connected with the queen was also heard.

One Town Night violation was reported as overstaying the privilege and the penalty of two month suspension of privileges was applied.

Old Man Weather Strikes Again

Old Man Weather sure proved to those guys and gals that thought spring was just around the corner that they had another tihnk coming! Several of the gals were heard to remark, however, that they were wearing those spring bonnets no matter what.

Themes, themes, themes. . .

Now that their term research papers have been handed in, the members of the freshman English classes can breathe a sigh of relief. No more staying up until 6:00 A.M. in the morning like two little girls named Ginny Smith and Ann Taylor were reputed to have done.

Those Naughty Boys

We hear that the Athenians played quite a mean trick on a sophomore girl at their meeting last week. How about that, Frankie? ? ?

Mix-up

Now that the Farmer's Banquet is over, the dining hall crew can start looking for last trays, coffee pots, pitchers, etc. Oh, well, it comes but once a year. . . .fortunately.

Pretty Pictures

Mr. Kolter had just instructed one of his biology classes to draw full-page drawings of the three legs of the Honey Bee. Trying to spur the class on to working harder, he said very seriously, "I want to see some pretty legs now."

"Why, Mr. Kolter," Don Moffett cracked, "why don't you just look under the table."

Speaking of biology, we hear that the frog Peggy Hurst drew the other day had a pair of diapers on? ? Mother Nature thinks up something new all the time.

Love is in love

Pat Love has a new, sparkly diamond on the fourth finger of her left hand from that nice guy, Jim Kren. Congratulations!

Ready for the asylum

Do you need a companion? Contact Bill Baldwin. Bill has a companion named Harvey who is with him at all times. The only funny thing about it is that nobody is able to see Harvey but Bill. Bill insists that Harvey is the best friend he ever had and maybe he is right at that. . . .

There are a few people who would like to know if Don Merwin has a license to sell licenses. Don't ask us what that one means.

Pay 'tention, Girls. . .

One of the biggest surprises was when Coach Honaker was awarded a big box with an orchid in it for his wife fro mone of his former athletes. The telegram accompanying it said, "Any woman that could live with him for thirty years certainly deserves something."

This and That

They said that Virginia Davenport's speech in English the other day really had a terrific introductory joke. Speaking of speeches, Marshall England really gave a convincing speech on, "Why I Should Be President of Maryville College." He ought to take the matter up with the board of directors. Ethel Shockley ran against him, promising that if she were elected, English would be done away with, and Miss Blair would be renamed Ralphetta to take the place of Ralph. . . .

Picnic in the snow

The BSU "snow picnic" at Laurel Lake the other night was a uhge success. George Carpenter was in charge of the entertainment. Trying to teach the group some new folks dances, he was telling the boys how to find their partners. "Remember," George said, "you move up 4 steps and the girl that you land on is your partner." The dancing had to be discontinued until after the laughter had subsided.

Early Birds

It seems that a little freshman gal named Tish Buchanan went home to Pittsburgh for the week-end. Her plane left at 3:30 a.m. Thursday morning. Getting ready to go out to the waiting cab, she found that she was being escorted by all of first floor Memorial. The girls grouped around the cab song, during the wee hours of the morning, "We're sorry you're going away." It must be wonderful to have so much vim and vigor.

Roads and Signs . . .

Flash

If you see a human Flash Gordon streaking around the campus, it's only "Bugs" Ebright, who rings the bells. Tthe other day, Bugs was streaking out of Fayerweather toward Anderson when George Day stopped him and held a strong grip on him. Bugs, realizing that he had to ring that bell, shouted in a loud voice, "Help, help." His pleas brought many students to the windows but no offers of assistance.

TALK OF THE WEEK

By Art Alstyne

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

THE POPCORN CIRCUIT

Town Night this week is the one you've been waiting for—if you have some back work to catch up on in the library. The film classic dragged out for then at the Capitol is something called "To Please A Lady," and although it may be designed for that, it actually doesn't manage to please much of anybody.

Clark Gable stars in this MGM offering, although it's somehow not the same Gable we know from older-and-better pictures. Barbara Stanwyck does the female honors as the correspondent who denounces and then falls in love with racing car driver, Gable.

Almost good are some shots at the Indianapolis Speedway, if one goes in for that sort of thing. But for love scenes, we advise watching the couple in the row ahead; Gable and Stanwyck just don't have it, or if they do, they are saving it for some other time.

"The Sleeping City" is Park's Tuesday-Wednesday bill, and involves a story of Manhattan's Belleview Hospital. Richard Conte plays the detective-disguised-as-intern tracking down a murderer who stumbles on, or, really, falls over, a little traffic in narcotics.

Rather than call in the Kefauver Committee, Conte cleans things up himself, but from the way it's all handled, perhaps the junior senator from Tennessee should have been at least consulted.

Probably to keep the real Belleview people happy, at the beginning of the thing, Conte announces that it all never happened. But he doesn't need to, really; by the second scene, everybody has guessed. Worth seeing though, are some impressive shots of the NYC skyline. And if you can't see the inside of Belleview any other way, this may be the picture for you.

Miss Stanwyck apparently likes her Monday-Tuesday stand at the Capitol, for she sticks around till Wednesday to do appropriately enough, "The Other Love" with David Niven. It's a better job than with other love Gable; maybe she needed practice.

Thursday and Friday the Park shows John Ford's "Wagonmasters", a high-class shoot-'em-up about the Mormon's trip West, and, to add a new twist, the outlaws who try to stop them.

Those same days at the Capitol brings John Wayne and "Knoxville's Own" Patricia Neal in "Operation Pacific". Only Wayne's appeal to the women carries him through, and even Knoxville wouldn't claim Miss Neal after the way she messes this up.

It's a pretty sad story to begin with, sort of a love versus duty thing. Wayne jumps back and forth between sailing a submarine and trying to hang on to his marriage. Things with "Knoxville's Own" finally work out alright, but life in the sub gets pretty corny, in a melodramatic sort of way.

QUIET ZONE

Several titles of special interest are on the new book table in the library this week. And, incidentally, back on the main desk is the little black book for students 'suggestions for new library additions. Student opinion is taken into consideration with the ordering of new books, and here is the opportunity for the serious saying of what you think the library ought to have.

New this week are J. Ramsey McCallam's "Abelard's Christian Theology"; "Court Is In Session," "Typical trials that demonstrate the administration of law and justice in the USA," compiled by Isaac Levy and Bernard Smolens.

For the frilly apron department is "You Can Cook If You Can Read" by Muriel and Cortland Fitzsimmons, which gives general "how to" instructions as well as recipes. In the same line, and, we guess, still supposing that she can read, is something called "Cookies and More Cookies" which is precisely that.

If that reading part is still a problem, there's "Directing Learning in the Language Arts" by Mildred Dawson and Frieda Dingee. Dr. Dawson is formerly of UT's elementary education faculty, and both authors, at the time of writing, were connected with the Kingston, N.Y., public school system.

New also is "The Ciano Dairies, 1939-43," "the complete diaries of Count Ciano, Italian Minister of Foreign Affairs". The book is edited by Hugh Gibson, and Sumner Wells does the introduction.

Quite significant is "The 'God That Failed," a collection of statements by six well-known converts to Russian Communism, who have now left the party and its support. Their stories and reasons, considering their motives in the first place, make fascinating reading and provide much insight into the understanding of a real and current problem.

Letter To The Editor-

To the Editor of the HIGHLAND ECHO:

In response to the letter in this week's ECHO written by one with a purple passion for anonymity, let me place a plea for an attempted interracial school system wherever in these United States there are students left with enough intestinal fortitude to give their all into backing such a project. Of course there will be difficulties to iron out, but has it not been solely through struggle that progress has been made in this world of ours? Perhaps our anonymous friend is right in stating that anyone who claims Christian belief would agree that racial equality is an ideal, and no doubt, in his eyes, Christianity is likewise.

But to a Christian (not one who claims to be but is) racial equality is as much a reality as is Christianity. And it need only be a reality in the hearts of a good number of men and women as long as the Mr. and Mrs. Anonymouses of our society continue to hold the upper hand. As true justice is attempted willingly by society, interracial education shall become a physical reality—and it need not take the next hundred years!

Very truly yours,
Bill Deihl.

To The Editor:

Last Sunday night at our Vesper service we were presented with what I thought was a very fine program. I daresay though that some of the ideas of the young men made me stop and wonder. This letter is not being written with a critical mind, because I number the above mentioned men as two of my closest friends and respect them for their views; but I would like to present another aspect of a many-sided story. I will go along with the thought that we should pray for our enemies, but I'd like to add that we should also slip in a few prayers for our own boys. The times I have heard their welfare mentioned in public prayer on this campus have been few and far between.

Let's try to get a picture of our enemies by starting with the recent world war. There are just a few places I would like to mention; you can take it from there. The Warsaw ghetto, Poland as a whole (the death toll was in the hundreds of thousands— mostly plain murder), Buchenwald, Dachau, the Bataan death march. From my own experiences comes the following incident. One afternoon in the Pacific, my ship was a blazing wreck after a suicide plane atack. We survivors were helpless in the water, waiting to be rescued when our enemies decided to have a little target practice. I regret to say that some of my shipmates weren't as lucky as I. You see, it's quite a feat to dodge airplanes with machine guns blazing when you're swimming around in the water—we didn't have a fox-hole to crawl into.

In the present war in Korea we have stories of our men with their hands tied behind their backs, shot in the forehead, a truckload of wounded having gasoline poured over them and a match put to it. Not a very pleasant thought, is it? No, I don't believe everything I read in the ●AIN'T MUCH TO TALK ABOUT this week save for the opening of baseball, tennis, and track seasons. After opening our big mouths and welcoming in spring last week as to its bright future—sun, etc. —the kiss of death seems to have been applied and everything has to retire indoors. We'll get this over with in a hurry and then go to the main business and gossip of the week—at least among the stronger sex.

BASEBALL—Biggest need of Coach L. S. Honaker is well, about everything. But the biggest holes are in the outfield, behind the plate, and corresponding necessities of having a good double-play combination—which is non-existent right now in fact but not in potentiality—and a good-hard-hitting outfielder to take up some of the slack. The team of Boring, K. Berrong, and Pentz reeled off nearly one dp a game last year to get MC pitchers out of holes and there is a big gap left open there. Coach Honaker is blessed though with the makings of a sound mound staff in Kren, Short, Campbell—may play first though—and Parks—thus, perhaps, a resulting throwback to the old Cincinnati Redstocking strategy of playing for one or two runs and then praying and fielding so that the other team gets one less. We will be surprised if any ten-and-fifteen run ball games turn up this year as a result of Orange and Garnet hitting power unless the pitching situation is "lousy" elsewhere. All of which means the pitchers are going to have to take the "90%" share "of the game" as Connie Mack once said.

TRACK—There isn't much accomplished right now save that the straightway is nearly finished on the far side unless the rains and snows do their dirty work—thus enabling MC to possibly have at least the races under 220 yards and corresponding events such as hurdles and jumps. An editorial now follows:

The Men's M Club took up the job early in the year of working on the track so that there might be one for track and cross country men to run on and also for the school to have such events. Feeling was very favorable the first few weeks for this and enthusiasm quite high for all "piling out" and working. But things have come to an impasse and only five-six guys are working steadily at the job when they have spare time—especially on Saturday when they could go out and admire the beauties of nature with members of the weaker sex or perhaps just to get a good snooze in the sun. No doubt, some one will say we are frustrated re, re above passages, and they are right.—School is out in only about a month and a half which means track season is here in two-three weeks and over in about that same length of time—with the track not fully done.

Of those five-six working right now, some two and three will get to race only once in their life on it—if finished—since they are seniors, but that is of no regard or point. Perhaps it is the modern trend of thinking for "rights" and not "repsonsibilities" and a "doing of a job just for the sake of doing it and not for the compensation—shekally—gained that is the cause of this.

And some of that small group which sometimes rises in number to eight or nine will NEVER get to RUN on the track in competition because they haven't got the ability or stuff to make good runners—but nevertheless they are helping out and putting in a good day's work. What we are getting around to is the fact—no longer seen very much—that WE ONLY GET out of life, or college, or anything else, that which we put into it.

Therefore, what we are getting around to in a blunt and somewhat dicatorial way is that more of these Men's M Club members are going to have to go out and put in "Sweat, blood, and cheers (for the others working also)" (trackmen, also, are being aimed at in this un-panegyric statement) if they wish to see the track built.

Perhaps, we may be so venal as to say "Let's get the Women's M Club out and do some work and perhaps more men may come out—either to assist or to watch." TENNIS.. . . Now that you have your ammunition loaded for the Letters To the Editor column, let us take a quick look at the tennis court, not Memorial Hall. The clay courts have been dragged down and after the sun comes out and re-dries them, Coach Johnson will finish the building of his racquet tet. What with a good nucleus of vets and novices with talent, it shouldn't be hard for him to pile up a long tenure as a successful coach.

Intramurals . . . commenting on it, though some people think comments ought to be restricted to said Intramural Column, we say congratulations to the winners of the Wrestling tourney—Bright, McCulloch, Sangster, Fleming, P. Merwin, King, and Patton and to sponsor-mentors Cameron, Palmer and Company. Experience showed up as the entrees of the classes who had had experience as "scrubs" won their wieghts against those without the added knowledge that comes from working out everyday. Volley-ball is also going high-strung, though perhaps not as fully as last year, but the Athenian Greeks with a good nucleus of last year's winning Olympics, the aging if not agile Faculty, the Alpha Sig Fardarters or Gassers—whatever it is this week, Flappers, and Hig Nips, the top teams. . . champeenship soon. . . . George Barber is running off a swimming meet today with a special feature added event in two races between Alpha Sigma and Athenian competitors. . . we would not say Barber was prejudiced but we look with sneaking suspicion at the list of swimming lettermen still around and also in a certain society which has Owls on its T shirts. . . anyway, it ought to be good for laughs, anyhow, . . . come out and see 'em.

FORMER MC ATHLETES HONOR THEIR COACH

Pictured above are some of the captains of Maryville athletic teams from the 1909 to 1951. They were part of a group of some 150 that were present at the honoring of Coach L. S. Honaker last Saturday night at Chilhowee Inn.

Left to right they are: Top row—Toots Blazer, John Stone, Dr. S. E. Crawford, Dr. Henry Callaway, Cotton Easter, J. A. Davis, Ray Keny, Marvin Mitchell, Joe Etheridge, Howard Davis, Arnold Kramer, Shorty McCall, Horace Clemens, Carl Storey, Ed Hamilton, William Crawford, Billy Overly; MIDDLE ROW—Scott Honaker, Dr. Hayes Williams, Joe Gamble, Harold Bird, Gobo Cartwright, Gene Reynolds, Jim Renfro, Dr. Hobart Ford, and Steve Boretsky. BOTTOM ROW—Dr. Lea Callaway, Charlie Allen, Jim Holloway, Coach L. S. Honaker and a box of grass (to be chewed on), Tom West, Madison Byar, Shorty Sneed, and Nig Wilburn.

Wrestlers' Record Tops; As Scot Matmen Win 5

MC Grapplers Finish 5-1-1 Season

What with the Intramural Wrestling Tournament over, Coach John A. Davis' wrestlers have hung up their leotards and head-gear satisfied that another season has been well done—to quote a phrase from last year's article of the same content.

MC's grapplers started off the 1950-51 season with no meets in 1950 and three lettermen to build around for the 1951 mat-chings.

Mocs Mastered

A road trip to Chattanooga opened up the grappling for the season and a soon-to-plague-MC weakness was discovered soon and was not solved till the end of the season. Bob Kees went for the Scots in the 123-pound bout and won it on a decision. J. A. Cameron picked up the first pin of season following Keys' first decision by taking a fall in the first period. Chesley Anderson and Jimmy Callaway couldn't repeat the feat but added six more points to the MC team score by winning non-close decisions.

The Weakness

MC's big trouble of the season showed up in the next bout as Coach Davis went back to his old two-plattoon system of last year except that in one case it was a triple plattoon usbstitution. Jim Frain, a 147-pounder went in the 155 class and lost—by reason of a forefeit when he forced his shoulder out of place. Don Benton, went twenty pounds out of class in a 167 bout and he, too, got into an unfortunate spot with Chattanooga's Bob Farmer pinning him in 2:19 of the second period.

Joe Poland's match in the 175 was the worst yet for dis-balance as the 157-er went against Chattanooga's Mickey Myers who took a crisp 9-2 decision.

Chattanooga had been lagging in team pointage for a while, but now was within winning range as the score stood 16-14, MC-Palmer went against Tom Drake in a heavyweight match which finally ended in a draw as both men had six points. MC had come through her opening match all right but it was the closest to an MC defeat since 1941-42 when Illinois Normal took a 22-8 opening date match. The big problem was now what to do in the heavier classes so as to pile up points in the lower brackets and have sufficient spread so that MC couldn't be overhauled.

Home Debut O.K.

The margin was spread a little as the home season was opened against a vastly-improved-over-last year Knox Y team which finally succumbed, 19-11. Bill Clarke and Kees won decisions with 6-point margins—the first in an exhibition match and the latter in the first regular home mat match. Bill Morse, subbing for resting Cameron, went for the first time this season in a 130-pound match. He showed much promise in dragging his opponent John Dennis all over the mat for three periods and then slapping a cross face armlock on him to finish it all. Don MacDonald, another rookie who developed greatly as the season progressed, performed the same stunt as did Morse in applying a double armlock to his Knox adversary in the second period. Joe Poland and Jimmy Callaway then took decisions in the '47 and '57 classes by way of shutouts. MC then began losing ground in the point spread as Knox Y's Richard Joiner and Dick Ottinger pulled a couple of re-copies in winning decision's over MC novices Squires and

Baseball Goes Back Inside For Practice

After the weather had taken a change for the better and spring baseball practice was moved to the fields behind Thaw, old man weather decided to throw a monkey wrench into the works, and, thus, baseball practice was moved back to the portals of Alumni and Intramural Gyms.

With the season's opener against Hiwassee or Maryville CIO some two weeks away, the cutting down process will begin to take place next week till a squad of from 16-20 is reached. Three games with Purdue University and Miami University of Ohio were called off because the Boilermakers and Redskins could not get games with the U-T Vols.

Biggest problem facing Coach L. S. Honaker is in the hitting department which may finally result in Jim Kren and Leaky Campbell—pitchers most of the time—playing in the outfield and

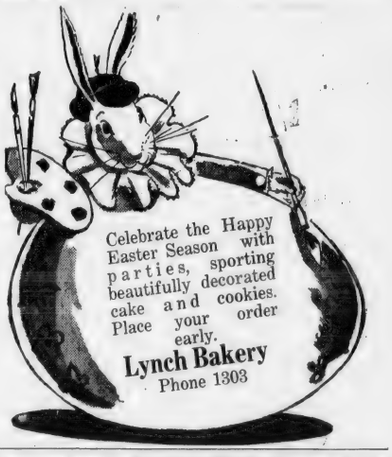
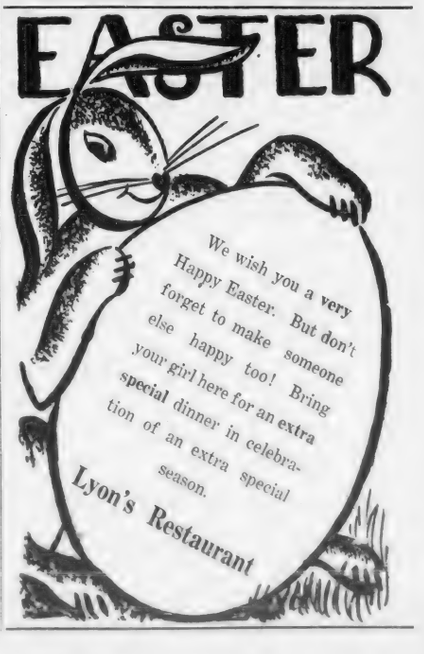
Track, Footballers Forced Inside

Coach John A. Davis' skimpy track squad was forced inside and off the cinder paths because of snow and cold this past week but conditioning to get in shape will be definitely stressed in the next few weeks for time trials on April 6. If work on the track is finished, the schedule will have added to it a meet with William Jennings Bryan of Dayton on May 3. As it stands now, the Scots first meet will be the Milligan Relays on April 21 and East Tennessee State at Johnson City on April 28. Chattanooga has dropped its meets for this year and will participate only in the state meet—the Mocs lacking sadly in the running events but very strong in field events.

As for spring football practice, which was advancing very good considering the setbacks from team losses and such, one or two more days of general fundamentals will be had with scrimmaging possibly next Tuesday and the annual Inter-squad game on the 30th.



Athletic Board Votes Letters



Cage-Matmen Get M's

The Executive Committee of the Athletic Association met Thursday in Bartlett to vote on letters for basketball and wrestling. Letters were awarded to cagers Ray Keny, Charlie Allen, Dick Abbott, Bert McMahon, Meano Shields, Dick Gardner, Bob McClelland, Stanley Downs, and Hugh Walker, manager.

Wrestlers awarded M's were Bill Morse, Chesley Anderson, Donald MacDonald, Joe Poland, Bob Proffitt, Jimmy Callaway, Herb Palmer, and J. A. Cameron.

In other business, Gene Russell was elected baseball manager for the season and Xen Motsinger re-elected track manager.

Honaker Story

work—that was worth living." And as he looked back upon the years, "the feeling that all these fellows turned out to be decent men leading decent lives gave him a feeling that life was something worthwhile." "Maryville College is not the buildings, athletic teams and such," he said, "but men like Dr. McMurray, Tracy Knapp, and others who gave all they had in a real way of life." Still retaining his inevitable sense of humor, he remarked that something must be fishy—either they expected he was going to die or retire—else it never would have happened."

Jim Holloway, co-sponsor of the idea, then spoke of the business which had to be transacted "since when such groups meet but once in thirty years, some business must be transacted." Credit was given to all those who were due—Tom West, especially, and the various heads of committees who worked on details of "The Thirtieth Chapter."

Holloway-West Speak

He in turn introduced Tom West who spoke on "The Results of the Game" and presented Coach Honaker with his new car keys and check—both of which were the "biggest surprise" of the latter's life. Another brief speech followed in which he stated again that they must have thought he was going to die, but that he was "going to fool (them)!"

Everyone then retired to a "Bull Session" in which memories were reminisced over, old friendships renewed and new ones made, and the new car looked over with appropriate comments made especially by those who were dealers of other makes of cars.

"An Opportunity"

When the banquet had slowly broken up, the 150-and up 'guests' wended their way home as they had come. "It was an opportunity and no one had forced them to come but they had come anyhow to honor their coach."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

papers about our enemies, but you see I have two brothers serving with the infantry in Korea and they have told me these things.

We went into Korea as part of the bargain we made in the UN pact that we would stand firm against any aggressor. The Chinese claim they came into protect their interests in Manchuria. So as a result we have another war going on that could possibly flare up into a conflagration that could be worse than all of the wars of this country put together.

Our chief problem then seems to be how we can stop a war in Korea and a potential World War III. I will very definitely go along with the idea that if all men would follow the teachings of Christ we would have peace, but with the "iron curtain" rung down and our missionaries having to leave China, even that does not seem feasible for the time being.

In World War II three nations tried to dominate the world and struck swiftly against the freedom-loving nations. After a long, hard struggle, tasting bitter defeat many times because we had been so ill-prepared, we were able to bring these powers to a final, crushing defeat. In the rehabilitation of these nations (and there is much more that can be done, but we are trying) we have been able to make friends with the former enemies. Missionaries by the dozens have gone into Japan; the Christian church once again can open wide its doors in Germany and Italy.

Alas, a power has risen in this world that has already made inroads on freedom-loving people. Here are a few things I think we should do if we are to stop World War III: 1) enact 18 year old draft plus UMT (really, it is better to have some good solid trainging behind you instead of the few weeks some of us had in the last war); 2) build the best possible potential war-making machine in all its aspects, such as newest techniques and weapons, plenty of equipment, a strong homedefense for any emergency, readying of our industries for quick conversion to an all-out effort. Please note that this is only a secondary idea for stopping the war. The best possible idea has been presented earlier in this letter, but as I said, it just doesn't seem feasible now. As for a continued reaching of the right hand of friendship out to the Communists, I'm afraid the "Big Red Bear" will take a bite out of it. Yes, I am quite sure preparedness will turn the trick plus continued victory in Korea.

As to the other things that were said during the latter part of the services, just these few remarks. Well, a general tightening up on the examiner's part will help to prevent cheating. Also when the same exam is given year after year, it only invites trouble. There are some few teachers who do this. An honor system may also help the situation. The references as to what goes on at 6:45 p.m. on the campus would have been better left unsaid. I think we have a very capable Student Council to cope with the problem, if there is one. You know, I kinda think Christ gets many a laugh out of the shananigans of our young men as they pursue fair young ladies on this campus. Talk about all-seeing eyes, we've got them. 'Nuf sed!

Sincerely,
Howard Lawson.

juniors, and seniors in that order.

On the general question of rules being strict, the men lead in every respect. More men than women think that the rules are too strict. More men than women also think that the rules are fair and adequate. Finally, there are more men who think the rules are just than men who tihnk the rules are unjust.

The fellows may be more cynical about the rules than women, but they are more benevolent to the opposite sex than the women are. Only one fellow, a senior, thought that the girls were too sheltered and immature.

Three of the girls thought that the men don't know how "to be just friendly," and five even thought that the men are awkward and backward socially.

Remember fellows! Appearances are deceiving. When Miss Blair, sometimes considered "the student's best friend," heard the above facts, she said, "Only five?"

Nothing About Much

Only about 2% of the students think that there should be more privacy. One fellow expressed the opinion that "natural affection (is) prohibited."

Concerning such matters as Sunday dating, and juniors having senior privileges, 3% expressed a hope that conditions would improve.

Not too much has been done to investigate the student body this year for communist infiltration. Considering all the publicity received by national organizations which are being investigated, we too, should have our witch hunt. After all, one student thinks there is too much displaying of affection on the campus.

Lastly we have the miscellany department. One sophomore thinks that dating is a waste of time, talent, and money, and one frosh is broke.

When the results of the census are viewed extensively, and the individual factors viewed intensively, it would appear reliable to assume that, in general, a certain group of Maryville students have at one time or another embraced a thought—if nothing else—of dating.

WRESTLERS WIN . . .

Cox. Bob Proffitt and Broneo Bailey of the Y went in the heavyweight match, but it did not last long enough to come to a decision as to the merits of the better man as Proffitt suffered a bad cut over his eye in the first period after only fifteen seconds of action when both wrestlers hit the floor coming off the mats.

Auburn Slashing

Two days later, a still-not-in-shape- though- they- should- have -been Scot team took on the Tiger wrestlers of Auburn on the MC mats. When it was all over, the technical institute boys had walked off with a 30-0 calcimation which wasn't as bad as it looked considering the matches wrestled. Don MacDonald and James Johns went in a prelim match which Johns won 5-4 by virtue of having three seconds more riding a sufficeable margin. Eddie Creseps then gave the first-though belated—portent of the future when he slammed a pin-hold on Kees in the second period and Sonny Dragoin piled a 6-0 win over Bill Morse, again going in the 130 class—but for an ailing-with-a-bad-cold Cameron. MC was trailing and thus Co-Capt. Chesley Anderson tried to bring the Scots back into contention by going for a pin against Auburn's Richard Belfonti—however, MC's 138 boy burned himself out in the third period and the Auburn rep picked up enough riding time to win. Robin Baker repeated the decision win in his 147 bout against Jimmy Callaway while Charlie Borum who had displaced him from his 157 spot gained a pin over MC's Poland with the count knotted at-all in the third period.

North Texas State College Choir will appear as last feature on 1950-1951 Artist Series, Thursday night, March 29.

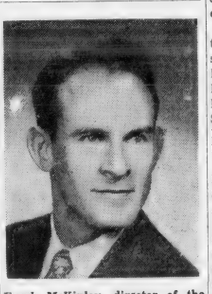
By Sally Brown

Maryville College Artist Series will present as its concluding number of the 1950-51 season the North Texas State College A Cappella Choir. The concert will be given in the Alumni Gymnasium at 8 p.m. on Thursday, March 29. Tickets at $1.20 each may be obtained at the door. All seats are reserved.

The 39-voice choir, under the direction of Frank McKinley, has toured in nine states and has made many appearances with symphony orchestras in addition to cutting an album of records for RCA Victor. Since its founding in 1938, this Denton, Texas, choir has won critics' recognition and hearty support from all listeners.

The choir's presentations which are divided into five groups will range from Bach to contemporary American folk music and ballads.

Bach's motet "Sing Ye to the Lord" comprises the first group. The second group includes Alcock's "Celestial Voices," Gretchaninoff's "Holy Radiant Light," and "Whoso Offereth Praise."



Scott, Johnson

Tom Scott's "The Prodigal Son" is the third group. Written for narrator and chorus, this work is built around one of the sermon's from "God's Trombones" by James Weldon Johnson.

The fourth group of the A Cappella Choir's tour repertoire contains folk songs and ballads, including "Shenandoah" as arranged by Bartholomew, Scott's "The Story of the Twelve" and "Go Down, Death," and Farwell's "The Mother's Vow."

The fifth group includes "Lonesome Valley" as arranged by Lynn, Kubill's "Creep Along, Moses" and "He's Goin' Away," and Farwell's "Navajo War Dance."

Conductor Frank McKinley, now in his sixth year with the North Texas State College Choir,

Frank McKinley, director of the North Texas State College A Capella Choir which is appearing on campus March 29.

is a graduate of the famed Westminster Choir College, Princeton, New Jersey.

36 Texans

Choir members are selected in open competition from the student body. Of the 39 singers, 36 are from Texas and one each from Louisiana, Connecticut, and Oklahoma complete the roster.

During its brief stay on campus, the choir will be entertained by the Maryville College A Cappella Choir. Arrangements have been made for the guests to eat at student tables in the dining hall. Guest rooms and unoccupied rooms in the women's dormitories have been reserved for the visiting women. Men guests will stay in Bartlett Hall. After the concert on Thursday evening, the Vesper Choir, the All Girls' Choir, and the Men's Glee Club will entertain the Texas choral group at a reception in the Fine Arts Center.

Amphitheatre Time Set For 6:33 Play Held Tonight

By Pat Lovette

The fourteenth annual Easter Sunrise Service will be held at the college amphitheatre tomorrow morning at 6:33. Before the service, a brass choir will play on the campus and in the woods.

Dr. Lloyd will give the meditations "But Go Tell," and the Vesper Choir will sing several anthems: "Christ Is Arisen" by Hirsch, "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today" by Williams, "Strife Is O'er" by Palestrina, "Whoso Offereth Praise" and "Awake, Awake" by Chris Johnson, and the "Resurrection" from the Passion Trilogy.

The choir, the brass ensemble, and faculty members, as is the custom, will be served an informal breakfast at Morningside.

Holy Week

Holy Week services were held during the past week by the Ministerial Association, having as their theme "The Last Five Days". Speakers for the services Bob Cuthill, John Shew, Andy Clark, Henry Heaps, and Dick Dosker.

This year the annual Easter Presentation is an original play by a student entitled, "Misunderstood," and it will be given tonight at 7:3 0p.m. in the Alumni Gym. The play is under the direction of the All Campus Devotional Committee, which is composed of representatives from the Y.W.C.A., Y.M.C.A., Student Vols, and Pre-Ministerial Association.

The cast includes approximately sixty people with thirty-five in the crowd scenes, and twenty-five taking the parts of separate characters in the drama. The cast also includes a speaking chorus of eight persons. Some of the talent used have not appeared on a stage before. Others have several years of stage experience. The cast was picked from all four years of college life.

Special musical effects will be provided by a single instrument. The costuming will be a mixture of the traditional and the modern.

"Misunderstood," consists of two acts, the first act having four scenes: Scene I, "An Imagined Meeting of three Marys, Mary of Bethany, Mary Magdalene, and Mary, the Mother of Jesus',; Scene II, "Peter's Denial," Scene III, "Pilot and the Mob," Scene IV, "Three At the Cross."

There are two scenes in Act II: Scene I, "Guarding the Tomb," Scene II, "The Stone Rolled Away."

It is requested that there be no applause given by those attending the play. The names of the students appearing in the drama will not be listed on the program. This will better enable the participants to lose their identity in the play that they are presenting to the student body.

Experimentalists Initiate Arena Style Acting In Twin Bill, April 6

Austin VanPelt, junior sociology major from Denver, Colo., will direct the Experimental Theatre production of "Playgoers" to be given April 6 in Bartlett Hall. Two performances of the Pinero comedy will be given.

Seen as the Kitchenmaid will be Dorothy Greenhagen; Housemaid, Mary Sue Munson; Parlour Maid, Norma Lou Loetz; Useful Maid, Ruth Burgos; Cook, Lou Masters; Master, Curt Wilbanks; Mistress, Jean White; and Odd Man, Art VanAlstyne.

Craven Directs

A cast of four boys will be seen in "If Men Played Cards As Women Do," the second feature on the twin-bill: Jerry Wheat, Jimmy Britton, Ken Rutherford, and Ken Garrison. Kathleen Craven, drama director, will be in charge of the production.

Arena Style

The staging will be arena style with the audience seated on all four sides of the stage. According to Miss Craven, the style is a "new fad which has gained great popularity within the last few years." It was originated in this country by Glenn Hughes of Washington University. This is the first attempt at such staging at MC.

Louise Lloyd Plays In Senior Recital

Louise Lloyd, pianist, will present her Senior Recital on Thursday, April 5 at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall.

Included in Miss Lloyd's recital reprtoire are "Le Coucou" by Daquin; "Toccata" by Paradies; "Komm, Gott, Schopfer!" by Bach-Busoni; "Modere," "Mouvede Menuet" andd "Anime" from Ravel's "Sonatine;" "Etude de Concert in F Minor" by Liszt; and Chopin's "Ballade in A flat Major Op. 47."

Vols Celebrate World Easter

"Easter 'Round the World" will be the theme of the Student Volunteers meeting tomorrow night at eight o'clock. The first portion of the program will be devoted to a pantomime and explanation of the religious rites of the Hindu Spring Festival, presented by Ann Leeder, Beverly Jacobi, and Grace Myers.

STUDENT BODY ELECTIONS

The week of April 8 Student Body elections will be held, according to the constitution which sets the second full week in April aside for that purpase.

Petitions for nomination will be on hand Tuesday, April 10.

Hobby Show Opens To Students, Staff

A Hobby Show, open to all faculty, staff and students, is being planned for March 28-April 10. It will include photography and handicrafts. Anyone wishing to participate should hand in entries by March 26 to Miss Johnson or to Mr. Dashiell.

Lloyd, Choir Heard At Easter Vespers

Easter Vesper service will be held in the library at seven o'clock tomorrow night. Dr. Lloyd will give a sermonette and the choir will sing five anthems.

Opera Workshop Sings Puccini, Verdi, Mozart

Scenes from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," Verdi's "Aida," Guccini's "La Boheme," and Masscogni's "Cavalleria Rustuana" will be presented by the Opera Workshop in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall on Saturday, March 31, at 8 p.m.

Featured in the first scene are baritone William Robinson as Figaro, and soprano Rosalie Munson as Susanna; accompanist, Miss Thelma Nelson.

Gloria Measamer, alto, as Anneric, and Ken Shaffer, heroic tenor, as Rhadmaes, will be heard in the first scene from the last act of "Aida"; Johnnie Sayre, accompanist.

The scene from "La Boheme" is to feature soprano Evalyn Smith portraying Mimi and tenor Don Brakebill as Rudolph, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Vawter.

The program will conclude with the Church scene from "Cavalleria Rustuana", the chorus being made up of voice students of Mrs. Bernice Blair and Mr. Harry H. Harter, accompanied by Miss Thelma Nelson.

Hood, Barnett Heard In Recital

Pianists June Hood and Carol Barnett will be presented in a Junior Recital in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center at 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 27.

Miss Hood will play "Allegro maestoso," "Andante cantabile con expressione," and "Presto" from Mozart's "Sonata K 310;" "Etude Op. 10 No. 3" by Chopin; "Sorocaba" and "Gavea" from "Sandades do Brazil" by Milhaud; and "Andante Sastenuto" from "Concerto No. 2 in G Minor" by Saint-Saens. Orchestral parts arranged for a second piano will be played by Miss Katharine Davies.

"Adagio," "Allegro," "Adagio," and "Allegro" from Mozart's "Fantasia and Sonata in C Minor, K. 475; "Bear Dance" by Bartok; "La Plus Que Lent" by Debussy; and Rachmaninoff's "Elegy Op. 3 No. 1" will be played by Miss Barnett.

MEET YOUR LIBRARIAN-- 'QUEST FOR KNOWLEDGE' KEEPS HER BUSY

By R. C. Seeley

If anyone was asked to give a description of Miss Grierson, librarian, it most likely would be of a tall, silent person who spends most of her time puttering around books. That nothing could be further from the truth can readily be shown when one really gets to know her. A brief glimpse of her during former years, and of situations in the library, will prove what is meant.

Miss Grierson could almost be considered a United States-born foreigner. Although she was born in the United States, she spent her childhood in China, where her mother and father were missionaries. Her mother was also a missionary in India.

As Miss Grierson likes to put it, she cut her teeth on the trans-Siberian railway. You see, after she had been born, her parents decided to return to the mission field, but her mother didn't like traveling by sea. This meant much of the trip had to be made via a trans-Siberian. The trip took sixteen days and neither of her parents could speak Russian or German.

After graduating from college, Miss Grierson spent six years herself as a missionary in India for the Presbyterian Church U.S. A. While there she taught English and some science, and served as Matron of the Dormitories.

Being Matron in India almost becomes the reverse of being Matron at Maryville College. There

Maryville Debate Squad Takes Part In National Pi Kappa Delta Tourney

Four MC varsity debaters left campus yesterday to journey to Stillwater, Okla., where the National Pi Kappa Delta Forensic Meet will be held at Oklahoma A. and M. College. Accompanied by Miss Arda Walker, the group included Carol Corbett, Lynn Miller, Newell Witherspoon, and Lewis Evans.

Debating the national 1951 debate question, "Resolved: That the Non-Communist Nations Should Form A New International Organization," delegates from universities and colleges over the country will gather for the four day convention.

Double Debaters

Besides debating both sides of the national question, varsiteers Corbett and Evans will enter the extemporaneous speaking competition; Miller and Witherspoon will compete in the oratory division.

A negative and affirmative team from MC met a team from LMU at Harrogate on March 12 and was victorious in one match. The team of Tom Kelly and Newell Witherspoon defeated a negaitve team; Charles LaRue and Gerry Knecht lost to an affirmative team.

Lynn Miller Flies For Chilhowean

Lynn Miller, 1951 Chilhowean editor, flew to Nashville last Thursday to make final arrangements with the printer for the edition of the year book.

Miss Miller will return to campus April 1 following the Pi Kappa Delta meet in Stillwater, Oklahoma, in which she will participate.

Johanson, Kettles Read At Writers' Workshop

Lois Johanson and Peggy Kettles will read at Writers' Workshop next Wednesday afternoon and be criticised by Assistant Professor Arthur S. Bushing and Mrs. Etta Kennedy.

Reading at last week's meeting were Lucy Carrick and Dave Reed.

At Council—

The conflict between the student body election dates and senior comprehensive examination dates occupied the greater part of discussion at regular Student Council meeting Wednesday night in the Student Center lounge. It was voted to follow the regular procedure set forth by the Student Body constitution and continue to hold the election during the second full week of April.

Quickway Restaurant will remain within bounds until a meeting of the Executive Council results in a different decision. An unsuccessful attempt to discuss the situation concerning the relationship of the Homecoming Queen and the Alumni was reported by President Joe Poland.

Janet Cummings brought a suggestion made by the "Marriage and the Familly" class to Council concerning the optional choice of Town Night by students. The question was raised in that class as to whether Tuesday night was the best possible night or whether it would be better to let the student take his one night in town when he wanted to. The suggestion was referred to the Student-Faculty Senate.

No town night violations were reported.

Easter-tide

Another year is gone and with the spring note which is in the air comes one of the most beautiful seasons of the year——Easter. It is not only the symbol of the resurrection of our Lord but the symbol of beginning again, of new life. The long-dormant flowers, trees are out and birds back from the south—the sleeping desire to be outside and giving vent to winter-bound feelings arises—tossing off a sluggish feeling of being tired and bored isn't easy.—the taking on of a new sensation of "up an dat 'em" is what we need.

We've been looking at books for months now and all the pages seem to say the same thing—seniors face comprehensive examinations over a college concentration on one subject; juniors have begun the ordeal sometimes known as special studies; freshman have waded through the roughest spot of their first year, that frosh theme; as for the sophs we could say that "they've never had it so good."

With Easter and the new spring season, let's renew our striving toward the goal—the completion of another successful semester and year. Concentration, just an added amount of it, will be a pretty good vaccination against spring fever.

Right now athletic activity, save for Intramural activities and Student Center ping-pong, is at a standstill o nthe Hill. In some two weeks, games will be going on every other day or so in baseball, tennis, and on one occasion, a track meet. Though these sports, in the main do not have the drawing power for students as do the fall and winter sports, let us not forgot the fact that those men representing MC on the field are putting just as much out as do those who participate. in said fall and winter sports and are doing their utmostest to win.

Attendance at these events has fallen off somewhat in the last years, so, let's get it back on the upswing. Let's back this year's Scots to the hilt.

—NP

Scots & Soda

Spring, Spring, Spring. . . .

Proverbially, the young man's thoughts are turning to thoughts of love and on the first day of spring Dave Kincaid's did just that: a long trip from Pennsylvania to put a solitaire on cute li'l Bev Jacobi's third finger left hand.

Jim Kren jumped the season by a few days when he finally said yes to Pat Love ain't it grand, kids! !

'Nuther Poll

The results of a poll taken recently show that of 19,623 college men who have tried Hadacol, 19,613 still prefer women.

Angles Again!

Anderson's philosopher, Dr. Orr, was having quite a hard time seeing the logic in a situation he gave to his Psychology of Religion course last week. "Why the missionary goes to China to tell the heathens to stop binding their feet to keep them from growing large or continues to bind herself around the middle for the same reason is beyond me; but I guess it's all in the way you look at it!"

Need we tell the class's reaction time to that one.

Same Class—Student This Time

Peggy Kettles gave the philosophers her views on what an ideal is. Said she: oh, it's some sort of a goal you set up and built around it are all sorts of little ideals and you strive toward that goal by attaining the smaller ideals—one ideal is made up of many other ideas, etc., etc., etc.

Andy Clark quipped from the second row: Oh, I get it—just the ideal family, huh?

Here's Wishing

What with the bruises and black eyes appearing again on the football team because of the rough workout Coach Palmer is giving his men during spring practice, we're wondering how many girls' name will appear on the '51 Scotty roster in the fall.

Shut Off The Alarm!

Tomorrow morning sees the annual "middle of the night" trek to the college woods to try and find the sun that's supposed to get up at 6:33 a.m. Most MCers will be up hours before Old Sol and shivering in their red flannels and rolled-up pajama legs.

Rumors Abroad

Via a little bird we heard that Jay Bright pulled a quickie this week.
Said she: Do you love me?
Said Bright: Yes.
Said she again: Would you cry if I died?
Said Bright again: Yes.
Said she again again: Show me how much you would cry.
Said Bright again again: Die first!

Look in The Card Catalogue

Lamar librarians—student and otherwise—are still puzzled by the student who requested a current fiction book by the eminent French author, Risque.

Puns' Puns!

After someone has suggested that the ballots would be awfully long if all the all-campus elections were staged at once, Joe Poland upped with "Yea, I'd have ballot fatigue."

Take It Up With the Proper Authorities!

"Sharecropper" Campbell has the right idea when he remarked that if student body elections conflicted with senior comprehensives, the college postpone comps dates. He got an overwhelming election by the senior representatives!

Visitors Galore

Almost as many visitors on campus this week as students, it seems. The Princeton element came to gladden the hearts of LaDonna Baylor, Phyl Eschrich, and Dick Ribble. It was good to see MC alumni Bob Argie, Ben Sheldon, John Baxter, Hap Brahams, and Pepper Postlethwaite back for a brief hello.

Then along came some more heart-throbs in the way of Bill Varker's girl, Dot Johnson's beau, Betty Roach's Ed, Edie Lancaster's "Red"—and people galore.

Daffynition:

Classes are what if you go to bed late at night and only get a few hours sleep, you wake up in the morning wishing there weren't any of.

Lucky, Lucky You—

Saw those lucky debaters pulling out from beside Pearsons as we were on our way to press—good trip, kids, and lots of laurels; Barbara Blum and carfull left for Atlanta for Easter vacation too—bet being in a car again felt almost normal!

Catastrophe Strikes

Whatever it sounded like to the individual ear, it looked like Niagara let loose when the fire valves were turned on in Carnegie Thursday night. Speaking of things being carried too far. . . .!

TALK OF THE WEEK

By Lou Packard

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

In The Camera's Eye

Capitol Theatre stars this week with "Two Weeks of Love" all on a Tuesday evening. If you think it's high time you took a vacation from the grindstone routine of college, join Jane Powell and Ricardo Mantalban in a dash along sandy beach.

The locale of this Technicolor sugar-plum land is called Kissimee in-the-Catskills, a rococo turn-of-the-century vacation resort complete with beach and sand imported from Atlantic City. The plot (and we use the term loosely) concerns a starry-eyed young miss (Jane Powell) whose parents (Louis Calhern and Ann Hardin) think she ought to keep her eyes off a dashing young Cuban fellow vacationist (Ricardo Montalban) until next year when she is old enough to wear a Warner's two-way stretch and put up her hair.

Miss Powell takes time out from a laboriously kittenish set of growing pains to join in a few nostalgic song numbers, climaxed by a dream sequence in which she tosses off an aria from "Chocolate Soldier." The costume she wears during the last is enough to get any kind of a soldier court-martialled but not enough to see. Perhaps it would be more appropriate for the cover of a Police Gazette.

Debbie Reynolds provides this shopworn bit of trivia with a few touches of freshness as an embullient younger member of the family who tihnks—as most of the Townighters will also—that both parents and big sister are acting pretty silly.

PARKing Lot

In the less traveled cinema ohuse, "Destiny Rides Again" but where, when or how we do not know. Let's hope they were wrong, but the critics didn't find the reel worth the trouble of mentioning. Personal opinion is, however, that Jimmy Stewart, the male lead, can't go too far wrong and if he goes just far enough the picture might be worth seeing.

In The Printer's Eye

Striking a familiar chord was the name Duggar listed in a book called "Aureomycin" put out by Lederel Laboratories. Dr. Benjamin Minge Duggar (the grandfather of Rolfe Duggar, ex-'53, now in the USN), a retired University of Wisconsin professor at 70, began a career as a research biologist at the Lederle Laboratories in Pearl River, N.Y. The fruit of that research was a new drug called aureomycin which Duggar unearthed. Comparable in life-saving power to streptomycin and penicillin, the drug has been found valuable in stopping Rocky Mountain spotted fever, a ricketia disease with t high morality rate and is out on the market for over two years now under the commercial name of Duomycin.

Only two other books caught the eye as being anywhere near approaching the fascinating: "Memoires de La Vie" by Chateubriand and "Compulsory Medical Care and the Welfare State' by Melchoir Palyi. But it's a good habit to check the new book table more thoroughly than just through this column.

In The Public Eye

A unique piece of display has been on the library bulletin board this week. A miniature TV screen was constructed in the center of the display with real lights and a puppet. Students' faces proved interesting to watch as they turned on the lights at a specially constructed switch and played with "Miss Kitty Kat", a replica of the doll used on the TV show, "Kukla, Fran, and Ollie." The doll was made by Beryl Stewart.

Surrounding the screen were caricatures of outstanding TV artists and book jackets from several recent books on TV.

In The Center of the Public

Glenn Hughes of the University of Washington made arena style acting famous and its use has spread throughout the country like wildfire. MC's Experimentalists will present two modern comedies in this style on April 6. This will be arena acting's debut at Maryville College.

For those of you who aren't familiar with the term, arena style means that the group of actors are surrounded on all four sides by audience. They play without the benefit of three stage walls on a raised platform and can be seem from all angles.

●THIS WEEK'S BLABBING is necessarily cut down because of too much done last week—as per usual—and much which should have been said will be found elsewhere, we hope this which, for want of anything else, we shall call Be Kind to Intramurals Week. Apologies especially go to the Intramural section which has been neglected too much as of late because of pictures and ads. However, from now on, we will charge like the dickens for any five-column pictrues ran here. . . .The Intramural Volleyball Championships will be held Monday with the Athenian Greeks looming largely in the picture as number one challengers—and repeaters also—but several teams are determined to knock them off their pedestial and one of them may do it. . . we'll see. . . Because there will be no sports news next week—or as a matter of fact, no news at all. . . have it in mind that the big Spring football game will be held next Saturday or so and that Intramural softball and varsity tennis with perhaps a practice match or two. . . listen to the chapel announcements. . . .

●IN READING THROUGH THE ECHO EXCHANGE we came across an article saying that Wofford College of Spartanburg has 72% of its student body engaged—not together male and female—but in Intramural Sports for enjoyment and activity "which is believed to be a national record." The source—ETS' Collegian. Well, we never were anybody ot brag about anything but gettin gin another plug for dear old Alma Mammy, we'll say that MC's percentage ist just about that high or higher and that MC has one of the best Intramural systems that we've ever seen or read about, with more teams from more groups participating in the varied sports.

●HERE IS PART of last week's glop which has to be run or paid extra for. . . the firing line begins on the right and out on the new track at two. . . .

●"I NEVER HEARD SO MANY JOKES in one night in all my life," was Tom Siler's only comment during the show as former athletes—now alumni-honored Maryville's coach L. S. Honaker in a big five-hour banquet at Chilhowee Inn. The main cut and dried story was printed last week, and the radio broadcast—chopped down greatly—has been heard by many, but there was a seamier side to—one full of laughs, joy, and perhaps even pathos or sumpn'n.

A little man with a big funny bone was the versatile Maynard Dunn who had the whole groups of athletes, press and guests, in an uproar eevrytime he scratched his head.

Also coming in for her share of the plaudits was "Miss Jessie" Heron—remembered by all the men there for her fan-ship.

He started off with telegrams from various sources praising Coach Honaker and some of them seemed a might suspicious, especially those from Dr. Lloyd and an alumnus in Mississippi. "Surrounded by hams" Mr. Dunn introduced some of the press that were there including Tom Siler who was on his way to Florida the next day, Maynard Layman of Decatur, Ala., Daily who handled general publicity for the event and who set up the mat for the photo on page three, Bill Dyer, Greg Benson, and Soapy Jones—all of the Knoxville Sentinel and the Scripps-Howard chain—Escar Thompson of the AP, Maryville's Dean Stone—who was the barb of many a shaft, and others. Predominatly missing was Tom Anderson or someone from the Journal who might have had something to toss in. Dyer got in a plug for "Patsy" in autographing a program causing Benson and Jones to get their two bits in about his "cheap advertising" Dyer also did a "lovable" carricature of Coach for a scrapbook presented him—the portrait featuring a sly grin especially noticeable.

Dyer got back at the two who have called many a Scot football game by saying that they were lucky that they didn't get thrown out of the place for all the games that MC has lost on account of them—no comment on that. Such good natured banter marked the whole thing. Dunn's closing remark that "Coach Honaker was truly representative of his profession" was one of his more serious remarks and taken as one of the highlights of the evening's comments—it was deserved and appropriate.

But throwing aside all this needless trash wheih we somehow comment on every week, the greatest accomplishment of the feed to our point of view was the fact that so many Scot athletes from 1909 till 1951 came—not because they were asked but because they wanted to. From Dr. S. E. Crawford of the class of 1909 when Coach wasn't even here to Dr. Hobart Ford of the class of '20-'21—Coach's first year to Charlie Allen of 1951's football team, they all were kind of saddened, and gladdened at the memories recalled. And they looked upon a Coach who criticized only because he thought his athletes had that something which might be brought out of them—which in turn would not only win for the school but make them better men. He in turn related also how Dr. McMurray's statement that MC was a sort of "missionary" school for boys who might not have had the money or the breaks to go elsewhere and how that idea stuck with him despite offers from other schools with possibly better futures and money money and became a part of his life. And when the check for his vacation came after he had mentioned the fact that he hardly ever saw such money around the hill, he "was sorta glad (he) told that missionary story."

But as we have said before, the big feature of the whole shebang was the return of such men as Dr. S. E. Crawford, retired and living back of Thaw. Dr. Henry Callaway of 1909, "Toots" Blazer, Lincoln dealer of Cleveland, Tenn., who played third base for Coach back in 1932 because he talked such a good game—though perhaps not playing such—and whose remarks were in much evidence through the show; Joe Etheridge, 1940, now a coach at Opp, Ala.,—"Don't ask me where that is"—M. Dunn; John Stone, one of '28's greatest ball players who was with the Tigers for some three years till TB hit him; Joe Gamble of the '25 class; Harold Bird of 1929 who caught his own punt for a TD in an MC game; Scott and Ross Honaker, "two living testimonials"— the former a head coach at Henderson State Teachers in Arkansas; Howard Davis, '49; Dr. Hobart Ford of Coach's first team and an organizer of many baseball leagues in upper East Tennessee; Charlie Allen of 1951; Marvin Mitchell (46), and Cotton Easter (47) of MC's Tangerine Bowl team; Steve Bretesky of the 1933 team; Dr. Lea Callaway who recalled the only incident Coach praised him and that went a punt of his—aimed for the sidelines—got hung up in the air and bobbled by the safety man; and Carl Storey, of the 1930 team who is more famous for musical exploits hereabouts along with Ed Hamilton of the '24 group;

And still more: Earl Blazer of the 1930 class and general arrangements man for the feed; Shorty McCall, '25, who still was the best back he had ever seen anywhere and "who would have been an All-American had he been a 160 pounder like those of Neyland's teams or had he been anywhere else than at Maryville;" Guy Sneed, 1924; Gene Reynolds. 1950; Gobo Cartwright of the 1327 class; Dr. Hayes Williams of the powerful 1927-28 teams which had a large group there and who tossed a steak dinner for the MC grid team in '49 when the Scots played Jax State and that after he hadn't seen Coach Honaker in 21 years; Madison Byar of the 1934 class; Jim Renfro of the '24 class; Bill Crawford of the 1927 class, recognized as one of the campus "cut ups" of the time; J. D. "sarge" Davis of the 1929 class who had such a peck of trouble in trying to line up the captain's picture; Nig Wilburn of the '39-'40 class another catcher of the first rank of Coach Honaker; and Speedy Ruble, a star of Stone's par and a major leaguer whom Coach claims "was the best high ball hitter he ever saw" and who demonstrated the art some years ago by hitting one into the bushes on Court street after a four year layoff at the bat.

There were these and many others.

And because of the good press coverage of Maynard Layman, Thompson and Jim Jarvis, AP sent the story out all over the South—some good soul commenting "ain't that enough"—and the notion; and also to the New York Times with its affiliated 40 papers; Bill Stern of NBC who asked for the story which he may use this spring or later when the football season rolls around along Edward R. Murrow; and Life, Look, or the Post;

Hickman who has a TV show in New York and knew Coach from his days playing back in the '30's with info given to him by Tom Siler who is a rover for Look. We don't know whether where credit is due, but hope so and perhaps we can run a series of articles some time in the near future on some of these athletes and what they have done.

Pull Him Oyer, Bill!

Bill Morse, Maryville's 123 SEAAU champion is shown above trying to put a successful arm-lock on Memphis Navy's McAdoo in the second round of the SEAAU tourney at Chattanooga. Morse went on to win his next two matches and the title.

Wrestlers Finish Season Winning Four In A Row

After Losing To Auburn, Scots Make Comeback

Maybe It Will Work . .

Coach Davis began Exepriment Number One in the 167-class and it worked partially as Willard Rahn escaped the pitfalls of a pin, but took an 8-0 shellacking from Auburn's SEAA[U] champ in that class for the last two years. Herb Palmer, the other co-captain then went out with the object in mind of keeping MC—not in the match since it was too late—but keeping MC from being held scoreless for the first time since North Carolina State applied a 30-0 whitewashing to a Scot team back in 1938-39. Palmer also burned out fairly early and the fact that he hadn't wrestled in a week because of a pulled shoulder muscle in the Chattanooga match didn't add to his morale when he tried to lift up Bob Drake his opponent for a takedown. He couldn't and when the match was over, Drake had 23 seconds more than the required one minute riding time good for the deciding point of a 3-2 decision. Dick Patton went as MC's new heavyweight as fate was to have it in his other matches, the tall freshman got pinned two-thirds of the way through the first period to finish up MC's string of losses.

Win Number Three—Yippee

Chattanooga then returned for a hom match and the Scots got back on the victory trail by piling up points in the lightweights. Kees and Cameron won bouts by forfeit since Chattanooga had no men in that weights while Ches Anderson and Jim Callaway took decisions in their weights followed by Joe Poland in a 155 bout—time advantage figured in the first and last bouts while Callaway won his by virtue of having more reverses than his opponent.

MC then ahead 19-0 saw the count steadily whached down as Rahn lost a 167 encounter; Bob Proffitt—going for Palmer whose shoulder was on the bum again—losing a close 3-1 bout; and Patton getting pinned by the Mocs' Hawkins.

Tech Takes Tie

Georgia Tech came to town the next week and MC's big weakness in the heavier weights made itself visible as Tech—after trailing all the way through—came through with a rally to knot-up the score, 14-14. Bill Morse—in a 123 bout for the first time—wrapped up his opponent with a double armlock good for a pin and five points. J. A. Cameron and Tech's Garner Ivey then stalemated each other for two periods with a Tech win finally resulting. Ches Anderson took a 3-1 decision over his 138 opponent who managed to stay out of a pin hold and Callaway-Poland also took five point decisions via lots of riding time. Bob Ingalls of Tech then began adding to his team score by decisioning MC's Jerry King in a 167 bout to be followed by Rhally Rhodes who decisioned Proffitt—Palmer still out with a banged up shoulder—and Ray Beck took a pin over MC's Harold Glad in the matches' final bout to tie up the count.

A Win Streak Over Em-Y

Three more matches were on the docket as the halfway mark passed and two of them against Emory and Knoxville Y were won—while the last was cancelled. Don Benton went in a 157-exhibition match to open the grappling and lost to a decision. Bill Morse and Chesley Anderson won their bouts sandwiched around a draw-on Cameron's part—this time with Mal Duggan of Emory. Jimmy Callaway was out with an infected ear and so Donald MacDonald represented the Scots in that 147 weight—only to lose, 4-1. Joe Poland won his match by an easy effort and the 167 class contributed its usual deficitage of points as Rahn lost, 6-0. But then came the big surprises of the season as Palmer won a 177 match and Proffitt took the heavyweight clash—both on shutouts for the first MC wins in those classes in a long time—especially the heavyweight win.

The Best Match

Came Knox Y on the road the next Monday and with a finally revamped lineup, the Scots raised their totalage over the last time and lowered the Y's. In exhibition matches, Cameron took a pin, Jimmy Squires took a pin, and Proffitt took a decision in 130, 167, and heavyweight tussles. In the regular matches, Kees and Morse took pins while Anderson, Callaway, Poland, King, and Palmer took decision wins. King's pin in a 167-wrangle was the first of the season for that weight's representative and all sides were enjoyed. Knox Y averted being shutout by seeing her heavy-Bronco Bailey—pin Patton in the first period with a final score of 29-5.

Atlanta Y was slated to go in a match the following Saturday night but an auto accident knocked out chances for five of their competitors and the meet was called off with MC having a 5-1 record for the season. The Scots entered the SEAAU tourney at Chattanooga and came out second in the tourney to Auburn and with two champs—Anderson and Morse.

Scotistics Show Something

Over the season, MC battlers won 51 matches, lost 38, and dropped two for a .572 percentage as compared to last year's 43-25-2 record and .614. It was very good considering the material MC had this year compared to last.

As for the individuals, Bob Kees took two matches with forfeit wins, one by decision, one by a pin and lost two—one by decision and one by fall. Bill Morse triumphed in eight encounters—three with falls—and dropped only one match—that an out-of-weight clash to Auburn's 130, Dragoin. Bill Clarke went in one exhibition match and took it with a decision. J. A. Cameron started off rather slow but finished with a roar and a 5-2-1 record—three of the wins coming by pins and one of these in an exhibition. His losses were both numbered out and the draw-one with Tech.

When It Counts

Don MacDonald had a .500 season with three on both sides of the ledger and three of his six bouts coming in the SEAAU tourney. His was a varied record: a loss in a 147 macth, one pin-win, two decision wins, and two decision losses. Chesley Anderson's was the brightest of his career as he dropped only one match and that the ill-fated Auburn match. Otherwise he had eight wins—all on points. Jimmy Callaway had seven wins on points and two losses on points.

Heavy Classes Only Fair

Joe Poland's string was about the same with five wins on points, three losses—one in a 177 bout and the other by a fall. Willard Rahn's was the poorest of the season in his skein of tough luck—five matches and all lost on decisions. Jimmy Squires lost a decision and won an exhibition match with a pin in his two go's. Jerry King's record was likewise while Jimmy Cox lost his only match—by decision. Bob Proffitt went in three classes—167, 177, and heavyweight—and won his '67 battle with a pin, lost two '77 bouts on points and won two matches as a heavyweight against one loss by default—cut eye—with one of the wins being in a Knox Y exhibition.

Herb Palmer went in two classes—the top ones—and came out with two pin wins and a decision

Intramurals....

SWIMMING . . .

Before a big crowd last week end, the Intramural Swimming meet was held with many races close to the finishing splash. Events opened up with a 75 yard Theta-Bainonian relay race with the Bainonian's Barbara Rogers setting up a big lead on the back stroke lap followed by Mary Ann Hicks and Maueee Richards on the breast and free styles for a winning time of 1:37 minutes. Following these opening whistles and cheers five men went in a 50 yard dash race with Howard Gress winning in a time of 29.2 seconds over Paul Maier and John Schaumberg who came in second and third. The 50 yard breast-stroke was next and was won by Bill Varker in the fast time of 33.7 seconds with Dave Helwig coming in second. Bill Menges then took the 50 yard back stroke race with a winning time of 40.2 seconds followed by Schaumberg and Dan Buchanan.

The Wallowing Duck Classic's first event then followed as Athenian and Alpha Sigma matched swimmers and paddlers in a 150 yard medley race with the Athenian team winning in a time of 1:45.9 minutes using a team composed of Varker, Don MacDonald, and George Barber. An intermission followed in which Paul Maier and Varker engaged in a bit of diving competition with the agile Maier winning, 112 points to 93, and showing many a new twist and turn off the diving board.

Long racing was next as the 200 yard free style race was swum off between the versatile Maier and Jake Peppers with the latter winning. Another inter-society clash followed in which a combined relay team of Athenian's boys and Theta's girls defeated similar aggregation from Bainonian and Alpha Sigma. The 100 yard breast stroke race finished off regular racing for the evening's ribbons and was another two-man race with Dave Helwig winning in 1:40.6 over Paul Maier both boys participating in their third match of the evening.

A bit of dirty work was underfoot next as the Alpha Sigs "coach" determined to win a race by fair means or foul against Athenian's team of ex-varsity swimmers. Howard Gress and Don MacDonald started this, the 200 free-style relay race, off to a fairly even start with the latter edging the Alpha Sigma man at the end of the second lap. Then one Clifford Henry who had engaged in some clowning acts previously and an ex-Sigma man ('50) pushed Alpha Sigma's Sid Lambert aside and plunged in after the Athenian's Harold Nairon and overtook him on the race's fourth lap. This lead was somewhat increased by the Sigs' Stan Downs' over a tired George Barber on the third round of races as Bill Menges went the anchor laps for the Sigs against Athenian Bill Varker. Varker in a tremendous effort nearly caught up with the Sig-man in the first 25 yards but could not keep it up on the back stretch as Menges outgutted him to win by one length. Needless to say, the conduct of those who engineered such a plot was condoned even if the Athenians had a team of ex-varsity swimmers.

VOLLEYBALL

Pinging for serves and spiking for points came to an end in league play Wednesday as winners were determined in the three leagues. Play in the Annual Volleyball tourney began Thursday with Athenian's Greeks seeded number as having the best chance to be winners—and if such, it would be their third straight in three years. In quarterfinals played Thursday, Alpha Sigma's Fardarters topped the Wheels in two close games and the Faculty team—making a slight comeback after its defeat by the Greeks—winning over the Flappers in one but then being over powered the last two. Final Standdings:

Orange League
Hig Nips	5	0	1.000
Wheels	4	1	.800
YMCA	3	2	.600
Athen. Owls	1	4	.200
A. S. Highlanders	1	4	.200

Garnet League
A. S. Fardarters	5	0	1.000
Flappers	4	1	.800
Mother's Helpers	3	2	.500
A. S. Dixie-Doos	2	3	.400
Pre-Ministerials	1	4	.200
Onagers	0	5	.000
Scottie League
Athenian Greeks	5	0	1.000
Faculty	4	1	.800
A. S. Scotties	3	2	.600
Smoothies	3	2	.600
Choir	0	5	.000
Hadakol's	0	5	.000

Softball Rosters are to be in this coming week for play which will probably begin in about a week—be heads up for a called Intramural Meeitng in Bartlett.

Scot Spring Practices Add Finishing Touches

MC Athletes Ready For Opening Tussles

The weather took a change for the better this past week and the coaches of the various MC spring athletic activities began to look once again to the feilds behind Thaw and Memorial where "live competition" could be held in order to determine varsity material in three sports.

Gimme That Bat!

Coach L. S. Honaker's baseballers were glad to see the sun come out again for a change so that hitting practice could be resumed and pitchers' arms warmed up easier and better in preparation for the season's probable opening contests wtih Hiwassee and Maryville CIO next week-end or hte Monday following.

And as the sason approached, the ax was being wielded so that a playing roster could be worked out and more attention given to those on it in order that a winning team might be fielded. Among those looking most likely for squad berths were catchers Don Alford, Bill VanBenthysen and Jimmy Cox; Pitchers Jimmy Kren and Sonny Short, (only letermen back), Gene Parks, Dave Williams, and Leaky Campbell; Infielders. Jimmy Campbell, Ken Yonkers, Homer Garren, Harry Newberry, Wesley Kinser, Jim Wiley, and Jim Gibson; and Outfielders Walt Rowley, Earl Valentine, Ben Cusick, and Charles Browning.

Get In Shape!

MC's Trackmen were in the meantime emphasizing conditioning in preparation ofr the first time trials on April 6 and hoping that work on the track would be finished sufficiently before that so that the knack of running on it could be gained. Most of the work being done was by the runners with the field events men laying off as of late.

Headgears clashed and black eyes were again becoming predominant as spring football practice got underway again after a week's lapse from the gridiron wars. First scrimmages were held yesterday in preparation for the annual Orange-Garnet game next Friday. Because of the off-and-on ness of practice the try-ees will probably be divided up next Monday into the two squads of 17 men each.

Back and Forth . . .

First round pairings were begun by the Tennis-racqueteers in what was hoped for the last-time initial practice this past Wednesday with veterans Wes Miles, Chesley Anderson, and Clyde McCampbell showing up particularly well in first round ladder matches along with "old-man" Glen Gage and newcomers Kent Buser, Marshall England, and John Anderson. The schedule for the season as follows:

April	3—Tenn. Wesleyan	Here
April	7—Milligan	Here
April	9—Carson-Newman	There
April	10—Carson-Newman	There
April	17—TPI	There
April	19—Chattanooga	There
April	21—Tusculum	Here
April	26—E. Tenn. State	Here
April	28—LMU	There
April	30—U. of Tenn.	There
May	3-4-5—Tenn. Intercollegiate Tournament at Sewanee
May	9—Carson-Newman	Here

A Gallop poll taken this week showed that Truman's popularity has dropped to the lowest point since he has been in office.

The question that was asked in the survey was: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Truman is handling his job as President?"

The result was:

Approve	26%
Disapprove	57%
No opinion	17%

Pathways Show Airs Mission Story

"Pathways" presents the program "Report from Abroad" over WGAP March 26 at 9:30 p.m. It is a missionary program with reports from Africa, India, Alaska, South America, Korea, Arabia and Pakistan.

Members of the cast are Armando Divaz, Peggy Kettles, Grace Myers, Lincoln Shimomura, Jim Hunt, Bill Starr and George Caldwell. Dave Reed is in charge.

Nat'l. Student Conf. Discusses Race

Delegates from 251 colleges and universities will participate in a three-day conference, the National Student Conference on Human Relations, on the campus of Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana.

The problems of racial and religious discrimination on college campuses, already under critical study by educators and school administrators, will be surveyed by the students themselves.

Dr. Harold Taylor, president of Sarah Lawrence College, and Dr. Charles S. Johnson, president of Fisk, will be among the chief speakers. Some of the problems expected to be faced are admission practices, student organizations, aid to needy students, curriculum, athletics, graduate placements adn faculty employment.

win against three losses by decision and a draw in a heavyweight match. Heavyweights Dick Patton and Harold Glad were also not well off as they were pinned in four matches and one macth respectively. Jim Frain lost his only macth—a 155 bout—by default—shoulder accident—to make the list of those who lost by such means three and all MC contenders.

And to top the season's workouts in a fine manner, Coach Davis and the wrestlers were feted at a big steak outing by Drs. Lea and Henry Callaway at their home last week-end as has been their custom for the past several years.

The New Leaders

In voting this past week, Donald Macdonald was elected captain for the 1951-52 season and Bill Morse alternate captain. Both were able wrestlers the past year and will provide a good nucleus for next year along with Callaway, Kees, and Benton.

Alpha Sigma Hears Hillbilly Musicians

A program featuring Bob Lynn and his Mad Mountebanking Mountaineer Musicians will be presented at Alpha Sigma tonight at 6:15 in the YW rooms. Several feature numbers and "new songs" will be presented.

USCSC Announces New Examination

United States Civil Service Commissions has announced an examination for Junior Scientist and Engineer to fill the positions of chemist, physicist, metallurgist, and engineer at $3100 to $3825 a year; and mathematician and electronic scientist at $3100 a year.

Undergraduates who expect to complete courses required in their optional field may apply for examination. Completion of satisfactory probation of one year is required for permanent appointment.

Further information may be had at the ECHO office.

GRIERSON FEATURE

instead of trying to keep the fellows and girls separated, they tried to get them married.

Marriage Bureau

They didn't subscribe to the old maxim that two can live as cheaply as one, but the marriages helped economically. The orphans that went to the school were switched to its support after they became fifteen years old. Thus the sooner the girls were married, the less expensive it was for the school.

The modes of trying to marry them off did not differ basically from the ones used here. We have the coming out parties for debutantes, and they would throw large parties too. Before the entertainment began, the boys would sit on one side, and the girls on the other, but contrary to MC practices, the boys and girls didn't like to converse with each other.

When Miss Grierson returned to the states, she became a librarian for the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions for five years. It was quite a change from the marrying business. Then she returned to MC where she had received her Bachelor's Degree.

Library Grows

The library has expanded considerably in resepct to the number of volumes, since Miss Grierson arrived. During 1925, before she was here, 54 books were purchased, but during 1950 about 1070 books were purchased.

Not every change can be measured by only materialistic standards, though. Quite a few changes have been made during the past ten years which affect the lives of nearly every student here.

Many ages ago, the library closed at 6:30. Later the boys and girls were allowed to come on alternate evenings. Finally the boys and girls were allowed to come on the same evenings. But the boys sat on one side, the girls on the other.

It was during these trying times that the tactics of the students out-maneuvered the grand strategy of the college officials. In the "quest for knowledge' groups of students constantly consulted the dictionaries and the encyclopedias. And with the true spirit of scholars, they sought to share their knowledge—the boys with the girls.

When the grand strategy sought to quell the uprising, the students resorted to deceptive communication. In accordance with the usual habit of dictionaries and encyclopedias being the repositories of knowledge, they now fulfilled it to an even greater extent by being the custodians on notes.

Again the grand strategy moved into action, this time secretly. On an unannounced date boys and girls were allowed to mingle in the library. Even though the students were taken by surprise, the news quickly traversed the campus. For several weeks the attendance at the library doubled and still remained above previous totals when the novelty wore off.

Besides these general occurances, there were others more specific and interesting. According to Miss Grierson, hide-and-seek was a popular game played behind the pillars.

One of the most extraordinary of such games was engaged in by a group of enterprising student janitors and their friends. They played it at night with flashlights. It might even have continued except one of the buddies with a flashlight evolved into the form of Ralph. He caught many in the shelves.

When we asked Miss Grierson if any students got locked in the stacks, she mentioned that a few had gotten locked in the library —all girls. One was the Editor of the ECHO, who finally got out by her own ingenuity.

Mr. Phillips, of the faculty, played Sir Walter Raleigh assisting a girl to escape. He suggested that she jump out the window, and he would catch her. She jumped. (He didn't anticipate the long drop.)

Not all of the students thirst for knowledge in the library. Once a fellow was espied with a grill, a bag of sugar, a box of cocoa and a quart of milk.

He was found guilty of trying to make fudge, and sentenced to deportation. He pleaded: "Hot griddle." But the grounds for such quickly disappeared along with the student when Dr. Lloyd entered. Later it was admitted that it was on a dare.

These are characteristic of the humor that pervades the library atmosphere but there is also the element of hard labor. And the hardest working of all people is the librarian. And in conclusion, we find that librarians are, after all, human beings with a sense of humor.

Alpha Sigs, Theta Have Square Dance Following Bidding

By Mary Sue Munson

Bidding will commence briskly tonight at 7:30 as the Annual Box-Lunch Affair will take place in Alumni Gym sponsored by Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma societies. After the first calls of Auctioneer Joe Stater, boxes, finely decorated by girls of Theta and Bainonian societies will be put on the block for competitive bidding. Following this will be a square dance with rounds called by Mr. T. W. Kleinsasser. This is the second year in which the societies have been in charge of the event—Athenian-Bainonian taking over last year.

All girls are requested to bring their surprise boxes at 7:25 sharp.

Chairman for the event is Joe Stater with publicity being handled by Phyll Jackson, Margaret Ann Warren, and Neale Pearson; Gerry Hopkins in charge of box-making, Pearson, and Jack Mowatt in charge of decorations.

Notice

There will be a Student Body meeting Thursday morning, April 12, for the purpose of introducing the candidates running for Student Body offices in voting held the same day.

This meeting is called for by the Student Body Constitution. President Joe Poland will chairman the meeting during which time candidates and their managers will be presented with an outline of their past activities and their platform.

Y Officers Plan For Coming Year

By Jean Frei

The annual Y Retreat, held on Frida yand Saturday, April 6 and 7, at Miller's Cove, has for its theme "Commissioned— Consecrated—Controlled," the theme chosen for the coming year by the new presidents, Susie Martin and Jim Kren. Those attending the retreat are the old and new cabinets of YM and YW and the Nu Gamma leaders. The program will include talks by George Ogle and Janet Cummings, a worship service led by Nannette Enloe and Wesley Miles, cabinet and committee meetings, and discussion groups led by Mr. Bushing and Mr. and Mrs. Pieper. The guest speaker will be Mr. Charles Whitworth, a YMCA secretary from the Regional office in Atlanta, Georgia.

YMCA's cabnet for 1951-52 will be: Athletics: Bob Kees and Donald Macdonald; Community: Ric Rogers; Devotion and Discussion: Jerry Knecht and Van Holland with Austin Van Pelt handling devotion publicity: Fellowship: Jack Rorex and Bill Clark; Inter Racial: Clarence Reaser; Missions Tom Fairhurst; "M" Book: Don Brakebill and Bill Robinson; Maintenance: Homer Rickabaugh and Paul Maier; Publicity: Neale Pearson; Y Radio: Joe Stater and Herbert Hoover; Worship: Bill Faulkner and Ralph Thiesse; and Y Store pending: Jim Darroch.

In addition to the elected officers, the YW cabinet is made up of these committee chairmen:

'Penthouse Serenade' Arrives Plaza Saturday For Theme Of Spring Dance

By Sally Brown

"Penthouse Serenade," annual Spring Formal sponsored this year by Athenian-Bainonian, will be held in the Alumni Gymnasium Saturday, April 14. Hours are 8-11 p.m. Dance chairmen are Lou Masters, Hazel Holm, and Maree Richards for Bainonian and Tom Kees and George Barber for Athenian.

The setting will include a penthouse motif and decorations will center around this theme. Music chairman is Bob Moser and music will be provided by a student dance band. Eight program dances are being planned.

Dress is formal, but tuxes are not required. Corsages not exceeding $3 in cost are permissable. Tickets are $1.20 and no stags are admitted.

Committee chairmen are as follows: Beverly Jacobi and Nannette Enloe, decorations: Margaret Anne Brown and Harriet McClain, refreshments: Florence Clark, publicity; Bob Lehr, tickets and programs.

Chaperones for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Dashiell.

Junior Class Journeys To Woods And Barndance

While seniors take their comps and sophs their tests, plans which have been in the making for some time will be fulfilled as the junior class takes a Journey to the College Woods at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon for food, fun, and frolic.

A program of refreshments and recreation is being planned by different committees. Transportation will start out in true country style as class members take to the hills in farm wagons amidst hay and sawdust.

After a program in the afternoon and fireside eats, the juniors will return to Alumni Gym for the Student Body political rally at seven. Then at 8 p.m. again, the program will proceed further with a square dance called by Mr. T. W. Kleinsasser with more recreation and refreshments.

Bill Clarke is general chairman of the event assisted by Beverly Jacobi and Edith Lancaster. Dot Johnston is in charge of food; Bob Cuthill and Clarke on transportation; Jean Davis is in charge of the afternoon games while Neale Pearson is handling the evening entertainment. Walter Lange is in charge of publicity and Marilyn Edge of invitations.

Y's Elect Martin, Kren, And Cabinets

In the elections held last week, YMCA and YWCA chose their officers for the year 1951-52. The following are the new YW officers: president, Susie Martin, elementary education major from Bloomington, Illinois; vice-president, Nanette Enloe, sociology major from Atlanta, Georgia; secretary, Betty Hammers, sociology major from Stewartstown, Pennsylvania; treasurer, Cora Anthony; and Nu Gamma chairman, Edith McMillan.

YM officers elected are the following: president. Jim Kren, physical education major from Pitcarn. Pa.; vice-president, Wes Miles, English major from Huntington, N. Y.; secretary, Dave Reed, philosophy major from Hamden, N. Y.; treasurer, Al Springfield, pre-med major, and freshman advisory board, Harold Black, from Ridgway, Pa.

40-Member Choir Leaving Friday For Extended Tour

By Trudy Furman

Forty members of the Vesper Choir accompanied by Mr. Harter, Miss Massey, and Dr. Griffitts will leave the campus at 6:30 Friday morning for a ten day tour through eight states and Washington, D. C. The choir will make fourteen appearances in eleven cities during the ten day period.

Appearances will be in Washington, D.C. and Philadelphia (Germantown), Pa., on April 15; Salisbury, Md., April 16; Baltimore, Mdr., April 17, Aberdeen, Md., April 18; Wilmington, Del., April 19; Darby, Pa., April 22; Columbus, Ohio, April 23; and two performances at Cincinnati, Ohio, April 24. They will return to the campus on the 25th.

Divided into five groups, the choir's presentations will range from early 15th century to contemporary American folk music, Each group will follow a suggested theme.

Group one will include three arrangements from the book of Psalms. Opening with Lewandowski's spirited arrangement of Psalm 150, followed by the conductor's own arrangement of Psalm 23 (Crimond), the group will close with the masterful setting of Psalm 50 by F. Melius Christiansen. This Psalm is in three movements, "The Mighty God, the Lord Harth Spoken," "Offer Unto God a Sacrifice of Thanksgiving," and "Whoso Offereth Praise Glorifieth God."

The second group includes choral works depicting the birth of Christ. The Choir will open with "Hodie, Christus Natus Est" (Today Christ Is Born) by Healey Willan. "O Magnum Mysterium" by the Spanish Composer de Victoria, "Fum, Fum, Fum!", a jolly Christmas march based on a Catalonian carol arranged by Kurt Schindler, and "Nunc Dimittis" by Gretchaninoff will complete this group.

The third group under the title, "For This Cause Came I. . ." will portray the Passion of Jesus Christ. This group will open with the Passion Trilogy of Ukrainian canticles consisting of "Trial Before Pilate," "Crucifixion," and "Resurrection." Also included in this group will be Randall Thompson's "Alleluia" and "Ascendit Deus" by Gallus.

As a lighter group in the program, the choir has prepared settings of folk songs of four countries. "Madame Jeanette" by Murray, "Just As the Tide was Flowing" arranged by R. Vaughan Williams, the "Australian Up-Country Song" by Grainger and "Sleep, Baby, Sleep," a Negro lullaby by Robert Shaw.

The closing group will consist of Grieg's "God's Son Hath Set Me Free," "Salvation is Created" by Tschesnokoff, "Wake, Awake" by Christiansen and "Lord Hosanna" by Schreck.

'51 Class To Give $3800 For Theatre

By Phyll Jackson

The Class of 1951 will go on record as leaving the largest class gift in the history of Maryville College, a pledged sum of $3,800. The gift has been designated for a workshop in the Little Theatre of the new chapel building. 132 seniors have subscribed a total of $3515. to date.

The large gift was the result of an almost unanimous acceptance of a plan drawn up by the gift committee of the class. Lincoln Shimomura was chairman. Other members serving on the planning committee were class officers Jim Lester, president; Joy Parker, secretary; George Stanfill, treasurer; and Mary Lyerly, appointed by Lester.

In addition, a group of students worked on solicitations. This group included Judy Breen, Andy Clark, Janet Cummings, Babe Keny, Ray Kuhn, Louise Lloyd, Murt Kennedy, Jane McMillan, George Ogle, Mary Wills, Bob Proffitt, Dave Grubbs, Tom Kees, Dick Jones, Willard Rahn, Jim Watt, and Alice Huddleston.

The Senior Story

Already members of the senior class are making plans for the next year, whether it be with Uncle Sam, in graduate school, or working.

Edna Brown, chemistry major from Fort Meade, Fla., has accepted the position of junior laboratory analyst in the atomic research plants at Oak Ridge. She will be making chemical analysis.

Andy Clark, Jim Davis, Jim Watt, George Barber, and Bill Varker, ministerial students, have applied and been accepted by Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh.

Ralph Kent, physics major from Newton, Mass., has accepted a position with Carbon and Carbide in Oak Ridge. He will work on Microwave Spectroscopy.

Bill Starr, English major from Baltimore, Md., has been accepted as a junior in Princeton Seminary for the fall term. At present tentative plans include accepting a teaching position in English and dramatics at the Woodstock School in India also.

Dick Ribble, English major from Philadelphia, Bob Van Nest, history major from Dunellen, N. J., and John Shew, English major from Baltimore, Md., are enrolled as juniors for the fall term at Princeton Theological Seminary also.

David Grubbs, philosophy major from Fairview, Pa., will enter the University of Tennessee graduate school for work in political science in September.

John Laney, history major from Hickory, N. C., enters Crozer Theological Seminary in Chester, Pa., in the fall. Ted Beasley, sociology major from Montgomery, Ala., is enrolled at Columbia Seminary in Decatur, Ga., for the

Swift, Schroeder Elected Miss MC, Bachelor Of Ugliness On Campus

By Phyll Jackson

Pretty Ella Swift, whose attractive smile and winning personality caught the judges completely off-guard, and singing Wally Schroeder, whose glance makes many a Scotch lassie's heart beat violently, have become the first Maryvillians to claim the title of Miss MC and the Bachelor of Ugliness. A campus-wide search to find two who would qualify for the honor ended two weeks ago when Miss Swift and Schroeder were elected by an ECHO-sponsored committee representing the four classes.

Active in the work of the YW CA on campus, Miss Swift has served in many capacities as a Nu Gamma leader for freshman girls, as a member of the missions team who worked both at Home Avenue and with the negro children, and now as a member of the All-Campus Devotions committee on the Y cabinet.

We find her elected again and again by her classmates into positions of leadership and responsibility. Serving as a member of the house committee while she lived in Memorial Hall, handling financial matters as treasurer for Bainonian, organizing her own group of girls as a chapter leader in Bainonian, and taking down the minutes at the Student Council meetings weekly as secretary are a few of her accomplishments.

Representing MC's Y at the Student Christian Association Conference at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, Miss Swift participated with other MCers in discussions concerning the basic principles of the SCA. Recently she was chosen a member of the '51 Daisy Chain.

Miss Swift is an elementary education major from White Hall, Md., and is a member of the junior class.

With a song on his lips and in his heart Wally Schroeder claimed the title of Bachelor of Ugliness. A music major from Buffalo, N.Y., Schroeder is a member of the Vesper Choir and will go on tour with them next week. For two years the Bachelor has been a Maryvillian and has actively participated in campus

Bible Translation Story Presented On Y-Radio

"Pathways," the Y radio show, will feature a drama about the sacrifice and cost involved in translating the Bible, over WGAP from 8:30 to 9:00 Monday night.

It is the story of Miles Coverdale and his translation of the Bible. Grace Myers, Joe Stater, Lou Masters, and George Caldwell will take part in the program, which is directed by Bill Starr.

Maryville Debaters Rated 'Good' In National Pi Kapa Delta Tourney

Maryville's varsity debaters, Carol Corbett, Lynn Miller, Newell Witherspoon, and Lewis Evans accompanied by Miss Arda Walker returned this week from the National Pi Kappa Delta Forensic Meet held at Oklahoma A & M College.

MC's debaters took place in debating the year's question, extemporaneous, and oratory. The men's team won three out of eight debates and the women won five out of eight debates with Miss Miller gaining a rating of "good" for her extemporaneous efforts and MC's other three debaters missing this ranking by a close margin. As a whole, the team ranked "good" out of a possible "Good, Excellent, and Superior" rating.

Besides the many speaking events, the group participated in a barbecue and the Pi Kappa Delta Banquet.

The meet which is held every two years, attracted 831 debaters from 150 schools in 35 states.

Voice of The Deep Film At Methodist School

A 30-minute sound film, "Voice of the Deep" will be featured by First Methodist Sunday School tomorrow at 9:15. The film, produced by the Moody Bible Institute is a follow-up of the earlier films "God of the Atom" and "God of Creation" all of which are designed to show the link between religion and science.

EXPERIMENTALS ACT 'IF MEN PLAYED CARDS' AND 'PLAYGOERS'

Experimental theatre presented a twin bill last night in Bartlett Gym with the plays "The Playgoers" and "If Men Played Cards As Women Do" staged arena style.

"The Playgoers," a comedy by Pinero, is the story of an English lady and gentleman who attempt treating their servants to an evening at the theatre. It was directed by Austin VanPelt, junior sociology major from Denver, Colo. Included in the cast were Dot Greenhagen, Mary Sue Munson, Norma Lou Loetz, Ruth Burgos, Lou Packard, Curt Willbanks, Jean White, Art Van Aylstyne.

Co-featured with "The Playgoers" was "If Men Played Cards As Women Do," a satire on women's card parties.

Members of the cast were Jerry Wheat, Jimmy Britton, Ken Rutherford, and Ken Garrison. Instructor Kathleen Craven directed.

Juniors Edit Two Issues

Two junior editors will try out for the editorship of the ECHO. Neale Pearson is editing this week's paper; Dick Newman will edit the April 21 issue.

Following try-outs the staff and publications committee will elect a new editor for 1951-52.

Thoughts For The Times-

Every once in a while, as we scurry madly about our daily lives we take our thoughts away from such things as the 38th parallel, the Kefauver query, Defense—and its entailing drafting of some of us, comps,—and even the far-flung troubles of a Peron to those fine things as seen in some day which has a special meaning for us all. This past Easter was one as is Christmas and even, sometimes, the openin gof the baseball season. The people of this earth are groping for any kind of a prop to bolster their faith in humanity and the thought that tomorrow will come around and not be just a dream. And the weeks foregoing Easter were ones in which things took just a turn for the brighter as people tried in some little way to emulate Him who took more thought for others than himself and who lived His special kind of life all the time rather than just the two weeks preliminary to March 25 and the couple of days following. Taking just a slight hint from that, would it not be better for all concerned if we showed a full-time faith that the Golden Rule is still the greatest principle of living ever put out and that we felt it was good enough to put into practice?

—NP

The Coming Week-

A recent public service ad in the New York Times commenting on the moral situation in New York and elsewhere as uncovered by the Senate crime probe had this to say: "What's happened to our ideals. . .? What's happened to our principles of honesty in government. . .? What's happened to public and private standards of morality?" These were all questions on which many of us could stop and tihnk. Is our world really going from bad to worse or has there been an improvement along the line which we never hear about because of its being hidden by such sordid material as the above. In short, are we living in better or worse times than our forefathers—taking in all the aspects of the situsiton rather than just standards of living and education?

In reply to the aforesaid questions, it also made a three-way answer to what we could do, the gist of it being to make our lives such an example to others that they will want to live it. . . teach our children to trust in justice, honor, and truth, as being good things which we should try and follow and not just empty meanings, and thirdy to take an active part in public affairs.

The first statement is one which we rather refer to as being "pounded into us" in our early years and at MC, especially, but which is a good thing to our minds. Only through living good lives ourselves can we expect others to do likewise. The second stage has not been reached by many of us—at least we are not in such a position now, but it would not hurt for us to file it away for future reference. The last one is the most vital as it concerns active participation in the things which go around us. Next week will see all the campaigning, open and otherwise, and tom-foolery that goes on in an election as Maryville students elect their campus officers for the next year. Our thought for the day is to urge that every student attend the political rally Wednesday, take care and thought for the matter as to the different candidates and their qualifications, and then vote. Is it the most popular man on campus you are voting for, is it the rather quiet girl or boy who says little but does a lot and does it well, or whoever else you have in mind? The one thing that shiuld pervade our whole thinking is the question: s he the best man for the job—regardless of what I think of him or her)? If so, then go out and vote for that person; but exercise your right to cast a ballot and you will have little right to gripe as to the outcome. The right to express your vote is one we usually think of as being in a very low light. Rather than this, it is a privilege which we should fulfill to the best of our knowledge and ability. Remember, talk alone never did much, it takes action to get things done and the ballot is one way to do this!!

—NP

"Honors or Empty Titles"

The following is in the main the gist of an editorial appearing in the McNeese, La. State Contraband and applies we think to campus organizations everywhere. We are passing it along for what it is worth:

"No news is good news" may apply in certain instances, but no news from our campus organizations is definitely not good news.

The clubs, organizations, and fraternities (societies at MC). . . compose the campus activities. Without the functioning of these groups, campus life lacks the vigor that it should have. Every student has more to learn in college than that which he learns in the classroom; student organizations should give their members experience in other activities as well—but there must be activities.

"An important function of any student organization is the development of leadership and an incentive to leadership is the honor that goes with it. The honor of holding an office in many clubs on the campus has been an empty one, for a club without a purpose is a farce. Unfortunately, this is the category into which many of our clubs fall.

"When one club president was contacted recently he stated that his club had elected officers and put a float in the homecoming parade. This, he stated, was all that the club had achieved this year, besides hold meetings." (This was at McNeese but it applies so well to MC also). "McNeese Day was held nearly three months ago. Surely this club—or any other has had ample time to promote activities of some sort since then.

When asked, "Why did you want to be an officer in a club?" one student answered, "The main reason was the prestige I could gain." This has been the attitude of many of our club officers (and so called "leaders", Ed. note) Carlyle once said, "Everywhere in life, the true question is not what we gain, but what we do."

". . .While pointing out the shortcomings of some of the clubs, we don't want to overlook the achievements of some of the more active. Although many of our clubs have fallen short of their goal, if there was one. . ., a few clubs have made it an honor to be an officer in their organization. These few clubs have achieved, and in some instances, surpassed their goal. . .

"It is those organizations which have existed in name only that have inspired these remarks. With the following quotation from Jaubert's "Pensees" we rest our case, "Living requires but little life; doing requires much."

APRIL FOOL

Mr. Harter gave the Vesper Choir the downbeat, expecting to hear "The Mighty God," but instead of a solemn chorus, he got "April Fooled!"

Some people know how to spend the night in better ways than sleeping. Dot Greenhagen and Marion Sue Heron spent the hours between 12 and 3 April Fool morning smearing furniture with vaseline, putting toothpaste in shoes, and lipstick on faces. Revenge has already begun.

Why couldn't you leave the shower, Sue?

Rex Williams, MC's newest and best baker, created a masterpiece for Al Lotito's birthday on Sunday. It was a beautiful occasion until Al tried to cut the cake and hit cardboard. Also, Al's plate kept hopping up and down all through the meal. Somebody at the table must have been awfully busy squeezing a little bulb. Al got a real cake in the end as compensation.

SPRING FEVER

From the number of couples seen gazing into jewelers' windows recently, there should be a new batch of engagements soon. Anne and Charley seem to have used a pin instead.

As Jim Dance was trying to slip a fake diamond ring on Norma Lou Loetz's third finger, he cracked, "Norma Lou, we'd have been engaged a long time ago if your knuckles weren't so big."

And then there was that line in the play last night, "Lips glued to lips"! !

REST FOR THE WEARY

In the middle of a very serious biology lecture, Rex Williams slipped off his chair and hit the floor with a loud crash. He sat on the floor and there was silence for a minute until Mr. Kolter said, "Well, we want everyone in this class to be comfortable."

And while Mr. Ainsworth was in the middle of a lecture on the Hoover Commission, he enlarged by giving its suggestion that several of the over-lapping government organizations should be combined. "For instance, in their dam building functions," he stated.

BRILLIANT MINDS

A recent conversation in an English class went something like this:

Miss Blair: Why did the dramatic monologue grow out of the Victorian Age and not before?

Will Moody: The people were being educated then and could talk!

Trudy Furman the other day picked up a French book and was amazed at the ease with which she could read French. She had almost decided to make it her major when she discovered she was reading the introduction, in English.

EARTH SHAKING

Mr. Paxton was expounding upon the five motions of the earth to his physical science class. They were shaken to hear that the earth makes a wobble every 25,800 years.

AH, FOOD

Bob Mizelle's table-sitters got a surprise last Tuesday. Maybe you've never seen that new shampoo that looks like whipped cream, but they have—on their pumpkin pie. It wasn't hunger that make Sue Summers "burn all the way down."

DOUBLE DOSE

It came to our attention that one night last week all the campus street lights were out. They say Ralph was beside himself and they never saw a more loving couple!

CONGRATULATIONS

As a tag end to the column, we'd like to congratulate the winners of the WSGA and MSO elections, and give best wishes to Mr. Paxton as he leaves for a session in the navy.

THE PPOPCORN CIRCUIT

"I'd Climb the Highest Mountain" for five days, Monday through Friday, is showing at the Capitol. William Lundigan performs as a preacher, and Susan Hayward is his very attractive and distracting wife. The story is of the joys and sorrows of a Georgia country preacher. Alexander Knox turns in a stellar role as an atheist. Filmed in technicolor, the picture becomes more homey for us as we see the familiar red mud. Basically, the plot is similar to "Stars in My Crown."

At the Park Monday, Mickey Rooney plays auto racer in the "Big Wheel." He starts at Culver City and in a year makes the big time at Indianapolis. In between the newsreel insertions, Mickey finds time to win, crash, hurtle the wall, nearly burn to death, but not to lose. At Thomas Mitchell's Garage he tangles occasionally with the star driver, a meanie. Mickey's head at last swells with pride which makes it swell with liquor, and so he treads the familiar river to ruin. He makes a comeback and Indianapolis.

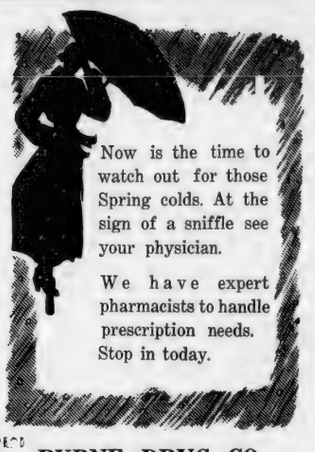
J. Arthur Rank's production, "Adam and Evalyn," Park's Monday and Wednesday. It concerns a society gambler who promises to get a dying buddy's daughter released from an orphanage. Daughter, Jean Simmons, an ungainly waif (the daughter, that is, not Jean), thinks the gambler, Stewart Granger, is her daddy. He convinces her that he is not and packs her off to a finishing school in Switzerland. When she comes back glamorous, she promises to marry him and he promises to reform.

At the Park Thursday and Friday is "The Fighting Caravan" with Gary Cooper. Cinemic fare for both theaters on Saturday is a portrayal of the Old West and the manner in which desperados are dealt. Saintly Sam, who neither drinks nor smokes, but he does say: Gosh, chases Desperate Dan, who does. Desperate Dan, of course, has either robbed a stage coach, rustled cattle, stolen the map to a lost gold mine, or threatens to foreclose the mortgage on the home of the rancher with the beautiful daughter.

There are many excellent views of scenery and matters of historical interest amid the thrilling chases and baroom brawls. In the end, Saintly Sam gets his man and a kiss from his horse. To make the effects of the gun play more realistic, the management has strategically located little boys with bags of popcorn.

BETWEEN THE BOOKENDS

Making its debut on the MC library shelves is another book on the Roosevelt "I" Knew. This one is "Jim Farley's Story, The Roosevelt Years." Jim Farley, former Post-Master General, was the man who introduced so many commemorative stamps that he removed the red ink on the P.O. books.



Right next to it is "The New Letters of Robert Browning", a gift by the MC English faculty in memory of Leander Jackson. Robert Browning, wherever he may be, is no doubt getting a big kick by watching people, especially English teachers and students, try to determine the why's and wherefore's of him and his works by studying even the least significant passage in a friendly letter.

Any time one of us has difficulty in getting along with our human neighbors, we should glance through "Animals of Land and Sea" and note some of the other creatures who live with us. Being a human should suit us after all.

"Mileposts in the Prairie" is the story of the Minneapolis and Saint Louis Railway. Everytime it was to be auctioned off, nobody placed any bids. So it ran merrily in debt, but it survived and now it, too, has the red ink out of its book.

FOOTLIGHTS FACTS

Once again MC has been treated to a double-header by Experimental Theatre. The variety of entertainment, both active and passive participation, is directly proportional to the students participating. We are fortunate that there is a small group of students who enjoy the theater enough to sacrifice much of their time in order to enable us to enjoy the fruits of their labor. —RC Seeley

By Neal Pearson

●HER IRE IS UP. . . . Miss Jessie Heron, zealous guardian of MC athletic records and accomplishments, has done it again and got his corner on the run back to our hiding place. After thinking that we had the dope on certain dividuals attending the Honaker banquet, we were approached by the little lady with plaid glasses—school spirit—and promptly put on the run—backwards. Our sources must have been quite unreliable we thought after it was over—alumnuses who we thought were catchers—Nig Wilburn—were not, infielders we thought were keystoners, were not, and several athletes were ten years older than they really were. We bow down again to the fates and henceforth, MC's Assistant Englisher will pass on all stuff that goes in here.

●BASEBALL and TENNIS finally got off to a start with games in which Hiwassee and Tennessee Wesleyan were opponents. Wet Weather has been the biggest handi-capper of the hardball sport while Coach Johnson's tennis-sers have been working extra hard in aiming for a win over ETS' Bucs April 26 there. Last year, the Bucs were the only team to topple the Orange and Garnet racquet-eers in a regular season's match. ECHO records say that MC avenged the loss with 5-2 win on the home grounds May 5 and the ECHO of said time says likewise but the tennis mentor states that no such return contest was played and squad members back him up—we don't know who is right—Miss Jessie—you were there, weren't you?

●SPRING FOOTBALL finally got a chance to show its wares after nearly a month of off-and-on practice. . . The situation is indeed dismal as size goes, but not in spirit and many non-fundamentalists picked up some of the game's finer, if not blunter, points over the period. Henceforth, also Coach Davis will take an increased interest in track and perhaps more work will be done on the track in preparation for the Milligan relays and a home meet with WJBU—nearly 3-5 finished. . . .

●FINER POINTS. . . . The National College Athletic Association's wrestling matches came to a close last Saturday night with Oklahoma's Sooners coming out on top for the first itme since 1936. Closest contenders were Oklahoma A&M's Aggies who have won fifteen titles in the last two decades or so. . . Only repeats were Waynesburg's Tony Gizoni in the 123 class and Keith Young in the 147 class—and an Iowa State Teachers man. One of Young's semi-final victims was Robin Baker of Auburn who went down eight and three. Little was done by Auburn's other matters. In due time, selections for the All-American Wrestling team will be pouring into Johnny Hordines of Body Builder Magazine in New York and a tabulation which may be released in time for final edition this spring. We'll pass it on at the time for what it's worth—biggest beef affecting Wrestling's moguls is that from the high school coaches who have but one representative on the Rules Committee—feeling among the scholastic boys that if rules are going to apply to their charges, they ought to have more say—rightly so, for situation may arise wherein the college interpretation will not be adequate for said situation and someone may get hurt.

Also in the news was the abandonment of football by Georgetown's Hoyas of Washington D. C. following similar announcement by Tusculum and Milligan in this area. The war had its effect on both in the matter of enrollment—but appearing in the general thread of things was that fact that it was costing a bit too much and supply of cash wasn't meeting demand. This not only concerns football—which will drain away a good 250,000 dollars a year from any school wishing to achieve bigtime success so goes a poll taken by Life Magazine—but also other sports—Kentucky just let it be known that they have 100 boys on athletic scholarships at the Lexington institution and the number is going higher everyday. As for the venerable Georgetown institution which got things running back in 1759, it seemed quite a shocker—the school of the mighty Al Blozis which stopped Charlie O'Rourke and the famed Boston College team of 1927-28; Lou Little who thought up the principle of the William's shift against booting and plunging Ken Strong of NYU; and the Fordham game of 1925 when the Blocks of Granite were first halted. . . Also passing on the scne was the twentieth anniversary of the death of Knute Rockne—"the genius of football in perfection" remembered for his two stirring and ever-remembered appeals of "Fighting Irish, bah!" against a leading by 10 Northwestern and the "Win for the Gipper" against an Army team of latter era. He was the man who always knew what to say and when and one of those few who could beat an opponent—painlessly—and make them want to come back for more games though they probably would get beaten. . . Last of all was the passing away of the original "College Man" of baseball, Eddie Collins of the Red Sox. . . a quiet "smart" hitter who had no legend built around him but whose name always cropped up when the records were compared. . . . and last but not least ,and also on the Beantown team. . . . . will the team with the best players ever get that intangible team spirit and will to win that was missing last annum—perhaps Louis Boudreau's presence will cause them to get the lead out.

●QUICK COMMENTS ON OPENING OF SPRING SPORTS—Football may not turn out so bad this fall after watching the long-belated spring practice game. Among others not mentioned in the straight story was that Coach Davis has pulled a couple of fast ones to cope with the defensive strength lacking what with seniors gone. . .. .i.e Dick Patton at center, Paul Merwin at end, Ralph Greaser switched to guard from end. . . also looking good this spring, especially in practice was transfer "Red" Morton from Hiwassee making tackle after tackles. . . .

As the Coaches say, "Some more thinking will have to take place" as re baseball. "Bonehead plays" helped lose the Hiwassee game but pitching by Galloway and Williams was nothing to be sneezed at—only one hit given up—much more impressive than last year when they were shelled off the mound in a couple of frams—of course MC hasn't the hitting at all of last year and a search for the well-known eye will have to be begun. Perhaps today's game will denote a change.

Spring Sports Open With TWC Win, Hiwassee Loss

HIWASSEE BASEBALL

Some stern pitching by Bob Galloway and Don Williams of the Hiwassee Tigers turned back Maryville's Scots in the opening game of the season for Coach L. S. Honaker's charge. Some "bonehead playing" as Coach expressed it also didn't help the MC cause as Galloway allowed nary a hit and Williams' lone failure was a two-bagger blooped to right by Jimmy "referred to elsewhere as Pete" Campbell. Hiwassee's runs came through the efforts of those supposed to produce runs—the top of the batting order as the Tigers combined 10 hits for four earned runs though errors of omission whereby a hit ball was held and no bases covered to give a tainted earned run. Definitely lacking was the hitting element on the MC side—though the Tigers came up with some fancy snags—because of the lack of practice of late, as was witnessed by the going down of ten MC men via the KO route.

Tennis-men Win, 9-0

Another season of victories seems in the offing for the tennis team as Coach Kenneth Johnson's racquetmet opend up 1951 play with a 9-0 victory over the Bulldogs of Tennessee Wesleyan Junior College. MC's netsters won all sets with the exception of Chesley Anderson who dropped one to ex-Maryville High boy, Bill Watts, 2-6. Anderson came back to reverse the count by identical scores for the match.

Not Bad

Racquet-men who seemde to draw spectators' attention as looking well were number one man Wes Miles who was hitting the baselines with scorching frequency and accuracy. Clyde McCampbell is back after a year's layoff which seemed not to hurt his playing, and Kent Buser who looks like the man to fill the bill in the number four spot. Glen Gage, John Anderson, and Marshall England, who switched with Anderson for the doubles with Gage, also looked well.

Results of the matches:

Singles—

Miles (M) defeated Lowder (TWJC), 6-2, 6-2

McCampbell (M) defeated Mehaffey (TW), 6-1, 6-1

Anderson (M) defeated Watts (TW), 2-6, 6-2, 6-2

Buser (M) defeated Santana (TW), 6-0, 6-0

Gage (M) defeated Beecroft (TW), 6-1, 6-1

Anderson (M) defeated Goslinga (TW), 6-0, 6-4

Doubles—

Miles-McCampbell (M) defeated Mehaffey-Watts (TW), 6-0, 6-1

Anderson-Buser (M) defeated Lowder-Beecroft (TW), 6-1, 6-2

Gage-England (M) defeated Santana-Goslinga (TW), 6-0, 6-0

Intramural Info . . .

By Bob Lyons

VOLLEYBALL

This report to those who have not heard (it was two weeks ago) saw its championship being taken by the Athenian Greeks who beat the Flappers in the championship game for said title. The Greeks beat the Alpha Sigma Fardarters in their first-round game to gain the finals while the Flappers had to beat the Hig-Nips and the Faculty to get onto the court. Much to the dismay of the Barber of Sevierville, this made the third year in a row that the boys playing on the Greeks' team came through to win the tournament—last year playing under the name of Olympics and the year before that as the Mars.

SOFTBALL

Maryville's minor national sport was slated to get under way last Wednesday a week ago, but due to the "unuusal" Maryville monsoon season, the teams have not been able to play ball yet. All in all, the strength of the league is well distributed.

The B.O.B.'s with Pop Lester forsaking the mound for the bench, the Punks with Charlie Allen and the feared-batting duo of Lester and Larson at the bat the Alpha Sig Holy Rollers, and the YMCA seem to have the top strength of those that have strength. The rest of the teams number the Za Nees, Happy Warriors, Alpha Sigarettes, Hoboes, and the Bugs. Games will be played on Wilson Field and the Golf Course—providing the latter drains off. Any boys with 20-20 vision are needed—as umpires—sign-up sheets are in Bartlett as is the schedule.

There will be an Intramural Rules and Discussion meeting Tuesday at 11 o'clock.

A track meet between Athenian and Alpha Sigma is also in the offing for the future.

Softball finally got underway with one upset and another being a pitcher's duel with one pitcher suffering from "dumb" softball. The Hoboes of Jerry King pulled a mild upset in kicking over the punks of Jim Lester and Bob Larson by taking advantage of a rash of bases on balls by Punk Pitcher Charlie Allen to win 11-6. In the day's other contest, Ralph Thiessee was the whole show in batting and pitching YYMCA to an 8-3 win over the Alpha Sigarettes who aided not their cause with several mental lapses and dropped flies in the outfield.

Baseball, Tennis Matches On Tap For Scots Today

Maryville CIO And Milligan Are Opponents

Two games or matches will be on tap this afternoon as the baseballers take on the Maryville CIO baseball team at around 2:30. At the same time on Memorial Courts, the tennis team of Coach Johnson will meet Milligan's netters.

The Scots haven't played the CIO team in a long time but there has been a friendly relation between the two in that the Steelworkers team has been composed of many a former Scot player in the last few years. Stalwarts on last year's team were Hugh Hamil, Bob Boring, both in professional ball—the former at Elizabethton and the latter with Rochester of the International League—Gene Reynolds, Leon Boring, and King Berrong. The last three will probably grace today's lineup. Pitching for Coach L. S. Honaker today is indefinite with Hiwassee hurlers Kren or Short perhaps going or else Dave Williams and Gene Parks, newcomers in point of duty.

Milligan fell to the Scots in a match that dragged out over a two-day period last year due to rain and has a fairly strong team back to match the serves of the Orange and Garnet racquet-men, who also are very strong with new frosh talent supplanting excellent veteran talent. Coach Ken Johnson will probably use the same procedure as against Tennessee Wesleyan with Miles, McCampbell, Anderson, Buser, and Gage going, and Marshall England or John Anderson taking the sixth spot in the singles and the other spot on the doubles team.

Next match in store for the Scots is on Monday when Carson-Newman's Eagles play on the Memorial courts. Following this there will be a week long layoff until the Scots play TPI there.

Garnets Rally To Trip Orange Team

Glad Plunge Difference

Maryville's football followers got a preview of what is to come this fall when they saw the Garnet team whip the Orange jerseyed boys in the intra-squad game Wednesday. Although lacking polish, they displayed a rock'em, sock'em, brand of football to go with their revived single wing attack. Their blocking and tackling was extremely good considering it was an intra-squad affair.

After Punts, A Score

The Orange team kicked off, and after the Garnets had tried a couple of plays, Harold Glad punted to his own 32 where they recovered the fumbled punt. After trying again to get rolling, Buster Heylock intercepted a Garnet pass and returned it to his own 20. The Orange attack fizzled, and Charlie Allen had to punt to Glad who received the ball on the 30 and was dropped immediately. Allen intercepted a Garnett pass on the 40 and returned it to the 25, where on the next play, he raced off tackle for 25 yards to chalk up up the first touchdown. The much-needed extra point was flubbed as the quarter ended.

Punts and Punts

After the quarter, Callaway kicked off for the Orange boys and Glad was downed on the twenty. The second quarter was mostly an exchange of punts, and at the half the orange boys led 6-0.

Callaway kicked off to start the second half and Garner returned it to the forty. Fine running by Glad and Bill Caldwell ate up the remaining yardage, with Caldwell traveling the last 25 yards to score. Glad added the extra point through the line and that put the Garnet boys in front to stay.

Stanfill On Defense

Allen returned Glad's kick-off to the forty. After a series of plays, Stanfill intercepted an Orange pass and returned it to the 35. There the Oranges recovered a fumble, and Allen ran it up to the 50. Then two runs by Allen and Jimmy Squires took the pigskin to the 30. Stanfill saved the day again by intercepting another pass on the 5 near the end of the quarter. The third quarter ended with the Garnet's ball on their own 35.

Speed vs. Power

The last quarter saw the teams battle it out on fairly even terms until the closing seconds when Glad took the ball on his own 20 and bulldozed 55 yards to the Orange 15, before fleet-footed Allen caught him from behind. Stanfill tried a reverse and was smeared behind the line as the time ran out, and the Garnet clad eleven had a 7-6 victory.

Glad and Allen's running was particularly impressive along with Jerry King's sparkling defensive work.

Tracksters Begin Routine

After two days of rain wiped out most chances of having time trials this week, Coach John Davis will begin running his Scot trackmen through regular workouts next week in preparation for time trials Friday or Saturday. Because spring football finally came to a halt Wednesday, there will be several of the footballers out for the track and field events. Biggest need for men is in the field events, dashes, and hurdles, so any prospective aspirants are urged to come out.

Chillies-Howies Finish Softball; Start Track

Women's Varsity finished another season of play in a sport this past week as the Chillie Stand-ins defeated the Howies after the Chillie first team had defeated the Howies twice previously.

Play will begin next in preparation for a track meet between the Chillies and Howies—said sport ending the athletic and training grinds for some 55 women with several compliments being tossed their way by "Boss" Mrs. Queener and the inevitable onlookers. "This is one of the best years we've ever had as for the girls participating in the various sports and following health rules."

Student Body Holds Elections

Petitions to be distributed by candidates for next year's student body offices will be available Tuesday morning, according to student body vice-president, Jim Kren, in charge of elections. This begins the three days of nomination, campaigning, and election.

According to new rules set down by this year's Student Council, all campaigning is to be done on one day. It will take place on Wednesday by candidates who have secured the required number of names on petitions. Wednesday evening is a political rally for all candidates or their managers who desire to speak.

Voting will take place all day Thursday, and if fun-offs are necessary, they are to be held on Friday. Kren stated that all candidates and managers should be familiar with Council's new election regulations.

Miller, Witherspoon Read At Writers' Workshop

Carolyn Miller and Newell Witherspoon will read at Writer's Workshop next Wednesday afternoon, and are to be criticized by Jim Kren and Clint Bobst.

Club International Coming Thursday

Club International, the annual program sponsored by the three language clubs, will be held in the Student Center on April 12 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

A program of skits, songs, dance and other numbers is being planned by the individual clubs. Mrs. Earl Blazer has also been asked to show the slides taken of Germany, Spain and France while she visited there. Refreshments will be served.

Neale Pearson is Master of Ceremonies. Decorations Committee is composed of Fannie Weber, Hazel Wood and Grace Greenwald. Bob Lynn, Carson Seeley and Bob Kees comprise the Refreshments Committee.

Melting brown eyes, a head full of wind-blown hair, a grin punctuated with a huge dimple—that's Wally. We saw him as the other half of a "John and Mary" team in Barnwarming, a coal-faced jokester in last year's Minstrel Show, a burlap-clad man in "Aria do Capo," and the grinning fourth of the Maryville College Quartet. He romped into "Wonderland" as one of Lewis Carroll's characters last May Day and sang with the Opera Workshop group.

Active in campus life, popular with their classmates, full of fun and energy, and both possessing boundless stores of appeal—we give you Ella Swift, 1951 Miss MC, and Wally Schroeder, our Bachelor of Ugliness.

ARTS FESTIVAL HIGHLIGHTS COMMENCEMENT

Curtain Rises Tonite On Spring Serenade

By Sally Brown

Curtain will go up tonight at 8 p.m. in the Alumni Gymnasium for the second performance of MC's annual musical extravaganza "Springtime Serenade." Tickets at 50c each will be on sale at the door.

Next week the "Serenade" chorus of 99 will hit the road for one night stands in Clinton on April 27 and Oak Ridge on April 28. All profits of the production will go to the chapel fund.

"Serenade" is presented by the All Girls' Choir and the Men's Glee Club under the direction of W. Curtis Hughes. Pianists are Carolyn Marshall and Jody Richardson and Hughes is organist. Bill Starr is commentator.

Hit songs from "Student Prince," "Hit The Deck," "Girl Crazy," "Song of Norway," "Roberta," "Bittersweet," "Showboat," "No, No, Nanette," "Annie Get Your Gun," "Carousel," and South Pacific" are included in the program.

Special numbers include solos by Jim Darrock, Helen Worrilow, Hugh Walker, Anne Higdon, Galen Work, and Pat Cox; a duet by Darrock and Miss Worrilow; and a quartet number of Charlie Flood, Jim Kren, Arnold Munn, and Ed Scott.

Branin Boyd is stage manager and is assisted by Bill Faulkner. Irene Mellon is business manager.

Cuthill Heads Students After Run Off With Reed

Robert Cuthill, junior history major from Buffalo, N.Y., was elected president of Maryville College's 1951-1952 student body in a run-off election with Dave Reed last Friday.

John Schaumberg, junior sociology major from San Antonio, Texas, was elected vice-president, and Maree Richards, sophomore biology major from Manasquan, N.J., social board chairman in balloting Thursday.

Re-elected as next year's cheerleaedrs were Carolyn Sloan, Martha Coyner, and Bob Kees. Virginia Davenport was not renamed.

Defeated in Thursday's presidential election was Jim Allison, junior political science major from Salineville, Ohio. Dave Reed, junior philosophy major from Delhi, N.Y., and Cuthill ran again in Friday's re-balloting.

Jim Campbell, sophomore political science major from Mars, Pa., was a candidate for vice-president and Allan Caldwell, junior psychology major from Cedar Rapids, Ia., also ran for the social board chairmanship.

Incoming president Cuthill is a member of debate squad, Phi Kappa Delta, Alpha Sigma, and Pre-Ministerials. Schaumburg is an Athenian and Miss Richards is this year's Bainonian program chairman.

Conferences Plan Summer Meetings On MC Campus

Maryvlle College campus will be the scene of eight church conferences all during the coming summer. From June 4 to 9 will be the Presbyterian (U.S.) Pioneer Camp, in which about 125 teen-age boys and girls will take part. June 11-22 will be the Summer School of the South, a Presbyterian (USA) Laymen's Retreat for men of the Synod of the Mid-South will be held June 25-26. From June 26 to 29 the Westminster Fellowship of Mid-South Synod will have an inter-racial conference. The Presbyterian (USA) Junior-Hi Camp will be held for younger teen-age boys and girls from July 2 to 7.

On May 15 from 5 to 9 p.m. about 40 adults will meet for the National Missions Southeast Seminar. Another conference will be held June 21-22 from 5 p.m. to 9 or 10 a.m. The Go and See Conference of the Synod of Illinois will meet August 30-31. Both of these will consist of about 30 college-age young people.

Smith Presents Senior Recital

Evalyn Smith, soprano, will be presented in her senior recital Monday, April 30, at 8:00 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. Music instructor Dorothy Vawter will accompany her on the piano.

She will then sing "I Hate Music," by Bernstein, followed by The Seasons including "L'Automne," (Autumn) by Faure, "L' Hiver," (Winter) by Koechlin, "Le Printemps," (Spring) by Fevrier, and "L'Ete," (Summer) by Chaminade.

Dr. Davidson Will Speak At Honor Society Ceremony

Dr. Phillip Davidson, dean of the graduate school of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, will be the speaker at recognition ceremonies for the 17 seniors elected to Alpha Gamma Sigma, MC scholarship honor society. The service will take place in chapel on Thursday, April 26.

Dean Davidson is former professor of history at Agnes Scott College, Atlanta. He has held his present position nearly eight years.

Also taking part in the ceremonies will be Alpha Gamma Sigma president Helen Disbrow, Dean E. R. Hunter and President Ralph Waldo Lloyd.

New Alpha Gamma Sigma members are Lucy Carrick, Andy Clark, Janet Cummings, James Dance, Delbert Earisman, David Grubbs, Henry Heaps, Jean Hunt, Lois Johanson, Richard Lane, James Latham, Louise Lloyd, Joe McNeil, Robert Newman, George Ogle, Joe Poland, and Lincoln Shimomura.

Vance To Preach At Vespers Sunday

Dr. Joseph A. Vance, pastor emeritus of First Presbyterian Church, Detroit, and former moderator of the Presbyterian USA General Assembly, will be the preacher at Vespers tomorrow evening at 7 in Lamar Library.

Dr. Vance, who has spoken here before, will discuss "Let God In." Next week, April 29, the Rev. David L. Engelhardt, assistant professor of Bible and Religious Education will speak. On May 6, the Vesper Choir will present its annual spring concert.

The preacher last Sunday was Dr. Horace E. Orr, professor of philosophy.

Vawter, Crews Present Recital

Dorothy Vawter and Katherine Crews, instructors in music, will give a joint recital Friday, April 27, at 8:15 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Miss Crews, violinist, assisted by Professor Katharine Davies, pianist, will play Handel's "Sonata in D Major."

Miss Vawter, pianist, will play "Chorale Prelude-Wachet Auf," by Bach-Busoni, "Sonata i nE Major, Op. 14, No. 1," by Beethoven, "Etude," by Krenek, "Nocturne," by Krenek. "Allegro molto," by Bartok, "Berceuse, Op. 57," by Chopin, and Prelude, Op 28, No. 9," and "Ballade, Op. 23," by Chopin.

Y Radio Airs Program From 'Your Back Yard'

Y Radio Monday night at 9:30 over WGAP will present a program transcribed by the Protestant Radio Commission from the series, "Your Own Back Yard," concerning the needs of home missions.

The program to be presented is "A Right Off Route 66," announced by Joe Stater.

Notice

The next and final issue of the HIGHLAND ECHO will be distributed May 12. Clubs and organizations holding elections during the two weeks in which there will be no newspaper are urged to notify the office with results.

Dorm Men Plan Revising of MSO

At a recent meeting of MSO, it was decided to place a suggestion box in the lobby of Carnegie Hall to obtain recommendations concerning a revision of the constitution.

A committee was elected to study the suggestions and propose revisions in the form of amendments. The committee is composed of four representatives from each floor. Their recommendations will be voted on by the men at a future election.

Due to the combined efforts of Mrs. Katherine Kolter, housemother, and MSO, Carnegie lobby has received new wall pictures. Colorful scenes of the Smokies have replaced the European scenes which were formerly in the lobby.

MSO has also secured new clothes lines for the dormitory. The new lines provide much-needed space, and have eliminated over-crowded conditions.

Thomas of Artist Series Displays Paintings Here

The current exhibition in the Gallery of the Fine Arts Center features paintings of Howard and Mary Leath Thomas of Athens, Ga. Thomas, professor of art at the University of Alabama, visited Maryville last year as the second of the Artists Series.

The paintings which he began then at the formal lecture-demonstration is in this exhibition and is entitled, "Maryville." The exhibition is on tour for showing at different colleges and museums in the South and East, and is being shown here during the two weeks of April 10-24.

Classes Nominate Officers, Council Representatives

Nominations for next year's class officers were made at the class meetings following chapel last Thursday.

Branin Boyd and Ralph Thiesse are the nominees for next year's senior class presidency. Running also are Betty Carroll and Beryl Stewart, vice president; Lois Layton, Ann Leeder, secretary; Bob Lynn, Bob Kees, treasurer.

Rising senior nominees for Council are Jim Allison, Allan Caldwell, Bill Clarke, and Dave Reed.

Sophomores nominated Paul Merwin and Bob Mizelle for president of the Junior Class. Running for vice-president are Pat Lewis and Isabel Leitch; for secretary, Shirley Atwell and Edith McMillan; and for treasurer, Curt Wilbanks and Lacy Woody.

Nominations for Student Council representatives include Beverly Edwards, Betty Hammers, Karole Kapp, and Mary Wilkes; Charles Reid, Sonny Short, Arnold Munn, and Ed Scott.

Jim Wiley and Jim Hunt are running for president of next year's Sophomore Class. Nominated for vice-president were Carl Drescher, and David Gates; for secretary, Peggy Evans and Pat Halstead; and for treasurer, Helen Drinnen and Bob Sangster.

Student Council nominees are Ruth Ann Roach, Jinny Smith, Jerry Knecht, Hank Van Hassel, and Harold Black.

Students Nominate Athletic Board Officers, Members

In a meeting following chapel Thursday morning, the following were nominated for posts on the Executive Committee of the Athletic Association. For President—Charlie Allen and Donald MacDonald; for Vice-President—Jimmy Campbell and Grant Sharp; for Secretary—Jean Davis and Barbara Rogers; for student members of the Board (three to be picked from boys and two from girls)—Walt English, Joe Bender, Tom Kelly, Neale Pearson, Clyde McCampbell, and Sonny Short for the men; and Hazel Wood, Jean Maxwell, Betty Carroll, and Sue Watson for the girls. Two faculty members will be chosen from the following four: Dr. Hunter; Miss Heron, Mr. Kolter, and Dr. Howell. Voting will be Thursday in conjunction with other elections.

Measamer Sings Senior Recital

Gloria Measamer will be presented in her senior recital on Thursday, May 3, at 8:00 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. She will be accompanied by John Sayre.

Miss Measamer will sing four Shakespearean songs: "Under the Greenwood Tree," by Arne; "When Daisies Died," by Arne; and "Sing No More Ladies," by and "Sign No More Ladies," by Stevens. Three Arias from "Carmen," will then be presented: "Seguidilla," "Chanson Boheme," and "Habenera," by Bizet.

She will also sing "Liebestreu, Op. 3, No. 1," "Das Madhen Sorict, Op. 107, No. 3," "Aneine Aolscharfe, Op. 19, No. 5", and "Vergebliches Standchen, Op. 84, No. 4" by Brahms.

Miss Measamer will conclude by singing four selections including "Into My Open Window," by Rachmaninoff, "Divination by Water," by Moussorgsky, "The Sleeping Princess," by Borodine, and "Hopak," by Moussorgsky.

'Happy' Huddleston Elected May Queen

Alice "Happy" Huddleston, senior English major from Maryville, was elected May Day Queen in an all-campus election held last week. "Happy" will be escorted by Jim Lester, president of the Senior class, who will reign as King for the May Day festivities.

Nominations for the two senior attendants were made at the class meeting Thursday. Names that will appear on the ballot are Hazel Holm, Jackie Lenderman, Libby Dunn, and Joy Parker.

Nominated by the juniors were Beryl Stewart, Hazel Wood, Bill Faulkner and Bob Keyes.

The sophomore class nominated Jackie Smith and Barbara Murphy, with Jack Rorex and Dori Merwin.

Anne McNeely and Peggy Hurst were chosen by the freshmen, along with Joe Hopkins and Jack Maxwell.

Elections will be held next week and the winners of the election will choose their own escorts.

MC Players Elect Caldwell President

Allan Caldwell, incoming senior psychology major from Cedar Rapids, Ia., was elected president of Maryville College Playhouse to succeed Phyll Jackson. Election was held Thursday, April 19.

Austin Van Pelt, rising senior sociology major from Denver, Colo., was elected vice-president. Sophomore Grace Myers, religious education major from East Springfield, Pa., will succeed Bobby Porter as secretary; Louise Masters, senior English major from Detroit, Mich., will succeed George Barber as treasurer.

College Institutes New Curriculum

The first semester of 1951-52 will see instituted at Maryville a plan providing for both three and four credit-hour courses. This plan represents much study and discussion on the part of various faculty groups.

Under the new system, freshman and sophomore courses will be of four-hour value, thus allowing greater concentration of work. Junior and senior level courses will be of three-hour value, thus providing a greater variety of courses in the major field and in electives.

Normal subject loads will be four courses or 16 hours for the lower division, while upper division programs will contain five or six three-hour courses. A major sequence which was four courses above sophomore level may now consist of six courses, or 18 hours instead of 16.

The sciences, except Home Economics, will remain on the four-hour program for all levels. A few other necessary irregularities will also be found.

Athenians, Bainonians Hold Penthouse Serenade

The annual Spring Formal, "Penthouse Serenade," was held in Alumni Gymnasium last Saturday, April 14, from 8 to 11 p.m. Decorations for the dance, which was this year sponsored by Athenian and Bainonian, used a penthouse theme and included the New York City skyline and an elevator.

Bob Moser was music chairman, and dance chairmen were Lou Masters, Hazel Holm, and Maree Richards for Bainonian and Tom Kees and George Barber for Athenian.

Theta Alpha Phi Taps Five Players

Four incoming seniors and one outgoing senior were elected to membership in Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatic honor society, this week at the fraternity's annual spring election.

Allan Caldwell, junior psychology major from Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Ray Kuhn, senior chemistry major from Spring Grove, Pa.; Louise Masters, senior English major from Detroit, Mich.; Joan Titley, sophomore English major from Corinth, Miss.; and Austin Van Pelt, junior sociology major from Denver, Colo., are those to be initiated this spring.

Membership in Theta Alpha Phi is based on an accumulation of a specific number of points. These points are obtained in the fields of acting, directing, and producing. The final acceptance by the local chapter is based upon acceptance by National Theta Alpha Phi.

Pi Kappa Deltas Banquet, Induct, Receive Degrees

Pi Kappa Delta's annual formal banquet will be held Tuesday, April 24, in the YW Rooms. Attending will be all members of the debate squad, Dr. Verton M. Queener, Associate Professor and Mrs. A. F. Pieper, and Assistant Professor Arda Walker, faculty members of the fraternity, and guests Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Lloyd and Mrs. V. M. Queener.

Three new members, Bill Caldwell, Charles LaRue, and Ruth Reeves, will be initiated into the organization.

Members of Pi Kappa Delta who have received advanced degrees this year are Order of Debate, Degree of Special Distinction, Carol Corbett, Louis Evans, Elenor Kramer; Degree of Proficiency, Bill Caldwell, Bob Cuthill, Tom Kelly, Carolyn Miller, Ruth Reeves, and Newell Witherspoon; Degree of Fraternity, Charles LaRue;

Order of Oratory, Degree of Special Distinction, Carol Corbett; Degree of Honor, Elenor Kramer, Carolyn Miller; Degree of Proficiency, Ruth Reeves; Degree of Fraternity, Newell Witherspoon, Bob Cuthill;

Order of Instructor, Degree of Proficiency, A. F. Pieper, Arda Walker.

MC Students Form New Business Club

The Business Club of Maryville College, with W. H. Ford, Associate Professor of Economics as faculty adviser, held its first meeting April 18. Membership is open to Business Administration and Economics majors, the faculty, and others who are interested.

Officers elected for next semester are Newell Witherspoon, president; Bill Faulkner, vice-president; Jim Farris, secretary, and Tom Cramer, treasurer. Next meeting will be held April 26 at 7:30 in Mr. Ford's classroom.

The club proposes to bring in business leaders to discuss current business practices and problems, show timely films on business, and hold student discussions. It also hopes to become an official MC organization, and to become affiliated with the National Business Fraternity.

Paul Calvin Payne Announced One Of Chief Speakers

The Commencement season this year will be different from that of ordinary years because with the Commencement program is being combined a Fine Arts Festival and the Dedication of the new Fine Arts Center.

First of the Commencement season activities will be the senior breakfast, given in two installments by President and Mrs. Ralph W. Lloyd at their home, Morningside, in the College Woods. Invitations are going to members of the senior class to attend the breakfast at 7:30 on Tuesday morning, May 8 or at 7:30 on Wednesday morning, May 9. About half of the class will be present each morning. If weather permits the breakfast will be outdoors on the terrace which faces the azalea gardens.

On Thursday morning, May 10, at the chapel hour there will be the first of a series of addresses in connection with the Fine Arts Festival which leads up to the Dedication of the Fine Arts Center. On Thursday morning the speaker will be Malcolm Miller, well-known drama and music critic and impresario.

Mr. Miller lives in Knoxville and for many years has not only written the principal reports on dramatic and musical events in this area but over a long period of time brought many noted plays and musicians to Knoxville. His address will be of general popular nature in which he will give some special emphasis to drama but will tell especially of different personalities with whom he has dealt through the years.

On Friday morning the speaker will be Rev. Dr. Paul Calvin Payne of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, General Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education and Chairman of the Division of Christian Education of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America. He will speak on Friday morning concerning "The Christian College and Tomorrow's World." Dr. Payne will be the speaker also at Commencement Vespers on Sunday evening.

The play "Much Ado About Nothing" will be given for the first time Friday evening.

On Saturday, May 12, which is Alumni Day, the speaker at the chapel hour will be John Walker of Washington, D.C., Curator of the National Gallery of Art. Mr. Walker will speak concerning art at the morning chapel hour and after the alumni dinner on Saturday night will give an illustrated lecture on art in the music hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Mr. Walker is a grandson of the late Mrs. John Walker of Morningside. He was formerly curator of the National Art Institute in Rome, Italy and his wife is the daughter of a former British Ambassador to Italy.

There will be various alumni reunions at the noon hour on Saturday, May 12, and the annual alumni dinner, to which all of the graduates of the College are invited, will be at 7:00 Saturday evening. At the dinner an address will be given by Paul Schweikher of Schweikher and Elting, Architects of the Fine Arts Center.

Sunday, May 13 is Baccalaureate day with the formal baccalaureate sermon in the alumni gymnasium at 10:30 in the morning, the sermon being preached by President Ralph W. Lloyd on the theme, "Christian Culture."

The formal dedication service of the Fine Arts Center will be held on the afternoon of baccalaureate Sunday at 3:00. Participants will include not only officials of the College but also the donors of the building, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Alfred Lloyd of Chicago, the President of the National

On Academic Freedom

The difficulty in writing an Echo editorial lies mainly in choosing an appropriate and timely subject matter. Usually, it is not easy to fill the editorial column; this week the problem is in selecting one or two topics from the many that now offer themselves.

We could congratulate the Chilhowean staff for bringing out a terrific yearbook. We could criticize the administration for placing the Quickway Restaurant out of bounds, an act we think unfortunate and unfair. We could applaud Athenian and Bainonian for what we consider the best dance the hill has ever seen. We could congratulate the incoming student body officers and remind them of the new and serious responsibilities for good government that are now theirs. We could commend President Truman for his definite statement of American-Asiatic policy and his firing of the general so completely out of sympathy with that program that release because of insubordination became necessary. We could voice our appreciation of the inclusion of the College Hill Grill in Town Night bounds.

But in spite of these current events which so adequately lend themselves to editorial comment, we choose to discuss, while we have the opportunity, an aspect of Maryville College life and thought which we feel goes unappreciated. It is the idea of academic freedom.

Situations arising in other colleges and universities, notably the University of Washington and the University of California, bring the concept of academic freedom very much to mind, and carry with it to thinking people the fact that we are losing a part of our heritage of democracy. A number of other schools, especially those under political pressure, are being involved in a series of situations which we consider a dangerous threat to our freedom.

Loyalty oaths for faculty members and the firing of professors who hold unorthodox beliefs are as alien to real democracy as they are kin to Nazi fascism and Russian Communism. Maryville College, however, despite this tragic trend in other schools, has recognized it all for the danger to liberty that it is, and continues as a college where complete academic freedom is a sacred thing. Qualifications for teaching here are based on ability, not on political membership or point of view. A Maryville College instructor is rated on how well he knows and teaches his field, not on how he votes.

Arthur Garfield Hays, long associated with the defense of civil liberties, writes, "The implications and consequences which follow from judging men not by their acts but by their views are far more dangerous to democracy and freedom than the Communists themselves." It is too easy to take this all for granted. Only if there were the attempt to restrict academic freedom here would we become aroused. We ought to become aroused enough over our freedom to appreciate it and resolve to continue and strengthen it.

The Individual Voter

Last week's student body election brings very definitely to mind a concept which, even in our democratic process, we tend to minimize: the importance and significance of the individual voter.

The campaigns were clean and run according to Student Council's new set of election ethics and procedure. Every candidate displayed qualities of interest and ability, so much so that some choices were made difficult. All in all, it was a good campaign and election.

But major victories by only a tiny number of votes make one realize just how important every vote really is. When two or three votes determine who gets an office as significant as the student body presidency, we are forcefully reminded of the tremendous value of the individual voter.

In our age and time, we are tempted to think in large numbers and on big scales. This may or may not be good, but it simply does not apply to our elections here. In spite of effective campaigning and everything that goes with it, it is still the man with the ballot who decides who goes into office.

It is easy to say "My vote doesn't count." We say it nationally as well as on the campus level. The only thing wrong with it is that it is simply not true. Last week's election proved that with out any possible question of doubt. It is the individual voter who wins or loses elections. Those involved in campus politics had best realize and remember that.

Scots & Soda

TOUCHE

In trying to get her coat from the dining hall racks, some unfortunate girl knocked over a whole pile onto the floor. While she was looking for hers, Jim Dance sidled up and said: "Can't you find one you like?"

LIFE'S DARKEST MOMENT

After the seniors had reviewed four years of accumulated notes for comps, Mr. Pieper presented a most timely topic for the exam—the MacArthur controversy.

PENTHOUSE PERFORMANCES

Judging from the lighting effects at the spring formal, the theme should have been "Dancing in the Dark." And after seeing how lightheaded some of those dancers were, we've come to the conclusion that the weight must have settled in their feet. Right?

AN ILL WIND

Miss Walker was explaining holding companies to her Social Science Survey class. Quoth she: "I've already brought the controlling stock in two companies, but I'm still not satisfied. I want more. I'm a big typhoon."

RUSH WEEK

Someone remarked that if there had been an Echo last week, Scots and Soda should probably have been Scots and Paragoric. That news item on germ warfare on Carnegie bulletin board was very timely, too.

THE SANDS OF TIME

Spring has sprung, the grass is riz,
The time is near, for the final quiz—20 days.

ENGAGED COUPLES

Chalk up four more casualties in the Battle Between the Sexes.—Carolyn Beatty and Greg Howard, Sylvia Cummings and Bill Espenshade. Congratulations!

ART'S ART

Mr. Bushing was discussing the Pardoner's tale in Chaucer in a sophomore English class when he said: "That reminds me of a joke." Class was then resumed. Rumor hath it that the let-down was greater than the suspense.

WEIN, WEIBER UND GESANG

For those who only heard about the talk by Professor Ernst Braun at the German Club, here's an assortment of his remarks. When he was asked about the 40,000 gallon wine cask in Heidelburg, he said: "When I think about that cask, I think that there's still some hope for humanity." "And German classes are a form of organized warfare, with authority on one side and the ingenuity on the other."

DID YOU KNOW

that German schools close at noon. The afternoon is for the theoretical preparing of lessons. If the thermometer climbs higher than 85-90 degrees, school is closed. European students are a class and a community by themselves, and professors have a rank equal to that of the Cabinet members of the government.

SPRING

The spring monsoon season seems to have arrived——expressing its usual spring sediments. And how dull the campus has been! Only the ultra-close elections and the Chilhowean arrival. Maybe it's because the Vesper Choir is on tour.

VENI, VIDI, SOMNUM CEPPI

Even with Dr. Hunter, Mr. Bushing, and Miss Blair for profs, Joan Titley still sleeps in classes.

PRIDE AND PREJUDICE

Try as we could, we could not think of one nasty crack to make about the 1951 Chilhowean. Must have been the excellent work done by Lynn Miller and crew. Congratulations! !

BUTTERED BREAD

Now that exams are getting closer, and the end of the semester draws near, we have decided, by necessity, and out of the kindness of our heart, to give the profs a break and present the other side of the picture.

If he's brand new at teaching, he lacks experience.
If he's been teaching all his life, he's in a rut.

If he seldom admits a mistake, he's arrogant.
If he ever admits a mistake he ought to go back to bricklaying.

If he hands out plenty of high grades, he has no standards.
If he hands out plenty of low grades, he's a butcher.

If he sticks to his specialty, he's got a one-track mind.
If he tours the encyclopedia, he's a show-off.

If he's young, he needs more seasoning.
If he's old he's seen better days.

If he gives a lot of quizzes he's a slave driver.
If he seldom gives a test, he's too lazy to read a paper.

If he gets his name in the newspapers, he's publicity mad.
If he nevers appears in the papers, he's so much deadwood.

If he's on good terms with the president, he's a sychopant.
If he doesn't wear out the stairway from the Ad building, he's disloyal.

If he dresses recently, he's trying to be a fashion plate.
If he thinks about something else besides clothes, he's a bum.

If he plants an occasional joke in lectures, he's a comedian.
If he never condescends to an academic nifty, he's duty dull.

If he writes books, he's neglecting his teaching.
If he never publishes, he's never had a thought worth publishing.

If he uses notes, he's unoriginal.
If he gets along without notes, he's an ad-libber.

If he can't identify Janowicz or Stanky, he isn't human.

If he listens to sports broadcasts, he's illiterate.

Voices, Masks, and Shadows

ON THE SCREEN

"Lullaby of Broadway," starring Gene Nelson and Doris Day, begins the week at the Capitol. Playing Monday and Tuesday, this technicolor musical is a sure hit.

Wednesday brings Charles Boyer and Ingrid Bergman, playing in "Arch of Triumph." Bergman, as Joan Modou, is a slightly scandalous woman, in love with a foreign doctor (Boyer) who is forbidden to operate in the country. Together the two make the movie intensely dramatic.

Horse opera hits the Capitol Thursday and Friday in "Copper Canyon" with Hedy Lamarr and Ray Milland as saloon queen and ex-colonel.

"Mrs. Mike" returns to Maryville to play at the Park next Monday. A biography of vivid human color, it is filled with exciting incidents in the life of a lonely white man, Sergeant Mike of the Canadian Mounties (played by Dick Powell) and Mrs. Mike, a frail girl from Boston (played by Evelyn Keyes), lonelier still while her husband patrols the frozen wilderness.

The story is shot through with the hard brutalities of a primitive life, but there are great affectionate recompenses in the scenes of beauty and human kindness. The friendliness of Mrs. Mike's neighbors, the joy of her husband's homecoming, and the devotion of Mike to his little family help make this a heartwarming, heroic film.

Tuesday and Wednesday the Park features Bill Williams and Jane Nigh in "Blueblood," a riproaring western. "Sierra," another frontier picture, plays Thursday and Friday, starring Audie Murphy and Wanda Hendrix, with Burl Ives.

Miss Hendrix, as a talented lawyer, wins Murphy while she proves his father innocent of a crime that has kept the men in hiding in the mountains for 15 years.

The following week at the Capitol will bring "Dallas" on Monday and Tuesday, "Buchaneers" on Wednesday, and "The West Point Story" on Thursday and Friday.

ON THE BOOKSHELVES

New in the library this week is Gwen Brislow's "Jubilee Trail," packed full of adventure, treachery, tragedy, and romance. Garnet Cameron, a fashionable young lady, spurns all the polite young "men about town" for adventurous Oliver Hale, a tanned, awkward man, too big for her parlor.

The life of a trader's wife, treking over the Jubilee Trail from California to Sante Fe every year is exciting and dangerous. For a vital history of California with stormy times and vivid people read "Jubilee Trail."

With Russia and Communism very much in current thought you can't afford to miss "The God That Failed," edited by Richard Crossman. Six important individuals who once had faith in Russian Communism give their statement of belief and confessions in this revealing book. Having been a part of communism, these men understand it clearly. Every question is answered in this gold mine of personal information.

Six hundred American and British airforce officers worked day and night for a year on their plans. Four hundred passes and other documents were forged. One thousand compasses and maps were prepared. Two hundred false German uniforms were made. Tunnels and an intricate underground were set up. All this went on under the very noses of German guards who searched the compounds night and day. This was "The Great Escape" by Paul Brickbille, a non-fiction thriller that puts fiction to shame.

IN OUR EARS

Sweet songs to bring back happy memories are in store for us again tonight at the second performance of Springtime Serenade. And at the same time, our traveling Vesper Choir will be taking the honors at New Brighton, Pennsylvania. Reports indicate that the group is doing a splendid job.

ON TV

The latest discussion on TV is the slight possibility of televising Senate and House sessions. The public has been urging this for some time but there is at the present little possibility of it.

—LJK

Athenian

Athenian will meet tonight at 6:15 in Bartlett Auditorium, with a special program arranged for by Charlie Reid, program chairman.

Bainonian

Members of Athenian will be in charge of the program at Bainonian tonight at 6:15 in Bainonian Hall.

ECHO FORUM

To The Editor:

We wish to express publicly our sincere appreciation to all those who so willingly gave their time to work throughout the entire week for the grand climax on last Saturday night.

The dance committee is especially grateful for the leadership and organizational help of Lesta Merick, Lois Lerch, Bob Moser, Bob Green, Jack Mowatt, Bobbie Porter, Joe Poland, Don Moffatt, Chuck Holsingers, Meg Brown, Harriet McClain, Bob Lehr, Flo Clark, Ann Leeder, and Nan Enloe.

Again we say thank-you to all the workers, both those who helped on the set and those who were on hand Saturday night, for putting over a "Penthouse Serenade" long to be remembered by M.C.'ers!

George Barber, Tom Kees, Maree Richards, Lou Masters, and Hazel Holm, Dance Chairmen.

TO THE EDITOR:

April 17, 1951

The Maryville College Vesper Choir arrived in Baltimore this morning after a leisurely trip from Salisbury where we had spent the night. Highlighting the trip was a 25-minute ferry-ride across the four-and-a-half mile Chesapeake Bay, during which we entertained the other passengers with an impromptu rendition of "Just As The Tide Was Flowing."

At noontime we conducted the devotional service for the Presbytery of Baltimore and a full concert is scheduled for tonight at the Second Presbyterian Church.

The tour so far has included interesting sightseeing as well as concert performances. At Washington the choir was entertained on Saturday afternoon with a tour of Capitol Hill, Lincoln Memorial, National Art Gallery, and other places of historic interest; in the evening by square-dancing at the National Presbyterian Church.

Sunday morning we sang at two services to a total of about 1700 people. Immediately after the second service we embarked via Trailways for Philadelphia where we presented our first full concert at Covenant Presbyterian Church. Sightseeing at Valley Forge and a concert at Maryland State Teachers' College in Salisbury completed Monday's schedule. Tomorrow the tour takes us to Aberdeen, Md.

At most of our stops, Maryville College alumni have been much in evidence. Fred Sieber, Dr. Buchanan (Dan's father), Jack and Marty Reed, and Sally Sutton met us in Washington. At Philadelphia we saw Ginni Schwarz, Roger and Dot (Holverson) Cowan, Bill Holt, Art Haaf, Webster Fue, Ray Packard, Carl Lindsay, and of course Charlie Huffman who has been tailing us ever since Washington.

Sports Echoes

By Neal Pearson

●THE COMBINATION HAS SEEMINGLY been found by Coach L. S. Honaker in regard baseball. After losing one to Hiwassee, the Scots have come back to win two in a row at home and must have done likewise on the road these past roads as no news is mentioned in the papers about it from the cities wherein the MC team played. The type of play has definitely changed from one of the constant atack to a close-to-the vest game as seen in the Emory-Henry game. The Hiwassee game after the first couple of innings had little to offer in the way of entertainment.—not even batting averages for MC earned only five of her 21 runs—the rest being rather gratis because of some rather hot-potato handling of the ball by the Tigers. Biggest boost has been the pitching angle as was shown also in said Wasps game—Coach Lombe Honaker started out with Gene Parks, then put Jim Kren in to put the game under ice, and when the latter was unfortunately unable to continue—split finger affair—he still had Sonny Short to throw at the opposition. Kren was not able to make the trip this week because of said finger but Parks and Short were definitely able to hold the fort with encouragement from the hitters. The next games at home are those of April 26 and May 1 with King and Milligan—the latter coached by basketballer Sid Hathaway who makes the game his vocation during the summer—his home town being the same place as Andrew Q. Seminick of Philadelphia to toss in something added.

●TO BE READ WITH Understanding and Cheek In Tongue. . .

"The Charge of the Shovelled Brigade"

Flashed all their shovels bare,
Flashed as they all heaved in air,
Raking and crushing the cinders there,
And charging a field
While all the world doubted
Amidst the work they shouted. . .
Plunged into rocks and dusty smoke,
Right through hard clay they tried to poke
Trackmen and now and then a volunteer
All reeled from the bright sun-sear. . .
Tired and wearied. . .
They were still doubted
But the six 'n seven went back,
"Never, never," they shouted.

Cinders to be spread to the right,
Cinders to be spread to the left
As railbirds to the rear thundered,
"All you guys've done is blunered."
Stormed at with words and—
While criticism it rose and fell
They that had worked so well
Still came through in their job right swell
Back from that field we speak to Heaven
Of that noble six 'n' seven.

When will their glory fade,
Of the track they have made?
All the world, it admits it blundered,
Honours now that noble six hundred.
Honour now the ten 'n' 'leven,
But better still the noble six 'n' seven.

—The Barber of Sevierville With Thanx to Tennyson

●IT IS FINISHED and though it isn't the best one in the state, Maryville has a track of sorts now with the above woeful piece depicting our appreciation and honour of that done by "the six 'n' seven" and the "Ten 'n' 'leven." Some five months ago the campus was bare and out on the football field, no track was there. The M Club took up the work. And soon it come to be for many one to shirk. But six 'n' 'leven guys carried on, and now MC trackmen, they will it run on. The above came sort of unpunctually but we still are a-gonna spread the good word about these guys who never gave up in spite of the opposition to them and there was much—positive, negative ,and indifferent.

The six 'n seven—to our minds are the following:

Dave Helwig
Dick Kerr
Jimmy Thurston
Bill Menges
Tom Kelly
Bruce Miller
Walt English

These are the guys that were out plugging every week and did more than their share—they are the ones who really put their minds and energies to it. Added to them are Jim Lester (originator of the idea), Bob Larson, Charlie Allen, Ches Anderson, Bob Greene, and Manning Smith, who also put in a good amount of time but because of comps and such could not do more. The job they started was ¾ finished up till this week and finally with the great and large amount of help Mr. E. C. Brown and Tom Hutsell of the College Work Crew, the job was done. We repeat: it ain't the best, but, by gum, there she stands, do it beter yourslf. . ."

First and initial met of the year will be next week with ETS and with William J. Bryan—also sometime soon and that long-belated Athenian-Alpha Sigma Affair.. It has also been rumored because of the "fast" track built that Alfalfa Holmberg and his mighty UT Vols be invited to come over and inaugurate the track with a meet with MC—the swift Swede might find out that his swift-swooshing was to no avail. . . but in spite of its being a slow track. . .with a little more of our famous rain and some rolling it will be a decent track to run on and spectators will be able to see races and events from the comfort of new bleacher seats.

●TENNIS ALSO IS DUE FOR ITS SHARE of honors too as Coach Ken Johnson's crew racked up their twentieth victory of twenty-one engagements covering the last three year period. This afternoon tennis will be in the spotlight as Tusculum's Pioneers come to town for a set-to. Added attraction and probable center of inteerst for the meet will be that match in which Joan Faulkner, Tusculum feminine starlet entertains the Maryville netters.

Scot Nine Wins Fourth Game In Defeating King, Milligan

Maryville baseballers took a two-day trip this past week to King and Milligan Colleges and returned home with two victories safely stoked away.

The Scots teed off with two hits, a base on ball, sacrifice and a hit batsman to score three early runs against Milligan's Buffaloes Thursday to commence what ended up as an 8-0 win. Hitting the ball well all over the lot, the Scots got to the slants of Kiram Grindstaff Dick Arrant for fifteen safe blows which was the highest output of the season so far. On the mound for the Scots was Sonny Short who had little trouble with the Buffs save for in the fourth and seventh innings when Coach Sid Hathaway's men got two on but could not score.

King Kracked

Wins number three of the season was racked up Wednesday over King. The Scots mixed up five hits and four bases on balls to score seven runs while Gene Parks had the Tornadoes eating out of his hands and allowed only one run in eight innings of tenure. In the ninth inning, Dave Williams made his initial appearance of the season and lost control momentarily with the King team taking advantage of his wildness to score four runs.

Scot batsmen who showed up well in the game were Ken Yunkers with a triple and double in four appearances, and Wesley Kinser with a triple and a single sacker. All of King's six hits were spaced out with no King player getting more than one hit.

CAMPBELL HITS TO GIVE E. & H. FITS

With two men on and the score in favor of the visiting Emory and Henry Blue Wasps, Coach L. S. Honaker's baseball Scotties pulled one out of the fire by scoring two runs with one down to win their second victory of the season as against one loss.

The Scots had gone into the eighth inning after tying the count up only to see the Wasps of Conley Snidow tally with two gone by benefit of a base on balls, a single advancing the Wasps' Williams to third, from whence he scored on a mental-physical error by Scot-chunker Sonny Short. But in the last frame Earl Valentine got on via a charity pass, advanced on a fielder's choice to second, and held on while pitcher Frazier of the Virginians walked catcher Bill Van Benthysen, Short then made up for his mistake in handling the ball by sending a grass cutter down to third which went through hot-sacker Mills of the Wasps and Valentine scored; moving Van B. to the keystone bag. Jimmy Campbell, pint-sized MC short-fielder then lashed a single to short right center and MC won the ball game.

No Hits, No Runs

The game had started out as a pitcher's duel between Gene Parks of the Scots and Frazier with both men pitching one hit ball for six frames and then Parks retiring in favor of Jim Kren after the Wasps had gained one unearned run and MC had nullified that score with a run of her own in which Campbell figured by singling, stealing second and third, and then counting on Leaky Campbell's stroke to right center after fouling twice to the left side of the field. Kren pitched well but was struck on the finger by a foul ball being returned to the diamond and had to retire with a split finger. Short then came to the hill and the stage was set for a team rally.

Scots Tag Tigers, 25-2 For Initial Home Game

Hiwassee's Tigers came back for a return game on April 9 against MC's Scots confident of winning number two of the season—having won the season's opener, 4-0. However, they were forced to leave with other ideas in mind as Scot bats greeted starter Bob Galloway and reliefer Don Henderson with some 11 hits which —sandwiched around some seven Hiwassee miscue—counted for 21 runs against their opponents' two. The game was the second highest score for an MC diamond aggregation in Scot athletic annals—a 25-2 walloping last year being the only one to top it. In the meantime, Scot hurlers, Sonny Short and Gene Parks parceled out only four hits over the route and watched ten men stride away from the plate via the strike out route. Hiwassee pitching, save for their momentary lapses when they dished up the Scots hits also sent nine men down likewise. Hitting the ball much better than usual, Coach Lombe Honaker's nine went to bat for eight runs in the first two frames and extended their lead out more as the game progressed—all of the Scot blows being singles save for two two-baggers by Don Alford and Bill Van Benthysen and Scot strategy working much better with four base thefts against the Tigers.

Softball—

A look at the softball standings finds the Alpha Sig Holy Rollers and Hoboes on top with identical 3-1 records. The Holy Rollers carry the society appelation before their name because of the membership of their squad is made up mainly of players "raided" from the Sigs squads of last year. Trailing a little further behind are Sherman (Pop) Lester's B.O.B.'s (Bad Odor Boys), YMCA which got the wind knocked out of its sails twice this past week, the ZaNees, and the Alpha Sigarettes on the upgrind along with the potentially powerful Punks. Dragging on at the end are the Happy Warriors who pulled the biggest upset of the season this past week and the forlorn Bugs.

Among the few surprises of this week for the favorites was the Happy Warriors' going on the warpath to scalp the B.O.B.'s in a 11-10 game surprising everyone including themselves.

The YMCA also got knocked out of first place with defeats administered by the Hoboes and the Lester-team which made a comeback the next day to take advantage of some Y walks and errors.

Close ones of the season were those in which the Bugs participated. On Tuesday, the Holy Rollers stomped the luckless Bugs 27-8 and then "squeezed by", 31-10!

From here it looks like a fight down to the wire for the title between the Punks, Rollers, and Hoboes with several playoffs perhaps in the offing. Referees, needless to say once again, are still needed.

MC Tennis, Baseballers Play Tusculum, CIO Today

Scot Tracksters Travel To Relays

Coach John Davis and fourteen men left early this morning for Johnson City and the annual Milligan Relays. Maryville's cindermen who usually rank high in the final scores are definitely underdogs this year as the Scots are faced with a definite shortage of trackmen in the matter of depth.

The Relays which are one of the top track events in this section of the country annually attracts ten-twelve small college teams and 12-15 high schools for the track and field events. Last year MC was third and the year before tied with Wofford of South Carolina for first place.

Going for Maryville will be Dave Helwig, Dick Kerr, Tom Kelly, and Bill Menges in distance events; Bob Sangster, Jimmy Thurston, Burt McMahon, Jack Maxwell and Harold Nairon in the 440's; and sprints; Bruce Miller and Al McCulloch in the 880's.... Ed Brahams in the High Jump; John Schaumberg and Joe Hopkins in the hurdle races.

Preliminaries and the Distance-Medley of one 440, two 880's and a mile will be run in morning competition which begins at ten and finals will be held in the afternoon. Other relay races included are the mile one consisting of four 440's; the 880 relay made up of four 220's; a sprint medley race consisting of one 440, two 220's, and an 880; and the two mile relay made up of four 880's. Individual events include the 100 and 440 yard dashes and the mile besides the 120 hurdles ano other weight events.

The track meet with East Tennessee State has been moved to Friday on the Johnson City track in a change made this week originally from next Saturday. Last year on MC's old track, the Bucs walked away with a 20-point margin win; while a meet with William Jennings Bryant is still in the indefinite stage.

MC Wins Now Four In A Row Racqueteers Go For Fifth

This afternoon at around 2 o'clock, Coach Kenneth Johnson's tennis team will go after win number five of the season—and six in a row against the males and also one female of Tusculum. Neither team has played the other or co-respective opponents but MC will be favored in the light of this year's record and previous year's matches. Over on the baseball field Maryville CIO will be playing the Scot baseballers.

Tennis Team Beats TPI For Fourth

Fourth win of the season was racked up Tuesday away from home as TPI's Golden Eagles lost some of their luster before the tennis playing of MC by a 9-0 shutout. The victory was also the third calcimation of the season administered over the season, other teams losing matches without winning a set being TWJC, and Milligan, with C-N being the only team to win a set. Added to the aggregate total of the last three years, it was MC's twentieth win as against one loss—that to ETS—and one which the Scots are pointing for in revenge.

Results of the TPI match:

C. Anderson (M) defeated Bond (TPI), 6-0, 6-0

Miles (M) defeated Ottinger (TPI), 6-0, 6-0.

McCampbell (M) defeated Dean (TPI), 6-1, 6-1

Buser (M) defeated Lehorn (TPPI), 6-0, 6-2

Gage (M) defeated McClellan (TPI), 6-1, 6-1

J. Anderson (M) defeated McClellan (TPI), 6-1, 6-1

DOUBLES

Miles-Anderson (M) defeated Bond-Dean (TPI), 6-3, 6-4

Buser-McCampbell (M) defeated Lehorn-Ottinger (TPI), 6-1, 6-2

Gage-Gardner (M) defeated Beasley-Locke (TPI), 6-3, 6-1

Number three triumph of the season was taken by a 6-1 score over Carson-Newman's Eagles, last week, on the Memorial courts. Coach Ken Johnson's netmen had little trouble save for Clyde McCampbell who dropped a three-setter to Charles Catlett. Winners for the Scots were Chesley Anderson, Wes Miles, Kent Buser, Glen Gage, and John Anderson in the singles events, and Marshall England and Glen Gage in the Doubles matches. Miles-Anderson and McCampbell-Buser were rained out of their matches shortly after they had started.

First recorded match between the two tennis teams was back in 1917 with MC winning but the score isn't known followed by four straight MC wins—though there are some gaps lasting to 1947 when the Pioneers won 4-3. After this the two split in 1948, 5-4, and 2-5, with MC taking two shutouts in 1949, 7-0 and 9-0. Last year the two teams did not play. Lineups for MC will be down the ladder: Miles, McCampbell, Anderson, Buser, Gage, John Anderson with either Marshall England or Dick Gardner taking J. Anderson's place in the doubles match.

The girl mentioned above is Miss Joan Faulkner, a pretty fair player of her sex. Tusculum's other players are not known as of now save for names Ralph Wilber, Glen Eddington, Ernie Carlomagno, Joe King, Bob Boyle and another girl, Janet Muss.

Coach L. S. Honaker's baseballers returning from a game with LMU yesterday on the Harrogate field met the CIO team some two weeks ago but the game was halted in the fourth inning with the Stelers ahead 2-0 by virtue of a pair of unearned tallies.

Next Tuesday will see a game with ETS htere. Last year MC triumphed in the only game played.

The program includes "Prelude No. 2 in C Sharp Minor," and "Prelude No. 3 in E Flat Minor," by Gershwin, played by Ann Taylor; "General Lavine-Eccentric," by DeBussy, played by Mary Wade Newton; "Improvisation," and "March Wind," by MacDowell from "Twelve Virtuoso Studies, Op. 46," played by Barbara Stidham;

"Impromptu Op. 90, No. 4,, by Schubert, played by Lena Belle McGaha; "Trois iPeces," by Poulenc, and "Toccata" and "LeRossignol," by Alabieff-Liszt will be played by Joyce Linginfelter.

Herbert Hoover will play "Sonata Op. 2, No. 3," by Beethoven, and "Prelude No. 1 in B Flat Minor," and "Prelude No. 14 in E Flat Minor," by Shostokovitch; "Prelude in B Flat Major, Op. 28, No. 21," and "Prelude in G Minor Op. 28, No. 22," by Chopin will be played by John Sayre.

The last selection on the program will be "Ach wie fluchtig," by Bach-Goldousky, played by Larry Wallace and Carol Barnett.

German Club To Elect

German Club elections will be held Monday, April 23 in Thaw 206 at 6:45.

Professor Ernst Braun, of UT, speaker at last week's meeting, discussed school systems of Germany, England and the US, denazification and the Nuremburg trials, German topographical and climatical conditions, and other topics of general historical interest.

Cast Readies 'Much Ado'

The Commencement play "Much Ado About Nothing" is in the fourth week of rehearsal. The Shakespearean comedy will be presented Friday and Tuesday, May 11 and 15.

Costume and scenery committees have already begun work. Tickets will go on sale soon.

Memorial Books Given To Library

Dr. and Mrs. Duncan Crowley, '36, of Penns Grove, N.J., have recently given to the chemistry section of the library two valuable books in memory of Dr. William C. Frishe, '35, whose death occurred last fall.

The titles of the books were "Chemical Process Industries" by Shreve and "Chemical Thermodynamics" by Rossini, subjects especially related to Dr. Frishe's work.

Frishe was a classmate of the Crowleys. Since that time he received his doctor's degree from Indiana University and was employed at Detroit University at the time of his death. Mrs. Frishe (the former Eleanor Pflanze, '36) is a resident of Maryville.

Given this past week by the English faculty of the college is "The New Letters of Robert Browning" in memorial of Leander Jackson, Miss Elizabeth Jackson's father—she being on leave of absence at the present time.

Another given by this same group in honor of the asme man is "Boswell's London Journal" a collection of one of this world's most famous writer's works.

In memory of Arthur F. Walker, Professor Walker's brother, the Faculty of the College has given the "Autobiography of Robert A. Millikan," the famous physicist.

FINE ART SFESTIVAL

Association of Schools of Music, Mr. Price Doyle, and others.

The ceremony will be held at the building itself, outdoors if weather permits. At the close of the dedication ceremony an address on "Music in the Liberal Arts Education" will be given by Dr. E. William Doty, Dean of the College of Fine Arts, University of Texas, a leader in the field of music education.

At 4:30 on Sunday afternoon there will be the usual senior music hour, presenting the three music majors of this year.

Commencement Vespers will be at 7:00 in the evening with Dr. Paul Calvin Payne speaking on the theme, "Mirrors or Windows."

On Monday morning, May 14, will be the annual senior class chapel service. Usually it has come in the preceding week but because of the Fine Arts Festival it was put on this more appropriate time.

On Saturday, May 12, the day preceding Baccalaureate Sunday, there will be held all day at the Fine Arts Center competitions in music and art which has been announced for high school seniors and graduates. Certain scholarship awards will be made as a result of these competitions, a special fund having been given to the College for this purpose. This is attracting wide attention and some of the eminent visitors during the Fine Arts Festival will act as judges.

On Tuesday, May 15, the annual reception by President and Mrs. Lloyd will be given from 3:00 to 5:00 in the afternoon in their home. At 8:00 that night the Commencement play will give its second presentation.

Commencement Day is May 16. The Board of Directors will meet at 8:30 and the graduating exercises will be at 10:30 that day. The name of the Commencement speaker has not as yet been announced.

Educators Face Moral Problems Says Dr. Brehm

Dr. C. E. Brehm. president of the University of Tennessee, addressed the Faculty Club at their dinner meeting last Monday night.

While speaking about the problems of the educator in the world situation today, Dr. Brehm emphasized the growing moral problems of gambling and crime which have been brought to our attention recently by the basketball scandals in New York. These problems are increasing in spite of the fact that college enrollment is also growing in the past few years. It is seen that this is truly a problem for the educators of today.

Pre-Ministerials Elect Charlie Reed Prexy

Charlie Reed was installed as president of the Pre-Ministerial Association in the annual banquet held last Tuesday at College Hill Grill. A sophomore English major from Philadelphia, Pa., Reed will be assisted by other installed officers Galen Work, 1st Vice-President from Kennett Square, Pa., 2nd. Vice-President, Ken Rutherford from Horsham, Pa., and Secretary-Treasurer Bruce Miller from Trenton, N.J.

Dr. J. MacDowell Richards, president of Columbia Theological Seminary, Decatur, Georgia, addressed the members who attended.

Dr. Lloyd Speaks To YM

Tomorrow at YMCA meeting President Ralph Lloyd will speak on "Catholicism," the same talk which he gave recently at YWCA.

On Sunday, April 29, the speakers at YM will be Mr. and Mrs. Gale Gardner, who will tell about YMCA summer work camps. They are directors of Camp LeConte, a Y camp in the Smokies.

Composer's Forum May 4

The third annual Composer's Forum will be held on Friday afternoon, May 4, as one of the regular series of recitals sponsored by the Fine Arts Division.

Anyone, whether or not he is taking music, may submit a manuscript for performance. Manusrripts should be in ink, not be over five minutes in performanre time, and submitted to Associate Professor Dorothy Horne before noon, Monday, April 23

Sports Echoes

Cages. The above is sort of a pun but the fact remains that this girl must be a prety fair tennis player—Tusculum's girl star Priscilla Watts beat MC's Harold Hunter two years ago when she was at their number four spot and this year the Faulkner girl may be likewise. No game was played last year, so we shall see whether or no two years have made any change in her playing. And for those admirers of Gorgeous Gusie Moran we have no idea of what Miss Faulkner's apparel shall be—perhaps dungarees and sport shirt—who knows. Rumors also are around to the effect (and true) that the Pioneers' squad has another lass on its roster also. . . don't know but wouldn't mind seeing such.

As for the praise going to the tennis-men's way, just compare last year's score. TPI went down only by a 4-3 score last annum and Bill Martin, TPPI number one man lost only to Ches Anderson by 6-4 scores. But the big test is yet to come with all fifteen or so Scot netsmen—varsity and JV's—looking forward to Thursday's match with ETS here on the Memorial courts. The Bucs have a good team again this year but how good in comparison with the Scot we will only find out after next Thursday. Perhaps those in charge of Intramurals can call off scheduled games and Coach Honaker can let his baseball game start a bit later than his usual 2 p.m. starting time which usually begins a little later anyhow so that students may take in the tennis tourney and baseball game with King—don't know though. . .but might please Coach Johnson and if over sooner, there would be more fans to view the ball game also.

● THOUGHT WE HAVE SAID OUR PIECE concerning the track, it's more than about time something was said of the guys that are going to have to run on it. This morning, Coach Davis took some 10-15 boys along with him to the anual Milligan relays held in Johnson City. Heretofore this year, MC has always been up near the top when the points were counted—last year coming in third and the year before, tying with Wofford of South Carolina for top honors. As usual the field will have plenty of contestants of fine calibre. MC's forte in the meet has always been the mile relay but this year will find an admixture built around Jimmy Thurston and Harold Nairon of last year and several frosh possibilities to be added with Bill Menges filling in the middle distances and Tom Kelly or Dave Helwig in the longer ones. As for the field events and hurdles, MC

Vols "Unlock Bibles" In Bartlett Tomorrow

"Unlocking the Bible" will be presented at Student Vols tomorrow night after Vespers in Bartlett Hall. It is a program telling of the translation and literacy work on the mission field, especially emphasizing the work of Frank Laubach.

There will be a skit showing Laubach's "Each-One-Teach-One" method, introduced by Jerry Knecht, with Bill Starr as Laubach, Grace Myers as a mission teacher in Africa, and George Ogle and Del Poling as students.

Song leaedr will be Wes Miles and special music will be by Jim Kren, Al Springfield, Ed Brahams, and Charlie Flood.

YW's Hear of Missions

Local missions will be the theme of the YWCA meeting tomorrow at 1:30. Approximately 60 children from Home Avenue Chapel and the Negro mission will be present for the program.

Beverly Jacobi and Helen Sims have charge of the work at the two missions.

Sigs Meet To Eat

Alpha Sigma will meet at 6:15 tonight in the YW rooms. The program will consist of songs rendered by the quartet.

Members will also have their annual banquet next Tuesday night at 3:30 at College Hill Grill. A surprise program is being planned by a committee of Bob Osborne, David Ritzman, Arnold Munn and Neale Pearson.

Jim Allison, Saline ville, O., and Dave Reed, Hamden, N.Y. will represent the class also in Council.

Rising Juniors

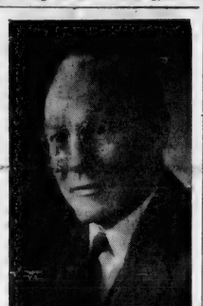
Paul Merwin, sociology major from New York City, was elected president of next year's junior class. Merwin is vice president of the class this year. Isabell Leitch from Brooklyn, N.Y., will fill the office of vcie president. Edie McMillan, Marietta, Ga., was elected secretary and Lacy Woody, Del Rio, treasurer.

Beverly Edwards, Knoxville, and Betty Hammers, Stewartstown, Pa., were elected women Councillors; Arnold Munn, Islip Terrace, N.Y., and Ed Scott, Asheville, N. C., were elected men Councillors.

Incoming Sophomores

Jim Hunt, Uniontown, Pa., won the presidential race for the incoming sophomores. Hunt was treasurer of his class this year. Carl Drescher was elected vice president.

Secretary is Pat Halstead and Treasurer is Bob Sangster. Ruth Ann Roach was elected woman Councillor and Walt Elwood and Hank Van Hassell will represent the men in Council.



Notice!

Treasurers of all student organizations are reminded that a financial report must be made to Dr. L. L. Williams before the end of the semester. Blanks may be picked up in the Science building.

Books must also be audited at the same time.

Lloyd, Payne Speak At Baccalaureate

The formal baccalaureate service will be held on Baccalaureate Sunday May 13, at 10:30 in the morning in the alumni gymnasium. Presiednt Ralph Waldo Lloyd will preach the sermon on the theme "Christian Culture."

DR. P. C. PAYNE

Dr. Paul Calvin Payne of Philadelphia, General Secretary of Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, will be the speaker at Commencement Vespers at 7:00. He will preach on the subject "Mirrors or Windows."

As a result of the Theta elections for next year's officers Gracie Scruggs became president; Mary Claire Fox, vice-president; Wilma Borter, treasurer; Ruth Kuckherman, secretary; Edith MacMillan and Connie Howell, program chairmen; Mary Kelton and Peggy Kettles, rush week chairmen; and Helen Drinnen, sergeant-at-arms.

Miss Scruggs is a physical education major from Clinton.

Maryville College sophomores again this year ranked above the national average in the results of the English and contemporary affairs tests taken last month.

The English scores ranked MC sophomores in the 53rd percentile on the national standard, and the current events test placed them in the 55th percentile. The 50th percentile, the median, is approximately the national average.

Aths Elect English For Fall Semester

In the Athenian elections the results are as follows: president, Walter English; first vice-president, Bob Sprague, second vice-president, Bill Clarke; secretary, Don MacDonald; and treasurer, Bob Johnston. An installation service was held at the regular meeting on May 5.

English is a senior biology major from Philadelphia, Pa. He is a member of the Vesper Choir and the YMCA Cabinet, and is active in intramurals and track.

Big-Little Sister Program Started

The Big-Little Sister program of the YWCA will get under way August 1 for the school year 1951-52. Moe Wright will be in charge of mailing out the names and addresses of incoming freshman girls and new students to the upperclassman who have signed up for a little sister.

Girls who signified their desire to help out in these programs are asked to get in touch with their little sister as soon as her name and address arrive. Contact through the mail should be maintained until school opens and then upperclassman should make it a point to see the new students upon their arrival.

Mag Warren, Izzie Leitch, and Ella Swift will be in charge of the Big-Little Sister party which is held every fall. Big sisters will be urged to take their little sisters to the party.

Swift Heads Bains; Lancaster Is Veep

Bainonian officers for next semester elected last week are as follows: president, Ella Swift; vice president, Edith Lancaster; secretary, Jean Ellis; treasurer, Mary Jane Spencer; program chairmen, Isabel Leitch and Betty Hammers; and rush week chairman, Lois Layton and Shirley Atwell.

Miss Swift is an elementary education major from White Hall, Maryland.

New, Old Staff Promotions Made

Rising senior sociology major Richard Alan Newman from Kingston, N.Y., was elected editor of the 1951-52 Highland Echo in elections held May 3.

Newman is president of International Relations Club and is a member of Writers' Workshop. He has been a member of the Echo editorial staff for six semesters. The editor is elected by secret balloting of the editorial staff with the faculty advisor and a Student Council representative each casting a ballot.

Promitions Given

May 2 the publications commitee voted on staff promotions. Eleven staffers were elevated following the recommendation of the editor. Rising seniors include Neale Pearson, Dick Newman and Carson Seeley. Rising juniors are Trudy Furman, Claire Hoffman, and Mary Sue Munson; rising sophomores, Walt Elwood, Joanne Frei, Pat Lovette, and Bob Lyons. Lora Kinsinger was elected to the sophomore reporters following satisfactory completion of a tryout period.

Publications committee was headed by the Echo editor as chairman and included faculty members Dr. F. A. Griffitts, Assistant Professor A. S. Bushing, Dr. R. T. Case, Student Council members Lynn Miller, Mary Wills, and Ella Swift.

Phyllis Jackson is retiring editor: Barbara Altfather Miller is retiring business manager.

Allen Heads ABC; Campbell Is Veep

Charles Allen, junior physical education major from Louisville, Ky., won the presidential race in the Athletic Board of Control elections held last week. Allen, captain of the '51-52 football team, is also a letterman in basketball. He defeated Don MacDonald.

Jim Campbell, sophomore physical education major from Mars, Pa., was elected vice president. Campbell is a member of the football varsity and the basketball team. Jean Davis, junior physical education major from Seymour, was elected secretary. Miss Davis is president-elect of Women's M Club.

Three men representatives were chosen: Walt English, Neale Pearson, and Sonny Short. Betty Carroll and Hazel Wood were elected girl representatives.

Miss Jessie S. Heron and Dean E. R. Hunter were named faculty representatives.

Senior Story Includes School, Job For Graduates

Ross Dooley, psychology major from St. Petersburg, Fla., has been accepted at Emory University in Atlanta for graduate work in Religious Education for the fall quarter. At the same time he will work with the YMCA in the Atlanta area.

Dr. S. N. Hutchison To Deliver Address

By Dick Newman

The Rev. Dr. Stuart Nye Hutchison of Pittsburgh, former Moderator of the Presbyterian US AGeneral Assembly, will deliver the Commencement address Wednesday, May 16. He is pastor emritus of East Liberty Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, now acting president of Western Theological Seminary, and a director of Maryville College.

Three programs are being combined in the Commencement season this year. In addition to the annual Commencement events, there is to be the formal dedication of the Fine Arts Center, and a fine arts festival which is expected to become an annual affair. Whether in other years the festival will be at the Commencement season has not yet been decided.

135 seniors

At this year's Commencement ceremonies, the bachelor's degree will be awarded to approximately 135 seniors, the honorary degree of doctor of divinity to four clergymen, and fifty-year certificates to the five living members of the Class of 1901.

The four persons who are to receive honorary degrees are the Rev. Walton W. Rankin, Philadelphia, Pa., manager of the Department of Publicity of the Office of the General Assembly of the USA Presbyterian Church, and editor of the weekly magazine "Monday Morning" which is sent to all Presbyterian pastors;

The Rev. J. Edward Kidder, MC alumnus, class of 1916, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Berwyn, Md., in the Presbytery of Washington City, former missionary to China, and father of Paul Kidder, a member of this year's graduating class;

The Rev. Howard M. Welsh, Maryville, class of 1899; and the Rev. Raymond J. Dollenmayer, associate pastor of East Liberty Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, MC alumnus, class of 1931, and former Associate Professor of Bible here.

Fine Arts Festival

The Fine Arts Festival events were initiated Thursday morning with an address of "Drama and Music Personalities I Have Know" by Malcolm Miller, Knoxville impresario. On Friday morning, Dr. Paul Calvin Payne, Philadelphia, General Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education spoke on "The Christian College and Tomorrow's World".

This morning at 8:00 a.m. an address on art was given by John Walker, Chief Curator, National Galery of Art, Washington, D.C. He will speak again tonight at 9:30, illustrating his talk with slides on "A Survey of American Painting".

At the Alumni Dinner this evening, Dr. Burnet C. Tuthill, Memhis, Secretary of the National Association of Schools of Music, will announce the scholarship awards in music and art to the winners of the competitions conducted today. Paul Schweikher, of Schweikher and Elting, Chicago, architects of the Fine Arts Center, will speak on architecture.

Baccalaureate Service

There will be several important events Sunday, May 13, including the annual Baccalaureate service in the morning at 10:30 a.m. and the dedication of the Fine Arts Center in the afternoon at 3:30 p.m. President Ralph Waldo Lloyd's Baccalaureate theme is "Christian Culture."

At the FAC dedication, the principal participants will be the donors, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Alfred Lloyd of Chicago who will present the building and speak informally.

Immediately following the dedication, an address on "Music in Liberal Arts Education" will be given by Dr. E. William Doty, Dean of the College of Fine Arts, University of Texas. A brief ad-

Nine new members were initiated into Writers' Workshop at a picnic held in the College Woods, Wednesday, May 2. The new members include Karole Kapp, Claire Hoffman, Joan Titley, Van Holland, Carson Seeley, Jack Durant, Sonny Short, Ed Scott, and Carolyn Sims.

The last regular meeting of the Workshop was held on April 27, when Mrs. Kennedy and Lynn Miller read, and were criticized by Doris Sommerville and Jim Kren.

FAC Dedication Highlights Festival

Malcolm Miller, Dr. Payne To Be Guest Speakers

This year the Commencement program is combined with a Fine Arts Festival which leads up to the dedication of the new Fine Arts Center. After a series of chapel talks will be the dedication itself. On Thursday the speaker was Malcolm Miller of Knoxville, well-known drama and music critic. On Friday the speaker is Dr. Paul Calvin Payne, General Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education and Chairman of the Division of Christian Education of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America. Dr. Payne's subject is "The Christian College and Tomorrow's World." On Saturday

DR. E. W. DOTY
U. of Texas

the speaker at chapel is John Walker of Washington, Curator of the National Gallery of Art. He is a grandson of the late Mrs. Walker of Morningside.

The formal dedication service of the Fine Arts Center will be Sunday afternoon at 3:00. Those participating in the service will include officials of the College and the donors of the Fine Arts Center, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Alfred Lloyd of Chicago. Others will be the President of the National Association of Schools of Music and Mr. Price Doyle.

The dedication ceremony will be held at the Fine Arts Center outside, weather permitting. At the close an address will be given by Dr. E. William Doty Dean of the College of Fine Arts of the University of Texas, and a leader in music education. He will speak on "Music in the Liberal Arts Education."

Paid Your Pledge?

Hope Fund Reaches $1887.25: Remains $383.66 Short Of Goal

The Fred Hope Fund has received so far $1503.59 of the $1887.25 pledged by students and faculty this past fall. There still remains $383.66 in unpaid pledges to be received before the close of the college year. Payments can be made at any time before May 16 to Mrs. Johnson in the Printing Office, on the first floor of Anderson.

Volunteers Elect Somerville Prexy

The following people were elected to offices in the Student Vols: Doris Somerville, president; Jerry Knecht, vice president; Rosemary Avery, secretary; Homer Rickabaugh, treasurer, and program chairman, Grace Meyers.

Notice!

Refunds of the $10 deposits will be made at the close of school. Students rooming on the campus will get clearance tickets when keys are returned in at the dormitories, and all students must get tickets at the bookstore. These tickets must be presented at the Treasurer's office in order to receive refunds, or renew deposits for the fall semester.

Paul W. Henry, Treasurer.

Last Issue—

Each September a new editor takes over the job of keeping the campus posted through The Echo; each year he gets a lot of ambitious ideas, makes a lot of plans, and attempts to be different. Likewise, each year failures come, criticism is poured on liberally, and the usual number of people think they could do a better job than the "scoop" who's on the beat now.

In a small way the job is just like life—it has its ups and downs, its happy moments and its disappointments, its successes and its failures. The old "try, try again" has been an eternal motto.

To those of you who helped make the Echo a more accurate paper, who by your cooperation enabled us to make it a news-sheet, we say thank you. To those of you who felt you might have been better off without a paper which made mistakes we ask forgiveness for being human.

An open letter to the staff bears a hearty thanks for everything which you did to make the job a little lighter. Those of you who continue on the staff will also continue to give hard work as you have done this year.

The Challenge Is Ours-

Each spring sees a host of college students graduating from the institutions of learning all over the country. Next Wednesday 135 seniors will rerceive degrees from Maryville College, marking its 132nd Commencement.

It is with mixed emotions that we view commencement exercises, for while it is the beginning of a new era for us it is also the ending of another. Wednesday the latter will seem to overshadow the joy of the former for many.

To leave behind friends with whom we have lived so closely for four years will not be easy for we realize that some we may never see again. We leave behind comparatively care-free days and, while we are not loathe to take on responsibility, we realize that these days will probably contain happiest memories of our life.

Who will easily forget early morning chapel services, Tuesday night liberty, standing in line at the SC for that 5-cent ice cream cone, cheering lustily through losing ball games, dorm life, the three-times-a-day-trek to the Warehouse, and the scads of other memories which spell Maryville.

The brighter side of it is that we are stepping forth to take our place in society as independent citizens, ready and equipped to make the world a better place to live in. Whether we be continuing schooling, taking a position, or donning a uniform our goal is one.

We are grateful for the days at Maryville and the influence which her traditions have had on our lives. The challenge is ours to uphold the principles of good living which we have learned here; our duty is to live fruitful lives to an abundant measure.

Our appreciation goes to our professors who toiled sometimes as hard as we did in passing a course and to all those in whom we have come in contact while college students. The biggest vote of thanks goes to our parents who, whether financially able or not, are mainly responsible for getting us to this milestone.

Its both a sad and joyous farewell then from the class of 1951. We leave you juniors, sophomores, and freshman sincere wishes for abundant living in the rest of your college career.

NEWS FLASH

Here is an on-the-spot behind-the-scenes report of what action the profs are taking in regard to the final exams. Science and math teachers are losing out in the race with the English, History and other profs as to who can locate the most obscure facts. One-problem exams, however, are reputed to be in very great favor with the math and science profs. The basis is that if the answer is wrong, the whole problem is wrong. Language professors think that rapid-fire oral questions in the individual language will be very effective in transmitting the exam questions to the students. And thus we ned this information with the students' watchword. "Prepare and beware."

WORMS' WORDS AND WORKS

After hearing the rendition of "South Pacific" by Theta Alpha Phi neophytes, we suggest that the play not stop on Broadway, but keep on running. Alan Caldwell gets our vote for the Laziest Boy of the Week. Even after repeated requests to turn his lawn mower the other way and utilize it as he went to and from classes, he refused.

WRITERS' WORKSHOP WRECKS AND RELICS

The intelligent members of Writers' Workshop must have astounded the older members with their ability to mix characters in making a "ghost-writing" team. How else could you account for Geoffrey Chaucer and Al Capp, Mother Goose and Shakespeare, Amy Lowell and Edgar A. Poe, Doug MacArthur and Karl Marx.

VAN HOLLAND!

was the most shouted name at the Writers' Workshop initiation as he repeatedly arranged his one silk stocking. After more of his costume fell apart, a particular question asked over and again was: "Who's?" in regard to that one item.

AFTER ALL IS SAID

They still had to answer the questions. Professor Howell, after being told that one of his questions on an exam was vague, looked at it and the next one, he only commended: "Hmm!"

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

When the end of a year occurs, the seniors usually try to sell certain furnishings. Charlie Flood really tried to go home empty handed when he advertised for sale one-half of a double-deck be, a dresser, two chairs, and one roommate, slightly used.

THE END

When students come to the end of another year, they usually look back wtih relief on finished jobs. So, no doubt, you are just as glad not to have to read these columns any more. Another thing to do is to wish the seniors good luck as they go out to face the vicissitudes of life. But we would like to add: "We hope to see all of you, including the seniors back next year." Good Luck!

Generation of Jellyfish

"Why is this generation which has been so ill-used, which has so many grievances—why is it so lacking in youthful energies?"

We have lost faith in ourselves. Once, we Americans believed that an individual could do anythihng; now the common belief is that an individual can do nothing. The world cannot be changed because we are powerless, therefore let us accept it and worm our way into the safest possible shelter—this is our philosophy. It is we, not Sigmund Freud or our professors, who have lost faith, and only as we can save ourselves.

There is one reason why we are so abysmally ignrant of our current problems. We do not care. There is one reason why our ambitions are so petty. We are soft. There is one reason why our education is such a monologue or unquestioned dogma. We put up with it.

It is easy, but profitless, to blame others—profitless because in the final analysis it is not a question of blame, but instead a question of solution. And what is the solution? With a little spirit of rebellion, with a little honest assertion of our right to be heard, with a little courage and daring, we can accomplish wonders. Perhaps, if we dare to think about it, we can be the generation which can bring peace and stability to the world at last.

But we cannot do anything so long as we stick to our sordid little ambitions, our bovine outlook, and spineless personality. If we persist, we can only accept what others decree for us and fumble to our destruction.

We hope that enough introspection will push us up the scale of evolution from sheepdom to something nearer the dignity of an American citizen.

Our world is not a safe place for sheep!

CONGRATULATIONS, SENIORS

ECHO FORUM

An Open Letter To The Junior Class:

This comes as a voice of our appreciation to all of you who have given us so much support and cooperation in our undertakings during the past year.

First, to clear up the most important matter—money, of course. The balance on hand was:

January 10, 1951	11.18
Dues and picnic fees collected to date	123.20
	134.38
Expenditures to date:
Student Council Fee	8.05
2 Pages Chilhowean	33.00
Daisy Chain Expense	1.00
Picnic	32.50
	74.55
Balance on hand	$59.83

The only expense we know we have is $12.00 for the May Day flowers for our sponsor, so we will end the year with approximately $50.00 in our treasury. Most of you have been tops in paying your dues, but there are still a few (10%) who have not paid.

Thanks to all of you who worked on the picnic and came to it. Naturally we're biased, but everything we have heard from you and the sponsors has been good. We hope that the whole class has become better acquainted and more closely knit. We hope that we can have more activities like this next year. It seems hard to believe, but the coming year will be our last together as a group and surely we should make the most of it.

Thank you, for the privilege of representing our class this year.

Your officers,
Bob Cuthill,
Bev Jacobi
Edith Lancaster
C. L. Hager

Sports Echoes

By Neal Pearson

●AS THE LAST ISSUE OF THIS YEAR'S Echo goes to press we are faced with the fortee of putting a whole lot of things into a small space and yet at the same time with much of the news stale trying to find stuff that is worth while saying, so we'll just ramble on down the line.

Baseball, which started out rather on the bleak side with the Hiwassee loss to coin a phrase found its eye and the team has come out with a better won-loss average than last year's powerful aggregation. This can be attributed to several facots, we reckon. Most of the teams faced by the Scots last year were good ones with lots of material. But with the war and graduation, most schools lost the cream of their material—MC likewise. But Coach L. S. Honaker had something left to build on and did. The something was PITCHING spelled with capital letters. Whereas most coaches in this section of the country were lucky when they were blessed with one good pitcher worthy of starting, MC was lucky to have three—Kren, Short, and Parks—and one more developing rapidly in Dave Williams. In the infield, Jimmy Campbell's fielding has been tops and the little pepper-pot has continued the hitting that sparked him well toward the end of last year's play. Ken Yunkers has shot his average up greatly from a rather-weak one of last year, also, to help the hitters. The catching and outfielding hasn't been the best in the world but players Alford, Van Benthysen, Valentine, Campbell, Kinser, Wiley, and Cusick, have come through with some snappy fielding and base hits now and then to make up for their other difficulties.

Also in for his due share of credit is Coach Honaker. Those who sit on the sidelines little realize it but Coach Honaker has taught MC's team quite a few tricks and pulled some shrewd ones out of the hat to say the least.

Tennis which right after the war was pretty low with the Scots winning no matches for two years in a row save for a contest with Maryville High made a comeback beginning in 1948, continued it undefeated through 1949, dropped just one in 1950 and repeated likewise this year with seven and one—the lone loss being to "SEC CHAMPS and the Greatest team in the South" to quote the Pillar of Truth.

Therefore, since rebuilding set in, MC teams have won twenty three games and dropped just two which is a rather commendable record to say the least. And on those teams for the last years have been one Wesley Miles, Chesley Andrson and Glen Gage who are leaving the courts of MC this year forever—at least as MC varsity men. We hereby call for three rousing cheers for this trio—they have deserved it.

Track as usual was a skimpy-numbered-affair what with just the ETS and Milligan affairs. The Scots got warmed up and in shape at Milligan and ended the short season a week later against ETS' laden-field-event men. Credit must be given to those boys who came out early and stuck it out—those that got to run and those that didn't for there was little incentive or reward for so doing. Perhaps in the future—and it is a NEEDED thing there will be MORE TRACK MEETS and more muscular men who can toss the shot, javelin, and pole vault rather than having a small group of runsters having to listen to guys who just toss the bull and/or for handling poles, the closest they have gotten to one are those they have in the billiard parlor underneath Blount National Bank.

As for those whom we think deserve commendation in this sport we point out Bill Menges and Jim Thurston. As for the first one, though we are a bit prejudiced since he belongs to the society on campus which we favor, we think he has been one of the greatest athletes ever to hit this campus. As captain of cross country he was MC's top man all the time and an inspiration to those underneath him, and when the track rolled around, he was practically made "unofficial" captain as re-sentiment of the trackmen. But the act that put him much in our favor was the Athenian-Alpha Sigma track meet when he entered the mile, 440, 880, two mile, and relay for the Sigs. If ever a man ever ran that much for any MC team and did so consistently well and never said anything about it, you just tell me and we'll write an article about him. He would deserve it. We therefore proclaim that to our way of thinking that Menges has been MC's varsity athlete of the year and perhaps can give him some fitting memento of the occasion. No doubt you have your own choices but ours is ours and that's the way it goes. You've really run every race you've run in Bill to the limit and we are proud of you.

Intramurals: Charlie Allen's Punks made a comeback after dropping their opening game of the season to the Hoboes to run away with the Intramural Softball league and then to march through the tournament to win it also in the finals with a win over the Alpha Sigarets. They are to be congratulated also. Not playing in the last game for the Punks were that mighty duo of Larson and Lester whose antics and good work has spotted many an MC athletic contest. MC will miss them when they are going along with B.B. Eyes' namesake Sherman, also an Intramural League nemesis. Softballers who have umped and are thanked for their work now we list as follows: Dean Allison, this year's retiring Intramural Manager who has done a pretty good job despite many difficulties, Horace Beckwith, Kennedy (Bud) Garrison, Howard Lawson, Sam Spade Thiessie (to be referred to later), Branin Moose Boyd, Bob Coles, Charlie Flood, "Death and Texas" Schwenkie, Jon Hale, and Dick (also called the Moose) Patton. Thanks a lot for your arbitrating. Perhaps it hasn't been the best in the world, but the Intramural leaguers have gotten at least a Class B umpiring job from y'all though they haven't paid for even a Class Z group. Thanks again.

"Well, I hardly know what to say about this." These weren't our words but those of the honorable Ralph Thiessie who was

Season Ends As Netmen Win Seventh Over C - N

MC Tennis Team Takes C-N Eagles, 8-1

Maryville's top-notch playing tennis-sers continued their winning ways over Carson-Newman by taking the Eagles, 8-1, in their last engagement of the season. Wes Miles, Chesley Anderson, Clyde McCampbell, Kent Buser, and Marshall England all came through with singles victories for the Orange and Garnet-men with John Anderson being the only one turned back in play. In doubles matches, Miles-Anderson won in a sloppily-played game along with McCampbell-Buser and England-Gage, who won their matches also without being extended to their best playing ability.

The Season

The Scottie netters started the 1951 season with a 9-0 victory over Tennessee Wesleyan's Bulldogs and followed this up with a 6-0 rained-out victory over Milligan's Buffaloes. A meet on the Jefferson City courts of the C-N Eagles followed with MC taking a 6-1 stomp.

T.P.I.'s Golden Eagles were also likewise de-feathered as the Scots calcimined them 9-0 and then ambushed Tusculum's Pioneers, 7-0, on the Monday following the originally scheduled for- Saturday match—the original match being called off when Tusculum's coach fell ill and the Pioneer's had no chaperone for woman star Nancy Faulkner. The season's big-match was with ETS the next week and MC netsmen, looking for a victory over the only team to beat them in 1950, had pulled into a 2-2 tie, only to have the rains come. LMU was whitewashed in another shutout, 6-0, and then came the only loss of the year to UT's Vols. The Orange and White-team rated by observers in Knoxville as the best to represent the school in a long time and also as the SEC's best tennis team took the Scots 7-2 on the Vol courts.

A match with Chattanooga was then called off when tennis was dropped as an inter-collegiate sport by the Moccasin athletic heads.

The best minor-league college teams matched racquets and baseline drives in Sewanee on May 3 and 4 with the Purple and White host team winning both singles and doubles titles and ten points while Maryville and ETS tied for second with three points apiece.

MC Courts Unfair to C-N

The return match with the Eagles on the "very poor" Memorial Courts followed and ended up the '51 season with a similar record to that compiled in 1950—seven victories and one defeat.

Individual records for 1951 were much better, especially for the top five men as Wes Miles and Chesley Anderson triumphed in 13 lucky matches and were dropped in only two. Clyde McCampbell took wins in twelve matches and found himself on the wrong side of the net only on two occasions. Number four man, Kent Buser, accomplished a rare feat of winning all fourteen of his matches this season in both singles and doubles play while reliable Glen Gage took eight and dropped three. Other freshman aspirants and players, John Anderson and Marshall England played enough matches to win six-drop three, and win four-lost one. Other MC player on the clays was Dick Gardner who came out on top in his only go at the nets.

Athenians Triumph Over Alpha Sigma In 1st Track Meet

Everyone was all wet as the annual Athenian-Alpha Sigma track meet ended Saturday with the Greeks winning in a sopping finish, 59-54, when their mile relay team topped the mud-sloshers of the Sigs in making the circuit in 4:09.

Officials for the event were Herb Palmer, Bob Fuller, and Tom Fairhurst.

Williams. Holsinger Set Track Marks For Intramurals

Two new records were set in the Third Annual Intramural Track meet held Monday with a rather large field out, especially in the field events. Those to go under the boards were the 120 yard low hurdle time of 15.6 set by Chuck Holsinger in 1949 and lowered to 15.2 in a four lane race run for the first time on MC's "new but perhaps useful" track in this year's go, by Holsinger, himself. The other one to fall by the wayside was the 1950 broad jump mark of 18 feet 6 inches held by Tubby Callaway which Dave Williams lengthened to 19 feet 6 inches.

Results of the Meet:

Mile Run—Helwig, Kerr, and Pearson. Time: 5:1.27 min.

100 Yard Dash—Olson, Reaser, Lynn. Time: 10.5 approximately (official time of 9.5 in error)

440 Yard Dash—McCulloch, and Bright. Time 62:3 secs.

High Jump—Williams, Anderson, and Smith. Ht. 5'5".

880 Yard Run—Helwig, Black, and Robinette. Time: 2:27.7 min.

220 Yard Dash—Beckwith, S. Faulkner, and Lynn. Time: 27 secs.

Pole Vault—Williams, Morton, and Schaumberg.

120 Low Hurdles—Holsinger, Smith ,and Pearson. Time: 15.2 secs.

120 High Hurdles—Smith, Pearson, and Patton. Time 17 secs.

Scot Trackmen Run At Milligan Relays And ETS

Finish 3rd, Lose 87-39

Maryville's trackster opened up a snappy but short-lived track season some two weeks ago by participating in the Milligan Relays at Johnson City and taking third place. Top team for the event was Clemson of South Carolina's mighty Tigers who rolled up 73 points against the twelve team field. East Tennessee State's Bucs were second with 53 points with MC third on a basis of 18 points and William Jennings Bryan fourth with 12 because of a record breaking jaunt run by Bryan's Maycumber in the mile.

Not Bad Considering—

Scoring for MC were Jim Thurston, Harold Nairon Bert McMahon, and Bill Menges who took second in the college distance medley race; Jack Maxwell, Bob Sprague, Bob Sangster, and Nairon who took fifth in the college 880 relay; Thurston, Nairon, Sangster and McMahon who took third in the college mile relay; Menges who took third in the mile; Maxwell, Sprague, Sangster, and McMahon who took third in the college 440 relay, and Sangster, Nairon, McMahon, and Menges woh took second in the college sprint medley.

State Wins 87-39

On the following Friday, an under-manned Scot team travelled to Johnson City again for a race with East Tennessee State's Bucs which the latter won with ease by virtue of piling up 55 points in the field events to MC's meagre 12 points in those events.

Results of the Meet:

Mile Run—Menges (M), Smith (S), and Kelly (M). Time 4:50 .6 min.

440 Yard Dash—Sims (S), Sprague (M), and Starr (S). Time: 10.2 sec.

120 Yard High Hurdles—Lloyd (S), Schaumberg (M), and Hopkins (M). Time: 15.3 sec.

880 Yard Dash—Menges (M), Sizemore (S), and Nairon (M). Time: 2:09 min.

Scot Baseballers Play Railspliters

MC Clips Eagles Wings For Ninth Win

A revenge-game with LMU's Big Blue is on tap Monday afternoon on the MC diamond as Coach L.S. Honaker's baseball nine attempts to win victory number ten of the season and sixth in a row.

Echo files to show that first relations between the schools in the hard-ball sport was back in 1915 when the Scots took 13-0, 11-0, 5-4, 11-3 games. Since then MC has won 49 games and ropped 17 with the biggest stretch of wins coming in 1924-34 when the Scots won 20 games in a row without a defeat over a ten-year period. Last year MC dropped the Big Blue twice in encounters. Sparkplugs of this year's LMU squad are Gene Wright, veteran shortstop, and Gene Beverley pitcher who shut out the Scots in their last appearance, 9-0, on the Harrogate diamond. Game time is 3:15 approximately.

Big Game of Year

What was perhaps the season's most exciting game was played Wednesday as MC's baseballers made a comeback to down Carson Newman's Eagles 6-4 on the College field. In the second frame with two on, Jerry Connor, C-N first sacked blasted a homer to give pitcher Hubert Ashe a three run lead but the latter could not hold it for long as the Scots utilized five C-N errors and four base knocks to score five runs. The tie breaking run was one to cause much excitement as Jimmy Campbell, on third, headed for home on a squeeze play with Ashe's pitch, sailing for batter Ken Yunker's head, the moment Ashe knew the play was on. But Campbell slid to the left of the plate with C-N Catcher Tower missing him in an attempted tag. The incident then expanded further as The Old Eagle himself, Frosty Holt engaged in a few words with umpire Red Simpson over the matter.

elected Intramural Sportsman of the Year and awarded a big trophy last Sunday at YMCA meeting. As Chuck Holsinger said before presenting the award to "Eag-beak", in so many words: "We want it to stand for something and for the guy picked to be an example to those fellows who have gone here in the past and will come here in the future." Ralph has deserved it and we hope those who get it in the future also can be an example like he has been. Credit also goes to Chuck Holsinger who thought of the idea to further sportsmanship on the campus and we hope that Bob Kees and Don MacDonald who carry on in his stead can put the idea over as well.

P.S.—For John Geiser and those who backed a movement to write Dick Gardner in, we have no idea as to how many votes he got, though no doubt he got yours.

Odds and ends. . . latest sports event to come in the news on campus has been that of the Saturday Night Bowling Club with officers Dave Helwig, Emerson Flurkey, Lee Cook, and Manning Smith. Flurkey, commonly known around Carnegie portals as "E. C." is the current hero of the hour—having racked up a pin-shaking 213 the other night. As for the group's possibilities and such we don't know save that it might be nice if they held a bowling tourney sometime in the future. . . Ex-MC'er Bob Boring is still with AAA Rochester of the International League after the jump from MC and Class D last year. . . Bob is currently pinch hitting and subbing at third after having opened up at the hot corner but being relegated for a while to the bench presumably on account of freshmen-worries and errors.

A couple of Charlies, Allen and Williams, pitched, fielded, and hit to enable the Punks to win the final game of the Softball tourney over the Alpha Sigarets, 17-5. The Punks had advanced to the finals with wins over the ZaNees and YMCA while the Sigs won over the B.O.B.'s and Alpha Sig Holy Rollers to "gain the honor" of playing in the finals. Hitting was not punk at all for the winners as they pounded Warren Banks for 14 hits and errors by his teammates which stemmed the tide not at all. Fittingly enough for the occasion, Sarge Roy "Butch" Kramer, ex-manager and coach of the Punks' group was around to see his ex-charges storm through to victory.

1951 ENROLLMENT 'APPROXIMATELY 700'

Societies Bid Welcome During Rush Activities

Opening traditional welcome festivities of Maryville's four men's and women's societies, Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma will present a flashback to the Gay Nineties.

Both new and old students will find the calendar turned back some sixty years as the two societies begin entertainment Monday with the opening of an old-fashioned photography studio.

Other attractions will include a splash party for the new women "On the Boardwalk at Atlantic City" which will feature a bathing beauty contest and swimming afterwards.

"Up In Central Park"

Saturday night will find all "Up In Central Park" for the annual Rush Week formal. Once again, the "good old days" will be brought back complete with mustaches and bustles.

Ed Scott has written a program which from all reports is to be very good but what it is, is still a secret.

However, talent to be featured will include Bob Cuthill, Jim Kren, Arnold Munn, Jody Richardson, Carolyn Marshall, the famous Alpha Sigma Quartet and many others.

Committee Heads

Rush Week chairmen for Theta are Peggy Kettles and Mary Kelton, while Bob Osborne, Tasker Robinette, and Joe Stater are in charge of Alpha Sigma's arrangements. The Splash Party Wednesday night to which all women are invited is under the direction of Ruth and Naomi Burgos while Tish Buchanan is in charge of publicity; Jessie Dye, favors; and Jack Mowatt, set.

Welcome To MC

Theta and Alpha Sigma presidents, Gracie Scruggs and Neale Pearson both joined in welcoming students to Maryville and hope all will join in the coming week's festivities and those of Athenian-Bainonian the week to follow.

Faculty Reception

Lamar Library will be the scene of the annual faculty reception Monday, September 10, beginning at 8:00 p.m.

All new students have been especially urged to attend, since the reception provides the only opportunity to meet all the members of the college faculty and staff.

Heading the reception line will be President and Mrs. Ralph Waldo Lloyd and the presidents of YMCA, YWCA, and Student Council.

Dress is formal, and refreshments are to be served.

Lloyd Addresses Annual Service

President Ralph Waldo Lloyd was the speaker at the annual convocation service in chapel yesterday morning. The subject of the president's address was "Organized Opportunity".

Services opened with the reading of announcements by Dean of Students Frank D. McClelland and the singing of "Praise the Lord: Ye Heavens, Adore Him".

Dean of Curriculum Edwin Ray Hunter offered the prayer of invocation and led in the prayer of thanksgiving. Vesper choir sang "The Lord's Prayer" as a response.

Dean McClelland read the scripture lesson and an anthem was sung by the choir. The hymn "How Firm A Foundation" preceded the president's address, which was followed by the singing of "Take My Life, and Let It Be."

Davies, Lloyds Visit Europe

President and Mrs. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, their daughter Louise, and Katherine C. Davies, professor of music and chairman of the division of fine arts, returned Monday, August 27, from Europe. Professor Davies and Miss Lloyd left the United States on May 25, and President and Mrs. Lloyd left July 7.

Dr. Lloyd's trip was primarily to attend meetings of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches from August 4 to 11, and the Executive Committee of the World Presbyterian Alliance from August 13 to 15, both in Switzerland.

In addition, he filled preaching and conference engagements scheduled for him by the World Presbyterian Alliance of which he is American Secretary, in England, Wales, Northern Ireland, Scotland, Belgium, and Germany. He preached and gave other addresses in London, Belfast, Edinburg, and Berlin.

Mrs. Lloyd accompanied the president on most of his itinerary, and in addition visited Holland and made a tour of Italy with their daughter. Miss Davies and Miss Lloyd spent several weeks at the Conservatory of Music, Zurich, Switzerland, studying piano under Walter Frey. While Miss Lloyd and Mrs. Lloyd were in Italy, Miss Davies visited Denmark, Holland, and Belgium.

All four flew to Berlin for a visit of five days.

First Town Night Set For Tuesday

The first Town Night for old students will be Tuesday, September 11, Student Body President Bob Cuthill announced. All Town Night regulations and procedures will be in effect.

All new students, he said, are to report to Alumni Gym at 7:15 for Freshman Night, at which Town Night procedure will be explained. Entertainment will follow.

The first meeting of Student Council is scheduled for Wednesday, September 12, at 8:30 p.m. in the Student Center. Cuthill stated that committees would be announced and delegates to Student Faculty Senate elected.

Dr. Graham Leads Chapel Thursday

Dr. Thomas A. Graham, pastor of New Providence Presbyterian Church, Maryville, will speak in chapel Thursday, September 13.

Every year each local pastor conducts a chapel service in order to be introduced to new students. Formerly this was done in the regular morning chapel services, but beginning this semester, the local pastors will each take a Thursday "long chapel" period.

French Club To Meet

French Club will hold its first meeting of the semester Thursday, September 13, in Catherine Wilkinson's classroom in Anderson Hall.

It is the first meeting of old members with those initiated last spring, according to Allan Caldwell, vice-president.

Vesper Choir Schedules Try-Outs For Next Week

The College Choir will begin tryouts for the sixty-voice chorus next week. Monday at 3:30 p.m. all altos will be heard and voices will be placed. On Tusday at 3:30 p.m., tenors will be heard; Wednesday at 3:30 p.m. for sopranos, and Thursday at 4:30 for basses.

All tryouts will be conducted in Room 101 of the Fine Arts Center. Everyone interested in singing in the choir is encouraged to try out. If there is a conflict with schedules, those interested should see Director Harry Harter for arrangements.

The choir provides music for the weekly vesper services, special chapels, and is heard in concert frequently throughout neighboring communities. Last year's spring tour took the singers northeast where they presented concerts and special worship services in Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, Baltimore, Wilmington, Del., Pittsburgh, Columbus and Cincinnati, Ohio.

During the process of selecting the new choir members, the former choir members will compose the vesper choir for the week services and convocation.

Religious Groups Meet Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon, at the sounding of trumpets, all students are urged to attend a joint meeting of the campus religious organizations unedr the trees in front of Thaw at 1:30. The purpose of this meeting is to introduce new students to the four main religious groups on campus.

Speakers for the program will be president of the YWCA, Susie Martin, on "We Need You,", and Jim Kren, YM president, "You Need Us." They will be assisted by Doris Somerville, president of Student Vols; and Charlie Reed, president of the Pre-Ministerial Association. Their main theme will be "All One Body We."

Bob Cuthill will read the scripture; Betty Hammers is leading the singing, and special music is to be provided by a girl's trio of Nina Ruth Gillette, Janice Marion, and Louise Packard.

Editor Announces Staff Openings

A number of editorial and business staff positions on this year's Highland Echo are open, according to Echo Editor Dick Newman. Applicants may be from any class and need not have had previous experience in journalism, Newman pointed out.

"We need personnel in every department," he said, "especially news reporters, columnists, sports writers, and those interested in the business side of putting out a college weekly."

"An announcement will be made soon in chapel concerning those who wish to try out."

Brown Announces Staff Positions

Chilhowean Editor Sally Brown announced yesterday appointments to the editorial staff of the 1952 yearbook.

Karole Kapp was named associate editor, as were Carolyn Symmes and Sonny Short. Florence Clark is art editor.

Jean Ellis was appointed business manager pro tem until arrangements for a permanent business manager can be made.

Orr Preaches At First Vesper Service Tomorrow

Dr. Horace E. Orr, professor of philosophy, will be the preacher at the first Vesper service, Sunday, September 7, at 7:00 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

The Vesper choir under the direction of Harry Harter will sing.

Churchmen Speak On National Radio Religious Program

A number of Presbyterian clergymen connected with Maryville College are taking part in the Presbyterian USA series of The Protestant Hour, a religious radio program over 155 Southern stations for eight Sunday mornings from August 19 through October 7.

The time is 8:30-9:00 a.m. EST and may be heard locally over WNOX, Knoxville. Sponsor is the Southernn Radio Center of Atlanta, in cooperation with the Department of Radio and Television of the Presbyterian Church USA.

The preacher tomorrow, September 9, is Dr. Raymond C. Rankin, former pastor of Lindsay Memorial Presbyterian Church, Memphis, and recently called president of Tusculum College, Greeneville, Tenn. His sermon topic is "Reducing Human Friction".

Dr. Thomas A. Graham, pastor of New Providence Presbyterian Church, Maryville, is to preach September 16 on "The Light of the Lord."

"Living an Intentional Christian Life" is the sermon September 23 by Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, an MC director, former pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, and recently called to the presidency of Western Theological Seminary, Pittsburgh.

On September 30 Dr. Donald A. Spencer will preach on "Faith For the Hour of Storm". He is pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, Chattanooga, and a director of Maryville College.

MC President Ralph Waldo Lloyd preaches on "What Christian Higher Education Aims to Do" on the October 7 broadcast, completing the series.

The programs began August 19 when Dr. Herman L. Turner, pastor of Covenant Presbyterian Church, Atlanta, spoke on "Sensible Men Living in a World of Confusion". Dr. Turner is a Maryville director.

"Love Never Faileth" was the sermon title of Dr. W. Wood Duff's address onn August 26. He is an MC director and pastor of Hillsboro Presbyterian Church, Nashville.

Last Sunday Dr. Earle W. Crawford preached on "God Is With Us." A Maryville graduate, he is pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Wichita Falls, Texas, and former associate pastor of Knoxville Second Presbyterian Church.

A copy of any of these sermons is available from WNOX, Knoxville. A booklet containing all the sermons will be sent free at the end of the series.

Germans Plan Meeting

The first meeting of German Club will be held September 24 at 6:45 p.m. A meeting place is to be announced later. All students are eligible for membership whether or not they are enrolled in German courses.

Results of elections held last semester for the officers this semester are Carson Seeley, president; Bill Sitler, vice-president and program chairman; Fannie Weber, secretary-treasurer; and Jane Voil, publicity chairman.

IRC Meets September 17; Seeley Elected President

International Relations Club will hold its first meeting September 17 at 6:45 p.m. The place of meeting will be announced later.

Results of elections held last semester for the officers this semester are Carson Seeley, president; Don Grey, vice-president and program chairman; Virginia Cooper, secretary; and Neale Pearson, treasurer.

Subscriptions to current national magazines are again available to students through IRC. Magazines of Time Inc. are offered at student rates.

Activity Tickets

Activity tickets for all students are to be available at the Treasurer's Office next week.

An announcement will be made in chapel concerning the time.

Vacation Brings New Improvements

Campus improvements made this summer have taken the form of a general clean-up of the grounds and buildings, including those on the college farm. The biggest project has been the enlarging of the heating plant, which is still in progress, but according to Louis Black, Director of Maintenance, much other work has been completed inside and outside the buildings.

The broadcasting booth has been enlarged and moved to the new football field, which has been reseeded. The north entrance to the campus is now 9 feet wider, and a place for smokers has been built near Carnegie.

Painting and general repair have improved the girls' dormitories, Bartlett, Thaw, Anderson, and other buildings. Electrical work and shrubbery trimming have also been done during the summer.

Sigs Meet In Y Rooms To Discuss Rush Week

Alpha Sigma will meet tonight at 6:15 in the YW rooms for a short business program concerning Rush Week. Nominations for a new secretary will be held and entertainment provided by a trio composed of Jake Peppers, Charlie and Wally Schroeder, and a duet of Lou Masters and Carol Barnett.

All old members are urged to come.

Y Sister Program Begins Tonight

YWCA begins its Big-Little Sister program on the steps of Thaw Hall tonight at 8 o'clock, Betty Hammers will be master of ceremonies.

A song by Gracie Scruggs and Jodie Richardson begins the program. Following this is a reading by Marilyn Edge and Maree Richards and Beverly Jacobi are to present a skit. Closing this portion of the program is a musical selection by the "Two Timers," Alice Kelley and Barbara Link.

The girls then will form groups to play games led by Edith Lancaster. Refreshments are in charge of Isabelle Leitch and Margaret Warren.

During the various portions of the program, introductions of the four advisors, Dean Frances Massey and Mrs. Margaret Cummings will be performed.

Arthur Haylock Reported Better After Accident

Arthur Haylock, Maryville student from Tampa, Fla., is reported improving in Tampa General Hospital from injuries sustained some two weeks ago. Haylock, a junior business administration major and a member of the Scot football team, suffered a broken back in two places and a concussion when the car in which he and Tom Gamble, local Maryville boy, wer riding was run into by a large truck outside of Brooksville, Fla.

The two boys were riding to Haylock's home from Maryville after having worked in McKeesport, Pa., this summer Their car had pulled off the road, but evidently had not gotten all the way onto the shuolder and a trailor truck smashed into it, killing Gamble and injuring Haylock so seriously that he was unconscious for four days.

Doctors report him much better but add that he will never be abl to play football again.

MC Alumni Marry On National TV

Maryville College received national mention last month when Glen Knecht, '50, and Betty Jane Greenwald, '51, were married on August 21 over CBS' television program Bride and Groom. The Rev. William Emery performed the service.

Knecht, of Syracuse, N. Y., is now a student at Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, Calif. The bride's home is Estell Manor, N.J. The couple received wedding gifts as the bride and groom of the day and spent their honeymoon at Bedford Springs, Pa.

Bainonian Meets Tonight

Bainonian will meet tonight in Bainonian Hall at 6:15 to elect chapter chairmen. A short program is planned.

Ella Swift urges all members to attend since the meeting is very important.

YMCA Features Pow-Wow Tonight

YMCA will hold its annual watermelon pow-wow for freshmen and other male students tonight at 8:00 on the college golf course.

Speakers for the occasion are President Ralph W. Lloyd; Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum; Coach Lombe Honaker, Professor of Physical Education; and Charles Allne, captain of this year's football team.

Jake Peppers is song leader.

Dan Cupid's Bow and Arrow Strikes Maryville Couples During Vacation

By Pat Lovette

That little ole guy named "Cupid" was really at work during the summer months. Peggy Hurst became Mrs. Robert Edison about the middle of July and they are now living in Oak Ridge. Wedding bells rang also for Del Earisman and Lucy Carrick and Larry Thompson and Marlene Mauger. Larry and Marlene were married at the home of Dr. Horace E. Orr in Maryville. Larry is back at M.C. and Marlene is teaching school.

In August, Pat Love and Jim Kren took their marriage vows in Townsend, Tenn. Pat is working with the Welfare Department and Jim is back at Maryville.

Margaret Shields became the bride of William McClure on August 12 here in Maryville. Margaret will complete her senior year while Bill is an Electrician Technician in Uncle Sam's Navy.

Two early spring weddings here at Maryville were the marriages of Judy Breen and Andy Clark and Nancy Rose and Chuck Holsinger. Chuck and Nancy will continue their studies at Maryville this year.

Another summer wedding was that of Irene Mellon and Jim Townsend. Vi Marshall and D. M. Miller were married on the 2nd day of June in a beautiful early summer wedding.

A wedding date approaching soon on September 15 is one of great interest to many Maryville students. This is the marriage of Betty Carrol and Douglas Elwood that will be solemnized at the Fountain City Presbyterian Church in Knoxville. Betty was to have been a senior at MC this year.

Another announcement of interest is the engagement of Happy Huddleston to Jim Lester. While the latest additions to Dan Cupid's list is the engagement of Lori Pettersen and Dave Erickson, both from Wood Ridge, N.J.

New Appointments To Faculty, Staff

MC Opens 133rd Year

This semester's enrollment is "approximately 700" according to a release from the College Personnel Office late yesterday. Registration is not yet completed, however, and the exact figure is unknown.

Enrollment is down from the 753 students of last semester and the 828 of first semester last year. Freshmen make up "approximately 200" of the new figure, a drop from the 257 frosh who registered a year ago.

About 25 new students are transfers, and there are several from foreign countries.

New Faculty

Additions to the faculty include Commodore Bascom Fisher, M.A., as Associate Professor of History, a position he held during 1945-46. He is a graduate of Maryville College in the class of 1916, and holds the Master of Arts degree from the University of Kentucky.

For more than 20 years he has been a missionary in Iran, and for many years has been principal of a school in Teheran.

Fred Ernest Short, B.A., B.S., of Amarillo, Texas, has been appointed Instructor in Drama and Speech. He holds the B.A. degree from West Texas State College and the B.S. degree in speech education from the University of Texas.

He has completed also at the University of Texas most of the requirements for the master's degree in speech. For the past four years he has been a member of the faculty of Mary Hardin-Baylor College in Texas. His training has been in speech, drama, and radio production.

Louise Lloyd

Louise Margaret Lloyd has been appointed Instructor in Music. She was graduated from Maryville in May of this year and studied during the summer in the Conservatory of Music at Zurich, Switzerland. Besides her work at MC, she has spent two summers at Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y., and one summer at the American Conservatory, Chicago.

Appointed to the library staff as catalog librarian is Josephine Dunlap, B.A., B.S. in Library Science, of Maryville.

She is a graduate of the University of Tennessee and received her library degree from George Peabody College, Nashville. She has for some years been librarian at Farragut High School in Knox County.

Maurine Owen, B.A., of Clinton has been named Editorial Supervisor of Special Studies and Assistant in the library. Miss Owen was graduated from Maryville in 1949.

New as Assistant in the Personnel Office is Alita Bryant, B.A., of Wilmington, N. C. She was graduated from Maryville in May and was a student assistant in the office.

Mrs. George H. Strick of Elizabethton replaces Mrs. Rollin Marquis as Director of the Student Center. Mrs. Marquis left to become hostess at Tapoca Lodge. Mrs. Strick is a native of Alabama, and was for some time at Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Mrs. T. M. Shepard

Mrs. T. M. Shepard of Etowah, is the new Head of Memorial Hall, and Mrs. Howard Stewart, Corinth, Miss., is Assistant to the Head of Pearsons Hall.

Assistant to the Head of Baldwin Hall is Mrs. G. L. Robinson of McMinnville. Mrs. Anna O. Currie, who served last year as Assistant, has been appointed Head of Baldwin Hall in place of Mrs. Harold F. Wonder who is this year at Ohio State University.

Mrs. Hugh Trotter, Maryville, has been appointed Assistant to Miss Margaret Ware, Dietitian and Manager of the College Dining Hall. New as Assistant in the

A Statement of Policy

To some, a statement of policy for a student newspaper may seem unnecessary. But with a new semester, and the new beginnings which accompany it, it might be best to clarify just what The Highland Echo is and what it intends to do this year. The primary function and purpose of this paper is, of course, to report the news as accurately and correctly and promptly as possible. We will make mistakes; there will be sins of omission and commision. But that is our goal, and to as great a degree as possible we will live up to it. Any way which we fail must be chalked up to human frailty.

News stories will be rated as to news value alone and accordingly placed in the paper. We shall support no single group or point of view except, in the overall sense, that which seems in our judgment contributive of the most to the advancement of Maryville College. Personal points of view will be aired only in this column by the editor or in by-lined columns by members of the staff.

Any amount of space necessary will be supplied to Echo Forum for letters to the editor on any subject of general interest. This is designed to be an opportunity for public expression for any student or faculty member. To the extent that it is that depends only upon the student body and the faculty. If people at the collegiate level fail to take advantage of one of the great tools of democracy, we do not feel it is our place to urge them to do so. But Echo Forum is always at the service of this student body.

We intend to make editorial comment on international and local problems and situations as they appear and as they apply to Maryville College life and thought. There is a line between censorship and liscence and it is there that we intend to function. All that we write will be to encourage whatever seems to us the greatest good for the greatest number of Maryville College people.

There is, we have come to feel, a solemn obligation involved in the editing of any publication. It involves a dedication to truth and an allegiance to the high principles of good journalism. It is our promise to do all that is possible to live up to those standards. A newspaper becomes almost a living person to those who are closely and intimately associated with her. To The Highland Echo and all that she stands for we pledge our best.

Scots & Soda

By Carson Seeley

IT'S GREAT TO BE BACK

Seeing all the faces of friends and teachers, desperately striving to remember names, and feeling right at home as Mother Nature greeted us affectionately in her usual dripping manner.

SUGAR AND SPICE

With nearly three times as many frosh girls as boys, we'll make no comment. Judging from the hair cuts this year, some of the girls may be trying to balance things out. As Confucion say: Girl who cut hair, lose heirs.

FIFTEEN MINUTES APART

Miss Ware evidently doesn't subscribe to the theory that two can live as cheaply as one.

CHAPEL SEAT CLIP BOARD

With prices as high as they are, it's nice to see that the book store is holding the line on chapel seat prices, and even offering a bargain to those who buy in quantity.

BOY, WILL I BE GLAD, NOV. 12

Maryville's male students in at least one way appreciate the new and greater influx of women students. "There are so many" and "what a bunch of dolls" are several of the choice comments being overheard. And from all the discussion going on referring to the above, there should be little worry come Novemebr 12 and Sadie Hawkins' Day.

And in line with Dr. Lloyd's speech Friday urging students to study, a few forward-looking persons have observed that many of the senior and junior girls will be hitting the books because of the number of new girls.

H'I SAY OLD CHAP

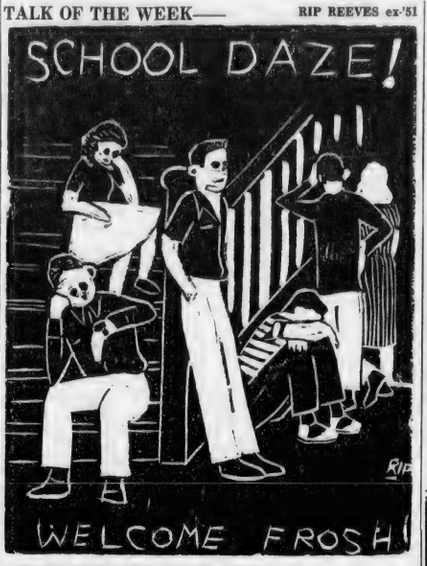
After reading this year's summer bulletin, many students have no doubt been expecting to see one of His Majesty's naval officers parading across campus complete with gold braid and a cup of tea. The person in question was Commodare Bascom Fisher a new appointee to the college's staff and the name seemed very much in accordance with old British naval tradition. Imagine the surprise when students found out it's just an old family name and he's the Father of '50 grad, Craig.

"THE THING"

Latest contest going on around campus is that concerning the "Aztec Ruins" constructed behind Thaw for the convenience of tobacco users, cigarette, chaw, or other wise. Could it have been built to match the architecture of the Fine Arts Center and the new chapel?

TOTE THAT BAR; LIFT THAT BALE

One of the big ironies of the summer was that in the different jobs in which MC'ers engaged—especially between In Sum Kim and Dick Patton. Kim, it is reliably reported, manned a sledge hammer and a crane while Patton "the Horse" struggled with an eye-dropper of chemicals over a set of test tubes. Both were in Pennsylvania steel mills.



H-H-HOW A-DARE Y-Y-YOU?

Also in evidence around campus were the different handshakes displayed by returning students. Especially the shaky shakes wrung by Joe Stater and Ron Fleming to name a few who rode air-hammers and those of Bob Lehr, Neale Pearson and Ken Yunkers who shook hands one finger at a time—farm work, no doubt.

HE STILL HAS THE EYE

Too good to be left out though it is old was Dr. Lloyd's comment on the jeans and T-shirt situation last May—baccalaureate time. After talking on the where-and-when to wear and formality, etc. of their being worn, he said "well after all, it's all right, just so they fit the situation."

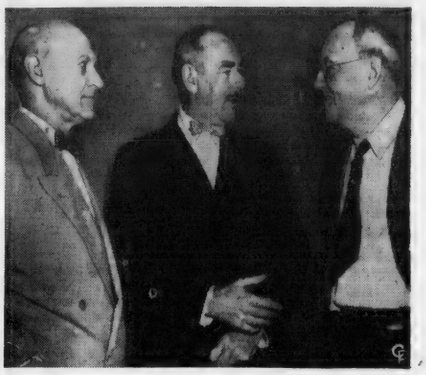
TALK OF THE WEEK— RIP REEVES ex-'51

BREAK OUT THE CHECKBOOK

After finding out about ex-MC playwright Jim Dance writing Athenian-Bainonian's Rush Week skit, several of Alpha Sig's lesser lights were demanding that Sigma officers get Rogers and Hammerstein on theirs. Such a thing does not have its possibilities, though.

ANOTHER LITTLE DOG JOKE

After yesterday's convocation Coach Honaker will no doubt appropriate Dr. Lloyd's "Inferiority complex" poke to "crown" one of his athletes later on in the season.



Also, going on at the game time was a little scene between Coach and Burt McMahon, one of his ends. McMahon had his hands on Coach's chair with mischief in his eyes while coach was slyly looking out of the corner of his eye to see that it didn't happen.

Maryville College sophomores again ranked above the national average in the results of the English and contemporary affairs tests taken last April.

The English scores ranked MC sophomores in the 53rd percentile on the national standard, and the current events test placed them in the 55th percentile. The 50th percentile, the median, is approximately the national average.

PACT DELEGATES OFF FOR PARLEY

Sports Echoes

By Neal Pearson

●LS/MFT. . . LS/MFT. . . This famous phrase which has been used to sell weeds to male, female, and goat alike over the past years and which heralded in another manner the scholarshipping of an MC sophomore guard by UT last fall has again come into prominence though this time in perhaps not as poetic a vein. . . Instead of Let's Steal Maryville's Finest Talent, the phrase has become one Lombe Sees Maryville's Triumph or. . . Finding Triumph or . . .Faring Triumphantly or. . . Fortunate Team, so on, on, on and on. . . Though we have usually been very careful about committing ourselves in the past as to football and athletic chances in gerenal, we will drop the barriers this time and say that we've got high hopes this year and expect to see victory on the 22nd and on two, or three more occasions. Coach L. S. Honaker hasn't got the world's biggest squad by any means but there is a pep out there hard to beat, a will to win, and a faith in system which is regarded very lightly in many places elsewhere.

After having lost fourteen in a row over the last two years, MC is due for her share of the breaks and ought to win some games this fall. It is true that the other schools, especially Jax State with a whole veteran team coming back and Hiwassee with 70 men out for a couple of examples, aren't going to fall over and play coy, but the boys seem to want to win and are for the old-fashioned single wing which almost pulled us out of last year's hole though with little or no practice. MC is going to have a light team with many weak spots but Coach Davis and Honaker will probably do a lot of shifting before the weeks are over so we therefore reserve our right to comment till next week when we won't be so rushed and after which we have gotten a chance to talk with Assistant Coach Miss Heron who may be able to give us the real scoop and not the patterned phrases handed out by the local members of the National Crying Towel Association.

Varsity sports at MC are no cinch to engage in but consist of plenty of hard work and study. However, if you're over 155 pounds, it probably would be safe to say Coach Honaker could use you—in one form or another—though the blocking dummy situation is quite filled this year with the padded variety. There is also Cross Country, MC's most famous sport for "building character," the label that is pasted on the variety of athletics conducted by schools such as MC. If you have never ran three blocks in your life for anything, you may perhaps be the man Coach Johnson is looking for—practically all of MC's runners in the last couple of years had little or no experience before they ever got here. . . Both Tom Kelly and Charlie Allen were devoid of high school experience in their respective fields until they came to MC but since then have come out as wonders. So you, too, may have talent. Anyhow, as a quick once-over, give one or the other a try and if not, then try Intramurals. . . .

●QUICKIES. . . A thing to be watched in the next couple of weeks will no doubt be Mrs. Queener's thinly-clads—a term which comes up for auverse comment every fall—who will probably also be applying economic sanctions in the next week and from then hence on women's varsity paritcipants in the form of food and other types of blockades. More on the Chillies and Howies next week. . . .

●A MARYVILLE SCANDAL(?) . . . Will there ever be one. . . Quite in the reading demand this past summer was the West Point story over cribbing and such and its relation to other schols. The story, coming on the wake of the Kefauver investigations and the basketball hot-potato deals, wasn't one to put college athletics in a good light. . . The day when there will be a happy medium between a school pouring out two and three hundred thousand dollars and that one not fielding any team at all will probably never be reached though a few schools such as Maryville and Sewannee are making the try. Football and athletics are such big things at some schools that the West Point incident could be repeated on their campuses many times over. Because of that emphasis on winning which has gone beyond a normal and healthy extent, a team like Oklahoma would "lose half" its squad if cheating were investigated and a junior football player for Wilkinson out Kansas way were not lying about the situation. Likewise at the Naval Academy where a former player for the Middies acknowledged that tests could be had behand if wanted bad enough. This player who had gone against Blanchard and Davis in their heydey also said the Navy laughed when the West Point situation came to light for the Navy felt that if a man was going to cheat, no honor system would be sufficient at all to stop him and so Navy has now—a very poor reason we think.

And though critics of the big schools also speak of schools playing around with grades a la William & Mary, there is also the case of Vic Janowicz, Ohio State's most luminary back who didn't make it scholastically and who strove greatly to get back in the good graces of his school. But no matter what viewpoint is taken, we daresay that everything isn't above and beyond reproach for many schools. And another thing affecting this attitude for or against pressurized athletics is this country's journalistic profession which has in many cases, we think, either over-or under-played some situation depending on the attitude or stand taken by them. Witness the SEC which accuses the Big Ten of dastardly matters every other day and vice-versas through the pens of vociferous publicity men and the West Point deal which we think was over-exaggerated from both the cadets' and officials of the Point's standpoint with very little of which was close to the truth of the whole situation.

As to the whole problem of intercollegiate athletics and their rerelation to MC, it would be very easy (and silly) to take the holier-than-thou attitude that we were 100% pure. However, we'd be willing to say that cheating and its co-partners were very close to being null and void because of the atmosphere of the school and a desire of the coaches for their boys to play the game of life as they would the game of football—above and beyond reproach.

Especially held up in esteem now because of an athletic policy designed to build the much-mocked at "character" is that of Sewanee which is very fortunate in having a good publicity department to spread the news of its successes around. Most people know that the Purple annd White abandoned the big-time some while ago when they couldn't keep on competing with Alabama, Vandy, etc. and just stopped giving out athletic scholarships which were their means of competing in the big time. However, they have a system of educational scholarships whereby whose means a good athlete happens once in a while to appear on campus and whose abilities do not deter the success of the school's athletic team.

According to the Atlantic Constitution, Sewanee puts about $40,000 into its athletic budget—equal to that of the English department—and gets by very nicely. And though similar figures are not available around here, students may take pride in the fact that MC's budget isn't as high nor is the other means of getting athletes available but rather instead Maryville has always turned out a better than average team that is the biggest game on every opponent's schedule save for one or two—Carson-Newman, Hiwassee, Emory and Henry, etc. would rather lose every game and beat Maryville than win every game save for the MC contest. And though we haven't got a vociferous public relations department take pride in the Scots, whatever sport it be, and watch them in practice and cheer them on in games.

Spring Sports Roundup

(Ed. Note: The following is a summary of sports in the past spring with lettermen named so as to give freshman students an idea of sports at MC).

TENNIS

While Coach Lombe S. Honaker had rebuilding troubles on the baseball diamond and Coach Davis likewise greater troubles on the cinderpaths, Coach Kenneth Johnson was blessed with a whole swath of experienced netsmen when play was opened last spring. Ws Miles, Chesley Anderson, Clyde McCampbell, and Glen Gage were back to form the nucleus of a team and were soon to be aptly aided by Marshall England, Kent Buser, and John Anderson—all freshmen in their lid-lifter against Tennessee Wesleyan's Bulldogs.

Little was diagnosed as to the squad's potentialities following this first match since the Bulldogs were bulldogged 9-0.

Buffs Buffaloed

Milligan's Buffaloes stampeded into town the next week and were saved from a whitewashing of the same degree as that suffered by the Bull Dogs only when the clouds above burst open and loosed the usual three-day torrents of rain on Memorial courts. The Scots were ahead 6-0 at the time with two doubles matches and a singleton still on deck. As it was, the match ended there with victory number two safely stashed away.

Try, Try Again

Carson-Newman's Eagles, looking for their first win over the Scots since 1946 when they corded out a 4-3 win, were still doing likewise when they left town April 9. Damage this time was a 6-1 stomp with McCampbell being the first man to drop by the wayside against an opponent's servings.

Tennessee Poly's Golden Eagles showed lustre on their own courts when the Scots dropped in as visitors and found their opponents efforts good for a 9-0 calcimation —said whitewashing being the third of the seasonn.

Rules of one sort or another came into play during the next scheduled meet when Tusculum's coach fell ill and the Pioneers had no chaperone for woman star Nancy Faullkner. However, a chaperone was found the following Monday but in all probability it might have been better for the coach to have stayed home for the Pioneer's got a 7-0 pasting for their efforts.

Rains Take Reins

Big match of the season was that coming up with ETS's Bucs on the MC claygrounds. The heavens also again figured in this et-to for with the score tied 2-all, rain postponed further play though in sets being played MC was ahead. LMU's Big Blue gained very little from their presence on the court in the Scot's next watch for they were 6-0-ed on their own grounds. However, UT's Vols didn't mind playing on their own courts in the Highlander's next encounter and won a 7-2 match that was to be the Scots' lone loss of the season. Chattanooga was on tab for a meet but it was cancelled when the net-sport was dropped at the Moc school.

MC Second In SIC

First places in the singles and doubles went to Sewanee's Purple and White in the State Intercollegiate meet on the Sewanee courts while MC tied for second with ETS. A finale was staged with C-N again and the Scots again triumphed for they were on the long ned of an 8-1 score which saw the Highlanders way off par. It was the seasons' last match and a 7-1 record was down in the books for another good season.

23-2 Record Since 1948

Rebuilding which had sent in with a couple of wins in late '48 was nearly accomplished for there was a 23-2 record behind grads Anderson and Gage for the previous three and a half years.

Lettermn were Miles, McCampbell, Anderson, Buser (who won 14 in a row from his challengers and succumed not a bit) Glen Gage, and John Anderson.

TRACK

The sport which depends on mercury-like heels and strong muscles was again woefully lacking in meets, manpower, and masterfulness for Coach John Davis had only some twenty men to work with as the season opened and half of these were cross country men from the fall before. Field event strength was shown again as being nil as MC had only three entries in those events when the Scots traveled to Johnson City for an entrance into the Milligan Relays held there each year.

Main points for the Scots who came in third in the meet were garnered by Bill Menges, Jack Maxwell, Bob Sprague, Harold Nairon, and Bob Sangster in four of the long distance relays plus a second in the sprint medley and a third in the 440 straight relay.

That strength which was woefully lacking in field events glared out frightfully as East Tennessee's Bucs piled up 55 points in the strength and jumping events to MC's meager 12 in taking an 87-39 affair. Again it was up to Menges in the long distances for what points MC got with Dick Kerr, Tom Kelly, and Nairon throwing in ten points also. Points were also added by Joe Hopkins and John Schaumberg i nthe Hurldes, by Sprague in the dashes, by Paul Merwin in the shot and discus and by Thurston in the broad jump.

Thinlies Begin Workouts Friday

Squad Is Bolstered By Eight Returnees

With some eight experienced veterans from which to work with in molding the nucleus of a good team plus an untold number of frosh prospects who may come through, life may be an enjoyable one for Coach Ken Johnson this fall. MC's balding cross country coach has an octet of men back who have run under him or elsewhere before with five lettermen. Of these, four earned a monogram at MC and another is a transfer.

Expected to lead MC's bunionburners to another successful season is Tom Kelly, senior political science major from Morris Plains, New Jersey, with main dependance on lettermen Ric Rogers, senior from Miami, Florida, Dick Kerr, junior from New York, New York, Neale Pearson, senior from Lakeland, Florida, who was out last year with a broken ankle, after lettering the year before, and Rod McMillan, transfer student from Occidental College, Los Angeles, Calif.

Strong Bidders . . .

Also expected to make strong bids for the seven places on the hill-and-dalers team are Dave Helwig, junior from Youngstown, New York, and sophomores Al McCulloch, Whitmire, South Carolina, and Harold Black, Ridgway, Pa.

Little work was done the past week in preparation for the season's first meet with UT on October 3rd here save for clearing a path through the tree-strodden woods on which to run plus some light jogging on the runner's parts.

Character Builders

Because four of this year's team will be gone next year, any students wishing to give the sports a try are welcome to come out at 3:30 Monday.

Intramural Info . . .

Monday afternoon, September 17 will see the opening shots being fired in that most-participated sports activity on campus—Intramurals.

Intramurals, designed for those athletes not good enough for varsity, for those not interested because they know they aren't good enough, and for those who need two hours of exercise a week to gain phys ed credit, will again find seven-man touch-football is the thing to fill their needs. Freshman are slated to get warning and warming-up doses of the extra-curricular activity this coming week while old students will probably be seen in their bunks getting enough rest to be in shape for play when the time comes. However, two leagues are again on the agenda and such organization as Alpha Sigma, Athenian, Pre-Ministerials, and YMCA are urged to get their rosters in —fifteen men at the most. Rules will be printed next week on those phase covering actual play.

As for the other things that the system of Intramurals has to offer besides time-consuming activity, there is the award system which has been actively participated in for the last ten and more years.

Details

The award system is one in which all students can participate with various means available for earning those points which may enable one to become one of our proud possessors of an Intramural medal next spring. With their being league play in five sportss—football, soccer, volleyball, basketball, and softball—over the year, a student may pick up a minimum of 250 points if he participates in each of them—each one being worth 50 shells. Also because Intramurals depends on the students for leadership and organization, athletes can pick up fifty more points by officiating in one of the above sports.

Being on a winner also has its advantages as team members get 50 points more tacked onto their records while the winners of the different tournaments get a much larger ration—100 points and runners up 50. Those who fall by the wayside on the way to the finals can pick up ten points. The same goes for winners, runner-ups, and participants in the various meets held.

As for the tournaments to be held, there will be one for tennis aspirants, golf enthusiasts, ping pongers, badmintonians, and sharpshooters in a basketball free throw and time-limit tourney. Meets to be held will include those for men wishing to run the cross country course, one following the wrestling season, one in swimming and one for track.

A Catch . . .

The only limitations so far on getting points is that held against varsity lettermen. Those having lettered in any particular field of athletics are ineligible to compete in a related Intramural sport which is a change from former times.

The Big Guns(?)

The pooh-bahs have worked out a good schedule of play in hopes that the rains and such which control Intramural athletics will not deter them too much and hope that last year's record of some 150 men participating is topped. Referees are also badly needed as usual and are urged to sign-up when season's play opens—working hours are twice a week and pay is an additional fifty points a league worked.

48 Scot Footballers Readying For Hiwassee

With a squad of 48 hopefuls, the smallest in years, to work with, Coaches L. S. Honaker and John Davis opened up official practice Tuesday for all concerned. Thirteen lettermen were back to form the nucleus of this year's squad which will attempt to break a 14 game losing streak started two years ago by Jacksonville State's Gamecocks. While MC's coaches had only ten lettermen last fall, there were some other 26 experienced vets to add their strength to a squad of 60. As it is this year, there is more than a little experience with 25 vets back but little or no depth at the various positions.

At The Guards

Biggest problems are at the guard and tackle posts which are the inner core of MC's single wing. There is only one vet back here and that is in the personage of Gene Russell. However, a transfer from Vandy, Bob Madry is expected to fill up one of the slots very well. Others out for guard include O. B. Harris, a returnee from other years, A. C. Galyon, Dwight Moody, and Bill Hensley.

Tackes Few

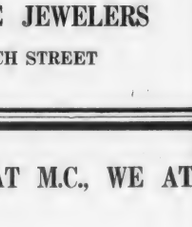
Four tackles are back with only two newcomers to give them a rest when the going gets tough. These are Joe Bender, Harry Newberry, Malcolm Moore, and John Morton, transfer from Hiwassee who showed up so well this spring. The two new hopefuls are Jim McBrayer a big strapping 200-pounder from Everett High and Bobby Berrong, brother of King and Leon who toed the gridiron for the Scots during the last five year's.

Center will be the deepest position in depth as far as numbers go with Dick Patton, converted end, Homer Garren, and Jake Peppers, back to be bolstered by newcomer John Glanville.

Ends Experienced

Six men, Burt McMahon, Paul Merwin, Frank Garren, Dick Gardner, Tom Jones, and Alternate captain Jimmy Callaway are back to man the end posts with help hoped-for from Bob Davis, also a transfer from Vandy, and Herb Catlin.

Again No Depth



In the backfield, Coach Honaker has two vets for each position plus an unknown quantity from new frosh. Jimmy Campbell and Grant Sharpe, shifted from full, will go at the wingback slots, while Captain Charlie Allen, Ken Yunkers, and Bill Van Benthysen, are returnees at the tailback position. Harold Glad and Jimmy Squires fill out the fullback experiencers with Jerry King and Don Alford at the blocking backs. Wes Kinser, off on a baseball trip to New York, is slated to return Monday and may go at either tailback or blocking back. Another glad note was the presence of Archie Dykes, an ETS transfer on squad who had to return home temporarily because of his mother's illness. Frosh prospects are Bob Shelton, a good product of Marvin Mitchell, ex-MC grid great at Loudon, Jack Reynolds, George Russell, Snell Mills, Charles Bogle, and Bill Breen.

Hard work will be the keynote for the coming week with a few changes made here and there, especially at the tackle posts to get some more depth and then scrimmages will begin in earnest for the Hiwassee game two weeks from tonight on September 22nd.

The Schedule for the coming season:

Sept. 22—Hiwassee	Here
Sept. 29—Jack. State	There
Oct. 6—Centre	Here
Oct. 13—E. Tenn. State	Here
Oct. 20—Emory & Henry	There
Oct. 27—Carson-Newman (Homecoming)	Here
Nov. 3—Georgetown	There
Nov. 10—Carson-Newman	There

Treasurer's Office is Bobbie June Malone of Maryville.

Returning from a leave of absence is Elizabeth Hope Jackson, M.A., Assistant Professor of English, who is back from a year's sabbatical leave which she spent in study at Leland Stanford University in California and the University of Colorado.

Returning also is Edith Merle Largen, M.S., of Maryville, after a year on leave for graduate study. She received her M.S. degree from the University of Tennessee on August 24, and is now Instructor in Physical Education.

Bushing Leaves

Arthur Story Bushing, M.A., Assistant Professor of English, is to be on leave of absence next year for graduate study at the University of Tennessee.

Kathleen Craven, M.A., has been advanced to Assistant Professor of Drama and Speech; and Charlotte B. Johnson, M.A., has been advanced to Assistant Professor of Art. She received on June 6 the Master of Arts degree in Art from Columbia University.

Kenneth Paxton, instructor in physics and math, and now a Lieut. (j.g.) with the Navy is stationed on the USS Bearss now at Charleston, S. C.

Thelma Nelson, Instructor in Music, has entered McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, to prepare for religious education work.

Etta Culbertson Kennedy

Etta Culbertson Kennedy, Instructor in English, is teaching in Chattanooga, and Geneva Robertson, Assistant Professor of Home Economics is with the public school system in Kingsport.

Arthur David Ainsworth, instructor in political science, is at the University of Chicago, and Marvin Minear, Assistant in the Treasurer's Office and Instructor in Economics, is employed at Blount Memorial Hospital.

Intramurals....

Further information can be obtained from Coach Kenneth Johnson, Senior manager Neale Pearson, or assistant manager, Bob Navratil.

Other compensation for those participaitng in Intramurals is ribbons for members of winning teams in leagues, and winners of meets and tournaments and a trophy (tin or otherwise) in league play.

Another thing, instituted last year, to help matters as far as Intramurals go is the Board of Arbitration plan. All teams thinking about entering teams in the various leagues are asked to pick one of their number to represent them on a Board of Arbitration covering their sport which will discuss and vote upon the many problems which are sure to come up in any season's play. Teams desiring to enter Intramural play are also asked to please have their rosters in by 5:30 p.m. on the Thursday preceding opening of play in any league sport. Thus, teams wanting to enter into the touch football league this fall are requested to drop their rosters by this Thursday evening at the Bartlett Hall office along with an arbitration board member so that a schedule may be published along with team information in that week's Echo.

Thiesse Appointed Veep

Ralph Thiesse, president of the senior class, has been appointed vice-president pro tem of the student body by student body Bob Cuthill.

Thiesse will remain temporary vice-president until arrangements for a general election can be made.

Gill Completes Course

Private First Class Oliver Fletcher Gill, Sarasota, Fla., has recently completed the eight-weeks Leaders Course conducted by the 41st Tank Battalion of the 8th Infantry Division's Specialist Training Regiment at Fort Jackson, S.C. A graduate of Sarasota High School, he attended the University of Florida, Gainesville, from 1947 to 1949 and Maryville College, from 1949 to 1950.

Theta-Sigs Rush Tonight; Bainonians Plan Formal

By Joan Frei

Theta Epsilon and Alpha Sigma will present "Up in Central Park" tonight at 8:00 in the Alumni Gym as the formal brings to a close their annual Rush Week program.

This week, which has featured an old-fashioned photography studio and "On the Boardwalk in Atlantic City" will conclude in the same spirit of the good old days "when ladies wore bustles and evryone was gay." The show, of which the details have been kept secret, was written by Ed Scott. It will turn back the calendar some 60 years and provide glimpses of street scenes from the Gay Nineties and old-time musical numbers.

Starring in "Up in Central Park" are Bob Cuthill and Jim Kren. Other talent to be featured will include Arnold Munn, Jody Richardson, Carolyn Marshall, and the Theta-Alpha Sig chorus.

Theta's Rush Week chairmen are Peggy Kettles and Mary Kelton. Tish Buchanan is in charge of publicity, Jessie Dye of favors, and Jack Mowatt of sets.

Theta and Alpha Sigma presidents Gracie Scruggs and Neale Pearson join in welcoming students to this evening's festivities.

By Joan Frei

Maryville students will find themselves in the midst of a gay gypsy encampment on Monday as Bainonian and Athenian begin their annual Rush Week program. Gypsies from all over the country wil gather to carry out the slogan, "It's the life for me!"

On Wednesday at 7:30 new students are invited to follow the trail into the woods and join the gypsy caravan around its campfire.

Even gypsies need to go to school these days, so a "Gypsy College" will be depicted at the formal Friday night as the climax of Athenian-Bainonian Rush Week. The script for the program was written by Maryville alumnus Jim Dance. It is being directed by Barbara Blum, with George Day as master of ceremonies.

Those in the leading roles include Jim Darroch, Betty Hammers, Bev Jacobi, Wally Schroeder, Allan Caldwell, and Dave Reed. They will be supported by a large cast of Bainonians and Athenians. June Hood will be accompanist for the program.

Bainonians Rush Week chairmen are Betty Hammers and Izzy Leitch. Beverly Edwards is in charge of publicity, and Morna Wright, Beryl Stewart, Bob Kees, and Walt English are working on sets for the formal.

Nancy Holsinger Suffers Serious Fall In Home

By Pat Lovette

Maryville College students were exceedingly sorry to hear of the serious injury of Mrs. Charles Holsinger, better known to her college friends as Nancy. Nancy fell from the stairs at the Holsinger's residence, 226 Indiana Ave., Sunday, September 9, as she and her husband, Chuck, were returning from the joint meetings of YMCA, YWCA, Student Vols and Pre-Ministerials held on the campus lawn earlier in the afternoon.

Nancy suffered a severe head injury when she fell. Doctors have reported her condition as serious but she is out of immediate danger. Nancy is however suffering considerable pain.

Nancy and Chuck were married at New Providence Church, Maryville, May 17, and made their home in Latrobe, Pa. this summer.

Nancy has been a victim of polio since she was a small child and can walk only with the aid of crutches. Her bright personality and ready smile have made her well-liked by the students of Maryville College. She was chosen as ABC Calendar girl her freshman year and also served on the WSGA Council. She is enrolled as a member of the Junior Class for the coming semester.

Proof of the affection of the students of MC for Nancy was displayed when over $243 was raised on the campus by the students and faculty to help pay hospital bills.

Dr. Bernardin Preaches At Vespers Tomorrow

The Rev. Dr. Joseph B. Bernardin, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Maryville, will be the preacher at the Vesper service tomorrow at 7:00 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Vesper Choir, under the direction of Harry Harter, will sing.

Lloyd Attends Meeting

President Ralph W. Lloyd was in the east this week attending a meeting of the Advisory Committee on work in Europe. The committee is part of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church USA.

Dr. Lloyd will give a report concerning his contacts last summer with Protestant church in Britain and Europe.

MSO Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Men's Student Organization, of which all Maryville College men are members, next Thursday morning after chapel in the Intramural Gym.

The purpose is to elect new members to the Coordinating Council.

M Clubbers Hold First Meeting

M Club held their first meeting of the year Tuesday, September 9, in the Intramural Gym. The president, Jean Davis, called the meeting to order. The fall hike was planned and the date was set for September 29. Different projects for the club to sponsor during the coming school year were discussed.

Jean announced that over 87 women were out for varsity. Women's Varsity is the point system which enables the women of the college to earn letters by accumulating 400 or more points. Points are awarded for varsity attendence, making the varsity teams, swimming, hiking, stunts and other various activities.

Women's varsity is under the direction of Mrs. Verton Queener, physical education director. Varsity meets on Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week at either 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. Those coming out for Varsity are allowed to pick the time best suited to their schedule.

Everyone interested in earning their MC letter is invited to come out for Women's Varsity. The first regular meeting was held on Thursday, September 13.

Echo Subscriptions

Subscriptions to The Highland Echo beginning with the first issue are still available, according to Echo Business Manager David Miller.

A full year's subscription costs $1.00 and may be secured from either David Miller or Dick New man.

French Officers Meet

A business meeting was held by the officers of the French Club last Thursday at 6:30. Plans were discussed concerning the programs of the semester.

Branin Boyd Heads '52 Pep Committee, Allen Announces

Branin Boyd, senior physics major from Philadelphia, Pa., will head the '51-'52 Pep Committee, it was announced this week by Charlie Allen, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Athletic Association.

Other students selected by the committee and Allen are Izzie Leitch, Neale Pearson, Barbara Rogers, and Bob Kees, captain of the cheerleading squad, ex-officio.

Faculty members appointed by President Ralph Lloyd to serve on the committee are Arda Walker, assistant professor of economics and Paul Coper, assistant professor of French.

The job of the Pep Committee is to stir up pep and enthusiasm among students and to handle such matters as cheerleader tryouts and Homecoming Parade.

Faculty Vacations, Teaches, Travels Over Summer

Exciting among faculty vacations was the three-week motor trip taken this summer by Dean Frances Massey, Carolyn Blair, Kathryn Martin, and Arda Walker.

Heading south through Alabama, the four stopped first in New Orleans, where they visited the French Quarter, French market, and other sites. By the southern route they passed through Texas, Carlsbad Caverns, Grand Canyon, Bryce Canyon, and even Juarez, Mexico. After seeing Yosemite National Park in California, the group returned home through Salt Lake City, Denver, and Memphis.

Nancy Hunter enjoyed the "eternal spring" of Guatemala as a member of a USA Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions seminar. Guided by Mrs. Earnest Mathews '35, she visited Presbyterian missions in Yucatan before traveling to Guatemala. In Guatemala, Miss Hunter visited more missions and sights of interest.

The summer found Dr. Ralph Case supplying pulpits in Missouri and Minnesota, while Kenneth Johnson and H. S. Reber studied at Indiana University.

Catherine Crews taught string ensemble at Smoky Mountain Music Camp in Gatlinburg. Dorothy Vawter studied at Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y., and Curtis Hughes attended Northwestern.

Florida afforded M. C. Wilkinson a delightful trip, while universities and colleges claimed most of the remaining faculty. M. T. Dashiell studied at the University of Iowa; Paul Kolter, at Emory; A. F. Pieper, at University of North Carolina.

Mrs. D. S. Kramer taught arithmetic at UT, and Dr. V. M. Queener taught history and government at Oregon College of Education.

Glee Club, Girls' Choir Meet With Try-Outs

All old members of the Men's Glee Club and Girls' Choir, as well as all those desiring to tryout for those organizations, should meet in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center Monday evening at 7:00 p.m., it was announced by W. Curtis Hughes, director.

These singing groups present a sacred concert each fall and the annual Springtime Serenade of semi-classical music. They also provide music for occasional Sunday evening vesper services.

Senior Jeanne Pelton of Monticello, N.Y., and sophomores Lois Lerch, Clearwater, Fla., and Kenneth Rutherford, Horsham, Pa., led the second semester 1950-1951 honor roll with averages of 9.0.

Betty Lester Elected As 1951-52 Band Sponsor

(Cut courtesy Syracuse, (N.Y.) Post-Standard)

Pictured above are Glen Knecht, '50, and Betty Jane Greenwald, '51, with John Nelson, emcee of CBS' television program Bride and Groom. The former Maryville couple were married August 21 in New York's Park Avenue Chapel by the Rev. William Emery. As the bride and groom of the day, they received silver, a range, refrigerator, appliances, and linen as wedding gifts. Knecht is a student at Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, Calif.

By Pat Lovette

Betty Lester, senior education major from Atlanta, Georgia, has been elected to serve as Band Sponsor for the coming year by the members of the 1951 Marching Band. Betty is a member of Theta Epsilon society.

Kilgore Lequire will lead the band as Drum Major with Peggy Kettles, George Carpenter, and Ruth Orr, twirlers. Majorettes include Jean Davis, Phyllis West, Mary A. Kemp, Edith Keenan, and Jo Jones.

The 58-piece band, under the direction of W. Curtis Hughes, plays at all pep rallies, home football games, and one game away from home. They parade for many events in downtown Maryville, using a quick snappy step with fast cadence.

Members of the Marching Band include: Walt Rowley, James Fisher, Gerald Walker, and Mary Ann Hicks, trombones; Randal Lequire and Bob Buchanan, basses; Helen Petts, baritone; Joe Stater, Charles Blackburn, Charles Farris, Bob Sangster, Kenneth Douthett, Barbara Cox, Al Homan, and McCall, trumpets and cornets;

Ann, Yoakum, Mary Ann Thompson, Virginia Smith, Barbara Miller, Hugh Walker, and Joan Platt, percussion instruments; Barbara Rosensteel, Marcia McKinney, Nancy Dunn and Pat Halstead, flutes. David Gates and Young, horn; Jim Hunt, Peggy Myers, and Carolyn Alderman, saxophone; Barbara Sandos, Mary Ann Brown, Walter Hiller, Mary White, Lucy Junkin, Bill Sitler, Lynn Peatie, Martha Freeny, Nillah Grinstead, Tasker Robinette, Mary Lois McConnell, Isabel Lietch, Phil Zebley, Lora Kinsinger, Alice Buchanan, Pat Aterburn, Trig Moyer, and Clifford Church, clarinets.

Student Council

Committees Named Senators Elected; Elections Slated

Student Body President Bob Cuthill opened the first Student Council meeting of the semester in the Student Center last Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. with prayer. A new plan this year is to open sessions with a prayer offered in alphabetical turn by each member.

Appointed by the president to the Steering Committee were Ralph Thiesse, Jim Kren, Susie Martin, Maree Richards, Jessie Dye, and Bill Morse. Cuthill is an ex-officio member.

Ralph Thiesse, vice president pro tem, is temporary chairman of the elections committee, and will remain a member after a vice president is elected.

Other members are Doris Somerville, Paul Merwin, Jim Hunt, Ruth Ann Roach, Jim Allison, and Beverly Edwards.

Treasurer Dave Reed is chairman of the finance committee, members of which are Arnold Munn and Hank Van Hassell.

The student program committee is chairmaned by Betty Hammers, with Nanette Enloe and Ed Scott as members.

Dick Newman was named chairman of the publications committe. Members are Sally Brown, Lynn Miller, and Walt Elwood.

Maree Richards is social board chairman, and student members of the board are Bob Cuthill, Jim Kren, Susie Martin, Al Springfield, and Barbara Rosensteel.

Ralph Thiesse, Charlie Allen, Dave Reed, and Sally Brown were elected to Student-Faculty Senate. Ex-officio members are Bob Cuthill, Maree Richards, Bill Morse, and Jessie Dye.

Council discussed the election of a new student body vice-president, debating especially the question whether or not freshmen should be allowed to vote. It was decided that they should have full voting paritcipation, and also that election details should be worked out later.

There are to be class meetings after chapel next Wednesday, at which a nominating committee composed of the class officers will present candidates for a Chilhowean business manager to juniors, a vice president to seniors, and a vice president to sophomores. Nominations may be made from the floor, and balloting will take place Thursday.

Student Center Hours

The time schedule of the Student Center was announced this week by Mrs. Nell Strick, director. Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday the Center opens in the morning at 8:30, closes at 5:30 p.m., and is also open from 6:30-7:15, and 9:30-10:15 p.m.

On Tuesday the Center is open from 830 a.m.-5:30 p.m., and 6:30-10:15p.m. The Center opens Saturday at 8:30 a.m., closes at 5:00 p.m., reopens at 5:00, and closes at 6:30.

All games at the Center are available until 9:30 p.m.

Largen Receives Honors At U-T

Mrs. W. O. Largen, instructor in physical education, has been chosen for membership in the University of Tennessee chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national honor society.

Mrs. Largen was graduated cum laude in 1948 and received her master's degree from UT last month.

Phi Kappa Phi is the broadest of the honor societies in that it recognizes all fields of learning. Only seniors and graduate students are eligible for membership and minimum requirements include a 3 scholastic average along with ranking in the upper 10 per cent of the student's college.

Students Begin Parish Projects

Dr. Ralph Case, parish faculty adviser, has announced that 49 students are at work in the college project. More students are expected to participate soon. Parish workers are chosen from the sophomore, junior and senior classes.

Using the parish station wagon, they assist in Sunday schools, churches, and chapels on Sunday. During the weekdays, they give religious instruction at Walland, Chilhowee View, and Forest Hill schools.

The project cooperates with the Rev. R. MacCready, missionary in this area of the Presbyterian USA Board of National Missions. Workers are supplied according to his needs. The Rev. David Englehardt assists Dr. Case in selecting workers.

Workers' jobs include instructing, playing the piano and acting as assistants.

Students Begin Frosh Discussions

Freshman Discussions began their five-week span this week, each class being under the guidance of a faculty member and two or three student leaders. These discussions will follow the same general pattern as in previous years, except that many of the classes contain both men and women students.

The book, "Making the Most of College" is used as the text with the addition, this year, of a discussion on Student Government. This extra period was thought desireable because Student Government has taken a role of much greater importance since the original publication of the text.

Student leaders of these discussion groups were selected by the Student Council. They are Jim Allison, Ralph Thiesse, Ann Leeder, Lynn Miller, Doris Somerville, Bob Cuthill, Susie Martin, Newell Witherspoon, Bob Lynn, Beryl Stewart, Marie Richards, Sally Brown, Jim Kren, Beverly Jacobi, Lee Cook, Edith Lancaster, Bill Morse, Jessie Dye, Al Springfield, Ella Swift, Dave Reed, Betty Hammers, Barbara Blum, and Mary Ann Hicks.

Dean of Studnts Frank D. McClelland summed up the general feeling of the faculty towards the student leaders by saying, "We have been greatly gratified by the enthusiasm and participation of the upper class students in making this important activity a success."

Grades for this course will be put on the permanent record card of all Freshman on a basis of an objective test given to the classes during the last meeting period

A Dedication

It seems sad to be forced again to begin the school year with an editorial involving an unfortunate situation. But situations of that type come to the fore of and by themselves, and hardly as if any kind of choice were involved. Indeed, only a sense of oughtness would result in an editorial which must, of necessity, condemn even a part of Maryville's student body.

Referred to, of course, is the theft of a sum of money this week from a room in Carnegie Hall. This sort of thing has happened before, in other dorms as well, and, we suppose, will happen again. A number of editorial approaches could be made, but we wonder if this sort of thing is not past the platitude stage.

We might attempt a discourse on the high ethical principles of Maryville College, the significance of its church relationship, and the high standards of requirement which must be met for admission. If we wanted to close our eyes to the obvious and ugly fact that people here do steal in spite of all the good things we tell each other about ourselves, that might be a proper approach. But the very point is that stealing has taken place in the past, and in the very near past of this week.

That sort of situation is the kind we like to imagine arises only in large universties or other schools without the religious and moral emphasis which are a part of the basic framework of Maryville. But we can't kid ourselves. At least one person here is a thief, and in no other terms. Perhaps we ought to quit our high-sounding talk long enough to make some of the things we say about oursleves true. Those are hard words, but stealing calls for hard words, especially when it adds a touch of the hypocritical to all the good things we are so ready to tell about ourselves and our school.

Catching a thief and kicking him out may make for some kind of temporary solution, but it doesn't much help rehabilitate the one who made the mistake of stealing, nor does it cease to be a pretty constant reminder that, at least for one person, all that Maryville stands for and tries to put over is a lot of hooey. Obviously, the principles the school represents ought not be changed, and it is agreed that Maryville does as excellent a job as possible in presenting that high way of thinking and doing.

So the solution is not an easy one. Perhaps there are thieves everywhere, and things here are the best they can possibly be. Perhaps the answer lies in everyone's locking his door, hiding his money, and wearing his watch to bed. Perhaps we ought call the town's police force, but that would involve embarrassing ourselves with a story on the front page of The Knoxville Journal hinting that things here might be a little different from what the catalog says they are.

We admit we don't know, and we admit that maybe there is no answer. But we'd like to know with sincerity that Maryville is all it is supposed to be. And it does not approach what it is supposed to be when stealing takes place. Who can change that except the thieves, we don't know. Perhaps this editorial might be dedicated to them.

SWITCH

Everyone hopeful about making the Vesper Choir has heaved a sigh of relief now that tryouts are over. Speaking of the Vesper Choir, they were practicing the "Passion Trilogy" the other day. In the middle of the anthem, Jean Downey suddenly realized that she was singing the bass part. With a quite audiable, "Oh, excuse me!" she went back to singing second soprano.

I DIDN'T FALL . . .

The six girls who room in the college infirmary have developed crushes on a certain freshman boy who broke his leg on the football field. Now watch the boys all rush out and break their legs just so they can stay in the infirmary!

NERVOUS?

Mr. Harter was heard to remark as he was explaining to several new students about singing in repertoire class, "It's a good way to break down." After the laughter had subsided, he said that he met to break down the walls between the singer and the audience.

THE EYE

It's really something to watch the older college males look over the Freshmen girls. Beware girls, they're dangerous!

DETAILS

In girls' glee club rehearsal, Mr. Hughes was bemoaning the fact about the smallness of the band to such an extent that Shirland Roussey spoke up with, "Do you have to be able to play an instrument?"

ON ENTOMOLOGY

Asked if she liked college in the U. S., Clara Arehart, who has spent most of her life in Brazil, answered an enthuiastic, "Yes!" But when Don Young told her that after three or four weeks of it she might find some things lousy, she began examining her arms and asking for explanation.

Reports have it that Clara is still confused about our insect situation.

. . . ACCORDING TO MRS. CUMMINGS

Do you know why two women kissing each other are a symbol of Christiantiy? According to Mrs. Cummings, it's because they are doing to each other as they would have men do unto them!

CINEMANTICS

By Carson Seeley

With the boy-girl ratio about five to two, there can't be much sence in reviewing the flickers. No sane fellow would be seen going down-town with only one girl. But since the paper must go to press, we'll have to fill this column somehow.

"Here Comes Groom" at the Capitol Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Bing Crosby and Jane Wyman appear in this "merry mixture of melody. . . mirth. . . and match-making." Supporting them are Franchot Tone and Alexis Smith.

Bing, a girl-shy newspaperman, adopts two French orphans. Franchot Tone, a member of a rich Bostonian family, competes with Bing Crosby, at least in the comedy line, and even tries the singing racket. All probably ends happily.

Across the alley is "Vengeance Valley", the Park's Tuesday, Wednesday fare which features the late Robert Walker, Joanne Dru, Sally Forrest and John Ireland. While guessing the plot to this movie, you may try guessing the plot to the Park's Monday feature, "Rhythm Inn."

"Take Care of My Little Girl" at the Capitol Thursday and Friday stars Jeanne Crain. Dale Robertson, Mitzi Gaynor and Jean Peters could also be "my little girl." The picture is based on Peggy Goodin's 1950 novel concerning the evils of college sororities. It is doubtful whether the movie audience will become as wrought up as the sorority sisters did, though with a different emphasis.

Jeanne Crain appears on the campus as a bright-eyed freshman with a desire to join Upsilon Upsilon Upsilon. Considering her attributes, Mother Nature's and Hollywood's gifts, she seems right in the running. True to her profession, however, she falls for Dale Robertson, the tuxedoless boy wonder.

With an unbalanced viewpoint in favor of the debit side of sororities and a complete disregard for one of the basic causes of sorority evils, it nevertheless presents in a competent but overdrawn way, a problem that does exist.

Saturday only, we are treated to a double feature at the Capitol and the Park. These are for the benefit of those who miss TV. At the Capitol, we have John Carroll and Ruth Hussey in "Bedside Manner," or the lady is a doctor, and Gene Autry in "Texans Never Cry." The Park has "Wildcat of Tucson" and "Nagana."

At the Park Thursday and Friday, "The Fighting Coast Guard" cruises by. Brian Donlevy is the lad who joins the Coast Guard to escape the draft. With the help of the director and the script writer, he becomes a hero. Giving him inspiration is Ella Raines, and Forrest Tucker appears in the plot somewhere.

Some clips from World War II documentaries are included which are interesting and noticeable.

BOOKWORM BROWSING

"Fifty Fabulous Years" by H. V. Kaltenborn is a relation of the events which H. V. has witnessed, related, and probably helped make. Mr. Kaltenborn is one of the most experienced and well-known news analysists of our day. Anyone interested in history and politics should find some choice morsals in this volume.

"The Human Use of Human Beings" by Norbert Wiener is on a science so new that you won't even find a definition of it in any but the very latest dictionaries. It is cybernetics, and considers the functions of machines in relation to the functions of man and vice versa. This definition is not the best, but then Wiener, who knows his subject, spends a whole book to explain what cybernetics is.

Robert Payne has written a book on a subject most of us would like to know about, at least with little trouble. "Mao Tse Tung" relates the story of China's First Man with an indication that most people won't find what they're looking for. Whether this is an indication of bias either way can't be said, but even if the facts don't coincide with what we have, or think we have, we should still realize that we are not completely right, and that God is not necessarily on our side. Perhaps there is something to the other side also, anyway we should read both sides with an open mind.

Joseph Wood Krutch's biography is another on the genius Edgar Allan Poe. This volume was printed in 1931 and there has been a more recent volume on his life which sheds some interesting facts about his sobriety and drug addiction.

"Poliry for the West" by Barbara Ward is a bok which should at least help us to get a definite idea one way or the other as to what we feel our foreign policy should be. Fortunately, since last April, people are taking a greater interest in the foreign policy of this nation.

"Tito and Goliath" by Hamilton Armstrong is another in the series of books written to help solve the enigma of the USSR. This one is supposed to solve the biggest secondary enigma of the Communists. Why did Tito break? Read it and then realize one of three things. Man is jealous of his own survival. Man is selfish without the inhibitions of a society. And a man is an individual with no duplicate in all respects either by law, creed heredity or environment.

Gilbert Seldes has written another book on "The Great Audience." This one has been revised since his previous viewpoints on the subject many years ago. We are all in this book, the movie audience, the TV audience and what is left of the radio audience. There are some amazing analyses of all phases of audiences, ODDS AND ENDS.

With no musical or theatrical productions started as yet, the campus may seem a little dull, but with the indications as they are, this year promises a good program for those who belong to the elite of the cultured.

●QUESTIONS AND PROBLEMS which had been in the forefront the past week or so finally began straightening themselves out as the coaches got more of a line on football prospects for the coming year and the Pep Committee for the coming year was chosen. More about the first later and some about the latter now. Branin Boyd, also called "Moose" by his friends, is the new Pep Committee chairman and up to him and his cohorts will be the responsilbility of pepping things up on this campus in preparation for Hiwassee, Centre, Jax State, and so forth during the coming year. What with the Hiwassee game next Saturday and the Athenian-Bainonian formal Friday, there is going to be a real problem of cramping two good things into one week especially that problem of what is going to happen to the Pep Rally Bonfire, usually held the night before an oncoming game.

The main thing this year along that line is one of getting past Hiwassee. They have a big bunch of boys out and will be pointing for this game just like four-fifths of MC's other opponents who make the Highlanders the big game on their schedule. As for the importance of the game—besides its being with Hiwassee who slapped the skids under last year it is a game that could really make or break the Scots—If they win they will pick up a confidence and spirit unknown in a long time that may enable them to knock off some of their other opponents. Therefore, be it resolved that we all get some pep and spirit this coming week!

●FOR A TREAT INSTEAD OF A TREATMENT . . . This well-known and about-worn-out phrase describes the latest phase of Maryville's cross country work. According to Coach Sven Johnson, noted Swedish linguistic man, Fartlek (pronounced farlick) means "enjoyment" or "fun" and that has been the keyword to all drills for the past week. As the bunion-burners come staggering "happily over the hill on their way home in the future, they will no doubt be singing a new song:

Fartlek—"Enjoyment"
Oh, to run the most jubilant race,
Even to set new records, and to have with them a smile on one's face.
Oh, full of music, full of pep, endurance, and character,
Full of common enjoyment, happy, oh, yes, sir!
Oh, the bunion burner's joys,
We hear the gasps of them, dear old MC's boys.
We hear bells, shouts, we pass the crowd and run,
The sight of a race enjoyed and soon to be done.

The Barber of Sevierville with apologies to Whitman

●STRONG TALK . . . even for a man like him was Coach L. S. Honaker's statement this past week that this year's team was 50% worse off than any team he had ever had as far as ability goes now. Maryville has had some good years—'46-'47 especially with Tangerine Bowl trip—and very few bad ones. Coach Honaker, one of the original members of the National Crying Towel Association, wasn't at all too optimistic about this year's team's chances when he made this statement. One might be inclined to differ with him when one looks for a semblance of reserves on this year's Scot grid team, he finds the proverbial cupboard bare. With only nine freshmen out, Coach has nothing at all practically to fall back on when third period time rolls around. Instead, unless some of the other boys develop quick-like the 60 minuts ball player will bee seen around again more than once. In fact, Grant Sharpe is so much MC's best wing and full back, that he will be holding down two positions at one time if something doesn't happen. There is very little of that great talent as seen in many places but one thing everyone is sure of—It'll be one of the best conditioned teams in MC history if not the best. Coach Honaker's son, Scot, is to be blamed or praised for this anyhow.

And because of the absence of any contributions from the freshmen class like that of last year, those that are out have to be shown the fundamentals of how to run, block, and tackle, and hope they can put on some weight at the dining hall in the next week.

All in all, things don't look like they could look if it were a normal year but we still think the boys have that spirit in them to win.

●WANTED—TALENT. . . One reads no doubt elsewhere that positions are available on the editorial staff of this paper and we wish to pass the word around also that anybody wishing to work on the sports staff of the Echo is a cinch to be put on the staff. . . Those working in that department are rather short-handed and anyone with even a half-way bit of talent can write Echo sports—witness those who are doing it already. Though the above may seem windy in some resepcts, it is substantially true—the work is hard with statistics, records to look up or file, and a need to make the stuff pleasing enough to read, having taken their toll in the past. . .Anyways, if you would like to be a member of the Sports staff, see any of the editors at any time, we are always ready to hear a story. . .

●PLEASE TAKE HEED. . . Elsewhere one finds also the usual section with its story of play beginning next week. . . as this went to press only four teams had handed in rosters with the deadline gone by. . . therefore, in the future, we would like to see all potential teams have their lists in before Thursday of the week preceding opening play in the Intramural sport. . . it makes things much easier and better for all concerned. . .

Intramural Info . . .

On Monday afternoon, if it doesn't rain, play will begin for the 1951 season in touch football. Prospects are that there will be but one league rather than two as was the case last year with 13 teams.

On Monday, following lunch, team maangers are asked to be present in the Intramural office for a discussion of the rules, playing conditions, etc. All coaches, captains, waterboys, and fans are asked to be present.

Read This

As was the case in Intramural Softball, there will be an Arbitration Board to discuss and vote upon any difficulties or questions that may pop up during the season. Before, every member of the Intramural system was allowed to vote on questions brought up at meetings but the so-frequent situation was that few or no persons attended the meetings—therefore, the arbitration board. Each team is asked to pick one man from their team to be on the Arbitration board which will also have on it senior manager Neale Pearson, assistant manager Bob Navratil, and Coach Kenneth Johnson.

. . . And This

Another yearly need which will have to be filled as repetition goes is that for referees and other officials. Much time was spent last year by those in charge on their knees in a position of prayer asking that certain souls please give up two hours every afternoon for a worthy cause. Once again the call goes out and the response, as usual, is uncertain. Several have "volunteered" already and more are needed. "Not only do the same "sports" beef over the "same, sorry, old officials" but it is hard on those who are willing to give up their time for nothing but abuse (in most instances) from players and fans." (This above is quoted from last year's about-the-same-time issue because it explains the case very well and to the point.) Perhaps there is a handshake, a gruff "you called a good game," or a pat on the back from some other Intramural team manager who was in the same plight but they are few and far between.

Request number two for the season from the players, then, is that each team have at least two if its men ready and willing to call games each week. This can be done by having two paramount representatives on the officiating staff or by asking two guys each week to handle games the following week. The Intramural system big-domes think this a good idea and it may solve the problem. However, each team is not limited to but two representatives on the officials staff, but if one team wishes to volunteer en masse to call games and pick up an extra 50 points towards an Intramural medal, they may do so and the carpets will be rolled out for them. There will be a list for all potential referees to sign on an the Intramural office bulletin board. All signers will be appreciated.

Squads which already have lists in are the always powerful YMCA which topped play in the Garnet League and has another humdinger signed up. "Coach" Bob Kees has Branin "Moose" Boyd, Ralph Thiesse, and Al Springfield back to man his front line with a backfield that shows the likes of Ray Rose, Chuck Holsinger, Sonny Short, and Manning Smith. New prospects out include Bob "Slim" Johnston and "old man" Thad Godwin. The Pre-Mins who had a tough time last year with both of their teams have combined their talents and come up with a fairly strong aggregation. Big dogs for the Minnies are expected to be Ronald Flemings, A. C. McWilliams and Jack "Mighty Mouse" Waka. It is also rumored that "Tex" Schwenkie, "fearsome" aerial artist is also warming up the "old wishbone" in anticipation of play.

As for the always colorful Alpha Sigma teams—at least with their titles—not too much is known save that Sigma Director of Athletics Horace Beckwith has a struggle lined up that includes Supremo Munn, and Ken "The Blimp" Hammond to man the ranks of his Alpha Sigarettes, or Dixie-Dee Woodmen or whatever the case may be.

Intramural Football Rules

1. The game shall consist of two fifteen minute halves with the clock stopped only for official timeouts and during the last minute of play when the ball is grounded on say a forward pass or when a man runs out of bounds.

2. Each team shall be allowed two timeouts per half save in the last minute of play.

3. Overtime—In case of a tie score, each team shall be given four downs, with the team last in possession of the ball starting on their own 20 yard line. If the first team does not score, the defensive team shall take the offensive for four downs from their own 20, also. The team making the most points or the most yardage, if no points are scored, in those four downs shall be the winner. This play shall continue until a winner is established.

4. a. The game shall be played by two teams of seven men each—3 man line and 4 man back field.

b. Substitutes may come into the game at any time.

Spring Sports Roundup

BASEBALL

(Ed. note—this is the second and final note concerning Spring athletics at Maryville College).

As the lure of the horsehide sensed its way over the campus this past spring, Coach L. S. Honaker was faced with the task of molding a team with only one letterman, Jim Kren, back. However, MC's aging in years but not in vigor coach attacked the job and with the aid of a group of other vets— Jimmy Campbell, Ken Yunkers, Sonny Short, Earl Valentine, and L. A. Campbell—had a team with a record equal to that of only a few MC teams in the past.

The big thing on which the Scots had to build was pitching with Kren, Short, and Gene Parks to form a staff and an in-field-outfield fairly strong down the important middle.

Don't Let It Happen

Things looked bad on opening day, though, when Hiwassee's Bob Galloway and Don Williams shut out the Highlanders on one hit, 4-0, on the Hiwassee diamond.

Sweet Revenge

A game with Maryville CIO was next on the schedule but with three innings of play completed, the rains came and play was discontinued. Two days later, Hiwassee's overly-confident nine strode into town to try to repeat its success of the week before. Instead they were greeted with a shower of baseknocks that saw Galloway and Williams knocked out early as the Scots went on to win 21-2 for the biggest score in years. Pacing the attack were the Campbells, Jim and Leaky, Ken Yunkers, and Bill Van Benthysen who got two raps apiece.

Emory & Henry's Blue Wasps were next and in an almost an extra-inning contest lost, 3-2, when the MC-ers pushed across two in the bottom of the ninth. MC pitching strength showed up well as Kren, Parkes, and Short paraded to the mound and put out fires when they occurred.

Elephant's Memory

King College's Tornadoes who had applied the skids before to the Scots the year before found themselves on the other side of the fence as Gene Parks found the range and racked up a 7-1 lead by ninth-inning time when Dave Williams was sent in for some experience. He couldn't find the strike zone until four runs came across but he finally settled down and MC won number three and in a row.

MC's biggest hit production of the year—15—then led the Scots to a win over Milligan's Buffaloes at Milligan. Following this game, the Scots engaged LMU's Big Blue on the Railsplitter's stomping grounds and found themselves on the debit side as Gene Beverly tossed a four-hitter at the Orange and Garnet. Final score, 9-4, them. As was the case following the first Hiwassee game, the Scots didn't snap back fast enough and were bowled over in a practice game with Maryville CIO, 8-9.

Hit It Hard

East Tennessee State's Bucs were the next team to play the Scot baseballers and had to face the misfortune of a 2-1 licking behind Short's hurling and Wes Kinser's hitting. King was dumped again as summer came again and Kren's arm felt good in a 6-2 triumph. Carson-Newman's Eagles then faced the Scots in their own lair as the Scots stole sacks and runs in a 11-5 victory. Following another game with Milligan here on the Campus which the Scots won, 6-4, the Eagles of C-N came to MC and wound-up on the wrong side of by the same score as Milligan fell. Another fairly close one was the season's finale against LMU which MC won 8-6 to give them a record of ten wins and two losses.

Kinser Tops

In the hitting, Wes Kinser topped them all with a glistening .333 percentage and a much improved man at the initial sack. Following him were Jimmy Campbell, sparkplug of the infield team who hit .283; Ken Yunkers at the hot corner who raised his average and snagged everything coming

Scot Gridsters Go Into Final Week's Practice

SCOTS READYING FOR HIWASSEE

With one of the smallest squads in Maryville College history to work with, Coaches Lombe Honaker and John Davis ran their charges through plays and scrimmages this past week in an effort to get some semblance of a team together in preparation for the season's opening game next week end with Hiwassee here.

With a squad now down to 38 men after injuries and boys quitting had taken their toll, Maryville's gridiron mentors, forsee the possibility of having only some 20-25 boys ready for play by next Saturday.

Biggest blow to the Scots was the fact that only nine freshmen boys turned out for this year's squad to augment the 13 lettermen and 15 other veterans coming out. Last year's squad was saved because of this when a group of 25 frosh turned out.

However, this year is different and the gods who smile on such maters as these seemingly were looking the other way when school opened up.

However, with the aid of Scott Honaker, Coach's son who is studying for his doctorate at UT and a gridiron mentor himself at Arkansas State, the Orange and Garnet eleven should be one of the best-conditioned ones in years and it will have to be with the shallow depth behind the starters.

Especially looking good the past week were Captain Charlie Allen who is going to have to carry a big load along with the rest of the backfield, Grant Sharp who may see action at both wing-and fullbacks, Harold Glad at full who has improved in his open field work, Ken Yunkers, who will sub Allen, Jimmy Campbell who has been snagging all passes thrown his way, and Jerry King who has been making the vital blocks on ground plays.

On the line, ends Jimmy Callaway, Paul Merwin, and Dick Gardner have shown improvement, along with tackles Joe Bender and Jimmy McBrayer, frosh boy from Everett High. At the guards, Bob Madry, John Morton, and Malcolm Moore have also been doing well while amongst the centers, Homer Garren has been the bright spot while Dick is still finding it difficult to make the change from end to center though he is doing well.

Blocking, tackling, and other fundamentals of the game were the main item on the agenda for the past week while scrimmaging, passwork, buck laterals, and such will be worked on more next week.

Eight Newcomers Bolster Thinlies

Harriers Begin In Power, Endurance Workouts

After pleas from various and sundry sources, Coach Kenneth Johnson's cross country team has seen its ranks double in size. Coming out this past week for initial workouts were Bob Coles, Homer Rickabaugh, Lou Johnson, all upperclassmen, Morris Taylor and Jack Maxwell, both aspirants for the track team last spring, George Day, letterman two years ago who droppd out last year because of studies, Bob Toney and Wayne Brooks, freshmen.

Workouts were to be varied for the next two weeks with a mixture of sprints and power work on the Golf Course Hill one day and running over the course the next. After these initial two weeks, there will be a time trial on Monday, September 24 in preparation for the season's first meet with UT.

Especially looking as if they were in fair shape this past week were Tom Kelly, Dick Kerr, and Dave Helwig. Prospects will be much brighter still if Day stays out as the red-headed senior was one of the bunion burner's top men two year's ago.

Coach Kenneth Johnson also released the 1951 Cross Country Schedule this week which shows the hill-and-dalers running in six meets against UT, William Jennings Bryan U. of Dayton, Tennessee, and Sewanee. A meet with TPI is still pending.

The Schedule:

Wed. Oct. 3—UT	Here
Sat. Oct. 20—WJBU	There
Tues. Oct. 23—UT	There
Sat. Oct. 27—Sewanee	Here
Sat. Nov. 3—TPI (Pending)
Sat. Nov. 17—Sewanee	There
Wed. Nov. 21—WJBU	Here

down his way; Leaky Campbell, erstwhile pitcher who was in the outfield at center and a fair fielder. Returnee Earl Valentine and Kren alternated in right field when Kren wasn't pitching while newcomers Don Alford and Bill Van Benthysen alternated behind the mask to catch the slants of the chunkers. Van B. hit .285 while Alford's was .250. Jim Wiley and Harry Newberry traded off the second base posts with each other and helping out mainly on the fielding side of the ledger. On the pinch-hitting side, Tom Jones led the squad with ⅖ and a .666 average.

As for the pitching, Short never looked better what with a 6-0 record and an ERA of 0.645. Kren didn't get loosend up enough till the hot weather set in whereupon he pitched his usual steady game and finished with a 2-2 record and 29 strikeouts. Gene Parks and Dave Williams, each had 1-0 records and in line for more top flight work next year.

Good News In '52

Unless the draft has its say, all members of the '51 team save one or two will be back to form an even stronger team yet.

Staff Positions Still Available

Editorial and business staff positions on The Highland Echo are still open, according to Editor Dick Newman. A number of try-outs have already applied, he said, but there are still staff positions to be filled.

Anyone who wishes to try out should report to the Echo office on the East side of Thaw Hall Monday evening at 7:30. The meeting is also for all staff members and those who have already applied.

Interclub Council Elects Witherspoon New Prexy

Interclub Council met Thursday evening in the Student Center and elected officers for the coming year. Newell Witherspoon, senior business administration major from Chattanooga was elected president while Ella Swift, senior elementary education major from White Hall, Md., was elected Vice President; and Ruth Burgos, junior sociology major from New York, secretary.

Pi Gamma Has Meeting

Pi Gamma held their first meeting of the semester last Wednesday during the lunch hour. Persons holding office this semester are Mary Lee Snodderly, president; Barbara Morrell, vice-president; and Janice Clemens, secretary-treasurer.

Pi Gamma is an organization to enable town girls to become better acquainted with the dormitory girls, usually by way of luncheons.

Evening Dancing Begins

After-supper dancing began Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Intramural Gym. Mrs. Nell Gardiner Strick, director of the Student Center, was hostess and will continue to supervise the dances.

Each Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, from 6:30-7:15 p.m., these informal, round dances are held. There is no planned program.

Mrs. Strick is aided by two senior girls who alternate each evening as hostesses.

Graham Speaks On The Protestant Hour

Dr. Thomas A. Graham, pastor of New Providence Presbyterian Church, Maryville, will be the preacher on The Protestant Hour over WNOX tomorrow morning from 8:30 to 9:00.

The broadcast features the local clergyman over 155 Southern stations. A number of other prominent Presbyterian USA clergy in the South, many connected with Maryville College, comprise the eight programs in the Presbyterian USA series.

Fisher Address IRC

Commodore Bascom Fisher, associate professor of history, will address International Relations Club on the oil situation in Iran in Thaw 214 at 6:30 p.m. September 17.

Fisher was a missionary in Iran for more than 20 years, and has been a school principal in Teheran for some time.

Y's Plan Joint Themes: Finding Your Place In Y

Both YMCA and YWCA will take as their theme this Sunday "Commissioned, Consecrated, Controlled." The programs for both organizations will include introduction of the officers and cabinet members and an explanation of their various functions.

YWCA will meet in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center at 1:30, while YMCA will meet at the same hour in Bartlett Hall Auditorium.

Athenians, Bainonians Complete Rush Week

By Lora Kinsinger

Capping a gay gypsy week, the Athenians and Bainonians gave new students a glimpse of "A Gypsy College" in last night's formal. Jim Darroch, a crown prince disguised as a gypsy, starred with Beverly Jacobi, Wally Schroeder, Dave Reed, and Allan Caldwell, while he fell in love with princess Betty Hammers.

Written by Jim Dance and directed by Barbara Blum, all ended well in the Kingdom of Improvisia.

On the first day of Rush Week, colorfully dressed Bainonians adorned the campus, closing the day with a gypsy snake dance through the dorms. A trio from the Kingdom of Improvisia, Dick Dart, Glen Watt, and Sue White, entertained in the dining hall Tuesday.

In a gypsy tent, Madame Fortune predicted dates for Friday's formal, while a covered wagon marked "A&B or Bust" traversed the campus. Wednesday evening found the gypsies in caravan in the woods camped around the bonfire.

Rush Week chairmen were Izzy Leitch and Betty Hammers. In charge of sets for formals were Walt English, Bob Kees, Beryl Stewart, and Morna Wright, and publicity was handled by Bev Edwards.

Echo Positions Still Available

The Highland Echo editorial and business staffs will still accept applications from try-outs, according to Business Manager Dave Miller and Editor Dick Newman. Those who wish to try out should see either Miller or Newman by next week.

Still available also are mailing subscriptions to the paper, beginning with the first issue of the semester. The price is $1.00 for a full year or 50 cents for one semester.

The Echo editorial staff, try-outs, and those who wish to try out will meet Monday, September 24, at 7:30 p.m. in Thaw 209.

Theater Plans Double Program For Next Month

In October, two one-act plays, "Marriage Proposal" by Tchekoff, and "Enter the Hero" by Hilburn will be produced in the round the directing class etha,good., (central staging) by Experimental Theater. Students from the directing class will direct these plays.

A Christmas play in December wil be the culminating activity of the class in religious drama. Fred E. Short, instructor in drama and speech, will direct the play. Kathleen Craven will direct the two productions put on in the spring.

The central-staged plays will be produced in Bartlett Gymnasium. For the other plays the Bartlett auditorium is used. Because the auditorium seats only 200, the plays are given twice an evening, 7:00 and 9:30 p.m.

"The Experimental Theater, a part of the Fine Arts division, is intended to give students in acting, directing and stagecraft classes experience in directing some phase of theatrical art," stated Miss Craven.

Hal Lloyd Preaches Tomorrow At Vespers

The Rev. Hal B. Lloyd, son of Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, will speak at the Vesper service at 7:00 p.m. on Sunday, September 23 in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

Lloyd, a graduate of Maryville College in 1943, studied at Cambridge University in England last year and has recently accepted the pastorate of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Rockford, Illinois.

Athenians Meet

There will be a very short business meeting of all Athenians, tonight at 6:15 in Bartlett Hall.

All members are urged to come, and the meeting will be over in time for the football game.

IRC Hears Fisher On Iranian Oil

Commodore Bascom Fisher, associate professor of History, addressed IRC last Monday evening on the Iranian oil situation.

Fisher stated that the main reason any country desires to control Iran is not for the oil alone, but to control the Near East.

One question involved, he pointed out, is the sanctity of contract. A previous contract had been cancelled in 1932, and a new one drawn which gave Iran more than twice the previous amount in royalties. Again in 1948 Iran wanted to cancel the contract.

To Iran, the idea of complete sovereignty and freedom of their nation has superseded the idea of the necessity of money. Iranians also look askance at the British plea of non-nationalzation of the Anglo-Iran oil company since Britain has nationalized her own basic resources.

Iran would like to make an agreement with the U.S. similar to the 50-50 royalties agreement that we made with Arabia. We have not responded since the British do not view this arrangement favorably, and we do not want to alienate Anglo-American relations.

Fisher concluded with the statement that the Iranian decision to make a trade agreement with the USSR, if an agreement with Britain cannot be made, is not an empty one.

No Echo Next Week

There will be no edition of The Highland Echo next week. A number of issues must be dropped this year because of financial difficulties, especially resulting from the rise of printing costs and the lower college enrollment.

The next publication date is October 6. Any news or announcements for that issue should be in the Echo office as soon as possible.

Echo staff members and try-outs, however, will meet in Thaw 209 Monday evening, September 24, at 7:30.

Artist Series Plans Concerts, Sale of Tickets

Artists Series this year will include two concerts, the first one scheduled for October 12. This will present Nelson and Neal, or Mr. and Mrs. Harry Neal, one of the best of the younger piano teams. They have recently returned from a highly successful Australian tour and are now engaged in a lengthy tour of America.

They have received the most favorable press notices. This husband and wife team have also played individually as soloists before combining their rare musical talent.

Coming on January 25 is William Warfield, sensational new Negro baritone. He was featured in the movie "Showboat" singing "O' Man River."

Reserved season tickets will go on sale Monday, September 24, for the price of 60 cents. Individual teickets will sell for 30 cents and will go on sale the week of the respective concerts.

Tickets may be had in Pearsons lobby before and after meals and in the Student Center from 3:30 to 4:30.

New Cheerleaders Elected For '51-52 By Student Body

The 1951-52 cheerleaders squad was chosen by the student body on the basis of tryouts held Friday, September 14, in the Alumni Gym. Branin Boyd, chairman of the Pep Committee had charge of the election.

The five girls and three boys who make up the squad include Carolyn Sloan, sophomore Speech major from Madisonville, Tenn.; Dixie Conner, freshman English major from Brunswick, N. J.; Kathy Morrison, freshman Elementary Education major from Trenton, Ga.; Frankie McEachern, freshman English major from Jacksonville, Fla.; Pat Lovette, sophomore Business Administration major from Morristown, Tenn.;

Bob Kees, senior Business Administration major from Philadelphia, Pa.; Bill Faulkner, senior Economics major from Memphis, Tenn.; and Jim Bong, sophomore from Shanghai, China.

At a recent meeting, Bob Kees and Carolyn Sloan were chosen to serve as Co-Captains of the 1951-52 squad.

The cheerleaders lead cheers at all the home football and basketball games, and at one away football game. Pep meetings and downtown parades are also led by the cheerleaders during the year.

WSGA Elects New Officers

Results of the WSGA elections held Thursday are as follow: Pearsons Vice House Charmain, Sally Drum; Secretary-Treasurer, Betty Stiles; Fire Captain, Millie Cooper.

In Baldwin Hall, Helen Seay was elected Vice House Chairman, Mary Jane Bevan Secretary-Treasurer, and Sally Butts Fire Captain.

Memorial Hall's Vice House Chairman is Wilma Trumbull and Secretary-Treasurer is Millie Williams.

Miss Drum is a junior education major from Latrobe, Pa.; Miss Stiles a junior Home Ec. major from Clearwater, Florida; and Miss Cooper a junior elementary education major from New Hyde Park, N.Y.

Miss Seay is a sophomore religious education major from Irvington, N.J.; Miss Bevan is a sophomore art major from Whitehaven, Tenn.

Miss Trumbull is a sophomore education major from Wilkinsburg, Pa.; and Miss Williams an education major from Madisonville, Tenn.

Board Offers Catechism Awards

Two $50 awards for memorizing the Westminster Shorter Catechism are available to Maryville College students, according to Dean Frances Massey. The Presbyterian USA Board of Christian Education makes a number of these scholarship grants to students of Presbyterian church-related schools, and two from last year are still available.

Students who received grants last year are Annie Laurie Cureton, Peggy Evans, Jeannine Fiori, and Charles LaRue. More scholarships will also be available next semester, Dean Massey said.

Eligible are any students enrolled in Maryville this semester for the first time. Procedure involved is memorizing the 107 answers to the questions of the Shorter Catechism. An examination by members of the Bible faculty will determine the winners of the scholarships.

Those interested should make application soon at the Dean of Women's office.

Pictured above are the coaches and players who will lead the 1951 Maryville College Scots tonight into action against Hiwassee's Tigers.

Make Your Choice

Presidents of the four societies urge all new students to "pledge" to the society of their choice this coming Monday and possibly Tuesday. A table for signing up of students will be set up third and fourth periods in Thaw and before and after meals at Pearsons. Members of Student Council will sit at the table and pass out slips to new freshmen and transfers on which they will designate the society of their choice.

It is also requested by the four presidents that no influencing and pressure tactics be used Monday during the signing so that the freshmen can make their own choice.

Gates Named Veep In Soph Election

In elections held Thursday, David Gates, science major from Fulton, Mo., was elected vice president of the sophomore class.

Jack Maxwell from Clinton, S. C., was runner-up for the position made vacant by Carl Drescher, who was elected to the position last spring but did not return to Maryville this year.

FAC Schedules Art Exhibition

The first Art Exhibition of the 1951-52 season opens on Tuesday, September 25, in the Art Gallery of the Fine Arts Center. It consists of a loan, from the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D. C., of 46 original prints by leaders of the 19th century in France in the graphic arts.

Some of the better-known artists in the group are Paul Cezanne, Honore Daumier and Paul Gauguin and Raoul Dufy.

Another exhibit will be shown in the Gallery, perhaps by the end of the week. It is to be a group of about 20 examples of 20th century sculpture in a variety of media.

All students are invited to attend both exhibits. The Gallery is open whenever the building is.

First Pep Rally Held Thursday

The first Pep rally was held Thursday, September 20 at 6:45 p.m. on the football field. It was organized by the Pep Committee to stimulate pep and enthusiasm in the student body for tonight's game with Hiwasse.

After Branin Boyd, chairman of the committee, introduced the cheerleaders and the football coaches, Lombe Honaker, Head Coach, presented the members of the football team. The program also included several pieces by the band, some pep cheers, and a quartet rendition of "On Highlanders."

Subsequent Pep rallies will precede all remaining home games.

Yearbook Pictures Scheduled For Next Week Here

J. W. Tallent of Skeet-Tallent Studio, Knoxville, will be on campus September 24-28 to take individual pictures for the 1952 Chilhowean. Sittings will be made in Baldwin basement recreation room from 9:20 a.m. to 12:20 p.m. and from 1:20 p.m. to 5:20 p.m. on each day.

Cost of a sitting is $1.50 and includes one glossy print for use in the yearbook. A discount of 33⅓% will be made on all orders. Persons whose formal picture appears more than once in the book will be assessed $.25 for each additional print required at the time the sitting is made. This includes members of the Student Council, WSGA, Nu Gamma, honorary fraternities and sororities, and organization presidents or chairmen.

Seniors are reminded of the opportunity of having a second sitting made for use as identification pictures next semester.

In order that the photographic work may be done efficiently, the following schedule has been released: Monday, Sept. 24, residents of Baldwin; Tuesday, Sept. 25, residents of Memorial, the Infirmary, and town; Wednesday, Sept. 26, residents of Pearsons; Thursday, Sept. 27 and Friday, Sept. 28, residents of Carnegie. Faculty and staff pictures will be made any day.

Dress will be as follows: senior women, drapes and pearls; senior men, white dinner jackets and black bow ties; junior women, suits and pastel sweaters; sophomore women, pastel sweaters and pearls; freshmen women, white blouses with Peter Pan collars; junior, sophomore, and freshmen men, business suits and four-in-hand ties.

Drapes for senior women, jackets and ties for senior men, and suit jackets for junior women will be provided.

Spanish Club Elects Twelve New Members

Spanish Club under the leadership of president Ruth Burgos held its first business meeting last Thursday evening for the purpose of electing new members from qualified applicants to replace members who have graduated or for other reasons have failed to return.

The following candidates were selected and will be initiated at next Thursday's meeting which will be the annual picnic: Don Craig, Ellen Turner, Jack Maxwell, Bill Dartnell, Carol Cornell, Wilma Trumbull, Barbara Buttrill, Virginia Davenport, Jessie Lyons, and Max Sockwell; Lillian Rivera of Puerto Rico and Clara Arehart of Brazil were chosen as honorary members.

The picnic will begin at 4:30 p.m Thursday, September 27, in the College wods. All old and new Spanish Club members are invited to attend.

Highlanders Meet Foe On New Field

Scots See Action With Single Wing

By Neale Pearson

Tonight at eight o'clock, the 1951 edition of the Maryville College Highlanders takes to the field against the Tigers of Hiwassee.

Dagnab It!

Up until last year, the Tigers had always been figured as push-overs, but the proverbial apple cart was upset and the Scots went home shaking their heads in wonderment. Behind the slick passing and generalship of Charley Scroggins they had won. Maryville also was starting out last year's season under a new system—the Split T. But the loss of several keymen to the national guard over the summer put a definite crimp in those hopes and so the T didn't live up to its expectancies. Finally, when Carson-Newman came around there was the switch back to the ancient but available single wing under which the Scots played much better ball.

Not Much Meat

With only twelve lettermen back to form the nucleus of a team, Coaches L. S. Honaker and John Davis, with help from Scot Honaker, will field another team that will have to depend on shiftiness, speed, and tom-foolery to score rather than plain old-fashioned brawn. There will be plenty of power under this year's version of the single-wing but with depth in the ranks only going so far, a few fuzzies now and then can be expected.

Lucky Thirteenth (?)

Tonight's game is the thirteenth in a series which began back in 1932 with Hiwassee coming out on top, 12-7. Hiwassee teams since then have regretted that mistake for the next ten contests saw Maryville the winner while between 1942-and 1948, the Tigers didn't even get a sniff of the goal line.

Do It Once—Do It Again!

Of the four men who figured in last year's Hiwassee scoring three are back in the positions of Chig Mainous at left half, Ralph Dye and Bob Shelton, who play right and left ends respectively. Mainous who is a 160 pounder carried the ball seven times for some 35 yards and latched onto three passes good for some fifty five yards and a TD.

Dye, who is a 165-lb.-er from Tazewell, Virginia caught a couple of passes but his big play was in helping block an MC punt in the second quarter and picking up the ball and going fifteen yards for the Tiger's initial score.

Shelton his team-mate at the opposite post-end is a 6'3" boy from Pennington Gap who used his height much to the Scots' disadvantage in being the other half of the Scroggins-to-Shelton passing combo good for six points and some fifty yards on three passes.

A Fizzle We Hope

Probable quarterback for Coach Karl Reedy is a boy named Vandergriff with the primary appelation of "Dynamite." A letterman, he played little against the Scots last year save on defense. Also in the same position and probable fullback for the T-playing Red-and-Yellow Tigers is Sonny Armstead a 170-pounder.

As for the other positions on the line, Highlander lineman will find the left side of the Tiger forward wall complete with Eugene Black, a 200-pounder last year from up in Kaintuck' and Cliff Irwin, 165, who go at tackle and guard. As for the other side, there will be some vets out of the group of Earl Stanley, a 200 pound boy, Dick Ottinger, 170, Jim Henderson, 200, Chester Bays, 180, and Ken Walker, 165.

Small School, Bah!

Coach Reedy, a sophomore in time of tutelage at Hiwassee has

On Chapel–

If there is any one editorial subject that concerns and involves the entire student body, it is chapel. Perhaps that in itself is significant, for we though often joining the ranks ourselves of those who complain at being forced to get up at the ridiculous hour of ten minutes to eight, really believe in the value and worth of that service. There is something significant in beginning a day with worship. And with the emphasis that is Maryville's, we could begin it here no other way.

The religious community on the island of Iona also begins its day with a service of worship, going through the first half of the typical Protestant order of service. The activity of the day then goes on, and in the evening the second half of the worship is conducted. The point, of course, is that one's entire day is worship and dedication in the larger sense. We like that, and although we do not recommend that exact procdure for Maryville, we do recommend that idea and urge the greater appreciation of the time set apart here for the personal beginning of each day in the proper spirit.

We want specifically to go on record as being in complete sympathy and accord with the new procedure of involving all members of the faculty and staff in the daily leadership. Although the process is undoubtedly good for the introduction of these people to new students, our chief appreciation is of the now-present opportunity also to be led in our religious thinking by those who formerly had no part in that leadership. The democratiza? tion of that rule will make, we are convinced, for a much more meaningful chapel experience.

Something else we like is the rading of scriptural passages and prayers in different languages by the members of the language faculty. We admit that one of the cleverest quips we've heard in our college career was the crack by assistant professor of economics Stanley Phillips a couple of years ago, when he led chapel one morning after a number of these foreign language things, and scaid that in spite of numerous requests, he was not going to read the Twenty-third Psalm in Business English.

But, still, the great idea of the universality of the gospel has never been made more clear to us than in the hearing of familiar passages read in a language other than English. Perhaps if we have come overly to identify Christianity with our culture, it might be good for us to hear passages read this way.

So we're all for chapel; and we think its here to stay. We are happy all of the faculty and staff now have the privilege and responsibility of leadership. We like the idea of foreign language readings. And we believe that chapel can really be a meaningful thing in the lives of those who are attempting to live towards the high qualities Maryville College believes in.

Student Body Meeting

At the Student Body meeting last Thursday, four items of business were completed. Students were reminded that Dubby's Grill and the Quickway Restaurants were off limits to all students at all times.

Students were reminded that there is to be no lining up before 9:30 p.m. for the Y Store opening. Anyone stopping between the Student Center and the dorms during the 9:30-10:15 period is considered loitering. The Town Night proposal was ratified.

Three amendments to the Student Body Constitution were passed. Article VIII, Section 1, paragraph b, part 13 was added. It reads "Provision shall be made for absentee balloting from those students absent from the College participating in school functions."

Spring elections now shall be held "during the month of April at a time set by the Student Council" according to Article VIII, Section 1, Paragraph e, part 2. Article XII, By-law 2 includes the Alumni Association in Homecoming activities. Constitutional changes in full can be found in the Constitution which begins on page 31 of the 1951-52 M Book.

Student Council–

At the Student Council meeting Wednesday evening, Newell Witherspoon, newly elected president of Interclub Council, was welcomed as a new member. The error in last week's Echo concerning elections to Student-Faculty Senate was corrected. Jim Allison, not Charlie Allen, was elected Senator. Council members were urged to enforce Town Night regulations.

The Town Night proposal and the Y Store Agreement were passed, and proposals regarding the use of the smoker's platform by The Steps were passed on to Senate. A committee to investigate and make recommendations concerning Town Night was appointed by Student Body President Bob Cuthill. Bevrely Edwards is chairman, and members are Betty Hammers, Dave Reed, Dick Newman, and Walt Elwood.

It was announced that nominations to Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities would be made at the next Council meeting. Social Board Chairman Marie Richards announced that $12. worth of new records had been purchased for the Student Center and the after-supper dances. A new ping-pong table is also being secured for the Center, and repairs being made on those already there. Council passed a motion recommending that Social Board lower the rental rates of the amplifying system.

Alpha Sigma president Neale Pearson spoke to Council on the possibility of setting up a neutral table to receive memberships into the four societies, next week in order to prevent pressurizing of freshman joinees. Council passed the recommendations and members will sit at the sign-up table Monday.

Petitions for candidates for the Student Body Vice-presidency will be available Tuesday from the Student Center Hostess or Student Body Vice-president pro tem Ralph Thiesse. They must be returned with 75 signatures Tuesday night, and there is to be no campaigning. Candidates and managers will speak in chapel Thursday, and balloting will take place all day Thursday, with a run-off Friday if necessary. All candidates are to abide completely by the spring election ethics and procedure.

Council voted to change its meeting time from 8:30 to 8:15 on account of the pressure of business.

TODAY'S THE DAY

October 22—a beautiful autumn day. Football weather right in time for our first game. The student body will be out there with banners waving to cheer them on. Good luck, team.

THE STUDENT BODY

Along with football at this season we have the "wool skirt and sweater brigade." We hear no complaints except from the moths.

THE GIRL SCOUTS

Rush weeks have finally ended. Now for some industrious study (?). The Bainonians had a novel idea of secret Gypsy sisters who did a thoughtful thing each day. It was fine until the freshmen got wind of it and started leaving clean sheets to be put on the bed, shoes and shoe polish out, and sprinkled clothes to be ironed. That's OK kids. Wait till initiation!

CINEMANTICS

At the Capitol Monday and Tuesday will be "Sugarfoot," a thrilling wild-western about the early and lawless days of Arizona, complete with technicolor and a gun-throwing hero. Randolph Scott appears in the title role, with Adele Jergens, Raymond Massey, and S. Z. Sakall.

Across the street at the Park, "Gypsy Fury" will be showing Monday. Your guess as to what it will be about is as good as ours, unless it has something to do with the recent Rush Week festivities.

On Tuesday at the Park Town-Nighters can see "I Was a Communist for the FBI," which holds over until Wednesday. It is semi-documentary in style, based in part on a true story, and it contains some actual newsreel scenes.

Frank Lovejoy plays the hero who endures the contempt of his anti-Communist family in order to catch the villians. This picture is over-simplified in its explanation of Communism and is rather weak both as melodrama and as propaganda.

"September Affair" is the Capitol's Thursday-Friday offering, with Joseph Cotton and Joan Fontaine as the not-so-young pair who meet and fall in love in Italy. Duty and family ties win out in the end. He returns to his wife and she to the concert stage. This is a thoughtful, mature film, but you'll remember "September Song," the theme for the romantic middle-aged couple.

On Saturday movie-goers will in all probability be treated with the usual double-feature horse operas at both theatres.

BOOKWORM BROWSING

The first volume to strike the eye on the new book table this week is "The Meaning of Shakespeare" by Harold Goddard. A book that could make Shakespeare completely clear would be a heaven-sent gift to many harassed students of English literature, and the author actually does attain his goal in large measure.

He considers the different plays and discusses their meaning and the conclusions that can be drawn from them. The book is especially appealing because it is printed in clear type and the author uses many anecdotes to illustrate his points. On the other hand it is not so simplified that it is meaningless.

If you have dreamed of the South Seas, "Return to Paradise" by James Michener is just the thing for you. In this sequel to the famous "Tales of the South Pacific" he combines factual accounts with short stories about the Pacific islands.

Another book about a Pacific people, but treated from a different angle, is "The Kalingas" by R. F. Barton. This anthropologist first went to the Philippines as a school teacher and lived with the mountain tribe of the Kalingas, who were only a step removed from head-hunting. His interesting book desribes their unusual institutions and customs.

"Seven Decisions That Shaped History" by Sumner Wells tells about the major turning points of World War II. He discusses the United States' foreign relations in the past and their connection with a constructive policy for the future. This book should be a help to an understanding of the events of the past and of the complicated situation we find ourselves in today.

"Alcatraz" by Warden James Johnston is about the spectacular criminals, daring escapes, and pathetic stories with which he came in contact during his years as warden of that prison. This looks like a very entertaining story.

"The Great Critics" by James Smith and Edd Parks is an anthology of literary criticism, with selections ranging from Plato to T. S. Eliot. That way you get all your writers painlessly, without having to read all the thick books from which the pieces originally came.

PLAYS

Maryville College Playhouse got off to a good start this week with a meeting attended by over 90 interested people. The first play they will present is "Two Blind Mice," a modern political satire which was a recent Broadway hit. It is a comedy that everyone should enjoy. Next semester the Playhouse will give "Macbeth" as their big play. Try outs for "Two Blind Mice" and the first experimental plays will be held next week. They are all sure to be a success if they live up to the high quality of the plays produced last year.

Echo Forum–

To the football team—

Dear Fellows,

Saturday night is our first football game of the '51 season. We want you to know that we're right there behind you. You're up against great odds, but we're sure you can take it. If you want proof of our confidence, just take a look at that crowd marching through town this afternoon—listen to our cheers when you come out on the field!

We know that you will live up to our expectations; we hope we will live up to yours. Our cheering will be heard round the world—we'll shake down the thunder from the sky! If pep has anything to do with victory—men, the game is Yours! Come On, Maryville—Let's Go!

Your Gang,
(Names withheld by request)

To the Student Body—

Last Thursday morning a student body meeting was held to amend the student body constitution. At the meeting there was some misunderstanding concerning one of the amendments. As no questions were asked when the floor was open for questions and discussions, it was impossible for me to discover what portion of the amendments were misunderstood.

After the meeting, a few students questioned me about Article II, By-law 2 concerning the Homecoming Queen election. This one revision they claimed had met with some disapproval in the student body. Realizing that there are quite a few people who did not get the full gist of this one revision, I thought it best to have it explained more fully.

The old agreement for Homecoming Queen stated specifically that "the football team captain will crown the Homecoming ueen." The Alumni Association, who sponsor the Homecoming activities and supply the flowers and other expenses for the court, were never mentioned in the cremonies.

In fact, it came to a point where the alumni felt that if they had no part in the program, they then should feel no responsibility for footing the expenses. Your Student Council, considering the position of the Alumni Association and taking into account their valuable support of the activities, felt there should be provision made for alumni participating in the program and ceremonies of Homecoming.

The revised by-law then reads that "The Alumni Association president or a duly appointed representative will crown the queen." Provision is also made whereby the alumni may help plan the details of the ceremony. Thus, not only is the Association footing, the expenses but also they are taking an active part in the affair.

By no means was it the idea of the Council to take the honor of the crowning out of the hands f the fotball team captain. I'm sure the committee planning the Homecoming activity will want the team captain to serve in some capacity in the ceremony.

We your council are acting to serve you in the best and most intelligent means we see possible. In no way do we want to try and railroad legislation that is most favorable to the student body as a whole. When there are questions to be asked at a meeting, don't be afraid to speak up and have the details cleared.

May I also extend an invitation to every student to visit the council at any one of the Wednesday evening meetings at the Student Center. If you have any questions, suggestions, or if you just want to stop in to see how business is carried on, you are always welcome. This is your student government, so why not participate in it to the fullest extent possible.

Sincerely,
Bob Cuthill
Student Body President.

"Rouse, Rouse, Ye Kilted Warriors!"
Rouse, rouse, ye Scottie gridsters,
Rouse, ye heroes of the school!
Rouse, charge your opponents' guards!
'Tis your Coach who calls you forth!
Shall we basely crouch to the Tigers,
Shall we lose to them this day,
Shall a Scottie vict'ry be banished,
While Hiwassee rules the day!
Wha wouldna fecht for Lombe,
Wha wouldna make that score,
Wha wouldna up and rally
To make Scottie hearts really soar!

—The Barber of Sevierville with Thanx to R. Burns, a loyal Scot supporter of yesteryear.

●D DAY PLUS 680. . . That's what it will be in minutes from the time you get this paper till the 1951 version of Maryville's Scotties take to the field in an attempt to really have a bang-up season. As it is, tonight can either make or break the Scotties for 1951. . . There's a big losing streak behind them that had better be broken and a chance for a good year ahead if they win tonight and kill that Tiger dead. Maryville first entertained Hiwassee back in 1932 and on that day lost a 7-12 contest. We won ten in a row then up until last year's fiasco when the Scots were outplayed and lost and so we think that tonight we should start another ten year cycle of wins over Hiwassee and the other schools on the schedule as was done back in 1946 with a bunch of so-called rum-dums who weren't supposed to win half their games. What happened back there—The Scots marched through a tough nine game schedule and came through unbeaten. True it was that there were boys like Hersh Merriman, Ollie Spears, Marvin Mitchell, Cotton Easter, and Pie Garner, etc. in the lineup—though we might say, men, too, since they were really a big bunch of boys. But nevertheless they weren't figured to win 'em all. Another quirk which we hope also casts its influence on the case is that one Scot Honaker was here that year working on his M.A. over at UT and helping out his Pop on th eside. Perhaps, the good luck charm will follow him again this year, we hope so.

●SONG TITLES. . . One of the enjoyable things about a job like this is that a person can play around with poems and song titles and put across a good, short, snappy, and peppy meaning in a minimum of space which would otherwise consume as much as these above meaningless words have.

Though we have never heard Coach Honaker singing down Bartlett way, we'll bet that if he could his "Lockerroom Quartet" of he, Coach Davis, Coach S. Honaker, and Major would be singing "I've Got Plenty of Nothing" or "I Want a Team Just Like The Team," as their theme song for the year. . . but with a few breaks perhaps after tonight, they'll be humming hoarse-fully "The Bells Are Ringing For Me and My Team."

As for the significance of this, ask any old student!

●WHAT CAN YOU SAY?. . . We remember about this time last year as the Hiwassee game was rolling up and prospects weren't too hot—in fact they were pretty bad with 20 lettermen gone. Hiwassee wasn't expected to top the Scots though they had a whole raft of men over there versed in the intricacies of the T of Karl Reedy and a few wags warned that the contest was going to be no pushover and MC hadn't had a chance to put its new-fangled weapon, the Split-T, into action. Anyhow, the consequences are too brutal to remember save that the game and two others, E&H and Austin Peay, really took the starch out of MC fan's dobbers for a couple of days.

Members of the Maryville Beards' Till We Win Club kept saving on razor blades till they were being given away by salesmen who disliked the falling off in trade as much as those who wanted the Scots to win. Second Vice Presiednt Ken Upham hasn't spoken of plans for this year but we may have a lead later on. Anyhow, also, the Split-T didn't T at all and MC was split until the old but useful single wing was returned from its grave for use.

Tonight's contest will see how the backfield is lining up for in the boys who carry the ball will depend the lot of MC's team this year. It was up to the line last year and though not saying that they failed they did the best they could. The best talent is in this yar's backfield and if they can punch across a score now and then, the defense may be able to do the rest of the job as was th case in baseball this past spring with MC winning all the close ones on many a double play and squeeze play.

The all-star timber is in the backfield with Charlie Allen, Harold Glad, Ken Yunkers, and Grant Sharp as possible recipients. The unsung hero of the whole bunch isn't mentioned but will be Jerry King on whose shoulders and brainwork the Scots will have to ride. He's the guy who is going to need our best wishes while for the others, a hole or two provided by the line will really Charlie Allen being able to scoot some. Big anchors for the line will be Callaway on defense, Bender, Morton, and Garren. Guards Morton, Moore, and Madry have the toughest job because they are the fellas who will stop Hiwasse's T if it is stopped.

One thing that the Scots will have a superlativeness in is in the spirit and attitude departments. According to Coach Honaker, it's one of the best ones in years and improving. It will have to be good too for with the lack of weight and experience, Maryville College has almost "one of the sorriest teams in the country." These words of confidence which were utered by MC's coach for the last thirty years are not wholly true, we think, but when the front lines can be manned by only some 25 boys at the most, the situation isn't too highly favorable. As for the Jacksonville State game, "We can't hope to do much. . .we're just outclassed." These words were in almost the same vein as those utterd last yar about this sam time. However, we seem to remember that the Scots threw a brick wall at the over-confident and over-tanked Gamecocks and left the game at half time unscored upon, though not scoring themself and lost mainly a big group of freshmen also to pick from and the resultant combination will be a wide-open attack with plenty of passing and plays-which-will-be strictly for-hope.

Football . . .

Sound The Trumpets

For Maryville, it will be Charlie Allen, captaining from the tailback spot and a senior. Charlie went great guns against Hiwassee last year with 43 yards gained on eight attempts. This year's play may see a recurrance of the Georgetown game of the past annum when Charlie in one situation carried the pigskin or handled it 14 times in a row. With the way he has been looking in practice, if the diminutive speedster gets any blocking, he is sure to cut loose for some long gains. Allen will also handle the passing and punting chores.

Let's Rope Harold's Glad!

Going at fullback will be Harold Glad who has yet to face the Tigers on offense. Glad didn't really show his onions till later on in the season when the Scots were playing Jacksonville State and Centre who ran off the Notre Dame Box. As it was, Glad and Ken Yunkers, on the third string, mowed through the varsity and henceforth were promoted and did much better on the single-wing formation. Glad a 195-pounder from Pennsylvania will also be linebacking much of the time and when relieved it will be by Grant Sharp, MC's jack-of-all trades, it seems. Sharp will be the probable wingback starter because of lack of depth there but since he played full last year also, will alternate to give "Happy" a chance to rest.

Calling signals is Jerry King at 170 pounds who added on some poundage to his already rough-tough attitude and desire to win—the combinations of which should be an asset to MC's blocking back. Also on tap for much duty will be Ken Younkers at the tailback spot and a late-season discovery also like Glad. He will do a litle work on the arways, also. Relieving at the Wingback spot and some at tailback is Jimmy Campbell, elusive little 155 pounder who has been snagging many-a pass thrown his way.

As for other backfield reserves, there are Jimmy Squires at full, Wes Kinser at tailback and blocking back, Don Alford blocking back, and Steve Bell, tailback.

A Line For The Line

On the thinly-manned line which will have to give some protection to the backs, it is the same story some experience but after the first two men, not too much. Fortunately, Coach Davis has some ends this year who can catch passes though they haven't the beef to toss at opposing lineman and move them around at will like the ends and tackles of Austin Peay or Emory-Henry. At one end it will be Jimmy Callaway, assistant captain, who makes up in know-how and grit what he lacks in size while at the other it may be Dick Gardner, a fair pass catcher who has improved a lot over the last year or Paul Merwin, a halfback last year but whose size was a factor in shifting him from one place where they could afford a bit to cut off to another where they had nothing to cut off. Backing them up are Burt McMahon, senior and 160, and Bob Davis transfer from Vandy whose size also will denote him to be in there some time on either offense or defense.

A Job To Tackle

Especially looking good at the tackle post has been Joe Bender on the left side of the line and Ralph Greaser, a transplanted end at the right tackle spot. Both are big boys and keys to the defensive play of the Scots. Their reserve aid will come from frosh Jimmy McBrayer and Bobby Berrong, two big boys who will have more than enough chance to improve over the year and Harry Newberry a vet from last year who should see plenty of action.

The guard situaiton which was ample last year is shy this one and will depend on John Morton, who anchored the Hiwassee line last year and Bob Madry, the other thanked-for transfer from Vandy, probably on the offense with Malcolm Moore, 230 pound sophomore playing a lot of defensive ball mainly because he is no jackrabbit afoot, and Gene Russell, junior, whose disadvantage is in the size department.

Moore will get the offensive nod probably, too, as Madry has been laid up most of the week with a bad knee.

Anchoring the line in the middle will be either Dick Patton, erstwhile end or Homer Garren, who played a lot of defensive linebacker last year and who may get the starting nod if Patton's knee, which was injured this week, isn't fit as a fiddle.

What We Got. . .

MC's offense will be built around plenty of end runs and plunges with passing, buck laterals, reverses, and maybe a spread or two to mix up the situation so the opposition cannot get set. Students may even see a fake kick or quick kick being booted if MC has something to gain with it which will probably be the situation all night long.

MC Hits Road Next

Next week's game is one on the road with Jacksonville State in Jacksonville, Alabama. Last year, the Gamecocks won in the second half over a determined Scot team 21-7. Back again to form the brace of Don Salls' teams are a pair of his big ends, Ben Pilitary and John Meadows, Whit Wyat and Dan Baldwin, a couple of blimps at tackle, Jodie Connel, a one-armed utility man and Jim Collins at the guards, and Bobby Harris at center. In the backfield the Red and White will probably have John Krochina, Mickey Washburn, and Charles Stough, who led the Gamecock's attack to victory after a stirring first-half defense by the Scots.

Woe, Oh, Woe

In commenting on the possible chances for the Scots, tonight, Coach Honaker's predictions were not overboard ones of victory for MC has the lightest team he ever coached and though it might be able to take Hiwassee with what weight it has, it will probably not be enough for the game with Jacksonville. As for the type of ball to be played by the Scots, besides the usual orthodox stuff mentioned elsewhere, "hope" plays will figure prominently

Intramurals....

The 1951 Intramural Football season finally got under way Wednesday afternoon as the talent ridden YMCA managed to eke out a 6-0 win over the hard-fighting Shudas, with Thad Godwin skirting left end with less than three minutes to go to score the game's only TD.

JUST TOO MUCH

"They just wore us out," was the story as Y's juggernaut roll with sixteen experineced "aces". The two teams fought it out at midfield through the first half as Godwin and Holsinger's aerial atack failed to move. It wasn't all their fault, though, as Holman and Gress set up a strong defense, with Holmon particularly coming through sveral deflections. Towards the end of the half the, game opened up with Snead and Short tossing long passes that would have been touchdowns had they clicked. The second half was a different story, though, as the Y used such men as "Twinkletoes" Springfield, "Rulebook" Rose, and Sam Shovel as substitutes. In the third quarter Y finally moved as Ray Rose "raced" around left end deep into Shuda territory, and Holsinger hit center for a second straight first down. Shudas fought back on Buser's first down dash but were called back. Holsinger tried left end again, but this time it was worse than a stone wall as Chuck lost five. Then Dean "Muscles" Allison broke through as Hoisinger faded to pass, and the Y kicked.

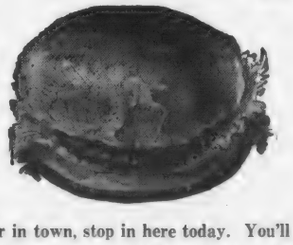
Time Trials Set For Mon.

After two weeks of getting into good shape, Maryville College's 1951 cross country team will find out just how much they lack when the season's first time trials are held Monday over the 3.2 mile course. Coach Ken Johnson who has been alternating his men with power work on the golf course hill and sprint work on the track besides the usual fartlek running of the course will get his first ideas then to the squad's capabilities.

Enjoying Themselves



With Tom Kelly, Dick Kerr, Dave Helwig, Rod McMillan and Ric Rogers getting into a fine fettle, there was no little gladness over the fact that sophomore Jack Maxwell, a sprint man in track, was finding the change over to the longer distances not to much of a handicap at all. Johnson's other "character builders" Al McCulloch, Neale Pearson, Bob Toney, Morris Taylor, Dave Ramsey, and Wayne Brooks were also looking better.

UT Tough

First meet for the "bunion-burners" is on October 3 with UT's SEC champions who have six of their seven starters back from last year's 5-minute-mile squad. In previous relations with the Orange and White, MC has fared pretty well. In the first known instance of a meet back in 1935, MC won 16-20 and has followed it up with six wins and five losses in the 11 meets since

Robinette Named Business Manager

At the all-campus elections hled Thursday, September 20, Tasker Robinette was elected Business Manager of the 1952 Chilhowean staff.

Robinette, a pre-med from Cleveland, Ohio, is a member of the track team, and participated in tramurals. A member of Alpha Sigma, he was Rush Week chairman for the society this year.

Grierson Releases Staff

Ruth Grierson, head of Lamar Memorial Library, has announced the names of students who work there under the Student Self-Help Plan.

These are Clifford Church, Virginia Cooper, Claude Cowan, Marilyn Edge, Joan Frei, Joy Hickman, Gloria Hickman, Peggy Kettles, Pat Lewis, Mary McConnell, Mary McMillan, Jack Mowatt, Mary Sue Munson, Talmer Peacock, Clarence Reaser, Sue Summers, Carolyn Symmes, Wilma Trumbull, Betty Jo Woody, and Gerald Wheat. Janitors are Kent Buser and William Green.

They take over a great deal of the responsibility of running the library by marking books, preparing orders, keeping account books, stamping new books, typing catalog cards, and mending books. Each student works half his time at the circulation desk.

Writers Elect Board

Writer's Workshop met Wednesday, September 19 at 4:30 in Anderson Hall to elect new members of the Governing Board. They are: Karole Kapp, Joan Titley, Edward Scott, and Dr. E. R. Hunter, Dean of Curriculum.

With the resignation of old members, a Membership Committee of Van Holland, Carolyn Symmes, Carolyn Blair, and Elizabeth Jackson, was established to acquire new members for the club.

Workshop meetings are held each Wednesday afternoon to read and criticize original literary works of members.

Germans Plan Meeting

German Club will hold its first meeting September 24 at 6:30 p.m. in Thaw 206. A short program of songs and refreshments is planned.

Mrs. Holsinger Improving

Mrs. Charles Holsinger, better known on campus as Nancy Rose, is reported by her husband to be progressing satisfactorily after her serious fall two weeks ago.

Her operation was successful, but she is still unconscious.

●A SHORT WORD OF PRAISE is being extended to the "joy boys" of Maryville College known otherwise as the gentlemen who participate in the sport of locopedical motion—cross coutnry to the uninitiated—for the sport and enjoyment of it. Because there will be no paper coming out next week—said matter also giving seniors on the staff some time to work on the Special Studies matters for which some faculty members are breathing hard and heavily on the necks of said staff members. We haven't much more space and so we just say, tack up the schedule which was in the paper last week and come out on October 3 to see Wobblin' Sam and Company in their first meet of the season. Feature attraction for the day it is reported, will be an exhibition by Alf Holmberg of the Orange and White on how to run—all are invited to watch with the only persons not present probably being the members of MC's hill-and-dale aggregation which will be out in the woods no doubt sampling rocks, leaves, and twigs, etc.

Treasurers

All treasurers of student organizations are reminded to pick up treasurer's books in Dr. L. L. Williams' classroom, Fayerweather Hall.

Books are checked by the faculty committee over vacation and returned to the student organizations each fall.

French Meet Thursday

The next meeting of French Club is scheduled for 6:40 p.m. Thursday, September 27, in Room 204, Anderson Hall .

An important business meeting will be held by President Mary Kelton for consideration of prospective members; also plans will be made for a picnic to be held at the following meeting.

A brief program will be presented by program chairmen Louise Packard and Claire Hoffman.

YW Consecrates Sunday

YWCA will hold its annual consecration service tomorrow at 1:30 in the amphitheatre in the wods. Its purpose is to consecrate those who signed up to work on the several committees.

All new and old YW members are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Barbour Preaches On 'Protestant Hour'

Dr. Clifford E. Barbour, an MC director, is to be the preacher tomorrow on "The Protestant Hour," which may be heard locally over WNOX, Knoxville, from 8:30 till 9:00 a.m.

A number of prominent Presbyterian USA clergy are taking part in the current series of the religious broadcasts. Dr. Barbour will speak on "Living an Intentional Christian Life."

He is the former pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, and was called last summer to the presidency of Western Theological Seminary, Pittsburgh.

Livingstone At Vols

The life of David Livingstone will be presented at Student Vols this Sunday night after Vespers. Speakers wil lbe Charles Reid and Janice Eakin.

Doris Somerville will apply the life of Livingstone to the theme of Vols for this year, the words of Christ, "So send I you."

Speakers will be Charles Reid and be presented at the meeting in Bartlett Hall.

Play House Plans 'Mice'

All students interested are encouraged to try out for the College Play House production in November of "Two Blind Mice" by Samuel Spewak. The dates for the try-outs will be announced soon.

Miss Kathleen Craven, instructor in drama and speech, directs the two plays produced annually by Play House.

Business Club To Meet

Newell Witherspoon, president of Business Club has announced that the club will hold its first meeting at 6:45 p.m. on Thursday, September 27.

Further announcements will be made at the morning Chapel service.

FTA Meets Thursday

FTA will hold a business meeting September 27 at 6:30 p.m. in Mrs. Thelma Kramer's classroom. A program for the coming semester will be discussed.

Dr. Lincoln Barker, associate professor of psychology, was chosen faculty adviser for this year.

Pre-Mins Consecrate

A consecration service will be held September 27, at 6:45 p.m. in the Y-Rooms for all pre-ministerial students, according to Ken Rutherford, vice-president of the Pre-Ministerial Association.

YM Hears Chamberlain

Charles Chamberlain, prominent Maryville layman, will speak on "After College, What Next?" Sunday at 1:30 p.m. in Bartlett Hall.

Chamberlain has spoken to many youth groups before. All new and old Y members are invited.

Disc Club Meets

Disc Club will meet Thursday evening, October 4, at their regular time to hear comments on a sonata by music major Larry Wallace.

At the Disc Club election Thursday, Herbert Hoover was elected Chairman for this year.

FAC Celebrates With 'Grasshopper'

The Fine Arts Center celebrated its first birthday Tuesday at a performance of "The Grasshopper," by Randolph and Clokey. The modern comic opera was presented by Cornelia Otis Craven, narrator; Franz Eaddy, accompanist; and Enrico Harter, Blanche Blair, Minnie Pearl Crews, and Figaro Robinson, quartet.

Following the recital a copper tea was held in the lounge, where refreshments were served by Dorothy Horne, Charlotte Johnson, and Kathleen Craven. The guests, art, music, and drama students, brought pennies to be used for equipping the FAC kitchen.

Square Dancing

According to a release from the Social Board, square dancing will replace round dancing every Monday evening from 6:30 to 7:15 in Intramural Gym.

J. Kleinsasser of Maryville will call.

Sigs Meet Tonight

Alpha Sigma will meet tonight at 6:15 in the Y rooms. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the joint Moonlite Hike with Theta scheduled for October 2.

Entertainment will be by Bob Lynn at the piano playing his "Medley of Mountain Melodies."

INTRAMURAL . . . .

air force finally gave up, and Bob Kees raced for a first down. Holsinger carried a reverse to the Shuda five, and tried the right side to the two as Howard Gress made a brilliant save. Sonny Short tried the middle, but the Shuda forward wall rose up to stop him. Then came Godwin's sprint around left end, and that was the game.

The South Wins!

It was the passing of "Pitching" Jim Wiley and the running of "Crazy-legs" Smith that set up Deep South to a 13-0 win over the Alpha Sigma Scotties on Thursday afternoon. A scoreless first half had developed, but midway in the third quarter "Crazylegs" ran for a first down, and then Wiley took over, pitching to Anderson and then to Hale in the flats for touchdown.

Alpha Sig soon struck back as Erickson intercepted a Wiley pass deep in heart of Dixie (the Deep Southland), that is. A few plays later Horace Beckwith, on a beautiful broken field jaunt, scored, only to have it called back for an offsides penalty. The Deep South scored again in the dying moments when Don Benton fell on a fumbled wild pass from center in the end zone, and Wiley pitched another one in the flat for the extra point. Not to be forgotten for the Sigs though were the line busting tactics of Ken "Tiny" Hammond.

SCOTS MEET HIWASSEE . . .

though the real terminology of such plays is different in skull session. All in all, it will be a fighting team.

Students are also advised to get their Student Activity cards from the Treasurer's office so that they may get in the game. Gates will probably open around 7:30.

Probable line-ups for tonight's game are:

MC	Pos.	Hiwassee
Callaway	LE	Shelton
Bender	LT	Black
Morton	LG	Irwin
Garren	C
Moore	G
McBrayer	RT
Merwin	RE	Dye

Nelson And Neal Begin Artist Series

By Joan Frei

Artist Series will begin its 1951-52 season by presenting the well-known duo-piano team of Nelson and Neal on Friday, October 12, at 8 o'clock in the Alumni Gym. Tickets will be on sale next week at 30 cents each.

Nelson and Neal, or Allison Nelson Neal and Harry Lee Neal, have just returned from a series of concerts in Australia and are now touring the United States. Their program is designed to appeal to the musically inexperienced as well as to the experts in the field of music. It includes the following numbers:

Fugue in G Minor by Bach; Andante and Variations by Schumann; Sonata by Poulenc; Three Etudes by Babin; Five Hungarian Dances by Brahms; Saturday Waltz and Hoe Down by Copland; and Variations on Yankee Doodle in the manner of Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Debussy, and Grshwin by Braggiotti. Bach's Fugue in G Minor and the works of Copland are the only transcriptions. All the rest were written originally for four hands as Nlson and Neal play them.

Mrs. Neal is originally from Australia, where she was considered the leading child prodigy. In 1944 she became the youngest person ever to tour the ABC Celebrity Concert Circuit, when she played in every major city and with every major orchestra in Australia. On this tour she played with Eugene Ormandy and the Sydney Orchestra. Ormandy was so impressed with her that he arranged a scholarship to the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia.

While studying with Rudolf Serkin at Custis Institute she made numerous tours in the South and East, and also met Harry Neal, a fellow student of music.

Neal has distinguished himself in many fields, as a pianist, writer, and radio announcer. He, too, won a scholarship to Curtis Institute, where he studied with Mme. Isabile Vengerova. In addition to his musical work he has directed television shows, announced, and been responsible for stage production.

For a year and a half Nelson and Neal gave a series of television programs in Philadelphia from the CBS station. This has been the only television program ever devoted exclusively to classical music. In Australia they did over a hundred broadcasts for the Australian Broadcasting Commission in one year. This included a weekly coast-to-coast program surveying two piano literature from Scarlatti and Bach to the present day. "The Progressive Times" in Australia commented on them:

"There can be no doubt that Nlelson and Neal possess an. . . almost unbelievabl combination of rare musical genius, youth and charm."

Following the program Friday night there will be a reception for those who wish to meet the young piano artists. At the same time the Nineteenth Century French prints on loan from the National Gallery of Art will be exhibited in the Fine Arts Center.

Camera Club Meets

Camera Club will meet this Monday evening at 6:45 in the Chemistry Lecture room on second floor of Fayerweather Hall. Basic dark room technique will be explained by Ken Bowers.

New students are invited to come and to bring cameras, if possible.

Heating Plant Changes Progress

Additions to the heating plant, begun in the early summer, have progressed to the extent that the new system should be in use by the middle of November.

A new chimney, 150 feet tall and six and a half feet in diameter at the top; a 483 h.p. boiler larger than the two old ones combined; an enlargement of the building 25 feet toward the tracks; modern controls; and a new coal yard 50 feet square will more than double the capacity of the heating plant. The old equipment will be used only in emergencies.

These improvements were needed for the present buildings and the anticipated new chapel.

Debate Club Date To Be Announced

Tryout dates for Debate Club will be announced soon; those interested should contact Fred E. Short, instructor in drama and speech, or Archibald F. Pieper, associate professor of political science, since there are several openings on the varsity as well as freshman team.

Because debate and public speaking have been transferred this year to the drama and speech division from the social science division, Short will be in charge of the two debate squads, and Pieper, sponsor of the debate club year, will assist him.

The national debate proposition of debate this year is: "Resolved that the U.S. establish a permanent system of wages in price control."

The freshman team has its own tournaments and instruction in debate and public speaking. The varsity has several tournaments scheduled for this year. Last year they took trips, attended tournaments, including the Pi Kappa Delta National Committee held at Oklahoma A.&M.

The varsity and freshman teams have each had one organization meeting. The upper classmen meet again at 7:15, October 16.

Bainonian Society Holds Annual Chapter Election

Bainonian Society held its Chapter Elections Saturday, September 22. Those elected were as follows.

Beta: Sue White, chairman, Emily Smith, treasurer; Delta: Barbara Miller, chairman, Vivian McDonald, treasurer; Gamma: Ethel Shockley, chairman, Annie Lauri Cureton, treasurer; Iota: Joan Duergiz, chairman, Barbara Buttrell, treasurer; Kappa: Ruthie Keefer, chairman, Evelyn Kilgo, treasurer;

Masters, White Awarded Leads In 'Blind Mice'

Lou Masters, senior English major from Roseville, Mich., and Sue White, sophomore sociology major from Middletown, Ohio, have been awarded the title leads in the College Playhouse first production, "Two Blind Mice," according to Kathleen Craven, instructor in drama and speech.

The three act Broadway play by Samuel Spewack which will be presented November 16 and 17 in the Alumni Gym has Austin Van Pelt, senior sociology major from Denver, Col. and Joanne Edwards, sophomore dietetics major of Hawthorne, N. J., playing opposite each other as the romantic leads.

Other members of the recently announced cast are Jerry Williams, Rod McMillan, Jerry Knecht, Ken Tuck, Wesley Miles, David Gates, Walter Elwood, George Caldwell, Robert Read, Archie Massalone, Jack Barber, Clifford Church, Evelyn Fields, Dorothy Crawford, and Dorothy Greenhagen.

Following a recent meeting of the College Playhouse the various committee chairmen were announced. They are stage manager, Louise Packard; properties, Cliff Church; costumes, Dottie Crawford; electrician, Dave Reed; makeup, Alan Caldwell; tickets, Mary Ann Hicks;

Publicity, Dottie Greenhagen; scenery, Art Van Alstyne, workshop assistant; sound effects, Grace Meyers; call boys, Cliff Church and Jack Barber; prompter, Katherine Blackburn; checker, Dotie Crawford; house manager, Joe Stater.

Massey Announces Self-Help Figures

E. F. Massey, Dean of Women, has announced that more than one-third of the student body of Maryville College is employed under the student-help program. One hundred are doing janitorial work .75 are working in the dining hall, 20 in the library, 14 in the College Maid Shop, 10 on the campus crew, and nine in the bookstore.

The remainder of the student workers are assistants to teachers, clerks in the Y Store, office typists, models in the Art Department, and drivers of the parish station wagon.

A wage of $.35 per hour is the average for beginning workers, who, after, a year's experience, are eligible to positions with more responsibility and more money. In the course of one year enough money can be earned to defray one-fifth of college costs, or in cash terms, $100 to $125.

1830 marks the beginning of the long and successful history of the program. At that time the board charge was 10 dollars per person. In order to lower this expense, it was decided that by working one day a week on the college farm, the bill could be reduced to $7.50. Thus began the student-help program, which has advanced since then.

Holland, Titlev Read At Workshop Monday

Writer's Workshop will meet Monday, October 8, in Dr. Edwin R. Hunter's classroom in Anderson Hall. Van Holland and Joan Titley will read, and Carolyn Symmes and Dick Newman will criticize.

At the last meeting, Clare Hoffman read and was criticized by Ed Scott.

No Echo Next Week

The Highland Echo will not be published next week. As has been explained before, a number of issues must be dropped this year because of financial difficulties which have resulted from the rise of printing costs and the lower college enrollment.

It has been attempted to arrange a schedule which would make for the publication of papers on the most suitable dates. In accordance with this policy, the next Echo will be out October 20.

Dean Announces Fulbright Awards For Study Abroad

Dr. Frank D. McClelland has announced that students interested in obtaining federal grants for graduate study abroad under the Fulbright Act must complete applications by October 15. These applications may be made in the Personnel Office.

Eligibility requirements are U. S. citizenship, a college degree or its equivalent at the time award is to be made, knowledge of the language of the country sufficient to carry on proposed study, and good health.

This is a national competition with thousands of applicants. Selection is made on the basis of the applicant's personal suitability for study abroad, academic record, value of the proposed study or research, and placeability in an institution of higher learning abroad. No written examination is held, but an interview will be required by all grantees.

Multiple applications cannot be made and there is no provision for study of a shorter duration than nine months.

Fields of study are not limited and placement in an institution is arranged by the U. S. Educational Foundations abroad. Since foreign universities do not give degrees to candidates enrolled for only one year, it is impossible to obtain a graduate degree under this program.

Awards are made entirely in the currencies of the participating countries abroad. They cover transportation, expenses of a language refresher and orientation course, tuition, books, and maintenance for one acadmic year.

Applicants will be notified of the results six months after the close of the competition.

Faculty Club Hears K.P. Johnson

Faculty Club will hold its first meeting on Monday, October 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the Home Economics Room of Fayerweather Science Hall.

Kenneth P. Johnson, assistant professor of physical education, will read a paper on "The Nature of Inramural Sports", considering the relationship of intramurals to physical education, and to general education. Also, movies on recreation and sports will be shown.

A standing committee, appointed by President Ralph Waldo Lloyd supervises the activities of the Faculty Club. Members of the committee are chairman, Dr. Horac E. Orr, professor of religion and philosophy; secretary, James H. Schwam, assistant professor of Spanish; treasurer, Dr. L. L. Williams, professor of biology; G. E. Meiselwitz, professor of home economics; and A. S. Walker, assistant professor of economics.

The purposes of the Faculty Club are to promote closer relations and more fellowship among the members of the faculty.

Y's Hear 'Music Speaks'

"Music Speaks" is the theme of the combined YW and YMCA program to be held in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall at 1:30 p.m., October 7. All students and faculty are invited.

Experimental Theatre Plans Two Productions

Experimental theatre will present two plays to be done in the round in Bartlett Gym on November 2. After a large turnout at the try-outs last week, these casts have been announced. In "The Marriage Proposal" by Anton Chekhov are Bruce Heuser, a freshman drama major from St. Louis, Mo., Kent Buser, sophomore English major from Connersville, Ind., and Mary Sue Munson, junior English major from Falls Church, Va.

The second play is "Enter the Hero" by Thelma Hillman. The cast includes Darothy Greenhagen, sophomore English major from Rock Tavern, N. Y., George Caldwell, sophomore drama major from Cincinnati, Ohio, Elaine Barker, freshman home ec. major from Bonnie Blue, Va., and Anne Buckley, freshman.

Jerry Wheat, senior sociology major from Hamden, N. Y., is directing "The Marriage Proposal." The director of "Enter The Hero" is Louise Masters, senior English major from Roseville, Mich. Kathleen Craven, instructor of drama and speech, is technical advisor for both plays.

Crews for the productions have been announced. House manager is George Caldwell. On the ticket committee are Katherine Blackburn, Mary Sue Munson, Walt Heller, and Ken Upham. The lighting committee consists of Dave Ramesey, Austin Van Pelt, Walt Hiller, and Dean Allison.

Working on costumes are Anne Buckley, Gaylia Parrish, Barbara Chubb, Nancy Florence, and Sarah Pledger. The property committee includes Grace Osborn, Vivian McDonald, Mary Sue Munson, and Ann Kirkpatrick.

The plot of "The Marriage Proposal" is a light handling of a vital subject, a proposal of marriage. Lomov, played by Buser, visits Tsghuukov, Heuser, to ask for his daughters hand in marriage. Without realizing Lomovs purpose, Tschuukov's daughter, Natalie, played by Miss Munson, starts an argument over the ownership of the meadow lands.

Lomov leaves in a rage and when Natalie learns of his intention, screams for him to return. When he does, another argument starts over their dogs. The unique Russian ending will no doubt be a surprise to everyone.

A contrast to the light comedy, "Enter the Hero" is a tender drama of an unloved girl. Ann, played by Miss Greenhagen, who never had been wanted or loved, casually met Harold, Caldwell, but after his leaving, she imagined herself in love with him.

In desperation she wrote him imaginary letters and wrote herself answers. The situation finally got out of hand after she announced their engagement. He visits her and she pleads for his help. He rejects her and she again slips back into the world of imaginary dreams.

The style in which they will be presented may be new to some students, but those who saw the two experimental plays that were put on in the round last semester will no doubt agree that the style will go over very well.

Theatre-in-the-round is a relatively new type of staging that is fast becoming popular all over the United States. Some describe it as an arena type stage where the audience sits on all four sides of a central stage. Scenery, of course, is at a minimum and stage action is at a maximum.

There is no admission charge for Experimental Theatre plays, but tickets for reserved seats will be available during the week before the play. There will be two performances of each play, one starting at 7:30 and the second starting at 9:00.

Rehearsals For 'Messiah' Begin Sunday—Harter

Harry H. Harter, assistant professor of music, has announced that rehearsals for "The Messiah" will begin Sunday, October 14, at 2:30 in the Alumni gymnasium.

Harter stated that all members of the various choral groups on campus, and any of the student body and faculty members who enjoy singing, are urged to support this program in order to make it a success. It is an important part of the Maryville program and needs the cooperation and support of all, he pointed out.

Subsequent rehearsals will be held each Sunday afternoon in preparation for the presentation on December 9, 1951. Orchestra rehearsals will begin November 4. Tryouts for solo parts in "The Messiah" will be announced later.

Students Present Initial Recitals

The initial student recital, held in the Fine Arts Center Music Hall at 430, October 2, inlcuded on the program two pianists and three vocal students.

William Robinson, senior music major, accompanied by Joyce Linginfelter, sophomore piano major, opened the afternoon program with "Leave M (Semele)", by Handel. June Hood, senior piano major, followed with two selections, the "Toccata in E Minor", by Bach, and "Intermezzo Op. 118, No. 1," by Brahms.

Rosalie Munson, senior voice major, sang Haydn's soprano solo, "Del mio core (Orfeo)," Doris Holt, junior music major, accompanied her. Larry Wallace, junior music major, gave a piano rendition of "Prelude, Op. 28, No. 22," by Chopin.

Lesta Merrick, junior major in piano, accompanied Don Brakebill, a junior music major, as he sang Schumann's "Dichterliebe, Op. 48."

Women's M Club Hikes At Laurel

The women's M Club had their annual hiking trip Saturday and Sunday, September 29 and 30. The trip to Laurel Lake provided two days of hiking, swimming, and boating for the 21 members, and six faculty chaperones who participated.

Jean Davies presided at a short meeting which was held Saturday night to discuss plans for sponsoring with the men's M Club student dances following each home football game. It was stressed that the support of the student body was needed to get the proposed bill passed. The promotion of student cooperation was also discussed.

The next women's M Club meeting will be held Monday, October 21.

WSGA Women Nominate

Freshman Liz Murphy and Peggy Fisher and Juniors Doris Holt and Karole Kapp were nominated in an election Thursday, Sept. 27, by the residents of the Women's Dormitories as candidates for the co-ordinating committee of WSGA.

The run-off election to elect a representative from each of the two classes will be held during the latter part of next week.

Dr. Sam Franklin Speaks In Chapel

Students Aid In Appeal

The annual Fred Hope Fund Drive will be opened at Chapel Thursday morning, October 11. Principal speaker on that occasion will be Dr. Sam H. Franklin, of Japan, a graduate of Maryville College who is just now preparing to return to Japan. He has been for the past six months on a special assignment studying "Christianity and Communism."

The devotional service and the presentation of the Fund will be by the four student members of the Fred Hope Fund Board Bob Cuthill, President of the Student Council; Susie Martin, President of the YWCA; Jim Kren, President of the YMCA; and Doris Sommerville, President of the Student Volunteers.

A letter from Dr. E. E. Walline about Mary Edna Smith is published under Echo Forum in today's Echo, because Miss Smith has for the pats three years been supported in China and Hong Kong by the Fred Hope Fund. She graduated from Maryville in 1948 and was appointed to China for a term of three years. Dr. Walline's letter tells something of the experiences she has had in China.

In August Miss Smith completed her three years and is now returning to the United States. Her passage was somewhat delayed and at last word she had not yet arrived.

The Fund is named for Fred Hope, '06, who as a student initiated a missionary fund. He was then a missionary in Africa for 40 years and the fund was raised each year and sent for his use there. Since his death five years ago the fund has been used in China, for the past three years in Miss Smith's support.

The total amount paid in last year was $1,557.09.

President Lloyd Speaks At Vespers Tomorrow

Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, President of Maryville College, will speak at the Vesper service at 7:00 p.m. on Sunday, October 7, in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center. The theme of his sermon will be "A Church Pilgrimage to Europe—1951."

Faculty and student participation will be by those who visited Europe this past summer. Katherine C. Davies, chairman of the division of fine arts, Louise Lloyd, instructor of music, and Nanette Enloe, senior sociology major from Atlanta, Ga., are those participating.

Tom Jones Elected Student Body Veep

In the election held last week, Tom Jones, senior sociology major from St. Petersburg, Fla. was elected vice-president of the student body. Ralph Thiesse, president of the senior class, has served as vice-president pro tem.

Runner-up in the election was Bob Kees, political major from Pennsylvania.

Dr. Lloyd Preaches On 'The Protestant Hour'

President Ralph Waldo Lloyd will be the preacher from 8:30-9:00 tomorrow morning over station WNOX on "The Protestant Hour". His sermon is titled "What Christian Higher Education Aims To Do".

Tomorrow's service is the eighth and last in a series featuring Presbyterian USA clergymen who are sponsored by the Southern Radio Committee of the church and heard over 155 Southern stations.

All but one of the eight ministers in the current series are in some way related to Maryville College. A booklet containing all the sermons will be sent free after tomorrow from WNOX, Knoxville.

Student Council

September 26

Branin Boyd, chairman of the Pep Committee, explained to Council what use was to be made of the Scotch uniform bought last year by the student body for Miss Pep. That honorary title was a special one, he pointed out, and the uniform, of which the Pep Committee is in charge, is now to be worn by the Band Sponsor.

Vice President pro tem Ralph Thiesse explained procedures for vice presidential balloting Thursday. One Town Night penalty was reported, and, after discussion, the penalty applied.

Council made nominations for Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities. Twenty-four seniors were nominated, and after a discussion of their qualifications, each council member voted for ten by secret ballot. The list of those with the highest number of votes will be compared with a list drawn up by the Executive Committee of the faculty, and elections made on that basis.

Social Board Chairman Marie Richards introduced a plan submitted by the M Clubs to provide dances after the home football games. A motion to send the entire plan to Senate for discussion was passed.

October 3

A welcome was extended to newly-elected vice president Tom Jones and the visitors present. No Town Night violations were reported, and the president announced that Council was to keep any reported violations confidential.

A report was made of the Student-Faculty Senate meeting, at which Bob Cuthill was elected vice-president, and Sally Brown, secretary. Dr. Lloyd is president. Discussed at Senate was the revised MSO Constitution, and a committee was appointed to examine it and refer it to the Student Council and the Executive Committee of the Faculty. No action was taken by Senate on the proposal to have dancing after the home football games, and it was announced that a shelter, benches, and trash cans would be provided for the smoking platform by Carnegie Steps.

Council then voted to restrict smoking to the platform only. Council members will be responsible for the enforcement of this ruling, which is to go into effect when announced in chapel. It was also voted to post a Student Council docket on the Student Center bulletin board two days before each weekly meeting.

A student body meeting is to be held Wednesday, October 10, for the nomination of a Homecoming Queen. Elections are to be Thursday and Friday of that week. Bob Cuthill and Jim Kren were appointed to confer with the Alumni Association regarding some Homecoming procedures.

Jim Allison was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate the National Student Association and the possibility of Maryville College membership. Committee members are Nanette Enloe, Ruth Roach, and Newell Witherspoon. Betty Hammers began a report of recommendations by the Town Night Committee for Council's discussion. Because of the shortness of time, it was moved to continue discussion next week.

An Invitation

The President of the Student Council has on several occasions invited the student body to attend meetings of Council. At the last Wednesday evening session, a number of people took advantage of that invitation.

The Echo believes in every sense in student government for Maryville College. So long as Council remains the democratic representative and voice of the entire student body, it will have not only our support, but our hope for greater responsibility and authority. This type of government, considering Maryville's history, is, really, quite new. Although it does not outwardly seem that way, we are in the first few formative years of student government here.

In order that this progressive step may make for the classes and councils who are to come to have an even more democratic governmental arrangement, it is our especial responsibility to make success reality. That responsibility is twofold. Those who are members of Council, either through direct election or by virtue of another office, must realize always both that they are only representatives, and that power without responsibility can lead only to unfortunate results. The student body, similiarly, has the responsibility of showing interest and making its will known.

Real student government is everyone's job. The Echo can only revoice the President's invitation to everyone to attend Council meetings and to become as much a part as possible of our government.

NOT REALLY:

Quoth Mr. Mac at seeing Emily Smith (in the process of being initiated into Vesper Choir) wearing a block of wood under one shoe: "I didn't think it was that deep!" He ought to know that the mud from this Tennessee rain is terrific.

GET A DICTIONARY

R. T. Norris and Howard Gress were playing Twenty Questions with the initials of famous people at the College Hill the other afternoon. R.T. had everyone stuck with the initials "I.F.," until he explained that it was Issimo Franco, the General from Spain.

THE THING

A book could be written on the stone structure by Carnegie Steps, to which Student Council has limited smoking, but the big problem is what to call the thing. The Aztec Ruins was one of the first and best—suggestions, but more have popped up since then. The Platform and The Patio are two popular terms, but lack color. Dean McClelland is rumored to have referred to it as The Chicken Roost at a Senate meeting. Al Springfield made the first proposals in Council last year which made the whole thing possible, so Springfield Memorial might be appropriate. Of course, when the shelter is built, there's always Tobacco Roadhouse. No?

THAT'S FOR SURE!

And then there was the freshman girl who naively asked a sophomore, "Is it really true that if you don't get a man the first week of school, you won't get one?"

FAIR DEAL?

There's a new deal on chapel seats: we're selling them to buy new hymn books this year.

CASUALTY LIST

"Nobody was hurt, but four pople were robbed," is Miss Blair's favorite comment on dinner at Antoine's in New Orleans with Miss Massey, Miss Martin, and Miss Walker.

WEDDING BELLS

Phyllis Eschrich, former Maryvillian and William Lehr, senior at Princeton Seminary, will be married on October 11. The bride, our own wacky Phyl, is now a sophomore at the University of Buffalo. We wish you much happiness!

KINFOLKS?

One of our enterprising young freshmen found a book stamped Carson-Newman. In all seriousness she hunted down Dick to ask him if Carson was his brother.

HEY, STUPID!

A silver star to one of the new Vesper Choir members. Without knowing her rightful place in the Choir, she climbed all the way up to her seat in the freshman Chapel section only to realize that she belonged with the choir. Her excuse, "But no one told me!"

SOUR GRAPES?

Not from all dining hall reports. Seems Dr. Lloyd ate breakfast with us last week and before he left, he wrapped his bunch of grapes to take home. Things tough at home, Mrs. Lloyd?

GUESS WATT'S HERE

Or is it "Kilo". Anyway, Jim came tripping back to MC for a brief visit before he takes off for the north land. Jim's enrolled as freshman at Western Seminary at Pittsburgh along with George Barber, Jim Davis, Del Poling, Andy Clark, Dick Jones, and Tom Cummings.

SURPRISE!

Neale Pearson has just asked us to please make an insert concerning football. For those who do not read this illustrious sports page, we wish to let you know that Maryville has a football team. There seems to have been doubt in some people's minds, and The Echo's ace writer wishes to have students acquainted with the fact.

THE CINEMA CIRCUIT

At the Capitol this Tuesday and Wednesday, MCers will see Paramount's comedy hit "The Mating Season."

Thelma Ritter plays the role of the mother of the groom who, willing or unwilling, finds herself along on the honeymoon.

Her son (John Lund) who marries beautiful socialite Jean Tierney finds himself in the social swim.

The story gets more involved when Lund's mother is employed as cook for the newlyweds who finds herself mother hen of the household. With the arrival of the mother-in-law (Miriam Hopkins) things really begin to pop.

The plot to say the least becomes involved. We think it will provide good light entertainment for a town night date.

At the Park Tuesday is RKO's "Tokyo File 212" starring Florence Marly and Robert Peyton. It was filmed in Japan with the cooperation of the American and Japanese governments. A war story, the plot is one of intrigue and suspense. If you are in a serious frame of mind, go see "Tokyo File 212."

PLAYHOUSE

The college Playhouse is in full swing rehearsing for the Fall play "Two Blind Mice" and the experimental productions, "Enter the Hero" and "Marriage Proposal". All reports indicate a rip roaring season for the players this Fall.

UT CONCERTS

Just a reminder that UT concert series tickets are now on sale. We suggest that they be purchased early in order to obtain good seats. Season tickets range from six dollars up.

MC'ers are fortunate to have such a fine cultural asset on hand. Don't fail to take advantage of it, you'll be missing some of the world's most outstanding artists.

Echo Forum

Letter from Dr. E. E. Walline, China Field Representative of the Board of Foreign Missions, Presbyterian Church USA to Dr. R. W. Lloyd, president of Maryville College, on September 10, 1951:

Miss Mary Smith has finished her work in the True Light Schol in Kowloon in the colony of Hongkong and has sailed homewards. She left a few weeks ago and is traveling by the way of Europe. She expects to reach New York sometime in September.

In her brief three years in China, Miss Smith packed in more experiences in more places than a missionary ordinarily would have occasion to do in a much larger period of service. Her first assignment was to Fuhsiang Girls' School in Changsha. When political and military developments made her withdrawal from Changsha advisable, she came to Shanghai for a period.

Later she was assigned to True Light Middle School in Canton, but the advance of the Communist armies southwards led to the decision to have her come to Hongkong. In the True Light Middle School in Kowloon, Hongkong, she rendered the major portion of her service teaching English classes and assisting with the extra curricular activities of the girls in the school.

Besides her school duties, Miss Smith also reminded voluntary service at the European Y.M.C.A. where British military personnel receives hospitality and she was a capable and constructive member of the Presbyterian Mission group which lived together for a period of two years as one large family in Hongkong.

We were impressed with the calm and unflurried spirit Mary displayed in the midst of conditions which were most disturbing to many people. She waited quietly for mission decision on the questions relating to her places of service and the living arrangements, and accepted each successive change with cheerful cooperativeness. Much of the value of the time she spent in China would have been lost if her temperament had not been of the equable sanguine kind.

With the termination of her work in China we wish to express to Maryville College, as we have to Miss Smith, the mission's appreciation of her faithful and effective work in several Christian schols in China. Miss Smith made many friends among the girls in the schools where she taught and especially in Hongkong where she spent a longer period of time.

She was bidden farewell by many of her students at the steamer and this was an expression of their regard and their aapreciation of a Christian friend. The good name and reputation of Maryville College in China have been enhanced by the personal worth as well as by the service of this young graduate of your institution.

We are glad that your institution plans to continue its participation in the overseas work of the Presbyterian Church.

Echo Forum—

To the Students and Faculty:

I have never been adept at talking or writing in flowery phrases. There are many things I would like to say, but I have neither the space nor the words to express myself. I would just like to say this: that God does strange things and often we cannot understand why such things as this should ever happen. And stranger still and perhaps more tragic is the fact that we never will.

My wife remains critically ill. I know if she could talk to you, she would say the same thing that I am saying. It is the prayers and thoughts of friends like you that are helping us all through this long dark period. I wish I could thank each one of you personally for the money and blood you have given for my wife.

Most of all I would like to thank you for the endless prayers you have offered for her recovery. The future is still vague and undecided, but whatever it holds, I would like you to remember as I have desperately kept as a comfort to myself: that "all things work together for

The Maryville Sporting Scene"

(sung by a Centre Colonel of years gone by. . .)

Tell me not of mournful numbers meaning I must take the ball
And be picked up crushed and breathless underneath that Mar'ville wall.
Life is tough (and this is earnest), and it's hard to reach your goal
With a guard like theirs waiting where there isn't any hole.

Centre teams that went before us left this lesson that we learn:
That there is no time for spinners when there isn't room to turn;
That a Centre tackle cutback simply isn't in the cards
When the best men in your backfield are two stalwart Mar'ville guards!

And those speedy Mar'ville runners! They come shooting through the line
And, departing, leave behind them footprints up and down your spine.
Let us then be up and going:: run the next play to the gate;
Let them gather all the roses while we catch an eastbound freight.

What! you still insist on playing? Woe are we! We'll take the ball,
And if we survive the massacre, our dying words recall.
Morituras te saluto! For Kentucky we roar!
And tell them to remember me but please forget the score.

The Barber of Seviervile—with thanx to John Kieran

●THOUGH THERE BE PERSONS WHO MAY LAUGH AT THE ABOVE AND BELOW (which is nothing unusual, especially on the part of persons who put this paper together), there is still a chance or two to win old number one. Just about this time of the year, you'll find a small group of people, regarded most of the year as everyday logical students; wandering about the campus with a hot-eyed looked on their face and a slightly nervous condition. . .It is not, contrary to seemingly symptoms, a new sort of tropical disease nor is it special study-itis. . . It is for want of a better phrase, Football Fever. Few are safe from its clutches, too, though we have noticed there are a few MC studnts who seem to be immune.

Though we are somewhat restricted to thinking of sports on a year around basis, we find our selves in the aforementioned state every year at this time—looking ahead impatiently to each week-end and THE game with a mixture of hope, happiness, and fear—and patiently waiting to delight in the victory of it. . .

For those not thus affected, we fear they'll have to put up with the victims to a greater extent this year than before. . . The sickness is worse, much worse, when there is present a team which, in the eyes of said sufferers, approaches gametime each week against other teams whose main aim in lif is to keep our collective applecart upset and continue to bring great misery and woe into countless rooms hereabouts.

We hope that at tonight's game, the hot-eyed characters will be so thick that at times we will be able to feel the fever-heat radiating therefrom which will be sufficient to melt the plastic buttons we have on the one of our two shirts. . . The feverous condition is going to last until late in November so we suggest that any of you rare birds who are opposd to the hubbub over it, by loyal fans, please move into lower Afghanistan and take up sheep-herding . . . it's quieter we hear. . .

Yes, the comment has flowed back and forth the past weeks over the games played the usual I-told-you-so's have been uttered and the Tuesday morning quarterbacks have had their say. . .There was a black day at this time her last year. . .Centre's Colonels had pulled one out of the fire for the first time in 33 years and UT's vauntd thinlies had plastered MC's thinlies... . But let there be a time of rejoicing. . .let's go out and Clean Up The Colonels. . . Clobber 'em. . . Plaster 'em. . . let's win this one for Coach and the boys.

Coach W. Crabtree has an unknown team this year so far but last year they won with an unbalanced line team on one special pass play off the double wing to Carrol Holmes. Little be said to the fact that MC players will know that play by heart tonight.

●BECAUSE WE HAVE RECEIVED MUCH CRITICISM as to this column's emphasis (?) on cross country rather than football, we are deleting space about said sport from this space and devoting a few (hah) lines to that noble institution—Intramural Athletics. What with Coach Kenneth Johnson lecturing the Faculty Club on the values of said institution, it might be wise to add a few lines here and there about it.

YMCA's juggrnautic-seven had little trouble in sweeping to a first half triumph in the Touch Football league and seemingly looks headed for a likewise honor in the second half—Even with the winner of the first half engaging the titler of the final round in a playoff, it will probably be all Y there too. . .Bob Kees rounded up so many fine athletes under his new Play-for-Pay plan that the Y's first team could play the second squad and a very fine game would result. . . The federal government should see him about it, never in the history of mankind has one ten-dollar bill gone so far and done so much—that being the appropriation YMCA's big-domes allow for athletics. . .

Because there are several football games being heard over the radio today and a snake dance also, there are no Intramural games today but rather there is a golfing contest out on the local links that many will no doubt enter. . . And since we have but little to do, we may as well give rendering awhile to the noble and ancient sport of St. Andrews. . .Back in the 15th century, Scottish law makers were so impatint with the number of men chasing the 15th century model of ball rather than practicing up on their archery for the big "game" with Henry VII's forces at Flodden that they imposed upon offenders a fine worth $25 in these inflated times. With 63 million rounds of golf being played last year in this country, this figures at to $1,575,000,000 or thereaboust, enough to take care of many of our governmnt's departments or enough to sponsor American education for some years, depending on whose cause you want money for. . .

This no doubt should give pause for reflection on the landslide started in 1,000 B.C. when some silly sheep tender began batting rocks with his crook to while away the time on the hills of Italy or wherever you want to place the location of its beginnings. . .anyhow, Caesar's legionaires brought the game with them into England at that time whereupon it spread throughout the whole isles till it became the Scotch national game—so popular indeed that their parliament passed the afore-spoken-of law which outlawed the batting-around of a feather-stuffed ball in the interests of the national defense. . .

Bootleg golf continued, however, until it was legalized under James IV who was caught one day slamming a few mashie shots in what he thought was secret. . .Mary, queen of the Scots, took up the game, and although getting no notices as the Babe Zahiras

Highlanders Lose Two Games To Hiwassee, Jax

The lid was lifted on the 1951 football season two weeks ago against Hiwassee's Tigers and the Gamecocks of Jacksonville State, but from all intents and purposes, it should have been clamped down tight. The Scots playing in a mud that would have usually been to the benefit of their single wing offense in comparison to Hiwassee's T fell to the junior-colleg-ers, 7-6, by virtue f a missed extra point and touchdown that had to be called back.

Both teams entered into the game with chances about 50-50 for each, though Hiwassee was favored by those who make a living on figuring such things. The game which was postponed from the Saturday night before to the Monday following was ironically played in worse conditions than those for which the initial game had been called off.

Everyone Except His Own

Both teams exchanged the ball several times with Mainous and Allen getting off good kicks and MC gaining on the exchanges. Finally, the Tigers were backed down into their own corner on the nine yard line as the result of an Allen quick-kick and Maryville looking for its big chance. But the tone of the times was to change for Raby, faked a perfect handoff to Mainous going into the middle and then "bootlegged" it around his own right end for 91 yards and a touchdown. With the field already a morass, Jimmy Campbell and Dick Gardner the defenders of the territory through which he passed were at a disadvantage in trying to catch up with him—Raby having gotten onto one of the two portions of the field on which grass still remained while they had to go through the mud in an attempt to catch him—they nearly did but did not get close enough and he scored—he had faked the whole MC team and bleachers on this play and then repeated it on the try for point when holding for Chig Mainous on the attempted conversion.

The Tigers kicked off and MC controlled the ball till the half but could not get across the Tiger 35. Following halftime, the Highlanders came back determined to score and did so following an Allen quick kick that put the Madisonville team back on its own 30 when Raby's punt was blocked and Jerry King recovered.

At Last. . .

With the ball on the 14, Harold Glad cracked his right and left tackles for five yard gains to the four from when he pounded over on three more smashes through the middle. The ground and ball were too muddy for kicking the extra point and a plunge was resorted to. It failed and Hiwassee still led, 7-6.

Hiwassee, instead of choosing to receive, rather instead kicked off to the MC 25 from which point Grant Sharp returned to the 45. Carrying the ball over his left tackle and right end, Allen picked up a chain-mover on the Hiwassee 46 but the attack stalled and he punted out on the Tiger thirteen. Rider fumbled on his first carry and MC took over.

Who Did It?

Glad and Jimmy Campbell cooperated to make a first down with a pair of rushes and a reverse to the three from where Grant Sharp plowed over. But MC was offsides on the play and forced back to the eight, MC could not count against the valient Hiwassee defense. Raby kicked out with Allen returning back to the ten whereupon he was hit and suspiciously fumbled—since a Hiwassee man had his hands on the ball at the bottom of the pile in which the MC captain had been turned over on his back. The Reedy-men again booted out with the whistle signifying a change of sides as the quarter ended. The Tigers saw the ball but twice more during the final stanza but did not need to any more. The mud and some good line play on their part plus a lack of good blocking on the tired Scots' part was sufficient to stop the rest of the Highlanders' sallies at the goal line. One last drive in which Glad carried from tailback on eight straight plays from the MC 39 to their 27 fizzled out as Allen was stopped in a shot over tackle following an incompleted pass. Six plays later the clock ran out and the game was over.

Scots Drop 26-0 Contest On Road

Jacksonville's Gamecocks Win In Rough Game

Playing their toughest game of the year, the Scots traveled to Jacksonville ,Alabama and a game with the Gamecocks of Don Salls. After holding their own for the first quarter, and even threatening to make several advances over the goal line, the Scots succumbed to the power of the Red and White whose backfield was as big as MC's line to give a comparison of size.

MC Holds

The game was scoreless for nearly all of the first half as the Scots' line play and pass defense held together fairly well but with some five minutes to go the Alabamans got rolling. With Billy Joe Dacus doing most of the hauling, the Gamecocks pounded to the one foot line but were held by the Highlanders—Harold Glad's tackle of Dacus on the ten for a five yard loss plus a plugging of the gap by Glad and John Morton on the one yard line as Charlie Stough attempted to go over being the big plays. Charlie Allen kicked out to the 44 with Dacus bringing back four. He then fired a long pass to John Meadows which was good for 40 yards and the Gamecocks' initial score. Stough's conversion was good and the Gamecocks led, 7-0, with but six plays left in the first half.

Upon the second half being started, the Salls-team repeated their last year's procedure by going 80 yards for a score when MC was forced to relinquish the ball. Dacus and Stough did most of the heavy work, usually requiring but two carries to make a first down as they got excellent blocking. Stough hit the end zone from two yards out and then backed up to make the extra point on a kick.

UT Vols Wallop MC Thinlies, 15-48

Holmberg Sets Record

Wednesday afternoon UT's harriers, led by Swedish flash, Al Holmberg, invaded Maryville territory, and defeated MC's Scots 15 to 48. The Orange and White who were Southeastern Conference champs of 1950 showed their stuff by taking the first six places with Holmberg setting a new course record in a time of 15:23.7. The old record for the three and a quarter mile course was 16:37 set by William Jennings Bryan's Randy Mayumber last year against MC.

Leading the Scots across the finish line was Dick Kerr, who finished seventh with a time of 18:06 after passing his teammate Neale Pearson on the next-to-last lap. The meet had started out with Pearson and George Day giving Holmberg and John Waites a run-for-their-money but the Vol runners quickly took the lead in the woods and by the end of the race had the first six places sewed up.

The meet marked the thirteenth time that the Scots have raced the Vols. Despite their victories in the last few years, MC still leads in meets won, 7-6.

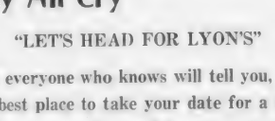
The order of finish was: Holmberg (UT), Waits (UT), Trent (UT), Albertson (UT), Kuykendall (UT), Gamble (UT), Kerr (MC), Pearson (MC), Reeder (UT), Day (MC), McCulloch (MC), Helwig (MC), and Kelly (MC).

The next meet for the Scotties will be a return match October 26 with the Vols on the UT course.

Intramurals....

At Halftime

At the end of the first half, the YMCA's sensational seven leads the league with a record of five wins and no losses, unbeaten, untied, and unscored-on behind steady and dependable men, many of whom would do the varsity no great harm. The following are the standings at the end of the half:



Team	Wins	Losses
Y.M.C.A.	5	0
Deep South	4	1
Alpha Sig Scotties	3	2
Pre-Mins.	2	3
Alpha Sig Highland.	1	4
Shudas	0	5

As the second half begins, how about having a little bit of sportsmanship on the field. People have been heard to say that the teams spend more time arguing than playing, and indeed the thing that stands out is not any team or player, although there are fine teams and fine players, but the arguing and whining that goes on and on, until it gets so that some are ashamed to play. Why can't we have some more sportsmanship?

The Intramural Golf tuornament will be played this afternoon over nine holes on the college golf course with a distance-driving contest also. Teeing off will start around two o'clock.

In this week's past play, the big game of them all was the Pre-Min's upset of YMCA. Displaying a hard-charging line and an air tight defense, the Minnies held Y to a 6-6 score and then in the overtime period outgained the Y which lost yardage in at-

Highlanders Return To Home Grounds To Attempt Court Martial Of Colonels

By Bob Coles

The time is 8:00 P.M., the courtroom is the football field, the judge the scoreboard, the defense, the Centre Colonels, and the prosecution our own Maryville Scotties. The case has been well prepared, and the public has been assured that the prosecuting attorney will do his utmost to gain the verdict.

And For The Defense. . .

It seemed for a while this summer and fall as if Centre would not be able to field a team this year, but the Selective Service Plan for deferring college men savd the day, and the Colonels made plans for a team. Still and all, they were "hard hit" (to hear them tell it, anyway) when they lost the tremendous total of five (5) men by the draft and graduation. Also gone to more profitable fields is "Swede" Anderson, last year's head coach, who has been replaced by William J. Crabtree —for many years Centre's assistant coach. Thus, it looks like the Colonel's double-single-wing system will remain comparatively unchanged. Despite their heavy losses, nineteen lettermen returned this fall to give Crabtree and his assistant, "Jess" Crawford, plenty of material to work with. Back at ends are lettermen Charlie Davis and Ira Smith, seniors, and Ben Williams, a 165 pound Junior, and a new and bright frosh prospect, Joe Vasek, from Cleveland, Ohio.

Such Light Weights

The situation at tackle is particularly heavy going for the Gold and White. The only men coming back are Tom Halloron —195 and Dave Steere—182—both Juniors. All coach Crabtree has as replacements are Charlie Kull, a 250 pounder from Illinois, "Tiny" Jim Rucker, who hardly moves the scales at 290, and Ed Warinner, a comparatively light man at 220. The guard situation is just about as "bad" with five lettermen returning, led by Charlie Van Meter, 185 pound Senior co-captain. At center will one of the area's finestfootball players, co-captain Jim Brown, who also fills in at guard from time to time.

The Backfield

Gone from the Centre lineup will be such shining lights as Long and Acton, but even the coaches admit their attack has not suffered too badly with Carrol Holmes, last year's leading ground gainer, back at fullback, and Frank Cain, who last year tied for the most field goals in the nation, along with Marty Dunn, Dick Holmes, and Rupert Rice also toting the pigskin. At quarterback are Tip Evans, a sophomore from Louisville ,and Bill Vandermeer, who will be a real thorn in the Scotties' side if he can pitch as well as his cousin, Johnny. Inside dope has it that he can really handle a football, too.

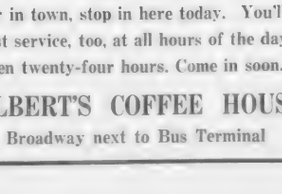
Centre's defense will be rough again this year since only one touchdown was scored against them last year by rushing (Maryville scored on a 87 yard kickoff return by Charlie Allen). Their aerial attack will not be so strong with Long graduated, but word is that the running attack may be even stronger.

Scots Hustling

The Scotties will take the field on Saturday night in full strength, although there were some rough bruises sustained in the Jacksonville game. Harold Glad, Jim McBrayer, Dick Patton, and Bob Madry suffered the most from last week, and have spent the week in workouts and drills without any contact work, but all of these, and Charlie Allen, who pulled a leg muscle Wednesday afternoon, are expected to be in good shape by Saturday night, ready to start if they get the nod.

The Crystal Ball

The general consensus of opinion is that the Highlanders have returned to their own class since Centre, like Maryville, does not give athletic scholarships. There are good hopes for a Scottie triump with the Scots hitting hard and well now, and showing much improvement in blocking and tackling. As for the history of the two schools, Centre has never beaten Maryville two consecutive years in a row going back as far as 1906. Last year the game was a hard-fought contest with the teams ending up even in first downs, and the statistics showing an edge to Maryville in the rushing department. The game was also played with Maryville running out of their since-discarded Split T.



Piracy Illegal at Maryville

East Tennessee State's Buccaneers move into Maryville for the fourteenth game between the two schools next week, and the fourteenth one looks like the toughest of the group. Beside some 20 members back from last year's tough team, such as Bob Lloyd, J. L. Jones, fullback Harry Secrist, Jim Huddle, and Kenneth "Birdlegs" Bryan, the Bucs have added, in addition to freshman, five transfer men. Best known of these to Maryville boosters are Michael DeCarlo, a 5'10", 210 pound tackle, and two guards, Alvarez and DeFillipo, all of whom made a shambles of the Scotties for Tusculum last year. And as if this weren't enough, a 6'1", 180-pound end from Georgia Tech named Cecil Maddux will be around, as hit and the big Meadows, who was a thorn in the Scots' side all night at linebacker and at end, pounced on it to set up the Alabama third marker. Dacus hit the line and pulled out to the sidelines for 36 twisting yards to the six where he was finally pulled down. Stough then pounded over for the six pointer but did not attempt the conversion. Whit Wyatt instead tried but was off and Connell kicked off again. Both sides exchanged possession of the ball with the game getting rougher and rougher and the Gamecocks incurring several 15 yard penalties for personal fouls. With the fourth quarter about a third of the way gone, MC fumbled and the Gamecocks recovered on the Highlander 21. After failing to gain on first down, Pete Baldwin then went for 20 around his end to the two where MC held for two downs but not long enough as Mickey Washburn fired a pass to Baldwin in the flats for their final score. Wyatt missed the try for point and both sides ended the game with substitutes in.

that of the principal executive officer of the denomination with 2,500,000 members.

As both a pastor and as a national leader Dr. Blake, now 45 years old, has had a career of service in the Church. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of Occidental College, Los Angeles, and of the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

To his new appointment in Philadelphia he came from the pastorate of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church, Pasadena, Calif. where he had served ten years. Prior to the California location he was pastor for five years, of the First Presbyterian Church, Albany, N. Y.

Dr. Blake, born in St. Louis, Mo., was graduated from Princeton University, and Princeton Theological Seminary, spent one year in school at Edinburg University, taught for a year at Forman Christian College in Lahore. India, and was assistant minister for three years at St. Nicholas Collegiate Church, New York City.

A-B Sponsors Hike

The annual moonlight hike, sponsored by Athenian and Bainonian, will be held Tuesday, October 30. The group will leave from Thaw steps at 7:00 to hike the three-mile loop, with the camp fire in the woods as their destination for refreshments and singing.

Ella Swift, president of Bainonian, urges the usual support of all the society members for this outing.

Club Hears Blazer

Business Club met on Thursday to hear Earl Blazer, former MC student and now a Maryville business man, speak on "Insurance."

There was discussion of a constitutional amendment which would make possible membership in the club of those who are not business majors.

The meeting was presided over by Newell Witherspoon, president.

Freshmen Choose Class Officers

In elections held last Tuesday the freshman class chose the following officers: president, Harry McCall; vice-president, Bill Breen; secretary, Nancy Florence; treasurr, Bob Shelton; Student council representatives, Judy Schwart and Ralph Force.

McCall is from Morristown, N. J.; Breen is an English major from Anniston, Ala.; Shelton is from Loudon; and Miss Schwartz is an English major from Abingdon.

YM Plans Two-Day Hike

YMCA plans a week-end in the mountains today and Sunday. Approximately 40 boys will attend the outing at the Chimney camping grounds in the Smoky Mountains. The party will leave by bus this afternoon at 1:30 and return for the Sunday evening meal.

An early Sunday breakfast is planned before the morning service and a hike up Mt. LeConte is on the agenda. Cook is James Allison and chairman of all arrangements is James Campbell.

Dr. Hunter and Jack Durant will read, and Van Holland will criticize.

Yost Speaks At Vespers

The Rev. Wilson Yost, pastor of Fourth Presbyterian Church, of Knoxville, will be the guest speaker at Vespers tomorrow evening at 7 in th FAC Music Hall.

The Vesper Choir under the direction of Harry Harter will sing "There is a Balm in Gilead" by William L. Dawson and "Ascendit Deus" by Jacobus Gallus.

UT Concert Series Begins Friday

The University of Tennessee will open its 1951-52 Concert Series on Friday, October 26, with the Kuttner-Martin production of Johann Strauss's "Die Fledermaus," which features Irra Petina.

The other five concert programs will be the First Piano Quartet on November 21, baritone Leonard Warren on January 17, the Sadler's Wells Theatre Ballet on February 1, the Pittsburgh Symphony on February 25, and soprano Patrice Munsel on March 25.

Transportation by chartered busses to the regular six concerts will be supplied for Maryville College students, but all students are reminded that no trips will be made for extra programs, only for the regular six. Those who sign up will be held responsible for transportation.

Tickets may be secured by writing to Clark and Jones at 510 South Gay street, or to the UT Student Center. Prices vary from $1.20 to $3.00 per concert, but the cost is lower if the now available season tickets are purchased.

Sigs Meet Tonight

Alpha Sigma will hold its regular weekly meeting this evening, at 6:15 in the Y Rooms.

Commodore Fisher, associate professor of history, will be the speaker.

Introducing Benita Of Pakistan, Newest Addition To Maryville

By Carson Seeley

All of us have probably seen Benita. She is one of the more outstanding students on the campus. But if someone were to ask us who Benita was, most of us wouldn't know the answer. Benita Biswas is known as "the girl from Pakistan." (Pakistan is pronounced with both 'a's short.)

Her home town in Pakistan is Lahore. She intends to return after graduating from Maryville and teach physical education which is her major field. Benita considers physical education very important since there are only three foreign-trained women teachers in physical education throughout Pakistan. Besides sports, Benita reads and paints for her hobbies.

In Pakistan the fellows play mostly soccer and field hockey, while the girls play net-ball, similar to our basket-ball. Field hockey, as a spectator-interest sport would correspond to our baseball.

When asked how and why she picked Maryville College, Benita replied that she was looking for a small Christian college. Cyril Brown, an MC graduate, often talked about his alma mater and thus the seeds of decision were implanted.

During the partitioning of India and Pakistan, Benita was studying at Woodstock. Mussoori in India, but she mentioned that she had no trouble. This school was American, but she attended an English school previously. When she compares the systems, she feels that they balance out in their good and bad points.

While on the way over, Benita stopped at England for five days and visited the Festival of Britain which she enjoyed greatly. A Swiss couple there, who liked foreign guests at their home in Switzerland during the summer, asked her if she would like to visit them. She declined, however, and came to America where she spent five weeks as counselor in summer camps throughout Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Montclair, New Jersey, is considered her American home.

The amazing number and degree of automatic gadgets which we have astonished Benita the most. Even in England she had to buy a ticket for the subway, whereas here, one merely drops a dime in the turnstile.

Besides the automatic gadgets, we seem to be a nation of eaters, particularly ice cream and soda pop. People in Pakistan eat ice cream and drink soda, but not to the extent that we do. We seem to drink soda like water and eat ice cream like a staple food. Most American foods could stand a little spice for Benita. They need more flavor.

We see her mostly in her native garb which she prefers to American dress, but when she went to school in India, she wore western clothes most of the time. The Indian dress requires fewer items, and, is much easier to iron. No ruffles, frills or pleats.

Fifteen Elected To Echo Staff By Committee

Fifteen students were elected to the editorial staff of The Highland Echo by the Publications Committee at a special meeting Tuesday afternoon. Membership was based on the results of try-outs, and goes into effect immediately.

Those named include 11 freshmen, two sophomores, and two juniors. Frosh are Betty Ham, Stone Mountain, Ga.; Abigail Crosby, English major from Columbia City, Ind.; Kathy Chase, Pleasantville, N.J.;

Phyllis Schamehorn, Clearwater, Fla.; Roberta Hadley, English major from St. Petersburg, Fla.; Pat Ingles, Philadelphia, Pa.; Carol Moore, drama major from Waukesha, Wis.;

Gail Brown, Narberth, Pa.; James Mayes, philosophy major from Greeneville; Bruce Heuser, drama major from St. Louis, Mo.; and Lucy Jane Geer.

Juniors elected are Bob Coles, Scranton, Pa.; and Van Holland, English major from Baltimore, Md.

Members of the Publications Committee include senior Echo editors Neale Pearson and Carson Seeley. Lynn Miller, Walt Elwood, Sally Brown, and Chairman Dick Newman make up the Student Council Publications Committee. Arthur S. Bushing, assistant professor of English; Dr. Ralph T. Case, professor of sociology; Elizabeth H. Jackson, assistant professor of English; and Dr. F. A. Griffitts, chairman, comprise the Faculty Committee on Publications.

IRC Hears Sugimoto, Plans Student Forum

Tamishuo Sugimoto, General Secretary of Meiji Gakuin, presented an address about the recent Japanese peace treaty to IRC last Monday at 6:30 in Thaw 214. Meiji Gakuin is a church supported high school and college on Tokyo.

Several preliminary business discussions were held, but definite action was postponed until the next meeting. A student forum is to be held for the next program.

Biwas, Leeder At Vols

Bonita Biswas of Lahore, Pakistan, and Ann Leeder, whose father is a missionary in Jullunder City, India, will speak at Student Vols Sunday evening after Vespers in Bartlett Hall.

The program is to be a question and answer discussion and takes place in a typical Indian living room. Refreshments, prepared Indian style, will be served.

TKC Elects Marshall, Hood, Sandos, McGaha

Tau Kappa Chi held its first meeeting of the semester on Monday, October 8. New officers for the coming semester were elected as follows:

President, Carolyn Marshall; vice-president, June Hood; secretary, Barbara Sandos; treasurer, Lena McGaha.

Also at this time plans were discussed for the initiation of new members, which will be held later.

Theta Elects Chairmen; No Meeting Tonight

At the October 14 meeting of Theta Epsilon Janet Woods was appointed chairman of the homecoming float, and Judy Schwartz and Grace Harrison were put in charge of the scrapbook.

President Gracie Scruggs has announced that there will be no meeting this week, and urges that as many as possible attend the Y hike.

Student Treasurers

Treasurers of student organizations are reminded that first reports are now due. They should be handed to Dr. L. L. Williams or to faculty sponsors.

Members of Interclub Council may give reports to the secretary, who will give a copy to the faculty committee. Blanks for making reports may be obtained from Dr. Williams, 206 Fayerweather Hall.

Harter Announces Madrigal Singers

As announced by Director Harry Harter, the 1951 Madrigal singers have been selected. Their first appearance will be Thursday evening, November 29, for a meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma, professional teacher's fraternity.

The members have been selected from those studying applied voice. They are sopranos, Rosalie Munsen, Margaret Warren, and Helen Seay; altos, Betty Hammers, Nina Ruth Gillette, and Carolyn Beatty; tenors, Don Brakebill, Wally Schroeder, and Harter; and basses, Bill Robinson, Bill Diehl, and Bill Cunningham.

They will be presented in the annual Christmas Vesper Service in December. A committee has been appointed for the traditional Old English dinner to be held sometime in December.

Training School Invites Students

The six-week Training School sponsored by New Providence Presbyterian Church is now enteering its third week of classes.

Meetings are held each Wednesday evening beginning with a covered-dish supper at 6 p.m. and classes beginning at 7 p.m. There are classes for all age groups, and the church invites any interested college students to one of the three adult classes which are studying National Missions, the Bible, and Sunday School materials.

A welcome is also extended by the church for any students to observe in the younger classes.

Hope Fund Pledges Totals $1308.15

The total pledgd of the Fred Hope Fund is $1308.15 by noon of last October 13. The amount paid was $329.25. Three hundred and fifty people filled out pledge cards.

If any person, before the next pledge date November 10, desires to fill out a pledge card or contribute to the fund he should see Mrs. K. P. Johnson in the Office Annex.

Red Cross Urges Blood Donations Next Month

The Red Cross is now urging that everyone who possibly can donate blood do so as soon as possible. Officials of the Red Cross have stated that the need for blood is very urgent at the present time and the importance of having this blood to send overseas cannot be stressed enough.

The Blount County Chapter of the Red Cross, which is responsible for blood donations in this area, will have a mobile unit from Nashville in Maryville on November 19 and 20. The unit will be set up in the basement of the New Providence Church. of 21 must have their parents' College students under the age written permission in order to donate blood. Forms to be filled out by parents may be obtained in the Personnel Office.

Hall, Queener Elected 25-Year Club Members

At the last Faculty Club meeting, Mrs. Elizabeth Benedict Hall, matron of the Ralph Max Lamar Memorial Hospital, and Mrs. Evelyn Norton Queener, assistant professor in physical education, wer elcted as members of the Twenty-Five Year Club.

Mrs. Hall has been with the college since October 1926, serving in the Hospital the entire time. Mrs. Queener has been a member of the faculty, with the exception of one year, since 1925.

Service Test Slated

The Selctive Service qualification test will be given December 12. All applications must be into the Personnel Office by November 5.

Gillespys Give Father's 1849 Diploma To MC

By Pat Lovette

Maryville College has been recently presented with a very valuable diploma by Miss Fannie Gillespy and Mr. Edwin H. Gillespy of Atlanta, Ga. The diploma is the one received by their father, Mr. James Gillespy, from Maryville College in the year 1849 and is one of the very earliest awarded by the College.

The records are too scanty for anyone to be sure as to how many were issued earlier, but it is believed that the first was around the date 1844. The entire wording of the diploma is in Latin and is signed by the entire faculty of that time, consisting as it did of three teachers, Dr. Isaac Anderson, president and pioneer founder of the college, Prof. Fielding Pope, and Prof. John S. Craig.

Pope taught philosophy and mathematics and Craig taught languages. Prof. Craig, who seems to have been a very colorful personality, signed his name in Latin: Johannis Craigus. Both these professors graduated from Maryville College.

In the Library where this diploma is displayed, there is placed beside it a copy of the current diploma which the College gives. The 1951 variety is all in English and is nowadays signed only by the President of the College and the Secretary of the Faculty. The two diplomas side by side make an interesting symbol of 102 years of college history.

When James Gillespy received his diploma from Maryville College in the spring of 1849, he was not yet 20 years old, his birth date being October 20, 1829. His early years were spent at his home in Blount County where his father had entered grants of land totaling about 25,000 acres in Blount and Sevier Counties.

The total student body at the time of Gillespy's graduation consisted of around 45 students. Mr. Gillespy himself said in his reminiscences, "I boarded one session at the boarding-house, and my recollection is that it cost me less than two dollars a month."

In 1849, the college was located where the present building of New Providence Church stands on Broadway. The entire college consisted of one brick building. In 1819, only 30 years before Gillespy graduated, when the college was founded, the town of Maryville was made up of a stone church, a log jail, and a few log and frame houses.

Another view of life at MC in 1849, was written by Mr Gillespy and quoted by Dr. Samuel Wilson in his book, "A Century of Maryville College." Gillespy said.

"In those days almost all the public exhibitions at the close of the term were held either in the large stone church, which stood where now stands Columbian Hall.

Crowning Planned For C-N Game

Wood, Scruggs Attend

By Lora Kinsinger

Beryl Stewart, senior elementary education major from Haworth, N. J., will be crowned homecoming queen at the Carson-Newman game here next Saturday night. Miss Stewart, a member of FTA and the Girls' Glee Club, was chosen in all-campus elections held October 10.

The queen's attendants will be Hazel Wood, senior physical education major from Abingdon, Va., and Gracie Scruggs, senior physical education major from Clinton.

The coronation of the queen by William Clay Crowder, '28, president of the Alumni Association, will take place at pre-game time in front of the alumni seated in the east stands. The queen will then be seated in her own box on the student side of the field.

During the half, the Carson-Newman band will perform, followed by special formations by the MC band and twillers.

YW's Hike Today

This afternoon the annual YW CA hike will be held at Montvale. Busses will leave campus from the old chapel site at 1:30 p.m.

A program including devotions and recreation has been planned.

Germans See Slides

German Club will have a viewing of colored slids of Germany Monday at 6:30 pm. in Anderson 301.

These slides are part of a collection owned by a cousin of Bill Sitler, vice-president and program chairman of German Club.

Fleming Leads Prayer

Ronald Fleming will be the leader at mid-week prayer meeting Wednesday night at 9:30. Where it is to be held will be announced later.

Social Board Plans Varied Programs Tonight

According to Marie Richards, chairman of the social board, a program of various sports and entertainments will be provided this evening.

Final plans for the campus activities have not been announced yet, but information will be posted today.

WSGA Elects Members

Freshman Liz Murphy, Physical Ed. major of Springfield, and Junior Doris Holt, music major of Upper Darby, Penn., were elected on Friday, Oct. 13 by the residents of the women's dormitories to serve as members of the coordinating committee of WSGA.

Camera Club Meets

The Camera Club will meet in Fayerweather Thursday night at 6:45, at which time there will be a demonstration of developing and printing.

Each member will have the opportunity to practice darkroom technique. Members are reminded to bring ideas for the yearbook picture.

Spanish Club Visits UT

Spanish Club will make a trip to UT this Thursday, October 25, to participate in a movie program sponsored by the Spanish Department of the University. The club will leave campus at 6:15 in order to arrive in time for the showing of "Locura De Amor" at 7:30.

Plans are being discussed for reports from various people who have lived in Spanish speaking countries for the following meeting. Spanish folk daneing may also be included on the program.

On Hiwassee—

Maryville's neighbor Hiwassee College at Madisonville has been getting its name in the papers lately. In a number of ways the two schools are a good deal alike; both are church-related, comparatively small, and, right now, a little hard pressed for cash. But Hiwassee's President D. R. Youell has been writing letters all over the country asking for money for two new dormitories. Now Maryville has two or three building projects in the fire, but we haven't done any letter writing yet, and with all respect to Hiwassee and Dr. Youell, we trust we won't.

It seems to us that Hiwassee is taking advantage of some current political situations and getting itself involved with some political interest groups, the wiseness of which we'd like to question. It all started last February when Dr. Youell was offered some free surplus potatoes by the Department of Agriculture. He said that Hiwassee needed the potatoes, "but even more, we need to preserve our integrity," rejected the offer, and bought potatoes for the cafeteria on the open market. Now, whether or not integrity was quite at stake, or whether the solution to agricultural problems lies in the point of view which says, as Dr. Youell did of the department's policy, "we will have no part in it," we aren't sure.

Anyway, Hiwassee received even more publicity later on when the president refused the offer of a federal loan for needed housing. A loan would give the government a certain amount of control, he felt. Now these things may or may not be well and good. Certainly, whether we agree or not, Hiwassee has the right to refuse government potatoes and government money if it wants to and why it wants to. That's not where our objection lies.

We are sorry to see Hiwassee capitalize on this sort of thing, however, write the kind of letters it has to whom it has, and get involved with the group which has seems to have taken up its cause. Fulton Lewis, Jr., devoted a column in The Knoxville Journal to it all which included the phrases "keep socialism off the campus," "socialists in the educational systems" and an attack on inheritance taxes and the National Education Association. We're just afraid Hiwassee is going to get itself involved with the group of irresponsible, fear-motivated, reactionary slanderers and character assassians who take advantage of situations like this to advance their own particular political slants.

It's Hiwassee's and Dr. Youell's privilege to do as they think and as they choose. But we fear for the type of bedfellows they knowingly or otherwise seem to be attracting. —DN

Student Council—

October 10

One Town Night violation was reported and the penalty applied. Charlie Allen inquired about the possibility of seating all seniors in the chairs in the senior section. This suggestion was passed and recommended to Senate.

The committee set up to meet with the Alumni Association regarding Homecoming reported that the Association has agreed to pay half of the cost of the Homecoming Queen's picture in the '52 Chilhowean. The motion was made and carried that Council would pay for two pages at $18. each in the Chilhowean.

Copies of the revised MSO Constitution were distributed, discussed, and revisions were sent to Senate. It was moved to continue Council sessions in Bartlett Hall at 9:30 if business is incomplete.

Continuing the discussion of a revision of Town Night rules, the motion was passed that the deadline for signing in on Tuesday night be extended to 10:25 with no leeway. This was sent to Senate.

October 17

Vice president Tom Jones presided in the absence of the president and extended a welcome to the new freshman council members. No Town Night violations were reported.

Jim Allison reported from Student Faculty Senate. Senate OK'd the MSO Constitution and sent it on to the men for ratification. In a discussion of dancing after football games, a committee was appointed by President Lloyd to study the situation. It was decided that all seniors would be able to have chair seats in the senior section by next semester. The extension of the sign-in time to 10:25 for women on Town Night was passed by Senate and sent to the Executive Council of the Faculty.

The discussion of Town Night revisions was continued. It was moved that the president appoint a committee to investigate the present system of penalties, and a committee to investigate the Broadway Restaurant was named.

THINGS ARE TOUGH ALL OVER

Japan seems to have about the same difficulties as Maryville so far as the boy-girl ratio is concerned. Didn't Dr. Sam Franklin mention something in chapel about one school over there having 250 boys and 900 girls?

DON'T MISS THIS ONE!

Has everyone heard Tasker Robinette and his magic clarinet?

RETARDED?

Making conversation at breakfast one day, Connie Howell remarked that the first thing her Mother taught her about table manners after she larned to use a fork was not to sing while eating. To this Jessie Lyons replied casually, "My, your Mother certainly must have had a busy summer teaching you all that."

WEATHER AGAIN!

Quoth Walt Elwood on Maryville's weather: "It will probably rain more this week-end than it has before and we'll have to have the Y hike in the big gym. That place has more uses!

DID SOMEONE SAY LOGIC?

In Philosophy class Wednesday, Mr. Engelhardt was discussing the basic elements of life. Rather confused as to the exact number of elements, he asked, "Was there a time when there were 88 basic substances?" Then, answering his own question, he said thoughtfully, "Of course there was—right after the eighty-seventh was discovered."

NONSENSE FROM THURBER

A dehoy who was terribly hobble,
Cast only stones that were cobble
And bats that were ding,
From a shot that was sling,
But never hit inks that were bobble.

NO SOAP?

Dr. E. R. Hunter was telling his sophomore English class about Nausican going down to the river to wash clothes. "They didn't have any soap back then," he said, "they had to wash them in the surf or in the tide."

INITIATION

Mr. Fisher claims that he is going to collect a bunch of dlols and tin cans and make everybody who is taking history carry them around for a week.

A WORD OF WARNING

When his philosophy class was holding a discussion about girls who get jobs in order to get a man, Mr. Engelhardt said, "You have to watch out for these school teachers. I've gone to summer school with some of them and—oh, brother!"

PSYCHOLOGY?

Dr. Briggs really had the class doubled up with laughter the other day when one of his students said, "Let's discuss kissing," and he replied, "I guess it is a pressing matter."

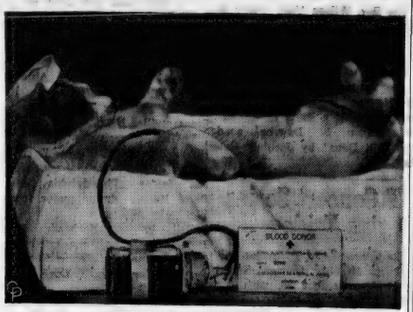
Showing at the Capitol Monday and Tuesday will be the story of a Dr. Praetorius (Gary Grant) and his patient Deborah Higgins (Jeanne Crain) in a picture entitled, "People Will Talk." The theme of the picture centers around the fact that "psychiatry is as necessary to the equipment of a good doctor as anatomy itself." Medicine should be more than just pills, serums, and knives.

The three-way plot is said to be the story of one of the strangest love affairs to emerge from Hollywood. Looks like it's a "don't miss" picture for the student body.



Playing at the Park Monday and Tuesday is "Ali-Baba and the Forty Thieves" starring Marie Monte and Jon Hall. This colorful picture of the days of the Arabian Nights is packed with adventure and has a good story too.

Thursday and Friday at the Park will feature "Frances Goes to the Races," a laugh packed comedy starring Donald O'Conner and Peiper Laurie in the romantic leads and of course Frances, the talking mule. If you like comedy, don't miss this picture.

ON THE BOOK SHELF

Among the new books in the library are "Selected Poems" by Sacheverell Sitwell, "Physical Education," by Delbert Oberteuffer, "Modern Dietetics," by Doris Johnson, and "Rural Welfare Services," a book about the welfare work done in the rural districts, which are called "the last frontier of social work," by Benson Young Landis.

ture to Benita. Her father is an English professor at Forman Christian College. In fact, Benita feels that she knows English better than her native tongue, Urdu.

Pakistan, although in an area of intensely strained relations, seems to be going about trying to solve her internal problems with the stoicness of the Orient. The main difficulty seems to be that the two sections are seperated by several hundred miles of India. Though Urdu is the official language, East Pakistan speaks mostly Bengali with both sections having numerous dialects. Most of the students are amicably inclined toward the United States.

For a person to travel from Pakistan to India, a permit is needed which allows one to visit no more than two places. Upon entering and leaving each place one must report to the police. After the permit expires, a new one can be gotten about a year later.

Even with these difficulties, the people of Pakistan are going ahead in trying to solve their problems.

Sports Echoes

●AGE DOESN'T MEAN A THING . . . This was seemingly the talk being spread around campus after the golf tournament which finished its linking two weeks ago. For who was the winner, none other than balding Tom Cramer whose home is perched atop the Golf Course Hill which is a menace to both linksman and cross countryman—the former in that his drives may go up it and then roll back down. To the latter it means such a steep climb that it is counted sufficient enough for one to give up cross country—once the top being ascended there being little desire left to go onward. But back to the success story of the day. Kramer who must have taken his cobrilly, Hadacol or something went over the nine hole course—three holes three times—with a very respectable 39. So much so that it is pretty well assured that there will be another golf tourney next spring. Perhaps one will also see tents pitched atop or around the course for the week before with golfing enthusiasts figuring his residence in the vicinity did have something to do with his win. Congratulations anyhow.

●ORCHIDS AND ROSES DEPARTMENT . . . Though said products of this department can't be flung literally at deserving aspirants, figurative roses and orchids go to Ken Upham, Art Van Alstyne, and all the others who helped with Athenian's pep two weeks ago and to Jack Mowatt, Don Craig, Archie Massalone, and the others who helped with Alpha Sigma's pep last week. Those who decorated the goal posts also come in for their share of the plaudits since we might as well hand them out to any and everybody who wants them while the going is good. These include Tish Buchanan and others whom we forget.

We no doubt could have had more pep but with seniors all slaving away like mad on their favorite subject, those with the brains and leadership didn't contribute enough of their talents as could have been given.

●A LITTLE CRYSTAL BALLING to borrow.. a phrase.. from that worthy group of gentlemen who put out the college's voluminous programs. Though the Bucs beat MC, instead of vice versa, we feel that MC for once looked much better in defeat. Especially was that so in the 4th quarter when the Scots finally got to rolling and more than held ETS to their own. In fact if a few of MC's passes during the earlier portions of the game had been a bit lower, we might have scored a couple or more—the boys were open but so were the passes. This week not too many folk will be listening to the game if it is broadcast what with the hikes and such occupying their space time. The opponent in case anyone does not know is Emory & Henry's Blue Wasps on the Abingdon, Virginia field. Employing the Split-T offense and having the boys to go with it, Coach Conley Snidow is having few worries so far this year. Bob Miller, a Little All-America for the last two years is back for his third go at the goal posts and averaged two TD's in each of his first four games. Chick Davis, the Wasps' quarterback is one of the best field generals seen around and wrecked much havoc with the Scot defense in last year's 56-0 game which found the Scots on the deficit-side. Also back playing for the Wasps for their third year are Jim Neblett and Jim Earp at tackle and guard both of whom were close runners for the MC All-Opponent team—Davis and Miller being on it practically unanimously. What with all this material back and the advantage of playing on their own field, prospects are getting brighter even amongst the boys, also, who think that they are due any week now. We sure hope so and will be pulling for them.

OCTOBER 22-27 IS S.N.O.P. WEEK!

●BACK IN THEIR OWN CLASS again this afternoon will be Coach Kenneth Johnson's bunion burners who en-car to Dayton, Tennessee for a meet with William Jennings Bryan's harriers. The WJBU boys who started cross country last year started off with a better than average team in having the persons of Randy Maycumber and Dick Malone on their squad. As it was, MC was hard-pressed in taking its 23-36 victories last year and will have to face practically the same Bryan contingent again. But as per usual, the Scots will have a good middle section contingent with which any races run will be won. Since the hill and dale sport is scored like golf, the first man in gives his team one point, the second two, and so on down the line. The object of the game is to get all of one's team mates up towards the front since the other team will have a higher score then. MC nevr really having a great standout runner like UT's Holmberg or even Maycumber has always depended on filling up the middle section from third on down to seventh places and by doing such has usually won. With George Day back to help fill the gap caused by Menges, Earisman, and Williams' departure, the Scots should give a good account of themselves.

●SINCE WE HAVEN'T GOT TIME to compose poetry this week in reference to the Intraumural touch football league, all we want to say is that we think we had a pretty good season though it was too small. We hope that with the opening of the soccer season next Wednesday, that thre will be that number of teams also in the soccer league. Biggest disappointment so far has been in the frosh class which has contributed very little to Intramural activities so far this fall in the number of teams entered made up of freshmen —none—and players playing. Perhaps too many of them are in the band, and can't get around. Anyway, it would be nice if some of

Scot Athletes On Road Today

Scots Drop Duel With Bucs, 27-0

The Maryville Scotties, hampered by the absence of injured fullback Harold Glad, fought hard against a rough, big team from East Tennessee State but the Buccaneers, sparked by the passing of Cecil Puckett and the hard running of Jerry Ford and Harry Secrist, rolled on to a 27-0 victory last Saturday night.

Not All Bad, Though

Th Scotties left the field with little cause to be ashamed. Held to sixteen yards in the first half, the Highlanders came back fighting in the second, and getting better as the evening passed, led the Buccaneers in every department in the fourth quarter, twice rolling deep into East Tennessee territory, to the fourteen and twenty yard lines, led by Charlie Allen's passing to Campbell, Garren, and McMahon.

The Kickoff

At precisely 8:00 p.m., co-captain Jimmy Callaway's toe drove a firm oval-shaped pig's hide to the East Tennessee ten yard line, where C. Puckett hauled it down and raced 27 yards up the middle before the Scotties broke through the ETS wall of blockers to bring him down. The Bucs lost no time in starting off rolling for four consecutive first downs, three on Puckett passes and one on a ten yard off tackle drive by Secrist. Knocking at the door with a first down on the Mayrville nine, the East Tennessee running attack met a stone wall as Secrist and Puckett combined to lose five yards. They found the stone wall built higher when Puckett's pass was intercepted by Homer Garren and returned to the nine.

Loot Hungry Pirates

Not to be denied, the Bucs came right back as Johnny Puckett and Jim Carter took turns at carrying the ball for ten yard gains, until Carter took a pitchout from Puckett and skirted left end for ten yards and a touchdown. Jim Fry, the extra-point man, immediately bustled out on the field and calmly booted a perfect placement to put the Johnson City men out in front 7-0.

Another Try

Carter then kicked off to Allen who, when three runnifg plays gained as many yards, kicked back to the Bucs, and they were off again. Puckett flipped to end Hal Morrison for twenty yards and a few minutes later, on the first play of the second quarter, hit the same man again for twenty-five yards and the second touchdown. Fry again split the uprights, and the Bucs led by fourteen. The rest of the quarter was a midfield duel with neither side mounting anything much in the line of a drive.

Round Three

It was a different Scot team that took the field for the second half. After King returned Fry's kickoff to the Maryville 32, Allen, Sharp, and Campbell carried for two rapid first downs, their first of the game, as the Scottiees began to open up their single-wing for the first time with fast sharp reverses and buck lateeral plays, The attack stalled then, but things still looked bright when Allen kicked out of bounds on the Buc 14 and an offsides penalty set them back on the nine.

Wha' Hoppon?

But lightning struck hard when Harry Secrist rambled around his own right end, cut back, picked up some interference, and aided by some fine running of his own, raced for forty-eight yards and a first down on the Maryville 40. After Johnny Puckett tried right guard for five yards, Ford carried the ball for the first time in the game and made a great success of it when he broke off left guard for thirty-five yards and a score. Fry again converted.

After the kickoff, the Scots took to the air and were momentarily successful when Allen hit Jim Campbell for a first down, but the Scot wings were smothered when Hall intercepted, and that man again, Ford made it two for two when he dashed thirty yards in a fine, twisting run to score. Fry again trotted out, but something in the machine neeeded oiling when his boot went wide.

Never Say Die

The Scotties came to life then, as they rolled for four straight first downs and chewed their way to the enemy fourteen. It was covered by Harry Robinson, he spotted Holsinger by himself on the goal line, and that was the game.

Storybook Finish

Perhaps the most dramatic play of the year came in the game between Y and the Deep South. When the game ended in a tie the two teams began their four play playoffs, and Deep South found themselves losing yardage. On last down, and with twenty yards to get back to the original line of scrimmage, Gene Parks faded deep and threw a pass as far as he could, and where it came down was end Jon Hale to catch it and race down the field for a touchdown and victory.

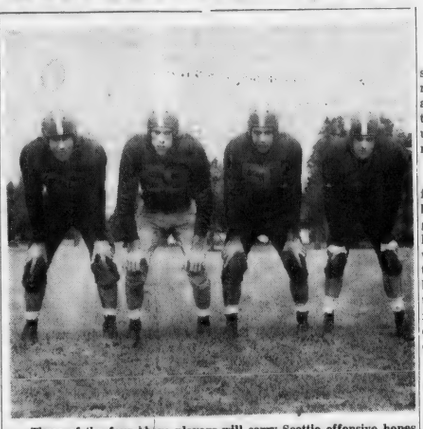
And Now . . .

There is one more football game to which everyone is invited, the All-Star team will meet the league's champs, YMCA, Tuesday night under the lights, and thee gam will be followed by the season's first soccer game, between the A.S. Scottiees and United Nations, two of last year's teams.



The All Stars

Because of several ties in the voting, there will be thirteen men on this year's squad instead of ten. They are Horace Beckwith, Dick Ericson, Ken Hammond, and Herb White, of the Alpha Sigma Scotties, Tom Fairhurst, Jim Darroch, and A. C. McWilliams of the Pre-Mins; Jim Wiley, Jon Hale, and Gene Parks of Deep South; Howard Gress, Guy Sneed and Clyde McCampbell of the Shudas.

In the Gold tournament conducted two weeks ago over the Hill Course, Tom Cramer won Medal play with a scintillating 39 for nin holes while Gene Parks won the Driving contest with a 195 yard blast. Parks was second

Y Takes Championship

YMCA took its second straight championship Wednesday afternoon by topping Pre-Min, 6-0, from Al Springfield to Chuck Holsinger. Except for this one play, the entire game was tight and close with neither team being able to mount any real scoring threats, although Y drove deep into enemy territory on several occasions, only to be thwarted by the Minnie defense. On the other hand, the Minnies found it hard to move against the big Y forward wall, as Moose Boyd and Al Springfield steadily broke up all the runs that came their way and badly rushed the Min's passer, Tom Fairhurst. Y's big break came when Springfield recoveered a fumbleed punt. A fw plays later, Y tried their favorite Godwin-to-Springfield-to-Short pass play, but when Springfield found Short

Allen in the air that did it as he passed to Squires who lateraled to Frank Garren for the first down. Then Bert McMahon leaped high into the air to snare another for twelve and a second chain mover. It was Garren's turn to grab one then, this time for 14 yards. The reverses carried for fourteen yards in two plays and the Scotties had a first down on the 18. It went for naught, though, as two passes fell incomplete.

It was a rough, hard-fought game with tempers beginning to rise late in the game and some hard feeling, but there were only two penalties in the entire game and they were for offsides.

Footballers Play Wasps This Afternoon While Hill n' Dalers Go Against Bryan

Maryville Scotties supporters saw their team off yesterday morning as th MC gridsters took a bus to Emory, Virginia, where they will play Emory & Henry's unbeaten Blue Wasps this afternoon.

More Vets Than Neeeded

The Scots—definite underdogs for today's fray—will be out to break a losing streak which has gone to 17 games but it doesn't look like the game. The Wasps will be fielding a power-backed team that has lost little from its bowl team of two years ago. In that 1949 season they went undefeated and wound up in a couple of bowls including the Tangerine one in Orlando, Fla., to which the Scots had been three years previously. Last year, they dropped but one and that in a one point upset in which their kicker Bob Cubine missed an extra point placement against the Quakers of Guilford College a la Hiwassee. But in the MC Homecoming game, Cubine split the bars eight for eight—even if he didn't have to.

All Over The Field

Using a Split T offense, Coach Conley Snidow will depend mainly or rather confidently on the four strong legs of Bob Miller, two-time Little All American, Tom Kellerman, Creed Bruce, Wallace Edens, and Chick Davis, a superlative quarterback and passer. The Wasps will also be strong in their line too with Jim Fry, Jim Neblett, Jim Rasnick, a transfer from Hiwassee, John Yeago, Jack Bentley, Toby Lethco, and Roy Miller, a fair-to-middli' line backer.

Ill In More Ways

Maryville which has had several men recuperating for the past week will take a squad of 30 men along. Coaches Lombe S. Honaker and John Davis are hoping that Homer Garren, Wes Kinser and Bob Davis, will be well knit for today's game—the fiftenth in a series which began in 1916 of which the Scots have won nine.

The game will not be broadcast Harold Glad and Jimmy McBrayer, whose injuries haven't healed, did not make the trip. this afternoon but may be by tape recording later, because of a lack of telephone facilities out of Abingdon where the game will be played.

MC Thinlies Run Maycomber & Co.

This afternoon, the Maryville hill-and-dalers journey to Dayton, Tennessee where they will meet William Jennings Bryan University. The Scot runners beat the Bryanites twice last year by identical scores of 23-38. The winner of both meets, Randy Maycumber, is running again for Bryan along with most of his other team mates. Following today's meet a return match with Tennessee on Thursday in Knoxville. In the season's first match between the two squads, the Vols triumphed 15-48.

In order to fill up the two week's layoff from the first UT race, the Scott thinlies had an intra-squad meet last Saturday. The Orange team, composed of Kerr, Klly, Rodgers and McMillan defeated the Garnet team, made up of Day, Pearson, Helwig, McCulloch and Brooks. The score was Orange, 25, Garnet, 30. Kerr of the Orang team crossed the finish line first with a time of 24:30 over the 4:2 mile course. Expected to go on today's meet are Tom Kelly, Kerr, George Day, Neale Pearson, Ric Rogers, Dave Helwig and Al McCulloch.

Centre Colonels Use Penalties To Defeat Highlanders, 13-6

A recurrence of the opening game with Hiwassee was duplicated on the same gridiron some two weeks later as the Scotties went down before the playing of Centre College's Colonels, 13-6. Save for two moments when 15 yard penalties were assessed against the Scots in the third and fourth cantos. MC consistently out played the visitors from Danville. Sporting a line that averaged around 200 pounds at the game's outset, the Scots held the Colonels to within the thirties for the whole first half but likewise they could ground out any yardage themselves.

Control Yourself

Following halftime, Coach William Crabtree's forces began utilizing the power plays by Steve Hogg and Carrol Holmes off the Split T to move on down to the 41 from when a 15 yard penalty on third down advanced them to the 26. On four more tries they managed to eke out another first down but wre aided considerably by the first of three MC fifteen yard penalties which put the ball down on the one. Two plays later Tip Evans crashed over on a sneak and Automatic Jim Cain added the point to give Centre a 7-0 lead.

After an exchange of fumbles, MC recovered one of Evans' pitchouts to Elvin Smith and started goalward but not by the usual way. MC moved into Colonel territory but Allen had to kick and in so doing Hogg fumbled the catch and Frank Garren recovered on the ten. Sharp then hit the right side of the line three times the last time going over his own tackle for the score. Callaway's placement was wide but MC was still in the game.

Just Like John!

Hogg took Callaway's kickoff and returned it to the 22 from where the Cntre eleven seemingly started on another scoring drive with Holmes going through the line and Vandermeer through the air. The Colonels moved on down to the 12 when the third or at the camp ground located where Mr. Hyden now lives. Usually at the closing exercises the graduating class, with the help of the ladies, would fit up the old stone church in a becoming style. Generally at this time the two societies would close the exercises with a debate; this debate was at night, and at that time we had no electric lights, no gas lights, not even coal-oil lamps; in fact nothing ordinarily but home-made tallow candles; but on these grand occasions we would send to Knoxville and get a lot of sperm candles, and it took a lot of them, you may be sure, to light up the large old church. A large home-made chandelier was hung in the center and filled with these candles and festooned in beautiful style. On these occasions the old church, which would seat some fifteen to eighteen hundred people—was usually packed to its utmost capacity. Sometimes at the close of the year, in place of a debate, the societies would get up an exhibition, and when this was the case the old camp-ground shed would be brought into requisition, and I do not think I exaggerate when I say that there were sometimes from 2,500 to 3,000 persons gathered to witness these plays."

In 1857, a few years after his graduation, Gillespy went to Talladega, Alabama, where he joined a mercantile firm. In April 1861, he married Laura C. Knox. Here in this Alabama community a career of usfulness was opening for him when war came. He was mustered into the Confederate Cavalry in July, 1861, as part of General Joe Wheeler's original cavalry company. From that time until Wheeler's surrender at Greensboro, N.C. in 1865 he was in active service. This service included action at Corinth, at the Battle of Shiloh, and in other campaigns. His battle comrades testified to his fine soldiership and to his strong exemplary living under conditions of great stress and difficulty.

After the war he was back in business in Talladega, where he remained until he retired some 15 years before his death. These years of retirement he spent in Knoxville with much time spent in his beloved mountains. He died in 1909 at the age of eighty and was buried from the church in Talladega which he had served as an elder for many years. All the records of his life refer to his positive Christian influence.

He had ten children, four of whom are still living. Four of Gillespy's nieces, Mrs. Ellen Waters, Miss Lucy Gillespy, Mrs. Mary Dickerson, and Mrs. Nona Walters live on High Street in Maryville. A visit to their home is as good as a history lesson for those ladies lived through many of the interesting events of which they tell.

James Gillespy's diploma, a symbol of his achievement in one of the earlier institutions established for the purpose of giving higher education to those who desired it, can be seen in the Lamar Memorial Library by the students of 1951—who also strive for a degree in the field of higher education. Maryville College is greatly indebted to the members of the family of Mr. James Gillspy, who so graciously gave this valuable document to their father's alma mater.

Congratulations go to the YMCA team which won the touch football championship game from the Pre-Mins and congratulations also go to the Minnies who really pulled themselves up in second half play to go undefeated and then give Y a real tussle in the playoffs. Tuesday nights' all Star-YMCA Game should be a real thriller whn eBen Olsen's United Nation's Team and the Alpha Sigma Scotties should give a very interesting demonstration of soccer as played Maryville College version—in spite of MC's size, Coach Ken Johnson, Intramural baldomo, thinks we could field a team that could wallop almost any aggregation gathered in this part of the country. Maybe so. Anyhow, grab a blanket, a couple of hot dogs and come out to the football field Tuesday night at 7:15, It's Free!

quarter neded but were only stopped afteer Grant Sharp made a great save when Vandermeer connected with Gillenwater for a 41 yard toss. Vandermeer and Rice tried two smashes at the line but could pick up only four. Two passes were ineffective and so MC took over.

Another Penalty!

After making a first down with an Allen fake-kick and pass play to Frank Garren good for 24, the Scottie attack was squelched and Allen quick-kicked for 52 yards. Centre quickly came back and using Holmes, Vandermeer, Hogg, and Cain, moved on down to the 28 where Hogg was stopped two downs. But another penalty for fifteen yards came up and Vandermeer's cut loose with a pass to Gillenwater in the left flats which was good for 15 yards and a score. Cain came in and kicked the point but this was the ball game and all MC could do was to fire two passes before they lost the ball on an interception by Cocanougher.

Dr. Eugene Blake Speaks At Founders' Day Service; Parade, Game Highlight Homecoming Ceremonies

Beryl Stewart Elected Queen

Alumni Plan Barbecue

By Dorothy Greenhagen

The ninth annual Founders' Day service will begin at 9:45 a. m. this mornjng, with a Founders Day address given by Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, Pa. Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd will introduce the speaker and Dean Frank McClelland and Dr. Edwin R. Hunter will also participate in the service.

Dr. Blake is a graduate of Princeton University and Princeton Theological Seminary. He studied for a year at Edinburg University, taught for a year at Forman Christian College in Lahore, India, and was assistant minister for three years at St. Nicholas Collegiate Church, New York City.

Just recently was Dr. Blake elected Stated Clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, USA.

The sermon topic for the Saturday morning service is, "The Timbers are Sagging."

Dr. J. R. Wakins, class of '23, from Loudon, is president of the Alumni Association and as their officer will crown the Homecoming queen and welcome all visiting alumni at the football game.

David L. McArthur, class of '36 and vice-president of the Alumni Association, is in charge of publicity.

Mrs. Ernest Taylor is chairman of the Serving committee. Dr. Wilbur Johnson, with the aid of Susan Ware, is chairman of the food committee.

Visiting alumni, who will make the Student Center their head quarters, are invited to a barbecue to be held at 5:45 p.m. at the baseball field. The queen, her escort and court will be the guests of the Alumni Association.

A homecoming parade sponsored by the pep committee will leave from South Gate at 3:00. Along with 13 floats and the college band, the parade will include the band from Everett High School and possibly from Alcoa High School.

The floats and chariman of arrangements for each dorm and club are Baldwin Hall, Pat Halstead; Pearsons Hall, Karale Kapp and Shirley Atwell; Memorial Hall, Tish Buchanan; Athenian, George Day; Alpha Sig, Horace Beckwith; Theta Epsilon, Janice Woods; Bainonian, Barbara Miller, and Grace Osborn; Vesper Choir, Bob Lehr; Student Vols, Joanne Platt; Spanish Club, Dick Kerr; Business Club, Newell Witherspoon and Bob Lynn; F.T.A., Martha Joy Coiles; Playhouse, Joe Stater; Carnegie, Ken Wilkenson.

Later Saturday afternoon there will be a dorm judging contest. Three prominent campus personalities will be the judges.

In charge of all arrangemnts are Branin Boyd, chairman of the pep committee, Neale Pearson, in charge of bands, and other interested parties.

The evening will be climaxed by a football game with MC's biggest rivals, Carson-Newman

Harter Announces 'Messiah' Soloists

The results of voice try-outs for solos in the 1951 presentation of Handel's "Messiah" have been released by Harry H. Harter, assistant professor of music.

Helen E. Seay, sophomore religious education major from Irvington, N.J., will sing the recitatives "And Lo the Angel of the Lord Came Upon Them" and "Suddenly There Was With the Angel". Barbara L. Brown, freshman, voice major from Maryville, will sing recitatives "There Were Shepherds Abiding In the Field" and "And the Angel Said Unto Them".

The air, "I Know That My Reedemer Liveth," will be sung by Margaret Ann Warren, senior sociology major from Selma, Ala., and "Come Unto Him", by Sheila Sutton, freshman music major from Shadbourn, N. C.

Rosalie Munson, senior voice major from Rochester, N.Y., will sing the air, "If God Be For Us, Who Can Be Against Us?" Junior sociology major, Betty Hammers, from Stewartstown, Pa., will sing the recitative, "Behold a Virgin Shall Conceive" and the air, "O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings To Zion".

Nina Ruth Gillette, senior elementary education major from Vineland, N.J., will sing the recitative, "Then Shall the Eyes of the Blind Be Opened" and the air, "He Shall Feed His Flock Like a Shepherd". Louise Packard, senior French major from Hamminton, Pa., will sing "He Was Despised".

Tenor recitative, "Comfort Ye My People" and air, "Every Valley Shall Be Exhalted" will be sung by Wally Schroeder, junior psychology major from Buffalo, N.Y. Donald Brakebill, junior voice major from Rockford, will sing recitative, "Thy Rebuke Hath Broken His Heart" and air, "Behold, and See If There Be Any Sorrow".

Kenneth Shaffer, junior voice major from Philadelphia, Pa., will sing "He That Dwelleth In Heaven," a recitative, and "Thou Shalt Break Them," an air. Recitative, "Thus Saith the Lord," and air, "But Who May Abide?" will be sung by bass soloist George Howell, senior chemistry major from Maryville.

Also from Maryville, William Robinson, senior theory major, will sing three numbers including the recitatives, "For Behold, Darkness Shall Cover the Earth" and "The People That Walked In Darkness," and the air, "Why Do the Nations So Furiously Rage?"

MC Experimental Theatre Offers Two Productions

Experimental Theater will present its first productions of the year next Friday night in Bartlett Auditorium. Curtain times are set for 7:30 and 9:00.

"Marriage Proposal" by Tchekoff and "Enter the Hero" by Hillburn will be presented in the round, and will be under the direction of students in the directing class. "Marriage Proposal" is under the direction of Jerry Wheat.

"Enter the Hero" will be directed by Lou Masters, senior English major from Roseville, Mich. Kathleen Craven, associate professor of drama, is tchnical advisor of both productions.

The cast of "The Marriage Proposal" includes Bruce Heuser, freshman drama major from St. Louis, Mo., Kent Buser, sophomore English major from Conersville, Ind., and Mary Sue Munson, junior English major from Falls Church, Va.

Production committees for these presentations are ticket committee. Katherine Blackburn, Mary Sue Munson, Walt Heller, and Ken Upham; lighting committee: Dave Ramsey, Austin Van Pelt, Walt Heller, and Dean Allison.

Costumes: Ann Buckley, Gaylia Parrish, Barbara Chubb, Nancy Florence, and Sarah Pledger; properties: Grace Osborn, Vivian MacDonald, Mary Sue Munson, and Ann Kirkpatrick.

The plot of the "Enter the Hero" involves a young girl, Ann, who has fallen in love with a casual acquaintance, Harold, who is oblivious to the situation. The story becomes involved when a series of fictious letters are produced which are confusing to Harold, but perfectly clear to Ann. Her explanation of the letters provides a surprising climax to the semi-tragic affair.

"The Marriage Proposal," following a different vein, present a comic version of a Russian marriage proposal. Lomov, the young suiter, asks Tschubukov for the hand of his daughter, Natalie. Tuschubukov is willing, but when Lomov tries to amour Natalie, complications set in. The confussion that follows provides an entertaining bit of light comedy.

As in the past, Experimental Theatre is to provide experience for students interested in drama work. No admission will be charged, but seat reservations will be available during the coming week.

To provide adequate seating for all, students and faculty are urged by the ticket committee to make reservations early as possible.

Athenians To Elect

Athenian society will meet today at 6:45 p.m. in Bartlett Hall. The purpose of the meeting is to elect girls for the Athenian-Bainonian calendar.

Hoover At Disc Club

Disc Club will meet Thursday evening, November 1, at 6:45 p. m. in the lounge of the Fine Arts Center. Herebrt Hoover will comment on aria in opera.

Vespers Commemorates Psalter Anniversary; Dr. Buchanan Preaches

The college will commemorate the 400th anniversary of the Genevan Psalter at vespers tomorrow, which is Reformation Sunday. The service will be led by Dr. J. D. Buchanan, who will speak on the subject, "The Genevan Psalter: Its Story and Its Significance."

Katherine Davies and Curtis Hughes will open the program with a two piano arrangement of Purcell's "Voluntary on the 100th Psalm" and McKay's "Psalm 6." Scripture, responsive readings, and prayers will be taken from the book of Psalms, and music will be based for the most part on the Genevan Psalter.

Numbers by the Vesper Choir, under direction of Harry H. Harter, will include Bourgeois' "All People That On Earth Do Dwell." "L'Omnipotent," the Nunc dimittis, "O Gladsome Light," "The Lord Is My Shepherd," and "My Spirit On thy Care."

The Genevan, or Old French, Psalter is the first and greatest of the psalters used in the reformed church. Originally the French translation of the Psalms by the poet Marot, set to music by Louis Bourgeois, the Psalter has been translated into practically all the languages of Europe and the Orient.

The Scotch and English psalters brought to America by the early pioneers had borrowed to a great extent from the Genevan Psalter, and had an important influence on the early colonists.

Dancing Classes Begin

Dancing classes are now being conducted every Tuesday night in the Intramural gym. Instruction is being given in ballroom dancing, jitter-bugging, the polka, and other steps.

Instructors are Bill Stein, Marie Richards and Isabel Litch.

Lillian Rivera Brings Spanish Touch To MC

By Joan Frei

Another freshman newcomer to Maryville is Lillian Rivera, better known to most of us as the little senorita with dark eyes, a gay smile, and a slight Spanish accent.

Lillian's home is in San Juan, the capitol of Puerto Rico. She attended a large high school there, where classes were held in both English and Spanish. Since she knows English so well, the language presents no difficulty to Lillian here.

Her major is pre-med, but she is undecided as to whether she will return to Puerto Rico or stay here when she finally finishes school. "Any place they need doctors," she observes.

This summer was Lillian's first trip to the States. She flew to New York alone, and then her father joined here there. The most surprising thing about it to her was the fact that it was so little different from Puerto Rico. She hadn't realized that there were so many trees here, or that it could get so hot. She was also impressed with the friendliness of the people. Life in Puerto Rico is very much like it is here, except that "They are always in a rush there."

Lillian first heard about Maryville through a friend, Violeta Gomez, who came here four or five years ago. She seems to like Maryville, and she says, "Even the rules are good." She finds that the teachers and upperclassmen are always glad to help out the freshmen.

In Puerto Rico the favorite sports are basketball and baseball, along with tennis and soccer. Football was a new experience for Lillian, who had never seen a game before coming here. Another popular activity is dancing. When we think of Latin American music, it is usually the rumba that first comes to mind, but its place is now being taken by the mambo. The mambo is a new kind of music which has a very different rhythm.

We are likely to forget that Puerto Rico is actually a part of the United States, and has a governor and legislature just as we do here. Next year they will hold an election to vote on a new constitution. Puerto Rico is an island, the smallest of the Big Antilles. Also inlcuded are some little islands nearby, one of which, the Island of Monkies, is covered with wild monkies.

Puerto Rico has many beautiful trees and flowers, and good beaches. New and modern buildings are springing up. It is becoming a popular tourist resort, especially since the people are

C-N Game November 10 Opened To MC Students

Classes Sponsor Hallowe'en Parties

The Junior class is sponsoring its annual horror play on Hallowe'en night at 9:45 p.m. in Alumni Gym. The author of this year's play, "The Mummy's Case" is Art Van Alstyne.

"The Mummy's Case," which is to be directed by Van Alstyne and Austin Van Pelt, has its setting in the Egyptian Room of the Greenback Municipal Museum. The plot centers around the search for a valuable ruby in the coffin of an Egyptian king, which has been brought to this country by a Dr. Condor. The mummy which inhabits the coffin becomes resentful and provides mystery and suspense.

The characters are the Mummy, Herschel Mosier; Agatha, Shirley Postlethwaite; Meshack, Arnold Munn; Boris, Lee Cook; Zora, Ruth Burgoss; Dr. Condor, Dick Dart; Baxter, Joe Stater; Mike, Bill Green; Joe, Bob Navratil; Lois, Isabel Leitch; Ralph, Bruce Miller; and a teacher and a body, two faculty members.

Jay Spencer is in charge of properties and Van Alstyne will handle the special effects.

Each class will hold its own Hallowe'en party earlier in the evening and then adjourn to the Horror show at 9:45.

The Freshman class will hold its party at 7:30 in the intramural gym. The evening's program will feature a variety show. There will also be group games and refreshments. Bill Breen is general chairman for this party.

The Sophomore class will sponsor a hobo party at 7 p.m. on the baseball field. Everyone is to dress as a hobo and during the course of the evening the King and Queen of the Hobos will be crowned. Refreshments will also be served.

The Junior class party under the direction of Isabel Leitch and Nancy Ferguson will take place in the Alumni Gym at 7:30 p.m. The program will consist of a Spook House, variety show and square dancing. Refreshments will be served.

As is customary the Senior class will visit the parties of each of the other classes. Senior class president, Ralph Thiesse, urges that all other classes have an abundance of food on hand.

MSO Constitution Goes To Faculty

The new MSO constitution, presented to and approved by the Student Council Wednsday night, will be passed on this week to the faculty for consideration. This constitution is a revision of the one presented to the men for ratification earlier this fall.

The first revision, drawn up by a committee of Carnegie men elected to consider the power of the old constitution, was not ratified, according to Bill Morse, MSO president, because th first vote was held on too short notice and the constitution, too vaguely written, gave no assurance of complete student government.

Barnwarming Theme Kept Secret

"The 1951 Barnwarming theme is to be kept a secret until the week of November 18," Beverly Jacobi, head of the Barnwarming show has announced.

The script, which was written by Lynn Miller and Wally Schroeder, is a musical show; the story is also to be kept secret until later.

The Y.W.C.A. cabinet will appoint a committee to investigate worthy causes for which the proceeds may be given. Last year the proceeds were donated to a school in India.

Barnwarming is to be held on Thanksgiving Day, November 25, when a variety of old and new talent will be presented. All students are urged to attend, as this program promises to be one of the best programs ever presented at Barnwarming, Miss Jacobi said.

Nominations for Barnwarming king and queen will be made Thursday, November 1, and elections will be held Friday, November 2.

Ella Swift is in charge of the set and booths for Barnwarming. Katherine Blackburn is business manager. Lou Masters will direct make-up, and Brannin Boyd will have charge of lighting.

Sadie Hawkins Day Set For Nov. 3

Sadie Hawkins Day on November 3 will give Maryville College girls an opportunity to ask the guys of their choice for a date.

The theme of the annual event will be, of course, Dogpatch and Li'l Abner. Girls may buy "He's Took" signs for their dates to make it official, and will make corsages for them to wear to the program that night.

Prizes will be given for the best Li'l Abner and Daisy Mae, for the most original costume and for the "best" corsage. The skit will center around Li'l Abner and his well-known difficulties at Scalp U.

Sadie Hawkins Day is sponsored by the All-Girl Choir. Social Chairman is Ruth Ann Roach. Skit Chairman is Joanne Edwards, and Frankie McEacheran is in charge of publicity.

Glee Clubs Elect Roach, Faulkner

Betty Roach was elected president; Edith Lancaster, vice-president; Sue White, secretary-treasurer; and Ruth Roach, social chairman, at recent elections in Girls' Glee Club.

Boys' Glee Club elected Bill Faulkner president; Jim Darroch, vice-president; Jim Allison, secretary-treasurer; and Joe Stater, social chairman in their elections.

These two groups, under the direction of W. Curtis Hughes, will present theeir annual combind concert sometime in November.

Smoking Limited To Platform

By Dick Newman

The Carson-Newman game at Jefferson City on November 10 will be open to the Maryville student body it was announced at Student Council Wednesday. Charlie Allen is in charge of arrangements.

Plans for the annual trip were passed by Council, Student-Faculty Senate, and the Executive Council of the Faculty. Cost for round-trip bus transportation by Tennessee Coach will be $1.25 and the price of game tickets is $1.

Tables will be set up to make bus and game tickets available. No student tickets will be sold at the game, and they must be purchased here by Thursday, November 8.

The MC band and cheerleaders will make the trip, with all expenses paid. Each bus is to contain one chaperone and one Student Council member, it was announced.

Council voted to limit smoking to the shelter and platform by Carnegie stps, to go into effect Friday, October 26, with chapel announcements Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Council members are to enforce the new ruling, any oneone smoking outside the designated area of "the Aztec ruins" will be subject to college discipline.

Nominations from the senior class for Barnwarming King and Queen will be made a student body meeting after chapel on Thursday, November 1. The four classes will meet immediately afterwards to nominate attendants, and balloting will be conducted all day Friday.

MSO President Bill Morse read the re-vised MSO Constitution, which was passed by Council and sent on to Senate. Council President Bob Cuthill appointed a committee to investigate the revision of Town Night penalties. Tom Jones is chairman, and members are Ralph Thiesse, Nannette Enloe, and Betty Hammers.

Council's steering committee recommended that an office in the Office Annex to file records be requested. This was passed. There were no Town Night violations, and Council voted to meet next Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the Student Center.

FAC Schedules Photo Exhibition

On November 6, a photographic exhibit of the development of the theater will be shown in the Fine Arts Center, it has been announced by Charlotte Johnson, assistant professor of art.

This exhibit, put out by Life Magazine, is entitled, "From Ritual to Broadway." Miss Johnson urges all students and faculty members to visit this display, which will be here for only two weeks.

Margaret Shields McClure, senior art major; the Mesdames Waters, White, and Lingeman from the adult art class; and Miss Johnson and Malcolm Dashiell, from the faculty will exhibit at the Membr's Show that the Knoxville Artists Association is having.

Leitch To Lead Prayer

Izzy Leitch will be the leader of prayer meeting Thursday, November 1. Grace Myers will furnish special music for the service.

George Day will lead the singing, and Gloria Hineman will read the scripture.

Alpha Sigs Hear Quartet

Alpha Sigs will meet tonight at 6:10, in the Y rooms. All Alumni and present members are urged to attend. Featured on tonight's program will be the Vesper Choir Quartet of Jake Peppers, Wally and Charlie Schroeder, and Bill Diehl.

Progress Report

Two more steps towards the realization of a more satisfactory situation for Maryville's student body were taken this week. One was the extension of the Town Night sign-in time for girls to 10:25, and the other was the revising again of the MSO Constitution.

Realizing the purpose and program both of Town Night and the college, we still feel that an intelligent revision and liberalization of Town Night regulations would be wise and advisable. We believe the student body is capable of enlarged responsibility, and that a number of Town Night rules would easily lend themselves to improvement. These things, however, take much careful thought and deliberation in the light of a number of circumstances.

Good things do come slowly and their value makes the process worthwhile. Still the kind of positive action which resulted in the extension of the sign-in time is the kind necessary for the fulfillment of generally accepted wants and needs. To the students and administration responsible for the revision of the rule we express appreciation, and the trust that we will move on to even more satisfactory social regulations.

With the revising again of the MSO Constitution, we feel that the men have moved even closer to the best possible type of men's student government. Through democratic discussion meetings and the election of representatives, a form finally suitable to the men has been arrived at. While it gives the men greater freedom in the governing of their own affairs, it increaes proportionately the amount of responsibility they must assume, all the while recognizing the final authority of the college.

In every sense, we approve the new Town Night rule and the new MSO Constitution. In order that we all may be deserving of these improvements and worthy of greater changes yet to come, it is our common responsibility to make them properly work and function to the greatest possible degree.

Maryville Spirit

A friendly greeting, a big smile, and kindly words all go into what might be termed the "Maryville Spirit." This attitude of friendliness, displayed by the student-body of Maryville College toward one another and toward visitors on campus, is one that MC is noted for and it soon becomes apparent to the new students during the fall of their first semester here.

Parents, prospective students, and other visitors at Maryville usually say that one of their first impressions of the College is the spirit of friendliness that each student and faculty member seems to possess. Students are able to greet almost everybody they see by first names and even teachers find the time to say, "Hello, Joe," instead of "Hello, No. 134," as might be the case at some large university.

If you haven't quite gotten into the swing of this MC Spirit, start now to try to give everyone you meet a friendly greeting and go to work associating the faces you see everyday with the names that go with them. It can be done!

Let's keep "Friendly" as a one word description of a typical Maryville College student.

SNOP . . SNOP . . SNOP . . . ! !

Come on! Someone must know what it means. I'm almost to the point where I'll be batting my head against the cell wall.

Is it a disease? (SNOP, the mysterious bacteria which nine out of ten doctors prefer, has been discovered in grits, okra, and stuffed peppers and has been attacking Maryvillians during the past week. With the F-M ratio hitting an all time low of fifteen to one, college co-eds have organized a movement to keep said foods off the menu. However, it is all to no avail and said foods continue their grim task of depopulating MC. . .)

Could it be a cleanser? (So use SNOP. . .the foaming cleanseer . . . wash the dirt. . . right down the drain. . .! !

A face cream? (Listen gang! You too can be beautiful. Just throw away that Lava and try SNOP, America's newest beauty aid. It's guaranteed to. . . Well, it's guaranteed! !)

And so it goes. My only wish is that the originator will confess soon. Too much of this secretive business, and Kefauver will be investigating us for selling SNOP illegally!

ACCORDING TO JERRY REYNOLDS, certain members of the football team had quite an experience on their way to the Emory and Henry game last Friday. After eating dinner at Kingsport, Dick Gardner, Harry Newberry, Frank Garren, Jerry King, Dick Patton, Bob Madry, etc., happened upon a recreation (?) hall. So when Garnder challenged them to a round of checkers (?) they took him up on it and in no time were involved in the game of games.

Excitement was aroused. . . tension mounted . . .the bus left. . . WHAT? ! ! Put down the checkers boys, and put up your thumbs. This is where the fun begins.

The group hiked to the highway and proceeded to look appealing. Five rides and three hours later they staggered onto the Emory and Henry field. I'm told that Jerry King was muttering something about ". . .it's great o be back!"

Wilma Trumbull, Tish Buchanan, Barbara Newman, Barbara Butrill, Carol Cornell and Co. spent last weekend at Sewanee. It seems that the girls can't get the place out of their minds now. You've probably heard them strolling about the campus with that hungry look on their faces singing, "Sewanee . . . how we love ya'...!!"

* * * * *

I hear the Mr. Mac had quite a scare the other night. Jim Hunt had just finished a shampoo and shower when one of his friends suggested a stroll down tobacco road. Jim was worried about losing his wave so he grabbed Walt Elwood's fur cap, donned a bathrobe and headed for the exit. As he passthe office he was shocked to hear a low whisper. . . "Say! Who's the girl in the fur cap?"

* * * * *

With mid-semester grades coming out this week various freshmen are being rudely jerked into reality. But the prize story concerns the timid frosh who asked her instructor if she was getting a "D." "Why, no!" he replied. "Oh. . . how wonderful! I knew you'd see it my way and give me a 'C'." "Well, not exactly. You're getting an 'F'!" (Well, it was funny. If you could have seen the expression on his face!)

* * * * *

While I'm on the subject of freshmen. I'd better warn them now. There's a certain annual event which takes place at one of the home football games. It's known as the Freshman Foot Race. . . . a pleasant little game which gives the upper classmen a chance to extend a final welcome to all the new students. It hasn't happened yet. . . .so be prepared at the homecoming game.

Two big dates which are coming up this next week are Halloween and Sadie Hawkins Day. I'm all prepared for the former . . . got my broomstick out last night and shined her up. . . .but the latter has me slightly worried. With the ratio of the sexes being what it is I'm afraid the gals are gong to have to share and share alike.

A rumor that a genuine Sadie Hawkins race will be held has been slipping into the ranks. Neale Pear-

POPCORN CIRCUIT

Highlighting this week's entertainment at the Capitol Theater is "The Thing," appearing Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. The Thing, delivered on a flying saucer from another world is an eight feet tall, ferocious vegetable that has a bad habit of drinking blood from human bodies (living ones).

This whatcha-ma-call-it was discovered by a group of scientists and an U S. Air force crew at the North Pole. A conflict between interests of humanity and the interests of science develops when Air Force captain (Kenneth Tobey) wants to destroy the monster, where as the scientist (Robert Cornwaite) wishes to appease it in order to gain knowledge.

Contributing to this swiftmoving plot is a comely, sweater-bulging secretary (Margaret Sheridan) who is naturally predestined for the arms of the captain. All ends well in a sizzling close as man emerges triumphant over the vegetable.

For those who enjoy a real rip-roaring, bloody Western, we recommend the show on Thursday and Friday "Only the Valient," which stars Gregory Peck as a guntotin calvary captain and Barbara Payton (Franchot Tone's unclad, blonde lover who recently caused him to be bruised, mauled, and hospitalized by Tom Neal) as the essential third of a love triangle.

The love complexities are soon disposed of, however, and Peck gallops off with eight hombres, who hate Peck, themselves, and the Indiains, to protect the Fort Winston pass from an Apache onslaught. The combination of a well-written script and the intelligent acting of Gregory Peck produce a better than average western thriller.

Lst we forget, "Dracula's Daughter" will be shown at 11 p.m. on Wednesday night as a Halloween Special. Not knowing much about the details of this frightening film, we can only state that it is reportedly more blood-curdeling than Dr. Lloyd's performance of Dracula in th '49 campus horror show.

Saturday presents a real bargain at the Capitol—a double feature! Anyone who has nothing better to do might kill a few hours by seeing Rambling Rocky Lane and his noble stallion, Blue Jack, in "Night Riders of Mantana," and Constance Moore in "Stand and Sing." Anyway, a very good comedy is promised.

QUIET ZONE

Among the new books on display at the library this week are several Public Affairs Pamphlets. Particularly interesting are "Alcoholism Is A Sickness" by Herbert Yahroes and "How To Be a Good Mother-in-law and Grandmother" by Edith G. Neisser.

Of course the alcoholic problem is a non-entity here at Maryville College but it is something which evryone should vicariously know about. Handling alcoholism as a definite sickness, Yahroes discusses the nature, effects, and treatment of the disease, and concludes that little progress has been made in the prevention of alcoholism because there is no way to be certain what particular drinkers, under different conditions, will or will not become alcoholics. He also states that "It is Utopian to think that the social problem can be solved simply by hoping hat people won't use it".

Edith G. Neisser in her pamphlet points out the delicate situation of being a grandmother or a mother-in-law. She asserts that they are not doomed to the roles of old fogies or dreaded battle axes, but, by employing tact, remaining mentally young, and developing new interests, even their families will begin to tolerate them.

For Dr. Hunter's little proteges and all others who enjoy good poetry, the "Complete Poems of Robert Frost" is now available. This book is ample evidence why Frost is considered one of the foremost poets of this century.

Football enthusiasts, particularly Single Wing followers, should not overlook "Modern Single Wing Football" by Charles W. Caldwell, coach of the 1950 Princeton Ivy League champion football team. Caldwell thoroughly covers the technical aspects of this football system which he teaches at Princeton and which is employed by such notable teams as the Tennessee Vols and the Maryville Highlanders.

Sports Echoes

By Neal Pearson

●TODAY IS A BIG DAY IN MARYVILLE COLLEGE History for we feel that Scotties' athletic teams are going to make their first double sweep of a pair of athletic events in one 24-hour period since 1949 when the Thinlies upset UT's mighty Vols, 20-39, and then on the following evening the Scots upset, 20-19, a favored East Tennessee State Buc team. And speaking of one-point upsets, the Scot's pulled a one-point win last Saturday when in travelling to William Jennings Bryan, they eked out a 28-29 win over the Bryan thinlies. With the Preacher's Randy (Cu-) Maycumber, Goling and Dick Malone setting a fast pace, it was some two miles after the race's start before the Orange and Garnet thinlies even had a chance. Such was the altitude and sloping of the cow pastures over the Bryan course, that we are afraid Mr. Alf Holmberg would have to take up his lumps in competion with Maycumber and Goling. It was the toughest course say MC vets Kelly, Day, and Rogers they have run in four years at Maryville College.

The other note of satisfaction coming from that meet was the sportsmanship and courtesy shown by the Bryan team and student body. We have yet to see a bunch of boys turn over their rooms to an opposing school's athletes as did the Dayton, Tennessee, collegians, and the cheers for MC by the Bryan student body were something good to hear, also. We hope that at today's Sewannee meet and the other meets forthcoming that MC students will reciprocate the courtesies shown—it sure does not hurt the sport and the feelings between the school.

Though MC has no official Cross Country scouts, "socialites" Tish Buchanan and a gang who were "cutting the rug" down at Sewannee last week-end report that the Purple and White are out to get MC this week-end. With the Episcopalian's throwing a big Homecoming dance following thir game with , the MC fems found their way into the ladies' powder room—which at other times is the Sewanee locker room—and noticed several seemingly out-of-place signs on the wall. They didn't say: "Please deposit all trash in the cans provided therewith" but shouted bodly forth, "Beat Maryville." From the reports thusly received, it seems that the Tigers are out for blood. Having failed to defeat the Scot thinlies in three years and six meets, the Sewanee harriers are seemingly going to make this their meet of the year. It will be the same way for Carson-Newman but the Sewanee team will have a greater handicap to overcome. Their best runner, Art Perkins dropped out of school because he felt he was accomplishing nothing—only being the best runner Sewanne ever had and perhaps the best in the state and also being the student with the highest marks in school—a measly 98. However, the Tigers will have some depth and should give the Scots a fit in the meet which will follow the homecoming parade.

●YOU BOOKIES CAN THROW YOUR BOOKS out the window for the football game tonight because nothing is going to be held under the wraps. If any two schools ever wanted to win a game, C-N and MC are the ones. Tonight's game which is the 27th in a series that goes back to 1903 will see the Scots not only out to win number eighteen of that series but also to break their losing streak which has run to that number also. The Eagles will be out to win that game because if they do, they can consider their season a success though they defeated Union two weeks ago, 34-6.

Though new students may not see him, nor have not heard of him, oldtimers around the Hill may be looking forward to the meeting of minds between Frosty Holt and MC Coach Honaker. Though the Eagles' ex-mentor hit the boneyard some two years ago, we expect him to make his presence known tonight in an effort to get back at his old nemesis MC's Coach Honaker. Though J. S. Stafford has taken over the Eagles and done a creditable job with them—winning two of three from Maryville—the frosty old Frosty is still a reminder to many of Carson-Newman football.

Be that as it may, the Holt tradition lives on for Frosty's heir, Bill, is a quarterback on the Eagle eleven and may see some action. Biggest men the Scotties will have to worry about are John Jollife and J. D. Price. Jolliffee, a substitute, was the Eagle's best man in last year's 28-6 C-N win, especially on an optional-keep-or pitch-out from Quarterback Pat Evans around end. Also dangerous were Carl Roberts, Billie Bales, and Bill Jennings, though the latter has now gone.

However, MC's big advantage will lie in the fact that Carson-Newman has never been able to solve MC's end run-plays nor could it stop last year the plunging of Harold Glad who came into his own in the MC-CN game.

MC's other advantage may lie in the fact that Maryville finally has the semblance of a passing attack as was shown in the Emory and Henry game. The Scots gained some 127 yards through the air, the greatest via the aerial route since the opening 1948 game with Hiwassee which was a 32-0 win for the Scots. The rest of the time, it has been hovering around the 70-80 mark. As it was last year, the Scots completed two out of eight passes against C-N for 29 yards and had three intercepted—said interceptions giving one Charles Allen the title of "Reverend" for his gifted missionary work to the Eagles.

With a ground attack that is much smoother than it was at the first of the season, the Scots have much more reason to pull an upset though they almost did last year in the game with the Orange and Blue.

Floundering around with the T, the Scots switched to the "ancient out-moded" formation five days before the C-N game and subsequently played their best ball game of the year for three quarters before folding. We think that this year's squad is much better in

Scots Meet Sewanee, Carson-Newman Today

MC Harriers Race Tiger Thinlies At 4

MC Beats Bryan, 28-29

Today the University of the South, or Sewannee as it is commonly known, sends its cross country team to Maryville for a meet with the Scots at 4 o'clock. The Tigers will be without their star runner, Art Perkins, though, who placed first in both Sewannee-MC meets last year. Nevertheless the Purple and White has a veteran team based around Elliot Puckett, Bill Pilcher, Bill Stewart, Dick Hogan, and Henry Harris. In last year's meets, MC won from Sewannee by scores of 20-41, and 24-32. In all the previous meets the Scots have run against the Tigers, they have silenced the Tigers' roar but will have a tough time this afternoon. Searching for victory for the Scots will be Dick Kerr, Neale Pearson, Tom Kelly, George Day, and Ric Rogers, in the forefront and Dave Helwig and Rod McMillan filling up the middle.

Win Number One

Last Saturday, the Scots won their first meet of the season at the expense of William Jennings Bryan, 28-29, on the latter's course. Although Bryan's Handy Maycumber and Harry Goling led the runner's across the finish line one-two, MC came back to win by placing George Day and Dick Kerr in the third and fourth spots. The Bryanties Dick Malone had gained fifth and only a sweep of the sixth-to-ninth positions enabled the Highlander Harrier's to win.

Results of the meet were Maycumber (B) in a time of 20:57 for the 3.7 mile course; Goling, (B), Day (M), Kerr (M), Malone (B), Kelly (M), Rogers (M), Helwig (M), Pearson (M), Walker (B), Koontz (B), and McCulloch (M).

Well, We Tried

Tuesday, the Scot thinlies lost a return match with Tennessee by a 15-40. After lagging behind to help pull the rest of his runners up, John Trent of the Vols pulled ahead to win the 4.2 mile race with a time of 23:4. Dick Kerr of the Scots put up a good fight for some three miles but the Orange and White front-runners were too much for him and he finished fifth. Results of the race were Trent (UT), 23:4; Kuykendah (T), Waits (T), Gamble (T), Kidwell (T), Kerr (M), Pearson (M), Kelly (M), Rogers (M), and Day (M).

Wasps Sting Scots On Miller's Play

EMORY & HENRY TRIUMPHS, 38-12

After looking somewhat sluggish during the first half of play, Emory & Henry's Blue Wasps came back in second and third quarter flurries to score five touchdowns and rack up a 38-12 victory over the Scots. The Wasps took Jimmy Callaway's kickoff and behind the carrying of Creed Bruce and Harry Saltz, moved the ball down to the MC 27 but on two pitchout plays, Little All-American Bob Miller and Saltz were thrown for losses on pitchouts from Chick Davis. Miller punted out of bounds on the 16 and MC took over. Charlie Allen gained one on his first play from scrimmage but fumbled and Carl Linkous recovered for the Wasps on the nine. After three line plays failed, Davis hit Miller in the left flats for a TD. Pat Spurgeon's try for the point was made.

Unlucky Thirteen

After both sides exchanged possession of the pigskin, Emory's Brookman intercepted an Allen-fake-punt-pass and ran to the MC 25. With the quarter ending Davis gained nine on a sneak and Bruce hit for six to the ten from when Miller took it over two plays later and Spurgeon converted to make it 13-0.

MC got the ball and following a reverse by Campbell which failed to gain, quick-kicked to the E. & H. 36. Following two smashes by Saltz and Bruce plus a sneak by Davis good for a first down, Bruce went off his left tackel for 47 yards and a touchdown behind good blocking. Spurgeon's attempted placement was partially blocked and the score then read 19-0.

"From Me To You"

With Saltz now directing a second-string backfield, the Wasps were hard-pressed to get anywhere and with some four minutes to go in the quarter, lost possession of the ball when Jerry King held on to a bobbling pass defleted off Linkhous' arms. With Allen hitting the ends and completing a 41-yard pass to Jimmy Campbell on the Emory 24, the Scots began to move for a score, Campbell and Allen lost on an end run and reverse but Allen hit Bob Davis on the ten for a first down. Grant Sharp, filling in admirably for the injured Harold Glad, hit for three to the seven, Allen moved it down to the six and Campbell swung around left end on a reverse to score.

Jimmy Callaway's kick for the point failed and the clock ran out five plays later with Bob Madry being hurt for the second time and Emory getting a 25-yard penalty for clipping in the process.

Not Again

Coach Conley Snidow put his first string pony-backs in to open the second half and as soon as they got the ball they started a 79 yard scoring drive which ended in Miller's going over the final two yards. Biggest ground gainer in the march was Miller who threw in a 40-yard run to the 30 from his own 30 and who cracked the MC defense for 34 more on a fake-punt-and run down to the seven following a penalty imposed on the Blue and Yellow. Spurgeon converted and Emory kicked off to the Highlanders who couldn't move the ball. Emory and Henry moved on down to the 41 and Bob Howatt who had dropped a Davis pass previously while alone by himself in the end zone

Y Wins All-Star Game, 13-0

YMCA won the annual All-Star game Tuesday evening under the lights in defeating the All-Stars, 13-0. The game was strictly a defensive one save for several moments when each team mustered a scoring drive—YMCA to score on both of hers and the All-Stars to fizlze out within spitting distance of the goal line.

Y received the kickoff and with the ball on the 37 yard line and scored on 2nd down, Kent Buser took off around his own left end to go 63 yards for the score on a bit of fancy side-line stepping and receiving some good blocks in the process. The only man to get near the hustling Buser was Tom Fairhurst of Pre-Mins who almost but quite did not get him. The try for point was missed and the All Stars took over to monopolize play for the remainder of the half.

Almost . . .

With Horace Beckwith completing passes to A. C. McWilliams, Clyde McCampbell, and Guy Sneed, the All-Stars marched deep into Y territory twice but were stopped by a gallant Y forward wall—the second time, Y being aided by a 15-yard penalty against the All-Stars who were guilty of using their hands illegally on offense when the All Stars were down on the two.

YM Charges Hard

Following a short intermission, Sonny Short kicked off to the All Stars who received but could not move the ball past midfield. Y found herself likewise unluckily and nothing was of consequence till with a minute to go in the third quarter when Howard Gress returned a Short-punt 17 yards to the Y 40 and Beckwith fired a pass to Jon Hall good for 21 yards down to the 29. Beckwith hit the middle on a delayed buck for nine and fired a pass to Gress on the five but at that point the All-Star attack was halted again by the Y's rushing line of Van Hassel,, Springfield, and Branin Boyd.

After an exchange of kicks, Boyd latched on to a bobbling All Star pass and Y marched some 65 yards for the games final TD. Chuck Holsinger was the big star on this series of downs as he advanced the ball into All Star territory on a reverse and an endsweep down to the 40. Following Thad Godwin's catch of a pass good to the 28, Short spotted Al Springfield in the end zone and hit him with a 28-yarder good for a TD. The catch was made much more exceptional by the fact that he had to leap high into the air to get it away from Dick Erickson's outstretched arms. Short then connected with Springfield with a quick pass over center and that was the ball game.

SCOT GRIDSTERS OUT TO GET EAGLES

On Founders Day, 1951, the Maryville Scotties will take to the gridiron at 8:00 p.m., in a determined effort to found a new winning era at Maryville College, and it looks as if they have the team that can do it. The Scotties will take on the Carson-Newman Eagles for the first of two times this year, and from such indecisive things as comparative scores, and a number of personal opinions, it seems that the teams will be about evenly matched, with the edge, if there is one, going to the Scotties.

The Eagles dropped their opener to the last team Maryville beat, Middle Tennessee State by the score of 38-0, but beat Union 34-0. With the two common opponents, Emory-Henry and East Tennssee State, Carson-Newman dropped both to the tunes of 21-6, and 33-2 respectively.

The Standings

As the teams take the field, the Scotties hold a firm edge over their arch rivals from Jefferson City as far as history is concerned. With the two schools having met twenty-eight times since they first played in 1903, the Highlanders have won eighteen times as against only nine for the Orange and Blue, with one game ending in a 7-7 tie. Last year's game was a victory for Carson-Newman, and they did play well and hard, but all who saw the game could not help but feel that the Scotties could have won the game, for with just a few seconds left in the first half and trailing by one point, 7-6, the Highlanders drove to a first down on the Carson-Newman 19 yard line. On the next play, Charlie Allen took a pitchout on a buck lateral and drove to the ten, but as the Scotties came out of the huddle, the half ended. After the intermission, the Maryville men couldn't seem to mount a continued offensive, and finally wore out in the last period when the Eagles scored twenty-one points to ice the game.

But This Year

Returning for the glory of Carson-Newman this year are fifteen lettermen under the guidance of head coach T. J. Stafford, who is retiring at the end of the season, and Assistant Coach Harmon, who will take Stafford's place. Besides the lettermen, Stafford and Harmon have 21 other men back, and fifteen new Frosh. Back at the end are Trudiey Carr, 188 pound Junior, and Earl Ogle, a 155 pound senior from Sevierville. The help these out are Jerry Ratcliff, Tom Northern, Dick Cheatham, and Hugh Peacock. Only two letterman tackles returned this year for the Eagles, John Lambert and Sanford Gray, a pair of 190 pounders, but Arnold McReynolds, a transfered student from William and Mary, is seeing a lot of action in the line. The Orange and Blue are strong at the guard positions, both on paper, and, according to those who have seen them play, and on the field. Leading the pack is "Nig" Henson, a rough, tough hombre from Knoxville who weighs in at 177. Following him are lettermen James Chesney, Vernon Jenkins, and Cleve Compton, all of whom are nothing to be ashamed of. The center slot seems to have given Coach Stafford a little trouble this year, since he switched veteran fullback John Jolliffe to that position at the start of the year, but now has switched him back again and given the starting nod to Dave Smith, a 179 pound Freshman who played with Central High of Knoxville last year. In the backfield, the Eagles are fairly well off with "Jarrin" John Joliffe back, and with Hubert Ashe, the fine halfback, still only a Junior. As he has had a battered leg this season, though, and may not see a great deal of action carrying the ball, although the bad leg isn't the one he kicks with, and he can really kick. Also back are Smith, Aycock, Conner, and Evans, to give the "T" formation Carson-Newmanites a veteran backfield which could give the Scotties a lot of trouble, if things got their way. Not to be forgotten in the rest of those stalwarts is a lad named Jack Holt. In case the name sounds familiar, he is the son of the fabulous "Frosty" so many years head coach at the Baptist institution. Jack is a back and has been seeing some action.

For The Scotties

The Maryville Highlanders take the field tonight at nearly full strength. The only man missing will be tackle Jimmy McBrayer, who will definitly be out tonight and possibly for the rest of the season. Fullback Harold Glad, out for several weeks with a leg injury, will be back in action again, and should strengthen the already much improved offense and help tighten the defense. The Scotties have spent much of the week working on both pass offense and defense, and on sharpening up the running attack. Last week, against the wizardry of Chick Davies, a great passer and "T" formation quarterback, and the abilities of Little All-American Bob Miller, the Scotties coach found the way to stop the pitchouts that have so long given them trouble, and ended up by making the Little All-American look like just another back. The Scottie team looks strong and this could be the one they are looking for.

The probable starting line-ups

Reds Show Strength

The fact that the Communists have massed together so many planes may enable them to take control of the air over Northwest Korea. UN planes have been chased across Korea by the vast numbers of Soviet-Built Jets that have come to the aid of the Chinese Communists.

Peace Talks Resumed

While the Reds and UN Forces engage in the intensive air battle, peace talks have been resumed in a tiny village called Panmunjom, 31 miles northwest of Seoul. The 10 delegates are meeting together for the first time in 64 days in a new effort to end the 16-months-old Korean War.

Britians Vote

The British people voted Thursday to elect new members to the House of Commons. Main contenders in the election were Attlee's Labor Party and Churchill's Conservatives.

Ridge Walkout

New walkouts at the Oak Ridge plants brought the total of workers striking up to 620. The painters' union was the latest addition to the strikers. The AEC is working for a settlement but as yet none has been reached.

Doctor Caught

A Nashville doctor has been arrested for writing illegal prescriptions for narcotics. Dr. W. P. Parker was fired Thursday on this charge and Wiley C. Wilson, Jr. is under investigation.

German Teachers To Visit Maryville

A group of teachers from Germany will be at Maryville Monday and Tuesday to observe methods of teacher training and the students in an American teacher-training college.

The group is made up of 10 women and seven men, all elementary teachers in German schools and all between the ages of 20 and 30. They are here from Peabody in a tour of teacher-training colleges. The German teachers come from Berlin, Hamburg, Heidelberg, Uppertal, and Frankfort-on-the-Main.

Besides seeing classes, they are also interested in the life of the students here—their attitudes, activities, dormitory life, and relationships with teachers in a democratic system.

'Messiah' Chorus

Tomorrow will be the last opportunity to join "The Messiah" chorus for this year's production, it has been announced by Harry Harter, director.

Anyone who is interested in singing in "The Messiah" is to come to the Alumni Gym at 2:30 this Sunday, he said.

FTA Exchanges Program

Future Teachers of America will present an exchange program with Knoxville College Thursday, November 1, at 6:45 p.m.

Plans for education week, which will also be November 11-17, will be discussed.

Mrs. Eaddy Announces New Record Schedule

Mrs. Alice A. Eaddy, instructor in music, has announced that a wide selection of classical records is available for student enjoyment in the Fine Arts Center.

The following time schedule for the use of the records has been set up: Mon., Wed., and Fri., 3:30-5:30; Tues. and Thurs., 2:30-430; Sat., 130-2:30; and every evening from 6:30-7:30.

The collection of long-playing and regular records in the FAC record cabinet includes a great variety of symphonic, operatic, and piano recordings. There are also, booths available to provide for good listening.

This large record collection is also being used by the Disc Club. It is their aim to explain some of the records so that the students may derive the greatest enjoyment from them.

Church Schools Offer Programs

Broadway Methodist Church school, under the leadership of Charlie Schroeder, is making tentative plans for a social program. For study, they have recently begun a series of topics on "The Christian Faith and Way." •

At First Methodist, where George W. Day and C. C. Chamberlain lead, two events are planned. Tomorrow, October 28, a visitor from Philadelphia, George R. Day, will speak, and next Sunday a movie will be presented.

Tomorrow, at First Baptist, where Mrs. G. H. Traylor and George Carpenter are in charge. Morris Taylor will lead devotions and special music will be presented by Bill Robinson. Their topic of study this year is "The History of Israel."

New Providence Presbyterian's College Class under Archibald Pieper and Dave Reed is studying "Broadening Your Horizon," and are now on "The Disciples of Christ and Their Attitudes to Other Faiths." The Crusader's Class, under Dr. Edwin R. Hunter and Bob Buchanan, has taken up the study of "Some Considerations for a Christian."

IRC Schedules Forum

A student forum will be held by IRC November 5 at 6:30 p.m. in Thaw 214. The topic to be discussed is "Resolved: that Iran and Egypt are justified in demanding nationalism for their people."

Russ Owens will moderate at the program.

Sports Echoes

its team spirit and thus have great hopes for the Scots and a session of bell ringing afterwards.

● THIS COLUMN IS BACK IN ITS OLD RUT we finally discovered last week for the usual errors kept creeping up. 'Twas Tom Jones, an ex-Intramural football player now playing for the Scots—if that denotes anything about the outstanding calibre of the Intramural play or otherwise of the "professionals" around campus—who discovered our first "error" of the year—though perhaps there have been others that have not been caught yet. It seems that the YMCA did not win last year's Intramural's Touch Football championship but rather that an aggregation named the Bluejays on which he participated defeated the former luminaries in a playoff game. So it was with the YM winning the bananas in the Garnet league while his team won the colors in the Garnet League—there being twelve teams playing touch football. We bow down once again—and keep looking for the rrors—it shows at least one person reads this glop, anyhow.

● IT TAKES BRAINS TO PLAY FOOTBALL AND HAVE PEP. . . With MC players now realizing that their mistakes have been costing them touchdowns, we also have noticed that the persons who have been solving the mysterious word puzzles going on around campus are persons who are usually in the forefront in pushing pep and spirit on the campus. The little idea for them came from Naomi Burgos and Izzie Leitch who thought it might be something new to have. There was S.N.O.P. mentioned here last week and on signs around campus while "Psst, Bewote," and Corproj, a throwback to Cobrilly, have been the work of other persons we know.

The first persons to figure the former out were Ken Sheaffer and his Pearson's Hall Breakfast Club along with Jack Maxwell and Morris Taylor of the Cross Country Puzzle-Solving Society. The Sheaffer-group also solved the Bewote problem in quick time, too—perhaps because they know the Scotties Need our Spirit and that we must Beat our worst opponents, the Eagles!

Wasps Sting Scots

fired on to Chinginpal but which was intercepted by Campbell. But two seconds later Emory & Henry scored when Bill Polly hit his tackle for the necessary five yards. By some mysterious process Chinginpal had gotten the ball away from Campbell and moved on down to the five. Van Dyke missed the conversion.

Action remained somewhat dull till the last quarter when Polly went 47 yards to the 20. The Wasps lost on two plays on a broken-up pass and a penalty for illegal use of the hands but found themselves down on the one when Maryville was penalized likewise on Bentley run on third down which went for no gain. Polly went over a plunge and Van Dyke split the uprights to make it 38-6.

Didn't Think We'd Score?

Two series of downs later after both teams failed to go anywhere, Allen hit Paul Merwin on the Emory & Henry with a pass good for 41 yards and then cracked his way to the ten. Campbell then reversed around end and the score stood as it did when the game ended five minutes later 38-12.

Wait'll C-N Comes—

Maryville caliber of play was much better than that of the weeks before but in spots the Scots miscues hurt dearly for the Wasps took advantage of them to score. The Scot aerial defense was improved save on three-or-four occassions when a Wasp receiver maneuvered into the open and so was the line play safe when Bruce, Miller, and Polly shook lose for long gains. On the offense, the Scots were improved also, especially in Allen's passing to Merwin, Davis, and Squires, and in Campbell's running of the reverse.

Interclub Council Meets

Inter-Club Council met Tuesday, October 23, in the Conference Room of Anderson.

At this meeting the Council decided to buy a half page in the Chilhowean. As they have no funds of their own, they will assess each club 50c to provide for the purchase of the space.

Some problems of club initiations were also presented and discussed. It is the intent of I. C. C. to guard against any future violations of the initiation rules, it was decided.

I.C.C. members also urged that the clubs will limit their plans for the Homecoming Parade, as it is a project of such short duration.

The next Inter-Club Council meeting will be held in November.

Book Recognizes Leading Students

Top Honors Awarded

By Carson Seeley

Elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities are Charlie Allen, Robert Cuthill James Kren, Susie Martin, Carolyn Miller, Dave Reed, Doris Somerville, and Ralph Thiesse, it was released this week.

Biographies of these students will appear in the volume published next spring by H. Pettum Randall. The students will be allowed to wear the official Who's Who key.

Selection is done on the basis of a varied participation in campus activities, character and scholastic standing. Faculty members and Student Council each select a list of seniors and vote on them.

Integration of the two lists to select the best candidates is done by the president of the college, dean of students and student body president. Each college is permitted a certain percentage of the senior class to be selected.

CHARLIE ALLEN

Charlie Allen, physical education major from Louisville, Ky., is the football team captain for this year. He is also a member of the baseball team. As president of the Athletic Association and the Athletic Board of Control, Allen is a leading figure in athletics on campus. During his freshman and sophomore years, he was a member of Student Council.

ROBERT CUTHILL

Robert Cuthill, history major from Buffalo, N.Y., is president of Student Council and a member of the Student-Faculty Senate. He has been actively engaged in campus politics, having been president of his class in his junior year. Through this, he also served on Student Council. For the past two years, Cuthill has belonged to Pi Kappa Delta, and the debate team for the past three years. Other organizations to which he belongs are Parish, Pre-ministerial Association and Athenian.

JAMES KREN

Jim Kren, physical education major from Pitcairn, Pa., is engaged in YM work as the president this year, and treasurer last year. In his junior year he was Student Council vice-president, and served as a member the preceding year. Kren was class president and Glee Club vice-president in his sophomore year. He was a member of the Glee Club in his freshman year also. His activities include the baseball team, the 'M' Club and Alpha Sigma. In his junior year, he was a member of Writers' Workshop.

SUSIE MARTIN

Susie Martin, elementary education major from Monmouth, Ill., is also engaged in Y work. She is YW president this year, and was treasurer last year. She was a member of Nu Gamma in her sophomore year. Two terms, freshman and sophomore, were served on Student Council. As a freshman, Martin was WSGA treasurer and a member of the All Girl Choir. She now belongs to Vesper Choir, French Club and Bainonian.

CAROLYN MILLER

Lynn Miller, sociology major from Monmouth, Ill., is vice-president of Pi Kappa Delta, an organization to which she has belonged for two years. She has been a member of the debate team for three years. Miller edited the '51 Chilhowean and served on The Echo staff for two years. She is currently Student Council secretary. She starred in "Much Ado About Nothing," last year's commencement play. Other organizations to which she belongs are Writers' Workshop, YW and Bainonian.

DAVE REED

Dave Reed, philosophy major from Hamden, N.Y., is president of Theta Alpha Phi. In this organization and College Players he has been a member for two years. He is secretary of YM this year. He also belongs to Student Council. Writers' Workshop, Vesper Choir and Parish.

DORIS SOMERVILLE

Doris Somerville, English major from Erie, Pa., is president of Student Vols. In YW work she was a member of Nu Gammas as a freshman. She is also a member of Parish. Other activities are serving on Student Council, writing for Writers' Workshop, and performing in the orchestra. Miss Somerville is a Bainonian.

Student Council Proposes New Town Night Revisions

Sends Changes For Approval

Three proposals affecting social dating were passed by Student Council Thursday evening and sent to the Coordinaitng Council of WSGA for approval.

Advanced by Council was the plan that Sunday afternoon dating be allowed all women under the same provisions involved in senior privileges now. Also passed was the proposal that junior women be allowed one additional optional Town Night a week. This would also come under the same regulations which now control senior privileges.

The third plan, which came from WSGA, allows all women to date in Knoxville afternoons, provided they are back on campus by 6:00 p.m.

These proposals were sent to WSGA, for if they become effective, they will be in charge of that group. They will be returned to Council next week, where they may be revised, but will probably be sent on to Student Faculty Senate. To go into effect they must be passed by that body and the Executive Council of the Faculty. These groups may pass, revise, or reject completely the Student Council proposals.

These changes were recommended by a Council committee appointed at the beginning of the year to investigate Town Night and propose changes in regulations and procedures.

A proposal to extend the sign-in time for senior girls on Knoxville dates from 10:00 p.m. to 10:25 p.m. was defeated. Also rejected was a suggestion to allow junior girls to date in Knoxville one optional Town Night a month; the plan was dropped by Council in the light of the WSGA suggestion to allow afternoon dating, which was passed.

No Town Night violations were reported to Council. Ralph Force was appointed by the president to the Publications Committee.

Judy Schwartz and Harry McCall were appointed to the Elections Committee.

Dr. Lloyd To Preach At Vespers Tomorrow

Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd, President of Maryville College, will speak at the Vesper Service on Sunday, November 4, at 7:00 p.m. in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center.

The theme of Dr. Lloyd's sermon will be "How to Tell Right From Wrong."

Mins To Hear Rabbi

Rabbi Solomon Foster from Temple Beth-El, Knoxville, will speak on Judaism at the November 8 Pre-Ministerial meeting at 6:45 p.m. in the Y rooms.

This meeting is the second in a series of world religion discussions to be presented this semester.

Dance Date Set

The annual fall dance, which will be held on Dec. 1, is to be sponsored by the Social Board and put on by Athenian and Bainonian societies.

Barbara Blum and June Hood are co-chairman for Bainonian, and George Day and Ray Rose are co-chairman for Athenian.

The theme of the dance will be announced at a later date.

YWCA To Meet

YWCA will meet at 1:30 in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center Sunday afternoon. The theme of the program will be "God and Nature," a program of songs and poetry.

All women students and faculty members are invited to attend.

No Echo Next Week

The Highland Echo will not be published next week. As has been explained before, financial difficulties have made publication every week impossible.

In view of this, the editorial and business staffs have attempted to set up a publication schedule which would make for papers on the most favorable dates. After next week, there will be a Highland Echo every Saturday until the close of the semester.

The Echo staff will not meet Monday, November 5.

Danforth Offers Fellowship Awards

The Danforth Foundation with headquarters at St. Louis is announcing its Fellowship Awards for 1952-1953. These fellowships are open to college graduates who plan to make a career of teaching as a definite Christian vocation.

The fellowships are for the first year of graduate study for such students and, though the appointments are for one year, applications for renewal may be made.

Ther is no restriction as to field of major interest. The applicant is left free to choose the graduate school to which he wishes to go. It is expected that successful applicants will attend the Danforth Fellowship Conference in Teaching.

President R. W. Lloyd has designated Dean E. R. Hunter as the Maryville College liason officer for this matter. Seniors who are interested in the offer are asked to confer wtih Dean Hunter at once. He has application blanks and fuller information in his office. Other recent graduates who have not attended graduate school may apply.

Classes Nominate For Barnwarming Royalty, Court

Lynn Miller, sociology major from Illinois and Ella Swift, education major from Maryland were nominated for Barnwarming Queen at a meeting held by the student body on Thursday, November 1. Nominated for King were Walt English, biology major from Pennsylvania and Bob Lynn, business administration major from Illinois.

The senior class nominations for sponsor were Joyce Lenderman from Alabama who is majoring in education and Edith Lancaster from North Carolina majoring in education.

Sid Wiley, English major from Clinton, and Barbara Miller, education major from Pennsylvania were the nominees put up by the junior class.

Sophomore class nominations for sponsor were Carol Cornell, language major from Groveland, Florida, and Ruth Roach, biology major from Columbus, Ohio.

Ann Dishner from Duffield, Va. and Pat Ingles, pre-med major from Philadelphia, Pa. were chosen as nominess by the freshmen class.

The results of the election for sponsors will not be known until Thanksgiving night, Nov. 22 when they will be presented at the annual Barnwarming festival.

Chilhowean

The closing date for the sale of the 1952 Chilhowean has been set as November 15, according to Tasker Robinette, business manager.

Beginning Monday, students will be given the opportunity to make payments on The Chilhowean to canvassers who will visit the dorms throughout the week.

MC Entertains Visiting German School Teachers

By Joan Frei

Last Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Maryville was host to a group of German elementary school teachers who are in this country for nine months studying American schools and teaching methods and comparing them with the German.

While here, the group, which consisted of 10 women and 7 men, lived in the dormitory rooms of students and ate in the dining hall. They spoke and answered questions at a meeting of German Club and, in addition, answered innumerable questions that students asked informally.

The group, which is part of a large number of Germans brought here to study and scattered all over the country, is based at Peabody. From there they go out to visit different schools and homes. Next semester they will go on to some other school.

On Tuesday they went on a trip to Gatlinburg and the Cherokee Indian reservation. The members of the group, who come from all over Germany, will carry back with them a varied picture of American life. At Gatlinburg they were very much impressed by the bears they saw. The forests in Germany are cleared, and thus they do not have much wild life. They also enjoyed seeing the leaves turning color.

The teachers were surprised at the clear idea of the United States that they had received from the Voice of America broadcasts, which are heard through Germany. Everything it had told them they found to be true.

All but two of the group are college graduates. They report that student life is very different here from what it is in Germany. They were surprised at Maryville's strict rules, since their students do not live in dormitories at all, but rent rooms. On the average, German college people are older than they are here.

Of course their education was delayed by the war, but still young people do not start college until they are 19 or so. The German girls say that although American college girls are younger, they seem older and more sophisticated.

As teachers they earn about a fourth as much as American teachers do, and prices in Germany are very high. In spite of this, many men go into teaching, even on the elementary level. Instead of being hired by a school board, German teachers work for the state, and may find themselves moved about from one place to another.

Most of the men served in the German army during World War II, and all of the group went through bombings and many hardships. Now they say that about 200 refugees come into Berlin from the Russian sector every day, although this movement is forbidden by both the Americans and the Russians. These Germans are very much opposed to Russian domination. They say that they would rather be split up as they are now than be a united country under the Russians.

Hawkins Dance Set For Tonight

Tonight at 8:00 P.M. in Alumni Gym the annual Sadie Hawkins Day dance will be held. All during this week girls have been asking men for dates and presenting them with "He's Took" signs. Also, the girls are to make corsages to present their dates when they call for them.

The couple with the most original Li'l Abner and Daisy Mae costumes will win a prize, and a prize will be awarded for the most original corsage.

Sadie Hawkins Day is sponsored by the All-Girl Choir. Social Chairman is Ruth Ann Roach, Skit Chairman is Joanne Edwards, and Frankie McEacheran is in charge of publicity.

Students Give Recital Tuesday

The Division of Fine Arts will present a student recital in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center on Tuesday, November 6, at 4:30 p.m.

Included in the program will be Nina Ruth Gillette singing "Connais tu le pays" (Mignon), by Thomas, accompanied by William Diehl. Lesta Merrick will play Bach's "Prelude in E Flat Minor."

"Black Roses" by Sibelius will be sung by Betty Hammers accompanied by Lora Kinsinger. Joyce Linginfelter will present Griffes' "The Night Winds, Op. 5, No. 3."

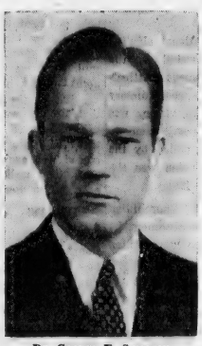
Jean Morgan will accompany Ken Shaffer as he sings "La Donna e Mobile" from "Rigoletto" by Verdi.

Marker Placed At Walker Grave

Friends of the late Mrs. John Walker will be interested in the marker and the fence which have been placed at her grave in Maryville College Cemetery.

Mrs. Walker specified the kind of stone and fence which she desired before the time of her death. He wishes have been carried out as closely as possible.

The stone is a ledger one with wording which she herself wrote. It is of granite and covers the entire grave. The fence is of iron, 27 inches high, and painted with aluminum paint.



Mrs. Walker was buried beside her sister, Mrs. William Patton Stevenson, who died some years ago. Visitors are welcome at the little College Cemetery at any time.

Sgt. Neff Graduates From Army School

Frankfurt, Germany— Sergeant Robert C. Neff, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Neff, 3307 Hatch Blvd., Sheffield, Ala., was graduated recently from a European Command Non-Commissioned Officer's School at Aschaffenburg, Germany.

Sergeant Neff is presntly assigned to Company "G" of the 12th Regiment while serving in Germany with the Fourth Infantry Division.

He is a graduate of Maryville College, and was employed as a cashier with the Gulf Mobile and Ohio Railroad in Memphis prior to his induction into the Army last October.

Dr. George E. Sweazey

Opera Workshop To Offer 'Frog'

Opera Workshop will present "The Jumping Frog of Calaveras County" as their annual second semester production. The opera, consisting of only two acts, is based on a story by Mark Twain. Music was written by Lukas Foss.

The production will be under the direction of Harry H. Harter, assistant professor of music, and Kathleen Craven, instructor in drama and speech. Sets will be designed by senior art majors and constructed by the art department under the supervision of Charlotte Johnson, assistant professor in art.

The cast of the opera will consist of students of applied voice. Solo parts will be announced later this semester.

"The Jumping Frog" is a contemporary opera, which had its premiere at Indiana University in the spring of 1950. The Maryville College production will be one of the first performances of the opera.

Workshop Hears Scott, Kapp, Blair

Writer's Workshop will meet Monday afternoon at 4:30 in Dr. E. R. Hunter's classroom. Ed Scott, Karole Kapp, and Carolyn Blair will read. Dick Newman, Barbara Blum, and Joan Titley will criticise.

On November 12, Carolyn Symmes and Barbara Blum will read, Sue Watson and Karole Kapp will criticise.

Thetas See Dolls

Theta Epsilon will meet at 6:15 this evening in Theta Hall. Program Chairman Connie Howell and "E" McMillan have planned a doll show which will include Theta talent Nancy Ferguson, Peggy Ketls, Millie Cooper, Mary Kelton, and others.

Theta pin samples will be shown, and all Thetas are urged to remembr the membership drive, President Gracie Scruggs said.

Sigs Meet Tonight

Alpha Sigma will have a meeting tonight at 6:15 in Y rooms.

The program will consist of readings and musical selections by Ed Scott, Tasker Robinette, and Bob Lynn.

Frosh Lead YMCA

An all-Freshman program will highlight YMCA tomorrow at 1:30 in Bartlett Hall. Bob Hines is in charge.

All men are urged to come out. Those who did not get their membership cards last Sunday can get them tomorrow.

Prominent Church Official Invited

Stringham Not To Come

By Van Holland

The Rev. Dr. George E. Sweazey of New York City will be the leader of the 1952 February Meetings, February 6 through 16, it has been announced by President Ralph W. Lloyd.

Now Director of the New Life Movement and Secretary of the Division of Evangelism for the Presbyterian Church, USA, Dr. Sweazey is especially prominent in evangelistic work.

He has cooperated with interdenominational evangelistic programs, conducted evangelistic training schools for ministers and laymen, and planned spiritual emphasis programs in colleges and universities. His writing and editorial work is extensive, and a book of his sermons, "The Keeper of the Door," has been published.

Dr. Sweazey graduated from Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., where he was an outstanding football and track star. He received his M.A. from Princeton University, his B.D. from Princeton Theological Seminary, and his Ph. D. from the University of Berlin, Germany.

Honorary doctorates were also presented to him by Westminster College and Grove City College.

After returning from post graduate work in Germany, Dr. Sweazey served as Assistant Pastor at First Presbyterian Church, Newark, N. J., then as Pastor of Second Presbyterian Church, near the campus of Centre College, Danville, Ky., and then as Pastor of Tylor Place Presbyterian Church, St. Louis, Mo.
